The three black activists said at a Statehouse news conference Tuesday that they have commenced a fast until their Dec. 21 trial in Washington on unlawful protest charges. The trio was arrested Thanksgiving Day for demonstrating within 500 feet of the South African Embassy.

They called on church leaders, especially in this coming Christmas season, to join them in prayer "to avert a bloodbath in South Africa." Gregory said a bloodbath would have disastrous worldwide impact.

The three complained that blacks in South Africa have been denied God-given rights; that they are not permitted to live freely; that many are detained without a chance to defend themselves and in camps that are "often unfit for human habitation."

Gregory said they are not seeking acquittals and he hopes that the government does not drop the charges.

In a 450-word telegram to Balthazar Johannes Vorster, South African prime minister, the Gregorys and Owens, D-Boston, said:

"In keeping with our beliefs that peace can become a reality in South Africa, we have begun a total fast in which we will abstain from all food to show our sincere concern on this matter.

"We firmly believe that through prolonged fasting and prayer millions of good-hearted human beings will join with us in the fight to bring peace to your country."

Gregory pointed to what he said were improvements in race relations in the South and elsewhere in this country in the past decade, credited to the "humanism" of American citizens. In their communique to Vorster, the three said: "Only through the will of God and the energy of the people of the nations of this world will this same kind of peace and harmony dwell in South Africa."

A veteran of other fasts, Gregory has some light-hearted advice for Owens, the state's first and only black senator, who is breaking new ground. Along about the 21st day, Gregory said, Owens should get every available newspaper, as soon as he wakes up in the morning.

"Turn to the obituary columns first," Gregory said, "and see how many fasters have died overnight." He said he would bet anything that everyone listed had eaten something the previous day.

Tournaments at - "X"

By JULIANNE ROBINSON
Black Affairs Staff

The Malcolm X Center pool and ping-pong tournaments continue after the Thanksgiving break with a flurry of action.

The following is the schedule of matches which will resume Thursday at 7:30 in the Malcolm X Center.

In the novice division: Pool. The contestants are: William Grady vs. Jose A. Garcia for the division championship.

In the women's novice pool division there are no contestants.

In the novice ping pong: The women's division will see two semi-final matches before the finals match can be arranged. Valinda Connady vs. Crystal Banks for one semi-final match and Marlene Jreaswec vs. Julie Hall for the other match. The winners of these matches will then compete for the novice division championship.

In the men's novice ping pong Sam Rivers meets William Grady for the division championship.

In the advanced ranks: The women's pool sees J. Angelique Dickinson going against Mary Custard. A good match.

In the men's division of pool: Frank Gillard, George Rasariv and Sam Rivers are the three remaining contestants. Hat action is expected in these matches. Get in on the excitement.

In the advanced ping-pong Maundame Kerina, meets Richard Collie for the championship. Come watch the fireworks and different styles as two Titans clash. There are no women contestants in the advanced ping-pong division.

If you would like more information concerning the tournaments call either Ralph Moore 6-9772 or Carl McCargo 546-5276.

---

Black Affairs

High Notes...

Christmas is almost here (Kwanza to alot of us) and many folks are out looking for that special gift for a special someone. For those who feel that music is the everlasting gift, maybe I can give you a little help when you venture out into the myriad of holiday releases. Starting today and in my next couple of visits with you I'll try to pick out that which is worthy for the giving.

First off: Trammps III — The Trammps — Atlantic and Hear To Tempt You — The Temptations — Atlantic.

A couple of very interesting bridges have been crossed lately at Atlantic. One of them in the Trammps' new side in the cut "Love Per Hour". The crossers here are Fred Wesley and The Horny Horns. The funkily aware know this group all the way from James Brown to Parliament-Funkadelic to Bootsy's Rubber Band. Now with the Trammps' you ask? Yes, I answer, and neither gives in to the other as they each throw out their talents very well and compliment each other excellently on the Wesley-arranged cut. You can't talk about the Trammps without a word about Jimmy Ellis. His leads are as always — Excellent and are evident on "When The Lights Went Out" and "People Of The World".

The other bridge is crossed by the Temptations as they come over to Baker, Harris and Young for the production of their finest LP of late. Strong overall, this LP brings to mind the Temptations in their "Golden Years". Kendricks, Ruffin, Harris (Damon) et al may be gone, but the sound seems to have come back for an LP that should certainly add some gold to their lucrative works of the past. To name a big cut on this one is hard, but the best uptempo may well be "Think For Yourself" and the slow groover goes to "Can We Come And Share Love", a definitely immaculate slow piece.

The Tempts are back!

A must for any gift list is:

The PHILADELPHIA CLASSICS — Various Artists — Philly Intl.

This is a different approach to greatest hits collections. Here we have remixed and lengthened versions of past Philadelphia rockers that we all fell in love with. There's longer versions of "Love Train" by the O'Jays, "Dirty Old Man" by the Three Degrees and the Blue Notes bomb (featuring Teddy Pendergrass) "Bad Luck". In my estimation, the absolute killers are the 9:41 version of the Intruders' hit, "I'll Always Love My Mama" and the Tom Moulton remix of another Blue Notes classic (also of the Pendergrass years) "Don't Leave Me This Way". The former is truly excellent with it difficult to find the words to describe the latter. This remix is 11 minutes plus of one of the most sensous songs of all time done with the voice of one of the most sensuous singers of all time. After listening to this side, it wasn't hard for me to put Mr. Pendergrass in which people like Lou Rawls, Arthur Prysock and yes, the immortal Nat King Cole. Check this one out — I think you'll agree.

—mario

The Ballet Nacional Festivales De Espana (The National Ballet of Spain) will return, by popular demand, to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Saturday, December 10, at 8 p.m.

During their performance in November 1976 at the Fine Arts Center the National Ballet of Spain received rave reviews from critics and estatic applause from the audience.

LUTHER By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

OREO, I THOUGHT THE CITY SENT OUT A CREW TO MAKE THE REPAIRS YOUR LANDLORD WOULDN'T MAKE!
THE WORK CREW CAME!
WELL... WHAT DID THEY DO?
NOTHING, LUTHER!
THEY COULDN'T DECIDE WHERE TO START!

Harlem hosts,
5th Annual Recognition Awards

By BILL HASSON
Special to Black Affairs

On November 21, 1977, in Harlem, New York, USA, at the Renaissance Theatre Ballroom, the AUDELCO Audience Development Committee's 5th Annual Recognition Awards were given. The theme was "Overture — Family Reunion". AUDELCO was founded in 1973 to fulfill the needs and increase awareness in the art and cultural activities in the Black Community. The affair was one not to be forgotten easily.

The evening opened with a mime presentation by Billy Banner. The co-host were Ruby Dee and Ossie Davis. The Harlem Children's Theatre staged a magnificant and original moving presentation called "Ju Ju Man". There was a performance by Vinnie Burrows and a vinette from "Young, Gifted and Broke" by Weldon Irvine. Presentation of Outstanding Pioneer awards went to Willis Richardson and Pearl Primus. The 5th Annual Recognition Awards were: LIGHTING DESIGNER, Shirley Pendergast, for "Unfinished Women ... " N.Y. Shakespeare Festival Mobile Production; SCENIC DESIGNER, Tim Phillips, for "Winti Train", COSTUME DESIGNER, Edna Watson, for "MacBeth"; DIRECTOR, Bill Duke, for "Unfinished Women ... "; CHOREOGRAPHER, Talley Beatty, for "Alice"; PLAYWRIGHT, Richard Wesley, for "The Last Street Play"; SUPPORTING ACTRESS, Rosanna Carter, for "The Unfinished Women ... "; SUPPORTING ACTOR, Leonard Jackson, for "MacBeth"; OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE IN A MUSICAL (FEMALE), Brenda Brown, for "Young, Gifted and Broke"; OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE IN A MUSICAL (MALE), Mikell Pinkney, for "Young, Gifted and Broke"; OUTSTANDING MUSICAL CREATOR, Weldon Irvine, for "Young, Gifted and Broke"; MUSICAL PRODUCTION OF THE YEAR, "Young, Gifted and Broke", Author: Weldon Irvine, Producer, Marjorie Moon; LEAD ACTRESS IN A DRAMATIC ROLE, Gloria Foster, for "Agamemnon"; LEAD ACTOR IN A DRAMATIC ROLE, Richard Gant, for "Soledad Tetrad"; CO-WINNERS for DRAMATIC PRODUCTION OF THE YEAR, "Three of the Best" Authors: Ed Bullins, Clay Goss, Richard Wesley, Producer: Solid Productions; and "Unfinished Women ... ", Author: Aishah Rahman, Producer: Joseph Papp.

A special notice should be given to the very hard working Board of Directors who are Natalie Fuller, Vivian Robinson, Winnie Richardson, Sylvia Spooner, Renee Chenoweth, and Doris Smith, and who, by the way, I owe a special thanks. Can you imagine being stranded in New York City on a Monday night and having your car towed and it cost $60 to get it out, and the only people that are willing to honor a check are the beautiful sisters for AUDELCO. It is organizations like this that make for a more viable Black Theatre.

Announcements

Course Offering

PSYCHOLOGY 391E (Spring 1978) THE PORTRAYAL OF THE COLONIZED IN FILM (3 credits)

Tuesday 4:00-6:30; Herter 227; (Film screenings)

Thursday 4:00-5:15; Herter 227; (Discussions)

Instructor: Mr. Martin — Organization: Lecture-film screening-discussion

Aim: A comparative examination of historical and contemporary portrayals of colonized people in American and foreign full-length commercial and documentary film. Emphasis on the legitimation and maintenance functions of film; the psychodynamic formation and elaboration of colonial stereotypes; and the emergence of the post-colonial "third world" film traditions in Latin America (Cuba), Africa (Senegal), and Asia (Vietnam).

Topics include: The Sociology of film; filmic approaches to history; film as an instrument of legitimation and mystification of dominative social orders; film and social reality; images of the colonized and colonizer during the colonial-de-colonization stages; and film as an emancipatory vehicle for social transformations.

Films: The Birth of a Nation (Griffith), Burn (Pontecorvo), Attica (Firestone), Nothing But a Man (Roemer), Acquirre, the Wrath of God (Herzog), Lucia (Solas), Black Girl (Sembenel), Hearts in Dixie, Superfly, The Gladiators (Watkins), Punishment Park, plus many more.

Books: Donald Bogle, Toms, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies, and Bucks; E. Bradford Burns, Latin American Cinema; supplemented by readings on colonial psychology.

Prerequisites: none

Requirements: Two 4-page papers and a final exam.

Lab Fee: 10.00 for film rentals.

A Pre-Kwanzaa Celebration?

With the holiday season fast approaching, it is important for us as Black people to come together in unity and spirit and celebrate in our own tradition. Annually, most of us have cherished and celebrated Christmas; a holiday which has lost most of its spirit and which has become tarnished by commercialism. Christmas has become a "me" holiday instead of a "we" holiday.

Kwanzaa, is derived from the African tradition of the annual feast and celebration after harvest where the members of the community come together in body and spirit to celebrate and give thanks to the creator and each other. It is a day of unity. During the Kwanzaa celebration, a ritual takes place where the seven candles are lit and the seven principles are read and discussed.

It is the feeling of some concerned students in the valley that we must preserve our culture and tradition and that we should have an annual Kwanzaa celebration this year and every year, as long as Black people remain in the valley. Therefore, an attempt is being made to put together a pre-Kwanzaa celebration before final exams begin. But, much help is needed if this affair is to happen.

A brief meeting has been scheduled for this Thursday, December 1 at 5:00 p.m. in the Lumumba Room of New Africa House to discuss what needs to be done to make this affair happen. All that is needed is at least ten brothers and sisters to help out with the planning and implementation.

If you are interested but cannot make the Thursday meeting, please contact Mark Hickson at 545-3880 after 6:00.

Party at New Africa House

Brothers and Sisters! If you want to party, come on down to Yvonne's Place. Dance to Soul, West Indian and Disco Music. Food and Drinks will be served. Donation is $1.00. Place New Africa House. Date — Saturday, December 3rd at 9:00 until.

Annie's Poetry Corner

Prefix

We arrive at your place
After the party
High flowing energy
We look at each other wondering of our mysteries
I take off my shoes
With one foot push them to the side
You by this time
have taken off your shirt
Our hearts beat fast
We try to be cool
I take off my dress
absent of a bra
You await my next move
I step close to you
We unbuckle your pants
You smile acceptingly
With unneeded words
our eyes talk
I rub your chest lick your face, your neck, your shoulders
We become aware that we both are free of clothes
We still use no words
Only
Liquify in heat

Annie Carpenter
10-7-75

Carter FBI nominee withdraws

WASHINGTON [AP] – U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson bowed out as the president's nominee for FBI director yesterday and Attorney General Griffin Bell said the search for a replacement will last into the new year.

Still in poor health after surgery last August, Johnson said, "It will be several more months before I will regain my strength and stamina. It will not be fair to the Federal Bureau of Investigation or to me to keep this matter pending any longer."

In a statement issued at his office in Montgomery, Ala., Johnson said he regrets that "conditions over which I have no control" have forced him to step aside.

At the White House, Press Secretary Jody Powell called the withdrawal 'a loss to the administration, to the FBI and to the country – and we regret it very much."

Bell announced Johnson's decision at a news conference and called it "unfortunate for the president, the FBI and the nation. Judge Johnson would have made an ideal leader for the FBI."

The attorney general said he and President Carter won't rush into a decision about a new nominee to succeed Clarence M. Kelley and become the third director in the FBI's 53-year history.

"My plan is to do nothing for two weeks to let the dust settle and rethink the selection process," Bell said. "Hopefully during that time, names will occur to me. I think it would be a wise course not to rush."

Bell indicated he would like Kelley to remain in office for at least a short time beyond his scheduled retirement date Jan. 1. Kelley has said he could stay until the end of January but he has made other professional commitments after that time.

Johnson's decision leaves the administration with the task of filling two top Justice Department jobs. Deputy Attorney General Peter Flaherty has announced he will leave soon to make plans for a possible gubernatorial campaign in his native Pennsylvania.

Bell said he has someone in mind for that job but he's not ready to announce a decision.

The attorney general said he was willing to wait for Johnson to take over the FBI after a full recuperation although that might have meant a delay until late spring or early summer.

"I would wait," he said. "But Judge Johnson has made his own decision that it would not be fair to the FBI or to himself."

Bell said he hopes a new candidate can be chosen and nominated by Jan. 17 when Congress returns from a recess, but he cannot promise to meet that target.

He dropped few clues about who might be in the running for the nomination, except to say "We still have the list" of four men recommended by a presidentially appointed search committee last June.

Women's Health Series

Periodic discomfort a common problem

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

This is the tenth in a weekly series on women's health care.

Discomfort related to menstrual periods is one of the most common health problems women experience. The medical term for this discomfort is dysmenorrhea.

Dr. Katherina Dalton (The Menstrual Cycle, Pantheon, '69), one of the few researchers in this field, divides dysmenorrhea into two major types: spasmodic and congestive.

Spasmodic dysmenorrhea is most common in women between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five. This is not because it occurs only in younger women, but because pregnancy and childbirth appear to clear it up.

Symptoms of spasmodic dysmenorrhea include cramps, acute pain in the lower abdomen, and possibly nausea or occasional shakiness at the beginning of the period.

Spasmodic dysmenorrhea seems to occur only during an ovulatory menstrual cycle. For this reason, some doctors have prescribed oral contraceptives (which prevent ovulation) to control it.

The risks associated with birth control pills are the same whatever the reason for taking them. Women who are currently taking oral contraceptives to relieve their menstrual discomfort may wish to consider alternatives in light of the new information coming out about "The Pill". (For up-to-date information about birth control pills, call the Community Health Education office at 549-2671.)

Our Bodies, Ourselves (Boston Women's Health Book Collective, Simon and Schuster, '76) describes congestive dysmenorrhea in the following way:

Congestive dysmenorrhea and the related pre-menstrual syndrome are characterized by such symptoms as heaviness or dull aching in the abdomen, nausea, water retention, constipation, headaches and backaches, breast pains, irritability, tension, depression and lethargy.

The time just prior to the onset of the menstrual period is the most difficult for women with congestive dysmenorrhea. The heaviest flow seems to relieve the symptoms.

Congestive dysmenorrhea can start at puberty and continue until menopause. It often gets worse with each pregnancy. There is some evidence that the symptoms are a result of deficiency of progesterone, a hormone. Depression, according to The Menstrual Cycle, may be caused by sodium retention and potassium depletion in the cells, resulting from a lowered progesterone level.

Some doctors have been taught, and continue to believe, that dysmenorrhea is not real. There has been almost no research done in the field of menstrual discomfort, despite the commonness of the problem. Most of what has been done has been the work of women, although over 90 per cent of gynecologists are men.

Dalton theorizes both types of dysmenorrhea are caused by a hormone imbalance. She has found that discomfort can be induced by giving particular doses of hormones and relieved by giving others. But there is currently a lot of question about the safety of such hormone therapy. What are some other alternatives?

Individual women need to evaluate their own particular discomfort, if any is present, and find ways of coping with it. A woman who experiences severe discomfort may wish to consult a gynecologist, as menstrual discomfort may be a symptom of another disorder. If a woman has no reason to believe this is the case, there are a number of things she can do to make herself more comfortable.

Preventive measures include getting enough rest, eating well and exercising regularly (female swimmers experience less discomfort than non-athletic women according to Ann Scott, Ms., 9-24). Some women report that reduced intake of coffee, refined foods and salt, and increased intake of milk, vitamin C and ripe bananas (high in potassium) is helpful.

When a woman already has cramps, things that may ease her discomfort include curling up with her knees to her chest, using a heating pad or hot-water bottle, taking a pain-killer, smoking marijuana and having an orgasm. Lower back massage and deep breathing exercises may also be effective.

The issue of the reality versus non-reality of menstrual discomforts is an important one. There may, indeed, be a psychological factor involved. The negative attitude of many Americans towards anything remotely related to menstruation pre-sets young women to view the process as unpleasant.

Whatever the cause, the discomfort is real and has an affect on the day-to-day lives of millions of American women. But contemporary women are in a bind. Not wanting to risk supporting the view that "women are incapable of working in a position where major decisions are made because of their monthly cycle," many women now face severe discomfort stoically and quietly.

Evidence suggests that men too, have hormonal cycles which affect their day-to-day functioning (Ms., Spring, '72).

Women have reported flunking final exams, missing work hours, failing driving tests and functioning poorly at job interviews because of menstrual discomfort.

Perhaps more flexible scheduling would be an answer. Some women workers in Japan are allowed two days work flexibility per month, which they may or may not use as they see fit. American employers who tried such a system might find the absenteeism among female employees dropping significantly.

If Americans dealt with menstruation more realistically, this type of plan might have been tried long ago. Currently, most workplaces gear their scheduling to the needs of male employees. As more women move into the job market, perhaps more effort will be made to meet their needs.

College women can begin to be more assertive in situations where they predict that dysmenorrhea will negatively affect their functioning on a certain day. Asking professors, far in advance of an exam, for some flexibility in scheduling is one place to start.

Making sure doctors take dysmenorrhea seriously is another problem. If a physician does not respond satisfactorily to a woman's complaint of discomfort, perhaps she should try another doctor.

Dysmenorrhea is a real problem for many women, but it is not an impossible one. Until Americans recognize the validity of menstrual distress, however, thousands of women will continue to suffer in silence.

GRE: Weekend Special

Reigistered for the December 10 exam? Done any preparation? You can still join our weekend intensive course, scheduled for December 3 and 4. Or take our practice exam. Private tutoring also available. But don't delay. Call Test Prep Services of Amherst at 256-6462.

TEST PREP

UNIVERSITY PIZZA

FOR DELIVERIES ONLY!!

FOR DELIVERIES ONLY!!

ONE OF THE BEST PIZZAS IN THE AMHERST-NORTHAMPTON AREA!!

CHECK OUT THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

CALL 549-5592

32 OZ. COKE, TAB, SPRITE
FREE WITH LG. PIZZA
EXPIRES 12/1/77
CUSTOMER SIGNATURE

PLEASE SPECIFY BEVERAGE OVER PHONE

Quality Leather at Good Prices

INTRODUCING A SPECIAL NEW COLLECTION OF HANDBAGS AND WALLETS

The distinctive look and feel of top-quality leathers, in superbly designed and finished handbags, clutches, and cosmetics pouches. (Men's wallets, too!) Styles from casual to elegant—all priced to be exceptional values.

The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

---

BEST SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALL DINNER IN TOWN

6:30-9:00

99¢

MIKE'S
WESTVIEW

253-9202

ROOM CHOOSING

November 28-December 1

Mon. Nov. 28- Students remaining in their rooms

Tue. Nov. 29- Students changing rooms within their dorms

Wed. Nov. 30 - Students moving to another dorm

Thu. Dec. 1 - All other students

The Elmwood Inn
RUSSELL RD HADLEY MA

DINNER SPECIALS

| | |
|---|---|
| Tues. - Wed. - Thurs. | |
| Baked Stuffed Filet of Sole | 3.95 |
| Baked Ham w/Raisin Sauce | 3.95 |
| Boiled New England Dinner | 3.50 |
| Old Fashioned Beef Pot Pie | 3.25 |
| Vegetarian Special | 2.85 |
| Friday | |
| Alaskan King Crab Legs | 5.95 |
| Saturday | |
| Delmonico Steak | 5.95 |
| Avocado Stuffed w/Alaskan King Crabmeat | 5.95 |
| Sunday | |
| Boston Schrod | 3.95 |

on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6813

Disco! Duck!!

By PATTI TROPED
Collegian Staff

Although valley residents may have heard rumors to the effect that disco is virtually dead around this area, evidence supports no such assumption.

Disco is very much alive, and although the mass populace has mixed feelings about it, still flourishes at several of the more popular bars in the area.

According to Carolee Waskiewicz, day bartender at The Pub, "We have disco every Tuesday, Friday, and Saturday nights. Fridays and Saturdays are the busiest, attracting students and town kids alike. Wednesdays we get mostly college kids who come to hear Jim Plunkett," she said. "But even then we have disco during breaks, as well as on Thursdays in between "Two Way Street" sets."

On Sundays and Mondays, quieter nights according to Carolee, The Pub features no DJ, but has instead hooked the juke box up to the light and sound equipment, thus giving a "disco atmosphere" to the club.

"Some groups don't go over too well with the Pub crowd, such as a straight rock band or folk group," said Waskiewicz. "We need a group that gets really involved with the crowd. 'Two Way Street' is popular, but it's the disco that really packs 'em in'," she said.

According to the manager of Poor Richard's III in Amherst, "Poor Dick's isn't flashy like Boston clubs, but disco music predominates. Disco is played 80 per cent of the time every night but Thursday, with an occasional slow or rock song thrown in for variation. Thursday nights rock is featured for about two hours, but disco is played the rest of the time," he said.

"This is a college town, we have to appeal to the varying tastes of students. But I've found that even 'non disco' types put in requests for disco tunes. They've gotten more used to dancing to it than to rock."

Some UMass students expressed mixed feelings about the end to Wednesday night disco at the Bluewall.

Dave Connor, a sophomore from Longmeadow said, "The live bands they have now play too loudly for a place that size. There should be dance music instead."

"There should be at least one disco night per week," said a resident of Washington lower. "Dancing gets rid of the tension after studying."

Neil O'Donell, also a resident of Washington, displayed an attitude similar to that of a great many UMass students. "Disco sucks. It has a monotonous beat; you don't dance to it, only stand and move the upper part of your body a little. Now Stones music — that's good for dancing, real dancing," he said.

Country Will Nagle, a less than noted authority on the subject, had but three words to say about Bluewall music in general. "It's all horseshit," he said.

> "Disco is very much alive, although the mass populace has mixed feelings about it."

For those who miss the "serious disco" of New York City and Boston Clubs, Zax in Northampton may just be your "Whimsey's-away-from-home." According to Eric Jellson, a Cance resident and DJ at Zack's, "We are open Friday and Saturday nights, the rest of the week is reserved for private functions. Admission is $1, and ladies are admitted free on Friday," he said.

Zax is actually the top disco in the area. It's all heavy disco, and not too much funk. The crowd is mixed; valley residents as well as people coming in from New York. We feature two dance floors, and what is probably the best sound system in the area," Jellson said.

This Saturday night Zax will feature a post-Thanksgiving party, "complete with record and drink giveaways," he said.

The festivities are set to begin at 9 p.m., so waste no time, grab your dancing shoes and hurry on down ...

"Disco! That's where the happy people go.!"

Special degree program deals with the specifics

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

Bachelor's Degree with Individual Concentration is a four semester program in individualized study for students who "know what they want but find that general majors at the University can't satisfy their needs," according to Essie Schwartz, a counselor supervisor.

BDIC, located at 416 Goodell, leads to either a B.S. or a B.A. with Individual Concentration and is supervised by an interdisciplinary faculty committee rather than one of the departments.

Each BDIC student is sponsored by a faculty member who follows the student's progress in the program and offer counseling in selecting courses.

The BDIC program was developed in 1969 as a result of an undergraduate Student Senate project called SWAP, by students and faculty members involved in workshops designed to "learn about each other," according to Joan Stoia, assistant to the director.

Enrollment rose to 400 in 1974 and a number of new majors were developed. Spin off programs originally designed as BDIC majors are Legal Studies, Social Thought and Political Economy, Environmental Science, Dance, Computer Science and Women's Studies.

A proposal for a separate Human Services major was denied two years ago because of financial difficulties, but there is still a possibility for a separate department in this field, according to Stoia.

Examples of BDIC majors include (Arts) Journalism and Dance Criticism, Modernism in Literature, Electronic Music; (Business and Law) Marketing Communication, International Business, Urban Studies; (Sciences) Land Use and Development, Energy Resources, Solar Technology, World Science, and Aspects and Problems of Small Communities.

"The two purposes of BDIC are to serve as an incubator for new programs and as a major for individualized study," said Stoia.

Students involved in BDIC can combine courses from within the University, the five colleges and from independent study and-or internship opportunities.

BDIC is "one office at UMass where the student is not treated as a number," said Schwartz.

UM grad dies in plane crash

Beth Overton, a 1977 UMass graduate in the School of Business Administration, died last Saturday in a plane crash in Kings Canyon National Park, California.

Overton, an Air Force 2nd lieutenant, was one of four military officers killed when their single-engine Piper Cherokee crashed enroute from Moffet Field, near San Francisco to Las Vegas.

Overton was commissioned last spring through the ROTC program at UMass. She was a native of Ayer, Mass.

O'Neill urges decision on Energy bill

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Speaker Thomas O'Neill urged House and Senate conferees yesterday to give a little on key issues stalling the energy bill, saying the president does not plan another postponement of his overseas trip because of their inaction.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said President Carter should make the trip regardless of the status of the bill.

"I think he just about has to," Byrd told reporters. "I would hope we have the energy bill down there by then. He's canceled it (the trip) once."

Byrd said he was "still hopeful that we'll have that all wrapped up by the middle of December or Christmas at the latest."

Ten senators, most from the Northeast, told Carter Tuesday they would find it difficult to vote for a crude oil tax unless the energy bill also contains refundable tax credits to defray the cost of home heating oil and electricity."

Declining TV viewing threatens network money

NEW YORK [AP] — A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings show that fewer people are watching television this year, sparking a controversy that pits the advertising industry against the three major networks because of the money at stake.

"We're concerned," ABC Vice President George Keramadis commented yesterday in a remark typical of the networks. "It's kind of a wait-and-see thing. Right now we're just very cautious about it."

What's causing the concern is a decline since last year in the figure for the Homes Using Television — HUT — of 8 per cent during daytime and nearly 3 per cent at night. This can have a direct impact on revenue.

Just as magazines guarantee their circulation, networks base the cost of a commercial minute on an estimated audience. If the size declines, advertisers won't pay as much for a minute.

"If we continue to see a decline in the long term, then this could have the effect of reduced advertising expenditures for TV," said Michael Drexler, senior vice president of Doyle Dane Bernbach advertising agency. "But this is not going to happen overnight."

The networks say they are waiting for the results in about two weeks of the November "sweeps," in which 100,000 households nationally keep diaries that measure the audiences of local stations. Through their Committee on National Television Audience Measurement, the networks also asked Nielsen on Nov. 1 for data to back up its numbers.

Several advertising agencies — and Nielsen — say they are already convinced the numbers are accurate on the basis of a similar diary analysis in October of 23 cities, including New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. In addition, a second ratings service, Arbitron, showed a downward trend that confirmed Nielsen's October figures.

Carter first president to hold conference in comm. county

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter will become the first U.S. president to hold a wide-open news conference in a Communist country when he visits Warsaw late next month, it was learned yesterday.

Poland will be the first stop on a curtailed version of Carter's once-postponed world trip, now set to begin Dec. 29. A formal announcement of the journey is expected later this week.

When Carter meets the press in Warsaw, Polish journalists will be invited to join their western colleagues in questioning the president. It was not known whether Poland's state-owned networks will broadcast the session live. However, the Voice of America is expected to beam the conference to Communist countries, including the Soviet Union.

White House officials declined to confirm plans for the news conference. However, they acknowledged that another high-light of Carter's six-nation trip will be the first visit by an incumbent president to France's Normandy beachheads where American and other allied troops landed more than 32 years ago during World War II.

Carter also will lay a wreath at the U.S. cemetery for American war dead.

The trip will take Carter to Poland, Iran, India, Saudi Arabia, France and Belgium. He is expected to return to Washington on Jan. 6 or Jan. 7.

Originally scheduled as a four-continent tour starting a week ago, the revised itinerary drops two continents and visits to Venezuela, Brazil and Nigeria. Officials said Carter may visit these Latin American and black African countries late next spring.

The president's original plans were shelved because Congress had not completed action on energy legislation that he has cited as his top priority domestic policy objective for 1977. By late December, Congress will be in recess and will have either passed or rejected energy bills.

In revamping the schedule, White House officials have tried to slow down the hectic pace Carter would have set under the initial itinerary.

For example, he may now stay overnight in Tehran and Riyadh, the capitals of Iran and Saudi Arabia. Brief refueling stops originally had been scheduled for those cities.

Carter also may spend two nights in Paris instead of one and may spend a night in Brussels instead of making a quick in-and-out visit.

1/3 carat $800
1/3 carat $700
1/3 carat $900
1/2 carat $1500
1/2 carat $800
1/2 carat $1000
5/8 carat $1600
5/8 carat $1400
5/8 carat $1300
3/4 carat $2200
3/4 carat $2500
3/4 carat $3700

Rings shown are the America's Junior Miss Collection (enlarged for detail).
Prices represent retail quotations for these specific rings.
De Beers Consolidated Mines, Ltd.

Court decides media rights to report jails' conditions

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Supreme Court justices gave a verbal pounding yesterday to a San Francisco lawyer arguing for the right of news media to get into jails and report conditions there.

Attorney William Turner said the First Amendment prevents a government official from unjustifiably interfering with gathering of information by reporters.

Chief Justice Warren Burger asked whether courts would have to admit the press to their deliberations merely because a president decided to open his Cabinet meetings to the media.

Justice Potter Stewart noted there is no access to the Oval Office at the White House. "The public doesn't know what's going on," said Stewart. "Does that mean that the press must be admitted?"

Stewart also noted that the press doesn't get into the Pentagon War Room or the CIA.

Turner responded that he was not urging the justices to open their private conferences. And he said it was proper that CIA information not be made public.

But he said there is no claim by Sheriff Thomas Houchins that anything is secret at the Alameda County, Calif., jail at Santa Rita, where the case originated.

Turner said the press provides the only way for the public to learn what is going on in an institution where people are involuntarily confined.

"Don't they have access to a lawyer?" inquired Justice William Rehnquist.

"Is there anything to prevent an inmate from writing a long, long letter to his wife or mother?" asked Burger.

Turner said newspapers are not likely to print unsubstantiated allegations by a prisoner in such a letter when there is no way to verify them.

The arguments were on a lawsuit by public radio-television station KQED, which serves the San Francisco Bay area, and by the Alameda and Oakland branches of the NAACP.

After the suit was filed, Houchins began a program for the public of monthly, 25-person tours at Santa Rita, excluding the Greystone Facility, but banned cameras and tape recorders.

The justices must decide how the case fits into two earlier opinions which said "newsmen have no greater constitutional right of access to prisons or their inmates beyond that afforded the general public."

An apparent conflict arose when Judge Oliver Carter of San Francisco, now deceased, ordered Houchins to let the media into all areas, including the Greystone maximum security portion, at reasonable times and hours, to take pictures, use sound equipment and interview inmates.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals attirmed, saying "the access needs of the news media and the public differ."

Battered wife found innocent of murder

MARQUETTE, Mich. [UPI] — A woman described by police as a battered housewife who killed her husband by firing both barrels of a shotgun at him as he walked through the front door of their home was found innocent of murder yesterday.

The verdict by Marquette County Circuit Judge John E. McDonald clearing Sharon McNearney, 42, was returned following a two-day nonjury trial. The judge said the prosecution failed to prove she had not acted in self defense.

Mrs. McNearney had been charged with murder for shooting her husband George, 45, last Feb. 12, with a 20-gauge shotgun.

Her only defense was a tape-recorded statement given to Marquette Police detectives immediately following the shooting. In it, she told of an argument with her husband earlier in the day and her fear that she would face physical violence upon his return.

McDonald, reached at his home after the trial ended, refused to discuss the basis of his ruling in detail.

"The issue was whether the killing was in self defense," he said. "The prosecution did not prove beyond a reasonable doubt that it was not in self defense."

Another Michigan case raising the rights of a battered housewives ended in Lansing last month with a jury finding Francine Hughes innocent by reason of temporary insanity in the torch slaying of her husband following 13 years of physical abuse.

Capt. Marvin Gauthier, head of the department's detective division, told a reporter after the McNearney trial there had been a history of wife beatings involving the couple, who had teen-age children.

Gauthier said McNearney had been arrested for felonious assault a year and a half ago for firing a gun at his wife.

Sen. kills abortion compromise

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House Tuesday rejected a proposed compromise on use of federal funds for abortions, which the Senate had approved earlier in the day.

The rejection, by a 205-183 vote, means a $60 billion appropriation for major government agencies, which has been stalled for five months, is still in limbo. Temporary funds to run those agencies expire Wednesday night.

The proposed compromise, drafted by House and Senate leaders, was approved 44 to 21 earlier in the day by the Senate.

It would have allowed the federal government to pay for abortions for low-income women under Medicaid when the mother's life otherwise would be endangered or when the mother faced "severe and long-lasting physical health damage."

It also would have permitted "medical procedures" — including dilation and curettage — in cases of rape or incest that are reported to police or to a public health service or its equivalent.

At any price you can afford to be choosy.

Because the value of every diamond is determined by four characteristics (cut, color, clarity and carat weight), you can always use these qualities to your best advantage.

Perhaps you're attracted by the grandeur of a large diamond. Well, sometimes a large stone can cost the same as a smaller one. Simply because it has a little more color. Or a delicate birthmark hidden inside.

On the other hand, you may feel size isn't the most important quality. Then you could choose a diamond that's small, but perfectly cut to sparkle with an icy-white elegance.

In any case, you'll be able to find one to suit your personality. Because each one is an individual, with its own combination of characteristics. And you can use these qualities any way you wish, to help you decide what's precisely right for you.

But the important thing to remember is to buy a diamond engagement ring you'll be happiest with. You'll be sharing it for a lifetime with someone you love.

And for that reason alone, you should be choosy.

A diamond is forever.

Two month ILA dock strike ended

NEW YORK [AP] — The two-month strike by 50,000 dockworkers against "automated" shipping rolled to an end yesterday in most ports from Maine through Texas.

Longshoremen anxious to get back to work were waiting at the gates of container terminals in Brooklyn, Port Newark, Port Elizabeth and Weehawken sections of the harbor here.

While still awaiting results from Gulf ports and some New York locals, and despite postponement of contract ratification votes in several big ports, Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, saw "no problems ahead."

At his headquarters here, the dock chieftain tabulated returns showing the vote running "three-or four-to-one" in several locals in New York where automation's impact on jobs was most severe.

"I think the strike is over," Gleason said, reporting mounting returns.

"The New England area voted for it," he said of a master contract coupled with local agreements. "Hampton Roads voted for it, and New York is voting for it. It looks like it's a 'yes' vote up and down the coast with the exception of Philadelphia and New Orleans voting tomorrow."

The union, a major affiliate of the AFL-CIO, had proceeded with the vote on a simple majority basis without further delay to complete local contract supplements in New Orleans and to conduct belated balloting there and in Philadelphia Wednesday. Voting in Mobile, Ala., was proceeding Tuesday night.

Gleason had given the go-ahead on the ratification schedule last Friday, apparently concinced that his membership in the major ports of New York, Boston, Baltimore and Norfolk would assure acceptance of the new terms.

"If Philadelphia wants to wait, that's their problem" he said of the situation in that port, where the voting schedule changed several times before settling on a Wednesday ratification.

"We're not holding up for them," Gleason said of the laggard ports, thereby adding to the pressures for speedy completion of settlements as management and employes alike wanted to protect their competitive positions.

The settlement here was expected to provide a sudden spate of dock work, including considerable overtime work at premium pay, for many members of the ILA who had long been idle because of the erosion of their job opportunities, by the increasing use of containers.

This labor-saving technique, in which pre-packed containers are transferred by crane between ship, railway car and truck, became the principal target of the strike for greater job and income protection.

The New Orleans delay was attributed to a possible collision with a federal court order designed to protect blacks at upper seniority levels. This forced a re-examination of the "guaranteed annual income" terms for clerks and checkers.

Thousands of containers, each packed with tons of high-value cargo from abroad, were waiting to resume their trips to destinations in the eastern half of the nation.

Demonstrators disrupt Boston abortion clinic

BOSTON [AP] — A group of demonstrators invaded an abortion clinic Tuesday morning and handcuffed and chained themselves to a pillar before being removed by police and charged with trespassing.

Pam Lowry, Director of Community Affairs for the Charles Circle Clinic, said the group carrying anti-abortion signs and literature entered the waiting room, began chanting slogans and shouting insults at people seated there.

A police spokesman said the five demonstrators, not associated with any anti-abortion organization, had handcuffed themselves, passed a common chain through one side of each handcuff, then wrapped the chain around a large cement upright and locked it.

An officer found the key on one of the demonstrators, unlocked the chain and escorted the protestors from the second floor of the building on Boylston Street near Beacon Hill.

The disturbances was over in about 20 minutes, Ms. Lowry said.

Scheduled to be arraigned in Boston Municipal Court Wednesday were: Thomas Connelly Jr., 38, of Boston's Dorchester section; Charles Swain, 53, Lynn; Veronica Shimku, 71, Newton; Evelyn Dubel, 36, Whitman, and M. Gabrielle Moalli, 49, IYnn.

Jurors questioned for trial of charged "dolphin stealer"

HONOLULU [AP] — Jury selection began yesterday in the trial of a man charged with stealing two dolphins from a laboratory and returning them to the sea. He and another defendant claim they were liberating close friends.

But the state of Hawaii says the two men committed first-degree theft by taking the highly intelligent mammals, named Kea and Puka, which were being used in research programs. The state also says they in effect signed the dolphins' death warrants by returning them to an environment in which they no longer could live.

The way was cleared for the trial of Kenneth Le Vasseur, 26, to begin when Circuit Court Judge Masato Doi on Monday ordered his case separated from that of the other defendant, Steve Sipman, also 26.

Both men had been represented by John F. Schweigert, a lawyer who specializes in environmental causes, but Sipman got a new lawyer Monday and was given until February to prepare his defense.

The defendants, who face a maximum penalty of 5 years in prison and a $5,000 fine, have been free on their own recognizance awaiting trial.

Le Vasseur's trial got under way with prosecutors putting two questions to a pool of prosepctive jurors: "How many of you watched 'Flipper'?" a television series about a porpoise that was popular several years ago and "How many of you have heard the phrase 'This country is a government of laws and not men'?"

Sipman and Le Vasseur, former students at the University of Hawaii, lived at the dolphin labs at the university's Institute of Marine Biology where they worked as custodians.

Sipman, who had been studying the psychology of whales and dolphins, got a bachelor's degree in psychology in 1976. Le Vasseur got a bachelor's degree in liberal arts in 1976.

On May 29, they carried Kea and Puka, female Atlantic bottlenose dolphins, from their pens, drove them 40 miles to a remote beach and placed them in the sea.

"We have no moral or ethical right to maintain or enslave intelligent, emotional beings who very well may be our equals," Sipman said in explaining the act the next day.

But placing Kea, 12, and Puka, 16, in the hostile ocean environment after their years of being hand-fed and cared for in captivity meant certain death for both animals, said Louis M. Herman, chief scientist in the dolphin research program. They wouldn't know how to get food, would weaken and become easy prey for sharks, Herman said.

"For both of you, I regret that your trust in humans will likely soon lead to your deaths, for that is what my heart and my long experience with dolphins tells me," Herman said in a newspaper tribute to the animals soon after they were released.

"We have very strong feelings about the dolphins," Sipman said.

Oct. unemployment rate unchanged

BOSTON [UPI] — Masschusetts' seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for October was 5.8 per cent, unchanged from the September figure, the Division of Employment Security said yesterday.

Nationally, unemployment increased from 6.9 per cent to 7 per cent during the same period.

LES Director John F. Hodgman said total employment in the state rose to 2,597,600 in Ocotber, 5,500 more than September. He said the total number of persons out of work was projected at 141,300 down 3,100 from the previous month.

Worcester again had the lowest rate in the state, registering 4.1 per cent. New Bedford, with a 6.7 per cent rate, continued as the highest in the state.

CAOS

COUNSELING ASSISTANCE FOR OLDER STUDENTS

Need assistance in planning next semester?

Academic Counseling during counseling week:
undergrads Nov. 14-Nov. 23
grads Nov. 14-Dec. 2
9:00-5:00 M-F Hasbrouck 203-207

BONG SALE

THURSDAY & FRIDAY
December 1 & 2
at the CAMPUS CENTER

featuring:
*removable parts for easy cleaning
*hard, durable plastic construction
*no leakage
*wide base avoids tipping over tragedies by clumsy roommates
*2 different bowls
*unbeatable price!

PRICES SLASHED
BIG FOOT
$6
MOTHER JUG
$6
ALL COLORS

WILL THE WINTER OF 1977 BE AS SEVERE AS 1976?

If most of the forecasters are correct it will be, so why not get ready now. Gleason's is all stocked with stylish and practical cold weather outdoor clothing for all your fall and winter needs. Come in early and look over the Quality lines we stock. Also ask us about our early birds/buy special.

A note on quality. Look at clothing labels. AMERICAN MADE GOODS at Gleason's usually cost no more than inferior imported copies.

Don Gleason Quality Down Vests
North Face Down Parkas and Botties
Sierra Designs Down and 60/40 Parkas
Camp 7 Down Vests & Mtn. Parkas
Woolrich Rugged Shirts, Pants, Jackets
Duofold Quality 2 Layer Underwear
Wigwam Hats, Socks, and Mitts
Vasque Hiking Boots
Sorel Insulated Boots

TUBBS Snowshoes

Also a Complete Selection of Camping & Backpacking Equipment on display. (Tents,Packs,Etc.)

SPECIALS THRU NOV. 12, 1977
(WITH A COPY OF THIS AD)
1. 40% off all Camp 7 Sleeping Bags
2. 20% off all Camp 7 and Jansport Mtn. Parkas
3. 20% off all Kelty Framed Packs
4. Our Early Bird Program on Parkas and Jackets extended thru Nov. 12, 1977

HOURS 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS

Stoneware

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

FREE HEAT and HOT WATER!!

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!

Included in your rent at NO EXTRA charge— Heat & Hot Water

For Your Convenience:
+Free UMass bus to town and campus
+Stove,refrigerator,disposal,and dishwasher
+Fully carpeted
+Wall to wall closets
+Cablevision available
+1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+24 hour maintenance staff

2 Bedroom
Garden Apartments
$245.00

* Special second semester rental terms available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

There IS a difference!!! Our 40th Year

PREPARE FOR:

NEW MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT

Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 38 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers, open days, evenings and weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Makeups for missed lessons at our centers.

prepare now for winter exams
LSAT GRE GMAT OCAT

CLASSES IN AMHERST
Call Boston for info
25 Huntington Ave
Boston MA 02116
617-261-5150
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840

Stanley H. KAPLAN EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Centers in Major U.S. Cities

whole wheat PIZZA FACTORY

5—2 a.m.
256-8587

FAST, FREE DELIVERY EVERY NIGHT

Introducing the "EXTRA THICK" Whole Wheat Pizza

Our crust is a blend of pure ingredients: Stone ground whole wheat flour, lots of honey, unbleached white flour, sea salt, yeast & oil. Together they combine to make the pizza everyone is talking about. And now you get double the deliciousness by ordering your pizza "extra thick".

This week only, the extra thick crust is free !!!

Fourteen students found safe on Vt. mountain

JAY, Vt. [UPI] — Fourteen Canadian college students on a winter weekend camping trip were found safe yesterday after spending three days trapped on a cold, snow-covered mountainside in northern Vermont.

The hikers, aged 16 to 20, were cold and tired but generally in good condition.

Three of the most fatigued were taken from rugged 3,800-foot Jay Peak by an Air Force helicopter. The others hike out to where they were met by rescuers on snowmobiles from a nearby ski area.

"Spirits were high throughout," said hike leader Jamie Burbush, 19, of Montreal.

"The first thing we asked the rescue team was who won the Grey Cup?" he said, referring to the Canadian football championship game played Sunday.

"We didn't get lost — we just got snowed in and decided to wait it out."

"They probably had a pretty good adventure, but we're damned relieved," said Don Hall, director of student activities at Montreal's Dawson College.

The seven men and seven women, members of a college outing club, were located by a state police search party about 9:15 a.m., the same time they were spotted from the air by a helicopter.

They had pitched a camp near the 3,000-foot level about three miles north of the summit, a police spokesman said.

Equipped with winter camping gear, food and medical supplies, the party climbed the mountain Friday planning to spend two days on Long Trail, a popular hiking path which winds north-south through Vermont.

The search was launched just before dark Sunday when the 14 failed to meet a bus to take them back to Montreal.

Burbush and sophomore Simon Glanc, 18, said the party reached a shelter on schedule Friday night. But they were caught in a heavy snow storm Saturday that dumped more than 18 inches of snow on the mountain.

Soaked, tired and unable to move through four-foot drifts, they set up a camp. They kept busy drying frozen clothes and boots, and drinking "lots of hot liquid.

"We were never really worried," Glanc said. "If we kept on eating like we were — a lot — we had enough food for two or three days. If we rationed it, we could have lasted a week."

Police protect Nazi convict living mysteriously in Germany

SOLTAU, West Germany [AP] — Nearly four months after his escape from a Rome prison hospital, convicted Nazi war criminal Herbert Kappler lives quietly and mysteriously in this north German town behind a wall of police protection.

The 70-year-old Kappler, a former colonel in the Nazi SS elite guard, was suffering from intestinal cancer and said to be on the verge of death when his wife, Anneliese, helped him escape Aug. 15.

A family source said Kappler has regained enough strength to take walks with a cane accompanied by his wife and police guards.

The strict security around the Kappler apartment above a drugstore has angered some of the townspeople who seldom catch a glimpse of the man conviced of killing 335 Italian civilians. He was serving a life sentence for the deaths, ordered in reprisal for an attack by Italian partisans in which 32 German soldiers were killed.

"Kappler enjoys almost as much protection as a cabinet minister," complained a local bank manager.

The West German government petitioned Italy several times for Kappler's release on humanitarian grounds. But Italian authorities, under pressure from former resistance fighters and Jewish groups, blocked it.

An Italian military tribunal decided in November 1976 to release him, but that decision was overruled a month later by Italy's supreme court.

Mrs. Kappler had been lobbying for his release. When those efforts failed, she took the matter into her own hands, lowered him with a rope from a prison hospital window under cover of darkness and fled back to Germany.

The German government refused to send Kappler back to Italy because of a constitutional restriction against extraditing German nationals. That refusal, coupled with Bonn's hardline response to urban terrorism, sparked a wave of criticism in several European countries which implied that the German democracy was a facade and that the seeds of Nazism remain in the German spirit.

The West German government claims the few neo-Nazi organizations which have sufaces are insignificant.

However, the matter was brought up again Monday at an official dinner in Bonn given for Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

Owens, Lillian and Dick Gregory to fast in protest of South Africa

BOSTON [UPI] — Comedian-activist Dick Gregory Tuesday gave some advice to Sen. William Owens, D-Boston, on the art of fasting.

Owens, Gregory and Gregory's wife Lillian were arrested Thanksgiving Day for demonstrating within 500 feet of the South African Embassy in Washington, D.C. They were released on personal recognizance and the case was continued until Dec. 21.

At a news conference Tuesday in the Massachusetts Statehouse, Owens said he would join Gregory and his wife in a fast of all solid foods.

Gregory, known for fasting as a means of social protest, said "on about the 14th or 15th day, folks who have never given up a meal will suddenly become experts and tell you it will kill you and to stop it."

However, Gregory said, Owens should instead go out and buy all the newspapers he can find and turn to the obit pages. Gregory told Owens he would discover very few people died overnight from fasting.

"In spite of spending Thanksgiving Day behind bars," said Owens, "it was an extremely rewarding experience and the best Thanksgiving Day of my life."

He added, "We went to Washington to focus the attention of the nation on the cruelties and inhumane treatment being perpetrated on the black people of South Africa by the Vorster regime.

".... elected officials should be asking themselves, is it morally possible to support South Africa?" he said. "And if we cannot support South Africa morally, can we support her economically?"

Vietnamese refugees combat harassment

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) Some South Vietnamese ,refugees living in Maine have been attacked and harassed by young American men, but the attackers sometime have gotten more than they bargained for from their combat-wise victims.

"These Americans don't realize who they're messing with," said Mickey O'Malley of the state Division of Community Services. "These South Vietnamese, the young men anyway, have spent most of their life fighting. They're tough, and they won't be pushed around.

"I'm scared some of these American kids will end up in the hospital, which could really set off some reprisals," said Mrs. O'Malley, director of the Citizens Assistance Line. Two years ago she coordinated the move of 160 of the Maine's 400 refugees into the state.

Several attacks on Viet' namese refugees in Augusta have been reported to police within the last six months, but refugees report things are quiet for the present.

The incidents included beatings, vandalism and thefts. Many Vietnamese say they must be careful where they go, what they do and where they live. Such attacks have resulted in four indictments of Americans by a Kennebec County grand jury.

The refugees also report some merchants have taken advantage of them. Police said there were reports of verbal harassment in nearby Winthrop involving American women who date Vietnamese.

Among incidents described recently by police or included by Mrs. O'Malley in a report to Gov. James B. Longley last May:

—A Vietnamese man visiting a brother in Augusta several months ago was yanked from a car and attacked by two men with knives. He kicked one assailant and took away his knife but was jumped from behind and held by the other while the first one beat him. The Vietnamese was treated at a hospital and missed more than a week of work. One man pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault and the other faces trial next month for aggravated assault.

—During the summer, That Dinh Tran, 23, of Augusta, said he was harrassed by five American teen-egers after he refused to give them money. He tried to throw some of them out of his apartment and later found two tires on his car slashed. Tran has since moved and says he no longer has any trouble.

—In October, Hiep Minh Le, 23, of Augusta, found the windoss of his automobile smashed. He said the vandalism was directed against him because he is Vietnamese.

—One of Le's roommate, Toan Son Ngo, 25, said he lost about $3,000 in personal property earlier this year when someone broke into his apartment and destroyed a stereo, color television and aquarium.

"We're not looking for trouble. The Americans are jealous, I think. We have mery little here, but they think we're stealing their jods," Le said in a recent interview. "Things are quiet now. That makes us happy. No one has bothered us. But we know how to kill," said Le, who received combat training while with an intelligence organization in South Vietnam.

Robert Welsh, an Augusta police detective Robert, said a Kennebec County grand jury indicted four Americans on charges of assaulting and terrorizing Cietnamese. Two other cases were still pending grand jury action.

After one spring fight, some Americans claimed they wer cut by a machete during a fight with Vietnamese. Gov. Longley was informed of the report, but a charge of aggravated assault against the Vietnamese man was dropped because prosecutors felt "the victim brought the fight on himself. He was the instigator," an official said.

Fitness program recommended for Spfld. firefighters

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. [UPI] — A fire commissioner, worried that fat firefighters might not perform as well as their physically-fit colleagues, said Tuesday he will recommend some kind of mandatory fitness program for the city's fire department.

"If we have one firefighter out of shape, it's one too many," Commission Secretary Henry Thomas said.

He said he has seen some firefighters breathing hard while working because they are 40 to 50 pounds overweight.

Thomas Shea, president of local 648 of the International Association of Firefighters, said he agrees, but doubts the commission is committed to a good exercise program.

FINAL DAY !!!

MEN's TRADITIONAL
SILADIUM® RING

ONLY $59.95

Regularly $ 87.00

ARTCARVED RING DAY

That's when the ArtCarved representative will be here to help you select your custom-made college jewelry. It's also the day you can charge your ArtCarved college jewelry on Master Charge or BankAmericard.

place:
THE UNIVERSITY STORE
CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASS.
NOV. 28, 29 & 30

time:
10a.m. - 3p.m.

$10 deposit

WHY PAY MORE IN ANOTHER STORE?

Big 'Y' Liquor stores has exactly what you want and need at incredible low prices...check these!

CALVERT EXTRA 80 PROOF Why pay $12.69? $9.49 59.2 oz

CANADIAN CLUB WHISKEY 86 PROOF Why pay $16.99? $13.59 59.2 oz

VAT 69 GOLD 86.8 PROOF 59.2 OZ Why pay $14.69? $9.99

OLD CROW BOURBON 80 PROOF 59.2oz Why pay $12.99? 9.49

SCHAEFER BEER 24-12oz Loose cans! WHY PAY $6.70? $4.59

BLUE NUN LIEBFRAUMILCH 23 OUNCES Why pay $4.39? $2.89

RICCADONA VERMOUTH SWEET & DRY 25 Why pay $2.69 $1.99

NUYEN'S 80 PROOF 59.2 OZ VODKA Why pay $10.19? $7.69

BIG 'Y' 80 PROOF GIN 59.2 OZ Why pay $8.49? $7.29

ICE BOX PINA COLADA 25 PROOF, WHY PAY $3.19? $2.79 Qt.

d'amour's BIG Y

WINES & LIQUORS AT LOW PRICES!

3 convenient locations...all next to BIG 'Y'

- HAMP PLAZA KING STREET ROUTE 5 NORTHAMPTON
- FAIRVIEW ROUTE 33 MEMORIAL DRIVE BIG Y'S SHOPPING CENTER
- BRECKWOOD WILBRAHAM ROAD SPRINGFIELD

Eight held in RI drug bust

JAMESTOWN, R.I. (AP) — Eight men, four of them Californians, were in custody yesterday following a nighttime police raid and boarding at sea that netted about $500,000 worth of marijuana.

The arrests, prompted by a tip from a former state trooper, began late Monday and continued Tuesday morning in and around this Conanicut Island town of about 3,000 people.

The intrigue-filled night bore a striking resemblance to August raids in which police rounded up about 20 suspects and eight tons of Colombian marijuana with a street value exceeding $10 million.

In this week's raid and the one three months ago, state police and federal Drug Enforcement Administration agents also seized sophisticated radio equipment and large amounts of cash.

State police said they arrested three people Monday night in Jamestown and three others aboard a 56-foot sloop, Sojourn, which was boarded in the eastern passage of Narragansett Bay.

Two other suspects were taken into custody Tuesday morning. All were charged with conspiracy to violate narcotics laws and possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

Following the arrests, state police began scouting the coast in a helicopter and plane, hoping to find a "mother ship" that delivered 32 bales of marijuana to Rhode Island waters.

"We've got people searching for what we strongly believe is a mother ship," said state police Sgt. Richard P. Sullivan. "We're assuming it was offloaded onto the sailboat."

A 400-foot foreign fishing boat was sighted a mile southwest of Brenton Light and police asked for Coast Guard assistance in checking the vessel.

Twelve bales of marijuana were seized in a van that was stopped by troopers on the North Kingstown end of the Jamestown Bridge. Twenty more bales were found in a wooded area near a Jamestown home.

A few minutes after the van driver was arrested, a 41-foot Coast Guard boat with two troopers aboard stopped and boarded the Sojourn about three miles south of the house.

The van driver was identified as Keith A. Roberts, 24, Malibu, Calif.

Police said one of the men aboard Sojourn was carrying $1,100 in $100 bills. A 12-guage shotgun was also found on the boat, which detectives said was gutted for use as a small "seagoing freighter."

The Sojourn, formerly named the Nepenthe, was registered to a man identified as Thomas Ring of New York City. Police also said Ring had rented the summer house in Jamestown.

One of the men arrested aboard Sojourn, Robert W. Mauer, 29, listed his address as the Bahia Mar Yachting Center in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Also aboard the yacht were Mauer's brother, Michael J. Mauer, 36, Fort Lauderdale, and Marvin R. Odoms, 26, Camden, Maine, according to investigators.

Police said several men arrested in the August raids were also from Fort Lauderdale and were known to have used the yachting center as a refuge for another suspected drug offloaeing boat — the Wildcat.

The Jamestown home, according to a spokesman for Aquidneck Realty of Middletown, R.I., was rented Oct. 20 by Ring, who said he was a writer and needed a secluded place to work.

Police said they found a motorized conveyor belt running from a nearby pier to a wooded area next to the house. Twenty bales of marijuana, weighing about 50 pounds each, were found in the woods.

Arrested at the house were Gregory P. Stevenson, 33, Woodland Hill, Calif.; George E. Conley, 26, Anselmo, Calif.; Francis X. Connolly, 28, Lexington, Mass., and Gordon RVIPley, 29, Malibu, Calif.

Police said they found two mobile CB radios, two console CB units, a half-dozen walkietalkies and a police scanner. A list of local police radio frequencies was found near the scanner.

Detective Capt. Edward D. Pare said he was tipped to the smuggling operation by John Anderson, a former state police trooper, who said he saw a boat tied up at a pier next to the house.

Responsible to whom?

By BRITT WARREN

> "The facts and events often do not speak clearly for themselves. A broader interpretive frame of fact must be supplied. In doing this the distinction between fact and event on the one hand and opinion on the other must be clearly drawn."
>
> — Max Lerner

Collegian columnist Jim Paulin showed me this "Newspaperman's (sic) Credo" last week. The behavior of the Collegian and its Board of Editors this semester raises some serious doubts about whether it is truly interested in presenting such a "broader interpretive frame" for its readers. What follows is a commentary on journalistic responsibility and power relations within the Collegian.

Special thanks to Jim for the corrections in his "Free Church" column, Nov. 9. The article in question, Collegian labels OUTFRONT and Nummo News Communist Publications, OUTFRONT staff harassed," appeared in OUTFRONT's first and only insert to the Collegian, Oct. 27.

Part of the story doucments an incident with the campus center police whom I mistakenly took for Staties (both wear guns) concerning access to the university graphics department.

On a Monday morning I walked into the graphics room to shoot down to size a couple of graphics for our first insert which was to appear Wednesday. A non-student employee working at the time refused to allow me to use the equipment. He cited an agreement in which non-Collegian work was to occur between the hours of 5 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. Sunday. The Collegian has not lived up to its end of this "agreement." The graphics department has never been open Friday evenings and in one out of every two weekends has not opened on the scheduled days. It was totally unavailable on weekends prior to mid-October. I insisted on the right to access and proceeded to use the equipment.

The underlying issues are serious. How had tensions generated a situation in which it was felt necessary to call in the police? A few minutes later office Tucker (not Ford — again an apology is in order) burst into the office "only doing his job." Was his job to intimidate and threaten? He was not even aware of OUTFRONT's right to use the equipment and was working from the mistaken assumption that the means of production were Collegian owned.

Purchased with student monies for use by the entire student body the graphics department is a resource of vast potential. The resource is only beginning to be realized. The Collegian was given management of this equipment. Yet it wishes to hoard it selfishly. According to Michael Pill of the CC Board of Governors, the graphics should be accessible to students at all times and is not the sacred province of the Collegian or anyone else. Regardless, common law seems to hold sway here while possession is 90 per cent of the law. But these are uncommon times. Perhaps a change is necessary.

Freedom to Censor

Recent weeks have witnessed controversy in these pages concerning unionization, advocacy and the question of editorial control, objectivity in reporting, freedom from censorship and the politics of journalism. As the only daily paper on campus, the Collegian has a responsibility to open itself up as a forum for ideas. In denying access to inserts like OUTFRONT and Resources Judaica (NU), the Board of Editors claim to editorial "integrity," "discretion", and "objective style" presentation rings a hollow note. A 4-3 vote (5-2 in the case of Resources) with one abstention by the Bored has effectively denied this university community the opportunity to judge on its own merits the viewpoints which OUTFRONT represents. This is all our misfortune.

OUTFRONT was told, in effect, that our $54 per page, the price of a camera ready insert, might serve a better cause elsewhere.

It is strikingly contradictory that this student run non-profit newspaper deny the access it regularly makes available to advertisers and the commercial (AP, UPI) wire services. Perhaps the price wasn't right. At $200 per page we could say anything we damn pleased. This is the price of admission (ad copy).

A dangerous but not irreversible precedent has been set by the Elect Bored Editors. How long before Nummo News will rank with the ex-inserted?

It behooves us all to take note of this sort of editorial control. In whose interests does the Collegian operate? Who engineered this circumcision of free speech?

- - - - -

Without a point of view there is no point to writing. Or publishing for that matter. Implicit in the "objective view" style, which is the Collegian credo, are attitudes which support the status quo. Interpretive reporting is needed to raise questions, clarify issues and promote active response to the imposed demands of living and working at the university. Discontent with the Collegian can be heard campus wide. Within the ranks of its own editorial staff and reporters, this discontent arises almost entirely in response to an excessive conservatism in news and editorial policies.

Activism and advocacy reporting is an articulate trend in news writing as part of an overall challenge to the media establishments. OUTFRONT wants more investigations. Not merely to uncover political misdealings and administrative crookedness, such as laundered funds and $8,000 in missing laundry from the Campus Center (OUTFRONT, Oct. 27), but also to ferret out the burning issues of our lives.

Britt Warren is a member of the OUTFRONT collective.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

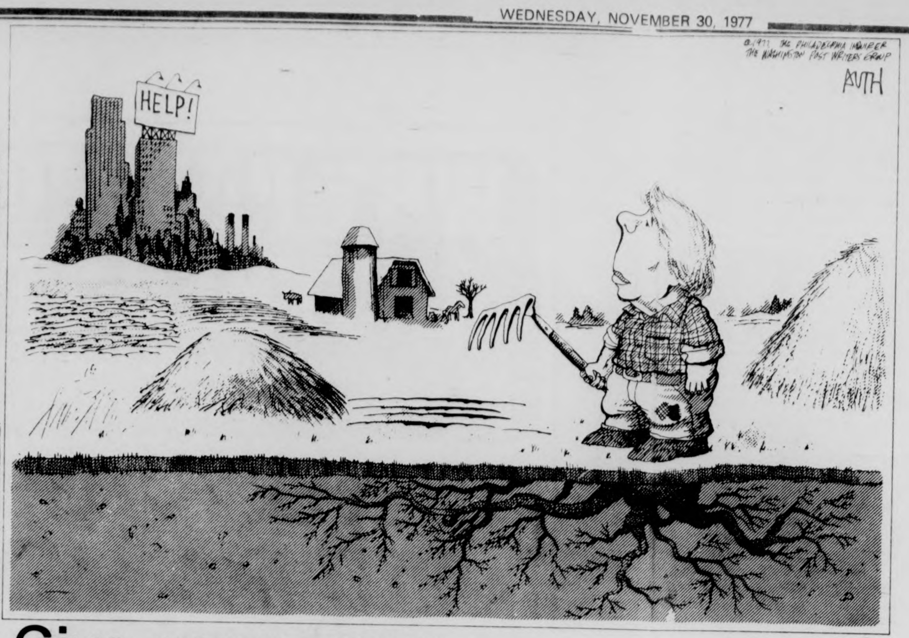
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



©1977 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH

Give game guns

steve dubin

An organization called the National Rifles for Animals (NRA) is being formed to cope with expanding human populations. The native environment of our wildlife is being overrun and abused by man. Animals are consolidating to protect their "turf" and control the throngs of humans that trample it.

Unhunted people increase to the point where they often become overcrowded and destroy their own habitat and the habitat of others (look at China, India, New York City, my house).

The harvesting of over-crowded populations by hunting will be a less cruel method to thin down the population. People won't have to cope with suburbs, battle with personality conflicts, or worry about who will guest host the "Tonight Show."

Before the advent of civilization, excessive population was controlled naturally by disease, starvation, predation and an occasional disaster or two such as floods and fires. Hell, we haven't even had a good war in a long while.

The NRA hunter stalking a child in the woods is no different than a man murdering his boss in Chicago. The only difference is that the NRA hunter has more experience at hunting. Experience makes animals the most efficient predators and also permits them to replenish and manage human crowding. Man and prey both benefit.

Some people protection groups say animals could get equal satisfaction from photographing a person as from killing him-her. Animals do not want to be relegated to the role of observing man and capturing him on film. Animals want to be an integral part of their environment, a part of the balance. Animals want to be an active force in controlling the ecological cycle that man has disrupted. "Photographing phooey, shot shabang!" said NRA spokesanimal, Machine Gun Moose.

A leftist duck organization says that NRA hunters have an unfair advantage because of the highly sophisticated weaponry and tactics that they use. This is nonsense. Decoys are part of hunting's fine history. The use of an inflatable dummy, nude sculptures, manaquins and movie star posters do not stack the odds in favor of the NRA hunter. At best they only give him a chance to bag people when it might otherwise be impossible.

Liberal geese complain that the use of telescopic rifles are unfair advantages. This new hunting technology is only to reduce the incidence of wounded and suffering game and also reduce accidental shooting of other NRA hunters.

Support the NRA, help cut down traffic jams, shorten movie thieater lines and eliminate packed bars, to perpetuate helathy human stocks. Send your contribution and join us in the antler dance!

Steve Dubin's column usually appears every Thursday in the Collegian.

"Experimentor" apologizes; clears Psychology Dept.

To the Editor:

In response to the recent letter entitled "The psychologist who cried wolf," I would like to clear the Psychology Department of any responsibility for my actions in the Campus Center Coffee Shop on Tuesday night, November 22. Although the experiment was psychologically oriented, it was neither devised by nor intended for the Psychology Department.

I would also like to apologize to all who were in any way involved with the incident, especially those who administered first-aid and those who attempted to or succeeded in calling for help of one sort or another. In no way was I intending to exploit any individuals or inconvenience or endanger police officers in the experiment. I would also like to apologize to the Campus and Amherst Police. I sincerely hope that "the negative effect that this charade may have" is swayed somewhat by this apology and Stephen Murphy's letter to the editor [Nov. 28].

Name withheld by request

Melilli's view right "only to a degree"

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Lisa Melilli's column, "Ideology at its worst", where she establishes her belief in the disbelief of religion and of God. After reading Lisa's article, which expressed how religions control people, create unrealistic rules and allow for personal prosperity for a few and poverty for most, while also expressing her own harsh experiences with Catholics, one couldn't help but sense negative attitudes toward religion and God, and justify so. However, this is contrary to my belief and experiences.

If all these prior assumptions are true of religions, I would disbelieve as her. Her view of religion has some truth but only to a degree. It is correct in that within every religion there are people who distort, confuse, ignore, or overemphasize the basic precepts upon which each religion was founded. There are also numerous believers of religion and God who put their faith in these basic precepts.

I've mentioned "basic precepts," by which I mean the history of the religion, its historical birth, what its founders believed and how they lived. It is exactly at these three points that one can determine intellectually whether he should accept or reject the religion along with its doctrine.

In the case of Catholics, their religion is Christianity, which can be traced back in the Bible to Hebrew monotheism which is also the root precepts of Judaism and Islam. Islam, Judaism and Christianity bring a common doctrine emphasizing the existence of one God who is creator, who guided the patriarchs; Abraham, Isaac, Jacob and Joseph and justly judged nations through his prophets; Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekial, etc. These three doctrines do break with each other in respect to the prophet Muhammad, Jesus Christ and the New Testament of the Bible.

But what's so important about these early leaders? Seeing individuals existing in history allows us to understand that religion is a personal experience, and seeing that these leaders established their doctrine by living within that doctrine and having some type of communication with God forms the proof of their religion's validity.

How does one get a true picture of a religion? Find information, gain knowledge [especially through knowledgeable people both within and from outside your religion] and contemplate the basic precepts before rejecting a religion; then compare this past history [belief] to your present experiences with the religion. If there is no correlation, then the present religion has become defaced, tarnished by human inpurity. Only the naive and foolish would accept that which has lost its doctrinal strength. I wouldn't put my faith in it. If what is being taught today is identical [meaning basic precepts, not every detail] then the religion hasn't become distorted from its original belief, leaving it your choice whether to believe it or not.

Don't discard your religion until you've at least tried to understand its history — it may not be the religion's or God's fault but the individual church, certain people within the church, your attitudes or just you. Diligently searching for what your heart longs can bring only reward. Lisa was right about religion existing for the insecure because all of us are amazingly insecure.

Dave Beckman

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Scott: radical chic in sports

jim paulin

So there he was, Mr. Radical Chic Jock himself, Jack Scott, promoting the biography of his patron saint, Bill Walton, on whom he's going to make a bundle. As if he isn't making a lot of money on his speaking tour, as if he couldn't put his long arm on the father of ultra rich newspaper heiress Patty Hearst anytime he wanted in repayment for services rendered when he sheltered her from the law.

Regardless of how much I thought much of what he said was right on, and regardless of how much I enjoyed seeing him piss off the reactionaries in the audience, I still have to rate him as one of the most pious hypocrites and windbags I've ever seen, and ever so much do I wish Howard Cosell had been present to call him a bum, which he is.

There he was, talking out of both sides of his mouth, urging audience participation, encouraging people to ask questions, and not answering them when they did. The audience could have had a better dialogue with a stereo.

Scott denounced college faculty in general for stifling discussion and growth, but to me he seems like the kind of tyrant that harangues you for leaving the classroom to take a piss.

Listening to him, you'd think that Bill Walton was the only athlete who didn't conform to the official image, or ever had problems dealing with the system. Maybe he never heard of the great Red Sox hitter Ted Williams, who might have won four Most Valuable Player awards instead of two had he been more attentive of the sportswriters, or could have had a much more spectacular career than he did had he not been drafted to serve not only in World War II, but in Korea as well.

> The fact that bonus baby Bill Walton has money coming out of his ass didn't seem to disturb him terribly. He's a radical a la Hampshire College.

He said that since basketball is a team sport, you can't judge players individually, but Monday night I got the impression he's a total ball hog and a gunner who never passes but always goes for the slam drunk.

Then he put down some rich guy for not understanding what a special person Walton is, and though he put the guy down for being rich, the fact that bonus baby Bill Walton has money coming out his ass didn't seem to terribly disturb him. He's radical a la Hampshire College.

He claims to be such a flaming radical, but he didn't seem too concerned about the vast inequalities of wealth in the U.S.A. — he comes here and denounces violence in sports, then announces he's not a pacifist and that all heroin pushers should be "blown away." After the speech he says he's not good with guns, but he knows how to do research and he's willing to finger dealers by giving photos to hitmen who'll do the dirty work. It's a case of who's going to tie the bell around the cat's neck. Or you could compare it to the CIA not themselves assassinating the democratically elected Chilean socialist Allende, but commissioning native, pro-U.S. imperialism forces after the CIA's provided the necessary information (or "research," or "intelligence") and money.

Scott doesn't seem to realize that by eliminating the pushers, you're not attacking the disease, but the symptoms. The problem is that people turn to heroin because they're subjected to miserable living conditions — instead of getting a fair slice of the pie, all they get is crumbs.

If he thinks that shooting individuals will improve poor people's quality of life, rather than trying to deal with it systematically, he should go one step further than the Symbionese Liberation Army did and kill Patty Hearst and family and open up the San Simeone estate to homesteaders from Watts.

Jim Paulin's column appears every Wednesday in the Collegian.

"I don't take nothin' free."

By PETER GOONAN

"Pinball addict?! How dare you call me a pinball addict!" I screamed.

The nerve of that guy. I mean, here I am at 8:00 in the morning playing a little pinball, maybe a dozen games, and this punk walks past me with books in his arms, studious bastard, laughs at me, and calls me a pinball addict. Who does ... ?

Oh dang! Right down the middle! I swear they got a magnet in this machine.

And now them students. They're laughing at me too, just because I kicked the fool machine. What do they expect me to do ... caress it? I mean the machine took my freakin' quarter.

Yeah sure, I come down here a pretty lot, maybe one or two times a day ... maybe two or three times ... yeah, three or four times ... yeah, maybe ... All right!! All day long, so what?!!

I'm not addicted though, you know. I mean, I don't have to play — I just want to, that's all. I just come down here to relax a little bit and ...

Oh dang! Right down the side! I swear that little bar is slanted so the ball just [illegible] into the slot. Tilt?!! What do you mean [illegible] I just gave it a little shove, and banged it into the next machine a little bit, that's all.

"What are all you people looking at?!! Didn't you ever see someone cry before? Get out of here!"

Well like I was saying, I'm not addicted. But you know what makes me mad? That turkey who comes here every night and talks to me like I'm some little kid. He always says, "Come on now, Pete. It's 1:00 a.m. I gotta shut the machine off so they can go nighty-night."

One time this same jerk asks me, "Hey Pete, how come you never win any free games?" I turned to him, real cool like, you know. And I said, "Because I don't take nothing free." Told him.

One of the most traumatic experiences I ever had just happened to be while I was playing pinball. I reached into my pocket to pull out a quarter. Nothing! I was frantic.

So I turn to this guy next to me and ask him if I can borrow a buck in quarters. He tells me he'll trade me for something because he don't trust my I.O.U.

"How about my Physics book?" I asked.

"No deal," he said stubbornly. "I don't even take Physics."

"Neither do I," I tried to reason. "Tell you what, though. I'll throw in my jacket."

"Don't like pink jackets, man," he answered, and turned pack to his pinball game.

"I'll throw in my mother!" I screamed, near hysteria.

So as you can see, I'm not a pinball addict. I just like to play, and ...

Oh dang! Missed! Match, please match! Please!!!

Peter Goonan is a Collegian guest commentator.

More on page 16

Productivity the goal of UMass corporation

By CLIFFORD MONAC

The question of student unionization has been an issue at UMass ever since the formation of the Student Organizing Project back in 1973. In this length of time lots of energy and money has been spent without realization of this unionization goal. Since this project has been ineffective, it now must be scrapped in order to form an organization that will get the students what they want.

On the one hand, those who are in favor of the student union have extremely valid arguments. The power of unions throughout history has been immense. We have good reason to believe that a collective group of students could directly affect everything from bus schedules to budget cuts; students could even change the structure of the university. Yet no student union exists in America today because, for many students, union is seen as visionary, utopian, radical, etc.

On the other hand, those against the union have many valid objections. This notion of formation of a union would take a great deal of time and effort and promises no resolution of problems. Unions are the means by which employees get necessary pay hikes, benefits, etc. Unions are not relevant for students. The administration alone knows what is best for students and administration policy doesn't affect us once we "get out."

The question of finding a job leads us to a key issue. Since our education is seen as a means to attaining a career, why don't we get a good job and get educated at the same time? The separation between the university and the "real world" need not exist. We have at our disposal all the resources necessary to start a major corporation, the UMass corporation.

The nature of the corporation would be white collar — it is doubtful that students would work on an assembly line. To start the corporation, all departments that would be useful in its formation would be required to offer courses that would produce marketable products and services. Students would work for college credit and their ideas would be turned over to the corporation, which would in turn sell these ideas to other enterprises for their use. Marketing students would concentrate their efforts on examining what products corporations might be interested in buying. Engineering, Chemistry, Physics and other majors would work on designing the product which would then be patented. All unnecessary majors, such as History, English and Classics, are doomed to get the ax under budget cut plans. The corporation only speeds up their imminent departure.

This initial phase will lead to the accumulation of capital necessary for setting up the full-fledged incorporation of the UMass Corporation. After one short semester the students (for college credit) have probably come up with enough good ideas to sell to other enterprises. This capital would be used to support a functioning, paid bureaucracy which would run financial affairs. In fact, very little capital will be needed for the creation of the corporation. Eliminating unnecessary majors would leave lots of rooms in various buildings around campus which could be used as bureaucratic headquarters. The workers (students) are working for college credit (the wage) and not for real money. The corporation's overhead, therefore, is amazingly low. In the future, the corporation could offer full scholarships to particularly promising prospects. The return of ideas from a bright student could mean millions. The possibilities are limitless!

A lot of the steps necessary for this corporation are already realities at UMass. Students are basically job oriented and outside corporations are more likely to hire them if there is evidence that UMass students have had legitimate corporation experience. The Collegian (rather than exposing us to commercial crap) can become the official corporation newspaper, publicly commending those students who have created innovative ideas. The university will run "in the black" so it will no longer have to accept the "budget cuts" handed down by the state legislature. Administrators and faculty can simply continue their roles of creating politically and intellectually barren students that are doomed to occupy some insignificant job in some large corporation. Even the university radicals can be hired to bitch and moan about the alienation of the UMass corporation. After all, any good liberal has to be able to say he takes other views "into account."

This notion of a corporation is not very different from the way things now stand. The main difference is that at present, we do not pool our resources together in order to create a tangible product. We work for a wage, the grade. We rarely find pleasure in doing our school work. Each day we encounter difficulties which we wish there was a method for resolving. Union is the goal; we can get it without the corporation.

Clifford Monac is a Collegian Commentator.

---

more letters

Something's wrong at home

To the Editor:

In the Collegian this year there has been a number of articles and letters about the exploitation of woman in sexist advertising, of blacks in South Africa, and of the Third World by the United States. Well there seems to be very little written about the one exploitation that may kill our society and effects us all; self-exploitation. Self-gratification, sex, alcohol and drugs are used to the point that they hurt the user.

S.T.D. [Sexually Transmitted Diseases, formerly V.D.] is epidemic, alcoholism is high and so are the number of traffic deaths because of it.

Free sex is not free love, one being a biological act [that dogs and most other animals perform too] and the other an emotion. The real harm is erosion of the normal love and respect of people, couples, and a special way of showing affecting to a base animalistic act. Some people think of each other as toys — fun between the sheets — etc. And if she gets pregnant, well too bad [?]. Should half the world be free of responsibility for its actions?

And at a party everyone gets drunk to have a good time, fighting with friends, sipping their way into oblivion, getting sick, trying to drive home, and the next day we say we didn't mean it — we were drunk — not responsible, and your friend is hooked on horse, or O.D.ed on speed but it was an accident [s]he just wanted to feel good. And your-his-her dealer?

Let's look in the mirror — something's wrong at home.

Michael Trzcinski

minds matter

MITRE is an organization that faces the challenge of minds over matter each day.

We know that our unique resource is the human mind. And that the minds we seek are those that need to know they will be working with other professionals on challenging and significant problems.

As a nonprofit corporation operating in the public interest, our systems engineering projects provide answers to problems assigned to us by a score of national, state and local governmental agencies.

At MITRE we will demand a lot from you. And we expect you to demand a lot from us. Because at MITRE, minds matter.

Entry-level career assignments now exist for graduates to work on project areas that include Command and Control Systems, Information Processing Systems, Electronic Surveillance and Communications Systems.

We want to talk to Electrical Engineering, Computer Science, and Mathematics majors.

We want to tell you about the work we're doing. Work that you could be doing too. In Digital Information Systems • Data Handling and Reduction • Microprogramming Techniques • Microprocessor Applications • Software Development • System Analyses • Tactical Control Systems Engineering and Artificial Intelligence Software Design and Applications.

And that's not all. We want you to know about the work we're doing in Telecommunications • Voice Communications • Microwave and Digital Signal Processing • Radar Design • Digital Data Communications • Satellite Systems and Terminals • Circuit Message and Packet Switching Techniques.

We invite your further interest in MITRE, a place where minds matter.

Please make arrangements with your Placement Office to view our 12 minute color video tape presentation.

MITRE will be at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst on December 7, 1977

Sign up at your Placement Office for an on-campus interview with a member of our technical staff. If this isn't convenient, mail your resume to:

The MITRE Corporation
College Relations
8878 Middlesex Turnpike
Bedford, MA 01730

THE MITRE CORPORATION
An equal opportunity employer M/F

STOREWIDE STOCK-UP VALUES!

Super Savings . . . is what you get when you Shop the Finast during our store wide Stock-Up Sale. There's no end to the variety of wonderful budget pleasers . . . and they are all yours this week at the Finast!

Finast

Assorted Pork Chops $1.09 lb. Equal Amount of Center Cut, Sirloin Hip, Blade Chops
Center Cut Pork Chops $1.49 lb
Deli Style Herrud Sliced Ham $1.99 lb
Fresh Arm Picnic Pork Shoulder 68¢ lb

Boneless Top Round Roast $1.29 lb. also Round Tip Roast USDA CHOICE
Boneless Beef Round RumpRoast $1.39 lb
Boneless Beef Seamed EyeRound Roast $1.89 lb
Boneless Round Corned Beef $1.09 lb
Flat Cut Brisket lb 1.49

Boneless Shell Strip Steak $2.59 lb. Beef Loin Trimmed Formerly Sirloin Strip Steak USDA CHOICE
Boneless Beef Top Round Steak or Tip Steak Cap On $1.59 lb
Boneless Beef Round for stew $1.49 lb
Boneless Beef Round Kabobs $1.69 lb

Boneless Whole Shell Strips $1.98 lb. Whole Untrimmed USDA CHOICE
Perdue Oven Stuffer 5 to 7 lbs. Roasters 78¢ lb
Finast Meat or Beef Franks 78¢ lb
Regular or Thick Sliced Finast Bacon $1.09 lb

Star-Kist Solid White Tuna In Water or Oil 7 oz. can 78¢

Charmin Bathroom Tissue Squeezably Soft 4 roll pkg. 78¢

FRESH PRODUCE
Golden Ripe Bananas 5 lbs. $1
FIRST O' THE FRESH
Seedless Grapefruit Florida Seald-Sweet 32 Size 5 for $1
Western Anjou Pears 3 lbs $1
Fresh Lemons 6 for 49¢
Fresh Cucumbers Green 7 for $1

MR. DELI
Roast Beef Cooked to U.S. Govt. Specifications $1.99 lb.
Baked Ham Freshly Sliced to Order . . . half pound 1.19
Genoa Salami or Pepperoni . . . . lb 2.19
Mr. Deli Bologna or Liverwurst . . lb 1.19
Turkey Breast All White Meat . . half pound 1.29
Cooked Corned Beef . . . lb 1.99
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli.

GROCERY
Aim Toothpaste 20¢ Off Label 8.2 oz tube 88¢
Hunt's Fruit Cocktail . . 3 15 oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Peaches Sliced or Halves . 3 15 oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Pear Halves . . 3 15 oz cans 1.00
Franco American Spaghetti 5 14¾ oz cans $1
Ivory Soap Personal Size . . . 8 3½ oz bars 1.00
Tomatoes Del Monte Stewed . . 2 16oz cans 1.00
Sweet Peas Sugar Valley . . . 5 16oz cans 1.00

GROCERY
Green Giant Peas or Kitchen Sliced or French Cut Green Beans 3 16 oz. cans $1
Corned Beef Hash Mary Kitchen . 15½ oz can 59¢
Pie Crust Mix Betty Crocker or Pillsbury . 3 11 oz pkgs 1.00
U.S. Sugar Light Brown or Powdered . . . . 3 16 oz pkgs 1.00
Light Bulbs Norelco Soft White 60-75-100 Watt pkg. of 4 bulbs $1.19
Campbells Cream of Mushroom Soup . . 5 10¾ oz cans 1.00
Finast Apple Cider . . . . gal jug 1.79
Pringles Potato Chips Twin Pack . . . . 9 oz pkg 79¢

FROZEN FOOD
Richmond French Fries 5 9 oz. pkgs. $1

BEER & WINE SHOPPE
Miller Beer Case Only . . . . . . case of 24 12 oz cans 5.99
Melini Chianti . . . . . . . . half gal 4.29
Paul Masson Crackling Rose or Chablis . . 25oz bot 3.49
Folonari Wines . . . . . . . 67oz bot 3.69
Beer & Wine Items Available Only in Finast of Hadley.

IN-STORE BAKE SHOP
Cake Donuts Plain, Sugar, Cinnamon . doz 79¢
Assorted Turnovers . . . . 4 for 95¢
Italian Bread . . . . . . . 4 7 oz lvs 1.00
Available Only in Stores with In Store Bake Shop.

DAIRY VALUES
American Cheese Food Kraft Slices 12 oz pkg $1
Light 'n Lively Yogurt . 4 8 oz conts 1.00
Finast Sour Cream . . . 3 8 oz conts 1.00
Sealtest Ice Cream . . . half gal 1.49

BAKER STREET
Big Round Top White Bread . 3 20oz lvs 1.00
English Muffins . . . . . 3 pkgs of 6 1.00
Frankfurt Rolls . . . . . . 4 pkgs of 6 1.00
Bakery Items Available Tues. thru Sat.

25¢ OFF one dozen Finast Large Eggs White or Brown
FN H 846 Finast with this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more Valid Nov. 27 thru Dec. 3, 1977. Limit one

YOU SAVE 48¢ Finast Pot Pies Beef, Chicken, Turkey, Mac. & Cheese 5 8 oz pkgs $1
FN H 847 Finast with this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more Valid Nov. 27 thru Dec. 3, 1977. Limit one

YOU SAVE 26¢ Coca-Cola Fresca, Tab or Sprite 6-Pack 12 oz. cans 99¢
FN H 848 Finast with this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more Valid Nov. 27 thru Dec. 3, 1977. Limit one

YOU SAVE 51¢ Ice Cream Finast half gal. 88¢
FN H 849 Finast with this coupon & purchase of $7.50 or more Valid Nov. 27 thru Dec. 3, 1977. Limit one

YOU SAVE 70¢ Maxwell House Coffee $2.89 1 lb. can FN H 866 Finast with this coupon & $7.50 purchase or more Valid Nov. 27 thru Dec. 3, 1977. Limit one

Prices effective Sunday Nov. 27 thru Saturday Dec. 3, 1977
We reserve the right to limit quantities
Not responsible for typographical errors

Notices

CAMPUS SCOUTS
TOC meeting tomorrow night at 7:30.

INTERNATIONAL FOLK DANCING
Party Friday, 8-11 p.m. Skinner Auditorium.

CUSP
Meeting, Tobin 304, 7:30. All undergrad psych majors invited. Sponsored by the Council of Undergrad Psych Students.

CREDIT UNION
The credit union asks you to redeem your U.S. Food Stamps at the Food Stamp express window. Open 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday-Friday.

LSR SOCIETY
Voting for new officers. Curry Hicks lobby 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. You must pay your dues to vote, so bring $1 if you haven't paid.

CHESS
UMass Chess Club meeting tonight. CC 903.

GLOBE SANTA STARTS TODAY
Fund drive for the purchase of toys for impoverished children starts today until Dec. 16 with a table by the Wall. Please give generously.

MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
Important meeting in CC 101, 6 p.m. We will start selection proceedings for next semester's show.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
Meeting 7 p.m., Hasbrouck 44. Jeff Young will talk about the testing of optical surfaces.

STUDENTS OF OBJECTIVISM
Meeting, 8 p.m., CC 177. Those interested in a discussion of Ayn Rand's philosophy are invited to attend. Further info, call Drew Crane, 549-0360.

Internships from Womens Center

Everywoman's Center is accepting applications for an internship with the bimonthly Everywoman's Center Newsletter for next semester.

The intern could work from 7 to 15 hours per week and arrange for 3 to 6 credits. Applicants should have a fairly strong writing background and an excitement about the concept of women's news and women's media in general. As the Newsletter focus is both on and off campus the intern should also be familiar with and-or interested in the communities surrounding UMass.

The Newsletter seeks to be an anti-racist, anti-imperialist news vehicle, with an understanding of class issues as they relate to women and of lesbian issues.

The intern would work with three other women in production of the Newsletter. This includes developing story researching and writing articles, doing interviews, typing copy, and doing camera-ready layout.

Anyone interested should go to Everywoman's Center, or call 545-0883 and ask for Buffy. The deadline for applications is Dec. 2.

Federal funds for abortions

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Key Senate and House leaders yesterday drafted new language on the use of federal funds for abortions in hopes of breaking a deadlock which has stalled a $60 billion appropriations bill since June.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd said he hoped to obtain unanimous consent and bring the proposed compromise to the Senate floor by the end of the day.

If it passes, House leaders said they hope to bring the new language to the House floor for a vote before midnight Wednesday — the official expiration date for temporary funds to run the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and several smaller agencies.

Because of the abortion dispute, these agencies have had to operate on stop-gap funds provided by Congress in so-called "continuing resolutions" since Oct. 1. Twice they have come close to the point of not being able to pay their 150,000 workers.

If Congress doesn't settle the matter in some fashion by Dec. 8, those employes wil receive pay cuts just before Christmas.

The proposed compromise was worked out at a meeting among Byrd; Speaker Thomas O'Neill; Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee; Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., who has played the key Senate role in the dispute, and others.

The main new element in the proposal deals with the use of federal funds for abortions for poor women under the Medicaid program in cases of rape or incest.

The latest version would allow funding of "medical procedures" for victims of rape or incest, when the rape or incest has been reported to "a law enforcement agency or public health service or its equivalent."

House negotiators earlier wanted to limit this to cases of "forced" rape, thus ruling out instances in which an under-age girl might willingly have consented to sexual relations. But the word "forced" was dropped in the proposed compromise.

The House side also had wanted to limit funds to rape and incest cases reported to police, but senators felt this was too restrictive. They said many victims would be more willing to confide in a health official.

The proposed compromise also would allow abortion funds in cases where continued pregnancy would endanger the life of the mother — a point on which there was no disagreement — or cause "severe and long-lasting physical health damage" to the mother.

It would not allow abortion funds in cases where the health of the fetus otherwise would be damaged or where tests showed a likelihood of a deformed child.

Members of the International Longshoremens Association leave their work at the Port of Baltimore to vote 11-29 on a three year master contract and local agreement. If the contract are ratified, the longshoremen are expected to return to work 11-30, ending a two-month selective strike against containerized cargo.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY
3 Miles from Northampton
3 Miles From Amherst

OPEN MON., TUES., WED., & FRI. 9:30-5:30, THURS., 9:30-7, SAT., 9:30-3 P.M.

TIRES

CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.

MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.

SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS.

MAJOR BRANDS
SNOW-TIRE SPECIALS

BIAS PLY — Made by major U.S. Tire Mfgr's. Goodyear, Lee, Firestone, Seiberling, Armstrong, and many more.

| SIZE | TYPE | |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Alliance Sno White | 22.95 |
| 600x13 | LaHarve Sno White | 22.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear Black | 17.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear White | 20.95 |
| B78x13 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 20.95 |
| B78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Fire. T&C Black | 27.95 |
| 700x13 | Fire. T & C Black | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 27.95 |
| E78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 25.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Wht. | 30.95 |
| F78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. T&C Belt. Blk. | 31.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 32.95 |
| G78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 28.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. T&C White Blem. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 32.95 |
| H78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 29.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| 560x15 | Pirelli (VW) Black | 20.95 |
| 600x15 | Penn. Mud & Snow White | 24.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. T&C Mini/Sport Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 29.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 28.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power White | 30.95 |
| H78x15 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 33.95 |
| H78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 29.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire T&C Belt Blk. Bm. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Seiberling Sno White | 33.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire T&C Belt. White | 39.95 |

RADIAL SNOW TIRES

AMERICAN SIZE SNOW RADIALS FIRST QUALITY MADE BY ARMSTRONG, WHITEWALL.

| SIZE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|
| BR 78x13 | 35.95 |
| DR78x14 | 39 95 |
| ER78x14 | 40.95 |
| FR78x14 | 43.95 |
| GR78x14 | 45.95 |
| HR78x14 | 48.95 |
| GR78x15 | 46.95 |
| HR78x15 | 48.95 |
| LR78x15 | 49.95 |

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| BR78x13 | Fire. Run Silent. Blem | 36.95 |
| ER78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 47.95 |
| FR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 48.95 |
| GR78x14 | Fire. T&C W | 51.95 |
| HR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 56.95 |
| GR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 54.95 |
| HR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 56 95 |
| LR78x15 | Fire. T&C. W | 49.95 |

METRIC SNOW RADIALS

CONTINENTAL-CONTACT
STUD-LESS STEEL RADIAL
SNOW TIRE

| | |
|---|---|
| 145x13 | $33.95 |
| 155x13 | $37 95 |
| 165x13 | $39.95 |
| 165x14 | $43.95 |
| 165x15 | $42.95 |

Plus Other Sizes

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 165x13 | Fulda Stud-Less | 34 95 |
| 185x14 | Fulda Stud-Less | 44.95 |
| 155x15 | Fire. T&C Bk. | 24 95 |
| 165x15 | Fire. T&C Wht. | 37 95 |

MICHELIN XM&S SNOW TIRES AT over 25% DISCOUNT

ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX

RECAP SNOW'S
ANY SIZE
$15.95 PLUS TAXES

MIDWAY BETWEEN AMHERST & NORTHAMPTON
Amherst
Hadley Center
RTE. 9
Conn. River
Exit 19
I-91
North-ampton
Coolidge Bridge
SAVE ON TIRES

SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY
Cash and Carry or Bank Americard Master Charge
Hours Mon.-Fri. 9:30-5:30 Sat. 9:30-3 Thurs. 9:30-7 p.m.
586-2544

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies

These gifts are sure to be a hit!

On sale now thru Saturday, December 3.
Shop until 10:00 P.M.

Unusually heavy demands may require our setting reasonable quantity limits on some of the items in fairness to all customers.

3.66 LP SERIES 798
EMERSON, LAKE AND PALMER: Works, Vol. II
8-TRACK SERIES 795 4.94

3.66 LP SERIES 798
SHAUN CASSIDY: Born Late
8-TRACK SERIES 795 4.94

3.66 LP SERIES 798
CHICAGO: Chicago XI
8-TRACK SERIES 795 4.94

3.66 LP SERIES 798
CAPTAIN & TENNILLE: Greatest Hits
8-TRACK SERIES 795 4.94

3.99 LP SERIES 698
MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM SESAME STREET
8-TR. SERIES 695 4.44
© Children's Television Workshop

3.99 LP SERIES 798
ELVIS PRESLEY: Moody Blue
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.44

3.99 LP SERIES 698
JOHN DENVER: Rocky Mountain Christmas
8-TR. SERIES 695 4.44

3.99 LP SERIES 698
THE SALSOUL ORCH.: Christmas Jollies
8-TR. SERIES 695 4.44

2.99 LP SERIES 498
BING CROSBY: Merry Christmas
8-TR. SERIES 595 3.99

3.99 LP SERIES 498
BARBRA STREISAND: A Christmas Album
8-TR. SERIES 695 4.99

3.99 LP SERIES 498
ANDY WILLIAMS: Merry Christmas
8-TR. SERIES 695 4.99

4.24 LP SERIES 798
OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN: Greatest Hits
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

3.99 REG. 4.28
THE HOBBIT: Single LP

99¢ REG. 1.27
THE HOBBIT: 45 rpm & book set

5.99 REG. 6.47
THE HOBBIT: 2 record set

4.24 LP SERIES 798
ALICE COOPER: Alive
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.24 LP SERIES 798
RANDY NEWMAN: Little Criminals
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.24 LP SERIES 798
KANSAS: Point Of Know Return
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.24 LP SERIES 798
BAY CITY ROLLERS: Greatest Hits
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.24 LP SERIES 798
DAVID BOWIE: 'Heroes'
8-TR. SERIES 795 4.94

4.49 OUR REG. 4.99
Pro-ionizer record cleaning kit includes cleaner, fluid, stylus brush and carry case.

1.49 OUR REG. 1.99
Vinyl carry case holds fifty 45 rpm records.

2.99 OUR REG. 3.99
8-track case holds 24 tapes.

Some regular prices may vary by store.

A&M RCA WB MCA

BankAmericard master charge

11-4-1

BRADLEES — KING ST. — NORTHAMPTON

Emerson, Lake and Palmer Works Vol. II
Wilmette Evanston Chicago East Chicago
CAPTAIN & TENNILLE'S GREATEST HITS
Merry Christmas Sesame Street
ELVIS Moody Blue
JOHN DENVER Rocky Mountain Christmas
THE SALSOUL ORCHESTRA
Merry Christmas
Merry Christmas Andy Williams
OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN'S GREATEST HITS
HOBBIT
J.R.R. TOLKIEN
Alice Cooper Alive
RANDY NEWMAN Little Criminals
Includes Short People Baltimore Kathleen You Can't Fool the Fat Man
KANSAS
Bay City Rollers Greatest Hits
"HEROES" DAVID BOWIE
PICKWICK
PRO-IONIZER

Federal Judge withdraws nomination for FBI director

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Alabama federal Judge Frank Johnson Tuesday asked to be withdrawn from nomination as FBI director for reasons of health, reopening the talent hunt for a successor to the retiring Clarence Kelley.

Announcing Johnson's decision in Washington, Attorney General Griffin Bell — who personally chose the Alabaman — said he would "let the dust settle" for two weeks before proposing a replacement nominee to President Carter.

Later, Johnson issued a formal statement through his Alabama office saying, "I have this date formally requested the president of the United States to withdraw my nomination to be the director of the FBI."

He noted he had undergone surgery for a ballooned abdominal artery in August, just after Carter nominated him, and added: "My rate of recovery is very slow.

"It is evident to me that it will be several more months before I will regain my strength and stamina. It will not be fair to the FBI or me to keep this matter pending further."

"Judge Johnson made the decision on his own," Bell told reporters in Washington.

"For me, this is, of course, a most unfortunate turn of events. It is also unfortunate for the president, for the FBI and the nation."

Johnson, 59, underwent successful surgery Aug. 26 for the condition known as an abdominal aortic aneurysm, but later developed hernias that weakened his condition.

Asked how he will choose a replacement, Bell said he will wait two weeks "to let the dust settle.... let things calm down, percolate, and hope some lightning might strike during that two weeks."

But he said he will consult with Kelley soon, apparently to ask if the outgoing director will serve beyond his scheduled Jan. 1 retirement date until Johnson's replacement can be confirmed by the Senate. Kelley has indicated he might stay on another three months.

Otherwise, a high FBI official may be named acting director. Bell said he told Carter last week Johnson was "having second thoughts..... so this is not a complete surprise to the president."

Bell selected Johnson Aug. 17 after searching nearly eight months.

He interviewed 100 applicants himself, then persuaded Carter in February to name a nine-member search commission to help screen prospects.

The commission eventually gave Carter a list of five names — none of them Johnson's — on June 20. But Bell continued his own search after that.

Bell said he has not ruled out the commission's five choices, but will not be bound by them.

SOUTHINGTON, CONN.: Four year old Sabby Urecillo of New Britain, gets a helping push from a family friend; Gary Ginso of New Britain, as skiing in Connecticut started on two feet man-made snow with the opening of a ski area in Southington, Monday night.

'Black hole' discovered in space by x-ray detectors

WASHINGTON [UPI] — First results from a large astronomical satellite suggest its powerful X-ray detectors may have discovered a "black hole" in space, the theoretical remains of a star so compressed nothing can escape its gravity.

Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Naval Research Laboratory reported the observation at a space agency briefing yesterday and emphasized the intriguing X-ray source will require much more study before any conclusions can be reached.

If additional observations confirm the initial findings, the object wo~~uld come the~~ closest yet to the way scientists believe a black hole should act.

Black holes are believed to represent the final stage of the collapse of a heavyweight star. Friedman said the remnants would be shrunk "to a physically unimaginable, infinitesimal volume and infinite density."

The suspected black hole is called Circinus X-1. It is in the southern hemisphere but its distance from Earth is unknown.

Astronomers first suggested in 1974 that Circinus X-1 might be a black hole because observations from a smaller astronomical satellite showed Circinus had characteristics similar to those of another X-ray source known as Cygnus X-1 which also is suspected of being a black hole.

The new National Aeronautics and Space Administration satellite, called High Energy Astronomical Observatory or HEAO, was launched last August and examined Circinus X-1 briefly while mapping the celestial sphere for distant sources of X-rays.

Friedman, one of four principal investigators in the HEAO project, said the big satellite observed "very striking" bursts of X-rays from Circinus. It is the pattern of these bursts that are suggestive of the kind astronomers believe a black hole should produce.

Because a black hole would not allow any type of radiation to escape its immense pull, astronomers can only detect its existence by studying its space environment.

If a black hole has a normal, companion star as scientists believe, it would draw gas from the companion. That gas would circulate in a disc around the black hole and slowly feed into the black hole. As it approaches the black hole, the gas would become hot enough to emit X-rays.

Friedman said theory says the disc of gas drawn from the companion star would spin around the black hole. Conditions there would be very turbulent, causing the X-rays to be emitted in frequent, erratic bursts.

He said the preliminary data suggest Circinus X-1 might be such a twisting, gaseous disc which can distort X-ray emissions.

"It's the kind of differentiation that we've been looking for," he said.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet
NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE
España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50: Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

Academy of Music
Northampton
NOW — ONLY AREA SHOWING
Ends Tues.-7:00 & 9:00
"A terrifically intelligent comedy."
ALAIN TANNER'S
JONAH who will be 25 IN THE YEAR 2000
(no dollar nights)
at the Gates of Smith College

What's Happening

TODAY

WORKSHOPS

—A life-work planning workshop led by Louise Burroughs for history and related majors will be held Wednesdays, beginning today and for the next two weeks, at Berkshire House 318. Sponsored by the Community Development Center.

—If you are planning on teaching either elementary of secondary education in the near future, this workshop, "Crucial Steps for Landing Your First Teaching Job," could help. Experts in the field of certification, resume writing, and interviewing will be speaking about this subject. 7-9 p.m., School of Education, 1st floor lounge.

LECTURES

—James King, member of the National Transportation and Safety Board, former Chief of Personnel for President Carter and Administrative Assistant to Senator Kennedy will speak on "Politics from Inside and Outside the White House," at 4 p.m., CC 168-170.

—Sara Lennox, assistant professor of German at UMass, Lucien Miller, associate professor of comparative literature at UMass, and Frederic Will, professor of comparative literature at UMass, will speak "On Marxist Criticism." Sponsored by the department of comparative literature.

—Dr. Charles Cantor, departments of chemistry and biological sciences at Columbia University will speak on Ribosome tRNA Ineractions at 4 p.m. in 203 Graduate Research Tower A. Coffee served at 3:45 p.m.

DISCUSSION

"Marx and Democratic Socialism: Friends or Foes?" 7:30 p.m., CC 178. Introduced by V. Holesovsky. For further information call Shawme Hutcheson, 546-9146. Sponsored by Young People's Socialist League-Social Democrats, USA.

FILM

—"The Other Francisco," Coolidge Tower, 12th floor lounge, 7:30 and 9:30.

TOMORROW

FILMS

—"A Nous La Liberte", Rene Clair's masterpiece, will be shown as part of the Film Classics Series. 7 p.m. in classroom 2. Sponsored by the Newman Club.

—"The Dybbuk" Thomson 104, 8 p.m., a Tiddish film classic, based on S. Ansky's play in which a spirit inhabits the body of a young woman. English subtitles.

—"The Fountainhead," Mahar Aud. 7 and 9:30 p.m., $1. Also showing is "The Incredible Bread Machine," a half hour film produced by students in California and designed to raise questions about an alternative economic system — the free market. Sponsored by the Students of Objectivism.

—"Logan's Run," SU Ballroom, 7, 9 and 11:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Program Council. Admission.

LECTURES

—"Race and Cuba" is the topic of a panel discussion with Prof. Ernest Allen and Prof. Jonetta Cole. Refreshments. Coolidge Tower, 12th floor lounge.

—"Scriptural Manipulation and Rhetoric of Love in the Middle Ages" by University of California Prof. Joseph Purkhart. Herter Hall, 6th floor history lounge, 8 p.m.

TODAY

LUNCH — Brown Derby Sandwich, Fried Clam Plate, Basics: Fried Clam Plate, Lima Bean Stew

DINNER — Braised Beef and Onions, Roast Fresh Ham, Fruit Plate, Basics: Baked Fish, Cheese Nut Loaf

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Deli Ham on a roll, Broccoli Cauliflower Casserole, Basics: Broccoli Cauliflower Casserole, Lentil Patties

DINNER — Baked Chicken, Chopped Beefsteak Special, Basics: Baked Chicken, Herbed Soybean Casserole

Snow Policy

The major objective of snow removal activities at times of severe storms is to make it possible to hold classes and conduct all University activities in as normal a way as possible. Since a large number of the faculty, staff, and student population normally bring cars onto campus, it is important to understand what policies and procedures to follow in the event of a severe storm that temporarily limits parking capacity on campus.

Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary beginning at 6 a.m. and continuing periodically during the day. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst AM 1430, WHMP-Northampton AM 1400, WHAI-Greenfield AM 1240, WARE-Ware AM 1250, WCAT-Orange AM 1390, WHYN-Springfield AM 560, WFCR-Amherst FM 88.5, WTIC-Hartford AM 1080, WACE-Springfield AM 730, WTAG-Worcester AM 580, WSPR-Springfield AM 1270, WMUA-Amherst FM 91.1. It is important that you stay tuned to your radio for additional information in the event of a change. Do not call the University for this information.

In order to facilitate snow removal, parking will be prohibited in the lots listed below between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m., from Dec. 1 to April 1, as provided for in the Motor Vehicle Regulations Manual approved by the Board of Trustees on Nov. 2, 1977. In addition, as provided for in the regulations, no overnight parking will be permitted on any roadway except Thatcher Way.

Overnight parking is specifically prohibited on the Lot 50 horseshoe in Southwest and the Lot 47 roadway circling the Sylvan area. Overnight parking in the Stadium peripheral lot is restricted to the back(west) portion of the lot. Overnight parking will continue to be available in lots other than those listed below.

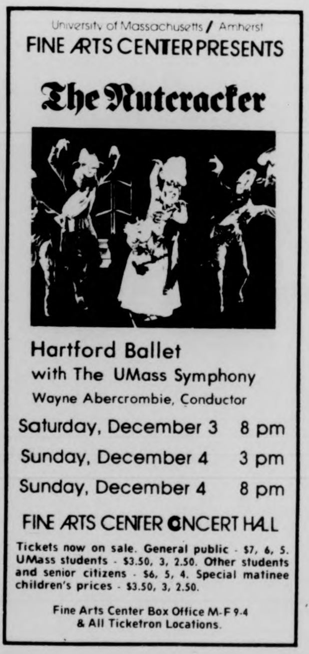
—Lot 62 (south of Clark Hall)
—Lot 63 (west of Worcester Dining Hall)
Lot 40 (north of Boyden)
—Lot 25 (south of Access Road to peripheral lot and the adjacent peripheral lot)
—Lot 65 (located between Stockbridge and Engineering buildings)
—Lot 26 (west of Engineering and Physics Shop)
Lot 31 (north and east of Engineer and Physics Shop)
Lot 66 (north of School of Education)
Lot 34 (south of SBA)
—Lot 71 (west of Whitmore)

Every effort will be made to keep the bus service operating. Snow day schedule changes will be announced on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM. Call 545-2086 for operating schedules during snow storms.

It is strongly recommended that anyone who normally brings a car onto campus consider making use of the University bus service during periods of heavy snow storms.

THE PINK PANTHER
Original w/ Peter Sellers
Date: Nov. 30, 1977 Place: CC Auditorium
Time: 7,9,11 Adm: 1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50 — Students with AMC Card $2.00 — Children $1.25 — Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
Why have they come?
ROBERT VAUGHN
CHRISTOPHER LEE
STARSHIP INVASIONS
PG
1 Wed. at (6:30, 8:30) Twi-lite Show Tickets(6:00)/$1.50
A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away
STAR WARS
PG
2 Wed. 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite Show Tickets(5:30)/$1.50
THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN
PG
3 Wed. 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite Show Tickets(6:00)/$1.50
The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film.
I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN
R
4 Wed. at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite Show Tickets(6:00)/$1.50
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING
CHOOSE ONE OF THESE MIDNIGHT SHOWS-FRI. & SAT.
Marlon Brando Last Tango in Paris
WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A NAKED LADY?
$2.00



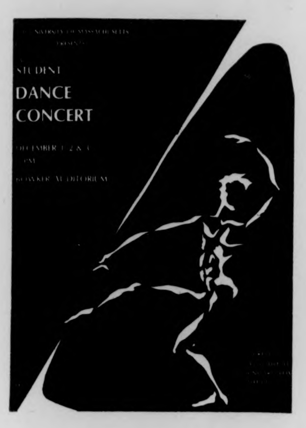
University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Nutcracker
Hartford Ballet
with The UMass Symphony
Wayne Abercrombie, Conductor
Saturday, December 3 8 pm
Sunday, December 4 3 pm
Sunday, December 4 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4. Special matinee children's prices - $3.50, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

LET'S GO BOWLING
Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30
50 cents a string

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music"
People Magazine
Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

---

Program Council Films Presents:
LOGAN'S RUN
Starring: Michael York & Farrah Fawcett Majors
Thurs., Dec. 1 7,9:15 & 11:30
SUB $1.00
PG MGM FILMS INCORPORATED THEATRE Released thru United Artists



STUDENT DANCE CONCERT

John Riley has the save on his stick on a shot from an unidentified American International forward in a recent UMass 10-8 loss to the Yellow Jackets. The Minutemen continued their losing ways last night as they were upset by the UConn Huskies, 3-1. The Minutemen hockey team will hopefully get untracked soon as they possess a disappointing 1-3 mark. The road won't be easy though, as the icemen travel north this weekend to face Middlebury and Norwich. To make matters even worse, the Minutemen conclude their schedule before intersession with encounters away from Amherst against the likes of Army and Merrimack. See story on Page 28. (Staff photo Dave Rodgers)

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
VARSITY HOCKEY — UMass 1 UConn 3
TODAY
VARSITY MEN'S BASKETBALL — vs. Harvard Away 7:30
VARSITY WOMEN'S BASKETBALL — vs. Radcliffe Away 5:30
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — vs. Boston State Home 7:30
TOMORROW
None

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

☐ AUDIO
☐ AUTO FOR SALE
☐ CALCULATORS
☐ ENTERTAINMENT
☐ FOR RENT
☐ FOR SALE
☐ FOUND
☐ HELP WANTED
☐ INSTRUCTION
☐ LOST
☐ MISC.
☐ MOTORCYCLES
☐ PERSONALS
☐ PHOTO EQUIP.
☐ RIDE WANTED
☐ RIDERS WANTED
☐ ROOM WANTED
☐ SERVICES
☐ TO SUBLET
☐ TRAVEL
☐ WANTED
☐ WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#:__________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

BARGAIN 1974 Datsun 710 station wgn. Standard tran. 4500,$1,700 or B.O. 253-9792.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

69 Buick—sta-wgn. Exc. Mec. cond., air-cond., 9 seater, sun roof top, new brakes—549-6188.

1965 Volkswagon. Recent king pins and paint. Looks and runs good. Asking $250. or best offer. Call 584-4745.

73 Saab 96. Looking for good home $1,425. firm. Laury584-0070, lv. msg. if nec.

73 Vega Wgn. Std., AM/FM HT/Air, new tires, clutch, ex. cond. $1,100./BO Tom 549-4036.

MOTORCYCLES

1972 Honda 2000 total miles. Orig. owner $300. 253-5559.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10. 14. 50. Call 538-3181

New Dingo Boots size 8½ women's $35.00. Call Eileen 253-7888.

Nikko 6065. 2 months old. Asking $350. or best offer 546-5084

Ski Boots! 2 pr. ladies 7. Pr. Nortalias, Pr. Kastingers. Call now - Debbie 6-9643.

Univox 50 Watt Amp. Ex. cond., reverb etc. Best offer 6-7985 after 7p.m.

Harmony 12 string. $125. or BO 665-4762.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Flute—Gemeinhardt, solid silver head & keys. List $350&ask $250. Barely used 546-4749

Snow tires. Good cond. Robin 546-1447.

FOR RENT

3 bedroom house, 285+, pets ok, avail. Jan. 3, 256-6732; days 51981 (Chris).

3 bedroom Apt, fair condition, for Dec 1st, in Northampton. Only $165. Call Skibiski Real Estate 584-3428 4-6 p.m.

1-Bdrm. Apt. Cats allowed. $180. mo. incl. all util. Avail. Jan. 1 549-6740.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

2½rm furn apt all utls inc. Pool, parking, A/C, 230 mo. Amherst Motel & Apts, Rt 9 opp Zayres, 256-8122.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

Cliffside 2br. $230. inc. 665-4762.

3 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1½ Bdrm. Spg. Sem. $207. a mo. John 549-1298.

WANTED

Female to share two bedroom apt. in Sund. bus $75+. Call 665-4416 ask for Alix.

Housemate wanted. Neat, responsible, nonsmoking. Grad student or professional to share roomy cooperative home on UMass bus route in Amherst. Begin Jan. 1 $125. + utilities. 253-5849 call evenings.

HELP WANTED

Position available to a college student to represent travel company on campus for Spring Break trips to Florida. CONTACT: Beachcomber Tours, Inc., 174 Hancock St., Stoneham, Mass. 02180 Tel. 617-438-5798.

Typist wanted full time 60 w/p/m min. formating skills and familiarity with IBM Selectric desirable. Good pay and benefits. Call Barbara at 549-2846 for more information.

VETS, unless you have a part time job that pays $7.00/hr. don't call this number 256-6381-Al Lasota-Nat. Guard Rep.-Vets have the right to join on a trial basis-no haircuts.

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models low prices. Jack 586-0610.

LAST SUPPER! by HRTA students for semester. Homemade chicken noodle soup, sweet & sour pork, rice pilaf, veg, homemade bread, coconut pudding polynesian. Mon.,Tues.,Wed., Thus. at 4:30. Lunch Tues. at noon. $1.75. Tix must be bot in advance, rm. 219 Chenoweth Lab.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

Electronic repair: stereos, you name it. Low rates. Call Ted after 4P.M. 546-6201.

Typing - $.40/page. Call anytime 549-6655.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco. Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

TRAVEL

Fly to Ft. Lauderdale. $305 Jan. 1-8, $295 Jan 8-15 inc. accomodations at the Jolly Roger Hotel on the beach. OR: economy bus trip to same destination, Jan. 1-15 for $259. Contact Jim Nechin, UMass rep. for Garber Travel. Reserve Now! 6-7495

PERSONALS

Tony- we met at the PGA Halloween Dance. You're a student and I'm a teacher in Greenfield. I drove you back to your place. I want to see you again but have no way to get in touch. Please write me: Ron, One Harrison Ave., Greenfield, 01301.

Happy Birthday Michael. Love Wonder Woman.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

SCHMIDT'S VS. AMNESIA

Schmidt of Philadelphia
QUALITY SINCE 18
JACK DAVIS

Everybody does it
once in a while.
You forgot who discovered America.
Or your Mother's birthday. Or a friend's name.
There's nothing you can do about it now. It's too late.
Go have a Schmidt's.
It'll help you forget.

Schmidt's
The beer that might make Philadelphia famous.

C. SCHMIDT & SONS, INC., PHILA., PA.

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

SO WHAT'S BEEN GOING DOWN WHILE WE WERE AWAY, MARK?
I THOUGHT YOU KNEW, Z! WE'RE GETTING READY FOR OUR ANNUAL SIXTIES REVIVAL PARTY!
FAR FREAKIN' OUT! WHAT CAN I DO TO HELP?
WELL, IF YOU HAVE NO OBJECTIONS, WHY DON'T YOU TAKE CHARGE OF THE REFRESHMENTS?
DONE! WHAT SHOULD I GET? SAME AS LAST YEAR?
UM.. I DUNNO.. WHAT'D WE SERVE?
GRANOLA AND DRUGS.
OH, RIGHT.. THAT WAS A LITTLE LEAN. I'D GET SOME COLESLAW, TOO.
11-30
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

DAD,...BEFORE I SHOW YOU MY REPORT CARD....
..LET ME REMIND YOU THAT EINSTEIN'S PARENTS CONSIDERED HIM A "DOLT" TILL HE PASSED PUBERTY.
...THAT'S NOT EVEN ON YOUR CURRICULUM, YOU DOLT!
11-30
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

MA'AM, MAY I SEE YOUR BOX OF LITTLE GOLD STARS?
WOW! LOOK AT 'EM ALL! LOOK HOW SHINY THEY ARE!
THE NEXT TIME YOU STICK SOME ON ANY PAPERS, MA'AM, LET ME KNOW...
I'LL LICK 'EM FOR YOU!
11-30
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Whatcha doin'?
Watching TV.
What's on at this hour?
Channel three's test pattern.
Why are you watching that?
I thought there might be an event or something.
Is there?
No, but I haven't seen a commercial in two hours.
Ranney 11/30

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

THE TRANSPORT CHAIR TAKES OFF WITH PHENOMENAL SPEED!
WHOOOSH!
ARRIVING AT LAST TO ITS DESTINATION, THE EARTH-EQUIVALENT OF A MUSEUM.
THE CHAIR STOPS IN FRONT OF A WALL DECORATED SOMEWHAT LIKE A MURAL. DENNIS PRESSES A BUTTON ON HIS CHAIR ARM, AS HE IS DIRECTED: A BEAM OF LIGHT STABS OUT...
KLIK-KLAK-KLIK!
ZZZZNT!
AND A SECTION OF THE WALL SLIDES UP TO REVEAL...
A FIGHTING SUIT, THE GREATEST WEAPON THE CREATORS EVER DESIGNED!!
11-30
ROLLINS

UM by Marty Maceda

THAT SPACEY JIVE JUST DON'T MAKE IT MAN. JOKES! THAT'S WHAT MAKES IT!
JOKES?
YOU THINK I CAN'T MAKE UP JOKES?!
OH YEAH! WELL HOW ABOUT THIS? ...ER ..UM.. UH... ER.
ER... YEAH!
HOW DOES A BACTERIA SAY GOODBYE?
HOW?
WITH A MICROWAVE! HOWZAT?
GOODBYE!
MACEDA 11-18

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

HOW DID BENB BECOME BENB?
HE WAS NORMAL ENOUGH AS A YOUTH...
ONE DAY, HOWEVER, HE MUNCHED OUT ON 1,502 CHOCLATE DONUTS!
WHEN HE WOKE UP THE NEXT MORNING, HE WAS BENB!
?!
LAFLER 11/30

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30 — Born today, you are a gentle person, but you possess the kind of forceful personality that makes you able to persuade almost anyone into almost anything. This is more than a character trait, it is a large responsibility which carries with it the possibility of maneuvering others into positions they really would rather not take. All will go well if you recognize both your ability to persuade and the responsibility that goes with it.

You have latent artistic gifts which should rise as you mature. However, do not jump from one aspect of art to another to satisfy your creative urge. Select a single artistic ladder and put your energies toward that. You should find within a short time that you have progressed with ease to a point where others begin to take you seriously.

You have a free and open personality that draws to you and to your service people of interest and influence, who will be of help to your career, your social life, and in attaining personal happiness. Your response to your own abilities is very refreshing, for you always seem somewhat surprised to discover that you are capable of doing almost anything you decide to do.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1

SAGITTAIRUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Resist looking a gift horse in the mouth. Be grateful for favors small and large.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — You should be rewarded for efforts recently made for another. There is little chance of failure today.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Avoid excessive physical activity today. You could overdo things at just the wrong point.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Routine may have soured you on activities at home. Get out; get active. Use talents you've been hiding.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — An instinctive dislike of the harmful should guard you today. Trust your own, not another's know-how.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Home surroundings, though not luxurious, should be very welcome. Morning brings you contact with new friends.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Elegance can take you far today in meeting people of influence. Mind your manners!

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Attractiveness is essential to gain the support of others. You need be neat and clean rather than handsome.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) - Take issue with your partner, business or domestic, and this will be a memorable day, for better or worse.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — What appears to be running smoothly may be on a very bumpy road. Friends and associates have answers you seek.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Give loving attention to those you would impress with your concern. Deeds, not words, say it all.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — A desire to make a change must be dealt with early today. Phone calls set another straight without more delay.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

1 Travel a distance: 2 words
6 Gone by 10 Hastened
14 Life's beginning
15 Singer Paul ----
16 Mata ----
17 Cotton packages
18 Kind of ray: Var.
20 Not healthy
21 "So long"
23 Decree
24 Push aside
26 Works against
28 Have hopes
30 Hereditary system
31 Game birds
32 Talking unclearly
36 Exist
37 Confused fight
38 Baby kangaroo
39 Old World thrushes
42 ----- Jaw, Sask.
44 Cubicles
45 Big Hollywood name
46 Cheerful
49 Hard to chew
50 Bakery equipment
51 Unite
52 Harem room
55 Maxwell Anderson drama
58 Actress Sophia -----
60 Noun ending
61 British peer
62 Influx
63 Clarinet
64 Force unit
65 Impoverished

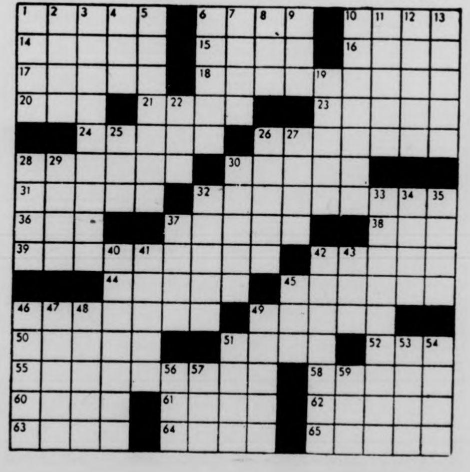
DOWN

1 Asian desert
2 Egg-shaped
3 "---- ----- ahead"
4 Pothouse specialty
5 Make like new
6 Adhesive
7 Rectangular pier
8 Snow runner
9 Skin color
10 Less legit
11 French city
12 Pointing up
13 Eating plans
19 "Beau -----"
22 Hail!
25 He owns it
26 Deserves
27 Italian community
28 Culture medium
29 Withered: Var.
30 Sects
32 Eur. blackbird
33 Pioneer locomotive: 2 words
34 Aircraft part
35 Active one
37 Fountain drink
40 Perfumed
41 Mock
42 Effusively sentimental
43 Soc.
45 Finished first
46 Oarsman
47 Of sheep
48 Import
49 Sports championship
51 Swiss city
53 Act
54 Crawling with insects
56 Blood-like
57 Speak
59 Undivided

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved:

PAINS WISP SPAD
ENVOY ATTU TIME
STATE DEEM ANON
TENANT REMOTELY
RIOT DERIDES
ENTITLED LAC
PUREE TAMED WED
IDES GORED BALE
CEE SANER SENSE
MIN DICTATED
STRANGE TART
PROTESTS MISERS
ROOT THIS NORAH
ENSE ENNA GUISE
EATS ROOD STEEP



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65

Brohamer may ink Red Sox pact

BOSTON [UPI] — Free agent infielder Jack Brohamer appears headed for the Boston Red Sox, it was learned yesterday.

Ed Kleven, representative for the 27-year-old utility player, declined to confirm or deny reports Brohamer has agreed to terms. But Kleven did say Brohamer would sign with either Boston or Milwaukee.

"I'm hopeful he will sign with Boston," Kleven said in a telephone interview from his Brookline office. "But I can't say anything one way or the other right now."

But a source close to the veteran infielder said Brohamer has agreed to play for Boston.

Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan and Kleven have had several conservations in the past week. They talked again yesterday. Sullivan was not immediately available for comment.

Brohamer was at a dentist's office in San Diego when UPI tried to contact him. But his wife said from their San Diego home, "I don't know anything about this. He hasn't said anything to me."

Kleven said he would talk again today with Sullivan.

Brohamer, who batted .257 in 59 games last season for the Chicago White Sox, reportedly agreed to a three-year contract for approximately $300,000.

His lifetime batting average is .241 after playing six seasons with the Cleveland Indians and Chicago. He has played shortstop, second and third base in his professional career.

While refusing to affirm the report, Kleven said, "Jack was only drafted by four teams:

Boston, Milwaukee, California and the New York Yankees. California already has eight second basemen.

"And the Yankees? That's preposterous. There's no way he could get to play there. What would he do, carry Willie Randolph's shoes?" Kleven said.

Boston already has signed two free agents, pitchers Mike Torrez and Dick Drago. Management has concentrated the past week on shoring up its infield.

Hawks, 108-101

ATLANTA (UPI) — Tom McMillen's 13 points led a fourth quarter Atlanta surge last night, as the Hawks went on a 19-2 scoring binge enroute to a 108-101 victory over the Boston Celtics.

Down 81-67 after three quarters, the Hawks' surge vaulted them into an 86-83 lead with 8:27 left in the game. The Hawks put the Celtics away with five straight points with three minutes left in the game.

Pacing the Celtics, who led at half time 64-51, were Charlie Scott's 29 points and Dave Bing's 17. John Brown paced the Hawks with 22 points Ron Behagen followed in the scoring parade with 20 and McMillen finished with 17.

Bill Tarter

A stroll down memory lane

Bob Ryan recently wrote a column entitled, "Football we could live without you-Thank You!" He commented on the brutality of the game, the crippling injuries, and the concept of the team that gets the most agile goliaths will succeed. I think it's fair to assume football is not Ryan's favorite pastime. In fact it's not even his idea of an athletic event.

To many folks around this sports-minded region, Ryan's Ramblings constituted heresy. Judging from the vitriolic reaction, you would have thought he had condemned hamburgers, ice cream, the "Fonz", the Mafia and all our other hallowed American traditions. Others were a little more passive, but equally disturbed.

"Bob Ryan we could live without you - Thank You!", said one football faithful.

If Monsieur Ryan was seeking attention with his column he certainly got a full dosage. The kind you would find in a bottle marked XXX.

I concede Ryan made some sense, but the thought of doing away with football entirely, now that's a bit drastic. I found myself trying to rationalize how I developed an affection towards Walter Camp's brainstorm and I could not for the life of me know where to begin. I get this impression I must have been born in front of a television waving a NY Giants banner (that was before the Patriots came into existence). My first spoken words — so I've been told — were "Big Daddy." My father was proudly taking bows in honor of the occasion, "that's my boy," not realizing I was referring to Big Daddy Lipscomb, the Colts' defensive end. While still a toddler I began devloping my forward pass with out pet cat. Just when I was beginning to perfect the spiral she decided to run away.

It just seems as though football was always a part of me. I feel sorry for Bob Ryan. It's unfortunate he can't enjoy sharing many of the memories and thrills football has provided for the millions in this country.

There are many football events that will be etched in my mind. Even a stroll down memory lane with the Patriots provides many heart-warming moments.

Joe Kapp's patented moon balls bring back a smile. Fans in Harvard Stadium (the site of his most splendid examples) rarely had the courage to watch the end result of those passes.

While the ball was on its downward flight about 30,000 fans would simultaneously put their hands over their eyes unable to watch the pending tragedy. Invariably the hang time of Kapp's helium balloons allowed half the defense to surround the unfortunate recipient (usually Ron Sellers). You could hear the linebackers and defensive backs smacking the lips in anticipation. Poor Ron! He was accused during his tenure with the Patriots of hearing footsteps. That was the understatement of the year. It was more like a stampede.

Who can forget some of the stars of the past such as Jim Nance and Gino Cappeletti and what they meant to us. Among their many accomplishments was the fact they discovered the true meaning of the word slow. Retired cornerbacks around the league are still waiting for Gino to turn on his rumored burst of speed. You can bet it was sly Gino who started the rumors. Mercifully, neither man was timed for the 40-yard dash. Explaining the reasoning behind this, the coaches usual reply was "long unnecessary interruptions are detrimental to the practices."

In the same tradition as Miller Lite Beer, Heinz Ketchup was reported to be looking for athletes to endorse their product. A few film clips of the dynamic duo would be the ideal soultion to their commercial. Can't you just imagine Jimbo plowing up the middle for one of his celebrated one yard thrusts, and Gino doing the "fly pattern" like only he could do it. It would be a classic.

In other recollections — I will forever be indebted to the Patriots for allowing me to witness my first fire. A few of the fans at BC Stadium were not too excited by the game (an exhibition with Washington) and decided to liven things up. So naturally they decided to torch the stands. To the disbelief of the players, they were suddenly being joined by about 5,000 fans who were not so anxious to roast marshmallows in the smouldering seats. Soon the flames engulfing one side of the stadium rose to about 20 feet, with the fans and players watching in mutual admiration. It was the general consensus of everybody present (including the players) to pardon the culprits. This was definitely more exciting than the game.

Later that season in the Patriots finale at BC stadium, they played in a horrendous monsoon. The heavens made sure there would be no fires to interrupt the proceedings. The field was a quagmire. After the opening tackles you literally couldn't tell the players apart, they were so caked in mud.

Bob Ryan would not understand the term devotion unless he sat through this game absorbing water on the brain like I did, along with a few thousand fellow psychotics.

Whenever a clean uniformed player came off the bench you could see a gleeful look appear in the opposition. In typical Longest Yard fashion they usually had a remedy for him. On one play Carl Garrett, the Pats' halfback, took acception to being dragged and buried into the ooze by half a ton of beef. As he reapperared out of the ground he picked up a handful of the finest mud he could find and did a perfect slam dunk into the face of Miami's Bill Stanfill.

Before you knew it you had about 10 grown men rolling around fighting in the mud. The referees didn't appreciate this version of sport but the fans loved it.

Memories like that, Mr. Ryan, don't grow on trees.

Do you consider yourself
CREATIVE?
Have you ever wanted to design and paint a MURAL ?
Would you like to try?

Space has been allocated for a mural in the Campus Center Complex. If you are interested in carrying out this project, we would like to see your designs. Please submit your designs to the Campus Center Board of Governors (CC 817) by December 13, 1977.

For additional information visit our office or call 545-0198.

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office— Open 9:30-6 Mon. thru Sat., 1-5 Sun.

Blue Wall
Wed., Nov. 30
K-Rock Disco
9pm-1am
plus 2 for 1 Tuborgs
Till 11pm

Celtics have price not pride

By JOHN ANTONELLI
Collegian Staff

The Celtics have too much talent not to straighten themselves out soon; in fact, this my be the reason they have fared so poorly thus far. The Celtic organization has always prided itself on being a family, and boasted the ability to work as a unit on and off the court. In its illustrious bygone era, Boston did not have any more stars that it has now. It was a matter of fitting marginal players perfectly into the famed running game, basically a case of playing well fundamentally.

Commentary

Thanks to the nature of today's athlete, this Celtic tradition started breaking down a few years ago, and today they are like any other team. They have paid the price (in more ways than one-hello there, Mr. Wicks). So many new players came to the team in the last two seasons, Coach Tommy Heinsohn has had a hell of a time trying to drum the team's concept into all of their heads. No matter how many guys have great ability, this quick unheaval has hurt everybody.

The first outsider to join the Celtics was Charlie Scott. Then it was big-names Sidney Wicks and Curtis Rowe. Fred Saunders was an unknown free agent who made the team, and Tom Boswell had to play a lot more. As a result, Boston hasn't played a great 48 minutes since early 1976. And now, there are far too many raggedy edges. It is anybody's guess as to when playing together will come naturally.

Still, other newcomers, such as Dave Bing and flashy rookie Cedric Maxwell are fine additions and crowd pleasers, but their lack of familiarity to Celtic ways also contributes to that missing continuity.

All these problems are not Heinsohn's fault, or even Red Auerbach's. It's good thing owner Irv Levin realizes this, or else the Boston fans could see a Philadelphia-type panic, where the coach is fired for not getting all his superstars off to a great start. The Celts will improve soon, and if they don't you never read it here.

Speaking of the Boston Garden (didn't you ask?), the cheapest ticket for the priviledge of sitting in the old relic is now $4, as if it were a normal arena. The concessionaires now wear garments that make them look like Washington Bullets, or beach balls with legs.

And what remains the biggest injustice to the fans is public address announcer Stephen Smith, who screws up absolutely everything. His timing always stinks and he does not understand basketball. For some unexplained reason, Auerbach canned long-time announcer Weldon Haire in 1972 and has not come up with a decent one since. Red refuses to talk about it in public (and he won't answer mail). Don't the paying fans deserve better? It's too bad people leave games mumbling about the public address instead of how lousy the Celtics played.

★Icemen bow to Huskies

CONT. FROM PAGE 28

Rich Rege in the box for interference, Jamie Bennili blasted one from the left point. Memeli made a good stop, but Peters knocked in the rebound, giving the Minutemen hope.

All hope for a comeback ended less than two minutes later. With only 2:59 left in the game, Joe Milan was sent off on a very questionable tripping call. Milan was upset with the call, and was subsequently slapped with a two minute misconduct penalty, leaving the Minutemen short-handed for the rest of the game.

"It was pretty much like blowing the final whistle a little early," coach Jack Canniff said of the Milan penalty, "It took away our chance of changing the outcome."

The loss seriously hurts the Minutemen as they strive to reach .500 before intersession, with tough teams Norwich, Middlebury, Army and Mirrimack coming up on the road. A win over UConn would've helped them.

This Dave Cowens hoop wasn't enough to hold off the surprising Atlanta Hawks last night, as they came from behind to down the Celts, 108-101. Here, Red drops in an easy layup between Ron Behagen (11) and Steve Hawes (10). (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

ACCUMULATE, ACCUMULATE YOUR SHARE OF
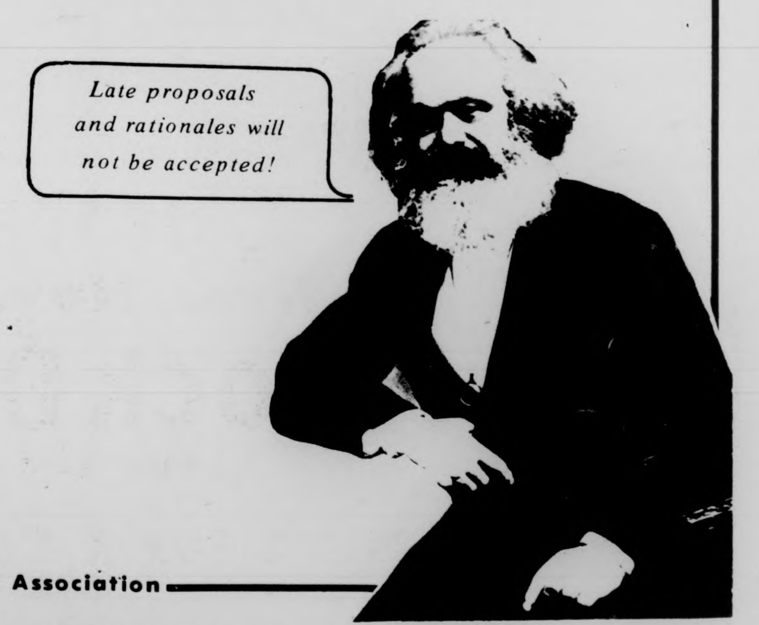
THE SATF

The Student Senate has more than $1,000,000 in capital to appropriate to RSO groups for 1978-79.

To qualify for funding you must submit a Budget Proposal and Rational by 5 p.m. December 14 to Room 420 Student Union.

Example copies of proposals and rationales are available in the Senate Office.



Student Government Association

Curt P. Kohlberg

Inside the turnstyle: Hinsdale

To add the finishing touches to a grand Thanksgiving vacation, I ventured to Roosevelt Raceway in Long Island for the Saturday night racing card which included a $50,000 two year old pace, won by Wellington Hanover.

Unlike Yonkers, where I found it difficult to purchase a non-winning ticket, Roosevelt proved to be a stiff challenge for my handicapping wits, as winning trifecta and exacta tickets eluded my grasp for most of the night.

Fortunately, there were some bright points.

After losing the first four races of the night, I hit on a $10 exacta in the fifth race (the 2 year old stakes race), which yielded $75.00 and left me within an eyelash of being even on the night.

The 2 year olds that participated in the race will be the top three year old pacers next year, and will compete for the harness racing triple crown, which includes the prestigious Hambletonian, the Kentucky Derby of the harness racing season.

I came within a neck (literally) of hitting the final trifecta race of the night, which would have paid for my vacation and then some, but it was not to be.

I purchased many $3.00 trifecta tickets, one of which contained the numbers six, four, and one. The six and four finished first and second, respectively, but in a photo finish, one finished a neck behind the eight, and I ventured back to the Island Inn a loser for the evening.

After completing a tour of most of the harness and thoroughbred tracks in the Northeast, and having tried countless numbers of systems, books, and handicapping techniques, I have concluded that the best way to wager is to bet only on your intuition (providing you can read a racing form).

Don't listen to someone who offers free information for he might not know a trotter from a pacer.

Horse racing is a very complex sport to figure out. It requires constant attendance, knowledge of horses and drivers, and years of betting experience to become a consistent winner.

The most important of these essentials requires that you go to the same track for a period of time until you get a feel for how individual horses are performing, what to expect under different track conditions, and the best investments to make with your money supply.

Many people have asked me, "What is the easiest type of racing to handicap?" After briefly running down the essentials for you, I will expect that you can decide for yourselves. But, remember the three most important rules:

1) go to the track to enjoy yourself.

2) Don't go with the sole intention of bringing back more green to the campus than you left with. Statistics show that roughly only one out of five (or more) people win at the track on a given night, so don't intend on being in that small minority.

3) Only gamble what you can afford to lose. That speaks for itself.

Now for the racing establishments:

Greyhounds — (Seabrook, Plainfield, Wonderland, Taunton, Raynham)

Your best bet is to pick the highest class dog running from the inside post positions (either one, two or three). If there is clearly a standout, don't be afraid to pluck down a couple of dollars on him, even if the odds are low. Quinella wagering is by far the most common bet, but stick to win, place, and show betting.

Since there is no human directly involved during the course of the race, the mass of dog-players don't think fixing exists. But drugging the greyhounds, sand-papering their paws, and betting on them before the race does occur, so be careful.

Also, when the dogs are paraded around the track, look out for any dog that publicly deposits waste in front of your very eyes. He is usually done with his business and ready to race.

Analysis: Greyhounds are the hardest types of animals to predict.

Thoroughbreds — (Meadowlands, Rockingham, Suffolk, Belmont, Aqueduct)

By far the most popular of all racing is thoroughbred racing. At tracks where the purses are low (Suffolk, Rockingham), your best bet is to bet the program favorites to win, place, and show.

At the more prestigous racetracks such as Belmont Park and the Meadowlands, where the purses are nearly double that of the others, it is possible to follow a horse and progressively bet him as he rounds into form.

Prestigous tracks attract the best jockeys, who compete for national titles and large jockey fees, so in most cases the jocks are giving their best efforts. But make no mistake about it, the "Belmont Swindle" isn't the only example of thoroughbred fixing I've ever heard about. Horses are also drugged, beaten, and jockeys can be bought if the price is right.

Conclusively, don't every bring a substantial sum to the "flats", for you just might be betting against the mob, and you know that they wouldn't like that, right? (Crunch.)

Harness — (Foxboro, Meadowlands, Roosevelt, Yonkers, Hinsdale)

There is a large discrepancy between very good and good harness tracks, and you should adjust your betting techniques to where you go. The tracks that carry the lowest purses (Hinsdale, Foxboro) often produce a friendlier betting atmosphere, but picking winners is difficult because a large percentage of the races are "set up" in the stables.

It is definately possible to win at these tracks, but again, stick to win, place, and show betting and never go overboard by betting a lot of money on one horse. These are the places to go if you just want to have a good time, and possibly pick up an extra couple of bucks.

For the serious handicapper, an excursion from the only state to vote for McGovern to some of New York's finest racing establishments might be a good idea.

At the premier tracks (Yonkers, Roosevelt, The Meadowlands) in the east, you will find many of the top horses in the country racing weekly. The purses are high, and horses are running for the win money, not the mob's. If you are knowledgeable in harness handicapping, the three hour trip just might be worth your while.

Now that you have a very rough idea of what racing is all about, decide for yourself what appeals to you most. But, if you go to the track, be careful with your money. Most of all, may the force be with you.

Seniors hang up field hockey sticks;

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

It came without notice and they fought it for as long as they could, but at long last it caught them last Friday in Denver.

"They" are the seniors of the field hockey team whose careers in field hockey have now come to an end. For most of them, it ends their participation through four years in college and as many in high school.

But they have left their mark for future teams. Says UMass coach Judith Davidson, "They are the most important seniors to graduate in a long time in what they have done for their sport. They have set the tone for a tradition of quality field hockey at UMass. The seniors have exemplified the way hockey should be played."

Sue Kibling, Kelley Salls, Cheryl Meliones, Ginger Bulman, Judy Kennedy, and Kathy Gipps are these seniors who have helped to turn field hockey from an obscure sport into one that is beginning to get the recognition it deserves.

Though hockey demands more finesse and is more subtle than the more popular sports, up 'til this year it was virtually unknown. This year's team, has shown qualities that will be followed for years to come.

One of these qualities is the cohesiveness and closeness that the team worked. Last year, this was the main problem that led the team with basically the same players to their downfall in the regional playoffs.

Being with the team most of this year, I have noticed that it was the seniors who did not allow this to happen. Their leadership set the tone for the way that things were going to be.

The seniors, without exception, were a very outgoing and expressive group and they got everyone on the team involved. No player on the team was left unscoffed by their antics. They seemed to know what blend of seriousness and entertainment to use on and off the field.

Davidson feels that this is one of the most important contributions that they have made to the younger players.

"By their actions they have begun to make leaders of next year's team," she said. I could see the younger and more quiet people come out and take charge at times when at the beginning of the year they wouldn't."

One of the qualities, which may or may not be directly attributed to the seniors, was the attitude and sense of fair play which the team possessed. Whether the team won or lost, it was plainly visible to anyone that they were having fun and enjoying the sport. The team, especially the seniors, took their "fun-loving attitude" into the game and never lost sight that it was just that — a game.

The team's sense of fair play, which sometimes got it into trouble with the officials, was never lost, even in the most pressured of games — the National tournament.

Finally when speaking of the seniors, I must mention their talent but I guess the fact that they finished seventh in the nation speaks for itself.

Although most of these players will be playing club association hockey in the future, they admit it will be different and maybe not as satisfying.

So after UMass was beaten in the first round at Denver they knew that if they lost one more game, it would be their last. They won two games before bowing to UConn in their final. Then all that was left for them to do was to face the fact that it was their last contribution.

Staff Notice

All sports staffers or anyone interested in covering men's varsity basketball next semester, contact Dave Rodman at the Collegian office, 545-3500, sometime this week. It is mandatory that anyone, including current staff members, make contact if they intend to cover hoops. Also, a reporter is needed for men's gymnastics, call Judy Van Handle.

RAHAR'S
7 Old South St.
Northampton, Mass.
Nov. 27 & 30:
Andy May
Texas Tabby Crabb
Band
Dec. 1, 2 & 3:
HARMONY ARBOUR
Dec. 4:
BARNY'S BEANERY
Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 6-8
Entertainment Starts at 9:00

The Program of the Year isn't on TV. It's in the Air Force ROTC.

Find out about the two and four-year Air Force ROTC programs today. They both get you an Air Force commission, an excellent starting salary, challenging work, responsibility, promotions, and a secure future with a modern service.

Air Force ROTC also prepares you for leadership positions ahead. Positions such as aircrew member . . . missile launch officers . . . mathematicians . . . engineers . . . and research and development scientists.

Find out today about the benefits of the Air Force ROTC program. It's a great way to serve your country and to help pay for your college education.

Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a
of Life

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TONITE,
WED., NOV. 30
FAT with LITTLE JIMMY
and the BAD BOYS
THURS., DEC. 1
LITTLE JIMMY
and the BAD BOYS
FRI. & SAT., DEC. 2&3
CLEAN LIVING
with
KILROY
EVERY SUNDAY
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

Quality Leather at Good Prices
Women's Leather Clutches
9.00
6.95
An exceptional selection from Faces' leather department. Purses, clutches, check folders—even unique strapped purses to be hung around the neck, shoulder, or waist. Snap pockets for change, zipper pockets inside and out, currency pockets, card and photo pockets, and more. All in a choice of top-quality materials: intricately grained Nappa leather; smooth, elegant harness leather; or durable saddle cowhide. Full color selection, too. 3.95-11.95.
The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat. Sun 1-5

---

Hoopwomen face Radcliffe tonight

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball team opens its season tonight at 5:30 when it travels to Cambridge to take on Radcliffe in the first game of a UMass hoop doubleheader.

The Minutewomen, 18-5 and state champions a year ago, are entering their first-ever game with Radcliffe and 20-game regular season campaign with anticipation, according to coach Mary Ann Ozdarski.

"They're all looking forward to the increased competition," she said. "They know they can go out on the floor and play a decent game against anybody."

But for at least the first month of the season, UMass will be forced to take the court without the co-captain Lu-Ann Fletcher.

The senior center, who averaged 12.6 points and 10.8 rebounds per game last season, tore cartilege in her knee during a pickup game in late September. Surgery was performed three weeks ago today, and while the knee is "coming along real well," according to Ozdarski, Fletcher is not expected back until sometime in January.

"There's no question her loss hurts us," Ozdarski said. "The players have to realize that they will have to put out much more of an effort without Lu."

Taking the court tonight for the opening tip will be five veterans, but only the backcourt duo were starters a year ago.

Sophomores Sue Henry and Sue Peters comprise the guard tandem. Starters as freshmen a year ago, the two led UMass in different offensive categories during the 76-77 season.

Peters, a 5-7 dynamic offensive player, popped in 16.3 points per outing to lead UMass in that department, while Henry, 5-5 a superb playmaker and owner of a smooth outside shot, handed out six assists per game.

Up front, Ozdarski plans on using a three forward offense to compensate for Fletcher's absence. The trio in the forecourt will be seniors Cheryl Carey and Ginny Peebles, and sophomore Maura Supinski.

Carey, the other co-captain, has a passion for defense. The 5-6 forward also hit enough shots last season to record a 5.4 points per game average.

Peebles, who has the unenviable task of filling Fletcher's starting spot, is entering her fourth year with the UMass program, and has improved immensely with each campaign.

Supinski, at 5-10 the first forward off the bench last year, hit for an average of 6.6 points a game and also supplied UMass the Minutewomen with superlative rebounding and defense.

Ozdarski, though, used her bench to a great extent last season while wearing down the opposition in more than a few cases, and she expects her subs to come in for their share of work again this year.

"The new players have worked in very nicely," Ozdarski said. "Lots of our work here is concentration on defense and fundamentals, and they've been working very hard on them."

Heading up the list of the bench strength in the frontcourt is 5-11 freshman Cathy Harrington, with whom Ozdarski has been impressed in pre-season scrimmages. Lori Green, a 5-11 sophomore transfer from UMass-Boston, is also being counted on to Additional help up front should come from 5-9 junior Cathy Horrigan and 5-7 forward-guard Jen Parker, a junior transfer from Southern Connecticut.

In the backcourt, Ozdarski is counting on 5-6 junior Grace Martinelli, 5-7 senior Deb McCulloch, 6-5 freshman Mary Halleran, and 5-3 sophomore Julie McHugh (just back from field hockey) to take up the slack on the bench.

"We're a very small team," Ozdarski said. "As a result, we'll have to rely on the basic fundamentals to win.

"We'll play a running type of game, with tough defense," she added.

Providing the competition tonight will be Radcliffe, a team which last season went 18-3 and won the state Division II tournament.

But Radcliffe did not play a touch schedule last season, and with a toughening up of this year's slate, "we may be a good team with a poorer record," according to Sports Information Director Dave Mathews.

Radcliffe returns 12 veteran from last year's squad. Heading up the list of returnees is 5-8 guard Caryn Curry, who led the squad in scoring with an 11.4 average.

Her backcourt mate, 5-7 captain Kathy Fulton, was the Most Valuable Player in the Division II state tourney last year.

The forwards are Hildy Meyers and Wendy Carle, a pair of sophomores. At center is 6-0 Sue Hewitt, also a veteran.

According to Mathews, coach Carole Kleinfelder is also impressed with a trio of freshmen. In addition, 5-11 Sue Auber and 6-1 Karen Spencer add both height and depth to the Crimson.

"We're a team with a little more depth. The coach seems very pleased going into the season," Mathews said.

And as far as UMass is concerned, Ozdarski knows what her troops will have to do to make the season one to remember.

"We'll have to do an awful lot of hard work," he said. "It's up to them how good they want to be. They have to want it."

Hooking Sue Henry is one half of a talented sophomore backcourt tandem that includes teammate Sue Peters. Both are expected to play leading roles as the Minutewomen head into their 1977-78 season and a schedule including several nationally ranked powers. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Gym-men host Bo State

The UMass men's gymnastics team opens its season tonight against Boston State in a 7:30 match at Boyden Auxiliary Gym.

Co-Captains Steve Nuno and Bob Donahue lead the cast of returning UMass veterans, which includes Dave Kulakoff, last year's Eastern's side horse champion, and John Forshay, who finished fifth in the Eastern vaulting competition.

Tommy Thompson, a high horse specialist, is the other UMass veteran who will see action tonight, since Frank Cohen is injured and will be unable to compete.

Thus, UMass coach Dick Swetman will start seven freshmen on his 12 man unit. Among them are Paul O'Neil, John Nelson, Bob Lamb, Tim Barry, Dave Bugler, Dale Johnston, and Dave Felleman.

According to reports, the Minutemen have defeated Boston State for a number of years. Last year, UMass defeated the Warriors handily.

But, according to a team member, the UMass squad is not taking the meet lightly.

The meet begins a busy week for the Minutemen, who will travel to Army Saturday for what promises to be a tough encounter, and then will journey to the University of Lowell for another dual meet next Wednesday.

Penn State will provide the final opposition for the Minutemen before intersession, as the Nittany Lions will invade the Cage for a double dual meet next Saturday.

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT KILLINGTON,
VERMONT
January 15-20, 1978
- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights in Hotel
- 10 Great Meals
- Ski 50 Runs, 3000' Drop
- Nightly Entertainment
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Extras
ONLY $119.50
to $139.50
Call:
All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

The Program of the Year isn't on TV. It's in the Air Force ROTC.

Find out about the two and four-year Air Force ROTC programs today. They both get you an Air Force commission, an excellent starting salary, challenging work, responsibility, promotions, and a secure future with a modern service.

Air Force ROTC also prepares you for leadership positions ahead. Positions such as aircrew member . . . missile launch officers . . . mathematicians . . . engineers . . . and research and development scientists.

Find out today about the benefits of the Air Force ROTC program. It's a great way to serve your country and to help pay for your college education.

Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a
of Life

HUNAN
GARDEN
RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家 酒 園 南 湖
Mandarin Szechuen
Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.95
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib
eggrole, chicken wing, fried
rice & hot and sour shrimp
Mon.-Wed. 5:00-8:00 pm
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

JUST LIKE MONEY
IN YOUR POCKET...
CLASSIFIEDS
GET RESULTS!
It's no gamble. Classifieds have been bringing results to your classmates for years. Why not put your money on a sure thing -
COLLEGIAN
CLASSIFIEDS
SELL

Lea-men open up against Crimson

By RON ARENA
Collegian Staff

With little chance to digest the fruits of a highly successful fall sports program, UMass fans can now whet their appetites with the prospects of an equally fine winter season.

Basketball will once again head the marquee, as a hungry men's squad debuts tonight against Harvard at 7:30 in Cambridge. The game will be the second of a doubleheader as the UMass women's team takes on Radcliffe in the opener.

The outlook, as usual, for Jack Leaman and company is one of guarded optimism. My, how some things never change. The Minutemen, coming off a 20-11 season and a third place finish in the Eastern Athletic Association (then called the Eastern Collegiate Basketball League), lost two top starters in Jim Town and Mark Donoghue through graduation, but a lack of talent is certainly not a problem at UMass.

Leading the returnees are Derick Claiborne, Alex Eldridge, and Mike Pyatt, now in their senior years. Coach Jack Leaman possesses one of the finest groups of seniors in the east in this New York City trio, and their play will be a key determinant in the outcome of the Minutemen team.

Claiborne, the team captain, and the explosive Eldridge, team up for the umpteenth time at backcourt — they played together in high school — while Pyatt, one of the top UMass scorers the past two years leads the forward pack.

Leaman will start 6-9 junior Len Kohlhaas as center against the Crimson, while newcomer Mark Haymore, a 6-9 junior transfer from Indiana, will fill the other forward spot. This lineup composes Leaman's "big" team, a combination he feels will be devastating off the boards, but suspect defensively.

If, indeed, the Minutemen find themselves with a lack of speed or defense, junior forward Eric Williams will be set to take over. Williams, who missed much of last year due to personal reasons, has been the most impressive player through six weeks of practice, according to Leaman.

Leaman hopes to go with eight or nine players in the game, with Brad Johnson at forward, and guards Tom Witkos and Bill Morrison expected to see action.

The appearance of Haymore in a UMass uniform will be a side treat for Minutemen fans, as he makes his first game performance in over two years. Haymore sat out last year due to his transfer.

The Harvard Crimson, in a sense, will be a team of Mark Haymores, in that the coach is new, and two of their top players return after a year's absence.

The coach, Frank McGlaughlin, a former assistant at Notre Dame and brother of ex-UMass captain, Tom McGlaughlin, will succeed the legendary Tom "Satch" Sanders who left the school in June.

McGlaughlin gladly welcomes back senior Brian Banks, a 6-9 center, and 5-10 junior Glenn Fine, both out with leaves of absence last season. Banks led the Crimson in both scoring and rebounding two years ago (14.3-6.7) while Fine is felt to be a good ball handler by his coaching staff.

Steve Irion, a 6-8 center-forward who averaged 14.3 p.p.g. last year, had a knee operation and is not expected to see much action during the beginning of this year. Also gone is highly rated prospect Joe Beaulieu, who, after leading the Crimson frosh in scoring, opted for Boston College for his college basketball career.

McGlaughlin still has the services of 6-5 senior forward Gary Ackerman, and 6-6 junior swingman Bob Hooft, both expected to see a lot of action.

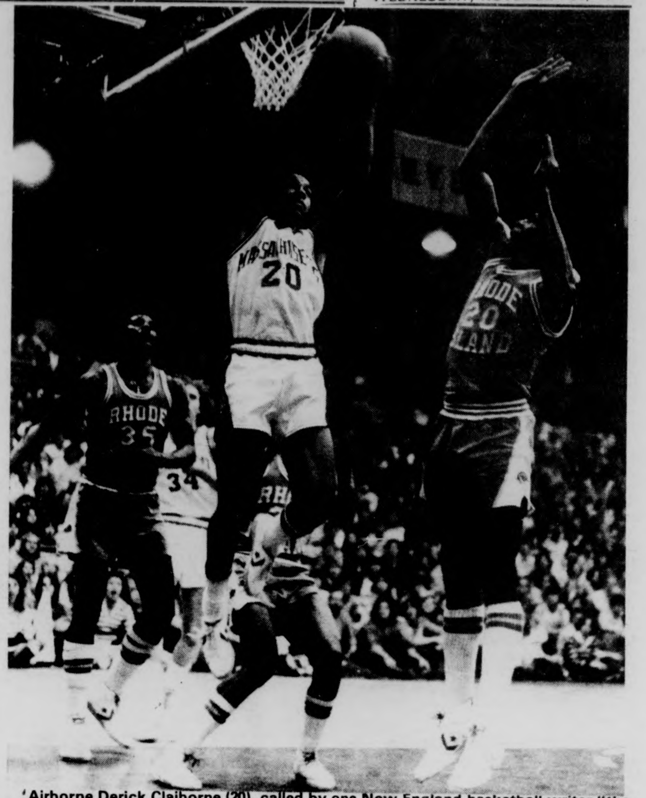
Both teams enter the contest with a bit of apprehension, which is natural, according to Leaman, for a first game.

"It's a very important game for us," Leaman said. "We've had six good weeks of practice, and we're anxious to start. If we're not ready after six weeks, something is wrong."

Leaman said he expects his team to run on the Crimson, a trait he says will be prevalent all season long.

"We hope to keep pushing the ball right up to our guards," he said. "We'll just keep going."

If anything, Harvard could prove to be a measuring stick to see just how far UMass will go.



'Airborne Derick Claiborne (20), called by one New England basketball writer "the steadiest guard in New England last season," in action vs. URI last year. (Pat Dobbs photo)

Collegian Sports

Minutemen six falters; UConn skates by, 3-1

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

STORRS, CONN. — The UConn Huskey Hockey team, long noted as a squad that could pull the big upset, did just that last night, as it handed the UMass Minutemen their third straight loss, 3-1, before 600 shivering fans here at UConn Rink.

The loss dropped UMass to 1-3. For the Huskies, it was the first game of the year, and it was a great way to start a season.

The story in this contest was opportunities. More specifically, UConn's ability to cash in on its chances, while the Minutemen squandered away most of their opportunities.

The Minutemen had several excellent scoring chances early in the game but could not put it together. UMass had seven power play opportunities but managed to score on only one, and that came very late in the third period.

Another story for UConn was the superb goaltending of senior Lou Mameli who was simply magnificent. Mameli turned aside 33 shots in the game and totally frustrated the Minutemen.

A fired-up UConn team came out smoking in the first period and controlled play in both ends of the ice.

Ben Dubois drew first blood at only 1:13 when he took a pass from Paul McCormick and fired it just inside the left post. Henri Langivin made it 2-0 13 minutes later when he broke out from the red line, sped down the ice untouched, and beat UMass goalie John Riley to the low left side.

In between the Huskies goals, the Minutemen squandered several excellent scoring chances. Seven minutes into the period, they had a two man advantage for two minutes but came up empty handed. They had the man advantage twice more in the period but failed to score each time.

The Minutemen did some penalty killing of their own late in the period. Playing two men short, the pucksters played tough defense, and denied the Huskies the goal that might have broken it open.

In the second period, the Minutemen had two ~~more power~~ play opportunities and again failed to score. Mameli was brilliant in the nets in the second period, frustrating the Minutemen time and time again.

Meanwhile, UConn took advantage of one of its power plays midway through the period. With Brian Kittredge in the penalty box for interference, UConn captain Kevin Pierce blasted one from the left point that deflected in off Riley's left pad.

Down 3-0, the Minutemen came out charging in the third period and tested Mameli several times. The senior goalie was equal to the task, making several super saves.

John Powers ended Mameli's hope for a shutout with a power play goal at 14:39. With

TURN TO PAGE 25

Judy Van Handle

Memories of a season

It ended as it began.

Way back on Sept. 10 a quarterback named Leamon Hall threw five touchdown passes to lift his Army teammates to a 34-10 win over the UMass football team.

And just five days ago, a quarterback named Mike Rieker threw four touchdown passes to end UMass's hopes of a national Division II title as he led his Lehigh teammates to a 30-23 win over the Minutemen.

UMass's season ended last weekend in the mud and mire of a soggy Alumni Stadium.

Gloom and dismay enveloped the Minutemen as they left the locker room after seeing their dream of a trip to California and a berth in the national semifinals erased by a deadly passer.

But the Minutemen havenothing to be ashamed of. A Yankee Conference title was back in Amherst. A high finish in the final Division II poll came their way. Recognition in the Boston press increased as an eight-game winning streak was capped by a win over New Hampshire for the Beanpot.

They had the New England coach of the year in Dick MacPherson. They had a gritty determined quarterback named Mike Fallon receive honors for his leadership and achievements on the field. They had one of the best rushing defenses in the country. They had accomplished much, these Minutemen.

Although the season ended on a sour note, many things will stand out in my mind from the year the Beanpot returned to Amherst:

— A high-powered offense that could put points on the board. The Youngstown State game proved that the Minutemen were a team with which to be reckoned, as they thoroughly annihilated a so-called worthy opponent. The final score was 54-13 as Fallon threw five touchdown passes.

— An interception return by Steve Lemay for 100 yards as the sophomore defensive back put the finishing touches on a 41-16 comeback win over Boston University.

— A regionally televised win over Harvard in the rain-soaked Ivy League foe's backyard. A tiptoe-down-the-sideline touchdown run by little Dennis Dent as he scored the winning touchdown highlighted the 17-0 victory.

— A 37-6 win over Rhode Island in which Fallon again took command by heaving four touchdown passes.

— And, finally, the biggest of them all, the 19-6 New Hampshire win which brought the Beanpot back to Amherst and pride back to UMass. Remember that goal line stand, the three Dave Croasdale interceptions, the throttling of Bill Burnham, the miracle punt by John Romboli, the touchdown run by Hank 'The Tank' Sareault, and the icing on the cake, the perfectly-thrown touchdown pass to a wide-open Romboli.

And not only the games, but the individual efforts:

— The offensive line, providing picture-perfect blocking for the I formation.

— Kevin Cummings, returning from knee surgery to re-establish himself as one of the top receivers on the team.

— John Gladchuk, the unsung wide receiver, making catch after catch with his sure hands.

— Billy Coleman, knifing through the opposition on his way to an 800 plus yard season on the ground.

— Hank 'The Tank' Sareault, providing the perfect complement to Coleman as he bulled through the opposition on his tree-trunk legs.

— Dennis Dent, the little waterbug, who could break a game open with his open-field running and blazing speed.

— Phil Puopolo, the sturdy little middle guard, wrapping up quarterbacks and runningbacks with equal aplomb.

— John Willis, the big defensive end, also stifling the opposition with a strong pass rush and a bruising game against the run.

— Joe McLaughlin, the linebacker who ate running backs for breakfast and quarterbacks for dinner.

— Peter McCarty, who led his defensive teammates all season in their quest to be the number one team in New England.

— Kevin Sullivan, the sophomore defensive back who filled in so ably and prompted MacPherson, after the UConn game, to call him "a great football player."

— John Romboli, the guy who boomed punt after punt deep into opposition territory and also employed the quick kick as a reliable weapon.

Ah yes, it was a memorable season. And now, as the basketballs fly around the Cage, hockey pucks around Orr Rink, and gymnasts through the air in Boyden, football dims into just a memory.

But it is one to savor.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 62 THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Those out for one beer or a few pitchers found out how "drunk" they were by taking the breathalyzer test outside the Bluewall last night given by Jon Schmitter of the UMass Police Department and Joanne Gravell of the Alcohol Education Project. (Staff photo by Steve Lesser)

Faculty senate will hear motion to end reorg bid for grad school

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Council of the Faculty Senate will today attempt to pass a motion that would call a halt to Provost Paul L. Puryear's proposal for the reorganization of the administration of graduate studies and research.

A motion calling for the transfer of the medical technology program to the department of microbiology and approval of 13 proposed courses recommended by the Academic Matters Council will also be considered by the Faculty Senate today at the bi-weekly meeting.

Puryear said more direct involvement in the graduate program on his part is required due to greater administrative support for scholarly research, in a Nov. 2 memorandum to the Graduate and Research Councils.

Puryear's proposal would retire the title of Graduate Dean in favor of a new title "better suited to reflect my intention to enlarge the scope of scholarly research on campus and to bring graduate studies within the vortex of planning and decision-making in the Provost's office."

Following a Nov. 7 meeting with Puryear, the Graduate Council concluded that his proposal would be "destructive" to the quality of the graduate school, and plans a wide discussion of the subject at today's meeting.

The Academic Affairs Council cites increased career options and the need for 71,000 medical technologists by 1985 (Department of Labor Predictions) as the rationale to discontinue the four-year medical technology program currently operating in the division of Public Health in favor of a five-year program within the department of microbiology.

Students would spend four years on campus in a course of study similar to that of the microbiology major which would lead to a bachelor of science degree in microbiology. The fifth year would be spent interning in a hospital accredited for clinical training. The completion of this program would lead to a bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

In a special report, council explains the move as an upgrade to the program, making it academically stronger. UMass is the only public institution in western Massachusetts with such a program.

The question period will be fully occupied by two written questions addressed to Puryear, who has not attended the past two senate meetings.

The first question concerns the provost's responsibilities regarding personnel recommendations, decisions and grievance processes, and the extent to which this has been delegated to an associate provost or other administrative officer.

The other question challenges Puryear's statement at a March 17 Faculty Senate meeting which stated students can accurately distinguish between "good" and "poor" teachers and that student ratings are related to student learning.

Accounting Prof. Frank A. Singer, who submitted the question, will ask the provost to release any data that supports the statement and to either justify or modify his statement.

The Committee on Committees will present a special report which will outline appointments to certain councils and committees.

New bird course may hatch

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

If you're one of those students who thinks school is for the birds then a proposed course in Introductory Bird Identification (Zool 263) may rest well with your nest.

This is only one of 13 proposed courses recommended by the Academic Matters Council of the Faculty Senate which is scheduled to be voted on today at the Faculty Senate meeting.

The decision will be the senate's first crack at the new course approval procedure. Any senator may move to have a particular course removed from the list on which the senate is to vote. The course will then be referred back to the Academic Matters Council for further consideration.

The proposed courses are:

| | |
|---|---|
| —CHEM 108 Applied Chemistry for Engineers | credit: 3 |
| —COMSTU 240 Modes of Film Communication | credit: 3 |
| —DANCE 186 Beginning Dance Group | credit: 1 |
| —DANCE 330 Dance Composition II | credit: 3 |
| —ENGL 150 Expository Writing | credit: 3 |
| —JS 110 Introduction to Journalistic Writing | credit: 3 |
| —JS 125 Reading Journalism | credit: 3 |
| —JS 225 Intermediate Reporting | credit: 3 |
| —JS 375 News Editing | credit: 3 |
| —PSYCH 315 Cognitive Psychology | credit: 3 |
| —SOCIOL 461 Demography of the Family | credit: 3 |
| —ZOOL 263 Introductory Bird Identification I | credit: 1 |
| —ZOOL 264 Introductory Bird Identification II | credit: 1 |

Senate asks evaluations be released

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night requested the faculty to release all student written course and teacher evaluations (CATE). If the faculty does not release the evaluations, the senate would have students evaluate the classes.

Patrick Whalen Senate speaker, called the pursuit of the evaluations "one of the most important things we've dealt with as a senate this year."

If the faculty refuses to release the evaluations, classes will be evaluated by senators, volunteers, members of department councils, and senate lecture notetakers. A Collegian survey similar to last years, will cover remaining classes.

In other business the senate voted to initiate a policy which binds senate representatives to faculty committees to follow senate policy in their voting. This motion resulted from last week's removal of former Student Attorney General Paul Yanowitch.

Yanowitch's votes on the rhetoric requirement, was an issue on the debate on his removal.

The senate defeated a motion which would have required the senators to attend all house council meetings within their dorms. Former senate Speaker Brian DeLima said the proposal "didn't increase accountability" and there were "better alternatives" to solve the problem of communication between senators and their constituents.

The senate also gave recognition to the Legislative Task Force which will file bills, and receive senate direction in regard to which bills should be lobbyed for at the State legislature.

The senate also requested UMass Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery to fly the state flag at half-staff for Friday's visit by N.H. Gov. Meldrim Thomson, and Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis "to commemorate the plight of public higher education" in New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

Senate Speaker Patrick Whelan said there was "no way (student run) towing can be implemented until Sept. 1. He said the issue was "in limbo" until a group could begin work on it next semester.

Senate wants flags flown half mast

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night unanimously passed a motion requesting Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery to fly the state flag at half staff this Friday to commemorate the plight of higher public education.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson and Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis are scheduled to visit the UMass campus Friday for a conference on the Northeast economy.

Bromery said flying the flag at half staff may be "too much of a symbolism to recognize Thomson's presence."

"He (Thomson) may not even see it," Bromery said. "He may not be the kind of guy that looks up anyway."

inside

•local

UMass students can expect to see an increase in room and board fees when they get their bills next summer, according to the Office of Residential Resource Management. See story, page 3.

•weather

Highs near fifty
But it still ain't gonna be nifty.
Like most fall days, it's a dud —
Here at Ole U of Mud.

•salt

This week in Below the Salt there is a special "punk" issue and a-er- tribute, let's say, to Rolling Stone. Gabba, gabba, hey!

The winning number drawn in yesterday's Massachusetts Daily Numbers Game was 0296.

•local

Ross Whaley, dean of the College of Food and Natural Resources, expressed his views on the implementation of non-tenured instructors in the college, at last night's Stockbridge Student Senate meeting. Story, page 2.

Stockbridge dean explains school structure

By MARTHA KIMBALL
Collegian Staff

Dean Ross Whaley of the College of Food and Natural Resources, speaking at the Stockbridge Student Senate meeting last night, explained the structure of the college and his views regarding the implementation of non-tenured instructors, particularly those from industry and business, into the Stockbridge and University curriculum.

Whaley said the college concentrates in the three areas of food, human, and environmental resources. The college attempts to mesh practical training with thinking and development for the future through its programs and departments. "We have close contact with the public through the Cooperative Extension Service, geared to teach the public, and various experimental stations which are involved in research."

Whaley illustrated the present condition of over-crowded classes and less than adequate number of faculty stating that in 1967 only 1400 students were enrolled in CFNR compared to the 1977 enrollment of 4000, yet there are fewer faculty members. Whaley suggested two alternatives to alleviate this problem.

"One method is to hire people currently working in their field, such as a dairy farmer or greenhouse manager. Another method is by implementing temporary appointments of possibly three years or less, hiring people fresh out of school or faculty members desiring semi-retirement," Whaley said.

"It will be a slow process," continued Whaley, "Our initial major thrust will be in the Stockbridge program since their curriculum is geared toward practical training, but will be based upon departmental needs."

"I was pleased to receive the Stockbridge Student Senate endorsement of implementing people outside the current faculty staff into the instructional program," Whaley said.

In other student business: President Geoff Macduff encouraged students interested in transferring to the university or obtaining a second degree from Stockbridge should contact him as soon as possible. Students involved with high school counselling during intersession must attend a meeting Dec. 7th at 6:30 in Stk. 114 to arrange scheduling. A possible Blood Drive sponsored by Stockbridge and formation of an ice hockey club was also discussed at the meeting.

Stockbridge

The late afternoon sun peers through a barren tree on a crisp fall day. The view is from the south end of the orchard over the Orchard Hill dormitories. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Vandalism and larceny sweep campus during Thanksgiving

By MATHEW KOVARY
Police Beat

A wave of vandalism and larceny swept over the UMass campus during the Thanksgiving weekend, campus police said.

Police found 150 lbs. of bakers flour scattered over the kitchen of the Central bake shop. One witness compared the scene to the Thanksgiving snowfall.

In addition, pans, trays and baking racks had been tossed around the kitchen, glasses shattered and, all together $135 worth of damage done, police said.

Concerning the arrest of three UMass students in a raid on Riverglade Apartments Tuesday, all three pleaded not guilty yesterday and will be brought to trial at Hampshire County Courthouse on December 6th. The three were charged with possession of stolen property valued at $2,500. claimed stolen at Brittany Manor Apartments, police said.

Four Southwest apartments were picked clean over the weekend by Thanksgiving thieves. Fourteen-hundred dollars worth of stereo equipment, a color TV and personal items were reported missing from 338 Paterson. Eight-hundred dollars worth of stereo equipment was reported missing from 319 Cance, and items valued at $1000 were reported stolen out of 243 Pierpont, including two Smith-Corona typewriters and KLH stereo equipment. In addition, items valued at $150 were taken out of 317 John Adams. Police said the room was filled halfway to the ceiling with crumpled newspaper, apparently meant as a prank. Their were no signs of forced entry, police said.

In Orchard Hill, stereo equipment valued at $420 was reported missing from 312 Field. Police said thieves smashed the third floor balcony window to gain entry.

A 1970 Dodge Coronet was damaged almost beyond recognition when vandals heavily dented its body, snapped off its antenna, slashed four tires, twisted the wipers and swiped its AM-FM tape deck and car battery, police said. The car was parked in lot 42 next to Boyden and belongs to Garrick Doherty of 402 Thoreau.

Another car, valued at $3600, was stolen out of lot 25, across from the physical plant, police said. The 1974 Mercury Cougar belongs to Edward Kozera of Kozera Ave., in Hadley.

In Central, a fire attributed to an electrical short caused extensive damage to a Baker dorm room last week. Police said the janitor smelled smoke early Friday morning, noticed soot on the door of apartment B5 and called the Amherst Fire Dept. Police said the fire had burned itself out before firefighters arrived and estimated the damage at $2000.

Union president campaigns at UM

HADLEY — Kenneth Lyons, national president of the National Association of Government Employees union, appeared here last night to bolster support for a collective bargaining unit election to be held Dec. 8 and 9.

The unit involves clerical, technical, and administrative employees at UMass. The Massachusetts State Employees Association is competing with the United Staff Association for the right to represent the employees.

The state employees association is affiliated with the national association. The staff association is affiliated with the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

SGA proposes leases for students in dorms

By SETH JACOBSON
Collegian Staff

A model lease comprehensively outlining the obligations of students and administrators in a tenant relationship will be the subject of preliminary negotiations between the Undergraduate Student Senate and administrators this week.

The proposed lease, formulated by the senate Rents and fees Committee, contains regulations which would be applicable to residence halls in general, and specific provisions applicable to particular dorms.

The lease also contains specific guidelines for tenants (students) and the landlord (the University), concerning repairs, rent, contract termination, security and damage liability.

According to the UMass Legal Services Office and the Student Center for Educational Research, the lease is being proposed because student rights as tenants were not being adequately protected by the administration.

"We (UMass) are the only school, out of the 52 campuses researched that does not have a lease between students and administration," an LSO-SCER newsletter stated.

According to the newsletter, student feedback will be evaluated by the Rents and Fees committee to insure student understanding of the lease.

Stipulations under the proposed lease include increased responsibility for repairs. The University will be required to repair all common area damage within five days, providing tenant negligence did not cause the damage.

Repairs for damage determined to constitute a health hazard will be required within 24 hours, and costs of repairs due to the negligence of the tenant will be charged to the tenant.

Before signing the lease, students would be responsible for inspecting and verifying the condition of their rooms by completing an inventory control sheet.

When checking out, the landlord (an agent of the University) would inspect the premises, and make any necessary adjustments to the inventory sheet.

According to committee members, any "substantial" breach of the lease stipulations would be grounds for abatement, or refund of rent.

The tenant's obligations would include rental payments by the necessary dates, and adherence to the rules and regulations specified in the booklet, "Regulations and Policies."

Jim Couchon, Moore house head of residence, said, "I believe some of the proposals will help keep the University on its toes.

"It might make it easier to bypass some of the red tape for repairs," he said.

John Adams Tower Coordinator Paul Roddenburg said, "I think a lease agreement is a necessary item. I just wonder if it is feasible for the University because of the budget cuts.

Sylvan votes area budget

Sylvan Area Government members voted to allocate money to the Craft Center, Sylvan Cultural Society, Sylvan Area Government, Mens-Womens Center, Computers, Parchment, WSYL FM, House Support, and for other activities in the area. The officers voted to table a proposed $1570.00 for WSYL TV until the next meeting Dec. 4. The money will be placed in a reserve account until then.

The following allocations were made:

Craft Center — $1442.00
Sylvan Cultural Society — $800.00
Sylvan Area Government — $1700.00
Mens-Women Center — $250.00
Computers — $700.00
Parchment — $531.00
WSYL FM — $1860.00
House Support — $3000.00 ($1000.00 each house)
Activities — $300.00

Sylvan

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistance | Dottie Clark, Kathy Koffler |
| Wire Layout | Julia Linnell |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Sports Layout | Dave Rodman |
| Copy Desk | Mike Simon |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Head Darkroom Tech | John Anderson |
| Photo Staff | Steve Lesser, Bob Higgins, Pat Dobbs |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubbardsty |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |
| Newsstand price | $.10 | |
| Faculty staff | $.05 | |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Fees may rise if proposals OK'd

By MARK HORAN
Collegian Staff

Students can expect to find room and board fees raised again when they get their bills next summer, according to budget proposals submitted to the Budget Office by the Food Service and the Office of Residential Resource Management for academic year 1978-79.

The larger raise will be in the food service fee. Arthur Warren, Director of the University Food Services, has recommended a $48 increase per student for fiscal 1979. The proposed rent increase, submitted by Bob Campbell, Director of Residential Resource Management, is $10.

The food increase, broken down to $24 per semester, would produce the following board fees for the fall semester: the 10-meal plan, currently at $345, would go up to $369; the 14-meal plan would go from $393 to $417; the 19-meal plan would go from $428 to $452.

The increases were reported to the Student Senate Rents and Feescommittee on Tuesday night. The committee will make a full report to the Student Senate next Wednesday night, according to Speaker Patrick Whalen.

Speaker Whalen was outraged at the figures, although he admitted to not being fully briefed on the subject. Whalen said he couldn't "fathom such an increase being necessary."

Whalen also expressed concern the fees "would be implemented without student input." Although the proposal has gone to the Rents and Fees Committee, a reduction in the fee appears improbable. According to Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert Woodbury, the normal procedure for such budgets is for a department head to submit his proposal to his vice-chancellor. The vice-chancellor then makes a recommendation to the chancellor. That recommendation must be approved by the president and ultimately the Board of Trustees. Woodbury said approval by a vice-chancellor usually insured passage through to the trustees.

Yesterday, James McBee, Vice-Chancellor of Administration and Finance and the Food Service director's immediate superior, said he approved the $48 increase.

When asked if Chancellor Bromery would

TURN TO PAGE 5

Former chief of personnel for President Carter, James King, returned to the Connecticut Valley yesterday to discuss Carter's various policies which differ from previous administrations, during an afternoon session with 40 people in Campus Center 168. King is a native of Ludlow, a town near Springfield, and a graduate of American International College. He has been a member of the National Transportation and Safety Board since August when his job with the Carter administration was finished. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Winter's tale may be harsh

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

Although papers and finals seem to be worrying most people right now, last weekend's sprinkling of snow may have prompted some to think about what Mother Nature has in store for us this winter, now that December is here.

While last year's winter may seem hard to top, don't count on it. This year's edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac predicts snowfall 15-20 inches above normal, and below-normal temperatures until March. Also predicted are cold waves in mid-December and January, and a blizzard near the end of January.

If correct, this forecast should delight local ski-area operators and customers of last month's ski sale, but it could cause fuel shortages again. "We'll have enough fuel here, though," Director of Planning Jack Littlefield said.

Littlefield said temperatures in buildings on campus will be 65-68 degrees both day and night, and will be lowered during intersession.

In preparation for the coming snow, the Phyiscal Plant has 120 tons of sand and salt mixture for the roads. Also ready are five trucks, 10 small plows, and 16 snowblowers, according to Al Potter of the grounds department.

The buses run by the Undergraduate Student Senate Transit Service have already had snow tires put on them.

In case all other methods of transportation fail, the Outing Club is equipped with 50 pairs of cross-country skis, and 15 pairs of snowshoes.

For anyone still uneasy about surviving the winter here, be consoled with this fact — the Old Farmer's Almanac also reports that cold weather is healthier!

Westinghouse visitors favor nukes

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Dave Samara and Scott Moser, engineers from Westinghouse Campus America said, "In order for medical problems to occur, a person has to be exposed to 50,000 units of radiation. A person is normally exposed to 150 units of radiation daily.

Westinghouse builds nuclear reactors, and as part of their nuclear energy campaign, Westinghouse Campus America was established. It consists of 12 engineers who travel nation-wide to colleges for discussions, seminars and debates on nuclear energy and the energy situation.

Samara and Moser were sent by Westinghouse to UMass, to give their views on nuclear energy.

"Everything gives off some form of radiation" Moser said. "By living near a power plant a person is subject to less than one additional unit of radiation. When a person rides an elevator from the 1st to the 3rd floor he receives three units of radiation.

Fear of nuclear plants exploding concerns people. Moser explained "It is physically impossible for this to occur because the fuel involved is not pure enough. Even without a safety system an explosion would not happen.

Nuclear waste disposal is another concern. Moser and Samara explained the method of disposing of radioactive waste is to change it into a glass substance and into salt or granite. It is then put 2000 feet underground. "There are governmental hold on doing this process, but it can be done," Moser said.

Reprocessing is another factor in nuclear energy. The radioactive waste can be recycled, because 98 per cent of the waste is reusable. When the waste is recycled platonium can be taken out of the reprocessed mass. This is not being done because government officials fear the platonium will be used for nuclear weapons," Samara explained.

"If nuclear power plants continue to operate without a reprocessing component much fuel will be wasted," Moser said.

Another factor of nuclear power plants is water which is used by the plant and then defused at a temperature 15-20 degrees warmer than natural water temperature.

"There are federal regulations however stating the water must be only one degree warmer than the river it empties into when it reaches 1000 feet from the plant. Cooling towers aid this problem by cooling the water before it is released. Moser said.

By utilizing all available sources we can hope to have enough energy. Samara said. "Safety, economic, environmental factors have to be considered before an energy source is adopted or rejected. Moser said.

On the other side, Myra Levy of the Alternative Energy Coalition said "No dose of radiation has been considered safe. The more radiation a person is exposed to the better the chance of medical problems to occur." Levy explained the body reacts differently to each type of radiation. The kind of radiation used in nuclear power results in particles getting concentrated in the grass that cows eat and in other ways and results in going up the digestive tract.

The West Valley Nuclear plant in New York was closed down because of leakage. All the waste from the plant and other plants is accumulating in non-permanent storage places. There are no current reprocessing plants. Levy said.

Levy noted a booklet which has been put out by the General Accounting Office, which recognized the fact reactors have to be dismantled when they are of no use. Reactors become radioactive after 20-40 years and have to be dismantled or entombed in concrete. This process costs as much as the cost of building nuclear plants in the first place. To recognize the cost of dismantling while considering nuclear energy is important" Levy said.

Past ambassador talks on US in Africa

By MATHEW KOVARY
Collegian Staff

Ambassador William Brewer will speak on "American Foreign Policy In Africa" at 8 p.m. tonight in the Hampden Center, in Southwest, as part of the Master-Director's Series.

Among the topics to be addressed by the former Ambassador to Sudan are current conflicts in the Horn of Africa, liberation struggles in South Africa and American relations with Russia and Cuba.

In light of the unprecedented meetings between Israeli and Egyptian leaders, Ambassador Brewer, who has served nearly 15 years in the Middle East, will also speak on the larger interplay between African, Arab and Israeli interests and policy considerations.

As an Arabic language specialist, Brewer has had responsibilities both on station and within the State Department concerning Egyptian and Arabian Peninsula Affairs.

During his 30-year career in the American foreign service, Brewer has participated in Crisis Management Teams on Lebanon (1957) and the Six Day War (1967).

The Master-Director's Series features persons of unusual interest and qualification in areas of intellectual, artistic, cultural and political concern and is part of the ongoing educational program in the Southwest Residential College.

Mt. Holyoke grad contests position of black women authors, poets, artists

By MOIRA CAMPBELL
Collegian Staff

Barbara Smith is black, a lesbian, and fighting like hell to make people understand the plight of black women writers in the United States.

A graduate of Mount Holyoke College, Smith has published articles concerning black women as writers, poets, and artists. Yesterday, Smith hosted a lecture entitled "All the Women are White, All the Blacks are Men, But Some of Us Are Brave: Working on Black Women Writers." The title was clearly understood by all attending the end of her talk.

"The situation of black women writers in this country" Smith said, "is that of black women, total and extreme oppression." She stressed the social importance of the fact that black women were never allowed the freedom to paint, to draw, to sculpt, to write due to the institution of slavery in this country.

A vivid example of the oppression of the black woman's artistic expression is found in an essay by black author, Alice Walker who described the black woman "drawing pictures of the mother of Christ in charcoal on the outside of Church walls." Smith asked her audience to compare that long period of silence from within the black female community with today's music world, devoid of the voices of Roberta Flack or Aretha Franklin, in order to illustrate the vast potential which has been lost to the world until recent times. Smith condemned the white middle class and even the black male of a "crime against humanity."

Of the volumes of literature which have come from the black female population in this country since its birth, little of it has achieved the status of numerous reprintings or even national attention, Smith said. Phyllis Wheatly, a black eighteenth century poet who wrote better neo-classical poetry than many of her European counterparts, is not studied in any Early American Literature classes nor in most Black Lit. courses. The fault in this case and in all other black women's work says Smith, lies in the fact that no one has adequately analyzed and criticized black female writing by its own standards.

"Black women's writing," Smith said, "cannot be compared with or critiqued on the same basis as white literature because of the differences in the black female ideology and language." Smith points out the black woman's language, spoken and written, differs not only from that of whites but also from that of the black man.

Smith feels the absence of a black feminist movement in the United States prevents any intensive, educated study of black female writers and their work. Until such a movement exists the public will be unaware of what this "writing" is all about. This problem, she said, is drastically apparent in the area of black lesbian awareness, to present it to the public. Smith is personally frustrated by this lack of black lesbian writing and criticism as it leaves her and other black lesbians without any means for a universal understanding of their ideologies.

At one point in her talk, Smith quoted from Ida Cox's poem, "Wild Women Blues":

"You don't ever get anything by being an angel, child....
...wild women, don't worry—wild women, don't have the blues."

"Wild" is the feminist movement; "wild" is becoming political, aware, dissatisfied; "wild" is not taking shit from your man; "wild" is to "raise hell," Smith said.

ROTC's caroling to benefit Globe Santa

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

Tony Romano and Bobby Dugan would be the first to admit that maybe they should have "had a few" before they had started singing in the Campus Center concourse.

But they are making money.

The words are familiar. One can pick out something about "chestnuts roasting on an open fire" and someone named "Jack Frost nipping at your toes." But the melody flows somewhat unevenly along an uncharted voice range and pitch. Eventually they become hopelessly out of key and out of breath. But their audience still rewards them with bills and change.

Beneath the lit Christmas tree resting on the table next to the Blue Wall entrance, the two carolers take turns hailing familiar faces that stroll before them. "Hey Kathy, come on over and give to Globe Santa." As she puts her contribution in the donation box on the table, Kathy smiles at the musical 'thank-you' the two men give her.

Thus, UMass students Romano and Dugan began the first day of the annual ROTC Globe Santa drive on campus with songs and wishes of "Merry Christmas". Sponsored by the Arnold Air Society, a service organization of the Air Force ROTC, the drive will continue until Dec. 14th when all money will be sent to Boston for distribution to Globe Santa families. "We will have the table open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week until the last day," said Dugan, this year's Globe Santa Committee chairperson. "We also have a sheet for names of donors to be turned into the Globe Santa with all the money," he said.

The Arnold Air Society has been on campus "since 1962, at least" according to Society Commander Romano. Housed unofficially in ROTC headquarters in Dickinson Hall, the coed fraternity claims a membership of "approximately 45." Activities have included United Way campaigns, projects with the Amherst Senior Citizens, the American Cancer Society, and collection of Thanksgiving baskets for the underpriviledged.

Romano, last year's committee chairperson, commented "this is our fourth year. The first year we raised about two or three hundred dollars, last year about eight hundred, and this year, well, the sky's the limit." Dugan added, "We are shooting for a thousand anyway."

Shifts at the Globe Santa table are covered on a volunteer basis by ROTC members. "Before we even had the table up," Dugan said, "we had the names of 25 or 30 volunteers."

Romano and Dugan agree that while overseeing the committee's operation takes up "massive amounts of time" they enjoy the work. "It's fun, and you get to meet a lot of people," said Dugan.

Dugan said plans to promote dorm Globe Santa collections are underway. "All persons interested can begin by just asking their neighbors to help out," said Dugan, "But they should remember to get the money to us by the 14th."

Although yesterday was only the first day of the Globe Santa drive, $30 had been collected by early afternoon. Dugan looked at the lights and the cassette player broadcasting Bing Crosby's "White Christmas" through the north end of the concourse. "People love Christmas," he said, "and giving to Globe Santa gets people in the Christmas spirit early."

Romano summed up his feelings about the chairity work with a story of a woman who explained her $20 donation this way: "When I saw all my brothers and sisters sitting around the Christmas tree smiling at all their presents, I thought that those smiles belonged to all children. I wanted to help make that dream come true."

Bobby Dugan (l) and Tony Romano (r) rest from caroling. The two are helping to raise money for the Boston Globe Santa. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TONITE,
THURS., DEC. 1
LITTLE JIMMY
and the BAD BOYS
FRI. & SAT., DEC. 2&3
CLEAN LIVING
with
KILROY
EVERY SUNDAY
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
MONDAY, DEC. 5
ANDY MAY and the
TEXAS
TABBY CRABBY
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel. 665-4937

Russia and Syria share views on Middle East

MOSCOW [UPI] — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev said yesterday Moscow shares identical views on the Middle East with Syria and warned against any "separate deals" for peace between Egypt and Israel.

The statement followed a meeting of Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko with Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam, who delivered a personal message from Syrian President Hafez Assad.

In Cairo, the Soviet ambassador delivered Russia's formal rejection of Egypt's invitation to attend talks in the Egyptian capital. Syria has also refused to attend the Cairo talks.

The official Soviet news agency Tass, reporting on Khaddam's visit, said both sides agreed to develop closer ties and "will give a strong rebuff to any attempts to undermine friendship and cooperation between them."

The news agency said the meeting was held in an "atmosphere of friendship and complete mutual understanding."

"The two sides noted that they hold identical views on the questions concerning the Middle East peace situation," Tass said.

The news agency said the Soviet Union and Syria agreed to seek an "all embracing Middle East settlement in conditions excluding the possibility of separate deals."

Damascus is leading Arab opposition to the Cairo meeting proposed by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat that would lay the groundwork for an overall Geneva conference on the Middle East.

Israel, the United States and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim already have agreed to send representatives to the Cairo meeting.

Syria and other countries have accused Egypt of using the proposed Cairo conference as a cover for increased meetings with Israel to reach a bilateral peace agreement.

Taas said the Scviet Union and Syria also agreed that "should the Geneva conference be torpedoed, those responsible for this would have to shoulder a heavy responsibility."

The Soviet Union, co-chairman of the Geneva conference with the United States, has warned that the Cairo conference could destroy hopes for reconvening the peace talks which met for two days in 1973.

13 leaflet Civic Center; protest English in N. Ireland

By JIM PAULIN
Collegian Staff

About 13 demonstrators last night protested the pesence of English troops in Northern Ireland with the Scots Guard, the "company of 80 of the Queen's own foot-soldiers," put on a bagpipe and drum and dance concert at the Springfield Civic Center.

As concert goers approached the Civic Center, demonstrators carrying anti-British placards offered them leaflets, repeating the slogans, "Freedom for Ireland", and "England out of Ireland."

One protestor bought a British flag from vendor inside the Civic Center near the entrance, set it on fire on the center's steps, and threw it in a puddle where UMass student Jim Jordan stamped on it.

The demonstrators then left, but returned when the concert was over with the same flag, which had since dried, and re-ignited it, repeating the same tactics, attempting to gain public support.

After the protectors left, they went to the site of the Scots Guard's buses, chanting "Hey, Hey, what do you say, victory to the IRA," and "Free Scotland, Free Ireland." The demonstrators and the guard vigorously exchanged angry gestures.

The demonstration was sponsored by the Western Mass Fintan Lalor Irish Republican Club.

Viking Hus
clogs
clogs
clogs
New shipment for school and the Fall Fashion!
The Largest Selection of the Original Swedish,
Danish and Austrian Clogs
ALL SIZES
Bastard - Mia -
Gunilla and Mengen
BRING IN THIS AD FOR A
3.00 DISCOUNT-CLOGS
Eastfield Mall Auburn Mall Liberty Mall
Springfield, MA Auburn MA Danvers, MA
Methuen Mall Methuen MA

BOOTS!
FASHION
UTILITY
HIKING
RAIN
Bolles Shoes
2 LOCATIONS
*8 MAIN ST., AMHERST
*HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS,
RTE. 9, HADLEY

News in Brief

Poland's leader talks to Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY [AP] — Pope Paul VI will receive Polish Communist leader Edward Gierek for talks Thursday that could boost Gierek's image at home and lead to diplomatic relations with the most Catholic country in the Communist world.

The Gierek visit is another step in the 14-year-old Vatican policy of developing contacts and eventually normalizing relations with the Communist governments of Eastern Europe.

N.H. rate hike will go to help Seabrook

CONCORD, N.H. [UPI] — The Public Utilities Commission said yesterday it has no power to stop the Public Service Co. of New Hampshire from imposing a 17 per cent rate hike Dec. 3 to help pay for building Seabrook, the nation's largest nuclear power plant.

Citizens petitions filed yesterday

BOSTON [UPI] — Thousands of initiative petitions aimed at changing the law were filed at city and town halls across the state yesterday to meet a Nov. 30 deadline.

Petitions calling for an independent state ethics commission, a telephone consumer watchdog agency and a constitutional amendment to limit annual state tax revenues and expenditures are among those expected to have obtained the required 55,644 signatures.

Local communities will spend the next week certifying the signatures on the petitions which must be turned into Secretary of State Paul Guzzi's office by Dec. 7.

UMass expert says people still eat out

AMHERST, Mass. [UPI] — A University of Massachusetts travel expert said despite the higher costs of dining out people are still going to restaurants, but are patronizing places closer to home.

"Worsening economic conditions and energy price increases or shortages are likely to result in more people changing their destinations rather than giving up vacations and eating out," said Peter Manning, associate professor in Hotel, Restaurant and Travel Administration.

Manning said it is the first time the hospitality industry has not suffered when the economy has been on a downswing.

Carter can appoint judges to 145 spots

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House Judiciary Committee yesterday approved a bill to enlarge the federal judiciary almost 30 per cent and allow President Carter to appoint more judges than any of his predecessors.

The bill would allow Carter to fill the proposed 110 new district and 35 new circuit court positions with Democrats after eight years of Republican rule.

But the panel added to the Senate — passed version an amendment calling on Carter to make selections on merit, not party.

Boston sociologist talks on child abuse

PROVIDENCE, R.I. [UPI] — Everyone is a potential child abuser but ability to cope with stress is the major factor in whether abuse occurs, Boston sociologist Richard Bourne said yesterday.

Many people find their work is meaningless and their lives are without status or power and lived in near anonymity, he said. Abusing parents often reverse roles and expect their children to provide warmth and security, Bourne said.

Bourne, an attorney, sociologist and member of the child abuse team at Children's Hospital medical center, spoke at a conference on child abuse at Women and Infants Hospital.

"You have to have role models to teach you how to love," Bourne said.

Plan Ahead
Considering graduate studies? Registering for the GRE, LSAT or GMAT? Don't go unprepared. Find out what it's like by taking our diagnostic test first. To say the least it will build your confidence. If you find you need help, we offer that as well. For details call Test Prep Service of Amherst at 256-6462.
TEST PREP

Labor board threatens action against Stevens

WASHINGTON [UPI] — National Labor Relations Board officials yesterday threatened to seek an extraordinary national injunction ordering J.P. Stevens and Co. to stop interfering with the legal rights of its 45,000 employees.

Stevens, a textile manufacturer described by labor and the courts as the nation's No. 1 labor law violator, has been the target of union organizing for the past 15 years. The company has yet to sign its first union contract.

The NLRB last obtained a nationwide injunction in 1948.

Officials said the request for an injunction would be filed in U.S. District Court in New York City unless the company agrees to settle complaints in six plants, which prompted the request for an injunction.

The decision was announced initially by the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers union, and confirmed by NLRB officials. A spokesman said the NLRB decided not to announce it because of the sensitive nature of the case.

J.P. Stevens, an avowed anti-union employer which denies any illegal activity, also is the target of a nationwide consumer boycott organized by the AFL-CIO.

The board's decision to seek a nationwide injunction was to be based on what officials described as evidence that Stevens has harassed, coerced and intimidated its employes, and violated their rights under the National Labor Relations Act.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall
OLD MILWAUKEE
12oz. cans
$4.99 case
WIDMER'S LAKE
NIAGARA
$2.99 magnum
SCHENLEY
VODKA
$3.99 quart
LUCKY LAGER
$3.99
case
Tuesday, Nov. 29 to Saturday, Dec. 3
We reserve the right to limit quantities

UM staff set to hold elections for positions open in senate

By DAN MONTUORI
Collegian Staff

The Professional Association of UMass-Amherst will hold senate elections today at their third general meeting of the semester at noon in Campus Center 903. PAUMA is an informal governance body for professional, non-academic staff.

The PAUMA Elections Committee will present a slate of candidates for three positions on the Personnel Appeals Committee and one on the Executive Board. The floor will also be open for nominations on these positions.

Jack DeNyse, University director of Personnel, who was scheduled to speak at today's PAUMA meeting, announced earlier this week he would not address PAUMA in order to avoid the possibility of an unfair labor charge being filed against him.

In a telephone interview last night, DeNyse said the Legal Office of UMass advised him not to address PAUMA until after the State Labor Relations Board hearing on professional staff unionization on Dec. 6.

"It is a touchy situation created by the unionization petition. My office must take a very conservative approach when working with professional staff when unionization is an issue," DeNyse said.

★Fee increases proposed

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 3

approve it, McBee said, "I assume so, since I approved it."

If Bromery approves the increase, approval by the President and the Board of Trustees is almost assured.

Warren blamed the increases on anticipated payroll increases. He said the 350 full time staff people that the food service employs "have increases coming to them" in their union contract. Dick Flynn, Personnel Manager for the Food Services, said the increase would be at least $650 per person next year. Warren also said the raising of the minimum wage by the federal government to $2.65 an hour would raise the payroll further.

He said normal pay raises for individuals, the addition of some new staff positions, and the "53rd payroll week" which occurs every five years, were also factors in the proposal.

Warren said the Food Service will need about $400,000 more to offset payroll expenses. There will be about 10,000 students using the food services.

Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs, Robert Woodbury said yesterday a proposal for a $10 rent hike has been submitted to him by Campbell.

Woodbury said he would wait now for student input from the Rents and Fees Committee and the Senate Speaker and Co-Presidents, before making his recommendation to the Chancellor.

Although Campbell was out of town, Woodbury said he thought at this point "Bob Campbell's proposal was a reasonable proposal."

about people about people about people

Evel Knievel's proposed game of haystack roulette is a loser with Nevada gaming authorities.

Knievel claimed he would jump from an airplane into a casino parking lot in Las Vegas or Atlantic City. He said bettors could wager on which haystack he would land in.

However, Harry Reid, chairman of the Gaming Commission, said Nevada will not condone any wagering on a person's life.

Knievel, recently convicted in California of assaulting a man with a baseball bat, is no stranger to Las Vegas. He suffered multiple fractures in 1969 when he failed to make a 150-foot motorcycle jump over the fountains at Caesars Palace Hotel.

Jimmy Evert, Chris Evert's father, said yesterday he knew nothing about rumors that his daughter and Jimmy Connors were again considering marriage.

There have been published reports in recent days that the tennis stars, who were engaged, but then decided to go separate ways, had gotten back together again.

"That's news to me," Evert said when told of the reports.

"She's in New York visiting friends and I talked with her, but she didn't say anything about it."

The Fort Lauderdale News, which reached Chris in New York quoted her as saying: "I spent Thanksgiving with his (Connors) family and we're still close, but we're definitely not engaged and have no plans to get married in the near future."

Former President Gerald Ford said yesterday that the public is becoming disenchanted with the economic policies of the Carter Administration.

At a news conference following meetings with Utah Republican leaders, Ford said, "In my travels around the country, I find that business, both big and small, is very uncertain as to the economic policies of President Carter's Administration. I think that uncertainty is causing some of the slowdown in the economy."

He said Carter's recent slipping in public opinion polls was evidence of a "growing disenchantment" with the Democratic administration.

In characteristic style, California Gov. Jerry Brown hopped a "Skytrain" flight to London for a memorial service to author Ernst Schumacher yesterday then was puzzled by interest in his economic flight arrangements.

"Are these the substantive matters," he asked British and American journalists at a press conference yesterday when quizzed on the flight.

"I have viewed this as a non-government trip. Since I'm paying for it, I decided to take the inexpensive way," explained the 39-year-old governor. "Also, I wanted to see how it's run."

When asked about his wait for a ticket in New York, Brown replied, "Actually, the line went very fast.... I had the cash in my pocket. You'd be amazed at how efficiently it's run."

Asked if, as a government official, he would fly Concorde in an emergency situation, Brown replied, "To tell the truth, I think I'd use the telephone."

Actor Peter Falk, star of the "Colombo" TV detective series, will marry actress Shera Danese at a Beverly Hills church Friday, it was announced yesterday.

It will be the second marriage for Falk, 50, and the first for 28-year-old Miss Danese.

Falk's best man will be actor Wayne Rogers, former co-star of the "M-A-S-H" series. Actors John Cassavetes and Ben Gazzara will serve as ushers.

Falk and Miss Danese plan a short honeymoon in January after completion of the actor's current "Columbo" episode, a spokesman said.

The Catholic church's response to some new lifestyles in the United States is that they are inconsistent with Christian morals but yet the church wants to reach people involved, Archbishop Jon R. Quinn said yesterday.

Quinn, recently named chairman of the U.S. Conference of Bishops, was asked at a news conference about divorce and abortion.

"I think its incompatible with the moral teachings of the Catholic church," he said. "But at the same time, the church, in fulfillment of its mission, is anxious to reach people and help them.

"Sometimes people are involved in some of these things not because they want to be but because they don't know what else to do.... they don't know what other course is open to them. And I think that's where the church has to try constantly to reach out and reassure them and give hope to their lives," he said.

Chris Evert and Jimmy Evert

Solar energy day planned

WASHINGTON [UPI] — With a solar-cooled jungle hat nearby, a group of environmentalists, consumers and labor leaders yesterday announced plans for a nationwide observance of "Sun Day" to rally citizen interest in solar energy.

On May 3, a Wednesday, the groups said observances will begin with a sunrise service atop Maine's Cadillac mountain, the spot where the sun's rays first touch U.S. soil.

Boston plans an energy fair, conferences and teach-ins.

Other observances such as conferences, exhibits of solar energy and teach-ins are scheduled in 15 cities across the nation including a concert at sunrise at the United Nations plaza in New York and dedication of a greenhouse in Chicago to provide vegetables for inner city residents.

The hat — which looks like an African safari hat with a solar collector on top running a fan — has been used for hiking since 1963 by its inventor, Richard Munson, Sun Day coordinator said.

"Public awareness will help liberate the technological genius of this country by building the public support needed to break down the barriers to the rapid development of this environmentally and economically desirable form of energy," said Los Angeles Mayor Thomas Bradley in a statement.

Court rules on 'right to die'

BOSTON [AP] — The Massachusetts Supreme Court has ruled that "right-to-die" decisions for incurably ill patients, who cannot speak, should be made by judges rather than doctors or relatives.

The court's unanimous ruling Tuesday was that such decisions must be made by state courts.

The ruling is directly opposite to a New Jersey Supreme Court decision in the case of Karen Ann Quinlan. The New Jersey court held that life support efforts should be up to doctors and hospital committees acting with family members.

Miss Quinlan's parents and doctors believed the comatose young woman would die without the aid of a respirator. She was removed from the respirator following the New Jersey ruling, and remains alive without regaining consciousness.

"Such questions of life and death seem to us to require the process of detached but passionate investigation and decision that forms the ideal on which the judicial branch of government was created," the Massachusetts high court said in a 41-page opinion written by Justice Paul J. Liacos.

The responsibility belongs to the courts, the justices said, "and it is not to be entrusted to any other group purporting to represent the morality and conscience of society no matter how highly motivated or impressively constituted."

COME SKI WITH US !
UMASS SKI CLUB PRESENTS:
SUGARBUSH SKI & PARTY WEEK
JAN. 22-27
DEPOSITS:
$25, 11-3, Mon-Fri, Ski Club Office SU 309
$109 - Meals, Lodging, Lift Ticket, Good Times

Brandeis University
JACOB HIATT
INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL

What does it offer you?
- a semester of study in Israel in the Fall term
- coursework in English on the political, economic and social development of Israel and in its language, history and archaeology
- a strong program of Hebrew language study
- important internship opportunities in social service agencies in Jerusalem
- field trips, study trips, interviews with prominent Israelis, a kibbutz visit
- financial aid is available

Application deadline: March 15
For further information, see your Study Abroad advisor or write:
Office of International Programs
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02154
(617) 647-2422
An equal opportunity/affirmative action university

dvp Here is your Last Chance dvp
this semester to hear a
Distinguished Visitors Program speaker.
Don't miss
Stan Lee
Creator of Marvel Comic superheroes such as Spiderman, the Hulk, The Fantastic Four, Sub-Mariner, and Captain Marvel.
When he speaks on :
Comic Books and the World Around Us
Tuesday Dec. 6 8:00pm
Student Union Ballroom Free Admission
sponsored by
The Distinguished Visitors Program
415 Student Union 545-0920

Carter proclaims support of Arab-Israeli talks

WASHINGTON [AP] — President Carter said yesterday that the United States is no longer the "dominant intermediary" in the Middle East. But he offered support to all Arab countries that decide to negotiate directly with Israel.

So far only Egypt has seized that initiative. That action was described by Carter at a news conference as a "historic breakthrough."

But Carter said he was convinced all of Israel's Arab neighbors — Syria, Jordan and Lebanon — want peace with the Jewish state even though they have not accepted Egytian President Anwar Sadat's invitation to participate in preliminary negotiations in mid-December.

"If at some later date it becomes obvious that Jordan does not want peace, that Syria does not want peace, or that Lebanon does not want peace and a settlement with Israel, then an alternative might have to be pursued," Carter said.

The obvious inference was that the United States then might support a separate settlement between Egypt and Israel, which some Arabs are convinced is already in the making.

"But," Carter went on, "we certainly have not reached that point yet. I think the other Arab leaders do want peace with Israel."

His public support for the steps taken by Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin was tempered with the qualification that their "exploratory effort" should be related to an overall Middle East settlement. And at least indirectly Carter urged Israel not to lose sight of the "Palestinian question."

As for the Soviet Union, which turned down Sadat's invitation, Carter made clear that in his view the Russians cannot — and should not — be excluded from Middle East negotiations.

"In the past, the Soviets have not played a constructive role in many instances," he said.

"They have espoused almost completely the more adamant Arab position."

However, he added, "in recent months the Soviets have moved to a much more balanced position as a prelude to the Geneva conference."

Carter began the news conference with an announcement that Alfred L. Atherton Jr., the assistant secretary of State for the Near East, will represent the United States at the Cairo talks. He also disclosed that they are set to begin around Dec. 13.

Other U.S. officials said the date was one of several mentioned in private exchanges between Washington and Cairo and that the startup time would be "in that neighborhood."

Sadat, in sending out invitations, had set Dec. 3 as a deadline for responses. This led to a general impression that the talks would start then.

Selection of Atherton, which followed by a day U.S. acceptance of Sadat's invitation, lends the prestige of the State Department's top Middle East expert to the Arab-Israeli negotiations. But department officials said they were not certain about the role he would play and added that it will be left to the Egyptian and Israeli representatives to set the agenda. A small staff is expected to accompany Atherton to Cairo.

Egypt willing to host Middle East talks in Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt [UPI] — Egypt yesterday welcomed both President Carter's suggestion that pre-Geneva Middle East peace talks open in mid-December in Cairo and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim's call for another preliminary peace conference.

The semi-official Al Ahram newspaper said that although Egypt declared readiness to host the talks as of next Saturday, "it welcomes the date announced by President Carter at his news conference."

Carter said the talks will open Dec. 13 and a State Department spokesman later explained the opening of the conference could take place between Dec. 12 and 14.

Al Ahram also said Egypt is ready to take part in the conference proposed by Waldheim.

"Although Egypt insists on organizing the Cairo parley, it is not opposed to taking part in any other conference with the aim of making preparations for Geneva," the newspaper said.

"Accordingly, Egypt welcomes Waldheim's call for a preparatory conference in New York to be attended by the concerned parties," Al Ahram said.

WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
EAST ST., WARE, MASS.
let it SNOW
These Snug-Fitting Boots Keep Wetness Out!
WOMEN'S BOOTS SALE!
100% waterproof
Winter-lined 100% waterproof BOOT
$8.97
Regular Retail Price $18.00
$9.97
Regular Retail Price $18.00
(Sizes, 5 to 10)
OTHER BOOTS AVAILABLE AT SAVINGS OF 25% to 50%!
Evening shoes, $1.00 a pair—while they last!
WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET
HOURS: - Mon. thru Sat. 9 to 5 P.M.
Tel. 1-967-9753
VISA
BANKAMERICARD

P.M. Vorster's party wins

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [AP] — Prime Minister John Vorster won a clear victory yesterday night in segregated South Africa's election of an all-white Parliament.

With about half the votes counted, his conservative Afrikaner-based National Party had won 84 of parliament's 165 seats and appeared capable of gaining more than the 116 seats it holds in the current Parliament. The Nationalists won 39 of the first 49 decided contests, picking up four seats held by opponents, and were unopposed in 45 districts.

The liberal Progressive Federal Party, trying to supplant the centrist New Republic Party as the major opposition, had eight seats to the NRP's two. The ultra-rightist Herstigte Nasionale Party had won no seats.

Vorster had called the election 18 months early.

He was seeking support for a proposed new constitution that would set up separate parliaments for the 4.5 million whites, 2.5 million persons of mixed race and 750,000 Asians. There would be no representation for blacks, who make up 70 per cent of the population.

About 2.2 million whites were registered, and about 60 per cent ventured out in rain and gales to cast ballots. The country's 19 million blacks are barred from voting.

Vorster, who also wanted a mandate to reject what he called "meddling," by the United States and other nations in South Africa's domestic affairs, was returned by a huge margin to his own seat.

Justice Minister James T. Kruger, criticized at home and abroad for his handling of the death of detained black leader Steve Biko, also was re-elected.

New FBI head sought

WASHINGTON [UPI] — FBI Director Clarence Kelley, whom President Carter once said be fired, agreed yesterday to stay on the job an extra month and a half so Carter can find someone to succeed him.

At administration request, Kelley said he will postpone his retirement from Jan. 1 to Feb. 15 while the president hunts up a nominee to replace federal Judge Frank Johnson, who withdrew himself from consideration Tuesday for health reasons.

Attorney General Griffin Bell, who said last January he wanted to replace Kelley as soon as possible, walked to Kelley's office across Pennsylvania Avenue to ask personally that he postpone his retirement.

"It was most gracious of Mr. Kelley to delay his personal plans," Bell said in a statement aanouncing Kelley's decision. "The bureau will continue to be well-served under his leadership."

During the 1976 presidential campaign, Carter said he thought Kelley ought to be fired for accepting cash gifts from high level FBI officials and for having FBI carpenters make and install window valances in his apartment.

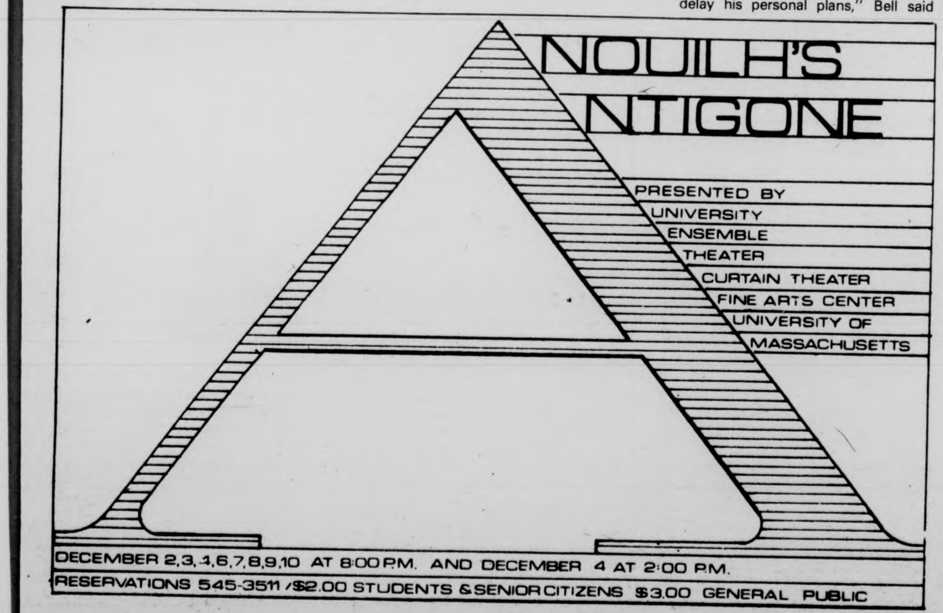
"I don't have all the information President Ford has," Carter said in a Sept. 7, 1976, campaign news conference, "but from what has been revealed, yes, I would have fired Kelley had I been president."

On another occasion, Carter said, "Knowing what I know now, yes, I would have fired him."

But then-Attorney General Edward Levi sent President Ford a highly favorable report on Kelley, excusing the cash gifts as minor, traditional holiday gift giving and saying the carpentry shop made the valances without Kelley's knowledge.

The director reimbursed the bureau for the window fittings. Ford gave Kelley a vote of confidence, and Carter later modified his critical statement.

Bell himself told the Senate Judiciary Committee in January, during his own confirmation hearings, that he meant to get a new director soon, but he later insisted he was not trying to force Kelley out of office.



ANOUILH'S
ANTIGONE
PRESENTED BY UNIVERSITY
ENSEMBLE
THEATER
CURTAIN THEATER
FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF
MASSACHUSETTS
DECEMBER 2,3,4,6,7,8,9,10 AT 8:00 P.M. AND DECEMBER 4 AT 2:00 P.M.
RESERVATIONS 545-3511 / $2.00 STUDENTS & SENIOR CITIZENS $3.00 GENERAL PUBLIC

A study says lottery is bad

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. [AP] — Connecticut's "Daily Numbers" lottery game should be stopped because it attracts mainly the poor and the unemployed without reducing illegal numbers action, a new study said yesterday.

The study on the impact of legal gambling in Connecticut also concluded that "keeping the 'mob' out of gambling is virtually impossible."

Mark Abrahamson, a sociology professor at the University of Connecticut, reported to the state gaming commission on his random survey of 568 Connecticut residents. The agency, which oversees legal gambling in the state, paid Abrahamson and his staff $68,000 for the report.

Indecent acts

By NIKKI ARONSON

Never a fan of the Student Government Association, I have nevertheless tried to present a complete picture in my accounts of their member's activities. Michael Pill's selected truths concerning a list of SGA "sell-outs" (Collegian, Mon.) have only added to the acute paranoia of the inhabitants of the fourth floor of the Student Union Building. To justify their incomparable egos of righteousness, student politicians delude themselves with thoughts of persons who wish only to gain access to all the wonderful knowledge and plans hidden in their respective files. By insisting that people are out to abduct vital secrets a sense of importance and self-worth is created. And thus, in this state of manufactured devenseiveness, they retreat into the fantastic catacombs of political offices.

Too often the plea of espionage or exposure has sounded through the corridors as excuse for unfinished business, waylayed plans of student grandeur, or imcomplete actions.

And now Michael, by regurgitating selected truths over certain SGA personalities, you have afforded new rationalizations for delayed actions against aggressors, oppressors and administrative sprites. By displaying physical evidence of internal harassment, you lend credence to their claims of having to spend much time dealing with petty annoyances such as yourself.

The other nasty side-effect of your article is the perpetration of Olympus. High above the plebeian conclaves of the Hatch, is the fourth floor sactuary for the idealistic student ravings. To use your flimsy comparison technique, one would surmise that another such haven exists in the Campus Center for the Board of Governors, of which you are a member. A paid position, last I heard, if one is a chairperson, which last I heard, you are.

Michael, the Sixties have been over for some seven years. Sorry, but such is reality. The times call for degree of realism even within the realm of this "womb of awareness".

Now, outside of the fact that you have chosen a scant six persons to represent the actions of the non-union, SGA membership, please allow me to shed some light on your subjects.

OK, parachute ready? here we go, back down to reality. Funny thing about administrative payrolls, they account for much of the funds that allow students to attend this University. Some 40 per cent of the students on this campus receive some sort of financial aid. Surely you are not suggesting that the thousands of persons whose funds are under administrative direction, are scabs, stool-pigeons, or even anti-union?

Do think way back to your days as an undergraduate. Do you remember "work-study"? Many SGA members consciously apply for this program. And many of them are awarded "work-study" because lo and behold they have not been bought off and must pay their tuition with earned monies.

If you must launch a verbal assault on the BMOC (Big Martyrs On Campus) then I am afraid that you will have to foreswear such amateur techniques. These persons you attack, (who incidentally come from pro-union, middle-class families) are most competent at dealing with the Big Boys. Professionalism begins with competency, which demands painting a realistic picture. I was disappointed to find that your battlefield has been drawn in the past. What are we to expect next week? Brilliant exposes on Mr. Hite's pilferings from his Crayola Box in first grade; or perchance the exclusive report on Ms. Batiste's bad conduct marks for a particularly trying time in the third grade?

I would love to say that I have accepted rides home in Bryan Harvey's Rolls-Royce and hungrily watched him tally his bride receipts of the day, but to my knowledge, the administration has afforded his 40 hour work week but the luxurious residence of a shared apartment in exclusive Puffton Village. See how ludicrous these trivial personal drippings are? Not to mention tedious.

I dare say that other than polite consideration, the Administration would find SGA members as boring as we who have become acquainted with them. Despite the high degree if intellectualism, one phrase that invariably stumps only the non-union members is "my social life". Whether persuing the contents of some 700 pages of Trustee memorandum weekly in between classes, or putting in sixty hours on campus activities of student concern, the current co-Presidents have sacrificed their recreational time and energy to forge a better student quality of life on campus. And you wonder why they keep feeling for a crown of thorns.

I feel I must end where you and Ms. Mellilli began, with Jon Hite. The charges of manipulation are so ridiculous to any person who knows this neurotic workaholic that we must resist demeaning ourselves by dignifying such allegations with a response. He has no time for a social life, let alone room in his mind to work out the convoluted plans of manipulations. By allowing his actions and words to be presented openly and always honestly, Mr. Hite has been rewarded with deceit and political trickery. Is the best defense a good offense, Michael, or are you and Ms. Melilli bored with the comings and goings of your own political associates? I claim to be no fan of Mr. Hite's, but I do respect his effort and determination to allow me not to become sacrificial of my leisure time. Mr. Hite as well as other supposedly non-union SGA members are not "Anti-Union", their objection is with the persons who seek to place themselves at the political helm for ulterior motives.

The people you cite, hold up for public condemnation, do not have a lucrative law practice on which to fall back in times of financial distress. If you insist on playing the Capus Hemmeroid, then out of a sense of decency and fair play, I must continue to respond. I do not rejoice in that prospect of defending the SGA. Your argument would never stand in a court of law, dear boy, and such investigations find you only guilty of fraud and charged with contempt.

Nikki Aronson swears loyalty to only God, Flag, and the Teamsters.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA. 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

More than an impotent rebellion

By PETER KRACHT

A thirty year old man stepped out of a cab and hurried into the Manhattan Criminal Court. He stepped out of hiding into the lights and clamor of hundreds of reporters. Across the country the headlines screamed "Student Radical Gives Up". In New York, the first twenty minutes of the news was devoted to him. His name was Mark Rudd.

He had been Chairman of the Columbia chapter of SDS, a leader of the 1968 Columbia strike. He was the archetype of the American rulers' nightmare of the previous decade. A nightmare of an entire generation of youth turning against them and challenging their policies and power. Mark Rudd didn't say anything on his day of surrender, nor has he since. For the media it didn't matter. It gave them one more opportunity to declare the revolutionary struggles of the 60's dead.

What's behind this media campaign? They want to smear an entire period of struggle that saw millions stand up for liberation, against discrimination, and against the criminal war in Vietnam. The fact that now, nearly a decade later, they are still trying to do this proves what a powerful force the movement of the 60's was, far from the impotent rebellion they claim it to have been. Looking at some of the accomplishments of this movement shows why its memory still poses a threat to the rulers of this country. This movement:

—contributed greatly to forcing an end to the Vietnam War; it led mass mobilizations against it, turned the campuses into battlegrounds around it, forced an end to the draft, and spread anti-war resistence to the rest of the American people.

—won many Black and minority studies programs, affirmative action, and open admissions to some schools.

—sparked tremendous social debate, controversy and struggle among all classes and strata of the American people.

—created thousands of revolutionary minded people — who continue to organize and build struggle on the campuses and in the factories.

It is in the face of all this that these rotten apples get paraded about. It's a neat trick to deny the sacrifices and accomplishments of millions by popularizing the self-serving disgruntlement of a dozen creeps.

But the media is speaking to more than a few superstars turned sadsacks. They are speaking to the real experience of a movement that came to a stop. But the level of struggle and organization in 1977 is much less than in the 60's. What happened?

Those who stood up and fought in the 60's — youth, students, and minorities — did not have the power to bring about complete revolutionary change. These movements were isolated from (though they certainly affected) the struggles of the working class — the millions who work in the mines, mills, and factories. It is only through the strength, power, and leadership of the multi-national working class that a society can be truly turned upside down and revolution succeed. The millions who made up this movement made great gains and won many victories — but they could go only so far as social movements divorced from the struggles of the working class in terms of making full revolutionary change. At the time, this was a difficult phenomena to understand, and it caused a good deal of confusion and cynicism among people as to how to make revolution. Of course, the rulers worked overtime to keep this pot of confusion brewing, and keep students and workers divided.

So where do we go from here? We are constantly told that our generation is fundamentally different from that of the 60's — interested in nothing more than our textbooks and our booze. Yet there are many reasons why their picture of a contented generation of college students can never be true. Today our rulers present us with Chile, the threat of war with the Soviet Union, educational cutbacks, Bakke, unemployment of 40 per cent (80 per cent in N.Y.C.) for minority youth in the cities — all this and more is what they offer the generation of the 70's. These are experiences that youth today are growing up with. These are the experiences and new lessons they continue to pile on to what has been learned and remembered from the 60's. This is not a content, passive generation, but a restless one, one faced with a society increasingly unable to solve its problems.

We can see the stirrings of that restlessness — in the six month battle at Kent State to move the gym, the wave of protests and building take-overs against Bakke and U.S. involvement in South Africa. It is precisely to nip this restlessness in the bud that our rulers ask the smug, cynical question, "Where have all the flowers gone?" The movement that flared up and died down in the last decade is beginning, just beginning, to be rebuilt.

When the restlessness turns into rebellions and when the breezes and gusts of discontent become a hurricane of struggle....Then what will the editors of Time and Newsweek say? Where will be their articles dripping with smug satisfaction? Rather than laughing up their sleeves they'll be hiding in their 500 dollar overcoats. The flowers will return to bloom ever more beautifully and this time will rip up every weed this system can grow.

Peter Kracht is a member of the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade [formerly the Revolutionary Student Brigade]

IN MEMORIUM OF THE FOUR WHO LOST THEIR LIVES ON THIS SITE
KENT STATE UNIVERSITY
BK

Physical Plant 'priorities' deprive floor of privacy

To the Editor:

What does it take to make the Physical Plant finish a job that it has started?

On Nov. 17 the Physical Plant removed the doors from the individual toilet "stalls" on the second floor, a co-ed floor, of John Adams dorm in order to make some repairs. Well, it's now Nov. 30 and the bathroom is still in its raped condition. For 13 days the women and men who reside on this floor have been forced to live without proper toilet facilities. The Physical Plant, however, has done nothing to remedy the situation.

We of the second floor, as well as the Heads of Residence, have called the Physical Plant an estimated dozen times over the past two weeks asking them to fix our bathroom. The Physical Plant people have replied that they "have priorities". What priorities can be higher than respect for privacy when one has to perform necessary daily functions? We've called the Residential Resource Management office and also John Findley, the Southwest Area Coordinator. The Physical Plant people told John that they'd "send two people right over." Yet the toilets are still in a degenerate condition.

In desperation I have called the Amherst Board of Health. They told me that although UMass is located in Amherst, it does not fall under the Amherst jurisdiction. This leaves one wondering what other atrocities the unviersity can get away with.

All that the people who live here want is to have some doors installed on the toilet partitions. This is not asking too much, this is only asking for privacy and safety when one has his pants down. The condition of the toilet stalls is not due to student vandalism, it is due to the incompetence of the Physical Plant employees. Would the Physical Plant people please get off their asses and do something?!

Bill Barowy

CMP BK
Hello, Mr. Dimpimple? ... This is Elmo Sinbad of Fear Mutual...
I'm awful sorry but we're going to have to cancel your Life Insurance...
Well you're a bad risk. Your tests show a high level of radiation exposure...
What's that.. Oh yes you could continue at an 800% premium increase... Thankyoo Sir.
Hum Dum De Dum
DIAL DIAL
Ernie.. Elmo here. Get me another 1,000 shares of Intern'l. Mutate Nuke Reactors will ya.

Valley cornucopia

Well, according to all reports, Thanksgiving was enough of a success to guarantee that it will be held again next year. Visitors to homes throughout the states of Mass., Conn., N.Y. and even as far as Wisconsin all reported back favorable on their weekend experiences, despite the presence of a minority of drunks unable "to carry on any semblence of a conversation." (In fact, one old drunk riding the D-train toward Coney Island engaged Carlos, one of our N.Y. researchers, in quite an extensive conversation.)

The visitors to Boston were elated when the Celtics celebrated Thanksgiving by stealing a game from the Knicks. Visitors to New York, however, did not let this singular letdown destroy their weekend. Confident that the Knickerbockers will be on top come the end of the season, they took advantage of the weekend and relaxed. And Sandy reports that snow-covered Wisconsin was THE place to be for an enjoyable weekend.

Dick Gregory reminded us, however, of a few things we need not be thankful for. The oppression of Rhodesia and South Africa, among other inequities existing at home and abroad, transcend our temporal feasts.....

It was revealed in Frisbee class the other day that Amherst will be the site of an International Frisbee Association sponsored National Series Tournament next summer. The tournament will be run by Daryl Elliott and Dan Habeeb, New England Regional Directors for the IFA and is scheduled for the weekend of June 23-25.

Habeeb, you may remember, won the world Maximum Time Aloft championship last summer at the World Frisbee Championships. He and Elliott, who organized the UMass Frisbee Club, were recently appointed New England IFA regional directors, thereby helping to solidify Amherst as the Frisbee mecca of New England.

While the UMass Frisbee Club took this semester off, a full schedule of activities will highlight the Spring semester. Also, the Physical Education Department, keeping up with trends, will be offering two sections of an introductory Frisbee course next semester. Habeeb, Elliott and George Flood have done a remarkable job in integrating Frisbee into the Physical Education Department curriculum....

And tomorrow, THE Governor himself, Meldrim Thomson, will be visiting the Pioneer Valley. The conservative....no, the off-the-wall conservative will be visiting the progressive, alternative valley cornucopia. Knowledge of his presence will, undoubtedly, put a crimp in many people's day.

The image of Thomson and William Loeb is even distasteful to most political middle-of-the-roaders, while being absolutely abhorrent to any one who believes in civil liberties, social justice or democratic action. Unfortunately, dealing with the two on such a gut emotional level, however appropriate a response, prevents the assessment of their work on a practical level.

The fact that New Hampshire is near the bottom in terms of providing common social services to its population should be motive enough for the voters to turn Thomson out of office. And the shoddy journalism of the Union Leader is not worthy of its circulation. I guess emotional opposition generates emotional support blind to reality. These items of topical interest come from the Puffton Collective, and appear very Thursday in the Collegian.

Involvement requires an open mind

By STEPHEN MATHIEU

Everywhere that you look around you, there is someone waving some banner of some cause that they are fighting for. My question of the day, "What Cause Are You Fighting For?"

On this campus, we probably have more causes to offer than everywhere in the world.

We have people fighting for "Unionization".

We have people waving the banner, "Move the Gym".

We have people waving the flag, "End Racism, Sexism, and Oppression Now!"

Then, we have the "No Nukes" people.

We have people dedicated to Affirmative Action, and others dedicated to the rights of the Non-Smokers. We also have people fighting to "Stop Amherst Towing".

When you stop to think for a moment, all of the people involved in all of these struggles have something in common.

They all feel that they are the victims of an injustice of some sort.

And you know, I can't help but praise the people who get involved in these things. Because where there is injustice, I'd lose faith in humanity if nobody rose up to conquer it.

However, it is the means that are used to conquer it at which I sometimes get upset at. Sometimes, for the sake of conquering their injustices, these people are inflicting other injustices upon other people. Let me give a few examples.

In this area for the last few years, we've had some clown trying to show X-Rated movies on campus. Naturally, there have been all kinds of protests to disallow "this trash". I can think of a better way to discourage this guy than by taking away his constitutional rights. Set up a picket line in front of the box office on the days that these movies are to be shown. Maybe then, his Box Office Receipts will tell him he is fighting a losing battle on this campus. He won't bother us anymore. After all, would we want our movies to be censored, or our music, or our newspapers? Fortunately, in this country, we are free from censorship. He is entitled to these rights as well as we are.

I spoke earlier about abortion. Although I deplore it, would it not be a greater injustice to see a woman die at the hands of some butcher in an alley because I refused to let her have a legal, clean and sanitary abortion?

And what about the money spent at Kent State? Would not this money have been much more wisely spent if donated to the March of Dimes or the United Fund, Jimmy Fund, or some form of Medical Research?

I believe it would have. I also believe that if these people had put their time, money and efforts toward the poor, elderly or sick right here in this area, it would have been much more wisely spent. However, this was not done, and I think that the waste of this money on four dead students, as opposed to giving it to the living needy people all around us, is a far greater injustice than building a gym on a historical site.

The point I'm making is that although it is good to become involved in things, and to fight for this cause or that, you have to keep an open mind to the things going on around you. In our ever changing world, you have to keep re-evaluating the goals you are pursuing.

Somewhere there is a happy medium for all of us; mixing our personal goals with our public service.

Stephen N. Mathieu is a Collegian Commentator.

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Art Garfunkel concert has been cancelled

The Art Garfunkel concert scheduled for Dec. 2 in Chapin Auditorium, Mount Holyoke College has been cancelled, Irma L. Rabbino, director of public information at the college, said yesterday. The Grammy Award-winning singer is suffering from strep throat.

Rabbino said she was not yet sure where ticket refunds will be available. She said that when Garfunkel called to cancel, he indicated he would be willing to schedule another concert in the area next February or March.

Tickets now on sale for 'Antigone' production

Tickets are now on sale for the University Ensemble Theater's production of Jean Anouilh's "Antigone," running Dec. 2-4 and 6-10 in the Curtain Theater of the Fine Arts Center.

The box office in the lobby of the Rand Theater, is open Monday through Friday, from 2-5 p.m. It will open one hour before performances. All evening performances begin at 8 p.m. The Sunday matinee on Dec. 4 is at 2 p.m.

Ticket prices are $3 for regular admission and $2 with a student or senior citizen I.D. Group rates are also available. Interested persons may call the box office at 545-3511 for further information and phone reservations.

Madrigal Singers plan annual Christmas dinner

Wassail, figgy pudding and Christmas carols all will be part of the Seventh Annual Madrigal Dinners to be held at the Campus Center Auditorium Dec. 8-11 and 14-17.

The event is intended to capture the traditional holiday spirit that lived in the courts of the English nobility during the Middle Ages. Trumpet fanfares accompany each course, jugglers and dancers (accompanied by the Collegium Musicum) perform, and the Madrigal Singers, as a group or in quartets, sing their traditional songs. Each performing group is dressed in appropriate costume. At the end of the dinner, a traditional carol is sung around the wassail bowl.

The Madrigal Dinners are presented by the UMass Madrigal Singers, their conductor, E. Wayne Abercrombie, and by the Campus Center. Seating for the dinners will be at 6:30 p.m. all evenings but Sunday, when seating will be at 4:30 p.m. Tickets are $8.95 for UMass students and groups of 20 or more, and $9.50. For more information and reservations, call 545-0418.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Deli Ham, Broccoli Cauliflower Casserole, Basics: Broccoli Cauliflower Casserole, Lentil Patties

DINNER — Baked Chicken, Chopped Beefsteak Special, Basics: Baked Chicken, Herbed Soybean Casserole

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Duchess Beef Pie, Basics: Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Vegetable Shepherd's Pie

DINNER — Lasagna, Fried Fish, Basics: Lasagna, Fried Fish

National exchange applications available

Applications are available from now through Feb. 24, 1978 in the Admissions Office, Whitmore Hall, for the undergraduates interested in going on exchange for the fall or for the year in 1978-1979. Spring only exchanges are not feasible.

The student applying for an exchange should be a sophomore: the exchange would be during his-her junior year. We prefer not to exchange students in their senior year. Students must have at least a 2.5 cumulative average. Students who are interested in participating in the program next year must complete an application and return it to the box marked "NSEP Applications" at the Office of the Registrar. Final selections, including a list of alternates, are expected to be completed by the end of April, 1978.

Sociologist to lecture on class and education

Prof. Basil Bernstein, internationally renowned sociologist and linguist, will present a lecture entitled "Class and Modes of Educational Transmission" at the Media Center (room 22) of the School of Education, today from 3:30-5 p.m., open to the public.

Bernstein is best known for his work on social class and language development. In his writings, he has described the effect of communication on individuals from differing economic backgrounds.

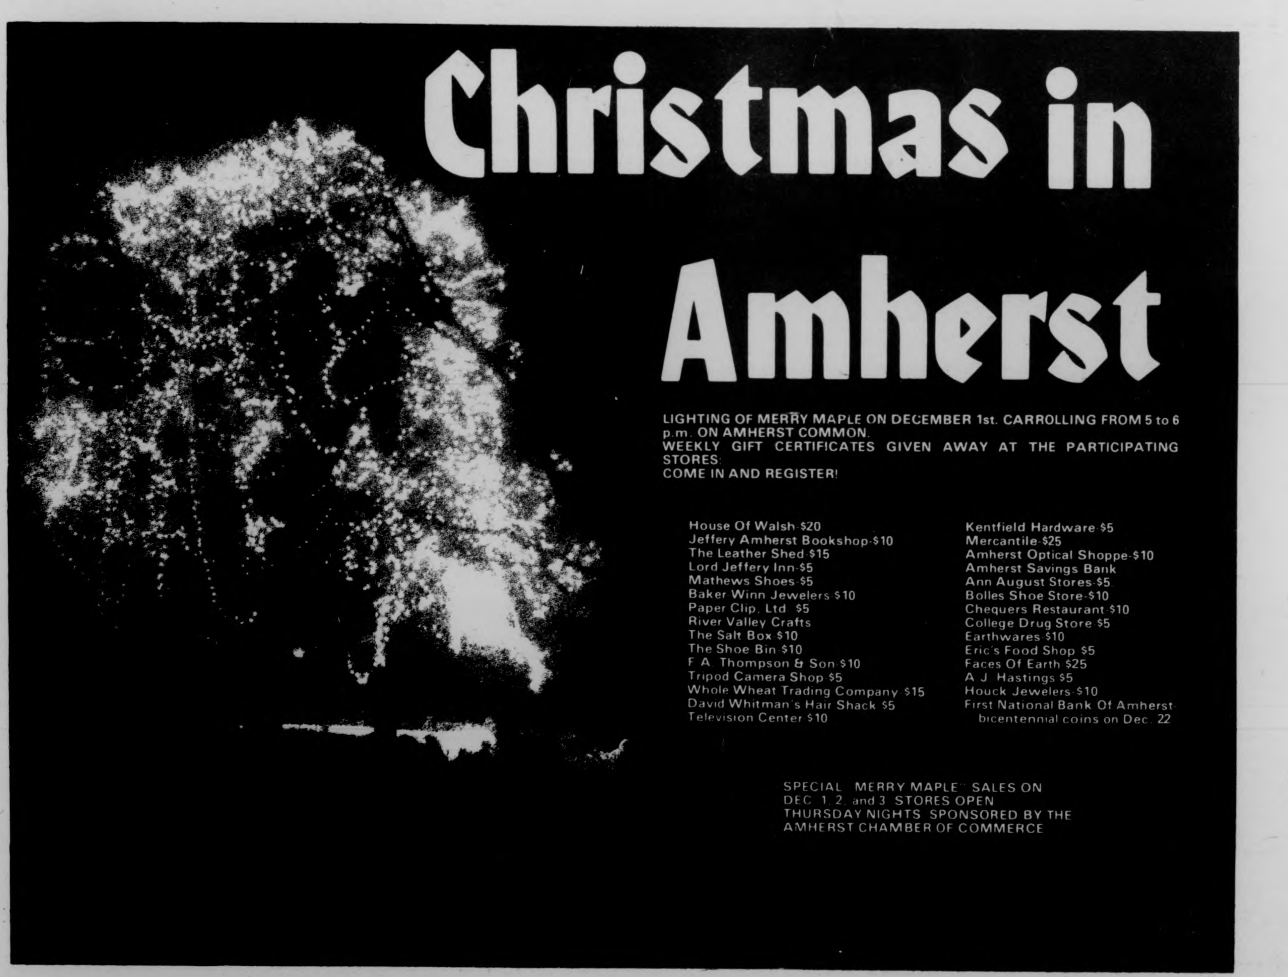
Dr. Bernstein is professor of the sociology of education and head of the social research unit at the University of London.

Holly Hobbie Glasses

Enjoy a 14 oz. serving of Coca-Cola and get a glass.

49¢

Hatch Only



Christmas in Amherst

LIGHTING OF MERRY MAPLE ON DECEMBER 1st. CARROLLING FROM 5 to 6 p.m. ON AMHERST COMMON.
WEEKLY GIFT CERTIFICATES GIVEN AWAY AT THE PARTICIPATING STORES:
COME IN AND REGISTER!

House Of Walsh-$20
Jeffery Amherst Bookshop-$10
The Leather Shed-$15
Lord Jeffery Inn-$5
Mathews Shoes-$5
Baker Winn Jewelers-$10
Paper Clip, Ltd. $5
River Valley Crafts
The Salt Box-$10
The Shoe Bin-$10
F.A. Thompson & Son-$10
Tripod Camera Shop-$5
Whole Wheat Trading Company-$15
David Whitman's Hair Shack-$5
Television Center-$10
Kentfield Hardware-$5
Mercantile-$25
Amherst Optical Shoppe-$10
Amherst Savings Bank
Ann August Stores-$5
Bolles Shoe Store-$10
Chequers Restaurant-$10
College Drug Store-$5
Earthwares-$10
Eric's Food Shop-$5
Faces Of Earth-$25
A.J. Hastings-$5
Houck Jewelers-$10
First National Bank Of Amherst-bicentennial coins on Dec. 22

SPECIAL "MERRY MAPLE" SALES ON DEC. 1, 2, and 3. STORES OPEN THURSDAY NIGHTS. SPONSORED BY THE AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

A VODKA & GIN QUARTS SPECIAL

ICE COLD KEG BEER $21.00 And Up

SCHMIDT'S 12 oz cans $5.90 case
$1.50 six

In-door Savings too good to be advertised.
Come see for yourself!
- UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
- NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
- AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS

In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

Campus Carousel

By TONY GRANITE
Special to the Collegian

SEXISM CHARGES have reared their ugly heads, this time on the campus of the American University.

An editorial in the Eagle there expressed its opposition to a planned second "Wet Tee Shirt Contest" at the campus Tavern, on the grounds of "sexism and exploitation of the female body that is inherent in contests of this nature."

The Student Women's Union on campus criticized a previous contest as being "a blatant display of sexism and bigotry, degrading to all women and men who have respect for human dignity and equality."

----

MEANWHILE, a freshman at Texas A&M wrote her thanks in a letter to the editor of the Battalion for having been rescued from an attacker in a dorm parking lot. Seems that a group of about 20 Aggies charged to her rescue and captured the attacker.

"Even though it is only my first year at A&M, I've always been keenly aware of the great spirit of comradeship between Aggies ... I've never seen more people so willing to get involved and help someone in trouble," she wrote.

----

SPEAKING OF CRIME ... the latest FBI report places Michigan State at the top of the campus crime list with 1,789 reported crimes in 1976.

The top 10 campus crime spots are, in order: Ohio State, 1,657; Indiana U., 1,530; Florida, 1,528; Berkeley, 1,432; Wisconsin, 1,386; Rutgers, 1,329; Maryland, 1,260; Illinois, 1,242; and Arizona, 1,217.

----

BLACK-ORIENTED YEARBOOK is being planned by six students at the University of Connecticut, according to recent intelligence in the Daily Campus, there. The reason is "to better portray the lives of black students on campus."

The editor of the regular campus yearbook, "Nutmeg", says the book has "a very free policy" that includes offering "a section to anyone who wants one. They can even pay out the pages if they want to."

The black yearbook planners' spokeswoman says, "I'm not trying to put down the "Nutmeg," but I just don't like the way it comes out. They're not representative."

And the head of the Minority Affairs office on the campus says he doesn't have the $8,000 needed for the new venture, but he wouldn't object to the publication of a black-oriented yearbook if a compromise between the six students and the "Nutmeg" couldn't be reached.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

☐ AUDIO
☐ AUTO FOR SALE
☐ CALCULATORS
☐ ENTERTAINMENT
☐ FOR RENT
☐ FOR SALE
☐ FOUND
☐ HELP WANTED
☐ INSTRUCTION
☐ LOST
☐ MISC.
☐ MOTORCYCLES
☐ PERSONALS
☐ PHOTO EQUIP.
☐ RIDE WANTED
☐ RIDERS WANTED
☐ ROOM WANTED
☐ SERVICES
☐ TO SUBLET
☐ TRAVEL
☐ WANTED
☐ WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#:__________(if different from ad)   Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run:____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500, ord. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

69 Buick—sta-wgn. Exc. Mec. cond., air-cond., 9 seater, sun roof top, new brakes—549-6188.

1966 Volkswagon. Recent king pins and paint. Looks and runs good. Asking $250. or best offer. Call 584-4745.

73 Vega Wgn. Std., AM/FM HT/Air, new tires, clutch, ex. cond. $1,100./BO Tom 549-4036.

73 Saab 96. Looking for good home $1,425. firm. Laury584-0070, lv. msg. if nec.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1969 Peugot. Good shape, new major parts. Under 500, call 546-4538.

1970 Merc. Cougar. New ex., AM-FM, radial 81K. Call 546-5344.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 TR6 convertible. Some rust. 1 owner. Low mileage. Best offer over $500. Call after 6, 1-567-8663.

68 VW Bus. Needs work. Has rebuilt engine. Best offer. Call Jan after 6PM 253-2037.

Capri 2000 72. Auto., exc. cond. $1,495. BO. 665-4762. Low mileage.

70 Volks for parts. First $100. takes it. Call Maryanne at 256-8460 to see it.

VW Bug 69. Runs exc.-needs nothing. $695. BO 665-4762.

MOTORCYCLES

1972 Honda 2000 total miles. Orig. owner $300. 253-5559.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Nikko 6065. 2 months old. Asking $350. or best offer 546-5084.

Ladies Caber Dwnhll. Ski Boots. Size 8, ex. cond. Joan 256-0368 nights $20.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Univox 50 Watt Amp. Ex. cond., reverb etc. Best offer 6-7985 after 7p.m.

Harmony 12 string. $125. or BO 665-4762.

Sofabed, Reclining chair, bikerack, tables, bookshelf, lamps, coffeetable 549-5725.

The Madeleine in Amherst. 40's dresses, fur coats-blazer jackets-lacy blouses-old scarfs-silky nighthings-old books-79 S. Pleasant St. (253-3484) Daily 11AM-5PM.

Alaskan Malamute Pups, AKC Registered. Black&white, ready for Xmas, come look now, call Steve 367-2748 No. Leverett.

New 30 gal aquarium with all equip., even fish! Worth 250+. Asking $125. Dave 6-5977.

XMAS SHOPPERS! Low, low prices on famous name sneakers. Limited supply 6-9611.

1970 Mobile Home in Belch Park. 12X50, includes AC, shed, stove, refridge. 6000 firm. Call 536-3086 or 532-0446 if no ans. Within 2 miles of UMass bus stop.

Ski Boots! 2 pr. ladies 7. Pr. Nortalias, Pr. Kastingers. Call now - Debbie 6-9643.

2 B78-13 snows. Like new. $25. 665-4762.

FOR RENT

3 bedroom house, 285+, pets ok, avail. Jan. 3, 256-6732; days 51981 (Chris).

1-Bdrm. Apt. Cats allowed. $180. mo. incl. all util. Avail. Jan. 1 549-6740.

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

2½ rm furn apt all utls inc. Pool, parking, A/C, 230 mo. Amherst Motel & Apts, Rt 9 opp Zayres, 256-8122.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Apt. mate 253-7056; spring. Janet.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men nonsmokers $55/mo. & utilities—Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

Apt. mate intersession; 253-7056; Janet.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call 665-3536.

One-half of a 2bdrm apt available Dec 22-Jan 28 1 mi from campus pay own elec & phone call Ginny at 549-1764.

Cliffside 2br. $230. inc. 665-4762.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

3 bdrm. apt in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1½ Bdrm. Spg. Sem. $207. a mo. John 549-1298.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

Responsible studious person wted for own rm in 2bdrm Townehouse apt. Jan 1-Aug 1. Bus. 1 mile to UM. $100 + ⅓ util. 549-0061.

Large room in furnished 3 bdrom. apt. $75.00 complete! Includes cable. Available immed. 253-2980. Kp. trying.

Sublet Jan only b/o. Call 546-4027, 5500.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

WANTED

Female to share two bedroom apt. in Sund. bus $75+. Call 665-4416 ask for Alix.

Housemate wanted. Neat, responsible, nonsmoking. Grad student or professional to share roomy cooperative home on UMass bus route in Amherst. Begin Jan. 1 $125. + utilities. 253-5849 call evenings.

Housemate wntd. Coop house in Leverett older woman grad student call aft 7 549-0704.

Room: on L. Metacomet Blchtwn—70 plus—Carol at 323-5043.

2 females to shr. bdrm. for next sem. in spacious N. Amh. house 60/mo. ea. 549-5993.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

DON'T PASS THIS UP!

For Sale 1964 Olds F-85. Very good cond. Must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great. Call 6-9642 SOON.

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

LAST SUPPER! by HRTA students for semester. Homemade chicken noodle soup, sweet & sour pork, rice pilaf, veg, homemade bread, coconut pudding polynesian. Mon.,Tues.,Wed., Thus. at 4:30. Lunch Tues. at noon. $1.75. Tix must be bot in advance, rm. 219 Chenoweth Lab.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models low prices. Jack 586-0610.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

Electronic repair: stereos, you name it. Low rates. Call Ted after 4P.M. 546-6201.

Typing - $.40/page. Call anytime 549-6655.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

LOST

Lost 10-27 in C.C. Ring-black stone, silver setting. Great sentimental value. Not worth much money, but will pay small reward. Call 665-4544 after 6.

PERSONALS

I, HC Gauthier, being of sound mind and body, do publicly declare my love for one Maryanne Galvin, this Dec. 1, 1977.

I guess it's our time to say hello to our favorite shellfish warden. From the Audobon bon man and Dr. Ima Fish.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

What's Happening

TODAY

OPEN HOUSE

Open House for the Che-Lumumba School, located on the 4th floor of the New Africa House. For further information call 545-2145.

FILMS

—"Childbirth for the Joy of It," "Preparing for Breastfeeding", "Great Expectations" and "Talking about Breastfeeding" sponsored by the La Leche League, a non-sectarian, nonprofit organization dedicated to good mothering through breastfeeding. Donation $1 per person or $1.75 per couple. People's Institute, 38 Gothic St., Northampton. Refreshments and discussion with local league leaders will follow.

—"Painters Painting" Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire, at 8 p.m.

LECTURES

—"Goya: Reason and Fantasy" by Colles Baxter, assistant curator of prints. 1 p.m. Print Exhibition Gallery, Smith

—"The Seventh Olympian: How to read a Pindaric Ode" by Susan Skulsky. 3:45 p.m. Wright Hall Common Room, Smith

—Cyriacus of Ancona's Egyptian Visit and its Reflections in Gentile Bellini and Hieronymus Bosch" by Phyllis Lehmann and William Kenan Jr., Wright Hall, Smith, at 5 p.m.

—"Saint-Sernin at Toulouse at the Crossroads of Romanesque Sculpture" by Willibald Sauerlaender, Gamble Aud., Mt. Holyoke, 8 p.m.

LECTURE

Ambassador William Brewer will speak on "American Foreign Policy in Africa" at 8 p.m. in Hampden Center, SW. Among the topics covered are the liberation struggles in Southern Africa, the American role vis-a-vis Russia and Cuba, and the prospects for its economic development.

—"A Nous La Liberte", Rene Clair's masterpiece, will be shown as part of the Film Classics Series, 7 p.m. in classroom 2. Sponsored by the Newman Club.

—"The Dybbuk" Thomson 104, 8 p.m. a Tiddish film classic, based on S. Ansky's play in which a spirit inhabits the body of a young woman. English subtitles.

—"The Fountainhead" Mahar Aud. 7 and 9:30 p.m. $1. Also showing is "The Incredible Bread Machine," a half hour film produced by students in California and designed to raise questions about an alternative economic system — the free market. Sponsored by the Students of Objectivism.

—"Logan's Run", SU Ballroom, 7, 9 and 11:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Program Council. Admission.

DISCUSSIONS

—"Race and Cuba" is the topic of a panel discussion with Prof. Ernest Allen and Prof. Jonetta Cole. Refreshments. Coolidge Tower, 12th floor lounge.

—"Scriptural Manipulation and Rhetoric of Love in the Middle Ages" by University of California Prof. Joseph Purkhart. Herter Haall, 6th floor history lounge, 8 p.m.

DANCING

Israeli Folkdancing, instruction provided, 7:15 p.m., Gill Hall, Campus School, Smith. Sponsored by the Hillel Foundation.

VIDEO PROJECT

Student video project will present "The National Lampoon Show" between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. on the CC concourse.

TOMORROW

COFFEEHOUSE

A five-college older student party will be held at Alumni Hall, Amherst campus at 8 p.m. Donation $1.50 at door or CAOS office. Live entertainment and refreshments.

DANCE

Gratitude, Orlando Zayas and Miguel will perform at a benefit dance at the Quonset Hut, Rte. 9, Amherst, 9 p.m.-1 a.m. There will also be recorded music with videotapes and a raffle. Tickets $2 in advance and $2.50 at door. Sponsored by the CCATV Committee to end Sterilization Abuse.

FILMS

—"Claudine," Hampshire College Main Lecture Hall, 8 and 10 p.m.

LECTURE

—"Moral Issues in Artificial Intelligence" by COINS Prof. Michael Arbib at 12:15 at the luncheon meeting of the Amherst Community Forum, Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 North Pleasant St. Reservations for lunch can be made by calling 253-2848 today or tomorrow.

PHILADELPHIA: A performer for the Moscow circus rides spread eagle across his horse during a show at the Spectrum. (UPI)

Notices

FOUND

Cat near Morrill. Rusty color about 1 year old with a white collar. Call Josh, 546-6877.

SENIOR PORTRAITS

A representative of G. Fox Co. will be in the Index office today from 8 a.m. - 10 p.m. Don't miss this opportunity to order pictures, return proofs, and choose a picture to go into the 1978 Index.

CONTRACEPTION EDUCATION

Offered at University Health Services 302, Mondays and Thursdays at 3 p.m., Wednesdays at 7 p.m. Session for couples only, Tuesdays at 7 p.m.

J. P. STEVENS BOYCOTT COMMITTEE

Important meeting for all committee members at 7:30 p.m.

HRTA MAJORS

FSEA will sponsor a wine and cheese party tonight at 8 p.m. in Flint 103. Open to all HRTA majors.

MEN'S GROUP

Meeting at 12:30. Inquire at the S.O.P., 4th floor, S.U.

RHETORIC EXEMPTION EXAM

Watch for information about Rhetoric Exemption Exam, to be given Dec. 8.

S.O.P. STAFF MEETING

Training session will be held today, C.C. 177.

UMASS HANG GLIDING CLUB

Meeting today C.C. 172 at 8 p.m.

UMASS DOG CLUB

Meeting — Paige Reading Room, today at 7 p.m. Future plans will be discussed and elections will be held. New members are welcome. (Paige Lab is behind Stockbridge Hall next to Marston Hall.)

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

Van will be in front of Hasbrook at 6. There will be a coffeehouse this week. Those interested in entertaining call 256-6035.

NEAG REPS

Area government meeting, Mary Lyon Lounge, 6:30. Everyone is welcome to attend.

COM STU MAJORS

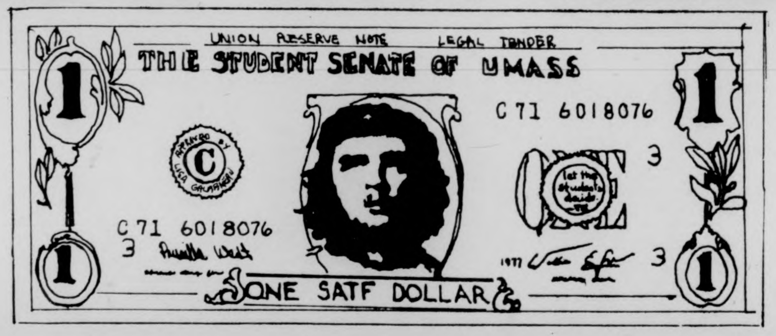
Voting for RSO officers today and tomorrow in April Tidlund's office. All Com Stu undergrads urged to participate.

ATTENTION RSO'S

DON'T MISS OUT ON YOUR SHARE OF SATF MONEY



UNION RESERVE NOTE
LEGAL TENDER
THE STUDENT SENATE OF UMASS
C71 6018076
C71 6018076
1
1
1
1
3
3
3
1977
ONE SATF DOLLAR

RUSH YOUR PROPOSAL AND RATIONAL TO RM. 420 S.U.

DEADLINE: DECEMBER 14 5pm late submissions not accepted

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

WE'RE HAVING ANOTHER SIXTIES REVIVAL PARTY?
THAT'S RIGHT! MARK'S BEEN ORGANIZING IT!
WHAT'S IT GOING TO BE LIKE?
SAME AS LAST YEAR—PERIOD COSTUMES, ACID ROCK, GRANOLA, HOSTILITY TOWARDS AUTHORITY..
IT'LL BE A CELEBRATION OF MORE CAREFREE DAYS, BUT AT THE SAME TIME, A REMEMBRANCE OF THE AGONY OF VIETNAM, THE RACIAL HATREDS IN OUR CITIES, AND THE CLASH BETWEEN GENERATIONS!
WOW.. I FEEL GUILTY ALREADY!
I KNOW! I'M PRETTY EXCITED MYSELF!
12-1
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

BEHOLD, THE WORLD'S LARGEST DIVINING ROD.
WHAT DO YOU EXPECT TO FIND WITH THAT ?
JAMB
THE PACIFIC OCEAN!
12-1
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

YOUR BOX OF GOLD STARS? NO, MA'AM, I DON'T HAVE IT
I PUT IT BACK ON YOUR DESK, REMEMBER? I WOULDN'T TAKE YOUR BOX OF GOLD STARS, MA'AM...
I'M AN HONEST PERSON...I EVEN HAVE AN HONEST FACE..
IT'S A LITTLE DISORGANIZED, BUT IT'S HONEST!
12-1
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Did you see Baretta last night?
No, I don't watch anything but test patterns.
Test patterns?
Yeah. I like channel three's, but seven's beep has a really nice tone.
It's a shame your set doesn't have one of Neilson's monitor boxes.
Ranney 12/1

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

AS DENNIS PUTS THE SUIT ON, ITS FUNCTIONS ARE EXPLAINED TO HIM.
THE LEGS AND RIGHT ARM ARE POWER-BOOSTED BY AN EXO-SKELTON. THE CHEST PLATE CONTAINS A VARIETY OF WEAPONS, WHICH ARE SELF REGENERATING.
THE WRISTLET IS AN IONIC-BEAM PROJECTOR. THE SUIT HAS DEFENSE SCREENS, WHICH CAN WITHSTAND A FORCE-FIVE EXPLOSION. THE SUIT ALSO HAS A BUILT-IN BATTLE COMPUTER, TO AID YOU IN MANEUVERING THE SUIT.
THE SUIT CAN FLY, BUT IN DOING SO IT MUST DROP ITS DEFENSIVE SCREENS, MAKING YOU VULNERABLE TO ATTACK.
OKAY, THANKS FOR EVERYTHING. I'LL NEVER FORGET THIS.
WITH THE SECURING OF THE LAST MAGNETIC LATCH, THE SUIT HUMS TO LIFE.
EXCELLENT! WITH THIS SUIT I SHOULD BE ABLE TO GET PAST THAT GUARD ROBOT, EASILY.
THE BATTLE-COMPUTER SPEAKS
AFFIRMATIVE. A GUARD-ROB IS NO MATCH FOR THIS SUIT!
NEXT: TO FIGHT A WORLD
ROLLINS 12-1

UM by Marty Maceda

GREAT MOMENTS IN ART HISTORY # 2 ONE EVENING IN THE MID 1940'S AT AN ELEGANT PARTY IN PEGGY GUGGENHEIM'S MANHATTAN APPARTMENT A FAMOUS ABSTRACT EXPRESSIONIST PAINTER ARRIVES LATE AND SOMEWHAT S JACKSON DARLING! SO GOOD OF YOU TO COME. DO MAKE YOURSELF AT HOME.
URP
THE PAINTER'S IDEA OF HOME MAY HAVE BEEN A LESS WARM ENVIRONMENT. IN ANY EVENT HIS FIRST TWO STEPS IN ACCLIMATING HIMSELF WERE TO REMOVE HIS CLOTHES AND TO DAMPEN THE FIRE IN THE FIREPLACE IN THE MOST EXPEDIENT MANNER AT HAND.
WHAT A PISSER!
OOH, HE'S SO ELEMENTAL
HOW EXPRESSIVE!
RE-DEFINES THE BOUNDARIES BETWEEN ART AND LIFE.
WHAT FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT
MACEDA 12-1

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

A RADIOACTIVE DUCK TURD HAS BEEN DROPPED ON THE REMAINS OF DR. BENNEX. THE TURD STARTS A NUCLEAR FUSION PROCESS WHICH BRINGS BENNEX BACK TO LIFE!!!
I LIVE AGAIN! AND MY WHOLE BODY PULSATES WITH NUCLEAR ENERGY!
...AND DR. BE IS BORN!
LAFLER 12/1

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 1 — Born today, you are one of those gentle persons who possesses a personality of tremendous force. You have generosity of spirit, sincerity of purpose and often such singlemindedness that you may be thought of as stubbornly attached to your own views. A relatively high-strung individual, you need to avoid excessive mental pressure because you have a tendency to become so nervously responsive to whatever goes on about you that you ultimately cannot cope with the day's "happenings."

You need a great deal of physical exercise, for that kind of activity leads to a state of calm. Your nervousness could account for some of the errors you make, particularly those errors which involve the young. You get along well with children but are inclined to credit them with more sensitivity than they actually have. In consequence, you tend to cater too much to what you think are their moods.

You have a fondness for ease and comfort. On the other hand, you may not be able to afford ease and comfort until you are well into your mature years. You will value those activities which increase your ability to gain ease for yourself and comfort for your loved ones, and may well be considered a complete materialist as a result.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Take good care of your health today. There may be danger in a new activity this evening.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Entertainment late today leaves you with many memories. Engage another in conversation profitable to all.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Show appreciation of favors recently granted. Others expect you to conform; it would be wise to do so.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Prepare for and alleviate disappointment by having an alternative for present action ready.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Satisfy a loved one's fastidious taste. You can seek variety while you complete present chores.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Take care lest in repeating tales you encourage scandal. Try to help, not hinder another.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Adjust the conditions of your life to meet those of another's, or you will give up an important friendship.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Employ your talent for bringing harmony to any situation today,or there may be mayhem at work.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — Observe closely those you would like to change. You may be wasting your time; listen and learn why.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Intellectual development is important to your success at work. Check the adult education situation near home.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Judgment improves with additional information on those to be judged. Don't make a decision without facts.

SCORPIO(Oct.23 Nov.21) — Keep seeking a satisfactory response to your questions. Bring additional heads in on the problem.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

ACROSS
1 Light source
5 Refuse
10 Hives
14 Of the U.S.A.
15 Right-hand page
16 Woodwind
17 Restraint
19 Buck heroine
20 Cape ------ Is., N.S.
21 Visionaries
23 Zachariah's nickname
25 "Jane ----"
26 Sofa: 2 words
30 Tug's tows
34 Glorify
35 Flower holder
37 Dupe: Slang
38 Card game
39 Phantasm
42 Chin. pagoda
43 Roman date
45 ---- freeze
46 Tropical tree
48 Seed integuments
50 Ocean beach: 2 words
52 Busy bugs
54 Disfiguring mark
55 Canada, for one
59 "------ for repairs"
63 Astronaut ---- Shepard
64 Fluently
66 Ryun's forte
67 Indulges fully
68 Repose
69 Auctioneer's word
70 Commerce
71 ---- bien: Very good

DOWN
1 Author Charles ----
2 Love god
3 Ancient Asian
4 Bakery item
5 Dazed state
6 Soak
7 Citric ----
8 Retail establishment
9 Sweet stuff maker: 2 words
10 Lodgers
11 Competent
12 Fly upward
13 Female birds
18 Meat cuts
22 Palm cockatoo
24 Harbor
26 On the square
27 Chemical compound
28 Weathercocks
29 Diplomatic perceptions
31 Mount: 2 words
32 Afr. antelope
33 Kills
36 Swine enclosures
40 Most pallid
41 Auction function
44 Discolored
47 Nobleman
49 --- Arbor
51 Bring charges against
53 Kind of eclipse
55 Water barriers
56 Spiced stew
57 Promenade
58 "--- - chance!"
60 Marquee name
61 Otherwise
62 Tints
65 Which was to be proved: Abbr.

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| G | O | F | A | R | ■ | P | A | S | T | ■ | S | P | E | D |
| O | V | U | L | E | ■ | A | N | K | A | ■ | H | A | R | I |
| B | A | L | E | S | ■ | S | T | I | N | G | A | R | E | E |
| I | L | L | ■ | T | A | T | A | ■ | ■ | E | D | I | C | T |
| ■ | ■ | S | H | O | V | E | ■ | R | E | S | I | S | T | S |
| A | S | P | I | R | E | ■ | C | A | S | T | E | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| G | E | E | S | E | ■ | M | U | T | T | E | R | I | N | G |
| A | R | E | ■ | ■ | M | E | L | E | E | ■ | ■ | R | O | O |
| R | E | D | S | T | A | R | T | S | ■ | M | O | O | S | E |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | C | E | L | L | S | ■ | W | A | R | N | E | R |
| R | O | S | E | A | T | E | ■ | T | O | U | G | H | ■ | ■ |
| O | V | E | N | S | ■ | ■ | B | I | N | D | ■ | O | D | A |
| W | I | N | T | E | R | S | E | T | ■ | L | O | R | E | N |
| E | N | S | E | ■ | E | A | R | L | ■ | I | N | S | E | T |
| R | E | E | D | ■ | D | Y | N | E | ■ | N | E | E | D | Y |

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | ■ | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | ■ | 10 | 11 | 12 | 13 |
| 14 | | | | ■ | 15 | | | | | ■ | 16 | | | |
| 17 | | | | 18 | | | | | | ■ | 19 | | | |
| 20 | | | | | | ■ | 21 | | | 22 | | | | |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | 23 | | | 24 | ■ | 25 | | | | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| 26 | 27 | 28 | | | | | 29 | ■ | 30 | | | 31 | 32 | 33 |
| 34 | | | | | ■ | 35 | | 36 | | ■ | 37 | | | |
| 38 | | | ■ | 39 | 40 | | | | | 41 | ■ | 42 | | |
| 43 | | | 44 | ■ | 45 | | | | ■ | 46 | 47 | | | |
| 48 | | | | 49 | | ■ | 50 | | 51 | | | | | |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | 52 | | | 53 | ■ | 54 | | | | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| 55 | 56 | 57 | | | | | 58 | ■ | 59 | | | 60 | 61 | 62 |
| 63 | | | | ■ | 64 | | | 65 | | | | | | |
| 66 | | | | ■ | 67 | | | | | ■ | 68 | | | |
| 69 | | | | ■ | 70 | | | | | ■ | 71 | | | |

Free agent Brohamer signs 3 year Sox pact

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox signed Chicago free agent infielder Jack Brohamer yesterday, the American League team's third dip into the open market grab bag in a week.

Brohamer, who hit .257 in 59 games with the White Sox last season, is regarded as a contender for Boston's second base slot, held by Denny Doyle.

Brohamer's three-year contract is reported for $300,000.

A week ago, the Red Sox signed former New York Yankee star pitcher Mike Torrez to a $2.5 million long-term contract, and also added free agent reliever Dick Drago.

Brohamer was the regular second baseman in Cleveland for four years before being traded to the White Sox for Larvell Blanks in 1975. His best season was 1974 when he hit .270 in 101 games with the Indians.

In 1976, Brohamer hit .251 with the White Sox and had a career high of seven home runs and 40 RBI.

Grapplers ranked 6th

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

According to a poll released on Monday, the UMass wrestling team has been ranked sixth in New England. The poll was conducted before the season began, and voters included three college and three university division coaches.

The University of Rhode Island pulled in the number one ranking. The Rams started the season off on solid footing last week with victories over UMass, Syracuse, and a tie with Michigan and may have a national ranking before the season is over.

Rounding out the New England rankings were Southern Connecticut in second, Springfield College third, Boston University fourth, and Central Connecticut fifth.

Ranked below number six UMass were Coast Guard in seventh, Mass Maritime eighth, Amherst College ninth and Worcester Polytechnical Institute tenth.

UMass wrestling coach Dave Amato felt the poll was for the most part accurate.

"I think that Mass Maritime is better than a lot of those teams," said Amato. "I also think that Harvard and Yale could be there, but I guess that they didn't rank the Ivy League schools."

The poll is an indication of the kind of schedule that UMass has this year, as they will face every team included in the rankings with the exception of Amherst and WPI; which have been ranked below UMass.

UMass will have two more matches before intersession. The team travels to New London, Connecticut for a tourney at Coast Guard this weekend and will go to Cambridge for a meet with Harvard University Dec. 10.

UMass wrestling coach Dave Amato supervises a recent wrestling workout in the Boyden wrestling room.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 73 Harvard 66
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — UMass 68 Radcliffe 52
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — UMass 181.95 Boston State 161.90
TODAY
None
TOMORROW
VARSITY WRESTLING — Coast Guard Tournament
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — at New Hampshire, 7:00 p.m.
HOCKEY — at Norwich, 7:00 p.m.
WOMEN'S SWIMMING — at New Hampshire, 7:00 p.m.

★Women B-ballers cop first win

CONT. FROM PAGE 15

for UMass. Along with the tight first half 'D', several players had good stats to show for their efforts.

Peters, last season's leading scorer, hit eight of her 14 shots from the field to go along with nine rebounds and five assists.

Maura Supinski, meanwhile, shot a mere one-for-10 from the floor, but ripped down 10 rebounds and held Caryl Curry, an 11.4 scorer a year ago, to just three points. Curry shot a dismal one for nine.

"Maura did an excellent job," Ozdarski praised. "She just couldn't find the hoop."

The leading rebounder, though, was freshman Cathy Harrington. She pulled down 11 caroms to go along with seven points.

"I was pleased with her play," Ozdarski said of Harrington. "She was aggressive off both boards."

Another newcomer, Debbie McCulloch, popped in six points and added five rebounds and three assists.

Continuing along a trend set last season, Ozdarski used each of her 14 players.

"I'm trying to find a combination that will work on defense," the coach said in explaining the constant shuffle of players on and off the court.

Sue Hewitt led Radcliffe with 13 points, while Wendy Carle had eight and Hildy Meyers chipped in with eight.

With a weekend trip to New Hampshire and Maine staring UMass in the face, Ozdarski knows what her squad has to concentrate on in order to be successful.

"We'll have to work a lot harder on defense," she said. "We'll just have to make the effort."

UMASS (68) — Peters 8-4-20; Carey 5-5-15, Henry 6-0-12, Harrington 1-5-7, McCulloch 3-0-6, Supinski 1-2-4, Halleran 1-0-2, Parker 1-0-2. Totals: 26-16-68.

RADCLIFFE (51) — Hewitt 2-9-13, Carle 4-1-9, Meyers 4-0-8, Spencer 3-1-7, Field 1-2-4, Curry 1-1-3, Fulton 1-1-3, Aboucher 1-0-2, Johnson 0-2-2. Totals: 17-17-51.

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
NOW OPEN FOR LUNCH AND DINNER
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
MON. Night Happy Hour
4pm -- closing
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

NORDIC & ALPINE
SKI EQUIPMENT,
ACCESSORIES, SERVICE
Empsall's Sport Shop
&
Laura Girard Shop
84-86 Green Street
Northampton
584-3924 584-4003

WILL THE WINTER OF 1977 BE AS SEVERE AS 1976?

If most of the forecasters are correct it will be, so why not get ready now. Gleason's is all stocked with stylish and practical cold weather outdoor clothing for all your fall and winter needs. Come in early and look over the Quality lines we stock. Also ask us about our early birds/buy special.

A note on quality. Look at clothing labels. AMERICAN MADE GOODS at Gleason's usually cost no more than inferior imported copies.

Don Gleason — Quality Down Vests
North Face — Down Parkas and Botties
Sierra Designs — Down and 60/40 Parkas
Camp 7 — Down Vests & Mtn. Parkas
Woolrich — Rugged Shirts, Pants, Jackets
Duofold — Quality 2 Layer Underwear
Wigwam — Hats, Socks, and Mitts
Vasque — Hiking Boots
Sorel — Insulated Boots
TUBBS Snowshoes

Also a Complete Selection of Camping & Backpacking Equipment on display. (Tents, Packs, Etc.)

SPECIALS THRU NOV. 12, 1977
(WITH A COPY OF THIS AD)
1. 40% off all Camp 7 Sleeping Bags
2. 20% off all Camp 7 and Jansport Mtn Parkas
3. 20% off all Kelty Framed Packs
4. Our Early Bird Program on Parkas and Jackets extended thru Nov. 12, 1977

HOURS 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY, INC.
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

SPARTAN
BRAKE AND MUFFLER SHOP
• BRAKES
• MUFFLERS • SHOCKS
• TOWING AAA ALA
MUFFLER SERVICE
8 Pearl St., Northampton — 584-8531
TRUST YOUR CAR TO SPEEDY SPARTAN SPECIALISTS!

Put yourself on the map.

Become a navigator with the United States Air Force. Air Force navigators are among the finest in the world. They train in the ultramodern T-43 jet trainer at Mather AFB, near Sacramento, California.

Two, three, and four-year Air Force ROTC scholarships are available to help you get there . . . by paying tuition, textbooks, lab fees, and $100 tax free dollars each month while you're in college. Plus, Air Force ROTC is a great way to serve your country.

Find out about the programs today and chart a secure future for yourself. Your destination is an Air Force commission, your checkpoints are excellent salary, promotions, responsibility, and Air Force opportunities.

Find out today about one of the finest scholarships in the nation. It's a great opportunity.

Call 5-2437
Air Force ROTC

HUNAN
GARDEN
RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
家酒園南湖
Mandarin Szechuen
Cuisine
✱ Open 7 days a week ✱
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.95
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib
eggrole, chicken wing, fried
rice & hot and sour shrimp
Mon.-Wed. 5:00-8:00 pm
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

Peters, Supinski pace win

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

CAMBRIDGE — It was far from a masterpiece.

Term it first game jitters, nerves, or whatever. But for the UMass women's basketball team, term it a win.

The Minutewomen got double figure performances from three players en route to posting a 68-51 win over Radcliffe last night in their first game of the season.

Sue Peters led the way for UMass with 20 points, while Cheryl Carey added 15 and Sue Henry chipped in with 12.

But for both teams, the game was characterized by ragged play and poor shooting.

"The first game's always the toughest," UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski said. "But it gives us a good indication of what we have to do."

The Minutewomen uses Peters' 12 points and an air-tight defense to jump out to a 31-14 halftime lead, and then played the Crimson even-Steven in the second half.

And that irked Ozdarski.

"There's no way they should have scored 37 points in the second half," she said. "We have to play defense the whole game, not just one half."

But in the first 20 minutes, UMass thoroughly dominated the Crimson, holding them to just four points in the last 13 minutes of the half while putting 20 of their own points on the board.

After the Minutewomen jumped out to a quick 11-6 lead, Radcliffe cut the gap to 11-10 one point (11-10) on a Wendy Carle lay-in. The hoop prompted Ozdarski to call time, and her team proceeded to straighten itself out.

UMass then ran off strings off six, four, and 10 points to leave the court with its 17-point midway lead. In the process, the Minutewomen held Radcliffe scoreless for the last 5:41 of the first half.

But in the second half, UMass let down its guard, and as a result the overmatched Crimson made the final score much more respectable than it should have been.

"They have to want to play defense, irregardless of what the score is," Ozdarski reiterated. "They all had mental lapses."

The real story of this game, though, was the sloppy play of both teams. Turnovers plagued both squads, as the Minutewomen made 29 to their opponents' 23.

The shooting percentages also approached the nether depths. UMass hit on 38 per cent of its shots, while the Crimson could connect on (believe it or not) a mere 26 per cent.

But the game did show signs of promise

TURN TO PAGE 14

Forward Maura Supinski (31) didn't capitalize on this head and shoulder fake, but led the women's hoop team on D by rebounding and stifling Radcliffe's top scorer. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Gymnasts topple Boston State

By ANDY BLUME
Collegian Staff

The 1977 edition of the UMass men's gymnastics team opened its season last night with a convincing victory over Boston State college, by the score of 181.95-161.90.

Co-captain Bob Donahue and Bob Lamb paced the team with second and third place finishes, respectively, in the all-around scores. Donahue had 39.4 points in five events and Lamb 35.45 points in six events.

John Forshay, one of only two seniors on the young team of which over half are freshmen, won in the floor exercise with a score of 8.85. UMass swept this event with Minutemen Dave Buegler and Donahue finishing second and third, respectively.

UMass once again swept the top three spots in the next event, the pommel horse. Dave Kulakoff finished first with the highest score of the night, a 9.3. Donahue finished second and Tim Barry third.

Steve Nunno won the rings competition with a 7.8 followed by teammate Dave Felloman and Boston State's Gary Obermier in the second and third spots. UMass' lead was 89.85-74.35 midway through the meet.

The Minutemen completed its third sweep in the vaulting. Forshay won his second event of the night with a fine score of 9.15. He was followed by Donahue in second and Nunno in third.

First place in the parallel bars belonged to Dave Kulakoff with a score of 7.9. Chris Way of Boston State, the winner in the all-around competition, finished second and John Nelson of UMass finished third.

UMass' weakest event of the night was the high bar. Jim Duffy won the event of Boston State with an 8.55 followed by a second place finish from teammate George Clark. Tommy Thomson finished third for the Minutemen.

Coach Dick Swetman had this to say about the meet and his team's performance.

"I was really happy. We broke the 180's (score total), which is about a 7.5 average (per man in each vent). Bob Donahue and Bob Lamb did super jobs in the all-around. Donahue probably hit the best side horse of his life. John Forshay really looked good on the floor.

"This was kind of a warmup meet for Army on Saturday. Army will be very tough. They're scoring probably in the 190's. I've already projected that we can score in the 190's, maybe the 200's.

"The Rings and the parallel bars are weak events. We're going to really be working on them.

"We've got four meets in the next eleven days. The Penn State double dual meet (at home Dec. 10) is going to be a really good meet.

"We've still got Frank Cohen injured. Hopefully he'll be back soon.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
SPECIAL—OF—THE—WEEK
LOUIS MARTINI
CALIFORNIA WINES
CHIANTI, BURGUNDY, PINOTNOIR
15% OFF
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE — AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384 256-8433 EZ Parking

It wasn't pretty, but hoopmen win

Brad Johnson (12) hooks lefthanded for two of his eight straight points, which, along with a blocked shot from nowhere, clinched a Minutemen win. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

By BOB HIGGINS
Collegian Staff

CAMBRIDGE — Brad Johnson came off the bench to contribute eight straight points and a key blocked shot to push the UMass basketball squad to a sloppy 73-66 win over a scrappy Harvard team last night in the Minutemen's season opener.

Johnson's flying block of a Bob Allen breakaway layup with 50 seconds left in the game iced the contest for the Minutemen after the Crimson had cut the UMass lead, which had reached as many as 13 points (60-47 with 11:19 remaining), down to just five.

The Minutemen jumped to an early lead, and led 18-8 seven minutes into the game. They maintained that lead throughout the first half, and went off at the half with a 39-31 lead.

But the Minutemen had problems in the second half, particularly up front. Both Len Kohlhaas and Mark Haymore had four fouls with over 14 minutes remaining, and both fouled out before the eight-minute mark.

With the two UMass big men out of the way, Harvard's 6-9 forward Brian Banks went to work inside. The very physical Banks finished the game with 21 points, 15 in the second half.

The Minutemen led, 65-52 with 8:41 left in the game. Then Banks did his thing, hitting a jumper, a free throw, and a layup, followed by two Rich Bengal buckets, and the UMass lead was down to four with 4:43 to go.

The two teams traded baskets for a few minutes until Johnson's block saved the game for UMass.

Banks was a high scorer in the contest, followed by Bengal and UMass' Mike Pyatt, both with 17. Guards Derick Claiborne and Alex Eldridge scored 12 each for the Minutemen.

Sloppy play marred the contest, as UMass turned the ball over 19 times, while Harvard wound up with an incredible 30 miscues.

The UMass squad generally attributed its sloppy play to first-game jitters.

"We were over-anxious — we just didn't come together right away," said Johnson after the game.

But coach Jack Leaman was a bit more concerned. "I'm really worried about our rebounding and defense," said Leaman. The much smaller Harvard squad outrebounded the Minutemen, 44-37.

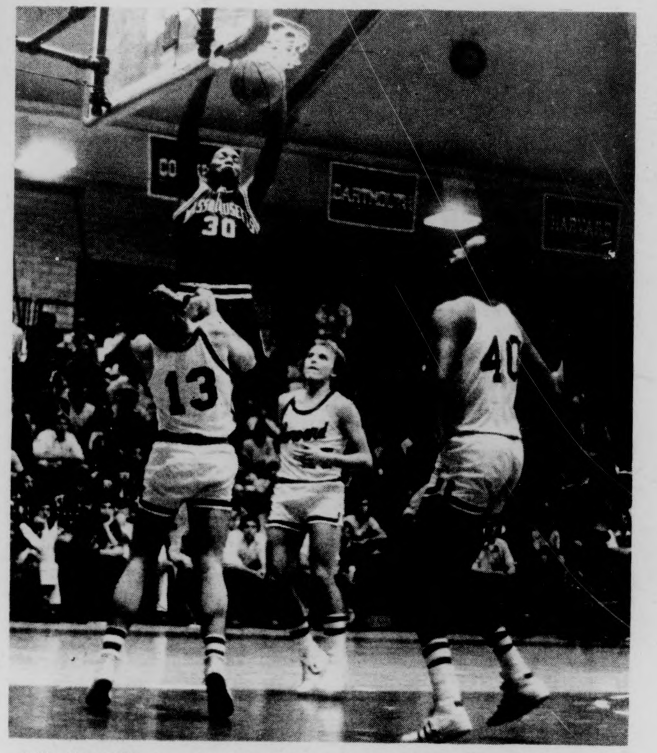
Even before they got into foul trouble, Kohlhaas and Haymore were not getting the rebounds that everyone was expecting of them. Haymore finished the game with five rebounds, while Kohlhaas was credited with one.

For Haymore, it was not the kind of performance he had hoped for in his UMass debut. "I don't know what to say," he stated after the game. "I gotta get into the flow of the game."

But his teammates were not so hard on the big man. "He hasn't played competitive ball in two years," said Pyatt.

Leaman had special words of praise for Eldridge, whose hustle kept the Minutemen together when things started to go bad, and also came up with eight steals.

For five-year Harvard coach Frank McLaughlin, it was a disappointing loss. "We found some weaknesses we thought we could work on. But we can't play a team with the talent of UMass and make so many mistakes."



Mike Pyatt (30) scores two (the surest two) of his team leading 17 points in last night's sloppily played win over Harvard. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Of football awards, top foes and more hoop coverage

Rich Eckel

Although, for all intents and purposes, the 1977 UMass football team's season ended last Saturday when it lost to Lehigh, 30-23, the team officially ended its year Tuesday night with its annual break-up dinner.

At the dinner, the team voted for the players who, in its judgement, were the most valuable to the team this season. The squad also voted an all-opponent team and elected next season's captains.

The players' choice for this season's Most Valuable Player was quarterback Mike Fallon who played ten games this year leading the team to its 8-3 record.

Fallon, injured in the first game of the season against Army, refused to undergo surgery and returned two weeks later to lead the team to a 17-0 victory over Harvard.

In those ten games, Fallon completed 47 per cent of his passes, for a total of 1073 yards,. and tossed 13 touchdown passes.

The senior from West Roxbury was unable to play high school football at Catholic Memorial because of injuries, then attended Ferrin Junior College before coming to UMass.

The team also chose Most Valuable Players at four other key, but less glamorous positions than quarterback.

Senior Phil Puopolo earned the team's respect for his outstanding play at middle guard and was credited as the Most Valuable defensive lineman. The Everett native was the team's most consistent pass rusher this season and was an instrumental figure in returning the Beanpot, symbolic of conference supremacy, to Amherst.

Senior offensive tackle Ross Schubarth, a two-time Yankee Conference all-star, was voted the team's Most Valuable offensive lineman. He was a key to the Minutemen's grinding ball control offense which scored 274 points this season.

Dave Croasdale was voted the team's Most Valuable defensive back, while halfback Bill Coleman earned the offensive back's honor. Croasdale, a cornerback, intercepted five passes this season, three against New Hampshire. Meanwhile, Coleman, although hampered by nagging ankle injuries, managed to gain 904 yards on the ground.

The "Allen Leon Pond Medal," awarded each year for general excellence in football, went to senior tight end Kevin Cummings. The "William T. Evans Memorial Trophy," sportsmanship award was received by co-captain John Gladchuk.

The players also voted Bruce Kimball and Joe McLaughlin next season's co-captains. Both players know what it's like to be captain, since in their senior year of high school they were captains of their teams. Both players were named as first team YanCon all-stars this season.

The players' selection of their all-opponent team indicates that Boston College was considered the team's most talented opponent. Ten BC players made the 22 man list.

UMass's offensive All-Opponent Team: QB Mike Rieker (Lehigh), FB Dan Conway (BC), HB Bill Burnham (UNH), WR's Steve Kreider (Lehigh), and Paul McCarty (BC), TE Bill Brundage (Army), OT's Grady Vigneau (UNH), and Greg Ocantone (BC), G's Jim Rourke and John Schmeding (both BC), and center Bill Chaplick (BC).

UMass's defensive All-Opponent Team: Ends Bob Moore (BC), and Bob Baggot (Harvard), Tackles Fred Smerlas (BC), and Chuck D'Amico (Army), Nose Guard George Mayes (Army), Linebackers Tom Marhefka (URI), and Herb Mihalik (Holy Cross), Cornerbacks Dick Duffy (UNH), and Kelly Elias (BC), and Safeties Mark Etro (UNH), and Paul Murphy (BC).

----------

This promises to be an exciting winter for the men's basketball team, and with that promise of excitement has come increased coverage from the media. The team, since it does play away from any large media centers, has always been underpublicized.

But, this season, with the Eastern Athletic Association television network, which will telecast a weekly EAA game, and now, channel 27 in Worcester, which has contracted to cover five UMass games, the B'ballers should gain local recognition.

Channel 27, the Worcester station, will be covering UMass along with Holy Cross and Assumption in its 29 game schedule. This, however, is the first season that channel 27 will make a conscious effort to cover the Minutemen.

"We did a couple of games a few years ago," informed Bob Fouracre, who will handle the play-by-play for the games. "We're stretching our coverage because we can afford to. Before, we couldn't afford the line charges.

"We call it New England College Basketball, but before all we could afford to cover was Holy Cross and Assumption. I think it's high time we catered to our state university. We're looking forward to it," said Fouracre.

Fouracre, who will be sharing the mike with color man Bob Cousy, said that since UMass is such a big school and has a large amount of alumni in the Worcester area, he expects a strong following for the telecasts.

The five games covered by channel 27 are all home games to be played at the Cage, except for one away telecast from Holy Cross.

The schedule: Vermont, Dec. 10; UConn, Dec. 14; Holy Cross, Feb. 2; George Washington, Feb. 18; and Pittsburgh, Feb. 27.

Women's basketball team dumps Radcliffe

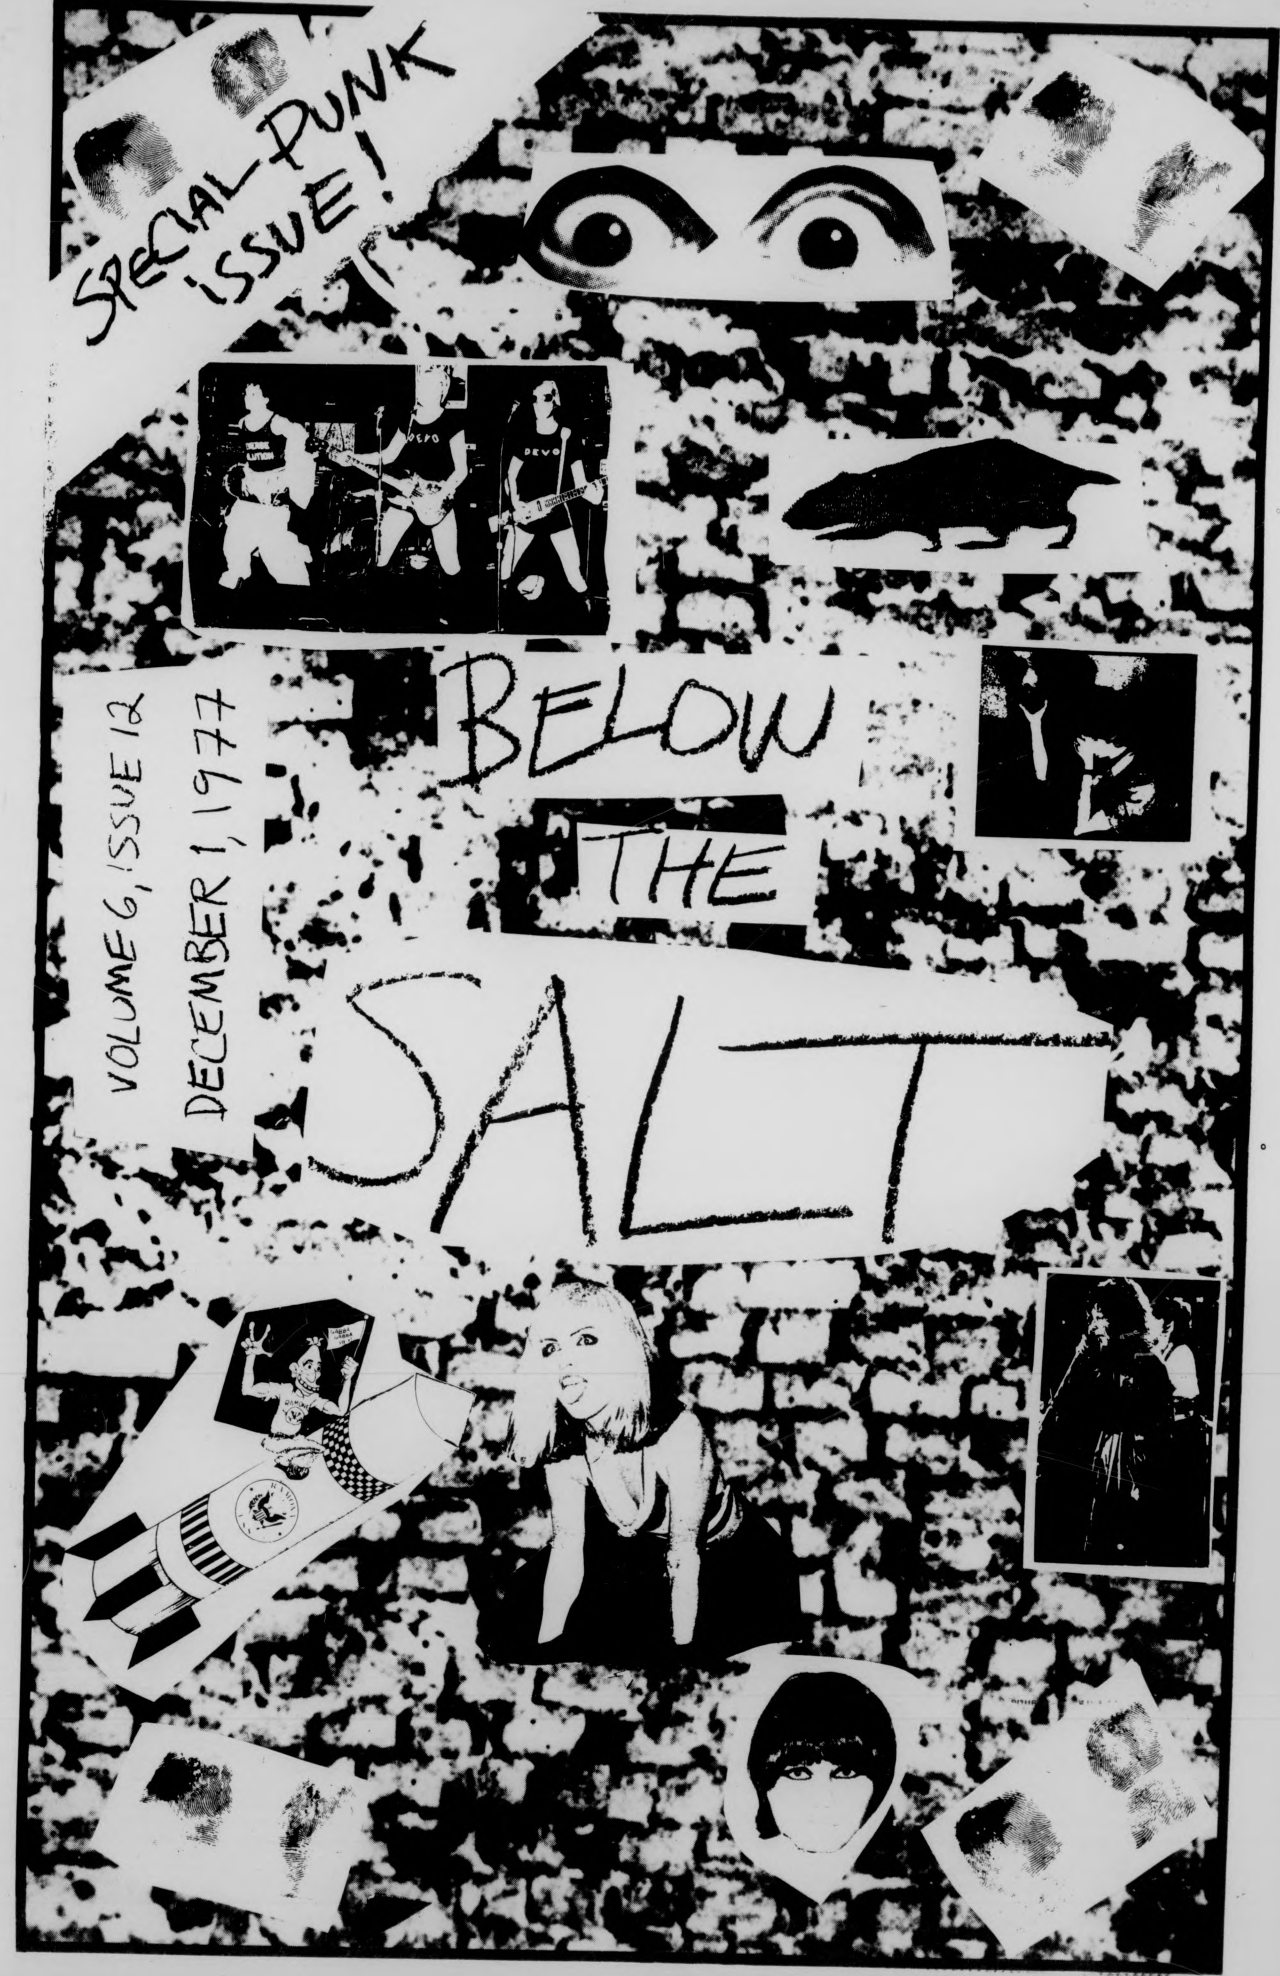
See story on Page 15



SPECIAL PUNK ISSUE!

BELOW THE SALT

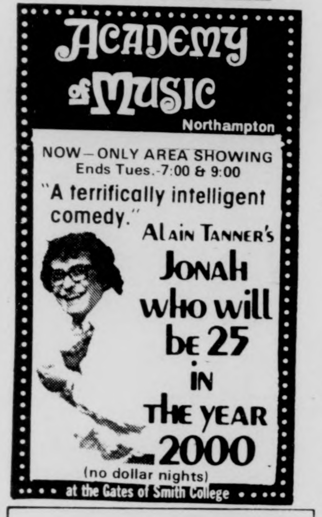
VOLUME 6, ISSUE 12
DECEMBER 1, 1977

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT
MOUNT SNOW, VERMONT
January 8-13, 1978

- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Ski 80 Miles — 1800' Drop
- Five Nights Lodging
- Deluxe Condominiums
- Kitchen & Fireplace
- Only 2 per Bedroom
- Five Minutes to Mt.
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Surprise Extras

ONLY $99.50
Easy Drive — South Vt.
Call:

All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.



Academy of Music
Northampton
NOW—ONLY AREA SHOWING
Ends Tues.-7:00 & 9:00
"A terrifically intelligent comedy."
ALAIN TANNER'S
JONAH who will be 25 IN THE YEAR 2000
(no dollar nights)
at the Gates of Smith College

Quality Leather at Good Prices

Bench-Crafted Handbags

23.95
25.95
28.95

Rugged saddle cowhide handbags styled to go anywhere. Look for lots of variety in this special group from Faces' new leather collection: multiple outside zipper pockets, flap pockets, interchangeable wrist and shoulder straps, and much more. Black, chocolate, russet, and tan leathers. Many exceptional values. 23.95-28.95.

The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!

FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

BELOW THE SALT

Volume 6, Issue 12
December 1, 1977

> "Our proper work, if we love mankind and the world we live in, is revolution."
>
> -John Cage

CONTRIBUTORS THIS WEEK

Perry Adler
Phillip Milstein
Alex M. Stein
John Bergman
Mario Barros
Tom Aversa
Brett Milano
Lisa Melilli
Dr. Hunter T. Sullivan

R. Arps Garrett

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor: | Bob Armstrong |
| Assistant Editor: | Ken Shain |
| Art: | Lesley Lawrence |
| Books: | Cheryl Sreiberg |
| Dance: | Sharon True |
| Film: | Skip Tenczar |
| Music: | Ross Nerenberg |
| Political Affairs: | Jim Paulin |
| Theater: | Debbie Wallace |

THE NEXT THING

Will the forces of punk rock and reggae music merge to form a new musical/political movement? Will RasTapunk reggae-rock ever grace our hungry ears?

Persistent Punk ← ← ← ←

Consumer's Guide To The New Wave
or
Ten For The Big Time

All good movements (as well as most bad ones) have their originators and their hangers-on, and the new wave is no exception. Now, with a big break imminent in the United States for this exciting new breed of musicians, it seems as good a time as any to separate the cream from the crap. If you have heard any of these bands and come away with a distate for "punk rock", please give some of the others a try, because all of those listed here are quite different from each other, with influences ranging from Bessie Smith to the Shangri-La's to the Grateful Dead. Following are short descriptions of some of the better remaining new wave bands.

Americans (listed alphabetically):

1. The Dictators—They've actually been around longer than the new wave itself, formed in the midst of (and partially as a result of) one of the otherwise-dullest lulls of rocknroll in its history. Besides being one of the first, they are also one of the best, incorporating a wide variety of rocknroll subgenres (heavy metal, bubblegum, surf rock, etc.) with fine musicianship, excellent lyrics and a fantastic live act. Their first LP, Go Girl Crazy, remains one of the few indispensibles of rock. Now record for Elektra.

2. The Heartbreakers—Inclusion as an American band is debatable—formed in New York out of the ruins of the New York Dolls, they emigrated to Great Britain in mid-'77, and their album, L.A.M.F. is available only as an import. Their sound isvery much like that of the Dolls, only without the cute gimmicks of that most elegant quintet. Since the release of their LP, original drummer Jerry Nolan has left the band, with one possible replacement being Rat Scabies, recent resignee from the Damned. The Heartbreakers will probably be around for a long time, in one form or another, playing their fine brand of straight-ahead rocknroll. Record for Track; no American contract.

3. The Ramones—If anyone is to break the American new wave in America it is these guys. No holds barred rocknroll, two minute toons, ridiculous lyrics, black leather jackets and blue jeans, no gaps between songs, brilliant melodies. Who could deny the genious of someone who writes, "I guess I'll have to tell 'em that/I got no cerebellum"• Not me. Record for Sire.

4. Talking Heads—My personal fave rave. Intelligent rock for the mid-'70's. Everything about them demonstrates a refreshingly mature outlook toward things, and because of this they have been labelled "too wierd". Go figure it. David Byrne's flair for a melodic hook is almost unmatched in the new wave. Record for Sire.

5. Television—Most of what I've said about the Heads applies to almost equally to Television, but where the Heads sing of their appreciation for things around them being the way they are, TV seems quite happily alienated from that reality. Their Marquee Moon stands as one of the finest crafted LPs to come around in a long while. Record for Electra.

English (listed alphabetically):

1. Elvis Costello—On his way to American stardom. Mixes up a wide variety of influences, but mostly sounds like no one but himself. Most of his lyrics demonstrate his innate sense of bitterness, and listening to My Aim Is True, his debut LP, is thus a rather cathartic experience. Records for Columbia.

2. Eddie and the Hot Rods—First LP demonstrated an amphetamine-fueled R® B rehash style, but their latest 45, "Do You Anything You Wanna Do", is a Byrds-type rocker of anthemic proportions. The Rods put on a very exciting stage show, and could go over big here, with the proper exposure. Record for Island.

3. The Jam—Seem intent on playing their early Who influence to the hilt, but they make such fine music it doesn't matter. All the power chords are in the right places, the energy and feedback are there, too, and—again—the live act is dynamic. "In the City" is another classic anthem. Record for Polydor.

4. The Sex Pistols—Forget what you've read; just listen to the music and try to deny it's brilliance! I still believe they are puppets to manager Malcolm McDowell, but listening to Johnny Rotten's splitting venom, I dobelieve they mean every word they sing. And with Warner Brothers investing lots and lots of their Rumours-earned dough into these boys you can bet you have not heard the last of them. Record for Warners.

5. The Vibrators—Much has been made of their decidedly non-punk musical history, of their respective ages, and of their lack of "dedication" to "the scene". But not enough has been made of the excellence of their music. It is clean fun Power Pop, and the Vibrators will probably be able to last far beyond "punk rock". Record for Epic.

--Philip Milstein

RAMONES
Rocket to Russia
(Sire)

SEX PISTOLS
Neverr Mind the Bollocks
(Warner Brothers)

HEARTBREAKERS
L.A.M.F.
(Track import)

THE BOYS
(NEMS import)

Having lived through the failure of glitter rock in America, I have always been pessimistic about the chances for punk over here. The New Wave has been around for quite a while now, and it has produced a lot of excellent music (and a lot of crap, too) that will probably always remain unheard by most people. But far from seeming hopeless, the outlook for the future is improving. As proven at recent concerts here and in Boston, once people get to hear the music instead of the bullshit mass media coverage, many respond favorably. And airplay is increasing slightly. Now, with new releases by some of the genre's most important artists, we may yet see a breakthrough.

Or maybe not. Rocket to Russia is the third and weakest album by America's leading punks, the Ramones. The tunes just aren't as good. However, it's still a load of fun. The lyrics are more ridiculous and the production better than ever; "Do You Wanna Dance" and especially "Surfin' Bird" are perfect oldies for them, and "Here Today Gone Tomorrow" is the prettiest thing they've ever done. Not to mention the funniest cover and inner sleeve I've seen in a long time. Recommended wholeheartedly to Ramones fans, except they already have it. Novices are directed to Leave Home first.

A major cause for concern is the long-awaited first album by*England's*leading punks, the Sex Pistols. It may turn a lot of people off to the whole thing. Whereas the Ramones are a joke, perfectly harmless like Alice Cooper, these guys are seriously menacing. When Iggy or Lou Reed have explored threatening emotions before, one could sympathize with them. But the Pistols' lead singer Johnny Rotten presents himself in such a way that one can only feel repulsion and perhaps fear. This is hate music like none ever heard before. Rotten's singing is the most grating, unmelodic whining I have ever heard. And the music does not live up to the potential demonstrated in both sides of their first two singles, being, with a couple of exceptions, one long undistinguished rehash. And yet, at the risk of destroying what little critical credibility I may have, I have grown to like Never Mind the Bollocks. It is extremely powerful stuff, and a side at a time is great when in a very rowdy mood. But this is not the place to start. If you happen to hear the Sex Pistols,*please*keep in mind that they are the only punk rock group that comes close to fitting the sensationalist press the whole movement has gotten.

The Heartbreakers are the missing link between not only glitter and punk (being descendants of America's leading glitter band, the New York Dolls), but also American and English strains of punk (originating from New York but gaining popularity and a record contract overseas). L.A.M. F. boasts the unmistakeable guitar of Johnny Thunder, giving it a very Dolls-y sound. However, the material and vocals aren't quite up to Dolls standards, and the production is almost as bad as the Damned's . Still, second-rate Dolls is as good as first-rate almost anybody else, and a nice bit of nostalgia for us old-timers, if not exactly earthshakingly fresh.

(continued on page 11)

:DANCE

The Joffrey

THE JOFFREY BALLET

The Joffrey Ballet aims to please - and judging from the enthusiastic response of the near-capacity crowds at their three performances recently (at the Fine Arts Center Nov. 15,16,17), they shoot right on target. Among the direct hits are works of youthful, vigorous intensity such as "Trinity," "Deuce Coupe II," and "Rodeo."

The Charles Manson cult. Drugs. Free love. Acid rock. "Trinity," a potent ritual dance in three parts choreographed by Gerald Arpino in 1970, encompasses these explosive aspects of those hot and heavy late sixties-early seventies quite effectively.

The first part, "Sunday," begins with powerful, virile males leaping high, arching back with their legs extended in front, and rocking and gyrating their torsos and hips. Incredcible tension - movement absolutely to the limits, yet at the same time always controlled. The women join in, but Arpino has subordinated them to smoldering sex objects, their movement consisting of sensual, hip-thrusting strides, feline leaps and attitudes, and frequent shooting star springs into the air, where the men lift high then display them in the luscious, flung-back position they have taken, before whisking them off-stage. Wrapping arms tightly around one another, the men and women form a communal circle around another man and begin to rapidly circle him, their heads swinging from side to side. Perhaps the initiation of a new memeber?

"Summerland," the second part, is about love - love which is open and free, and which knows no bounds. The duets consist of gently folding and unfolding lifts and embraces, women falling off-balance, trusting their partners to be there to catch them, and seemingly aimless, spontaneous transitions from one movement phrase to another. One particularly beautiful phrase has several couples lying down in a "W" pattern on the floor, the women lying on top of the men. Then, one man slides his partner up to his knee, poising her thigh there while supporting her shoulders. When she arches her back, extending her arms and legs up and out, she becomes a bird, resting on that perch, until her partner slides her back down on top of him. This slide-up, poise, slide-down sequence is echoed by the other couples in rhythmic canon.

In the third part, "Saturday" (derived from the ancient "Sabath"), dancers walk on carrying candles, perform a brief ritual (offering? supplication?), then leave the stage to the crazed, possessed cult leader. He rises from his lotus position, comes forward and lashes into and incredibly virtuosic, intense, ecstatic solo. The dancers return, and with orgiastic fervor they leap, spin, reach and fling their bodies in space. The dance ends with the dancers one by one placing their flickering candles on the darkened stage, and walking off, to the gradually diminishing beat of the bass and drum.

Where "Trinity" is intense, direct, choreographer Twyla Tharp's pop ballet for the Joffrey "Deuce Coup II" is ambiguous, spacey--bodering on the psychedelic. The music sets the tone--long cuts or brief snatches of Beach Boys tunes are speeded up or slowed down or fragmented in some other way. Dancers in long hair, miniskirts and bright, fuscia pants go beserk school dance style, at the same time as dancers in white bellbotom and midriff outfits prance and dance to another rhythm in a different realm, at the same time as a ballerina performs a slow, classical adagio. What is even more bizarre is that Tharp manages to integrate these divergent styles and rhythms and fragmented music with insight and humor--the dancers play off of one another's movement styles.

Tharp's unique style of movement constantly surprises, perplexes, yet appeals. In this work, one can only wonder at how fast, complex footwork or a pulsing pelvis with the upper body remaining still except for an occasional, ho-hum flick of the wrist, a spinning, slashing, wildly gestulating clump of dancers traveling at breakneck speed, somehow, miraculously not bashing into each other, or a subtle tilt of the head can be accomplished with such impact.

"Rodeo," --yep, pardner, a real-live, ropin', ridin', knee-slapping, filly-hustling cowboy ballet, choreographed in 1942 by Agnes de Mille, with a rousing score by Aaron Copland. Every gesture in this ballet communicates, touches more profoundly than words.

The scene is set: A Saturday afternoon rodeo in the American Southwest. Bow-legged, rugged, macho cowboys in full regalia (men look so damn good in cowboy garb!) show-off their skills in roping, riding, branding and throwing to an appreceative audience of womenfolk. Their knees are always bent to keep a wide, sure-footed stance, they rotate their arms to lassoo, and, standing profile, they swing up to one leg, arch back and hold the other leg in a high prance position--the image is that of a rearing stallion.

An engaging imp of a cowgirl immediately captures your attention. She is a tomboy, a misfit who, just like all the other womenfolk longs for the attention of a man, but whose efforts to win the respect and admiration of the men by imitating their gestures (hiking up the trousers, bowlegged swagger, jutting the chin out, flicking the hat back), participating in their activities and dressing cowboy style only result in their good-natured laughter and jibes.

The one time a man does approach her as a woman and not an oddity, she blows it. He asks her something, she laughs and swats him in the belly--! oh god ... she turns and hides her face in the verticle crook of her arm, while clutching her lowered head in anguish.

But like all happy ending stories (depending on how you look at it, of course) the cowgirl eventually gets herself a man once she dresses like a lady. More than that, at the lively Saturday night square dance, she has to choose between two men who ask her favor: the Head Wrangler, a suave, confident womanizer who dances with flowing, generous ease and perfection, or the Champion Roper, a cocky, dare-devil show-off who enraptures the crowd with a brilliant tap solo. She chooses the cocky roper, who is more in line with her wild, fun-loving character, and they all dance happily into the night.

The characters, although stereotypical, are well-developed and believable, and the dancing is rollicking good fun.

In addition to the direct hits were a number of other dances that were right on the mark, namely, "The Moor's Pavane," "Touch Me," "Moves" and "As Time Goes By."

"The Moor's Pavane," based on Shakespeare's Othello, was choreographed by Jose Limon in 1949, and is here reconstructed from Labanotation by Jennifer Scanlon. This dance concerns a Moor of passionate, violent nature and his interactions with his bride, his friend, and his friend's wife, all contained within the strait-laced, formal structure of the pavane (a Spanish 17th century court dance). The dance is one of trickery and deception--the Moor's friend plays on his volatile temper by first taking him aside and feeding him lies about his bride's fidelity, then by cajoling his wife into stealing the white handkerchief that the Moor has given his bride, and presenting it as proof of her infidelity.

Finally, the Moor can contain his rage no longer. In what starts out as a love duet, the Moor holds his bride tenderly, but as the duet goes on, he begins to constrict her, twist her, bend her backwards across his knee, break her, and with furiously flying fist, he beats her, partially concealed by the friend and his wife who continue the light-pavane, unaware of the murder.

The dancers moved with great amplitude and with a slow-motion quality which, along with the juxtaposition of violence and the court dance, served to augment the powerful, dramatic tension of the work.

In "Touch Me," a gospel solo choreographed by Gerald Arpino and performed by Christian Holder (to music by the Reverend James Cleveland and the Charles Fold Singers), Holder dances with consistent dynamic intensity. His tall, powerful black body is beautiful to watch; it has a drama all its own. His voluminous, sheer white, pleated costume, which he skillfully swirls, flips and flutters like angel wings, makes the dance breathtakingly luminous. The only problem is that the consistently high dynamics of his movement did not correspond to the regular rise and fall of the dynamics of the gospel music.

(continued on next page)

PICK UP A REAL SWEETIE TODAY.
FRUCTOSE is the sweetest of all natural sugars. It's what makes natural fruits as sweet and tasty as they are. FRUCTOSE is widely used in Europe as a natural sweetener, and naturally, a quick energy source. SANAVITA is making this product available to you now, exclusively via mail order. Our European-imported product line includes pure FRUCTOSE crystalline and tablets, as well as jams and preserves. And since they're all sweetened with FRUCTOSE, they're the sweetest of the sweet, naturally.
Call or write
SANAVITA CORP.
Dept. CS – 450 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022 Tel: (212) 832-7540

PLAN TO EAT AT
The Hideout
Pizza-Grinders-Sandwiches-Cold Drinks
103 North Pleasant Street Amherst
Hours 11:30-1 am Daily til 2:00 on Weekends

New Hideout Delivery Policies

THE HIDEOUT
Save ten receipts and receive
1 FREE LARGE plain pizza
265-0441
sample

Charlie's
U MASS NIGHT
10% OFF
ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID
1 PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-5403 Next to The PUB

HOLIDAY
SHOPPER'S
GUIDE

COMING
DECEMBER
5 and 6

Tonight!
2for1 Night
(most drinks & beers)
8:30 to 11
WITH TWO WAY STREET
TWO WAY STREET
THE PUB
AMHERST

Considering a Career in the Legal Profession?

If you are seeking a career opportunity — WSU offers several ways in which you can enter the legal profession. Full-Time Students: Can earn a J.D. Degree and be eligible to take the California State Bar Examination in 2½ or 3 years. Part-Time Students: Can graduate in 3½ or 4 years of study with the same degree as a full-time student by attending class an average of 3 times per week, 3 hours per class. There are schedules to fit many needs — classes are offered days, evenings and weekends. Western State University College of Law has a Whole Person Admissions Policy - applicants are screened for academic background, personal aptitude, general experience, maturity and motivation. Applications are now being accepted for Spring Semester from men and women with two or more years of college credits. To obtain catalog fill out and mail advertisement to either of our two campuses.

Western State University College of Law. Dept. C11

1111 N. State College Blvd.
Fullerton, CA 92631
Phone (714) 993-7600

1333 Front Street
San Diego, CA 92101
Phone (714) 231-0300

(Print)
Name
Street
City State Zip

APPLY NOW FOR SPRING SEMESTER. CLASSES START JANUARY 16.
Although the cost of professional education continues to spiral, tuition at WSU remains among the most moderate in the nation.

Western State University College of Law

Fully accredited by the State Bar of California and by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.
Students eligible for Federally Insured Student Loans.

SNACK BARS
FROGURT
SUNDAES
HOT DOGS
PASTRY
HAMBURGERS
GRINDERS
ICE CREAM
SANDWICHES
BREAKFAST SPECIALS
WORCESTER
7AM-10:30PM
HAMPDEN
7:30AM-1 AM

COMMUNITY AFFAIRS

The Range of Radio

Radio Alternatives In Amherst
By Alex M. Stein

If you turn on a radio these days, chances are that you'll hear the generally agreed-upon most popular type of music, the usual selection of Top-40 hits speckled with Disco, Oldies (the cherished 'moldy gold'), and tributes to Elvis. But if you're sick of the above, there is an alternative. This article is about three radio stations, all located in Amherst, which offer a different type of alternative to "mainstream" radio. Each of these stations offers unique programming tailored to the tastes of the audiences.

Five College Radio--WFCR (88.5 FM)

Many people tend to shy away from WFCR because of the music itplays-or, the kind of music it doesn't play. The station has a policy that it will play no Rock, contemporary and only a limited amount of avant-garde music. They play what the station calls "good music." That translates as classical music, which many people consider to be far from good.

"We try," says Joan Wilber, program director, "to appeal to an audience of very mixed classical and jazz music listeners. We are always on the lookout for new and good programming. And, of course, we're open to suggestions."

The station, located on Campus on the third floor of the Hampshire House, is staffed by full-time professionals. "We're not a training ground for students like WMUA," says Allen Linkowski, Acting General Manager and Director of Arts and Performances.

There are many special programs on WFCR that are unavailable elsewhere. Being a member of National Public Radio (NPR), they get many syndicated programs such as Firing Line, Images and Various symphony orchestra broadcasts, including the live simulcasts with Channel 57 from the Met. There are also locally produced programs, such as Five College Forum, Just Talk, and various childrens', poetry and other programs.

WFCR has a local newscast for fifteen minutes from Monday to Friday. A typical newscast has ten minutes of local news and five minutes of headlines. National news also comes to them from NPR.

The station-a non-commercial one-is supported by grants, but relies on the public and the five colleges for most of its financial backing. The operating costs are "well into six figures."

Easy Listening--WTTT (1430 AM)

WTTT is located in a small building (more like a private house, actually), and from the road looks more like the setting for a J.R.R. Tolkien novel than a place for a radio station. But looks are decieving, and WTTT uses its space remarkably well. The staff looks mostly in their thirties. It is a commerical station, run by advertising dollars.

Many feel that WTTT is small town radio at its best, which is evidenced by the enormous popularity of "Swaps", a show where people who have things to sell or trade call in and tell about them.

The music on TTT is "mostly soft-rock," according to Donald Friedman, one of the DJ's. The station broadcasts no local music, and although it recieves all its 45's in the mail, the station buys all of their LP's. The decision of what is and what isn't bought is made by Ted Peene, the manager and programming director, with a little help from the rest of the staff.

The station is a "daylighter", that is, it broadcasts from 6 AM until dark, when it presumably turns into a pumpkin. On Sundays, there are four programs featuring one hour of the Boston Pops, the Longine Symphonette, Classical music and a Soundtrack album.

During "Heavy Listening Hours," there is a fifteen minute newscast on the hour. Although the newscast is mostly local news, they try to broadcast at least 5 minutes of national news per hour.

They are "open to ideas from local people." One of the ideas that they were open to was a half-hour of music and commentary by a group of 4th graders. "We have to serve the public as a public trustee," says Friedman. "We are required to determine the problems of our listeners and try to set up programming to help those problems." And they do, for WTTT is indeed small town radio at its best, and it is responsive to the needs of the people who live here.

Alternative Radio--WMUA (91.1 FM)

WMUA broadcasts 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, and is completely run by students. There are 42 different DJ's, each of whom programs their own weekly show. This often leads to many different tastes-vanilla, strawberry... "We play what people want to hear," says Biff Price, a DJ and newsperson at WMUA. "The only things that we discourage are pop and music that is racist or sexist."

MUA plays "as much local stuff as we can." A recent addition to their equipment was a 14 track mixing board that will enable the station to tape local bands live in the area. A new program of live music taped locally is called "Thirsty Ear." The program is described as a "kind of localized 'King Biscuit Flour Hour.'" (Sort of ironic for a non-commercial station, since King Biscuit Flour was the first commercial sponsor for radio.)

Disk Jockeys can do whatever they want, as long as they obey FCC regulations, which can sometimes be bent due to the educational status of the station. If a DJ does something that bends a rule, then it's, "his ass on the line," says Price.

There are only three qualifications that you must meet to be a DJ at WMUA. First, you must be a student at UMASS, since it is a completely student-run radio station. Second, you must be a station member. This basically means that you've come to three station meetings. Lastly, you must have an FCC third-class license. This is a government-given test that requires the knowledge of a bit of electronic and radio theories.

WMUA offers about 40 minutes of news daily. There are also talk shows such as The Valley Talks. Other special programming includes the Women's Media Project, Dr. Salsa's Medicine Show (now syndicated statewide), the Glory Road Gospel Show. There are also shows devoted to Classical Music and Black Mass Communications.

The DJ's are always on the lookout for new releases and good music for their shows. There is no station playlist (each DJ acts as his/her own programming director), and reviews do not determine what does- and what doesn't get played. "Since we're non-commercial, we can be progressive," says Price. "Commercial radio has moved towards top-40, because they're in it for the money. Progressive radio isn't as popular as it was in the sixties."

WMUA is financed by the student government at a total cost of about $40,000. "We know we're being listened to from all of the letters and phone calls we get," says Price. From the response, it seems well worth the investment.

Joffrey continued

(continued from page 3)

No music, no set, no fancy costumes, no tricky lighting. Just dancers and time and space. "Moves," a ballet in silence about relationships, choreographed by Jerome Robbins in 1959. The dancers display physical relationships, such as enclosing and breaking up space, heaviness and lightness, fastness and slowness; emotional relationships, one being a menacing duet of emotional violence between a man and a woman; numeric, rhythmic relationships of various "how many do what where when's"; and partnering relationships: men with women, men with men, women with women, and, most interesting of all, women danceng with invisible partners.

"As Time Goes By" is another Tharp piece that features her droll humor and lucid, effortless style. Popular dances such as the jitterbug are the motif for this one, which does'nt stop moving for and instant.

Falling somewhat short of the target of excellence are "Viva Vivaldi," "Tarantella," and "Kettentanz," in most cases because the dancers foundered in the classical technique--the ensemble dances in "Viva Vivaldi" were cluttered and imprecise, the male dancer in "Tarantella" over-exaggerated his movement to the point of appearing foolish, and the partnering in "Kettentan" was awfully shaky at times.

Sharon True

---

BTS TENTH # ANNIVERSARY TRIBUTE!

REPUBLING STONE

Alice Cooper:
GOP- Rock at its best

Sammy Davis Jr.:
What kind of fool am I?

SONNY BONO

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

You're probably wondering what we're trying to do. It' sort of hard to say: sort of a magazine and sort of a newspaper. The name of it is Republing Stone, which we think is a good name for a paper that believes in the fundamental goodness of our free enterprise system. We attempt to promote the sort of culture that people who have their shit together really want, and we eschew the heavy-handed rhetoric and political (yeccch) approach of so-called 'radical' publications that completely fail to recognize the universal wisdom of the new-found-raised-consciousness-frisbee-West-Coast-I-used-to-do-acid-I'm-not-into-politics-go-with-the-flow-mellow-out-no-hassle approach to life. Can you dig it? What really is the point of getting down on people for being behind what they're into? Like everyone else who has found that everybody's thing is their own trip, we would much rather mellow out to the good vibes of Linda Ronstadt or Jackson Browne than have to deal with the awful head trips laid down by 'new wave' infantile punk rockers or the bad, bummed-out vibes that so much 'new jazz' is full of. Everything's cool, so why worry? Our profits have been steadily rising, total assets are way up , we get invited to all the big parties, and we have enough cocaine to keep us all going for decades. So why get all hung up on 'social relevance' and all that other dated 60's shit? Well, you'll have to excuse me now, I'm going over to the pool with a very famous person (I can't say who) to do up some cocaine through a thousand dollar bill. Stay cool.

Jan S. Winner

REPUBLING STONE

[illegible]

Assistant to the Publisher
JACK FORD

[illegible]

N0.254½

I got news babe.

COVER

Alice Cooper relaxes with Gerry Ford during a grueling game of golf at a Palm Springs country club.

Alice Cooper:
GOP- Rock

by Cameroon Crowebar

Alice Cooper comes up for air up 1 3/8! GOP-Rock at its best. For fun, profit, and an extra six for the road.....

FEATURES

Sammy Davis Jr.: What kind of fool am I?

by Grail Marcuse

"What kind of fool am I?" asks the perennial Sammy Davis Jr. This time he expects some answers.......

ROCK & ROLL

Bono Broods

by Chet Blippo

Sonny Laments, and laments, and laments, and laments. The record business was never this good? Lance Askew relates his story in an exclusive Republing Stone interview.....

Butz Bombs

Earl Butz: My favorite jokes?

RANDOM GLOATS

Bowie: Thin white duke in Big White House?

Reliable sources today revealed a story linking three great american actors: Cary Grant, ex-President Richard Nixon, and alleged mass murderer David Berkowitz. These three were said to have held psychiatric therapy sessions together.

During Nixon's final days secret sessions were frequent. One photographer also claims to have a photograph of Nixon, Grant, Berkowitz and a dog all eating oranges at Haight-Ashbury in May of '73. Both Grant and Berkowitz admit to the meetings, but would not elaborate. Nixon had no comment. What are the implications of such a relationship? Sources indicate that great quantities of L.S.D. were shipped to the White House during the years 1972-1974. David Berkowitz plans to reveal the whole story soon in his book to be published titled, My Three Sons of Sam.

Has Arlo Guthrie become a Republican? He did campaign for the Republican Congressman from Massachusetts, Silvio Conte in his last (and sucessful) bid for re-election...

Rumor has it that David Bowie has received offers of up to three million dollars to run for vice-president on a Republican Ticket with Tennessee senator Howard Baker in 1980. Bowie has reportedly turned down all these offers, citing the lack of "artistic control" he would have in the campaign given "its normal restraints," and the fact that he would never want to "play second fiddle to anybody". Sources have it that Bowie would only run for president, and even then he would "need to drastically change the whole system of elections in the States... I'd need total artistic control, actually, with the music played and the costumes worn having to be exactly the way I'd want them..." The rock star would like to have everyone "dress up in all sorts of androgynous elephant costumes and huge sunglasses and sing backup for me at the convetion, then we'd all switch into black leather and storm into Washington in Rolls Royces shooting elephant turds at any one that tries to stop us" according to knowledgable sources. Republican party leaders are reportedly considering actually nominating Bowie for president in 1980 despite the thin white duke's eccentrities. "I don't particuarly care for his music but I think that young people could rally around him, and I don't think he'd do anything that would upset the Republican party or the buisiness interests of this country" one prominent Republican Senator is quoted as saying. "And it'd be a hell of an inaugural" he joked.

CORRESPONDENCE LOVE LETTERS & VICE

We are cannon fodder. The U.S. Labor Party is the plunger and the State-Monopoly Capital Social Democratic State is the cannon. When the cannon goes off, baboom! Only the cannon and plunger are left! Next...

-Zbigniew Brzezinski Jr.
S.M.C.S.D.U.S.A.
[Washington, D.C.]

Commie...

-Lyndon M. LaRouche,III
U.S.L.P.P.
[Plot-to-take-over-the-world, Maryland]

Why didn't I think of that?

-Salvador Dali
[Guernica, Spain]

Hey, I just heard you guys were writing about me! Really great, swell, terrific, wow, etc., etc., etc.

-Sammy Davis Jr.III
[Borschtbelt, Mississippi]

Anybody wanna' see some porno-etchings?

-Vladimir Bukowski
[Ferlinghetti, Maine]

Who let him out?

-Leonid Brezhnev
[Moscow, U.S.S.R.]

The only thing that anyone should ever suck on is a big tall glass of Florida orange juice. (They do weird things to it in California.)

-Aneeda Bryant
Freshed Squeezed, Florida

Mr. Earl Butz
c/o Republing Stone

Dear Earl,

I'm sorry, but I forgot why negroes seldom vote Republican. Could you tell me again?

wholesomely yours,
Pat Boon

All right you slimy slag-eatin' disco-dancin' arseholes, why don't you all go wank yourselves blind so you can't find your bloody coke spoons?

sincerely yours,
Johnny Stinken

P.S. Loved your special on the telly.

---

Alice Cooper: GOP- Rock at its best

By CAMEROON CROWEBAR

Winner told me to write a little thing about Alice Cooper the performer. Being the famous rock writer that I am, I got to travel with the A.C. entourage on the summer '77 national tour (Winner bought my illustrious way into it with some of the finest coke this side of the Canary Islands), so I know the man personally, and as a performer, and regarding the latter, let me say that he was great! Jolly Alice simply cracked us up before every single show with his true-to-life impressions. He knows all the stars, of course, so they could hardly be more accurate. And pulling off his ingenious Gerry Ford impersonation on stage throughout one entire concert was too much! His best, however, was of his dear friend Groucho—good ol' Alice would simply lay down, close his eyes, and stop breathing. Temporarily, of course. And his back-stage tales of what Vincent Price is really like were Price-less. Finally, there were all those great behind-the-scenes-at-Hollywood-Squares candid stories—my god, it is true about Paul Lynde!

Oh yeah, Winner again—"You And I" is great, too—Mom and Spot (my pet dog) both love it. ♫

AD

SUN SELLS:

FOGHAT $3.98
Live

STEELY DAN $4.98
Aja

STEVE MILLER $3.98
Book of Dreams

BUNNY WAILER $3.98
Protest

"Millions of used records bought & sold"

Sun Music 549-2830
9 E. Pleasant St. Amherst, Ma.

Bono Broods

By CHET BLIPPO

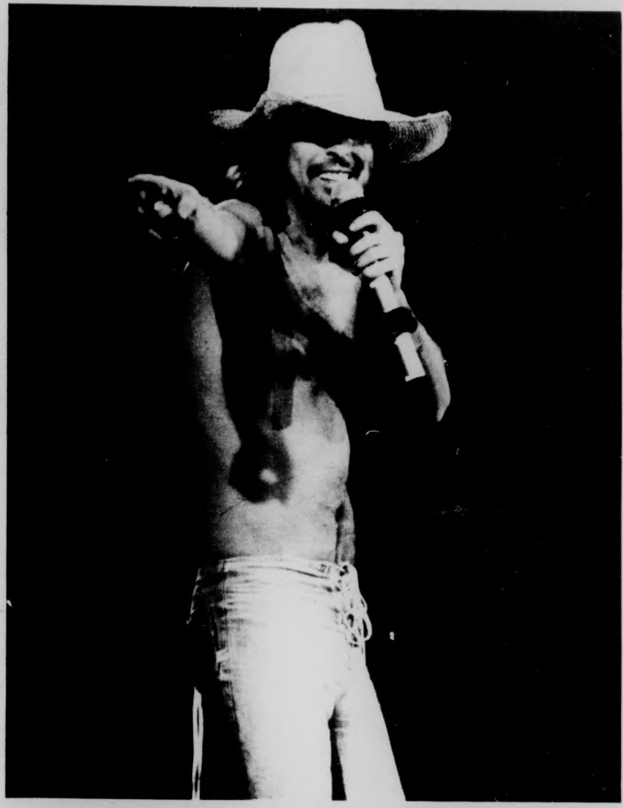
Recurring nosebleeds and occassional fit-of nausea have accompanied the release of Greg and Cher Allman's new album into the Bono household. Citing Sonny's displeasure with Warner Brother's Allman and Woman release as the main source of the former recording star and television personality's discomfort, home-delivery man Lance Askew claims Sonny's depression is getting worse. Lance works for a local spirit shop.

"He hasn't been the same since the day the album first came out. It's not that he objects to the cover art depicting Greg and Cher in a semi-nude embrace, nor does he care if his former wife is travelling around in the company of Democratic Party heavies like Allman or rock-politic impressario Phil Walden. What really bothers Sonny the most is the fact that when Cher and he recorded "You Really Got A Hold On Me" for their first album, Look At Us, she told him it was about him. Now he's depressed because this one and only song is on her and Greg's new album, openly flaunting her betrayal. Now he figures she must sing it for all the guys." Lance denied any connection between Sonny's recent displeasure and the increasing frequency of his visits to the Bono household but added, "Sure Sonny feels he got beat. First he got beat by CBS who cheated him out of his first show, thenby Allman who beat him out of his woman, and then by Cher herself who beat him out of his fame and child, and now his songs and memories."

"I guess the beat goes on, doesn't it?" Lance questioned ironically as he walked away. ♫



Cooper: Elephants and a sixpack.

Greg, Cher, Jack, Betty, and Sonny...

By JOE OUSTZERHAUS

Billion dollar babies, indeed—stock in Alice Cooper Enterprises, Ltd., Inc. rose 67 per cent this past quarter alone, going from 24 to 40 even splitting at 33. And he worries where his next can of Bud is coming from! Christ, by now I'd expect him to own the whole goddamn factory. It'd be cheaper—he probably kept them in the black over the last five years all by his little lonesome. Goodness knows no one else would try and swallow the stuff.

Insiders on the Cooper staff (which numbers above a score—if you get my snow-drift) report that Alice has contested the wills of good buddies Groucho, Der Bingeroo and the King himself, in apparent disbelief of his not being mentioned in any of them. He did not do same, same some sources, to his own granny 'cause she reportedly left only a bar of soap (Holiday Inn variety) and 14 bills and some loose change. A real family man, that Alice. At least he treats his new and gorgeous missus well: feeds her three times a day. Or so say insiders. ♫

Sammy Davis Jr.: What kind of fool am I?

By GRAIL MARCUSE

Protesting allegations that the proceeds from Sammy Davis Jr.'s recent concert tour were earmarked by the Republican National Committee to finance its revitalization campaign in time for the 1980 elections, sources close to the great singer disclosed that he has no plans to help anyone's re-election bid, nor support a sagging party. Citing these rumors as an attempt to sabotage Sammy's latest album release with controversy, a press aide of the aging but popular singer set the record straight about the concert tour and release, remarking, "He knows he's a fool. He just wants to know, 'What kind?'"

In the true spirit of democracy, Sammy Davis Jr. took this question to the people. "All we wanted to do with this concert thing was to find out, from the people, what kind of fool Sammy Davis Jr. really is. I mean he's been asking that question for generations now but this is the first chance he's ever gotten to put together a concert tour-album package of this magnitude. What, between making movies, telethon appearences, and political fundraisers, he hadn't had the time." Asked if the star got any answers on his query the aide quipped, "He's a mixed nut. He knows that. When we find out something definitive, we'll let you know." Pressed for details, the aide huffed, "He kissed Nixon on the cheek, didn't he?"

In other developments, Sammy's latest release on Warner Brothers, entitled A Live Performance of His Greatest Hits, soared to number 179 on the charts, almost two weeks after its release. Crediting producer Mike Curb with brillance beyond belief, a high Warner Brother's official hailed the album as a great retribution of the singers career. "Besides, it'll help put Baker over the top," he chuckled. ♫

Put yourself on the map.

Become a navigator with the United States Air Force. Air Force navigators are among the finest in the world. They train in the ultra-modern T-43 jet trainer at Mather AFB, near Sacramento, California.

Two, three, and four-year Air Force ROTC scholarships are available to help you get there . . . by paying tuition, textbooks, lab fees, and $100 tax free dollars each month while you're in college. Plus, Air Force ROTC is a great way to serve your country.

Find out about the programs today and chart a secure future for yourself. Your destination is an Air Force commission, your checkpoints are excellent salary, promotions, responsibility, and Air Force opportunities.

Find out today about one of the finest scholarships in the nation. It's a great opportunity.

Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC

PROGRAM COUNCIL
FILMS PRESENTS:

THE 666 OMEN

starring
Gregory Peck & Lee Remick

Fri., Dec. 2—7, 9 & 11
SUB—$1.00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the
Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene
Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music"
People Magazine

Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

rainbow prisms

A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.

Faces of Earth
Open 9:30 to 6 Mon.-Sat.
Sundays 1 to 5

Next to Amherst Post Office

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

The Nutcracker

Hartford Ballet
with The UMass Symphony
Wayne Abercrombie, Conductor

Saturday, December 3 8 pm
Sunday, December 4 3 pm
Sunday, December 4 8 pm

FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4. Special matinee children's prices - $3.50, 3, 2.50.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

WAR
Galaxy
(MCA)

Yes people, War is back after a two year lay-off from the creative sphere. Time has (as always) had its effect and a few changes have been made but the sound remains the same and in few instances has improved.

The major change has beeen in labels. The group has left United Artists and has come to MCA and Rollers Productions. They seem to have nicely found a home and their feeling of comfort and happiness show up in their first effort for the label, Galaxy.

While this and other things have happened during their leave-of abscence, the sound that was so distinctively theirs has remained true and blossomed. They've taken their concept of what I call "Lazy Latin-Jazz" and improved upon some of its elements. The percussion here has been adapted more readily to their laid-back sound but remains very Latin nonetheless with its patterns firmly rooted there. From the Jazz side of things, the piano has also been more effectively groomed to fit their needs. Also, their trademark use of the harmonica seems more at peace on Galaxy.

Galaxy, to me, is War's finest hour even if one considers only the title cut which has more power than any of their past works. War, with this LP, has taken that one step further that we've all been waiting for. From the sheer driving power of the title cut to the whirling strains of "One Tin Soldier," this is War.

-Mario A. Barros

UNIVERSITY PIZZA
PIZZA
549-5592

FOR DELIVERIES ONLY!!

FOR DELIVERIES ONLY!!

ONE OF THE BEST PIZZAS IN THE AMHERST-NORTHAMPTON AREA!!

CHECK OUT THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL

CALL
549-5592

32 OZ. COKE, TAB, SPRITE
FREE WITH LG. PIZZA
EXPIRES 12/1/77
CUSTOMER SIGNATURE

PLEASE SPECIFY
BEVERAGE
OVER PHONE

Blue Wall
featuring
ROADAPPLES

Thurs-Sat December 1, 2, 3

---

CONCERTS

Live Tull

JETHRO TULL In Concert
Springfield Civic Center
November 19, 1977

The Jethro Tull concert experience, dynamically in evidence November 19, is superior to a Tull album, because it truly brings all of the band's personnel to the spectacular forefront; this performance was "far-out," for after the mellow opener, "Wond'ring Aloud," the group displayed their noted decadence and flair.

The well-tanked admirers hollered as John Glascock and pianist David Palmer (who played sax on one tune) joined touring vets Anderson, Evan, Barre and Barlow in rocking the crowd to everything from "Songs From The Wood" to "Cross-Eyed Mary," "Bouree," and "Wind Up." "Skating Away (On The Thin Ice Of A New Day)" floated nicely and its ending—compatible with Tull's oftweirdness—was a staccato-bounce of cosmo-fantastic echoes. Ian Anderson then jested to his audience, after revelatory notes were played, "You've got it right, it's the ol' Led Zeppelin song, 'Whole Lotta Brick' (Thick As A Brick). Anderson's flute playing was fabulous, his high and low notes being produced almost simultaneously, pulsing his immediacy, fully with that Pied Piper grace of his. The audience's steady clapping along was moved by another part of Thick As A Brick, part of that album's latter initial side. As much as anything else it was bassist John Glascock's clamoring rhythm bass that inspired most of the audience's "freakilng out." While daffy Jeffrey Hammond-Hammond is missed, Glascock boomed some utterly incredible, quick, bellowing bass lines. In addition, he sang strong harmony.

"Songs From The Wood," the title cut of Tull's '77 release, was mellowly groovy with its Irish swing improvisations. Dave Palmer played simple but surprisingly sturdy piano chops, and Evan answered the challenge toughly as the song went electric.

Martin Barre needed a few songs to gauge the flow before finally, he too shined. Barlow's drums turned lovely blue-purple and orange-yellow from the lighting effects, but spaciness subsided a moment as "To Cry You A Song" brought back a blockbusting assertiveness, the crowd cheering its segue into "A New Day Yesterday." Quickly switching to "Bouree," Anderson looked awesome—just for a moment—like a classical GIANT. And back into "A New Day Yesterday," Evan carrying the medley and feigning to stumble while playing organ.

"Minstrel In The Gallery" and "Aqualung" (of course) were both freakouts, the sextet playing a resoundingly professional concert while ethereal light effects schizoided all over Anderson. Tull also drove through the encore "Wind Up," "Back Door Angels," and "Locomotive Breath" (another crowd-pleaser), by which time Barre had long since found his grooves.

My only complaint: Anderson restricts Barre a bit too much. The latter's solos, a couple of which were terrific in that word's strongest sense, lasted less than two minutes instead of five or six. Anderson muzzles Barre—a very underrated guitarist—in this way, and he should not do that!

Still: an exhilirating, excellent show.

—John Bergman

RECORDS

Warbling Wax

Genesis
Seconds Out
(Atlantic)

I saw Genesis in concert over the summer, for the first time. I had been calling them my favorite band for years beforehand, so I had high expectations for the live show-anything less than excellent would have disappointed me. But as Genesis hit the stage at Earls Court, I watched, listened, and was amazed. The lasers and visual effects enhanced the atmosphere, but the music was undoubltedly the focal point. They played songs associated with Peter Gabriel and proved, for those who still weren't convinced, that Gabriel's departure hadn't detracted from the band's strength. The newer material was equally impressive, showing that this band was still alive and creative. Each note that they played had its reason for being there, and each piece had its own story to tell and emotions to express. The music left me so exhilirated that I was singing my favorite Genesis songs at the top of my voice, all the way home on my crowded London subway, quite oblivious to the puzzled looks I was getting from my fellow passengers.

Genesis's double live album has just arrived, and I'm glad to say that most of what amazed me that night has now been captured for all to hear. It's a notable improvement over the first Genesis Live album in 1974. At that time, Genesis live and in the studio were two different experiences which couldn't be reconciled, so the first live album was noticably inferior to the studio versions of the same songs. But due to a better selection of pieces and the ever-progressing dexterity of the band, Seconds Out comes as close as a record will ever come to capturing the excitement of a Genesis concert.

The material included gives a good overview of Genesis's history, as they present songs from every album from Nursery Cryme to this year's Wind and Wuthering. "Squonk" opens the proceedings-it's one of Genesis's loudest and most exuberant songs, and as such is perfectly suited to the stage. "The Lamb Lies Down on Broadway" is the perfect song to play to your friends who haven't gotten into Genesis yet-if this live version doesn't get them, nothing will. "Carpet Crawlers," with its hypnotic sing along chorus, is here too (turn it up loud and stay off the subways). Also included in one song from the 1976 tour (the rest was recorded this year),"The Cinema Show," with guest drummer Bill Bruford. With its fanciful lyrics and long, flowing instrumental break, this is a piece which plays with the imagination. The closing instrumental, "Los Endos," has an energetic theme which the twin drums of Phil Collins and Chester Thompson propel into the stratoshpere.

Unfortunately, Seconds Out will be the last Genesis album to feature this lineup, for their longtime guitarist, Steve Hackett, has left the band. Now they have the problem of finding another guitarist who's up to their level (Bob Fripp? Jan Akkerman?) ,or of continuing as a trio. But I have faith in them: they've flourished through setbacks before, and they shouldn't let this one stop them. Being my favorite band does, after all, carry with it a certain degree of responsibility.

Brett Milano

BLUE OYSTER CULT
Spectres
(Columbia)

Spectres, Blue Oyster Cult's fifth studio album, is one of the finer albums to be released this year. Agents of Fortune, the Cult's last release, made their uniques music known to a good amount of people, but Spectres promises to establish them as one of rock's most zany, highly inventive, popular bands.

Despite their mysterious, hard-ass facade, the Cult is actually made up of fice regular guys from Long Island, New York. Since their first album, Blue Oyster Cult, back in 1972, the personnel has remained unchanged. Donald (Buck Dharma) Roeser is perhaps the finest lead guitarist playing rock today. His soloing and all-around guitar expertise continually amaze the listener. The rhythm section of Joe and Albert Bouchard on bass and drums respectively provide the essence of the Cult's sound. Allen Lanier plays a variety of keyboards as well as guitar. Eric Bloom, who also plays some guitar, sings on most of the tunes.

As usual, the subject matter on Spectres delves into all kinds of strange things from monsters and vampires ("Godzilla," "Nosferatu," and "I Love The Night"), to love ("Searching for Celine"). "Godzilla," "R.U.Ready 2 Rock," "Golden Age of Leather," "Death Valley Nights," and "Searching for Celine" all display the sheer power of the band. Buck Dharma's searing guitar weaves in and out while the band members sing the most insane lyrics imaginable. In "Godzilla," we learn that, "History shows again and again how nature points out the folly of men." "I Love the Night," "Nosferatu," "Celestial the Queen," and "Fireworks" catch the Cult in their mysterious, mellowed out moments. Unfortunately, "Goin' Through the Motions," a concious effort towards AM appeal which was co-written by Eric Bloom and Ian Hunter, is probably destined to be the most played track on the album. If you are not familiar with B.O.C., please don't judge them on the merits of that song, instead, garnish your head with whatever turns you on and listen to the whole album.

—Tom Aversa

LET'S GO
BOWLING

Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30

50 cents a string

CALVIN
KING ST. NORTHAMPTON
ENDS TONIGHT 8:00
WINNER OF 6 ACADEMY AWARDS!
GERALDINE CHAPLIN
JULIE CHRISTIE
OMAR SHARIF
DAVID LEAN'S FILM
DOCTOR ZHIVAGO
TOMM: "YOU LIGHT UP MY LIFE"

PROGRAM COUNCIL
FILMS PRESENTS:

ANATAHAN

the only woman on earth.

PG Sun., Dec. 4—7 & 9
CCA—$1.00

DANCE DISCO

It's disco excitement. It's 4000 pulsating colored lights. It's a gutsy 50-speaker sound system. It's a sophisticated N.Y. style discotheque every night til 2 a.m.

Monday—Open Bar 10 to 11 and 12:30 to 12:45
Tuesday—Middle East Night. Mid-East Band and Bellydancers.
Wednesday—Free Drawing for $50 Gift Certificate.

Arabian Nights
Discotheque
544 Memorial Drive, Rte. 33, Chicopee, 593-3603
Absolute proper attired required always.

The Mercantile
in the Carriage Shops
Amherst

3 Day Sale!
Thursday • Friday • Saturday

Blouses, Skirts,
Mugs, Posters,
Jewelry

Weekly drawing for
$25 Gift Certificate

...the home of unusual gifts

BOOKS

Poetic Letters

Anne Sexton: A Self-Portrait in Letters
Edited by Linda Gray Sexton and Lois Ames
Houghton Mifflin Company
$15.00
433 pages/with pictures

Along with Ginsberg, Plath and Creely, the raging and sensuous voice of Anne Sexton stands tall as one of the unique poetic voices introduced during the sixties. Following the footsteps of Robert Lowell and John Berryman who made confessionalism a leading genre in modern American poetry, Sexton shocked her readers with her personal dealings with madness expressed in a highly charged and vivid poetic style.

Although Sexton did not begin writing poetry until her 29th year in 1957, her eighteen year writing career resulted in nine books of poetry dealing with not only her mental illness, but also with marriage, children, God and death, subjects which any reader can relate to. This is the importance of Sexton's poetry; she categorizes a woman's contemporary experience and she expresses these highly personal, highly universal experiences in vivid, imaginative and powerfully speaking poetry.

But the fabric of Sexton's life is also essential in fully appreciating Sexton's poetry, to find out why Sexton wrote what she wrote and how she wrote it. In this first attempt to publish Sexton's personal letters, editors Linda Gray Sexton (Sexton's daughter) and Lois Ames (a personal friend of Sexton's) do a remarkable job in also making the first attempt to publish details of Sexton's life. Through a careful choice of letters and editorial comments concerning Sexton's life, the editors come close in presenting an autobiography which is essential in appreciating the full depth and scope of Sexton's confessional style. Through this almost autobiographical tract, the editors are able to show why Sexton wrote what she wrote and why she began writing poetry in the first place.

It is highly remarkable that Sexton wrote the fine poetry she did becoming a Pultizer Prize winner in 1967 for her third volume of poetry, LIVE OR DIE, considering her lack of educational background, particularly in literature. Many wonder where and how Sexton developed her intense style and command over poetic language. The point in target is of course, Sexton's lifelong bouts with mental illness.

Born in 1928, the last of three daughters in a wealthy Newton, Massachusetts family, according to the Letters, Sexton led a flamboyant life, was a high school flirt and enjoyed playing with the viles of romantic affection. She was a poor student and as early as second grade, teachers were already concerned with Sexton's mental balance since she was always striving for attention and did not produce scholastically what she most likely could have. Sexton attended a private boarding school during her later high school years after being an underachiever at Wellesley High school. Even there, according to the editors, Sexton had little patience for studying; a precocious, headstrong adolescent, she passed the time in math class by writing flirtatious notes to boys. Her classmates remember her as being happy, vivacious, and popular, but underneath, she later claimed, lurked exquisite pain which found an outlet in her role as the class rogue; one who laughingly braved all authority. After finishing high school, Sexton attended a finishng school where she was trained to do what was fit for all women of her time--to be a mother and housewife.

At 19, after breaking several engagements, Sexton eloped with the then 19 year-old Kayo Sexton. Shortly after, Sexton gave birth to the first of two daughers, Linda Gray Sexton. During Linda's early years, the boredom of being a young mother and housewife wore on Sexton and she suffered the first of her lifelong bouts with mental illness. In one of the first of her tirads, Sexton reportedly flung Linda, then only two years old, across her daughter's bedroom. Relentlessly and impatiently, Sexton's and Kayo's parents began paying for the long and arduous treatments and psycho-therapy sessions to try and nurse Sexton back to health, sessions and treatments which would last a lifetime until Sexton's suicide in 1974.

During her early teen years, Sexton began writing poetry, however, soon after gave up the endeavor because her mother clamed she was stealing lines from her poetry. So, it wasn't until after a major bout with mental illness in 1957, that Sexton began writing poetry as psychotherapy. Poetry turned out to be a theraputic answer to a large degree for Sexton's problems. For it is in her poetry that Sexton was able to release her inner guilt, inner doubts about herself and also to find a personal identity. In psychoanalytic terms, Sexton was able to release or sublimate her inner doubts and guilts in her poetry instead of holding them in, repressing them, or instead of sublimating them in self-destructive actions.

As she wrote to W.D. Snodgross in 1966: "The life of poetry is saving me (I hope) as some things are as bad as I've ever known. I am sometimes totally lost from the world. Maybe I am crazy and will never get really well. God knows I've been working at it long enough." And in another letter written to Snodgrass in 1959 directly after her mother and father's close deaths that year: "God damn morbid life I've been leading, that's all I can say. How can I write anything positive& My old gods are tumbled over like bowling pins. All is an emotional chaos. Poetry and poetry alone is saving my life."

There were two basic problems which Plath tries to overcome in her poetry, to work out in poetry according to the autobiographical tract of Sexton's letters and biographical notations made by the editors: to rid herself of her guilt feelings concerning her parents' deaths in 1959 and to find an identity for herself.

Sexton's mother and father died six months apart; her mother died from cancer, her father died in an accident six months later a few days before remarrying which was in fact a marriage Sexton did not approve of.

Sexton knew she was an unwanted child and her parents showed her little attention or care that she needed as a child. This accounted for her flamboyant behavior in her early years which continued throughout her life. Sexton's father was also very demanding of his youngest daughter. When she came home from boarding school, then at the age of acne breakouts, Sexton's father reportedly would say he couldn't eat because the site of her disgusted him so. Sexton relates this experience in the prose section of her sixth volume of poetry, THE BOOK OF FOLLY.

And with the death of her parents, this feeling of lonliness was intensified as she expresses in a letter written to Snodgrass shortly after both their deaths in 1959: "The trouble with everyone just up and dying like that is that there are no faces left to throw your emotions at: Love or hate. What do you do with the emotion& It's still there though they are gone&!!!

In another letter to Snodgrass written in 1966, Sexton relates her own feelings about her parents, her own need to be accepted by them: "I hope your parents are sitting up and taking notice. (Snodgrass had just won the Pulitzer Prize) I would wish that for you. For them to know. Even if you hate them; still, you would care. Awful, but I know you care. Well, they damn well better notice. I always think prizes are for parents so they'll know. Only a prize will convince them sometimes. And if not, well damn them to hell."

Sexton was also left responsible for her mother's death. Shortly after finding out about her cancer and until her death, Sexton's mother told her daughter that she had caught her death disease from Sexton referring to her daughter's mental illness which often took the form of suicide attempts. Sexton is largely engrossed with dealing with these guilt feelings in her first two books of poems, TO BEDLAM AND PART WAY BACK and ALL MY PRETTY ONES, as well as her last book, 45 MERCY STREET.

Also, Sexton throughout her poetry and by the mere fact of writing poetry is trying to establish an identity for herself. This can clearly be seen through the Letters for here we see the story of a woman who runs away from an unhappy home to marriage, to motherhood and has no real identity, is alienated from herself because she never had a chance to find out exactly who she was and what potentials she had. So poetry establishes her, gives her an identity of her own separate from anyone else however in her poetry, Sexton is constantly trying to identify herself through others. First, in her first four books particularly ALL MY PRETTY ONES and LOVE POEMS, Sexton identifies herself through her husband and children which is natural in our society. Then, in her later books, THE DEATH NOTEBOOKS and AWFUL ROARING TOWARD GOD, Sexton defines herself through God. Finally in her last book of poems written in the last few years of her life, Sexton finally begins to identify herself as an individual. This can be seen in the letters, also, that Sexton was writing during these different time periods.

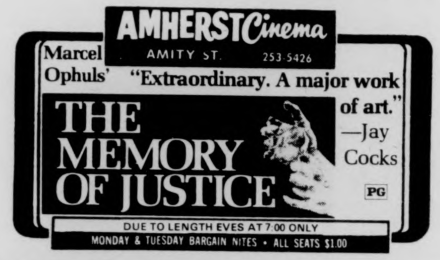
Besides providing these autobiographical materials to analyze the scope of Sexton's confessionalism and influences in her poetry, Letters also taps the resources which led to Sexton's poetic style. They were first images-- everyday housewifer images and then secondly people-- Robert Lowell, W.D. Snodgrass, Anthony Hecht, Mark Strand, Ted Hights, Carolyn Kizer, Stanley Kunits, Sylvia Plath, and James Dickey--all of which influenced and aided Sexton not only to investigate further into the literature she so desperately needed to learn but also in influencing her poetic style which includes careful and witty metaphors, and refrains, besides its confessionalism which was perpetuated by Robert Lowell, her first and only instructor.

Letters also depicts the humor and wit of Sexton and quite precisely, her inability to spell which will amuse any reader.

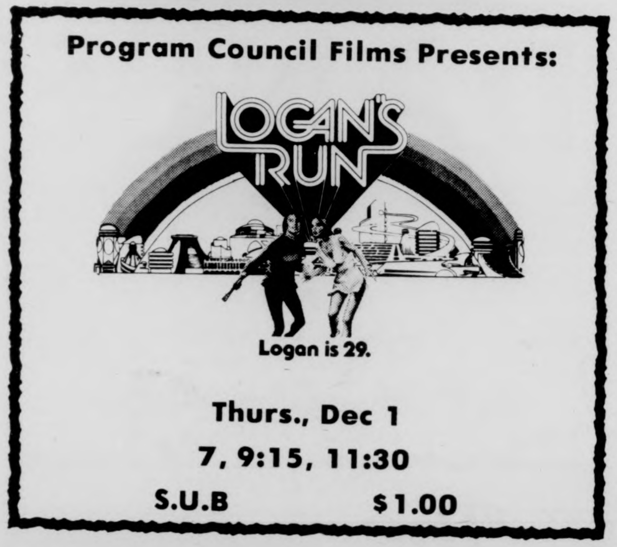
Letters,however, is not just valuable and enjoyable for those interested in studying and fully understanding Sexton's poetry, but is for anyone interested in hearing the story of not just a poet who succeeded, but a woman beset in many of the common problems of all people in society. Anne Sexton: A Self-Portrait in Letters is not just a portrait of a poet, but of contemporary society at large.

-Lisa Melilli

Here's what's happening!
IT'S TIME FOR A CHANGE
JAZZ UP YOUR LIFE WITH THE NEWEST IN STYLE HAIRCUTS
ONLY $5.00
TRY DIMENSIONAL HAIRCOLORING
FEATURING SUBTLE HIGHLIGHTING
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive, Amherst 549-5610
Sunflicks Special Reg. $30.00 NOW $24.00
Luminizing Reg. $20.00 NOW $15.00
Styles by Deborah
65 University Drive, Amherst 549-5610
REDKEN



AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
Marcel Ophuls'
"Extraordinary. A major work of art." —Jay Cocks
THE MEMORY OF JUSTICE
PG
DUE TO LENGTH EVES AT 7:00 ONLY
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00



Program Council Films Presents:
LOGAN'S RUN
Logan is 29.
Thurs., Dec 1
7, 9:15, 11:30
S.U.B $1.00

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

Why have they come?
ROBERT VAUGHN
CHRISTOPHER LEE
STARSHIP INVASIONS
PG
1
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away
STAR WARS
PG
2
Thurs. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50

THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN
PG
3
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film.
I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN
R
4
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING
CHOOSE ONE OF THESE MIDNIGHT SHOWS-FRI. & SAT.
Marlon Brando Last Tango in Paris
WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A NAKED LADY?
$2.00

---

MUSIC

AnARChy in the U.K.

Shut your bloody gob!

And there she was, all decked out-Barbara Walters standing in front of the House of Parliament this summer gushing out superalitives describing how awestruck she was by the garish Silver Jubilee. All I can seem to remember her saying was "Ohhh...she (the queen)was so beautiful." Meanwhile people wore "stuff the jubilee" buttons and a song by punk rock band, the Sex Pistols,(the spirtual descendant of Guy Fawkes, who in 1605 conspired to bomb the Parliament building), called "God Save the Queen" was being played on the radio.

Instead of glorifying a fortune being spent on a titular head monarch by a country that's nearly broke and unable to provide jobs for its citizens, the Sex Pistols were singing "God save the queen... She ain't no human being... it's a facscist regime ... they made you a moron... there ain't no future in England's dream."

Even though England appears to be a terminal case with no future, it's doing it's damndest to preserve the past. The sun that once never set on the English Empire is rapidly fading and almost all the satellites it once had now move in orbits.

The whole world is no longer within it's field of gravity of sphere of influence. However, the British still have pull on a colony across the North Sea, that being Nothern Ireland. It maintains its control of the last significant remanant of it's imperial empire with an occupying army that rules by fear.

And, only a few hours up I-91 and I-89, alot of the French people in the Province of Quebec want out of not only the Commonwealth of Nations, but also of Canada, a country which only recently removed the Union Jack from its own flag.

Now we see England trying to export a grand old image with the Scotch Guard tooting England's horn on bagpipes at the Springfield Civic Center last night.

The Sex Pistol's music is the music of alientaation and unemployment in England. The youth unemployment rate in England is staggering, and as Dylan put it, "Too much of nothing makes a man ill at ease."The Sex Pistols are diametrically opposed to John Denver style--complacency and escapism. Uneasiness restlessness, boredom and nihilism are what the Sex Pistols play to.

Some of the hostility directed at 'Punk' or 'New Wave' music or plain old rock-and-roll music with a vengence, is due to the fact that part of Punk culture in England is into sticking safety pins in the face. But Barbara Walters does the same thing basically, except what she impales herself with are not called safety pins, but earrings. I just wish that they do an American tour soon.

-Jim Paulin

Punk

(continued from page 2)

The real gem in this batch comes from one of umpteen bands named the Boys. This one, by far the best, hails from England. Their LP is the most overwhelming shot of adrenalin I've encountered for as long as I can remember. Untrained ears will hear the Ramones, as it is comprised of many short superfast songs. But there is a world of difference. There isn't a slow song on the entire record, and yet there is actually more variety here. You see, the Boys use actual riffs and lead guitar, plus more chords and harmonies and even a piano! They aren't as funny as the Ramones but just as much fun. In spite of the undermixing of the piano and sometimes the vocals, the production (by the Boys themselves) is the most powerful I've yet heard on a New Wave album. And despite the occasional derivativeness of the riffs, the unprecendented energy level makes them seem new again. This is as good as good ole rock'n'roll gets.

Watch for new releases from the Jam, Willie Loco Alexander, Blondie, and DMZ, among others; there should be a Stranglers review next week; and if we ever get review copies of Elvis Costello, Eddie and the Hot Rods, or the Boomtown Rats, we'll rave about them, too. Meanwhile, go listen to Phil Spector's Christmas album, and let's hope that the New Year will at last bring real rock'n'roll back to prominence. It's here in abundance now if you want it.

-Perry Adler

BONG SALE
THURSDAY & FRIDAY
December 1 & 2
at the CAMPUS CENTER
featuring:
*removable parts for easy cleaning
*hard, durable plastic construction
*no leakage
*wide base avoids tipping over tragedies by clumsy roommates
*2 different bowls
*unbeatable price!

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5.
UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50: Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

The Pleasant St. Theater
The Finest in Foreign and Revival Film.
"TERRIFICALLY, SPONTANEOUSLY FUNNY AND, JUST AS SPONTANEOUSLY, FULL OF UNEXPECTED PATHOS."
—Vincent Canby, New York Times
"SUPERB."
—William Wolf, Cue Magazine
STROSZEK
A Ballad
The new film by WERNER HERZOG director of KASPAR HAUSER and AGUIRRE, THE WRATH OF GOD A New Yorker Films Release AREA PREMIERE
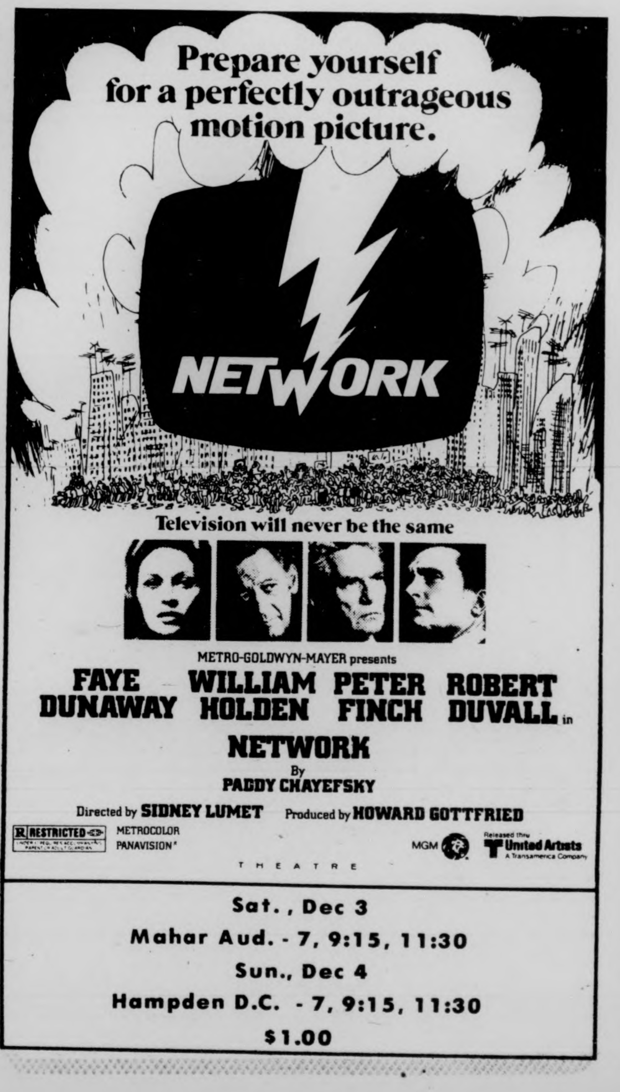
7:00 & 9:05
27 Pleasant St. Northampton 586-0935



Prepare yourself for a perfectly outrageous motion picture.
NETWORK
Television will never be the same
METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER presents
FAYE DUNAWAY WILLIAM HOLDEN PETER FINCH ROBERT DUVALL in NETWORK
By PADDY CHAYEFSKY
Directed by SIDNEY LUMET Produced by HOWARD GOTTFRIED RESTRICTED
METROCOLOR
PANAVISION
MGM
Released thru United Artists A Transamerica Company
THEATRE
Sat., Dec 3
Mahar Aud. - 7, 9:15, 11:30
Sun., Dec 4
Hampden D.C. - 7, 9:15, 11:30
$1.00

LISTINGS

ART HAPPENINGS

UNIVERSITY OF MASS

University Gallery- Art Faculty Exhibition- Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, Hampshire and Smith thru Dec. 18 Gallery opening Dec. 1,8pm - 11 pm.

Student Union Gallery - A painting exhibition by the Guild of Boston Artists thru Fri. Dec. 2. An installation by Joseph Kos Monday Dec. 5 - Fri. Dec. 9.

AMHERST COLLEGE

Modern American Paintings at the Meade Art Gallery thru Tues. Dec. 6.

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE

"Offset Prints"- editions from Artists-Research-Technology at the Mt. Holyoke Art Museum thru Dec. 20

HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE

Women Artists at Hampshire College thru Friday, Dec.2

SMITH COLLEGE

"Goya: Los Caprichos and los Proverbios" thru January 2. Tibetan Buddhist Art from the Horch Collection, Rose Museum, Brandeis U. and from the collection at Smith thru Friday Dec. 2

NORTH HATFIELD

"Images- The Appearance of Reality is All That is Necessary"- an exhibit of recent works by Paul Berube thru Dec. at the Baracca Gallery.

DEEERFIELD

"Recent Acquisitions of Deerfield Area Furniture"- a special exhibit featuring a sampling of rural Massachusetts cabinet making of the late 18th century on display at the Historic Deerfield Museum thru Feb. 28

WORCESTER

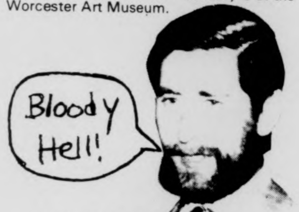
FOR COLLECTORS: A Sales Exhibit of Works of Art Dec. 10 - January 8 at the Worcester Art Museum.



Bloody Hell!

THEATER PRODUCTIONS

UMASS

ANTIGONE
University Ensemble Theater
Fine Arts Center
Friday Dec. 2-Dec. 4
Friday and Saturday/8:00
Sunday matinee/2:00
Regular admission $3.00
Students and Senior Citizens
$2.00 with I.D.
Box office-545-3511

NORTHAMPTON

THE LAST MEETING OF THE KNIGHTS OF THE WHITE MAGNOLIA
City Studio Theater
Ends December 4
Thurs. Friday and Sat. eves/8:00
Sunday afternoons/2:15
Box office-584-3994

WORCESTER

DRACULA
New England Repertory Theater
Fridays and Saturdays until
Dec. 10/8:00pm.
Box office-617-798-8685

SPRINGFIELD

A CHRISTMAS CAROL
Stage West
December 4-31
Box office-736-7092

BOSTON

DO YOU TURN SOMERSAULTS?
Colonial Theater
Dec. 13-31
Mon. thru Sat. eves/8:00
Sat . matinee/2:00
Wed. matinee /2:00

FOR COLORED GIRLS WHO HAVE CONSIDERED SUICIDE WHEN THE RAINBOW IS ENUF
Shubert Theater
Until Dec. 10

Rolling Around

NATIONAL BALLET OF SPAIN RETURNS TO AMHERST

THE BALLET NACIONAL FESTIVALES DEESPANA (THE NATIONAL BALLET OFSPAIN) will return to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Saturday December 10 at 8 p.m.

During their performance in November 1976 at the Fine Arts Center the National Ballet of Spain received rave reviews from the critics and estatic applause from the audience.

The Ballet of Spain was created in 1973 and is the first National Dance Company to be sponsored by the Ministry of Welfare and Culture of Spain.

Its purpose is to present authentic Spanish dances throughout the world and it had already done so in Europe, and in South, Central and North America.

The troupe is handsome, stylish and impeccably rehearsed, its costuming fully up to requirements for a first-rate Spanish Dance company. The Company is sophisticated as it shows off its talents in an array of langorous bleros, stately court dances, fiery flamencos and spirited jotas.

Tickets for the December 10 performance of the National Ballet of Spain are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center, open Monday through Friday, 9-4 and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices are: General public, $7,6,5. UMass students, $4,3,2.50. Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information, call 545-2511.

OF MUSICAL NOTE

Multi-instrumentalist Michael Keith will be presenting a solo concert at the Buckley Recital Hall at Amherst College this coming Tuesday, December 6, at 8 p.m. Mr. Keith, who will play trombone and a number of wind instruments, will be accompanied by bassist David Wertman and saxaphonist Mike Kozak on a few of the selections. This concert is another presentation of De Jaz Match, a local group of jazz artists. A donation is requested at the door.

DANCE

Dec. 1,2,3 (Thu,Fri,Sat) UMass Student Dance Concert at Bowker Aud., 8PM. Tickets are $1.50 students, $2.50 general public.

Dec. 1,2 (Thu, Fri) Mt. Holyoke: Dance Gallery in "A Child's Christmas in Wales" at Kendall Hall ,8 pm on Thurs. and 3 pm on Fri. Tickets are $1.50. students and $2.00 general public.

Dec. 3,4 (Sat, Sun) UMass: The Hartford Ballet in "The Nutcracker" at the Fine Arts Center, 8 pm Sat. and Sun. with a matinee on Sun. at 3. See ad in this paper for for ticket information.

EUGENE FODOR AT FINE ARTS CENTER

"In the West they call him the Mick Jagger of classical music. In Moscow he is known as the best young American musician since Van Cliburn..." is how People Magazine described the young violin virtuoso EUGENE FODOR who will perform at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Thursday December 8 at 8 p.m.

The presentation of Mr. Fodor is part of the Celebrity Series at the Fine Arts Center, University of Massachusetts.

In 1972 the 20 year old Fodor won the International Paganini Competition in Genoa, Italy, the first American in 21 years to win top prize there. The same year he gave recitals in London, Vienna, and Budapest. and toured throughout Poland and Central America.

In 1974 he entered the Tchaikowsky Competition. For some strange reason, the 19 judges witheld first prize and gave three second prises-to Fodor and two Soviet violinists. Reports from Moscow say that many in the capacity Russian audience felt the American should have had the gold medal and that he was the only one of the trio to receive a standing ovation.

Eugene Fodor is the only American to win the International Tchaikowsky Violin Competition.

In November 1974 Fodor opened the Great Performers Series at Avery Fisher Hall in Lincoln Center and has since appeared with the Cleveland Symphony, Pittsburgh Symphony, Baltimore Symphony, Philadelphia Symphony, Dallas Symphony and more.

Eugene Fodor

Tickets for Eugene Fodor at the Fine Arts Center, December 8 are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open 9-4 Monday through Friday and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices are: General Public $7,6,5. UMass students are $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information call 545-2511.

FILM LISTINGS

At the colleges
Thursday, December 1
LOGAN'S RUN, 7, 9:15, 11:30p.m., S.U.B., U.Mass.
THE FOUNTAINHEAD, and THE INCREDIBLE BREAD MACHINE, 7, 9:15p.m., Mahar Aud., U.Mass.
THE DYBBUK, Hillel film, 8p.m., Thompson 104, U.Mass.
THE OMEN, 7, 9, 11p.m., S.U.B., U.Mass.
NORTH BY NORTHWEST, 8, 10p.m., Merril Center, Amherst.
CLAUDINE, Progressive Film Series, FREE, 8, 10p.m., Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

Saturday, December 3
NETWORK, 7, 9, 11p.m., Mahar Aud., U.Mass.
NORTH BY NORTHWEST, see Friday's listing.

Sunday, December 4
THE BATTLE OF ALGIERS, 3 p.m., Penny Cultural Center, Amherst.
NETWORK, 7, 9:15, 11:30p.m. Hampden, U.Mass.
NORTH BY NORTHWEST, see Friday's listings.
ANATAHAN, 7, 9p.m., S.U.B., U.Mass.

Monday, December 5
THE LEARNING TREE, 3 p.m., Penny Cultural Center, Amherst.
A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE, 8, 10p.m., Merril Center, Amherst.
RACHEL, RACHEL, 7:45 p.m., Herter 227, U.Mass., FREE.

Tuesday, December 6
TOKYO STORY, 7, 9:15p.m., Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.
THE LONGEST WAR, and BROKEN TREATY AT BATTLE MOUNTAIN, 8 p.m., Progressive Film Series, Thompson 106, U.Mass.

Wednesday, December 7
DELIVERANCE, 7, 9, 11p.m., C.C.A., U.Mass.

CONCERT LISTINGS

Out-of-towners
Hall & Oates; December 1, The Music Hall in Boston.
Harry Chapin; December 1, Worcester Auditorium.
Bob Seger/Nick Jameson; December 2,3, The Music Hall in Boston.
The Kinks; December 3, Leroy Concert Theater in Pawtucket, R.I.
Judy Collins; December 4, Symphony Hall in Boston.
Bob Seger/Nick Jameson; December 4, Waterbury Palace Theater.
Jethro Tull; December 4, Providence Civic Center.
Jethro Tull; December 6, Boston Garden.
Aerosmith/Styx; December 7,8, New Haven Coliseum.
Average White Band/Kool & The Gang /Brick; December 10, Providence Civic Center.
Gregg & Cher Allman; December 10, Lowell Memorial Auditorium.
Kansas; December 11, Springfield Civic Center.
Kansas; December 13, Providence Civic Center.

FIVE COLLEGE MUSIC LISTINGS

Dec. 2
Art Garfunkel in Concert, Chapin, Mt. Holyoke, 8:00.
Group for New Music, Bezanson Recital Hall, U.Mass., 8:00.
J. Edelberg (78) violin, Buckley, Amherst College, 8:15.
Battle of the D.J.'s, Valentine Hall, Amherst College, 9:30.

Dec. 3
Early Music Ensemble, 15th century British carols with medieval readings by Prof. Chickering Buckley, Amherst College, 8:15.

Dec. 4
Amherst-Mt. Holyoke Orchestra, Children's Concert, L. Spratlan cond., Buckley, Amherst College, 4:00.
Christmas Vespers with Mt. Holyoke Glee Club, Concert Choir of Mt. Holyoke and Brass Ensemble of U.Mass, Abbey Chapel, Mt. Holyoke, 4:00 and 7:30.
Christmas Vespers with Smith College Glee Club and Cornell Glee Club, Greene Hall, Smith, 4:00 and 7:30.

Dec. 5
Faculty Recital with Nigel Coxe, piano, Bowker, U.Mass, 8:00.

Dec. 7
Winter Concert by the University Chorus, Bowker, U.Mass, 8:00.
Warbeke Memorial Concert: A Program of Chamber Music with Jan DeGaetani, mezzo-soprano; Gilbert Kalish, piano; Donald Anderson, cello; Paul Kunkel, flute; Philip West, oboe. Music by Bach, Telemann, Debussy, Ravel and Vaughan Williams, Pratt Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke, 8:15.

AREA CLUB LISTINGS

Dec. 1
Cecilia's, Holyoke, Timberlake.
Center of Town, Chicopee, Little Village.
Rahar's, Northampton, Harmony Arbour.
Red Pantry, Belchertown, John Lincoln Wright & the Sour Mash Boys.
Rusty Nail, Sunderland, Little Jimmy & the Bad Boys.
Rusty Nail West, Westfield, Omega.
Yesterday's, Florence, Tupelo.

Dec. 2
Cecilia's, Holyoke, Timberlake.
Center of Town, Chicopee, Bear Mountain.
Nathan's Place, Monson, Little Jimmy & the Bad Boys.
Rahar's, Northampton, Harmony Arbour.
Red Pantry, Belchertown, John Lincoln Wright & the Sour Mash Boys.
Rusty Nail, Sunderland, Clean Living, Kilroy.
Rusty Nail West, Westfield, Omega.
St. Regis, Northampton, Fat.
Top of the Campus, U.Mass, The Andy May & Texas Tabby Crabb Band.
Yesterday's, Florence, Magic Fleet.

Dec. 3
Cecilia's, Holyoke, Fat.
Center of Town, Chicopee, Bear Mountain.
Nathan's Place, Monson, Little Jimmy & the Bad Boys.
Rahar's, Northampton, Harmony Arbour.
Red Pantry, Belchertown, John Lincoln Wright & the Sour Mash Boys.
Rusty Nail, Sunderland, Clean Living, Kilroy.
Rusty Nail West, Westfield, Omega.
Top of the Campus, U.Mass, The Andy May & Texas Tabby Crab Band.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 63
FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Fac Senate decides to consult officials on grad reorganization

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

The Faculty Senate voted last night to further consult with the Chancellor and the Provost before any proposal for the reorganization of graduate studies and research is implemented. The senate also recommended the transfer of the Medical Technology Program to the department of Microbiology, and approved 13 new courses at its well-attended meeting yesterday.

The substitute motion which the senate passed concerning Provost Paul L. Puryear's proposal was suggested by Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, revealed a difference of opinion between the two on the reorganization of the graduate studies program.

"The proposal is what I feed needs to be done," said Puryear. Bromery, however, said he felt the matter should be discussed further with the senate and the graduate council.

Puryear's proposal would retire the title of graduate dean and transfer the administration of the graduate program to his office.

This would give the dean more influence and tighter control on budget and personnel matters, according to the provost during a lengthy and heated discussion surrounding his proposal.

"I want to strengthen the role of the graduate dean allowing him to grasp the important elements that make up a quality graduate school," Puryear said.

Faculty reaction was chiefly negative towards the proposal.

"This proposal is an attempt to install an educational philosophy within the university which I find personally repugnant," said Professor Walter Denny. Senator Anway Sayed said there was already too many people with authority and questioned the need for one more powerful person. Senator Otto Stein said he thought the independent graduate program was working well without administrative assistance.

"It's a little late to talk about disagreement with my proposal now," said Puryear, "I can't spend the next two years giving advice."

"The real question is whether or not we have a graduate school," said Puryear, "I say we do not, and therefore we should not have the title of Graduate Dean." Puryear cited the University of Chicago and the University of Pittsburgh as examples of quality graduate schools.

"The graduate school has received mixed reviews on a nation-wide scale and some programs have a long way to go," Puryear said.

Secretary Burke said the role of graduate dean was traditionally difficult to define, the extent of authority being determined by the individual dean's personality. He expressed concern that qualified persons would not be attracted to the post if it was hidden away in the provost's office.

Puryear replied that there are campuses which have attracted qualified people who operate under a structure similar to the one he proposed.

The visibly frustrated provost said he believed the majority of the faculties

TURN TO PAGE 6

UMass Provost, Paul L. Puryear, defends his proposal for reorganization of the Graduate School administration durong heated discussion at yesterday's faculty senate meeting. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Half of campus participates...

Hampshire holds 'focus on racism' moratorium

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

Classes were cancelled at Hampshire College yesterday as about 700 students participated in a "Focus on Racism" moratorium designed to draw attention to racial problems at Hampshire College and other institutions.

Over half of the school's 1,225 students began the day-long activities which included films, speakers, small group discussions, and attempts to define racism. Nearly 500 students were still participating eight and-a-half ours later when they gathered to hear a report from the Hampshire College Committee on Racism. The committee was set up to investigate racism following the Sept. 24 cross burning icident there.

The moratorium, proposed by the House Staff members at Hampshire after the cross burning, was a joint effort by faculty, student and staff members. The committee consulted with the Hampshire administration but carried out the investigation and presentation on their own.

Moratorium Committee member Jack Kuszaj gave opening remarks which attempted to define the terms prejudice, discrimination and racism for the Hampshire College community. Kuszaj, who has taught a colloquium at UMass called "The Dynamics of Racism", said ther was a need for working terms and that people "should take the task of defining the problem themselves."

Kuszaj, combining his definitions, advanced the following formula: "Prejudice (attitudinal) and discrimination (behavioral) plus Political Economic Power equals Racism (cultural, societal). Citing American society where whites control the political economic power, Kuszaj said, "only white people have had the opportunity to perpetuate racism as a cultural and societal phenomenon."

The "Focus on Racism" was broken down into several parts during the moratorium. Historical perspectives presented through the films "Black History Lost, Stolen or Strayed," and "Malcolm X" were discussed in groups of a dozen participants, as were the reactions to speakers and a panel focusing on institutional racism.

John Bracey, Chairman of the African American Studies department at UMass, in a telephone interview yesterday before his talk on institutional racism said the "lack of structure makes it harder to solve problems."

Commenting on the cross burning incident, Bracey said, "it is accepted that people will act in a civilized manner; when they don't, it throws the whole place into chaos." The racial problems at Hampshire, like any other institution, are ingrained in education because Third World members cannot overcome oppression when they are educated by their oppressors, Bracey said.

Third World grievances compiled as a result of the cross burning paralled many of Bracey's observations. The Committee on Racism said Hampshire College must make crucial decisions and changes if they are to reverse the decline in Third Wold enrollment. Since 1974, the population of Third World at Hampshire members has decreased from 125 to 37, according to admissions figures.

"People say that Hampshire College is a white institution. It is not, but it's threatening to be one," Frank Holmquist, chairman of the Committee on Racism, said in his report.

Holmquist said one of the problems at Hampshire is that the curriculum "does not do justice to Third World situations, Third World realities."

A formal report by the committee is scheduled to be written during January and presented to the college community by next semester, Holmquist said.

Recommendations to the Hampshire community included naming a Third World member to the admissions staff, renewed emphasis on Third World faculty and recruitment, establishment of Third World residence areas, and improvements in curriculum, advising, security and administrative involvement.

Holmquist said the recommendations are "clearly within our means" because the changes will not take money but "commitment and personal effort." Many Hampshire students who wanted to continue the work begun by the moratorium indicated support by signing their names for further workshops and discussions.

The effect of the moratorium "remains to be seen," said Valerie Stevens, a member of House Staff. Commenting that the event provided an avenue to open discussion, Stevens said she heard one student say "the only thing I got out of this is that I'm a racist." "It's a start," Stevens said of the remark, because it indicates that the problem is being confronted.

Other Hampshire students cited the success of the moratorium in making them realize their own personal racism and the fact that they attend a racist institution. Recognition of the problem is an important beginning, because, as moratorium committee member Rene Carew said, "racism is something we can easily forget but won't go away."

Economy topic of talk; rally against Thomson

New England governors and mayors, U.S. congressmen and representatives of federal agencies today and tomorrow will team together to help educate the New England press on the Northeast economy during a two day seminar in the UMass Campus Center.

The conference is sponsored by UMass, the Boston Globe and other New England newspapers and the Northeast Council for Economic Action, a federally-funded agency in Boston.

Mass. Gov. Michael Dukakis, N.H. Gov. Meldrim Thomson and R.I. Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy tonight at 8:30 will discuss economic issues in New England during a press conference.

At 3 this afternoon, UMass President Robert C. Wood will deliver the seminar's opening address, which will be followed by the first of several panel discussions scheduled for the conference.

The Alternative Energy Coalition, an anti-nuclear power group, will picket Gov. Meldrim Thomson's visit to Northampton tonight, a group spokesman said yesterday.

Thomson, a supporter of nuclear power during the battle over construction of the nuclear power plant in Seabrook, N.H., will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner of the Hampshire County Republican Club in the Hotel Northampton at 6 p.m.

"The picket will focus on Thomson's adamant (though misguided) support of nuclear power," said coalition spokesman Malcolm Carley, "and the sharp contrast between his position and the rising tide of public advocacy for the use of cleaner, safer methods of energy production."

Dukakis will spend his Friday afternoon in Springfield visiting small businesses in the downtown district, and then will sign into law in a Hadley farmhouse legislation subsidizing farm land so that it is worth real-estate value of commercial property.

Some stay, some go when Wood leaves

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

Some will stay, some will go.

Various UMass officials will stay and others may go when UMass President Robert C. Wood leaves office Jan. 1, 1978 and a new president takes office.

UMass Vice President Ernest A. Lynton may leave the University, Vice President Nan S. Robinson will stay, Assistant Secretary Dorothy Eichel will stay, and Academic Advisor to the President Rev. Michael P. Walsh will leave. In addition, one UMass vice president position, senior vice president for management and business affairs, is vacant and will not be filled for some time, at least until a new president is found.

Lynton, vice president for academic affairs, is reportedly being considered for two top posts in the City University of New York system.

Lynton this week said he has been contacted by CUNY Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee concerning his interest in one of the posts. That position is vice chancellor for academic affairs for the system. The other post Lynton is reportedly being considered for is president of Queens College in the CUNY system.

Kibbee could not be reached to confirm CUNY's interest in Lynton.

Lynton said he told the chancellor he doesn't want his name considered for the post until he "would be in a position to accept, if offered."

The UMass vice president said "other considerations" would need to be taken into account before he would know about the CUNY post and in part his "future plans depend on the new president's identity." He declined to say what the considerations would be.

There has been speculation that Amherst Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery may be named permanent UMass president. Bromery has said he will accept the presidency if offered it.

"I've always worked well with Dr. Bromery," Lynton said. "I like him very much."

As UMass vice president for academic affairs, Lynton's primary responsibilities are to review academic plans and tenure and to review proposals for new academic programs.

Vice President Robinson, charged with planning and policy, said she has "no other plans" other than to stay with UMass.

Of Bromery, she said she admires him "very much," and "would enjoy working with him."

She declined to discuss who the next president would be.

"I don't think it's too good an idea to comment on who will be the next president," Robinson said. "I think we better leave that to the search committee."

The vice president for planning and policy is responsible for university wide planning, policy analysis, and relations with various state agencies such as transportation and health.

Academic Advisor to the President Rev. Michael P. Walsh said he will stay on at UMass only until interim president Franklin Patterson leaves office.

Patterson was recently appointed interim president until a permanent president is found, probably sometime early next year.

Walsh said he would have to "slow up" because of poor health and his age, so he will leave UMass.

Walsh presently serves on 10 Boards of Trustees for various institutions and also does education consulting work.

At UMass, he advises the president on various academic and non-academic matters. Also, Walsh has been serving as the transition officer to assist in the changing of administrations when President Wood leaves office.

Assistant Secretary Dorothy Eichel said she will be with UMass for "some time."

"I have no plans for leaving," she said.

Eichel said there is no one special she would like to work with as the new UMass president, and there is "no reason why not" she couldn't work with Bromery if he were named new UMass president.

The job of UMass secretary is presently vacant, but a university spokesman said the assistant secretary position "is in effect, acting secretary" of the university.

The University secretary coordinates relationships between the president and the Board of Trustees.

Acting Treasurer Robert H. Brand could not be reached to learn of his intentions when Wood leaves office. Brand was appointed acting treasurer following the death of Kenneth Johnson, who dies in September.

Members of the Board of Trustees are presently thought to be reevaluating the role of university treasurer. The functions of the office may be altered, according to a university spokesperson.

With finals beginning in less than thirteen days many UMass students find themselves in Peter Mattisen's position: paying more attention to books than to life's essentials. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

The meeting

Saga contract up for renewal

By DEBBIE GRAFF
Collegian Staff

Saga Food Services contract for the Campus Center is up for renewal, according to the Campus Center Board of Governors.

The motion to solicit bids for a change in management if Saga did not like the present contract was passed at last night's meeting. The sponsors of the motion, board members Henry Doyle and Linda Issenberg said, "Campus Center revenue should not be sacrificed for corporate profit." Under present conditions, Saga is losing money, but the university is absorbing the loss.

Also passed at the meeting were motions to allocate money for furniture in the Lesbian Union office, and to put into action a new Mural Policy, which would supply guidelines for the selection and execution of murals to be painted in the Campus Center-student union complex.

NEAG officials resign

By ELLEN PLAUSKY
Collegian Staff

NEAG Co-President David Goodhue and Vice-President Paul Goldman announced their resignations last night. Goodhue said he was resigning because he is planning to transfer from UMass in January. Goldman, who had announced his resignation earlier, said he was resigning because a newly aquired work-study job was conflicted with his NEAG.

Nomination papers for the office of Vice-President will be available to Northeast Area residents from their representatives as of Dec. 6. Whether an election will be held for a new co-president to assist co-president Dianne Lauricella, will be determined at a later date.

In money matters, NEAG allocated $100 to the Anacoana Center to be used for a Third World coffeehouse to be held on Dec. 10. Proposals were brought forth by the Anacoana Center for $350, and by the Northeast Area Womens' Center for $600. Both will be voted on at next weeks meeting.

Area residents with questions on these proposals should speak to their NEAG representatives. NEAG also approved several phone bills,aand funds spent in planning Fall Day last September.

NEAG voted in Jeff Shapiro as a co-senator to SGA. He will be joining NEAG senator Andre Polito to help represent Northeast Areas' viewpoint in the Student Senate.

Chanukah begins at sundown Sunday

By MICHAEL SIMONS
Collegian Staff

Chanukah or the Festival of Lights, one of the most joyous holidays of the Hebrew year begins this Sunday night at Sundown. The eight day holiday commemorates the reconquering of Israel in 165 B.C.

In 165 B.C. Israel was occupied by the Hellenistic Syrians, ruled by King Antiochus Epiphanes IV (reigned 175-164 B.C.). It was his goal to subdue the nation by forcing the Jews to convert to his religion of idolatry at the peril of their lives.

Mattathias, an elderly Jewish priest and his five sons banded together with other Jews and raised an army to liberate the land. When Mattathias died, his second son Judah Maccabee took over command and led his greatly outnumbered army to a miraculous victory over the Hellenistic Syrians.

After driving Antiochus's army from the land, Maccabee and his army went to the Temple in Jerusalem to resanctify it and purge it of all idols. They found the temple desecrated and the ritually pure oil for the eternal lamp desecrated. Legend has it they discovered one small jar of untampered oil still sealed, possible enough to light the lamp for one day. According to the tale this oil lasted for eight full days, during which time other oil could be prepared.

Since that time, Chanukah has been celebrated by lighting candles for eight consecutive days in remembrance of the feats of bravery. The candles symbolize victory against bondage of an alien rule.

Certain of the traditions connected with Chanukah have been borrowed from other cultures where Jews have lived. The custom of giving gelt (German for money) is a reminder that following Judah's victory, the Jewish state minted its first coin in tribute to the Maccabee's.

The dreidal a four-sided top has four different Hebrew letters on each of its sides; N, G, H, S, standing for Nais Gadol Hayah Shum or a great miracle happened here. The top was adapted from an old German gambling Game.

Foods cooked in oil are also traditionally eaten, such as Latkes (Potato Pancakes) and doughnuts.

On campus Chunakah will be celebrated on Sunday beginning at 7:00 with a commercial lighting of the first candle followed by a free party sponsored by the UMass Hillel in the Cape Cod Lounge of the Student Union.

Off campus every night at 6:30 the largest menorah (candleholder) in New England will be lit in front of the Chabad House, 30 North Hadley Road, across the street from Prince Dorm, Southwest.

For those wishing to observe or participate in communal candle lighting, the following dorms will have someone to lead candle lighting:
Webster 4 east Lounge at 7 p.m.
J.A. 14th floor lounge 7 p.m.
Coolidge 22nd floor lounge 7 p.m.
Dickinson 4th floor lounge 7 p.m.
James 2nd floor lounge 7 p.m.
Mary Lyon 2nd floor lounge 7 p.m.
Van Meter Lobby 9:30 p.m.
J.F.K. 17th floor lounge 7 p.m.

Road permanently banned

Automobile traffic on an access road between North Village Apartments and University Lot 25 will be permanently banned starting today, according to Director of Married Housing Robert W. Fowler.

Because of potential traffic hazards, a locking gate will be installed across the gravel road frequently used as a short cut from campus to the university-owned apartments, Fowler said.

Fowler said that while the fence was originally built to separate the 240-unit apartment complex from a nearby swamp where an infant girl drowned in October, the high volume of auto traffic on the gravel road posed a danger to other children in the area.

North Village residents will be able to open the locked gate with their apartment keys, Fowler said, and fire and emergency will also be permitted to pass through the gate.

North Village tenants were notified of the traffic stoppage Wednesday night Fowler said. "We've had one of two close calls already. I hope adults will remember to keep the gate shut, he said.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Lisa Melilli

| | |
|---|---|
| Wire Layout | Paula Quevillon |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |
| Editorial Layout | Paul Strollo |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubberty |
| Sports Layout | Michael Berger |
| Photo Staff | David Rodgers (hd. tech.), Sue Donelly, Pete Bauman |
| Butterfield Birthdays | Marie Smith, Sue Kaufman, Wendy Cohen |
| P.S. Happy Bday Person | Dale Z. |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |
| Newsstand price | $.10 - | |
| Faculty staff | $.05 | |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Diplomat says S.A. black rule possible

By MOIRA CAMPBELL
Collegian Staff

William D. Brewer, former US ambassador to Mauritius and Sudan, last night said he approved of South African Prime Minister Jan Vorster's re-election in the hope that Vorster will make concessions to blacks in their efforts for majority rule.

Brewer, member of the U.S. State Department since 1947 and Diplomat in residence at UMass, spoke out for American policy in South Africa, saying Americans should not suppress the black movement in that country, or "peaceful revolution shall become violent revolution." He compared the radical blacks to Jeffersonian democrats.

Brewer said he doesn't feel white rule will last much longer in Rhodesia due to the "tension here between groups for and against violent change." He detailed ways in which the United States and Britain are working to find a peaceful solution for transition to majority rule in Rhodesia. Among them: Prime Minister Ian Smith's willingness to yield power to a British commissioner during open election; formation of a new Zimbabwe National Army; creation of a new bill of rights and the revival of the Rhodesian economy.

American policies are pointing "in the direction of the solutions that the Africans are seeking," Brewer explained. The U.S. does not intend to sspply arms to any African nations seeking majority rule he said. In the case of the Simalian invasion and capture of several parts of Etheopia, which is receiving military aid from the U.S.S.R., he said the U.S. prefers to preserve its ties with both Siomalia and Ethiopia. He added that doesn't see how the U.S.S.R. can hope to accomplish anything through an alliance with Ethiopia.

Brewer cited Secretary of State Cyrus Vance's statement that "arm transferance to Africa will occur only in the most extreme of cases" as the overall US attitude towards military intervention there. He also added that "maybe in a period of time, if the problems are not solved and Soviet guerillas move in, the U.S. would need strategic bases in Africa."

Brewer said that the overall U.S. policy in Africa is based on preservation of human rights rather than being rooted in economic gains for the U.S. However, he reminded the audience that specific problems must be dealt with in their own context.

'Peaceful Revolution shall become Violent Revolution'—Diplomat W. Brewer

William Brewer, former ambassador to Mauritia, Africa, spoke last night at Hampden Dining Commons about United States foreign policy in Africa. (Staff photo by Peter Baumann)

Area geneology group most active in state

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

"The appearance of 'Roots' has sharpened people's interest in genealogy considerably," according to Wendell Cook, president of the Hampshire County Genealogical Society.

"It takes an event such as Roots to shift people's priorities and get them going," Cook said in a recent Collegian interview.

In fact, the Division of Continuing Education at UMass is considering a course in genealogy, the study of family lineage, next fall, he said.

The Hampshire County Genealogical Society, a chapter of the Mass. Society, is one of the most active in the state. The group meets the third Thursday of every month, excluding summers, at alternating places in order to accommodate people on the east and west sides of the Connecticut River.

Organized in the spring of 1975, the society has 56 members, ranging in age from 20 to 70 years old with a close ratio of men to women.

Membership dues are $6 yearly and the 2 hour meetings include guest speakers and various workshops reviewing general research sources.

"What's nice to find a relative who's already done a lot of the work," Cook said.

Cook said the researcher must find out the "who, when, and where" of antecedents in order to begin genealogical research.

"Unless you run across problems, such as families that are not speaking, this initial step should take you back 100 years," according to Cook.

Library and record research are the next steps in finding genealogical roots.

"Keep following records and somewhere along that the line records will give out and you can hook on to tradition," Cook recommended.

He cited as an example of "tradition" the few words that were passes down in Alex Haley's novel Roots.

Cook said that getting records involves "a great deal of time and interest."

No CC fee increase; subsidy plan weighed

By GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

Vice Chancellor of Financial affairs James L. McBee will decide whether to recommend to the Board of Trustees that a state subsidy be included in the Campus Center budget to offset a $472,000 deficit. McBee insists "there will be no student fee increases in fiscal 1979 no matter which route we take."

McBee said he must decide whether "there is some amount that logically should be contributed from state money to the CC for those who use it other than students."

There had been some confusion as to the amount of state money the CC would be getting. When McBee first arrived he was told by Warren Gulko, former head of OBIS that this year there was a commitment made of $200,000 per year for two years to replace a $472,000 mistake on an assessment of the CC financial position in 1976 to determine their long range bond rating.

McBee said that "the CC management thought that they had been lead to believe that the $200,000 would be for five years."

"I cannot find any record of a commitment to this," McBee said. "If there was I would be the first to admit it."

McBee also said that a $25,000 subsidy which has been given in the past will continue.

"Because the CC people were concerned we made up two projections," said McBee. "One with the subsidy and one without." These projections were given to the Rents and Fees Committee, a watchdog for students fees, with the promise that there would be no fee increase next year.

There had been a student fee increase last year of $15 despite promises, but McBee, who arrived this fall, said that with him in charge it was "a whole new ball game."

McBee said that he has a commitment to reach some sort of proposal for the CC funding in the future, but he will not say when, or how much he would recommend. "It's probably going to be somewhere between $25,000 and $225,000," he said.

COLLEGIAN COUNTDOWN!

8 PUBLISHING DAYS LEFT IN FALL SEMESTER

The final day for placement of advertising, either display or classified, is Friday, December 9, 1977. The final Fall issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian will appear Wednesday, December 14, 1977.

Hampshire's Janice Raymond...

Janice Raymond, Women's Studies professor at Hampshire. (Staff photo by Sue Donnelly)

Exploration of health offered by professor

By JULIE MELROSE
Collegian Staff

"We're very fortunate to have a woman like Janice Raymond on campus. I find her classes very invigorating because she's constantly challenging patriarchal institutions," said Jodi Cahn, a Hampshire College student.

Raymond is a Five-College Assistant Professor of Women's Studies. Her office at Hampshire is a small room decorated with posters about women from which she warmly greets students and guests. Courses Raymond currently teaches include Biomedical Issues in Feminism (which deals with cloning, test-tube fertilization and sex-selection technology), Death and Dying, Women in the Health System, Mental Health Issues and an introductory seminar on religion. Raymond explained:

"My background is in theology and ethics. I did my doctoral work at Boston College, which is mainly a Catholic and Jesuit school. I believe a lot of the disciplines are basically secular religions in the sense that they engage the so-called enlightened mind at a center of power and work."

"My training in religion gave me the ability to analyze something like medicine not only from a perspective of what was politically or economically wrong with the system, but also what was wrong with it as a structure of belief. I think women have been most oppressed in terms of where we placed our belief, whether that was in men or male-originate structures."

Raymond feels that coming to terms with that was most important to her development.

"When I was doing graduate work I realized there weren't many feminists touching the wider medical spectrum. There were lots of women doing things with self-help, but there wasn't much feminist analysis going on of things like genetic technology or psycho-surgery. That's why I decided to head in that direction."

This is Raymond's third year in the Five-College area, and she likes it a lot.

"There's a lot of interest in women's

TURN TO PAGE 6

Black Affairs

Another view of slavery

'The Other Francisco'

By JAMES LEWIS JR.
Black Affairs Assistance Editor

The two day seminar on Cuba began Wednesday, November 30, in Coolidge Tower with a movie on slavery in Cuba. The film, "The Other Francisco" is a long, indept portrayal of slave life in Cuba, with Francisco and Dorotea being the major slaves whose lives are illustrated through the film. The film was a perfect correction of a story about Francisco and Dorotea. Francisco hangs himself when finding out that he can not marry his loved, Dorotea. Dorotea later dies when she finds that Francisco hung himself.

Dorotea is a seamstress for the mistress of the plantation, who falls in love with the coachman, Francisco. They try to marry but are not allowed to do so. Dorotea becomes pregnant. Francisco is taken from the house into the fields to work sugar cane, being beaten and punished until agreeing not to see Dorotea gain. Then he kills himself.

The film clearly showed the sickness of slave life, that white people were an evil people. They were as lost to conscious as Charles Manson. They would kill anyone, anything, they would rape anyone, and laugh about it the next minute. The white mentality that governed that society was directly unveiled by the film. It was clear that the only freedom for Black people was through death.

I personally had emotional cringes of hatred, and it was only by God that I could even begin to sit through it, knowing that this world is not all there is to being.

I will have all the things necessary for me to live the way God made me to live. I refuse to be subject to this oppressive, racist monster. I know sincerely believe that I am a person just as everyone else is, and I feel I have a basic, God given heritage that will protect me, guide me in this life. I feel that I am governed by this God in this present world, and will not be subjected to the perverted passions of evil, insane sickies, at their will, by their power, for their fat. I have a deep, strong conviction that this type of mentality cannot control me, or anyone who listens to himself, and to God. We have to pray. There is a God, and He — She — isn't white.

Commentary

Excuse me, I went off again. I did not mean to do that. I meant to write an objective article about the first day of the seminar on Cuba. I was overcome by the outcome of the seminar, and what I learned.

If you wasn't there, you missed alot. I hope you can grasp the next opportunity to learn about Cuba, its past and its future.

Sergio Giral's, "The Other Francisco," viewed by a receptive audience last Wednesday, December 30, in Coolidge Tower, in Southwest.

South African minister 'claims' election victory

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa [AP] — Prime Minister John Vorster Thursday hailed his record-breaking election victory as a resounding endorsement of his white-power policies and rejection of foreign "meddling" in South African affairs. The leader of the liberal opposition warned of a "hardening of race attitudes."

"I'm deeply thankful, very very deeply thankful, that this has happened," said Vorster as election results indicated that white voters had answered his summons to rally behind his government at a time its apartheid policies are coming under increasing fire abroad.

"I think the electorate has spoken louder than any man could ever have spoken in any circumstances," he said.

The final tally in Wednesday's election gave the ruling National Party 134 seats in the 165-seat parliament, more than the "Nats" have ever held in the nearly 30 years they have dominated South African politics. The party won 116 seats in the last election in 1974.

Second place, and the status of official opposition, passed from the centrist New Republic Party to the liberal Progressive Federal Party.

The PFP, which advocates sharing power with the country's 19 million blacks, won 17 seats while the NRP dropped from 23 to 10 seats.

The conservative South African Party won three seats, while the ultrarightist and openly racist Reformed National Party failed to bring in any of its 56 candidates.

Progressive Federal Party leader Colin Eglin, 52, predicted "more authoritarianism and a hardening of race attitudes" with the Nationals' landslide victory. He pledged that his party will present a viable alternative to the government's apartheid policy.

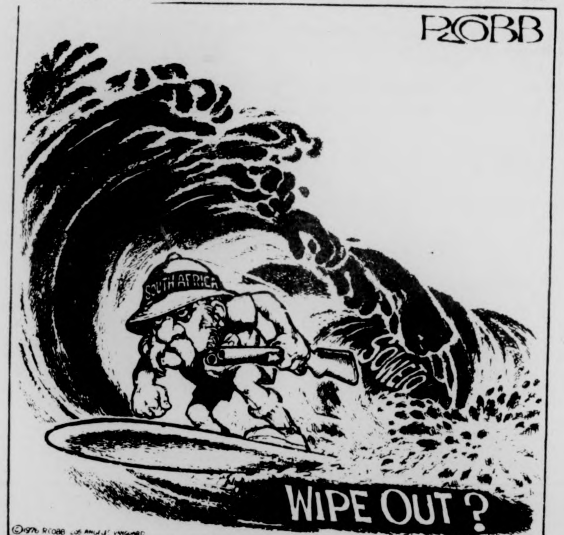
The blacks — as well as 2.7 million "coloreds" persons of mixed blood and 750,000 Asians — are not allowed to vote, although Vorster has proposed setting up separate parliaments for the coloreds and Asians. The blacks are officially regarded as citizens of tribal "homelands," not of South Africa.

Vorster called the election 18 months ahead of schedule, asking whites to reject foreign "meddling" in South African affairs and to give the green light to his separate-parliament plan.

The elections came on the heels of an international outcry against South Africa's white minority government set off by the mysterious death in prison of black activist Steve Biko and the subsequent government crackdown against major black leaders and organizations.

The anger culminated in a United Nations arms embargo against South Africa. But the outrage and the embargo evidently served only to rally South Africa's 4.5 million defiant whites behind Vorster.

Less than 60 per cent of the voters registered in many of the contested constituencies turned out, apparently reflecting apathy as well as out-of-date rolls.



Note to Prime Minister of Racist South Africa, (also known as John Voster). The victory song you so proudly sing of is out of tune. There is another song you have yet to hear.

Public service announcement

All CCEBS students should note that on Tuesday, December 6th, CCEBS will sponsor its annual Career Day in the Newman Center. There will be over thirty organizations and companies represented at this year's Career Day. This is a unique opportunity for CCEBS students to find out about a wide variety of job opportunities. Organization representatives will be available to talk with students from 2:00-5:00 p.m. in the Social Hall of the Newman Center. In addition to this, a limited number of Career Day Luncheon seats are being reserved for students. The luncheon is free and will be held at 12 noon in the Newman Center. Anyone interested in attending the luncheon should reserve a seat by signing up immediately with Brian Maher in Room 208 of the New Africa House. Luncheon seats will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis.

Did you know

The Institute for the Study of Medical Ethics, a Los Angeles-based group, has charged that blacks and members of other minority groups are being singled out as guinea pigs for experiments with the drug Depo-Provera.

The food and drug administration has for 20 years refused to approve the use of Depo-Provera as a contraceptive, warning that the injections, which are given every three months, may cause sterility.

The Institute says, however, that a recent attempt to find women using Depo-Provera indicates that numerous doctors are still prescribing it as a contraceptive without the approval of the F.D.A.

The Institute says it placed an advertisement in the personal column of a Los Angeles newspaper which read (quote) "Urgent. If your contraceptive is a three-month injection, call this number."

The group says that over 100 women responded to the ad. Seventy-five per cent of the women were black, the group says, and 85 per cent had not been told by their doctors that Depo-Provera was an experimental drug which was not approved as a contraceptive by the government.

Most of the women, the Institute says, were shocked upon learning of the possible side effects. They reportedly said they would never have aken the drug if their doctors had informed them about it beforehand———

Thoughts

it's too late to rewrite history
but not too late
to be a part of it.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

DON'T YOU REMEMBER ME? MY NAME IS T.C. BINNESS, III!
7-1
I USED TO LIVE AROUND HERE BUT THINGS GOT SO MUCH BETTER ... MY FAMILY MOVED TO THE SUBURBS!
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
WELL, WHAT ARE YOU DOING BACK HERE?
CHECKING OUT YOUR ROOTS?
BRANDON JR

---

Black Affairs

Picture of the Week: Jean Carn in performance with Jade, a concert recently held in the Student Union Ballroom. Featured in special guest appearances were Bill Saxton on reeds, Charles Majeed Greenlee on trombone, and Olu Dara on trumpet. The concert was held as a benefit for Craeman Gethers, a UMass student who has been incarcerated since 1975, and is awaiting a new trial and future acquital. For those of you who missed the concert, it will be broadcast on Rick Grant's show, the Black Experience, Saturday, app. 4:00 p.m. over WMUA, 91.1 FM. (Photo by Edward Cohen)

A new semester, same old problems

Terrell Evan's

'Call it what you want'

I have been in this school for three semesters and it seems that every semester we are confronted with the same problems, from the same people. It seems, sometimes, that people cannot learn or just do not want to learn.

We have had demonstrations and guest lectures and panel discussions, that try to educate, that try to explain the why's and why nots, that try to explain who, and for what reason and it seems that it comes to nothing. It seems this way because we come back to UMass time and time again and we are faced with Craeman Gethers and Earl Brown and demonstrations on South Africa.

I know for sure that with all the panel discussions and guest lectures and demonstrations we must reach somebody. I have heard it said, if we only reach one out of a group of a thousand, then we have done good. Well, if that .001 per cent people disappear back into the woodwork, if they allow others to influence their thoughts and direct their actions, then they are hurting themselves because, they become the people around them once more.

This is an appeal to that .001 per cent people. The only way we can really progress is for that .001 per cent people to begin expressing what they believe and what they have come to understand. Then maybe that .001 per cent people will effect another .001 per cent people and we can begin to really move along with people understanding each other.

It does not seem to work that way here at UMass and time and time again, we have to face apathy among ourselves. Apathy, fear, or a "we just don't give a damn" attitude prevalent among university officials about fights to keep our small community thriving.

There has not been enough black professors or other Third World professors hired by the university in the past few years, and we desperately need some. Third World professors and this may surprise you, are not for Third World students alone. They are for everyone.

Just wait until next semester and see if the editorials, commentaries, and newsstories seem just like the ones you have read this semester. If you don't know what I mean, just wait, you will later on.

Course offering

PSYCHOLOGY 391E [Spring 1978) THE PORTRAYAL OF THE COLONIZED IN FILM (3 credits)

Tuesday 4:00-6:30; Herter 227; (Film screenings)

Thursday 4:00-5:15; Herter 227; (Discussions)

Instructor: Mr. Martin — Organization: Lecture-film screening-discussion

Aim: A comparative examination of historical and contemporary portrayals of colonized people in American and foreign full-length commercial and documentary film. Emphasis on the legitimation and maintenance functions of film; the psychodynamic formation and elaboration of colonial stereotypes; and the emergence of the post-colonial "third world" film traditions in Latin America (Cuba), Africa (Senegal), and Asia (Vietnam).

Topics include: The Sociology of film; filmic approaches to history; film as an instrument of legitimation and mystification of dominative social orders; film and social reality; images of the colonized and colonizer during the colonial-de-colonization stages; and film as an emancipatory vehicle for social transformations.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

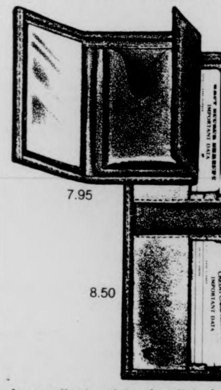
T.C. BINNESS, III!
HI, LUTHER!
7-2
HOW DO YOU AND YOUR FOLKS LIKE LIVING IN THE SUBURBS?
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
OH, IT'S FINE DURING THE WEEK BUT WE LIKE TO COME BACK TO THE OLD NEIGHBORHOOD...
BRANDON JR
...ON SATURDAY NIGHTS!

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131
BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30
MATINEES EVERYDAY
LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR
R RESTRICTED
PG STAR WARS
Another man, another chance PG United Artists
Bobby Deerfield PANAVISION METROCOLOR PG
HENRY WINKLER SALLY FIELD HEROES PG
JAWS
PG — MAY BE TOO INTENSE FOR YOUNGER CHILDREN
PG YOUNG FRANKENSTEIN
Pardon Mon Affaire PG First Artists RELEASE
PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES

Quality Leather at Good Prices
Men's Leather Wallets



An excellent variety of wallets from Faces' leather collection. Flatfold, bifold, and trifold designs, each with plenty of well-organized interior pockets. Look for such special features as key compartments and credit card holders. Rugged saddle cowhide, smooth harness cowhide, or super-soft Nappa leather. Crisp, distinctive styling and the unmistakable look of fine workmanship. 5.95-8.95.
The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

Rossi's speak on their dual marriage

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Describing themselves as "real workaholics", Professors Alice S. and Peter H. Rossi spoke last night on "Managing Dual Careers" as part of the first event sponsored by the Orchard Hill-Central Men's Center Speaker Series. Both members of the Sociology Department at UMass, the Rossi's told an audience of 30 people in the Dickinson House main lounge of the problems and rewards of maintaining a dual career family.

Alice Rossi told the listeners to "take what we say with a grain of salt, because we represent a different generation." She then discussed some of the sociological aspects of having both a family and a career. "You have to negotiate between the career and family and family responsibilities," she commented.

She also discussed how a career and home life often overlap and how bringing your work home distinguishes a career from a job. "Our home is a work place, not just a place to live and relax," she said.

The couple has three college age children and the Rossi's admit that while they were growing up the children could not bring great numbers of people to their house, because of their work. "They withdrew into their room which became multipurposed," said Alice Rossi. The Rossi's set aside certain hours for family activity each day, however, and refer to this as "quality time."

Managing careers and family life called for many compromises according to the Rossi's. Alice Rossi commented, "You can find yourself compelled to make a choice at the expense of the child's development or the other around." Peter Rossi added, "You have to become sensitive to a child's changing needs and they are always changing."

Admitting that their marriage was very traditional in their division of labor in the beginning, Alice Rossi said "It didn't occur to me that his career wouldn't come first." As their marriage progressed Alice Rossi developed her career more thoroughly. Peter Rossi commented on the change in their relationship due to the two careers. "In the last ten years we've worked out a relationship which is more egalitarian. We have a flexible relationship in which we both play nurturing roles."

This equalizing process in the home created some problems when Peter Rossi decided "I wanted to do some house work and Alice felt rather ashamed." Alice Rossi explains: "To move from the traditional role in the household is to lose responsibility."

The Rossi's interests within their profession are diversified so they did not feel any real competition in their relationship. Alice Rossi is a feminist, was a commissioner for the Houston Women's Conference held in November and her area of research is sex roles. Peter Rossi is currently researching national disaster recovery. Both have numerous works published and believe they perpetuate each other's work. "There is that sense of reinforcement and we have to stop each other or it accelerates," said Peter Rossi.

PAUMA feels affect of union

By DAN MONTUORI
Collegian Staff

The initial affects of professional staff unionization were felt at yesterdays meeting of the Professional Association of UMass-Amherst (PAUMA).

Jack DeNyse, University director of personnel, was advised not to address PAUMA as planned in order to avoid the possibility of having an unfair labor charge filed against him.

In a telephone interview Wednesday night, DeNyse said the Legal Office of UMass advised him not to address PAUMA until after the State Labor Relations Board hearing on professional staff unionization.

At the meeting PAUMA Speaker Charles Lyman said DeNyse planned to address PAUMA until last Wednesday (Nov. 23rd) when he called Lyman to inform him that he couldn't do so.

"Somewhere along the line the administration caught up to him," Lyman said.

Lyman also said that DeNyse expressed a willingness to address PAUMA after the State Labor Relations Board meets on the unionization issue.

Other PAUMA business included the nominations of professional staff to various committees and senatorial positions. Robert Mishol of the Bursar's office was nominated to PAUMA's Executive Board. Positions were also filled on PAUMA's Personnel Appeals and Elections Committees.

Don Linerski, chairman of PAUMA's Personnel Policies Committee, expressed a desire for professional 03 employees to take an active part in developing the university's personnel policies. 03 classification is for temporary and short term university employees.

"I agree that the professional 03 employees should have a voice in PAUMA's affairs," said Linerski.

Linerski also announced there would be a personnel policies briefing session on Dec. 19 and 20 at 12 noon in Bowker Auditorium.

★ Raymond and health

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

studies, feminism and women's health issues in the Valley.... the Women's Studies program at UMass has made great strides in the last couples of years."

Raymond describes her work as a Five-College instructor as "Very interesting but 'schizophrenic', as I will teach at all five schools in a three-year period."

"I think the possibilities for Women's Studies development are best at UMass and Hampshire.... Hampshire, because of its philosophy of education which encourages experimentation, and UMass because there is already a Women's Studies program, although it has no faculty of its own. All the instructors are taken from other departments. It's kind of unbelievable to think of forty or fifty majors in a program without a faculty."

When asked about her students, Raymond leaned back in her chair and smiled.

"I have found Women's Studies students, as comared to other students I've taught, to be much more intelligent... more existentially urgent about what they're doing. They care about their work, and they're doing it for a reason. That's been a real high for me."

Raymond teaches her courses from a feminist perspective, and says there's been no attempt made to place restrictions on her subject matter or her perspective. She says her views were clearly stated before she was hired. She believes that everyone teaches from a political perspective.

"To regard a person who says 'I have no perspective' as apolitical is absurd. To take no position is to take a position."

"I approach my courses from the basic issue that there is a problem; that sexism exists. I recommend that people who have difficulty with that not take the course, because we're just going to lock horns."

Raymond believes that Women's Studies is not just the study of women as objects, but is about women becoming the subjects of their own thought processes. She expects her students to enter that study with some kind of commitment; with a notion of "it's not out there; it's in here."

"There have been questions raised about the number of men I teach, which has been very few. I have stated that my priorities are to teach women. This doesn't mean that when you have all women in a classroom there aren't problems, but it becomes dealing with 'our problems.' I don't think a group can attain a sense of identity and power until members deal with issues amongst themselves."

"I felt that when there have been men in classrooms where I taught, we've been forced to deal with their problems about the subject. I don't feel that women should have to nurture men at this point in history. If men took the issue of sexism as seriously as they take the issues of race and class, that would be a step in the right direction. I see lots of men going out on their own to do something about race and class, but very few men doing something about sexism. I wish that would happen."

For a while, it appeared that Raymond would be leaving the Five-College faculty at the end of this year. Her appointment was for three years and all Five-College contracts are terminal. Because of agitation on the part of students and Raymond's own efforts, however, the chances seem good that she will stay on.

"There was a student consitutuency that agitated for my position, and it has enlarged and become very vocal while I've been here. I suggested that the Women's Studies program at UMass, which may have increased funding next year, provide a third of my salary and that Hampshire provide the rest. UMass has voted their third (pending increased funding). Hampshire has voted one-third and I believe the remainder will be forthcoming in the near future."

Raymond spoke about the difficult position of women in higher education.

"If women in academia can take that 'deviant' status we have by virtue of the fact that we are in alien space that's been predefined for us and become defiantly 'deviant', we can use that to an advantage."

"It's hard for a woman in academia to exist with integrity; without becoming a token. Some women are doing that now, and doing it well."

★ Faculty

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

criticisms were directed at him personally and had nothing to do with the substance of his proposal.

Secretary Burke said he believed this to be true and called the personality of the provost a problem in light of the faculties "no confidence" vote in the provost last spring.

Burke conceded this attitude had not changed and said, "We must acknowledge this as part of life on campus and remember that structures outlast people."

In other business, Chancellor Bromery said he will look into the possibility of not charging Medical Technology students tuition in their final year of study under the new program approved by the Faculty Senate today.

The med-tech program, now under the department of Microbiology will require four years of academic study, while the fifth year will be spent as an intern in a hospital.

A tuition-free internship would alleviate only undue financial burden on students who could not afford tuition for the extra year.

SGA co-president Jon Hite spoke out in favor of the senate's approval of 13 courses recommended by the Academic Matters council, which included four journalism courses.

"The journalism department has the potential to be the best on the East Coast and deserves campus-wide support," Hite told the senate.

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT KILLINGTON,
VERMONT
Every week in January
• Five Day Lift Ticket (Mon-Fri)
Five Nights in Motel
(Sun-Thurs)
• Ski 50 Runs, 3000' Drop
• Nightly Entertainment
• Dance to Live Bands
• Free Keg Party
• Wet T-Shirt Contest
• Surprise Extras
ONLY $79.50 Quad
or $99.50 Double
Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856
All travel arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association. Trip subject to a 6% tax and service charge.

BASKETS
A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.
Faces of Earth
Next to the Amherst Post Office— Open 9:30-6 Mon. thru Sat., 1-5 Sun.

Wintersession
Credit courses and Credit-Free Workshops offered by the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst begin January 3rd. For registration information and catalog, please call 545-3653 or stop by the Records and Registration Office, 113 Hasbrouck. Mastercharge, American Express, and VISA are accepted.

---

Abortion deadlock may delay federal paychecks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Brooke said yesterday the Senate will not compromise any further on the abortion issue, a stance that could lead to a power fight with the House and no December paychecks for thousands of federal workers.

Senate Democratic Leader Robert Byrd also indicated the Senate has yielded as far as it plans to on the subject. He said it has gone "more than half way" by approving three compromises — all of which the House rejected.

Brooke, a leading advocate of federal funding of abortions for the poor, said he sees no reason for the Senate to accept further compromises.

"There is no sense in taking our bill, modifying it again and then letting them reject it again," he said. "We have compromised, compromised and compromised. It's all in their court. I think we've given too much already."

At stake is whether the federal government will finance abortions for women who cannot pay for them. The House would outlaw such funding except in special cases and the Senate has taken a less restrictive stance.

Joseph Califano, secretary of health, education and welfare, told reporters yesterday he would implement whatever abortion laws Congress passes, despite his personal opposition to the operation.

His department's fiscal 1978 appropriations are tied up in the controvery because Congress tacked the abortion question onto a money bill for HEW and the Department of Labor.

The new funding was to start Oct. 1, but instead, labor and HEW operations have been financed by temporary congressional resolutions authorizing them to continue spending at last year's levels.

The latest resolution expired Wednesday, however, and some senators have said they are not inclined to approve another temporary measure.

Unless funding is restored within a week, the midDecember, once-a-month paychecks for some 150,000 workers cannot be met and a number of federal programs will be affected.

Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., head of the House negotiators on abortion, said another resolution to continue the labor and HEW funding should come before the House Tuesday.

Brooke said the Senate will not vote on the matter until the House acts, since some abortion language will be contained in the continuing resolution, and the type of language added by the House will govern the Senate strategy.

Task force proposes plan to help U.S. steel industry

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The White House steel task force has proposed that President Carter help the troubled steel industry by implementing a new system to control cheap steel imports, tax reforms and low interest loans.

The summary was released by Allegheny County Commissioner James Flaherty. The office of Treasury Undersecretary Anthony Solomon, head of the task force, said the recommendations would be subject to some last-minute alterations.

President Carter is expected to release the final report Friday.

Perhaps the most controversial aspect of the recommendation is a triggering or reference price system "that can be instituted within 60 days" to control imports "currently accounting for about 20 percent of domestic consumption."

The task force said the triggering price should be set within 5 percent of the full cost of production of the most efficient world producers, the Japanese, plus transportation costs. Products below that price would be subjected to duties. The system, the force said, should reduce imports to 14 percent of the U.S. market and would increase industry employment by 25,000.

"The success of the triggering price approach in dealing with the steel problem will depend on the domestic industry's restraint in bringing new anti-dumping petitions and its willingness to withdraw existing petitions," the task force said.

"Substantial sales under the triggering price would result in expedited Treasury investigations and accelerated application of appropriate remedies, including possible retroactive application of anti-dumping duties."

The task force said Carter could help the industry increase its cash flow and modernize by:

—Allowing the industry to write off equipment in 15 years instead of 18 years.

—Directing the release of a $215 million Economic Development Assistance revolving funds for industrial loan guarantees.

This proposal is primarily designed to aid smaller firms.

News in Brief

Plans made for fuel shortages

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — The Unification Church headed by the Rev. Sun Myung Moon has asked a federal court to dismiss a ruling holding the religious cult accountable for the whereabouts of a 19-yearold Bedford, N.H., woman.

Church lawyer James Townsend said yesterday the petition asks the U.S. District Court to overturn a ruling by the Hillsborough County Superior Court the church should produce Jana gkieffer.

The lower court ruling came earlier this year in response to a complaint by Miss Kieffer's father, Donald, that his daughter had been unlawfully influenced to join the religious sect by his former wife, Gloria Kieffer Paradis.

Townsend's petition, filed Nov. 21, also asks the court to take over the case because of diversity of citizenship — the church is located in California — and because Kieffer amended his complaint to seek $1 million in damages when the church's New Hampshire agent would not produce the woman under court order.

The agent, Ernest Planck, has been found in contempt. He has filed motions in Superior Court to overturn the order and also to transfer the case to federal court. A hearing is scheduled on he motions Dec. 9.

Carter to begin 2-stage world tour

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Breaking his postponed world tour into two stages, President Carter will visit six nations in Europe and Asia from Dec. 29 to Jan. 6 and three in South America and Africa during the spring, the White House announced yesterday.

Officially disclosing Carter's revised travel plans, press secretary Jody Powell announced the President will leave four days after Christmas on a nine-day trip that will take him, in order, to Poland, Iran, Saudi Arabia, France, and Belgium.

Those are six of the nine nations he intended to visit during the four-continent tour originally scheduled to begin Nov. 22.

Powell said the president would visit the other three- Brazil, Venezuela, and Nigeria- "around springtime 1978." He had no further information.

Church asks court to dismiss ruling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Energy Department announced emergency plans yesterday for dealing with possible fuel shortages this winter, including as a last resort such extremes as a return to mandatory oil allocation and suspension of clean air measures.

David Bardine, head of the task force that prepared the plans, said the nation is better able now to face an energy emergency than it was at the onset of last winter's fuel crisis.

He said, however, the threat of such crises never can be removed completely.

"Increasing energy demand and decreasing supplies of oil and natural gas can create problems even in a normal winter," Bardine said. "As we discovered last year, any shortcomings in our production and delivery systems can bring parts of the nation to a virtual standstill if we have a severe winter."

Two Hingham men face drug charges

BOSTON (UPI) — Two Hingham men pleaded innocent to drug charges yesterday after they were arrested at Logan International Airport allegedly carrying 150 pounds of marijuana with an estimated street value of $120,000.

State police said Scott T. Christiano, 24, and Richard E. Westhaver, 25, were charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute.

The two, free on bail, had their case continued in East Boston District Court until Dec. 13.

BOOT
SALE!
UP TO 40% SAVINGS
ON MANY STYLES
the SHOE
BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Sweet Chariot
I'm an Air Force officer and my sweet chariot is a supersonic aircraft. When I visit home people are happy to see me. And proud. They say I'm doing my part in the community by showing the young people and the adults that you really can make it. You really can get your share of A Great Way of Life.
I also feel good about my position in the Air Force community. I'm a leader there, too. I'm someone the other brothers and sisters I meet in the service can look to. And it reassures them to know they have a voice in Air Force matters that concern them.
The Air Force needs more leaders... pilots...aircrew members...math majors...science and engineering majors. You might be one of them, and the best way to find that out is in an Air Force ROTC program. There are two and four-year programs. Scholarship and non-scholarship. Why not look into all of them and see if one fits your plans? It's worth it, brother.
Call 5-2437
Air Force ROTC

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Nutcracker
Hartford Ballet
with The UMass Symphony
Wayne Abercrombie, Conductor
Saturday, December 3 8 pm
Sunday, December 4 3 pm
Sunday, December 4 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4. Special matinee children's prices - $3.50, 3, 2.50.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

THE CAPTAIN'S TABLE
ENJOY! STEVE KLOC'S BROILED LIVE LOBSTER $4.95 served every day
NOW OPEN FOR LUNCH AND DINNER
SPECIAL TUES., WED., THURS.
Roast Prime Ribs of Beef $5.95
HAPPY HOUR EVERY DAY
4-6 P.M.
MON. Night Happy Hour
4pm -- closing
ALL DRINKS ONLY 69¢
Damon Rd., Northampton

ESSEX, Conn.: The New England Governor's Conference opened their two day meeting in Essex, Conn., yesterday. Shown from left are Gov. Michael Dukakis of Massachusetts, Gov. Meldrim Thomson, Jr. of New Hampshire, Chairman Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut, Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy of Rhode Island and Gov. James Lengley of Maine. (UPI)

Vet school planned for N.E. in future

ESSEX, Conn. (UPI) — The chairman of the New England Governors Conference yesterday said she expects the region will have its first veterinary school in the near future.

Connecticut Gov. Ella T. Grasso made the announcement at a meeting of the six governors at which officials from Tufts University laid out plans for the proposed but longdelayed school.

New England has not had a veterinary school since Middlesex College in Waltham, Mass., folded 30 years ago.

Since then, New England students have had a difficult time getting into veterinary schools elsewhere because all of them are state supported and give preference to their residents.

"I have every confidence the school will open," Mrs. Grasso said. "I think it's terribly important. The new plan that is evolving is more acceptable and provides tremendous opportunities."

Backers of the school hope to accept their first class of 35 students in July 1979.

Under the plan, veterinary students will take the first two years of instruction in conjunction with Tufts Medical School because of similarities in course work. The third year of instruction will be at a facility in Grafton, Mass., while the fourth and final year will be at one of a number of existing colleges in the six New England states where students can get expertise in particular areas.

Previous plans called for construction of a four-year institution in Grafton that officials said now would cost $70 million. c

Thomas W. Murnane, a liaison between the governors conference and Tufts, said it is hoped a $10 million federal grant that has already been approved plus $20 million in private contributions that he said can realistically be expected will cover costs for the new plan.

"There were some very high costs (with the old proposal) but that has now been changed," Grasso said.

Friday, the New England Regional Commission made up of the six governors was expected to approve a $150,000 planning grant for the school.

Under the envisioned arrangement, part of the cost of students' education would be underwritten by state grants for pupils from their respective states. 8

Murnane said so far he had received 2,000 unsolicited appliations for the entering class. Eventually the school will have a total enrollment of 400, Murnane said.

Connolly calls for Bonin investigation

BOSTON (AP) — Councillor Herbert L. Connolly called for an investigation yesterday of allegedly incomplete or incorrect answers submitted by Superior Court Chief Justice Robert M. Bonin prior to his judicial confirmation by the council.

While, he said, he hopes Bonin can clarify the issue, the Newton Democrat said that he, personally, feels the problem could be grounds for removal. He said if Bonin cannot straighten out the situation, "He should resign."

There was doubt in some legal circles that the questions posed by the coincil dealt specifically with the controversy over Bonin's outside activities that surfaced in the past few days.

Prior to his confirmation in March, which was opposed by Connolly, the judge failed to tell the Executive Council about his involvement with Northeast Administrators Inc., Connolly noted. Records at the Statehouse disclosed that Bonin, under fire for taking favors from a businessman, was clerk of that corporation.

Bonin's wife, according to testimony at an Essex Probate Court hearing, had been given the use of a leased car from an enterprise that previously, when he was an assistant attorney general, had been paying Bonin $1,000 a month.

The court proceeding was on Bonin's attempt to reduce alimony payments to his first wife. A further hearing is expected later in the month.

Meanwhile, the Committee on Judicial Responsibility will look into the matter, according Allan G. Rodgers, chairman.

The nine-member committee is charged by the state Supreme Court with overseeing the conduct of judges.

The Connolly dispute centers on answers submitted by Bonin to a questionaire required of all judicial nominees by the Executive Council. The first query: "Please state all business interest and investment holdings in your possession at the time of your nomination, but not your net worth."

Bonin responded with a list of stocks and bonds. He did not mention any business associations.

Connolly said he was greatly bothered by the development.

The councillor complained about a lack of candor. "I feel that the chief justice (of the Superior Court) should be above reproach, under all conditions," Connolly said.

Although he opposed his confirmation, Connolly said he is not waging a vendetta against Bonin. He said, however, a "complete investigation" is warranted.

Connolly said the investigation would be undertaken by the council's committee on judicial nominations. He said he has the support of one other member and will talk to the other two shortly. The committee has a vacancy, since the resignation from the council Wednesday of Theodore Dimauro, mayor-elect of Springfield.

Scientists progress in fight against Legionnaires disease

BOSTON (UPI) — The New England Journal of Medicine reported yesterday scientists are making rapid progress in the fight against deadly Legionnaires' disease, but still haven't unlocked its cause.

"Further progress in knowledge of Legionnaires' disease can be expected to occur quite rapidly," a Journal editorial said. It also cited "the possibility that suitable protective vaccines will be prepared in the not too distant future."

Articles accompanying the editorial said although scientists have succeeded in identifying the germ responsible for the pneumonia-like illness, they still don't know much about it.

A team of doctors and field technicians from the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta spent six months trying to isolate the cause of the disease, which killed 9 American Legion convention delegates in Philadelphia in the summer of 1976.

The sickness also surfaced in at least 29 other states and "has clearly been present for many years, in many countries," the Journal said.

The Journal editoaial said the outbreaks seem to have stemmed from a common source and have probably been air-borne. "The severe form of the disease is relatively uncommon," the editorial said.

CDC scientists were able to prove the outbreak wasn't caused by food, water, alcohol, ice, or rooms in Philadelphia's Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, where the epidemic struck last summer. The team is now concentrating on local bird or rodent populations or on dust and dirt.

The journal reported the risk of the disease seems greatest during the summer and higher among smokers than nonsmokers. But alcohol consumption apparently does not increase the risk, the Journal said.

Although scientists succeeded in identifying the infectious agent, they found the bacterium unlike any other organism known to science.

"It's really a weird bug," CDC chief information specialist Don Berrett told the Boston Globe. "If you put it in ordinary tap water, it just sits there. It doesn't multiply and it doesn't die. It just endures."

The strain also is difficult to grow in lab cultures and requires a special blood constituent and some carbon dioxide. It thrives in normal body temperatures of 98.6 degrees Fahrenheit, is very slow growing, and is difficult to kill, the report said.

Although scientists were finally able to isolate the germ through silver impregnation techniques, they don't know where it comes from, why it infects some people and not others, and how it is spread.

The Chequers Saloon
Amherst, Massachusetts

WEEKEND SPECIALS

VEAL FRANCAIS $4.95

CHICKEN ( [illegible] BLUE $4.50

SHRIMP ROCKEFELLER $5.95

UNIVERSITY DR. 549-5861

---

Collegian Board of Editors

Elections

Candidates Night: Monday, Dec. 5
7:00 p.m.
Room 101 C.C.

Ballot Voting: Tuesday, Dec. 6
9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.
Collegian office

ALL staff members urged to attend!

★★ The following Collegian staff members are eligible to vote in the elections: ★★

LAYOUT-PRODUCTION
Deborah Walters
Elaine Scannell
Emily Bakerman
Janis Worth
Maureen Carney
Julia Linnell
Elaine Rosenthal
Bill Mills
Mark Leccese
Lisa Melilli
Steve Lafler
Dick Janssen
Rob Ranney
Mark Rollins
Barbara Tetrault
Barbara Metzler
Kathy Koffler
Bob Higgins
Ron Arena

BUSINESS-GRAPHICS
Tony Armelin
Laurie Wood
Steve Lesser
Steve Polansky
Eric Nickerson
David Perlow
Mark Conchieri
Valerie Beecy
Glenn Morin
Linda Vene
Ralph Meissner
Chris Crowell
Elwell Perry
Steve Silverstein
Jeff Gordon
Glenn Johansson
Reade Brower
Jane Souweiene
Chuck Bernard
Debbie Cooperstein
Ann Meissner
Mary McCauliffe
Diane Burak
Michelle Merchant
Frank Santisi
Suanne Jay
Maureen Melody
Pat Cantin
Michael Simons
Alan Brown
Brian Campbell
Carol Hubberstey
Bert Dougan
Karen Libucha
Ellen B. Moss
Maggie Carson
Patti Blanchard
Jerry Drake
Cindy Scott
Nancy McBride
Amy Oberg
Katy Maxson
Wendy Cretella
Cynthia Fayad
Jan Burke
Kathy Dowd
Jeff Stone
Nancy Jane Bailey
Alice Banor
Patricia Boucher
Judy Blake
Michael Doyle
Sherri Federbush
Mary Grandpre
Julie Greene
Mike Hall
Susan Kalman
Ellen Latshaw
Mark Lyon
Peter Mann
Michael Michonski
Liz Nelson
Cynthia Webb
Margaret Weisslity
Cheryl Avers
Ronald Bilotas
Jamie Bradley
Dennis Cahill
Denise Ferrara
Diane Federick
Elisa Hecht
Kevin McCarthy
Charlotte Trenchard
Tara Law
Michael Winn
Elizabeth Ventura
Ann Emanuelli
Claire D'Amour
Eva Perles
Barbara Lamkin
Randy Glenn

NEWS
Joan Arbetter
Andrea Atkins
Fifi Ball
James Barbieri
Fran Basche
Michele Biagioni
Mary Brown
Moira Campbell
Robert Capozzi
Herb Brody
Robert Conant
Brian Condron
Rosemary Conway
Julie Eagle
Janice Finstein
Bernard Davidow
Joan Feeney
Brad Goverman
Jack Gallagher
Debbie Graff
John Gravell
David Gram
Cynthia Harhen
Debra Higgins
Mark Horan
Dan Huse
Patti Jones
Michele Joseph
Seth Jacobson
Amy Kaplan
Laura Kenney
Martha Kimball
Jon Klein
Mathew Kovary
Richard Lenihan
Pamela Lindmark
Ruth McGorty
Jill Metlitz
Niel Moeller
Daniel Montuori
John Moran
Marcia Murphy
Brian Nelson
Dave Olmes
Megan O'Reilly
Karen Parmenter
Ellen Plausky
Joseph Quinlan
Christopher Schmitt
Beth Segers
Michael Simons
Barbara Tetrault
Patti Troped
Debbie Wallace
Mark Wyatt
Gayle Young
Rita Zeidner
Joseph Maglitta
Dottie Clark
Jim Kassner
Cindy Young
Marianne Tenney
Terry Columbus
Patty Kit
Micky Baca
Heidi Berenson
Janet Gregorian

OP-ED
Charles Bagli
John Bergman
Greg Bryant
Peter Cox
Drew Crane
David Crowe
Frank Denton
Tom Devine
Michael Doran
Steve Dubin
Eileen Foley
Daphne Fraser
Bob Goldsmith
Karen Hermann
Kevin Knobloch
Laura Luden
Jay Martus
Stephen Mathieu
Bob Melia
Clifford Monac
Steve Modena
Dinah Olanoff
Jim Paulin
B.J. Roche
Jerry Rogers
Mitch Singer
Wendy Stearns
Paula Strollo
William Sundstrom
Greg Tarpinian
Demon Thomas
Sharon Tracy
Mark Troobnick
Paul Yanowitch

BLACK AFFAIRS
Angela Thomas
Terrell Evans
James Lewis

SPORTS
Judith Van Handle
David Rodman
Gary Adinolfi
Jack Atkinson
Mike Berger
Andy Blume
Walt Cherniak
Ellen Davis
Rich Eckel
Bill Edelstein
Missy Gallagher
John Gever
Jim Gleason
Jeff Glynn
Judy Keefe
Joe Kittredge
Curt Kohlberg
Kirk Mackey
Mark Marchand
Kevin McCaffrey
Mike McHugh
George O'Brien
Leo Peloquin
Ed Powers
Russ Smith
Billy Tarter

PHOTO
Marilyn Mankowsky
Pat Dobbs
Dale Griswold
Andy Bernstein
John Anderson
Dave Rodgers
Ellen Davis
Wayne Davis
Steve Nugent
Athena Boolukus
Chris Bourne
Howard Lahitt
Jeff Stone
Peter Lee
Amira Rahman
Walter Buchwald
Mike DiMuro
Dan Vullemier
Tim Vartanian
Donna Jacobson
Susan Donnelly
Pete Baumann
Janie Portnoy
Greg Smolin
Diane Crawford
Howard Bernstone
Debbie Snyder

WOMEN'S STAFF
Julie Melrose
Candy Carlon
Nancy Callahan
Janet Hoebing
Tisha Keefe
Elaine Osborn
Debbie Edwards

BELOW THE SALT
Ross Nerenberg
Perry Adler
Cheryl Sreiberg
Lisa Wait
Mario Barrios
Lesley Lawrence
Mark Levitan
Leila Bruno
Steve Waldman
Patti Rosenberg
Sharon True
Rick Alvord
Ed Cohen
Debbie Schaefer
Marty Maceda
R. Arps Garrett
Jack Flynn
Alan Silverberg
Habib Mouallem
Gerard Halloren
Rich Pioli
Skip Tenczar
Tom Aversa
John Zeiman
Ken Shain
Tom Anderson
Gary Halzel
Ed McQuaid
Dan Aucoin
Bob Armstrong

If your name does not appear on this list, and you think it should, see your departmental editor.

Hardline Arab leaders try to curb Sadat's peace talks with Israel

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Hardline Arab leaders assembled here yesterday for a Libyan-sponsored "summit of resistance" to break the momentum of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's bold new peace overtures to Israel.

"No negotiations, no settlement, no recognition," read fresh signs along the palm-lined streets of this seaside capital, reflecting the intransigence of Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy. Other banners said: "Welcome, heroes of steadfastness, to the land of steadfastness."

About 1,000 demonstrators shouting "It is we who are right" massed outside the People's Palace, the elegant white stucco headquarters of King Idris, deposed by Khadafy in 1969.

A formal opening session of the two-day anti-Sadat conference was scheduled to begin inside the palace last night but was postponed until today. The Arab leaders met privately among themselves into the night.

It was the first of several competing conferences spawned by Sadat's Jan. 19-21 trip to Jerusalem. Still to come are enother "rejectionist" conference called by Iraq for Baghdad next week, Sadat's pre-Geneva meeting in Cairo in mid-December and another preparatory conference called by U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Only Israel, the United States and the United Nations are expected to join Egypt at the Cairo talks. Waldheim's invitation drew a negative reaction from Israel while among the Arabs only Jordan indicated it was accepting.

Khadafy beamed behind dark glasses as he greeted guests flying in for the speechmaking and strategy sessions designed to counter Sadat's initiative.

The assemblage of Arab leaders in Tripoli, particularly President Hafez Assad of Syria, was a symbolic victory for Khadafy's oil-financed Arab revolutionary brand of leadership opposed to any concessions to Israel.

But Assad, distinctly more moderate than his mercurial host in his approach to Middle East peace prospects, showed reluctance to get involved in any extremist outbursts.

"It is natural that when a nation faces a danger, the faithful sons call to meet and work to prevent the catastrophe which is about to take place," he said on arrival.

Though he reaffirmed Syria's refusal to attend peace talks with Israel in Cairo, Assad avoided any mention of Sadat or the bitter Arab criticism Egypt has faced since the Jerusalem journey.

President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria was the first to land at the former Wheelus U.S. Air Base, now Khadafy's military airport for Tripoli.

He was followed by Palestinian chieftain Yasir Arafat and Assad several hours later. President Salem Rabayiah Aly of South Yemen also was scheduled to attend.

Iraq, which vies with Libya for leadership in the radical Arab camp, dispatched a fiveman delegation, headed by Taha Yassin Ramadan Getrawi of the ruling Remolutionary Command Council and including Foreign Minister Saadoun Hamadi.

Sacharin tests not solid, according to researcher

BOSTON (UPI) — A Canadian scientist whose work led to proposed U.S. government restrictions on use of saccharin said yesterday his experiments did not show clearly the artificial sweetener alone caused cancer in research animals.

"Saccharin caused the bladder tumors (in rts used in the experiments)," said Dr. Douglas Arnold, a research scientist for the Canadian Bureau of Chemical Safety. "But how it caused them is a question."

Arnold said saccharin could have been a co-carcinogen — a substance that, when used in combination with another, produced cancerous bladder tumors in the rats. Arnold's work also led to Canadian restrictions on the artificial sweetener.

Dr. Freddy Homburger, president of the Bio-Research Institute Inc., in Cambridge, and on the staff of Boston University's medical school, questioned both the use of only one species of animal in the experiments and the sudden reaction by government officials — especially in the federal Food and Drug Administration — in suggesting limited use of saccharin.

"Saccharin has never been shown to cause cancer in animals beyond reasonable doubt," he said.

Both men made the remarks in an interview during a symposium at Boston's Museum of Science on use of Syrian hamsters in cancer research.

Homburger, whose institute organized the symposium, insisted results of the Canadian study were not conclusive, partly because the particular strain of rat used in the experiment is prone to bladder tumors that occurred even in control groups not exposed to saccharin.

The tumors are caused by parasites in the rats' bladders, he said, adding that research in 1941 showed that the rats' tendency to suffer from tumors made them unsuitable for most cancer research.

Homburger stressed the "urgent need" for use of other animals, especially the Syrian hamster, in the saccharin tests and other cancer research.

Arnold agreed other types of animals should be subjected to the experiments, but defended the choice of rats in the Canadian experiments.

The rats, which he insisted were free of parasites, were chosen for the saccharin tests because they have been used consistently in cancer research, Arnold said, adding, "We like to know quite a bit about the species we're concerned with."

They found me in the classifieds!
I was a purr-ty good deal! You'll find all kinds of pets - from horses to guppies at all kinds of prices. Classifieds are an entire pet store delivered to you at UMass.
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS ARE PURR-TY DARN GOOD!

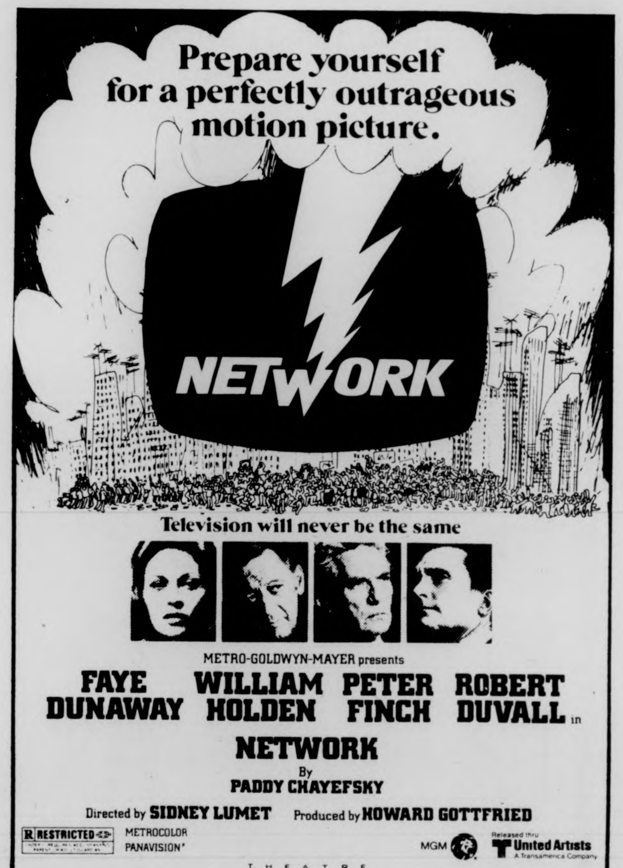
Enjoy a 14 oz. serving of Coca-Cola and get a glass.
49¢
Enjoy Coca-Cola
Hatch Only



Prepare yourself for a perfectly outrageous motion picture.
NETWORK
Television will never be the same

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER presents
FAYE DUNAWAY WILLIAM HOLDEN PETER FINCH ROBERT DUVALL in NETWORK
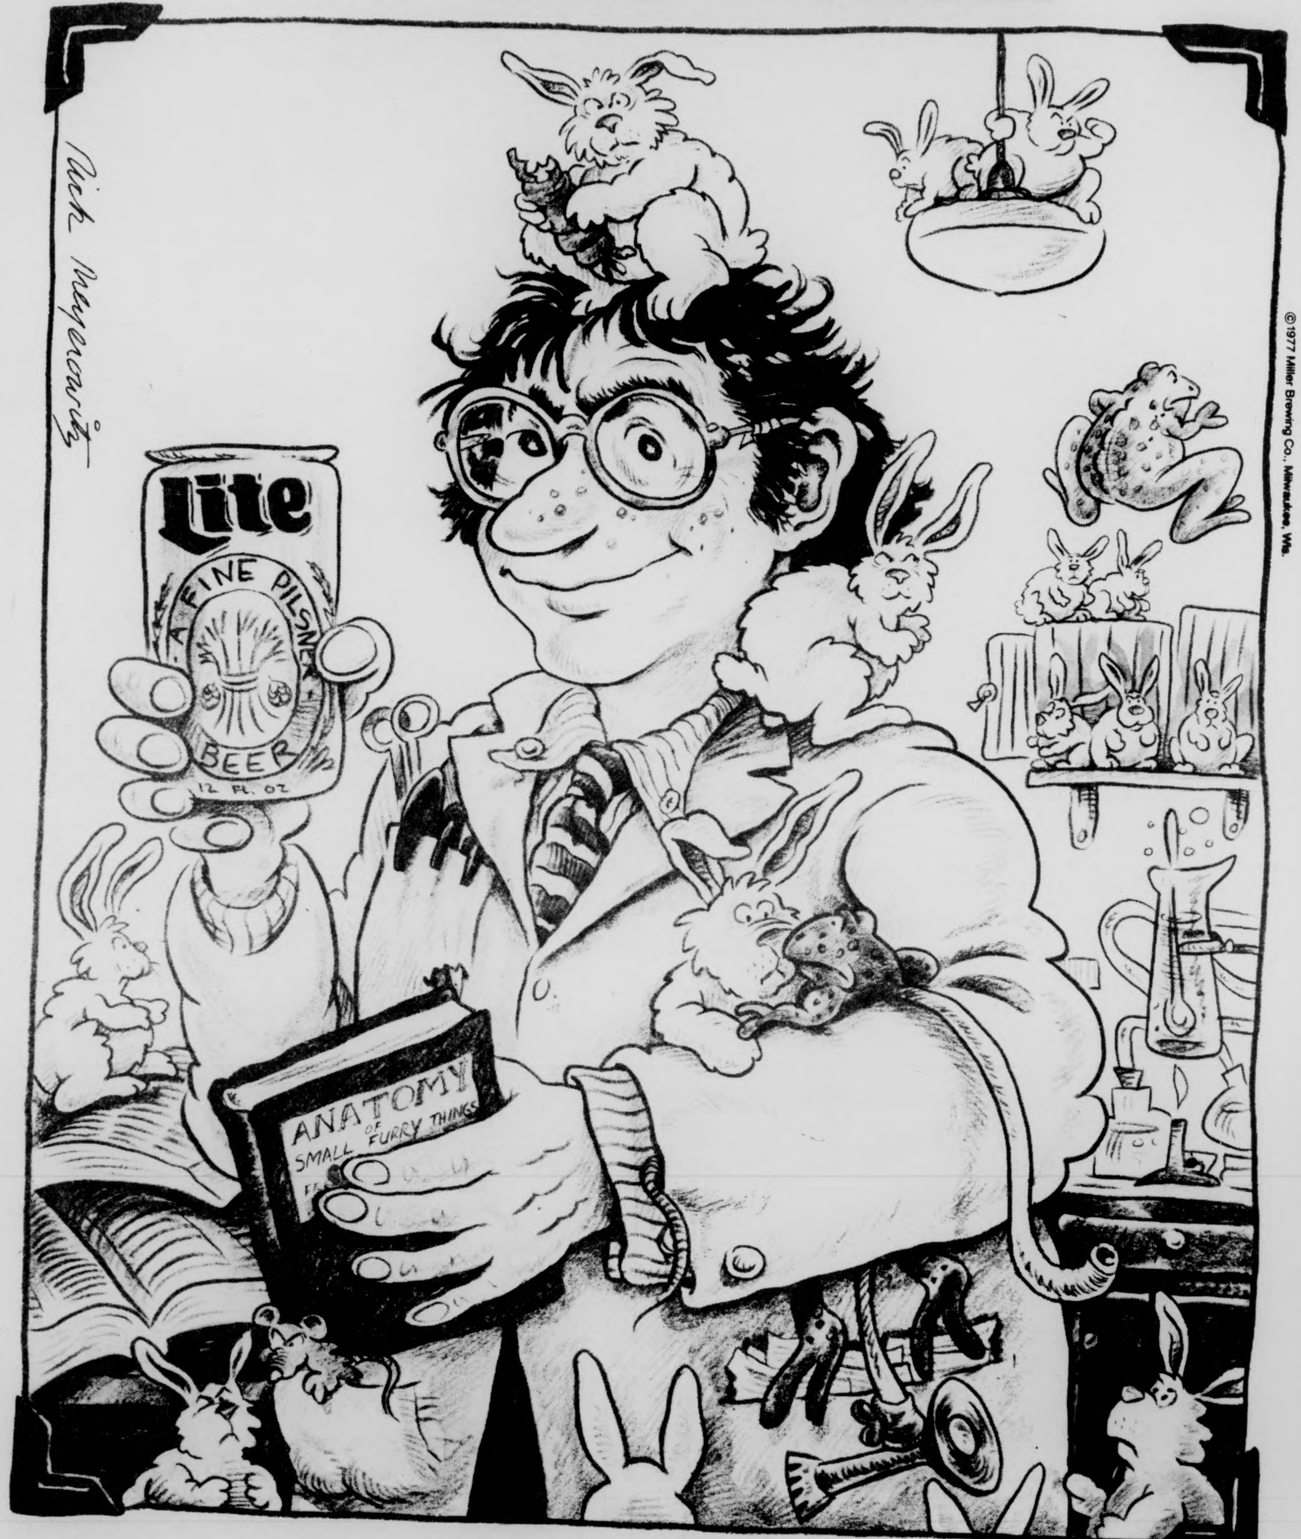
By
PADDY CHAYEFSKY
Directed by SIDNEY LUMET Produced by HOWARD GOTTFRIED
R RESTRICTED METROCOLOR PANAVISION®
MGM Released thru United Artists A Transamerica Company
THEATRE

Sat., Dec 3
Mahar Aud. - 7, 9:15, 11:30
Sun., Dec 4
Hampden D.C. - 7, 9:15, 11:30
$1.00

---

Mel Practiss
Pre-med Student



Can't miss him on campus, always wears white.
Constantly being sought after by freshmen and transfer students who mistake him for ice-cream man.
Mel drinks Lite Beer from Miller because it's less filling. Can't afford to get filled up.
At last count he was in charge of 114 mice, 137 frogs and 240, uh…480 rabbits.
Spends spare time in library analyzing stitching on medical books.
Lite® Beer from Miller.
Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.
©1977 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

Fear of the unknown?

By STEPHEN A. MODENA

Earlier this semester the town of Amherst considered the future fate of recombinant DNA experimentation at the UMass and Amherst College campuses. Since no one here is presently conducting this type of work, its opponents feel that now may be the proper time to suggest imposing a moratorium or a ban. The opponents of recombinant DNA work cite the people's right-to-know and the spectre of disaster by epidemic.

In the September-October issue of American Scientist, which is available at campus libraries, Dr. Bernard Davis addressed the most common doubts and concerns expressed about recombinant DNA. It is written in plain language and is quite eye-opening in assessing the risks and dangers involved. He claims that they are much lower than for medical work done with better known pathogens.

Recombinant DNA is sometimes called "gene splicing." Basically, an attempt is made to transfer one or two genes from one organism to another unrelated organism. This is shown to occur rarely in nature. Hopefully, the transfered gene will be expressed; that is, something new will be made by the gene-receiving host that it couldn't make before. Let's say, for example, the human gene for making the hormone insulin were transferred to the bacterium E. coli-EK-12 strain, which is approved for experimentation. The bacterium might then be capable of making insulin, an ability it did not possess before.

The donated "foreign" DNA, opponents claim, could just as easily contain a dangerous gene, such as for cholera toxin. The receiver bacterium now would be dangerous, rather than beneficial. Since E. coli inhabits the intestines of everyone, how could this danger be contained if it accidentally "escaped" from the lab?

Actually this has been well thought out ahead and the necessary safeguard procedures are spelled out in the guidelines of the National Institutes of Health, which researchers on this campus will be obligated to comply with.

The first line of safety is a system of handling and storage adequate for the danger, if any, that could exist. Pasteur disproved the theory of spontaneous generation. A scientist selects donor and receiver materials of known composition and potential.

The "foreign" DNA would not be selected from just any random source for experimentation, since certain types of experiments are forbidden. Organisms as sources of donor DNA are categorized as to probable danger, present or future — if they are dangerous at all. Since one must report one's work and be open to periodic biohazard inspection by experts, potentially hazardous experiments would be spotted and abandoned. Failure to comply with the guidelines would mean cutting off of research funds.

Just as important, the bacterium that has been selected to be the universal gene receiver is quite special: it is severely crippled genetically. To grow and divide it must be specially fed two different chemicals which are scarcely found in our intestines. And to boot, some of our digestive secretions cause these sensitive bacteria to break up and die. Also, E. coli bacteria don't fare well in pond or resevoir water. They die off rapidly!

The point is: the E. coli bacterium has been exhaustively studied for more than fifty years. Its potential as a spreading carrier of a new disease can be reliably predicted, and it is virtually nil. The 99. 9 per cent effective preventive measures are: wash your hands before eating, cook all your food, and be sure that your flush toilet works properly. (This also stops cholera, too.) Epidemics occur where common sense sanitation doesn't exist.

Dr. Davis reports that past experience in Public Health labs were highly hazardous organisms are routinely handled, shows that respiratory infection is the most likely route of "escape" for a pathogen, E. coli, normal or crippled, can't make a go of it in the lungs.

It seems likely that even a "dangerous" experiment couldn't produce a new hybrid germ more hazardous than those already known. Gene splicing can't "create" a new disease out of thin air, no matter what is written in science fiction novels.

The other major question is the moral one: is this type of experimentation dangerous to our species and other living things in the genetic sense? Opponents often make genetic experimentation sound like a new idea and very dangerous — and maybe to be feared.

Recombinant DNA techniques do not constitute a new science unto itself. These experiments represent a new aspect of man's long history of genetic manipulation. Be it the domestication of the dog or the selective breeding of better food crops or the invention of the polio vaccine, man has interacted with other living things to such an extent that he has been altered and they have been altered irreversibly on the level of chromosomes and genes.

The attack on recombinant DNA may play on fear, especially of the unknown. The attack, if there is a need for it, is misdirected. Recombinant DNA is not inherently bad. It is a part of a greater whole which ought to be discussed. Do we have a cultural philosophy on genetics? In all likelihood, the answer is "yes". The question is not recombinant DNA, good or bad, but is the broad science and art of genetics — including recombinant DNA — responding to the dictates and pressures of an expanding world population and decreasing world resources? I think that the answer is "yes" and recombinant DNA is a positive tool in that endeavor.

Stephen A. Modena is a Collegian commentator.

Notice!

The column which appeared in yesterday's Collegian entitled, "Valley Cornucopia," was written by Jerry Rogers, whose columns appear every Thursday in the Collegian.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager, Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

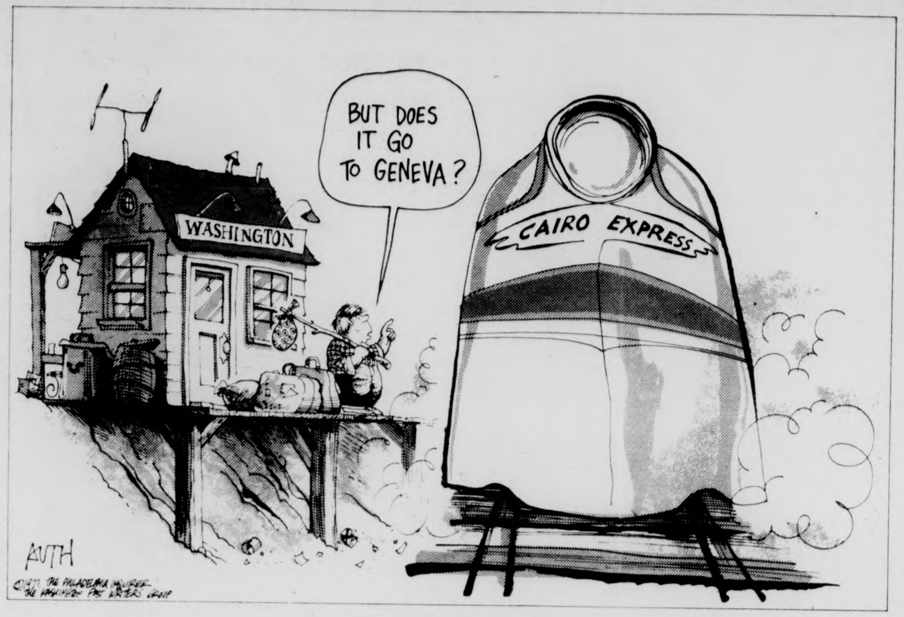
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



BUT DOES IT GO TO GENEVA?
WASHINGTON
CAIRO EXPRESS
AUTH
©1977 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP

More money, less work

Editor's Note: The following commentary was written by Larry Roberts, president of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the UMass faculty's union.

By LARRY ROBERTS

The shocking headline screams across the top of a local newspaper: "UMass faculty goal: more money, less work." Sensational, right? What kind of a union would ask for less money and more work? Now, that would be a sensational headline! The irony is that we've asked for neither.

In an otherwise reasonably accurate story, some of the highlights are recounted of the MSP-FSU-MTA asking package in the November 23 issue of that newspaper. Buried in the article on page five, we find the statement that the reduction in contract hours "is intended to provide more time for professional work and research." Does that sound like we are asking for less work?

The entire salary package was constructed to aim toward restoration of the purchasing power of faculty salaries that existed in 1973. Since that date most of us have had only the pitifully small raise of $850, while the cost of living has increased 35 per cent. In sharp contrast, the personal income of the general population has kept pace with the consumer-price index, if not exceeded it. Are we asking for more money if all we want is to return to our 1973 salary level?

Russell Jones, Dean of Engineering, calls the union's proposals "extreme," blaming the union in advance for protracted negotiations. Is it "extreme" to strive for educational excellence and a fair pay for faculty? Any impartial reading of the proposals would show these as our goals.

The release of the union's asking package to the news media, in blatant violation of an agreement signed by representatives of the Board of Trustees, is only the latest episode in the spiteful war being waged by the administration against the union and the faculty. At every opportunity, university administrators have tried to frustrate the union's legal rights and blamed the union for everything possible, trying to cover up their own lack of competence and administrative delays.

We do not believe that these administrators are evil or malicious, but they are slavishly following advice from people outside the university who have no commitment to the institution or its long term well being. For this destructive advice, which is generating so much bitterness and disgust among faculty, they admit spending the taxpayer's money at the rate of $100,000 per year (Daily Hampshire Gazette, November 23, page five).

Of course, Dean Jones and all other administrators concerned deny culpability in the release of the package, but the memo accompanying the copies leaked to the newspapers clearly shows their origin. Certainly, printing 100 copies (Jones, quoted in Massachusetts Daily Collegian, November 23) and distributing them around campus could hardly be described as an effort to ensure confidentiality. Irresponsible statements that the union's proposals would "Double or triple the cost of operating the university" (Amherst Record, November 23) do not help either.

Larry S. Roberts is President of the Massachusetts Society of Professors.

Marriage as an institution — examine new alternatives

fifi ball

For many of us, the concept of marriage, though still slightly intangible, stands as a concept not to be disregarded. In simpler language — most of us expect to be married at some point, whether we have a prospective partner in mind right now or not.

The divorce rate in the U.S. is high — Last I heard it was one in four — and still rising, but we cling to that ageless expectation.

For women, the prospect of remaining unmarried for very long still carries the inexplicable terror of being an old (lonely) maid. For men, the prospect is slightly less uninviting — the stereotype of the aging bachelor brings with it visions of several prospective young and attractive lovers and numerous luxuries.

That marriage is an indispensible part of later life used to be bound up with procreation. This may have been to avoid incest or even venereal disease. But marriage was the only legitimate way to have babies, and the race had to be kept going.

Marriage ends up legally being bad for women, but good for children. In many states there are still laws prohibiting married women from owning property or inheriting money. But for children there are protective laws built in to insure some sort of responsible financial support.

Marriage, in that it usually produces a nuclear family, is very bound up with the capitalist ethic. One adult stays home and does the work involved with food, children, and cleaning, while the partner makes the necessary monetary income.

This concept seems outdated at best.

Why are we so threatened by the idea of not getting married? Are we so afraid to be alone? Marriage is still closely associated with security. What kind of security is actually involved in marriage? For women it was financial security, for men — the security of having someone there to raise the kids, cook the meals, and clean the house.

Many men are having second thoughts about being shoved into the role of sole provider for a family. Many women no longer enjoy the housewife role.

I'm not saying marriage is always bad. It probably works for a lot of people. But it may no longer be right for everyone.

What of homosexuals? Currently there is little or, in most cases, no provision for marriages between two members of the same sex. And even if there were, why buy into an unsupportive system?

We should be looking more critically at social institutions like marriage, try to quell our fears of the new and different, and examine alternatives. We can see marriage isn't working for many people, so maybe it's time to try something new.

Fifi Ball is Women's Editor of the Collegian.

Who's roping whom?

bob melia

UMass has not always been a city unto itself; for most of its existence it has been a pastoral agricultural college. Most of us assume that there is a vast difference between the sprawling, high-rise university of 1977 and the tiny, land grant college of 1877, but I have recently discovered some documents which indicate that the problems of 100 years ago were not much different from the problems we face today.

One of the biggest problems of the 19th century was roping. Most students had horses, but could only put them out to pasture in the proper field. The fields were numbered, and upon payment of a fee the administration would brand a student's horse with a number. A student could leave his-her horse only in the pasture for which the horse was branded. If the horse was pastured illegally, it would be roped and put in a storage stall, not to be released until the offending student paid a substantial fine.

The firm which took students' horses was Amherst Roping, a company despised campus-wide for their rudeness, arrogance and high prices. They were also thought to be dishonest. Some students when they went to claim their roped horses, found that bridels, saddles, and other items had mysteriously disappeared.

To fight Amherst Roping, some students came up with the idea for student-run roping. The idea was excellent and highly popular among students. Student roping promised better treatment for the roped horses, lower prices, student jobs, more accountability and greater convenience. The major problem appeared to be money.

Although student roping would quickly become a paying proposition, it was expensive to start up. Work horses to do the towing had to be bought, along with heavy duty saddles, lots of rope and stalls to house the roped horses. The Committee For Student-Run Roping asked the student senate for the necessary money, and after much delay they got it. Student roping appeared to be a reality.

But at that point the same small clique of senators who had delayed the issue for so long moved to reconsider the whole idea. Students should not be roping students, they said, because it would create hard feelings among the student body at the very time when the senate was trying to transform itself into a guild to unify and empower students. They also claimed that roping was not the problem; pasturing was. There was just too many horses, they said, and not enough pasture.

Pro-ropers replied that since students were going to be roped anyway, students should do it, not the thugs employed by Amherst Roping. Student roping, they continued, would also enlarge the students' economic base, and thus give the budding student guild more power, not less. Lastly, they pointed out that no more pasture land was available and nothing could be done about it, so the issue was not pasture land but was indeed roping.

Unfortunately for the students, the 1877 Senate was so factionalized and disorganized that this delaying and obscuring tactic was enough to bury the student roping proposal. Consequently, Amherst Roping roped profitably-ever-after (until the Model-T).

The moral of this story is don't let the opponents of student-roping rope you in. Like they say, students shouldn't be roping students.

Bob Melia's columns appear every Friday in the Collegian.

Beer ad misunderstood

To the Editor:

Thank you for the opportunity to reply to Professor Matlack's letter on the Lite Beer advertisement, "Homecoming Queen". This letter appeared in the Letters to the Editor section of the Collegian's November 1, 1977 issue.

Firstly, we would like to apologize to any of the students who might have felt insulted or demeaned by this ad. It has never been, and will never be, our intention to create advertising that reinforces or attempts to make use of unacceptable patterns in society.

The "Homecoming Queen" ad, as with the other ads in this campaign, attempts to create humor by the classic method of exaggerating and overstating real-life characteristics. Homecoming queens and/or cheerleaders are an interesting and meaningful part of the life on many college campuses. It was our belief that students would get more enjoyment from seeing and reading about these people if they were portrayed in a humorus and light-hearted fashion rather than in a serious vein. Consequently, we created unreal people with unreal and grossly overstated characteristics in an attempt to create this humor. The ads were never intended to signify actual people and we certainly apologize to anyone who might have felt insulted by viewing the characters as actual portrayals.

In addition, it should be made very clear that this advertising campaign is not intended to encourage alcohol abuse, as Professor Matlack implies. Rather, it is an attempt to convince students they should drink Lite Beer from Miller instead of another brand during their normal beer drinking occasions. We hope to accomplish this objective by creating a positive attitude and identification toward Lite through the use of what we believe to be humorus, enjoyable and light-hearted exaggerations of campus life. The campaign has been running in college newspapers throughout the country in a very positive reception.

William W. Catlin
Brand Manager - Lite

Author's ideas not attributed

To the Editor:

I usually only glance at Collegian editorials because I consider the standards of writing low and the level of argument worse. What prompts me to write now is a violation of a standard of writing no worse than any seen before on your pages, but more nearly touching my interest. The editorial entitled "The Unknown Ideal" by Drew Crane [November 28, 1977] expressed an opinion with which I agree: that governmental interference in free trade has caused and always will cause more problems than it will ever solve; its violation of human integrity and freedom to choose is both cruel and inefficient. For expressing this conclusion in print I thank him.

There is however a matter of ethics related to the borrowing of another writer's ideas and the verbatim quoting of phrases without proper attribution that I would like to discuss. I refer of course to Ayn Rand's works, from which Mr. Crane took his title "The Unknown Ideal" and several phrases including "the altruist-collectivist morality," "life is a process of self-sustaining and self-generated action," the government's "monopoly on force," and "sought the unearned."

I believe but cannot say for sure that a writer's patent does not expire until 50 years after publication of a given work or after the writer's death. Rand's right to be given credit for phrases quoted verbatim from her works, even excluding credit for her powerful arguments on this subject, will surely not expire at least until 1993, fifty years after she published her second novel, The Fountainhead.

Surely a person rightly concerned with "trading value for value" [Rand] would not wish to expropriate an author. Proper attribution might also stimulate interest in Rand's writings, a goal undoubtedly to be desired.

Laura Uitto

Thanks for support

To the Editor:

The UMass Women's Soccer Club would like to thank the Collegian for its coverage of our season. We would also like to thank all those who supported us through a successful [11-2-1] season. We hope that those who have supported us this season will continue to support us in our efforts to become a recognized team. We would especially like to thank Coach Kidd, Coach Luie Macedo and all the others who put in alot of time and effort.

Again, we thank everyone who backed us this season and we encourage all interested women to come out for the team next year.

The UMass Womens Soccer Club

Generalizations contested

To the Editor:

I read with interest the column by Lisa Melilli entitled "Ideology at its worst." Although I applaud her forthrightness, I must reject her logic. Her initial statements are perceptive, but I contest the overgeneralizations at the end of the article.

She appears to reject all religion and God on the basis of her experiences with a few people associated with the organized church. Such a negativistic attitude is analogous to the rejection of education and human cognition on the basis of a few bad experiences in elementary school. We have a responsibility to search beyond the misrepresentations of any ideology and examine the real issues before wholly rejecting it.

One of the great difficulties facing Christianity today is the transition of a childhood faith into a mature, growing one. Few people ever confront religious questions as an adult. Many Christians have never questioned the apparent inconsistencies of their religious doctrine and many antagonists have merely rejected these concepts concluding, as Ms. Melilli apparently has, that there is nothing to God or religion.

A wealth of literature awaits anyone who wishes to approach Christianity on the adult level. I recommend Your God Is Too Small by J. B. Phillips, Christ and Human Suffering by E. Stanley Jones, or Mere Christianity by C. S. Lewis for openers. All are available at the main library. If you prefer, read the first four books of the New Testament. They tell a story of a man who was combatting the same hypocrisies and pettiness in the organized church of his day that Ms. Melilli is addressing today. In contrast, this man rejected neither God nor the religion of the day but rejected the misrepresentation of the religion by church leaders.

Robert L. Shewfelt

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

House ethics committee subpoenas papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) – The House ethics committee has subpoenaed personal papers of retired House Speaker Carl Albert and former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., in its investigation of Korean influence buying, it was learned yesterday.

Before they left office in 1976, Albert and Passman were well acquainted with Korean rice dealer Tongsun Park, but both have said they did not receive illegal payoffs from Park or help him in a secret lobbying operation to win favorable U.S. policies for the Seoul government.

The documents sought were donated by Albert to the University of Oklahoma and by Passman to Northeast Louisiana University. School officials said they got a subpoena for Albert's papers two weeks ago and one for Passman's Wednesday.

Albert, 69, was unavailable for comment yesterday, but was quoted earlier as saying, "All the information I have is in the hands of the committee. All the information they have requested, I have given to them."

Passman, 77, was unavailable for comment and committee spokesmen declined to discuss the subject.

It was not immediately clear what investigators thought they would find in the records, but Albert had a major role in House action when he became speaker in 1971 and Passman, during his 30 years in office, had strong control over foreign aid spending while chairman of an appropriations panel.

Sources close to the inquiry said Albert promised cooperation, but removed some of his papers at the University of Oklahoma before the subpoena was served. They said the committee was considering further action to inspect that material.

Beverly Ledbetter, legal counsel at the school in Norman, Okla., said, "all of his documents in our possession" were subpoenaed, but she said Albert and his staff had access to the more than 1,000 boxes of records until the subpoena was issued.

GOP behind Carter on tax reform decision

WASHINGTON (UPI) – Senate and House Republicans are solidly behind President Carter's decision to delay complex tax reform next year in favor of quick income tax cuts, congressional GOP leaders said yesterday.

Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker and his House counterpart, John Rhodes, praised Carter for his "wisdom" in recognizing that the nation needs tax relief to keep economic growth on track in 1978 and to provide jobs.

Carter told a news conference Wednesday the tax package he will send to Congress in January will not include many of his proposals to overhaul the tax system.

Instead, he said the plan will focus on substantial tax cuts for individuals and business along with some pared down tax revision proposals that could sail through Congress without bogging down the tax cuts.

Democratic congressional leaders have told Carter they favor tax relief, but warned that any comprehensive reform would have almost no chance of passage in 1978.

And Baker told his Senate colleagues Republicans would work with Carter to "bring about an adequate, equitable and early tax cut." He and Rhodes said in a joint statement that Carter's current thinking "pleases and surprises us."

Administration tax planners have revised the tax package several times, but they still think business needs tax relief to expand investment in new plant and equipment, a key to increased production and more job opportunities.

Although administration and congressional sources warned that many decisions are still subject to change, they said Americans can expect the tax package to contain these elements:

–Tax reductions totaling $20 billion to $22 billion. About $15 billion would be for individuals, the rest for business. Tax reductions of this magnitude would insure that the nation's economy, minus inflation, will expand in 1978 by about 5 percent. Laurence Woodworth, assistant treasury secretary for tax policy, said yesterday the administration may adjust withholding schedules before the total tax bill is passed. The business tax reduction would involve reductions up to 5 percent in the 48 percent corporate tax rate and alterations in the 10 percent investment tax credit.

–Across-the-board tax reductions providing savings for Americans at every tax level. But a proposal to reduce the 70 percent top tax rate for investment income to 50 percent will probably be scrapped, though the top rate may be lowered somewhat.

–Replacement of the $750 personal exemption and the $35- per-person credit for individuals with a personal credit, probably about $250. This proposal will be most beneficial to lower-income people because a credit can be deducted dollarfor-dollar from tax owed and an exemption cannot.

–Trimming some individual deductions, such as gasoline taxes and state sales taxes and incorporating them into tax tables to simplify filing.

Other proposals have been postponed or are still not decided. Unlikely to be proposed next year is elimination of preferential tax treatment of capital gains or a reduction of so-called "double taxation" of corporate profits.

Hormone produced in bacteria

LOS ANGELES (UPI) – Scientists have successfully produced a hormone in bacteria, a genetic breakthrough which could have practical medical applications within a couple of years, it was announced yesterday.

"The man on the street can finally get a return on his investment in science," Dr. Herbert Boyer of University of California, San Francisco, one of the research team, said.

He said the experiment proved not only that genes created in test tubes can be used to make biological substances, but that controversial recombinant DNA experiments can be done safely.

"We've bypassed the potential hazards in recombinant DNA research," Boyer said. "The gene is manufactured in a test tube. It's clean and has no contaminants.

"This bridges the gap between chemistry and biology. These two disciplines are now married, and I think it's a marriage made in heaven."

The research team from City of Hope Medical Center in Duarte, Calif., and UC-San Francisco introduced an artificial gene into E-Coli bacteria. The bacteria then had a command to produce the hormone somatostatin.

DNA is dioxyribonucleic acid, the substance that controls heredity.

Recombinant DNA techniques involve inserting another gene to change the pattern of growth and heredity.

Dr. Rachmiel Levine, the medical director of City of Hope and an authority on diabetes, said the work "brings forth the possibility of being able to make such important hormones as insulin."

He said it would be possible to make insulin in the laboratory instead of taking it from slaughtered pigs and beef cattle for use in the treatment of diabetes.

Dr. Athur Riggs of City of Hope said the real accomplishment is that it is a first step. "It is the first time a known protein material has been manufactured. It couldn't be done before."

It was the first time an artificial gene had produced a functional protein. And it was the first time that any gene, natural or man-made, had been used in to produce a hormone.

Since somatostatin was discovered five years ago by Dr. Roger Guillemin of the Salk Institute, researchers have been interested in its possible clinical use. It may prove useful in the treatment of diabetes, inflammation of the pancreas and the growth disorder called acromegaly, the City of Hope and UCSF scientists said.

Seabrook prostesters go to jail

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) – Twenty-two anti-nuclear demonstrators began serving jail terms yesterday for their roles in last May's demonstration at the Seabrook nuclear power plant.

In another Seabrook development, the licensing board of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission said the site of the $2.3 billion plant was suitable even if cooling towers were required by the Environmental Protection Agency.

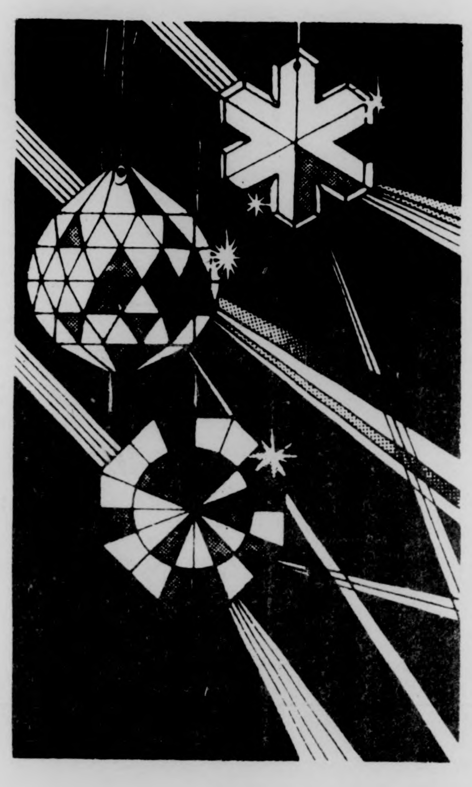
State Police Detective Donald Buxton said the 22, including six women, were taken to county jails in Rockingham, Grafton and Cheshire Counties.

They were among 80 protesters ordered into Hampton District Court yesterday for sentencing after they refused to appeal their criminal trespass convictions.

"Every case is different," Buxton said. "But in general, the 22 were given 20 days to pay off a $100 fine." He said the 22 refused to pay the fine and were told by District Court Judge Alfred Casassa to work it off at $5 a day.

More than 1,400 persons were arrested on criminal trespass charges at the May demonstration. Most of those convicted chose to appeal to Superior Court for trial. About 200 failed to do so and were ordered to reappear for sentencing.

rainbow prisms



A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

What's Happening

TODAY

EXHIBITION

Tibetan Buddhist Art, Museum of Art, Smith, 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

LECTURES

— "Seasonality and Community Structure" by Bradford Lister, assistant professor, UMass Zoology department. McConnell Hall, BO5, Smith College, 5 p.m.

— "The Sculpture of the West Facade of Notre-Dame in Paris: Recent Discoveries," 2 p.m. Art Building 216, Mount Holyoke.

— "Moral Issues in Artificial Intelligence" by COINS Prof. Michael Arbib at 12:15 at the luncheon meeting of the Amherst Community Forum, Unitarian Meetinghouse, 121 North Pleasant St. Reservations for lunch can be made by calling 253-2848 today or tomorrow.

BASKETBALL VIDEO

The UMass-Harvard basketball game played in Cambridge Wednesday night will be shown in the Bluewall today at 3:30 p.m. The program, in color, is being presented by the Student Video Project.

FILMS

— Japanese Film Series presents "Tsubaki Sanjuro," directed by Akira Kurosawa, starring Toshiro Mifune as Sanjuro, a highly informal hero to a group of impeccably behaved junior Samurai (1962), 8 p.m., Wright Hall, Smith.

— Alfred Hitchcock's "North by Northwest", 8:00 and 10:00, Lecture Room I, Merrill Center, Amherst.

— "Claudine," Hampshire College Main Lecture Hall, 8 and 10 p.m.

PLAYWRIGHTS' WORKSHOP

An evening of classwork from the playwriting, directing, and acting classes, Performing Arts Center, Emily Dickinson Hall, Hampshire.

THEATRE

Department of Theatre Production: "Conquest of My Brother," a new play about native Americans by Edward F. Emanuel. For tickets call or drop by the Theatre Box Office, 548-2700, ext. 840, from noon to 4:30 p.m., admission $1.50 for students and senior citizens, $2.50 for others, Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith. Play begins at 8 p.m.

— University Ensemble Theater Production of Anouilh's "Antigone," 8 p.m. For reservation and ticket information call 545-3511, Studio Theater, Fine Arts Center.

DANCE

8 p.m. University Department of Music and Dance, Student Modern Dance Concert, Bowker Auditorium, University.

— Dance, Battle of the DJ's, sponsored by Straight Ahead, $2, part of proceeds for charity, Valentine Hall, Amherst, 9:30 p.m.

COFFEEHOUSE

A five-college older student party will be held at Alumni Hall, Amherst campus at 8 p.m. Donation $1.50 at door or CAOS office. Live entertainment and refreshments.

SENIOR HONORS RECITAL

Joseph Edelberg '78, violin, Buckley Recital Hall, Music Center, Amherst.

TOMORROW

ROCK 'N' ROLL REVIVAL

9 p.m.-1 a.m., Hampden Commons, Southwest; 50 cents admission, beer 3-$1.00.

RETRETA DANCE AND DISCO

Music by Rez Gonzalez. The dance begins at 8:00 p.m. in the CCA. Admission: students $1, non-students $2. There will be a cash bar. Sponsored by Ahora.

STATE REP TO HOLD OFFICE HOURS

Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst, will hold his monthly office hours from 10 a.m.-noon at Amherst Town Hall, and noon-1 p.m. in CC 101.

SUNDAY

POTLUCK SUPPER

There will be a potluck supper at 5:30 p.m. at the Central Area Women's Center in Baker House basement. Bring a plate, silverware, and food to share. All are invited. RSVP 546-6020.

RADIO PROGRAM

Zamir will be on this Sunday and every Sunday; 1 to 2 p.m. to 91.1, FM WMUA. Zamir will be on during intersession too.

OLDER WOMEN SUPPORT GROUP

Is now formed and will meet at the Everywomen's Center at 7 p.m. For more information call Cathy Adams at 545-0883.

DAILY

COMMUNICATION DISORDERS ASSOCIATION

The association will have a holiday wine and cheese party Thursday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m., in Arnold House 120. Tickets are being sold for 50 cents through Wednesday, Dec. 7. They can be purchased through classroom monitors or at the communication disorders department office in Arnold House B-6. All Com Dis majors and faculty are invited.

WFCR

WFCR invites its listeners to its annual holiday dinner Dec. 11 at the Yankee Pedlar Inn in Holyoke, Mass. The Guest of Honor will be Robert J. Lurtsema, host of Morning Pro Musica, who will share highlights of his trip to France in September as guest of the French government. Anyone interested in attending the dinner should telephone the station at 413-545-0100 to make reservation, or send $12.50 per person to WFCR, P.O. Box 885, Amherst, Ma. 01003 by Dec. 5. A cash bar will precede the meal, starting at 7 p.m.

The rusty nail Inn

Coming Wed., Dec. 7

SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES

rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

DEC. 2nd & 3rd

FREE POT

AT THE POTS AND PLANTS SHOP

274 N. PLEASANT ST.

BASEMENT STORE AMHERST CENTER

CASSEROLE PANS, PLACE SETTINGS ETC.

QUALITY PRODUCTS

LOW PRICES

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Come Swing With The Lacrosse Team

Hampden D.C. Southwest

Friday, Dec. 2, 1977 - 9:00 P.M.
3 for 1 $1.00 Beers - Door Prize
$1.00 Donation at door

Notices

SABBATH SERVICES

Tonight at 6:30 and Saturday at 10:15 the Chabad House across from Prince dorm.

CONTRACEPTION EDUCATION FOR MEN

Workshop offered Monday, Dec. 5 at the University Health Services 302, 7 p.m.

ACADEMIC COUNSELOR POSITION

BDIC is looking for students to work as Academic counselors for the spring semester. Must be a BDIC student, 10 hours per weeks. Those selected will be eligible for 3 practicum credits through BDIC special problems. For more information, contact the BDIC office, 416 Goodell at 545-0736 no later than Dec. 10.

HEYMAKERS SQUARE DANCE

Monthly square dance for club level dancers Dec. 3, 8 p.m. Farley Lodge. All square dancers invited.

CORRECTION

International Folkdancing notice that appeared Wednesday is incorrect. Folkdancing will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge, SU. Teaching from 8-9:30 and request dancing the rest of the night. Note: Meeting 7 p.m. in the Cape Cod Lounge. All those interested in any decisions affecting dancing should come.

SOCIETY FOR CREATIVE ANACHRONISM

Call Bill, 546-9806, Tom 546-9737, or Jennie, 546-5910.

STAR TREKERS

Final meeting of the semester Thursday, Dec. 8, at 7 p.m. in CC 811. All are welcome to attend.

BETA CHI

No more meetings this semester. Christmas party at Al Mahoney's on Saturday, Dec. 17.

BOWLING CLUB

Mandatory meeting to discuss next semester's events at Boyden Lanes 5 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 7.

DUICHMAN MEETING

Saturday, Dec. 10, 9 p.m. McNamara Lounge. $2 dues payable beforehand. See Dana Hubbard for information, 6-6247.

STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

Meeting Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in CC 169. Several important issues are pending, including election of a co-chairman.

ACADEMIC TASK FORCE

Meeting noon, inquire at the SOP, 4th floor SU.

LOST

A gold handmade necklace with three blue agate hearts. Of great personal value. Reward. Please call 546-9172.

Drafting a compromise of the Social Security bill begins

WASHINGTON [UPI] – Eight senators and 10 representatives began drafting a compromise Social Security bill yesterday and immediately ran into this hard reality.

It is going to cost American workers and their employers a bundle to maintain Social Security benefits at roughly their present levels over the next 75 years.

Bills recently passed by the House and Senate each would raise Social Security payroll taxes by about $75 billion by 1983.

They would do so in different ways. The House follows tradition by taxing employers and employees equally. The Senate would tax employers more.

Over the next decade, both versions treat the average worker – who now earns $10,000 and pays an annual Social Security tax of $585 – about equally. Assuming such a worker's pay increases with inflation to $18,619 in 1987, his tax would be $1,322 under both versions.

The maximum tax a higher-income employee now pays is $965. Under the Senate bill the maximum would rise to $2,407 in 1987; $3,024 under the House bill.

For an employer the maximum would rise from $965 for each worker to $5,325 in 1987 under the Senate bill.

Without some such legislation, the Social Security disability fund would run out in 1979; the retirement fund, in 1983.

Both bills would stabilize Social Security pensions – which 33 million Americans now draw – so that over the next 75 years an average worker retiring at age 65 would receive a pension of slightly more than 40 per cent of his working earnings just before retirement (43 per cent in the Senate version; 41 in the House).

One of the first disputes in the talks was over a House provision for automatic loans to the Social Security program from general revenues whenever reserves fall too low. The loans automatically would be repaid through payroll tax increases when reserves recover. The Senate bill has no such provision.

Chief House negotiator Al Ullman, D-Ore., said the standby loan authority would assure Americans relying on Social Security "the money will be there to pay their benefits."

Sen. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., said it would break a tradition under which Social Security always has been financed by workers and employers.

President Carter said in a letter to Ullman the two bills contain $7 billion to $10 billion in benefit increases for certain retirees, which the country "cannot afford."

These include liberalization of the amount retirees can earn before losing part of their benefits. The House would eliminate the present $3,000 limit in 1982 for retirees 65 and over. The Senate would raise it to $6,000 in 1979 and remove it for persons 70 and over in 1982.

Snow Policy

Classes and all other scheduled activities on campus will be held as usual unless a specific announcement is made to the contrary beginning at 6 a.m. and continuing periodically during the day. Such announcements will be made on radio stations WTTT-Amherst AM 1430, WHMP-Northampton AM 1400, WHAI-Greenfield AM 1240, WARE-Ware AM 1250, WCAT-Orange AM 1390, WHYN-Springfield AM 560, WFCR-Amherst FM 88.5, WTIC-Hartford AM 1080, WACE-Springfield AM 730, WTAG-Worcester AM 580, WSPR-Springfield AM 1270, WMUA-Amherst FM 91.1 It is important that you stay tuned to your radio for additional information in the event of a change. Do not call the University for this information.

In order to facilitate snow removal, parking will be prohibited in the lots listed below between 1 a.m. and 7 a.m. from Dec. 1 to April 1, as provided for in the Motor Vehicle Regulations Manual approved by the Board of Trustees on Nov. 2, 1977. In addition, as provided for in the regulations, no overnight parking will be permitted on any roadway except Thatcher Way.

Overnight parking is specifically prohibited on the Lot 50 horseshoe in Southwest and the Lot 47 roadway circling the Sylvan area. Overnight parking in the Stadium peripheral lot is restricted to the back (west) portion of the lot. Overnight parking will continue to be available in lots other than those listed below.

— Lot 62 (south of Clark Hall)
— Lot 63 (west of Worcester Dining Hall)
Lot 40 (north of Boyde)
— Lot 25 (south of Access Road to peripheral lot and the adjacent peripheral lot)
— Lot 65 (located between Stockbridge and Engineering buildings)
— Lot 26 (west of Engineering and Physics Shop)
Lot 31 (north and east of Engineering and Physics Shop)
Lot 66 (north of School of Education)
Lot 34 (south of SBA)
— Lot 71 (west of Whitmore)

Every effort will be made to keep the bus service operating. Snow day schedule changes will be announced on WTTT-AM and WMUA-FM. Call 545-2086 for operating schedules during snow storms.

It is strongly recommended that anyone who normally brings a car onto campus consider making use of the University bus service during periods of heavy snow storms.

LET'S GO BOWLING

Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30

50 cents a string

Benefit dance tonight for community television

The Center for Community Access Television in Amherst is sponsoring a benefit dance tonight with proceeds going to community access television.

The dance will begin at 9 p.m. at the Quonset Hut on Rte. 9 in Hadley. Performers will include Gratitude, a soul band, Orlando Zaya, a Puerto Rican folksinger, and a Latin Disco. A raffle will be held with proceeds going to the Committee to End Sterilization Abuse.

Tickets, $2 in advance, are available at the Commuter Collective, Ahora, New Africa House in the Cultural Center, and McKimmie dorm through the Head of Residence. In Amherst, tickets can be purchased at Faces of Earth and CCATV. In Northampton, buy them at the Farmworker's Council on Hawley Street. For more information, call CCATV at 256-0414 between noon and 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Bus driver training for Senate Transit Service

Applications for the intersession and spring training program of the Student Senate Transit Service will be given to the first 100 qualified people on Dec. 6 at 7:30 p.m. in CC 917.

You must be over 18, have held a car license for at least one year, and be a UMass degree student with at least three semesters left. Bring license and proof of class year. The SSTS is an equal opportunity employer.

'Women in Journalism' subject of Globe reporter

"Women in Journalism: The Realities of Opportunity" will be the topic of a talk by Boston Globe reporter Nina McCain at 7 p.m. Dec. 6 in Campus Center 805.

McCain is a Sunday feature writer for Globe. She has also written editorials. Formerly she was a reporter on the academic beat and, before that, the Globe's education editor. McCain has worked on newspapers in Texas and New York and participated in the Stanford University Professional Journalism Fellowship program.

The talk is sponsored by the Massachusetts Daily Collegian and the Journalistic Studies Department.

DC Menu

TODAY
LUNCH — Grilled Cheese Sandwich, Duchess Beef Pie, Basics: Grilled Cheese, Vegetable Shepherd's Pie
DINNER — Lasagna, Fried Fish, basics: Lasagna, Fried Fish
TOMORROW
BRUNCH — Scrambled Eggs, Bacon, Corned Beef, Tuna Noodle Casserole
DINNER — Roast Beef, Eggplant Parmigiana
SUNDAY
BRUNCH — Omelet, Sausage Links, Fishburgers, Chicken Mushroom Scallop DINNER — Roast Stuffed Chicken, Grilled Ham

sound economy

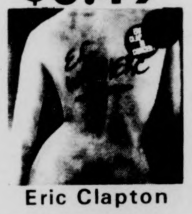
THIS Fantastic Record Promotion Features all Major Artists and all Major Labels. such as:

$4.49

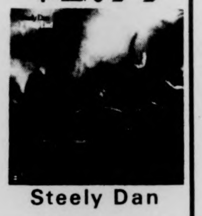
Greatful Dead
STEAL YOUR FACE
VA

$3.49

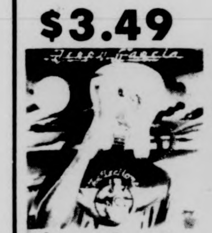
Greatful Dead
BLUES FOR ALLANA
VA

$3.49


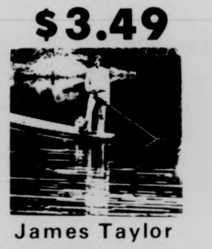
Eric Clapton
E.C. WAS HERE
A&L

$2.99


Steely Dan
KATY LIED
ABC

$3.49


Jerry Garcia
REFLECTIONS
VA

$3.49


James Taylor
ONE MAN DOG
WB

$2.99

Thin Lizzy
NIGHT LIFE
Merc

$2.99

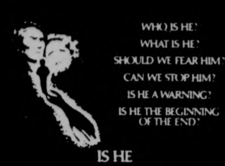
James Cotton
LIVE AND ON THE MAKE
Buddah

AS WELL AS: Tower of Power, Commander Cody, New Riders, Genesis, Duke and Driver, James Montgomery, Poco, NRBQ Maria Moldar, Charlie Daniels, Geo. Duke, Billy Cobham Jimi Hendrix,

THE GREATEST SELECTION OF CUT OUTS, BUDGET AND MANUFACTURERS SURPLUS OVER STOCK WE HAVE EVER HAD · DON'T GET LEFT OUT!!!!

THE UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center Univ. of Mass.
OPEN MON. NITES TIL 9 DEC. 5,12, and 19 SALE ENDS DEC. 29th

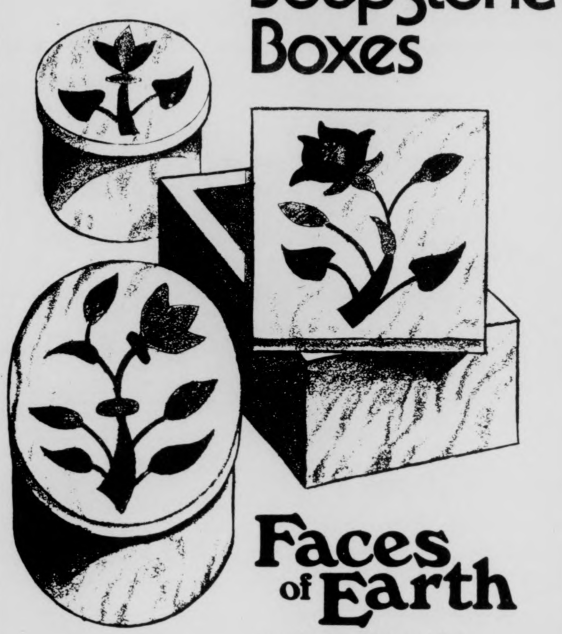
Program Council Films 'presents':



WHO IS HE?
WHAT IS HE?
SHOULD WE FEAR HIM?
CAN WE STOP HIM?
IS HE A WARNING?
IS HE THE BEGINNING OF THE END?
IS HE
THE OMEN
R

(Fri.) Dec. 2
7,9,&11
SUB $1.00

Inlaid Soapstone Boxes



Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

JACKSON, Miss. — Vice President Walter Mondale takes time out here to bend over and greet kindergarten students from Casey Elementary School after meeting with a small group of Mississippi farmers and addressing both the house and senated which is in a special session to deal with reapportionment.

HEW federal financing for sterilization to be terminated

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The HEW Department yesterday announced its intention to stop federal financing for the sterilization of persons who are coerced or who do not understand "the irreversible consequences."

At a news conference, Secretary Joseph Califano also announced his Health, Education and Welfare Department intends to halt federal subsidies for hysterectomies — removal of the uterus — performed solely for sterilization purposes.

HEW needs no outside approval to put its proposed new sterilization rules into effect. But it is inviting public comment for the next 90 days and spokesmen estimated the regulations will not take force until April.

The aim, Califano said, is to allow federal subsidies only for those sterilization operations "which the patient has voluntarily requested with full understanding of the irreversible consequences."

He said government studies indicate that, at present, "federal funds may be paying for sterilizations of individuals who have not been fully informed about the permanent consequences of those medical procedures, or who have not freely consented to such operations.

As to hysterectomy, Califano said, "we are unaware of any circumstances that would justify the performance of a hysterectomy for the sole purpose of sterilization."

The federal government has been paying for hysterectomies performed for sterilization purposes as well as those for other medical reasons.

The new rules would apply to sterilization paid for by Medicaid for the needy, by Medicare for the disabled, by family planning programs, and those performed at the medical facilities of the U.S. Public Health Service and the Indian Health Service.

A HEW spokesman said the department now pays for an estimated 100,000 sterilizations each year.

The new standards would:

— Require patients to sign a consent form spelling out the nature and consequences of the operation.

South Africa Symposium held at Hampshire College

A symposium on the current situation in South Africa will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Lecture Hall at Hampshire College. Speakers will include:

— Eqbal Ahmad: Fellow at the Institute for Policy Studies and member of the editorial board of Race and Class and Africa-Asia.

— Jennifer Davis: White South African exiled for her political activity in South Africa and currently the research director of the Africa Fund.

— Prexy Nesbitt: Associate director of the American Committee on Africa and Coordinator of the Committee to Oppose Bank Loans to South Africa.

— Themba Vilakazi: Black South African and representative of the African National Congress (ANC) of South Africa — one of the two major black political organizations banned by the South African government.

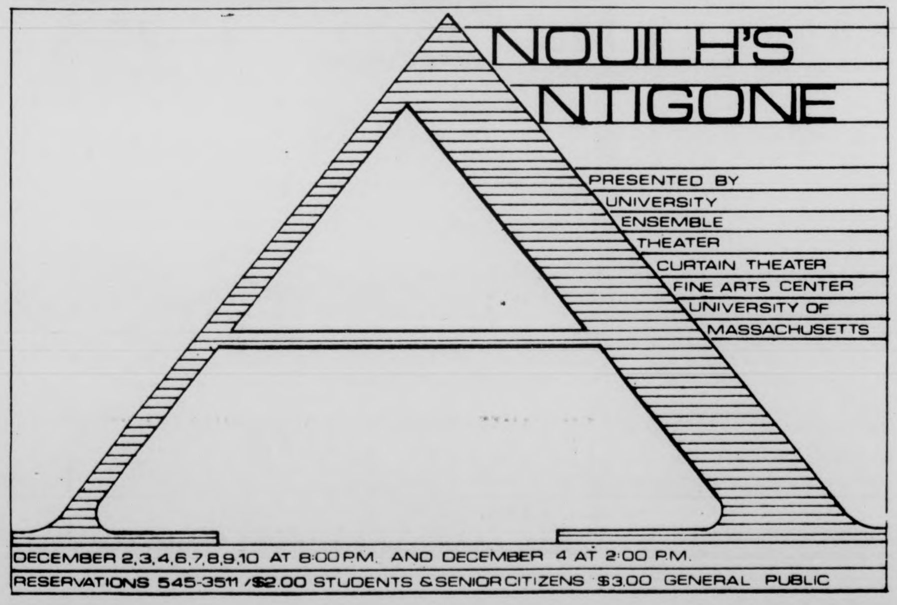
The symposium will be followed by a reception in the Franklin Patterson Hall Lounge. It is being sponsored by the Hampshire College Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa.

The Amherst Dog Pound still has available residents

The following dogs are at the Amherst Dog Pound (Wagner Farm, 217 North East St., 253-7294) and may be either claimed or adopted:

— Male Lhasa Apso mix, white with black and gray markings, from U.M.P.D.

— Female hound-shepherd mix, black and tan with rust on face, from U.M.P.D.



ANOUILH'S ANTIGONE

PRESENTED BY UNIVERSITY
ENSEMBLE
THEATER
CURTAIN THEATER
FINE ARTS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF
MASSACHUSETTS

DECEMBER 2,3,4,6,7,8,9,10 AT 8:00 P.M. AND DECEMBER 4 AT 2:00 P.M.
RESERVATIONS 545-3511 / $2.00 STUDENTS & SENIOR CITIZENS $3.00 GENERAL PUBLIC

Park leads Bruins win in brawl-filled game

BOSTON [UPI] — Brad Park scored in the first period, then assisted on the next three Boston goals last night to guide the Bruins to a fight-marred 4-2 win over the Minnesota North Stars.

The victory was the Bruins' seventh straight and extended their unbeaten streak to 12 games, 11-0-1. Minnesota, winless at Boston Garden in its 11-year history, is now 0-20-6.

Boston skated to a 3-0 first period lead on Park's shot from the right point and goals by rookie Bob Miller and Jean Ratelle. Don Marcotte netted Boston's other goal in the third period.

Brad Maxwell scored both North Star goals, in the second and third periods.

The Bruins, beaten 3-0 in a brawling game at Minnesota on Oct. 26, finally succeeded in baiting the North Stars into a fight at 9:26 of the third period when they led 3-1.

Terry O'Reilly, suspended for three games after bumping a referee in Minnesota, battled the North Stars' Steve Jensen and John Wensink fought Minnesota's Alex Pirus. Wensink, who received a game misconduct as well as fighting and elbowing penalties, skated in front of the Minnesota bench before leaving the ice and challenged the entire team to meet him on the ice before he skated to the Boston dressing room.

O'Reilly and Jensen both received fighting major penalties and 10-minute misconducts.

UConn gridder arrested

PLAINSVILLE, Conn. [AP] — Two Bristol men, one of them a University of Connecticut football player, were arrested Thursday and charged with murder in the shooting death of a Plainsville policeman.

Gary Castonguay, 33, and football player Rocco Testa, 20, were charged in Superior Court bench warrants in connection with the slaying of Patrolman Robert Holcomb on Nov. 21, said Police Chief Francis Roche.

Castonguay was charged with capital murder, a count which carries the death penalty, and held without bond, Roche said. Testa, a starting safety with the UConn football team, was charged with felony murder, which is punishable by life imprisonment or less, Roche said. Testa was held on $500,000 bond.

The men were arrested at their homes by Bristol, Plainville and state police at about 5:30 p.m.

The arrests culminate a 10-day, around-the-clock investigation, Roche said at a press conference called Thursday evening to announce the action.

The chief said more arrests were expected in the case. He would not comment on whether the murder weapon had been found.

Holcomb was shot Nov. 21 at about 5:30 p.m. as he investigated a burglary in an unoccupied home on Hollyberry Lane, near the Bristol city line.

Authorities said that when Holcomb entered the house, two men fled and the 28-year-old patrolman pursued one into a wooded area across the street. Police said the suspect then turned and shot Holcomb at point blank range. Holcomb reportedly had not drawn his gun.

The five-year veteran of the Plainville force was found by a second patrolman who arrived on the scene and rushed to New Britain General Hospital. He died at 6:42 p.m.

Holcomb, who served in Vietnam with the Marines, received several commendations for good police work, including one last April for capturing two suspects in an armed holdup. He was the first Plainville policeman to be killed on duty.

Roche said that the two suspects in the slaying will be arraigned in Hartford Superior Court Friday morning.

Lee, Scott up for trade

HONOLULU [UPI] — The only other time major league baseball conducted its annual winter meetings on this island paradise the "trade winds" blew steadily for a week.

Whatever the reason, the atmosphere of this island often makes extroverts out of dyed-in the-wool conservatives and even the most inhibited of baseball owners can get caught up in the wheeling-and-dealing.

That's what happened five years ago when 19 trades, involving 68 players, were made and all but three of the then 24 major league teams participated in the action. Since 1972 there hasn't been as much trading activity at the winter meetings, but when this year's six-day convention opens Monday it is expected that trading will once again flourish.

While the basic purpose of the meetings is for the minor and major league clubs to review the industry and plan for the new season, most of the big news out of the convention invariably centers around the trades which are made.

Although it is no longer as easy to trade a player as it once was because of long-term contracts and the threat of free agency, there are a number of big name players who are expected to be dealt this week.

One of the top names being offered around is Bobby Bonds of the California Angels. The power-hitting outfielder is coming off a strong season in which he hit 37 homers and drove in 115 runs, but the Angels need pitching help and the addition of free agent Lyman Bostock makes Bonds expendable.

Bonds also is on the final year of his contract and is considering becoming a free agent next year, a thought which doesn't endear him to Angels' owner Gene Autry. Autry reportedly has told his general manager to sign Bonds or trade him.

Other players who could well be wearing new uniforms next year are Don Baylor, Al Oliver, Willie Montanez, Gary Matthews, Jerry Koosman, Al Hrabosky, John Milner, Ferguson Jenkins, Jim Slaton, Bill Lee, Roy White and George Hendrick.

Baylor had a very disappointing season for California after signing a multi-million dollar contract with them as a free agent last year, and the Angels are offering him around for pitching help. Texas, which is overloaded with pitchers, is said to be interested in both Baylor and Bonds.

Every year Oliver's name appears in trade reports and each year he remains with the Pittsburgh Pirates and hits his usual .300. This year, though, he actually may get traded. The Pirates, who lost both Rich Gossage and Terry Forster in the free agent draft, need bullpen help desperately and Oliver is the bait. This may be the last year the Pirates could get top value for Oliver since he becomes a 10-year veteran after next season and then can veto any trade.

One owner, Ted Turner of Atlanta, appears to be in a house-cleaning mood after his club finished a dismal last in the National League West last season. Turner has an expensive payroll, and he doesn't think a team with so many high-salaried stars should lose 101 games. So look for either Montanez, who commands a $300,000 a year salary, or Matthews, who earns $400,000 per year, or both, to be dealt. The San Diego Padres reportedly are interested in Montanez while the Braves have made it known that Matthews can be obtained for a top flight pitcher.

Jeff Burroughs, the Braves' top slugger last year with 41 homers and 114 RBI, isn't assured of returning to Atlanta next season either. Burroughs has two years remaining on his contract but is trying to renegotiate and Turner, like most owners, is turned off by that kind of thing.

One team which may be getting more than its share of callers interested in doing business is the New York Mets. The Mets have been reluctant to trade much in the past, but they appear to be willing to deal one of their veteran starting pitchers — Jerry Koosman or John Matlack — for a power-hitter.

Koosman wants to be traded to Minnesota so that he can be closer to his family, but after losing Bostock and Larry Hisle in the free agent draft, it's doubtful if the Twins have something of equal value to give the Mets in return. Koosman has said he would consider a couple of other clubs in the American League West.

The Red Sox are reportedly interested in Matlack and they have a number of players they are offering around, including Lee, Jenkins, outfielder Dwight Evans and pitcher Rick Wise. The Red Sox also might be willing to part with first baseman George Scott, who despite his 33 home runs, caused manager Don Zimmer many headaches last summer with his moodiness.

The Mets also are advertising Milner and outfielder Mike Vail and could put together an attractive package with either Koosman or Matlack as the centerpiece.

San Diego, now that it has signed outfielder Oscar Gamble to a lucrative, multi-year contract, is overloaded with outfielders and seems eager to deal one of them, probably Hendrick, for a pitcher. Texas is said to be very interested in Hendrick and has a surplus of pitching to interest the Padres. San Diego may include first baseman Mike Ivie in a multi-player deal.

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
Marcel Ophuls' "Extraordinary. A major work of art." —Jay Cocks
THE MEMORY OF JUSTICE
PG
DUE TO LENGTH EVES AT 7:00 ONLY
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

Program Council Films Presents:
JOSEF VON STERNBERG'S
ANATAHAN
"At first, she was only another human being stranded on this pin-point on the map.
Then she was to become a female to us, and finally a woman
—the only woman on earth."
A Presentation of Twyman Films, Inc.
PG
Sun.,Dec. 4 CCA $1.00 7&9

COMING
HOLIDAY SHOPPER'S GUIDE
DECEMBER 5 and 6

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
Why have they come? ROBERT VAUGHN CHRISTOPHER LEE STARSHIP INVASIONS PG 1
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
Sat. at 2:30, 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away... STAR WARS PG 2
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50
Sat. at 2:00, 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50
THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN PG 3
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
Sat. at 2:30, 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN R 4
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
Sat. at 2:30, 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING
CHOOSE ONE OF THESE MIDNIGHT SHOWS-FRI. & SAT.
Marlon Brando Last Tango in Paris
WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A NAKED LADY?
$2.00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

ACADEMY of MUSIC Northampton
NOW—ONLY AREA SHOWING
Ends Tues.-7:00 & 9:00
"A terrifically intelligent comedy."
ALAIN TANNER'S JONAH who will be 25 IN THE YEAR 2000
(no dollar nights)
at the Gates of Smith College

RAHAR'S
7 Old South St.
Northampton, Mass.
Nov. 27 & 30:
Andy May Texas Tabby Crabb Band
Dec. 1, 2 & 3:
HARMONY ARBOUR
Dec. 4:
BARNY'S BEANERY
Happy Hour Mon.-Fri. 6-8
Entertainment Starts at 9:00

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music"
People Magazine
Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

☐ AUDIO
☐ AUTO FOR SALE
☐ CALCULATORS
☐ ENTERTAINMENT
☐ FOR RENT
☐ FOR SALE
☐ FOUND
☐ HELP WANTED
☐ INSTRUCTION
☐ LOST
☐ MISC.
☐ MOTORCYCLES
☐ PERSONALS
☐ PHOTO EQUIP
☐ RIDE WANTED
☐ RIDERS WANTED
☐ ROOM WANTED
☐ SERVICES
☐ TO SUBLET
☐ TRAVEL
☐ WANTED
☐ WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line; 5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day; 30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:____ X rate:____ = ____
X #days:____ = ____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be sent entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name:____
Phone#:____(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$____(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run:____
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

65 Dodge Dart 6 cyl $325 Steve 253-3586.

Dodge Polara 1969 excellent mech cond no rust radials good heater 665-3901.

Fantastic buy! 1972 Toyota Mark II runs great steel-belted radials AM/FM must sell $1400 or best offer 584-4759.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1969 Peugot. Good shape, new major parts. Under 500, call 546-4538.

1970 Merc. Cougar. New ex., AM-FM, radial 81K. Call 546-5344.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 TR6 convertible. Some rust. 1 owner. Low mileage. Best offer over $500. Call after 6, 1-567-8663.

68 VW Bus. Needs work. Has rebuilt engine. Best offer. Call Jan after 6PM 253-2037.

Capri 2000 72. Auto., exc. cond. $1,495. BO. 665-4762. Low mileage.

70 Volks for parts. First $100. takes it. Call Maryanne at 256-8460 to see it.

VW Bug 69. Runs exc.-needs nothing. $695. BO 665-4762.

MOTORCYCLES

1972 Honda 2000 total miles. Orig. owner $300. 253-5559.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Nikko 6065. 2 months old. Asking $350. or best offer 546-5084.

One HP-67 card programmable calculator, brand new and complete. Full warranty $315.00 call Bob or Chris 549-1316.

Ladies Caber Dwnhll. Ski Boots. Size 8, ex. cond. Joan 256-0368 nights $20.

Radials Pirelli 145SR13 Steve 253-3586.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Univox 50 Watt Amp. Ex. cond., reverb etc. Best offer 6-7985 after 7p.m.

2 snow tires. Goodyear E78x14 $10 each. 2 rims. Dart, Duster $10 each. 549-6767.

Pr snow tires 13" new cond $50 549-6482.

Sofabed, Reclining chair, bikerack, tables, bookshelf, lamps, coffeetable 549-5725.

The Madeleine in Amherst. 40's dresses, fur coats-blazer jackets-lacy blouses-old scarfs-silky nighthings-old books-79 S. Pleasant St. (253-3484) Daily 11AM-5PM.

Alaskan Malamute Pups, AKC Registered. Black&white, ready for Xmas, come look now, call Steve 367-2748 No. Leverett.

New 30 gal aquarium with all equip., even fish! Worth 250+. Asking $125. Dave 6-5977.

XMAS SHOPPERS! Low, low prices on famous name sneakers. Limited supply 6-9611.

1970 Mobile Home in Belch Park. 12X50, includes AC, shed, stove, refridge. 6000 firm. Call 536-3086 or 532-0446 if no ans. Within 2 miles of UMass bus stop.

Ski Boots! 2 pr. ladies 7. Pr. Nortalias, Pr. Kastingers. Call now - Debbie 6-9643.

2 B78-13 snows. Like new. $25. 665-4762.

FOR RENT

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

3 bedroom house, 285+, pets ok, avail. Jan. 3, 256-6732; days 51981 (Chris).

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Apt. mate 253-7056; spring. Janet.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men non-smokers $55/mo. & utilities—Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

Apt. mate intersession; 253-7056; Janet.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call 665-3536.

One-half of a 2bdrm apt available Dec 22-Jan 28 1 mi from campus pay own elec & phone call Ginny at 549-1764.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

1 neat respon per wtd for own rm in 2 bdrm apt, pr bath, for spr sem. Rent $125 util incl. ½mile frm UM. Eric 549-0582.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

3 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1½ Bdrm. Spg. Sem. $207. a mo. John 549-1298.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

Large room in furnished 3 bdrom. apt. $75.00 complete! Includes cable. Available immed. 253-2980. Kp. trying.

Sublet Jan only b/o. Call 546-4027, 5500.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

One F to rent 1 bdr. of 2 bdr apt on bus line. Jan-May or longer. 549-5868.

WANTED

Housemate wanted. Neat, responsible, nonsmoking. Grad student or professional to share roomy cooperative home on UMass bus route in Amherst. Begin Jan. 1 $125. + utilities. 253-5849 call evenings.

Housemate wntd. Coop house in Leverett older woman grad student call aft 7 549-0704.

Room; on L. Metacomet Blchtwn—70 plus—Carol at 323-5043.

2 females to shr. bdrm. for next sem. in spacious N. Amh. house 60/mo. ea. 549-5993.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

Waitress wanted ME Bar LOUNGE 584-7200.

Exp. women printer to share skills w/ women's print collective. Call Angela 9-5 586-5079 or Jaque 268-3344.

The Student Organizing Project is accepting applications for student organizers. Both work-study and non work-study positions are open and will begin Feb. 1. Applicants should have an understanding of student unionization. Application deadline is Dec. 8. Apply Rm. 426 Student Union Bld.

DON'T PASS THIS UP!

For Sale 1964 Olds F-85. Very good cond. Must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great. Call 6-9642 SOON.

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

Vulvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models low prices. Jack 586-0610.

BIRTHDAY CAKES!! All occasion cakes beautifully decorated to order on 2 days notice. Delivery available. Call Laurie 546-9576.

Electronic repair: stereos, you name it. Low rates. Call Ted after 4P.M. 546-6201.

Typing - $.40/page. Call anytime 549-6655.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

LOST

Lost 10-27 in C.C. Ring-black stone, silver setting. Great sentimental value. Not worth much money, but will pay small reward. Call 665-4544 after 6.

PERSONALS

I guess it's our time to say hello to our favorite shellfish warden. From the Audobon bon man and Dr. Ima Fish.

Happy Birthday Alan DeLuca.

Betheleen if the studying gets you down try under the table. 405.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Irish dominate All-America team

NEW YORK [UPI] — Notre Dame, priming for a showdown match in the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 2 with top-ranked Texas which could decide the National Cahmpionship, showed off its wealth of talent yesterday by naming three players to the United Press International's All-America College Football Team.

The fifth-ranked Fighting Irish, who have lost only once in 10 games, were represented on the squad by tight end Ken MacAfee, defensive end Ross Browner and defensive back Luther Bradley. It marked the third straight year that the 6-4, 250-lb. MacAfee has been named to the All-America first team and the second appearance in a row for the 6-3, 247-lb. Browner.

It also is the 15th consecutive year that Notre Dame has placed at least one player on the All-America team.

Notre Dame also had three players selected to the second team. The Irish named guard Ernie Hughes to the offensive squad and placed linebacker Bob Golic and end Willie Fry on the defensive unit.

Texas, Arkansas, Pittsburgh, Ohio State and Oklahoma each placed two players on the 23-man first squad with Kentucky, Texas Tech, Louisiana State, Oklahoma State, Stanford, Florida, Michigan, Southern California, UCLA and Kansas State each naming one player.

The team was chosen by a balloting of sports writers and sportscasters from across the country.

Guy Benjamin of Stanford, who led the nation in passing with 20.8 completions per game, is the first team quarterback and is joined in the backfield by the nation's three leading rushers — Earl Campbell of Texas, Terry Miller of Oklahoma State and Charles Alexander of LSU. Wes Chandler of Florida, who seems to specialize in the "big play," was selected to the wide receiver position.

Campbell, the leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy, won the rushing crown with an average of 158.5 yards per game and also led the nation in scoring with 10.4 points per game. Alexander was second in rushing with 153.3 yards per game and Miller was third with 152.7.

Named to the interior offensive line were guards Mark Donahue of Michigan and Leotis Martin of Arkansas, center Tom Brzoza of Pittsburgh and tackles Chris Ward of Ohio State and Dan Irons of Texas Tech. Donahue is a repeater from last year's team.

Steve Little of Arkansas, who booted 19 field goals, earned first team mention as a placekicker.

Joining Notre Dame's Browner on the defensive line are end Art Still of Kentucky, tackles Randy Holloway of Pittsburgh and Brad Shearer of Texas and middle guard Reggie Kinlaw of Oklahoma.

The linebackers consist of UCLA's Jerry Robinson, Ohio State's Tom Cousineau and Kansas State's Gary Spani while Bradley is joined in the defensive secondary by Dennis Thurman of Southern California and Zac Henderson of Oklahoma.

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT SMUGGLERS'
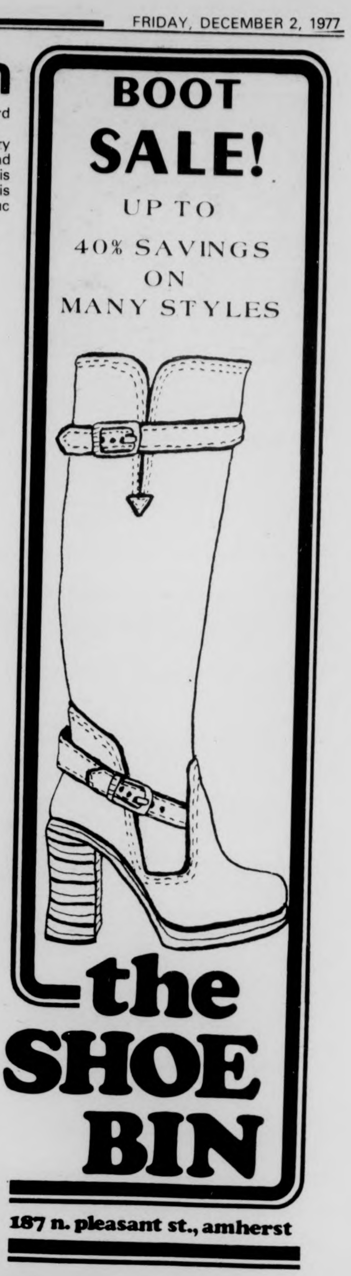
NOTCH,
VERMONT
January 1-6, 8-13, 15-20, 1978
- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights Lodging
- Condominiums on Slope
- Ski 2500' Vertical
- Free Sauna & Swim
- Nightly Entertainment
- Band Party & Kegs
- Surprise Extras
ONLY $109.50
Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856
All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.



BOOT
SALE!
UP TO 40% SAVINGS
ON MANY STYLES
the SHOE
BIN
187 n. pleasant st., amherst

Trackmen open at UConn

By KEVIN MCCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

The UMass indoor track team faces a stiff initiation to the winter season tomorrow, as it journeys to Storrs, Ct. for a quadrangular contest against UConn, Holy Cross and Seton Hall.

"The talent in this meet will probably be as good as any we'll face this year, with the exception of Northeastern," said UMass coach Ken O'Brien. "From here on in the going won't be any tougher. This meet will determine how close we are in realizing our potential."

The traveling squad for the first contest is made up of predominantly freshman and sophomores, the experience to be provided by a handful of seasoned veterans.

Senior co-captain Joe Martens is running a new event, the 600, instead of the 440-yard dash. With the familiar presense of veterans Francis O'Keefe, Dave Lipinski and Mark Healy in the 880 and 1000 yard races, the Minutemen enter a formidable middle distance group.

Potential scoring entries in the jumping events include Kurt Slepetz in the long jump, Brady Mayer, Bruce Parsons and freshman Kieth Alston in the long and triple jumps, and Ted Power in the pole vault.

Running their first collegiate races and hoping to beef up the previously weak sprint corps will be Rich Cady in the dash events and Jay Enis, Paul King, and Rick Handshuch in the hurdling competition.

The distance events will be covered by standouts from the fall cross country team. Co-captain for the IC4A champions, Frank Carroll, will run the mile. The two-mile will test the endurance of harriers Tom Wolff, Kevin McCusker, Mike Morris and Jay Legere.

"We're in the best physical condition we've been in at this time," commented O'Brien.

The individual scoring should be dictated by Seton Hall's prominence in the sprints and hurdles, UConn's unmatched depth in the weight events, and the Minutemen's unequaled talent in the middle distance races.

"Seton Hall possesses a lot of outstanding individuals, but has glaring weaknesses. UConn, conference champ both indoors and out last year, has as much depth as last season," said O'Brien. "This is a legitimate test giving us an early look into where our strength and weaknesses lie."

Attention all undergraduates who have not fulfilled the rhetoric requirement:

Rhetoric Exemption Exam:

The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be offered on Dec. 8 from 7-10 pm.
A-L in SBA 120
M-Z in Thompson 102

The exam will consist of writing a 500 word essay which will be evaluated on the following criteria: depth of treatment, development and support, organization, style, and the mechanics of writing, such as grammar, punctuation and spelling.

Please bring several pencils, your ID, and 25 cents to partially cover the cost of administering the exam.

You may exempt both Group I and Group II rhetoric by taking and passing this exam.

★Hoopwomen play two

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

than 24 hours apart could have its effect physically on the team, and Ozdarski said she plans to substitute a great deal in each game in order to keep up a fast pace.

Ozdarski plans on using the same starting lineup this weekend (Peters, Sue Henry, Maura Supinski, Cheryl Carey, and Ginny Pebbles) which she played against Radcliffe, but hopes to see improvement in two areas of her squad.

"We're going to go to a little more of a controlled offense," she said. "We'll also hopefully go to play some more defense."

Ozdarski saw some bright spots to Wednesday's win.

"Cathy Harrington did a nice job going to the boards, while Maura Supinski also rebounded well offensively," she said.

She was also impressed with Sue Peters' shooting and ability to run the fast break.

Ozdarski attributed UMass's 29 turnovers to "first game jitters" and said she definitely expects her squad to cut down on them this weekend.

And as for the 38 per cent shooting, she said. "We got the shots. Now we'll just have to get them in the hoop."

★Hoopmen

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

Minutemen have is in the guard position as both Derick Claiborne and Alex Eldridge are coming off strong games. Forward Mike Pyatt has reestablished himself as the team's leading scorer as he shot 8-17 from the field for 17 points, and led the team with nine rebounds.

Leaman also had high praise for substitutes Brad Johnson and freshman Jay Stuart. Johnson came off the bench to contribute eight straight points in the seven point win over the Crimson, and he also blocked a breakaway layup by to ice the game.

Stewart, playing in his first game as a Minuteman, only scored two, but "played well" in place of the foul-plagued Haymore and Kohlhaas.

"I was real pleased with our bench performance in against Harvard and will use these players much more in the future," said Leaman.

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
SPECIAL—OF —THE—WEEK
LOUIS MARTINI
CALIFORNIA WINES
CHIANTI, BURGUNDY, PINOTNOIR
15%OFF
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE — AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9)
Amherst 253-5384
25 6-8433 E.Z. Parking

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

ACID? WHAT DO WE NEED ACID FOR?
FOR THE LOVE OF MIKE, MIKE, WHAT'S A SIXTIES REVIVAL PARTY WITHOUT THE MAGIC KOOL-AID?
YOU GOTTA UNDERSTAND, MICHAEL, IT'S THE ATTENTION TO DETAIL THAT WILL MAKE THIS PARTY! I JUST HOPE I CAN SCARE UP ENOUGH OF THE STUFF!
WELL, I CAN'T HELP YOU THERE. I DON'T EVEN KNOW ANYONE WHO USES IT ANYMORE!
I'VE GOT IT!
RIING! RIING!
HMM.. MUST BE MY AGENT! EXCUSE ME A MOMENT, WILL YOU, HONEY?
12-2
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

WHAT'S WITH THE BIG SMILE?
I'M LOOKING AT THE BRIGHT SIDE OF LIFE TODAY.
ISN'T THAT HARD?
IF YOU DON'T MOVE ALONG, IT'S GOING TO BE IMPOSSIBLE.
12-2
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

GUESS WHAT, CHUCK! MISS TENURE ACCUSED ME OF STEALING HER BOX OF GOLD STARS...
THAT'S HARD TO BELIEVE..
YOU'RE NOT KIDDING, CHUCK! IS MY STUPID ATTORNEY AROUND THERE ANY PLACE?
YES, HE'S RIGHT HERE...
"CURSE ON ALL LAWS BUT THOSE WHICH LOVE HAS MADE!"
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
12-2
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

During the next panel, this strip will conduct a test of the emergency cartoonist system. This is only a test.
OOF!
AUGH!
AWK!
VROOOOM!
beeeeeeeeeep.
CRASH!
OOG.
This has been a test of the emergency cartoonist system. Had this been an actual emergency, you would have a punch line by now.
This strip hasn't had a good emergency in months!
Ranney 12/2

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

UNKNOWN TO DENNIS, THE INSTANT HIS SUIT IS ACTIVATED, ITS SETS OFF A PLANETARY DEFENSE ALARM SYSTEM; FOR THE SUIT IS ONE OF THE MOST POWERFUL WEAPONS THAT EXISTS.
KRA-NUM SENDS OUT AN ALERT.
ALERT: BATTLE-ROBS, WHICH HAVE REMAINED INERT FOR EONS, BECOME SUDDENLY...
ACTIVE!
ALERT: ATOMIC DISRUPTORS ELEVATE FROM UNDERGROUND STORAGE SILOS.
ALERT: WINGED MONITORS TAKE TO THE AIR.
ROLLINS 12-2

UM by Marty Maceda

LIFE LIBERTY
AND THE PURSUIT of HAPPINESS
I WISH I COULD WIPE THIS SMILE OFF MY FACE.
MACEDA 12-2

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WITH SUSIE. SHE SEEMS LIKE SHE'S IN A TRANCE!
MEANWHILE, SUSIE'S FATHER WAITS IN TERROR FOR HIS ENEMY!
PROF. BUSDUCK HEARS SOMEONE ENTER THE ROOM!
BLAM!
TAKE THAT!
IT'S DR. BENNY-X!
YOUR GUN CANT HARM ME BUSDUCK!
LAFLER 12/5

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2 — Born today, you are an energetic and determined individual, with occasional surprising displays of tremendous courage. You may appear apprehensive about a given project or endeavor, but you never allow timidity or fear to keep you from doing your best. You have extremely strong ties to family members and will often find yourself thinking along blood-is-thicker-than-water lines, which is fine as long as it doesn't make you unfair.

You are a highly perceptive individual who can usually tell instinctively how another thinks of you, whether you can depend upon another for support and succor, whether there is value in another's company or merely temporary easing of the need for companionship. You are quick to see a fraudulent scheme hatching, and you let the proper authorities know. You have no desire to support any who go against the law and those who propose such action should be aware of that.

You enjoy taking chances, but you value your well-being and have no wish to jeopardize it. While you have in some regards a strong sense of your own superiority, you know your own limitations and turn down any opportunity which would engage you in activities at which you are not adept. You have a love for attention but usually refuse to play front-and-center before anything more than a few very close friends.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 3

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22-Dec.21) — Outdoor exercise is ideal for increasing your circulation and your ability to cope with new ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) — You should receive much praise for recent efforts for another. Encourage an apology at evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) — You may have to strain your judicial talents today to find the answer to another's problem.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) — Taking advantage of a unique opportunity could cost you a friend. Consider your intentions well.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Another's anger at you for no apparent cause may depress you quickly. Seek entertainment at evening.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Take care choosing companions. Use today for community effort, but also for personal satisfaction.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — Originality of thought and deed lead to authority at home. Progress is made today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Keep far away from argument, or you may lose your temper and spoil a good relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) — Property matters take up much time today. Don't blame children for your displeasure over game losses.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) — This morning may lead to a profound understanding of what is going on around you.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) — You may be disappointed in the direction of a relationship. Keep your wits about you in discussing it.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) — Advanced thinkers must not bully you into decisions you don't care to make. Wait until you catch up with them.

Copyright, 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

1 Gradual
5 Back of the neck
9 Fissile rock
14 Painful word
15 Mine entrance
16 Go -- ---: Retire
17 ---- freeze
18 Spanish lady
19 Excite to anger
20 Dress anew
22 Hand covering
23 Shamrock land
24 Body of law
25 Length units
28 Stratemeyer hero: 2 words
32 Greek epic
33 Trusts
34 Malt liquor
35 Change the color
36 The Pied ----- of Hamelin
37 L.A.'s La ---- Tar Pits
38 Midi season
39 Penalized
40 Bright
41 Treats with deference
43 Prickles
44 Pismires
45 As if
46 Reprimands
49 Damages seriously
53 Synopsis
54 Accessible to all
55 Labrador ore
56 Willow
57 Furniture item
58 15-nation pact: Abbr.
59 Electrical units
60 Facial features
61 Shine

DOWN

1 Ascend
2 Parisian moon
3 Numerical prefix
4 Lab animal: 2 words
5 Lowest points
6 Idolize
7 Knotty ----
8 Greek letter
9 Walks hastily
10 Derider
11 Be contiguous
12 ---- majesty: Treason
13 Elysium
21 Fastened
22 Furniture handler
24 Handled OK
25 Bishop's hat
26 Best member
27 Pitchfork parts
28 Know the -----
29 Having less foliage
30 N.Y. city
31 A long time
33 Indications
36 Early Scottish inhabitants
37 -------- paper
39 Auto parts
40 Gab
42 Straw bed
43 Expresses appreciation
45 Pronoun
46 Put in a hold
47 Toronto's ---- Loma
48 Death notice: Informal
49 Scot. river
50 Of an age
51 Turning: Prefix
52 Winter ground cover
54 Poem

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Thursday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| L | A | M | P | | T | R | A | S | H | | R | A | S | H |
| A | M | E | R | | R | E | C | T | O | | O | B | O | E |
| M | O | D | E | R | A | T | I | O | N | | O | L | A | N |
| B | R | E | T | O | N | | D | R | E | A | M | E | R | S |
| | | | Z | A | C | H | | E | Y | R | E | | | |
| L | O | V | E | S | E | A | T | | B | A | R | G | E | S |
| E | X | A | L | T | | V | A | S | E | | S | E | L | L |
| G | I | N | | S | P | E | C | T | E | R | | T | A | A |
| I | D | E | S | | A | N | T | I | | E | B | O | N | Y |
| T | E | S | T | A | S | | S | E | A | S | A | N | D | S |
| | | | A | N | T | S | | S | C | A | R | | | |
| D | O | M | I | N | I | O | N | | C | L | O | S | E | D |
| A | L | A | N | | E | L | O | Q | U | E | N | T | L | Y |
| M | I | L | E | | S | A | T | E | S | | E | A | S | E |
| S | O | L | D | | T | R | A | D | E | | T | R | E | S |

Matmen compete for 16 team title

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass wrestling team is in New London, Conn. today, as the Minutemen participate in a tournament sponsored by Coast Guard.

In all, 16 teams will be in the tourney, including Columbia, UConn, and Boston University. Grapplers in the 10 weight classes will wrestle on a double-elimination basis, vying for a team title.

Regarding the tournament, UMass coach Dave Amato feels that the tournament will give the UMass squad an excellent chance to size up their competition for the coming season.

"Many of the teams we face this year will be represented in this tourney," said Amato. "We can get a look at these teams and get some idea of how we'll do against them."

Amato announced yesterday the names of the ten wrestlers he will be taking on the trip, and several lineup changes will be made.

Tony Perry defeated Dana Rassmussen in a wrestle-off, and will compete at 118 pounds.

"Perry has been doing great," said Amato. "He's one of the fastest wrestlers I've seen."

Rassmussen will still make the trip, however. He will be substituting for the injured Dave Krase, who wrestles at 126 pounds. Krase injured his nose during a recent practice, and it is not known how long he will be out of the lineup.

"The doctors are not sure if it's broken or not," said Amato. "I don't want to use him until I'm sure that it won't lead to further injury."

Also injured is freshman Mike Carroll. He has been hampered with a rib ailment, but with the aid of special padding provided by team doctors he will be able to wrestle.

Carroll will wrestle at 150 pounds, where Amato has had problems recently. Tim Fallon is at home in this weight class, but will wrestle up at 158 pounds.

Co-captain Kevin Griffin normally wrestles here, but is not ready to return to the UMass lineup yet.

"We really miss Griffin," said Amato, "With him in the lineup, it's almost a sure win for our side."

Steve McLarney was scheduled to make the trip, but the freshman Engineering major has three exams next week and requested the time off.

Larry Otsuka, who leads the team in victories after posting impressive wins against URI and Michigan last week, will wrestle at 134 pounds.

Dave O'Brien and Steve Whitman won their wrestle-offs, and will wrestle at 167 and 177 pounds respectively.

Bob Clark will make his UMass debut and will wrestle at 190 pounds. A relative newcomer to the team, Clark is a freshman who has been playing junior varisty football.

John Allen will be the heavyweight.

Following the trip to Coast Guard, UMass will be in Cambridge for a December 10 match with Harvard University. This will be the team's final match before intersession.

Paul leaves Yankees; Tallis takes over job

NEW YORK [UPI] — The New York Yankees confirmed yesterday that club president Gabe Paul will be leaving his position with the team on January 1. At the same time, the Yankees announced the appointment of Cedric Tallis to the new position of vice president and general manager.

It is expected that Paul will ultimately become head of the Cleveland Indians organization again.

Tallis will assume his new duties in New York immediately, along with Al Rosen who joined the organization today as executive vice president.

Simultaneously, the Yankees announced that farm director Jack Butterfield has been named vice president in charge of both player development and scouting. Butterfield joined the Yankees as a scout in September of 1976 and became director of player development in February of this year. Butterfield came to the Yanks after successful coaching careers at the University of Maine and the University of South Florida.

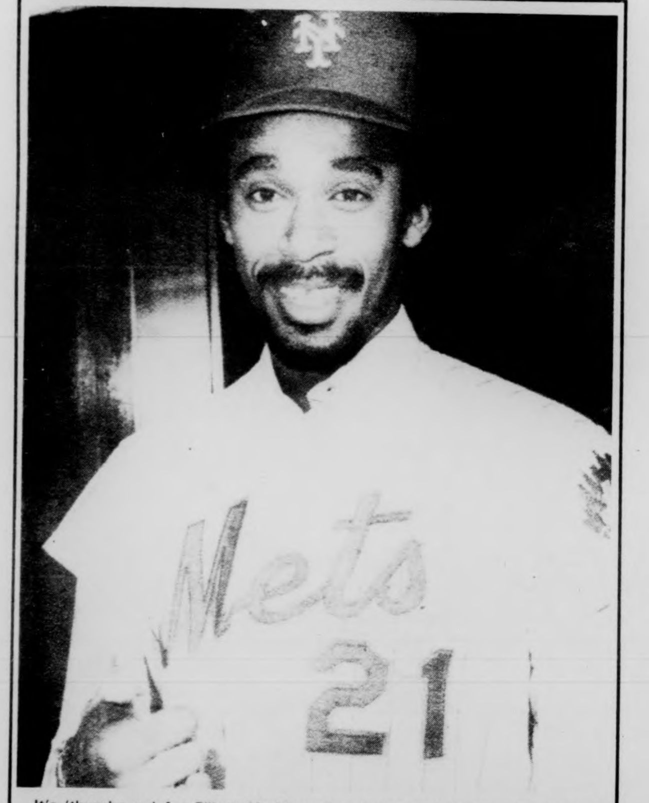
Tallis joined the Yankee organization as an assistant to the president in August of 1975, after serving as vice president and general manager of the Kansas City Royals.

With the Royals, Tallis was responsible for the quick transition of making the expansion team into a competitor. He negotiated trades that brought the Royals Amos Otis, Fred Patek and Cookie Rojas. In 1971, he traded pitchers Jim York and Lance Clemons to Houston for John Mayberry, perhaps one of the best trades ever engineered in baseball. That year he also drafted Steve Busby and George Brett and the Royals finished in second place in only their third year in existence, which merited Tallis the Executive of the Year honor. Other players brought into the Royals' organization during Tallis' reign were Paul Splittorff, Al Cowens, Doug Bird, Jim Wohlford and Frank White.

Prior to his stint with the Royals, Tallis was vice president of operations for the California Angels, overseeing the construction at Anaheim Stadium. He was also with the Royals during the construction of their stadium and with the Yankees during the remodeling of Yankee Stadium.

"I really hate to see Gabe go," said principal owner George M. Steinbrenner. "He has been vital to me and the Yankees ... a great personal friend and an invaluable and loyal associate. I know it was a tough decision for him to make. But he'll probably be joining. Some even older friends and every one of us here wishes him nothing but the best of everything. Wherever he goes he will be successful and admired as he was here.

"I'm happy to add that, with Gabe's help, we've put together a very strong organization. Cedric Tallis, for example, was major league executive of the year in 1971. Then Al Rosen, our new executive vice president, will be here and begin to work on the administrative as well as the player side."



It's 'thumbs up' for Elliott Maddox after the outfielder signed a five-year contract to play for the New York Mets. The amount of the pact was estimated to be $800,000. Maddox, who had a fine 1974 season with the New York Yankees, has been troubled with injuries ever since. He played last season for Baltimore. (UPI)

The rusty nail Inn
presents
TONITE,
FRI. & SAT.,
DEC. 2&3
CLEAN LIVING with
KILROY
EVERY SUNDAY
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION
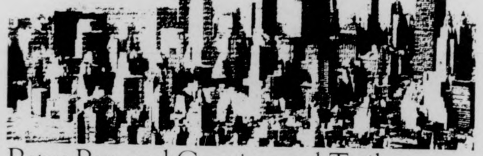
MONDAY, DEC. 5
ANDY MAY
and the
TEXAS
TABBY CRABBY
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

TONGUE POWER
TEETERS & JANSSEN
BUMPER STICKERS $1.00
BUTTONS $1.50
HIQH QUALITY
*T-SHIRTS $7.00
*SWEAT SHIRTS $10.00
Plus 50 cents for postage and handling
*STATE COLOR & SIZE
P.O. BOX 96
PLATTEVILLE, CO
80651

BUST OUT FOR THE WEEKEND



Peter Pan and Continental Trailways offer frequent service to Boston, New York and many other great, get-away-from-it-all places.
CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS & PETER PAN BUS LINES
MAKE LIFE SIMPLER FOR YOU.
For Information, Schedules and Prices,
Contact: Campus Center Bus Office
545-2006 or 549-6000

---

Sweet Chariot
I'm an Air Force officer and my sweet chariot is a supersonic aircraft. When I visit home people are happy to see me. And proud. They say I'm doing my part in the community by showing the young people and the adults that you really can make it. You really can get your share of A Great Way of Life.
I also feel good about my position in the Air Force community. I'm a leader there, too. I'm someone the other brothers and sisters I meet in the service can look to. And it reassures them to know they have a voice in Air Force matters that concern them.
The Air Force needs more leaders... pilots, aircrew members, math majors, science and engineering majors. You might be one of them, and the best way to find that out is in an Air Force ROTC program. There are two and four year programs. Scholarship and non scholarship. Why not look into all of them and see if one fits your plans? It's worth it, brother.
Call 5-2437
Air Force ROTC

UM hoop to be aired

Dave Skillicorn of the Student Video Project has announced the SVP will be showing the UMass-Harvard basketball game, played in Cambridge Wednesday night, in the Bluewall at 3:30 this afternoon.

The game, shot in color, will be broadcast on the 7'x7' "big screen," popular in your favorite barroom, in black and white, and on one 25" color monitor, Skillicorn said.

Play by play for the telecast will be done by the regular WMUA radio announcers. The filming was done by Dave Reynolds, Weston Lant and Mark Gunning of the SVP.

Skillicorn said the SVP is planning to cover the entire hoop season, including all away games.

"This game was the prototype," he said. "We are working on an agreement with the Bluewall whereby we'll show Saturday's game on Monday, away games the next day, and home games with just a 45 minute delay."

Puzzled icemen travel in search of dual win

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

The UMass hockey team will be traveling north this weekend to Vermont and will be trying to break a three-game losing streak against the likes of Norwich University (tonight at 7 p.m.) and Middlebury College (tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m.).

The road trip features the return of Minutemen right winger and co-captain Bob White, who missed the first four games because of stretched ligaments in his knee.

The Minutemen, who opened the season with an exciting 4-1 victory over New England College, have lost their last three outings to the University of Lowell (5-2), American International College (10-8) and UConn (3-1), which accounts for the 1-3 record. Hopefully, the icemen will get untracked on this weekend road trip.

The road to .500 won't be easy though, as the Cadets of Norwich have 15 returning lettermen from last year and the Panthers of Middlebury have 20 returning lettermen from last year.

The Cadets are led by coach Bob Priestly, who guided them to a respectable 12-13 record last year. Terry Slattery, an outstanding two-way defenseman that scored three goals and dished out 11 assists last year, has departed via the graduation route. However, junior forward Guy Gaudreau still provides plenty of firepower up front, as his 23 goals, 14 assists, and 37 points in the 1976-77 season will attest.

UMass hockey coach Jack Canniff added, "Norwich is a solid two-way hockey team. In fact, they beat Army this year. They've got a freshman named Murphy that's supposed to be sensational and Rich Brooks and Steve Davis provide them with depth and strength at goaltender."

The Minutemen will depart Taylor Arena in Northfield, Vermont, Friday night and will then travel to Middlebury, Vermont, where they'll face the Panthers at War Memorial Arena on Saturday afternoon.

The Panthers are coached by Wendell Forbes, who led his icemen through a highly successful 1976-77 season with a 15-6-1 mark. According to Canniff, the Panthers were ranked tenth in a pre-season ECAC Division II poll.

Middlebury is just loaded with talent. The Panthers have five of their 20 returning lettermen dressing Saturday that scored a phenomenal 35 points or more in the 1976-77 season. The high-powered forwards that will take the ice this Saturday are: Mike O'Hara (17-24-41), Chip Hagy (18-22-40), Tom Harris (18-18-36), Perry Babcock (15-20-35) and son of the Bowdoin hockey coach — John Watson (14-21-35).

Canniff made some observations after Tuesday night's 3-1 loss to UConn that will hopefully be rectified in time for Norwich and Middlebury.

"We've got to settle down offensively. We've had possession of the puck in the offensive end, but we're throwing it up for grabs without thinking. We've got to be more deliberate and sustain outselves. We're going from one extreme to another. We've got to strive for consistency to be more effective," he said.

Concerning co-captain Bob White's return to the line-up, Canniff said, "We know his knee will hold up physically but conditioning is another thing."

How many points is Canniff hoping to bring back to Amherst after this road trip?

"I want all I can get. It will be tough playing all those teams away from home. We've had four outings to date and we've got only one win. It's tough. The kids want to taste victory."

SIN-BIN SLANDER — Rich Riccioli, Bob Gould, and Tim O'Brien made their first appearance in a UMass uniform this year against UConn...All three debuted on the same line. The Minutemen play one more home game before finals — next Saturday, 8 p.m. at Orr rink against Boston State.

The UMass hockey team will be looking for a return to the win column when it plays two games this weekend. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
None
TODAY
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. New Hampshire Away 7:00
HOCKEY — vs. Norwich Away 7:00
WOMEN'S SWIMMING — vs. New Hampshire Away 7:00
TOMORROW
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. George Washington Away 8:00
WOMEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — vs. Maine Away 1:00
HOCKEY — vs. Middlebury Away 4:00
MEN'S INDOOR TRACK — vs. UConn-Seton Hall at UConn 1:00
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — vs. Army Away 2:00
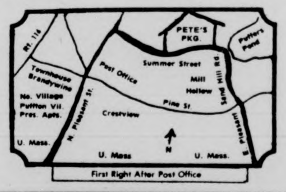
VARSITY WRESTLING — Coast Guard Tourney Away

OPEN HOUSE
at
KAPPA SIGMA
70 Butterfield Terrace
Entertainment & Refreshments
9:00 Fri. Dec. 2

PETE'S
PACKAGE STORE
144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST
FULL LIQUOR LICENSE
OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)
NIGHTLY — 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. — 6:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m.
Unadvertised Specials
Why Fight Traffic?
Easy Parking



WE ARE CLOSE TO:
Townhouse Apts.
Brandywine
N. Village
Puffton Village
Presidential Apts.
Crestview
Mill Hollow
U.Mass.
WEEKLY SPECIALS
FALSTAFF 12 oz. cans $5.25
BUDWEISER 12 oz. cans $5.95
BLUE NUN LIEBFRAUMILCH $3.39 fifth

Cagers face test in Colonial clash

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

The headline in Thursday's Collegian read "It wasn't pretty but hoopmen win." In the books, it counts as a win and that's all that matters at this stage of the young season.

But if Jack Leaman's squad intends to put up another "W" Saturday night against George Washington in Washington D.C. (8:00 p.m. game time), its play will have to improve.

"We're going to have to improve our rebounding and defense in order to win," said Leaman. "If we aren't rebounding, we are going to be in trouble."

But Leaman concerned about the play of Mark Haymore and Len Kohlhaas. Both big men fouled out of the Harvard game with only 13 points and six rebounds between them. But according to Leaman, the play of the two will improve.

"Harvard's offense was forward oriented with Brian Banks (21 points) and Bob Hooft (eight) working on their inside game. Mark and Lenny, both first year men, will take some time to get used to it but I anticipate improvement from them soon," Leaman said.

Leaman will certainly need big games from his big men as George Washington is primarily a fast break team, relying on rebounding and good shooting from its starting five of Mike Zigardo, Mike Sampson, Tyrone Howze, Tom Tate and Les (High Rise) Anderson.

"They are a very aggressive team, a run and gun type team, who aren't afraid to use a full court press," said Leaman.

"If we want to control the game, we will have to have the rebounding edge," he said.

The Colonials, led by head coach Bob Tallent (51-29 record in three years) are heading into this encounter with a record of 2-0. They beat Alderson Broaddus 105-85 and Richmond 110-90.

Coming off a 14-12 '76-77 season, Tallent's squad beat UMass 79-77, Maryland 86-76, and Georgetown 74-73 in last year's highlights.

The Maryland win last year was the first victory for the Colonials in 16 years in the Terrapins Cole Field House and in front of regional TV audience.

Tallent has four last year's top five scorers returning with Anderson the most notable talent. The 6-5 senior forward finished second in scoring last season and has great leaping ability with a 9.2 rebounding mark last year. He has been the Colonials' best leaper the last two years, having accumulated 675 caroms.

The other forward, 6-5 Mike Sampson, averaged only 3.2 points last year but has beaten out sophomore Tom Glenn for the starting position.

Sophomore Mike Zagardo, 6-10, mans the center position, having finished as last year's fifth leading scorer and second leading rebounder, having hit 58.7 per cent of his shots from the floor.

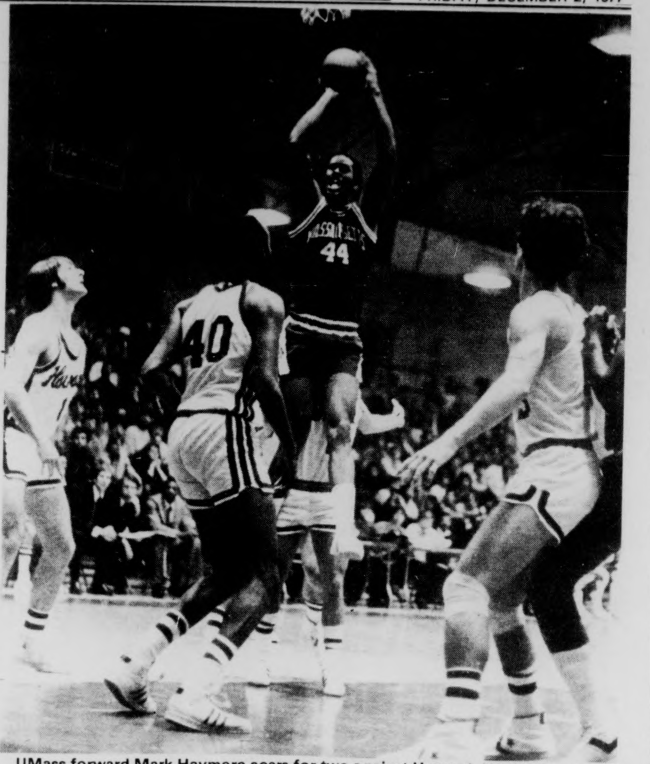
Tallent's number one problem was to find a replacement for graduated guard John Holloran, the team's leading scorer a year ago with 21.4 average. He scored 38 points against Maryland.

Senior Tyrone Howze (6-2) and junior Tom Tate (6-0) run the offense with 2.5 scoring averages but were injured for most of the 76-77 season.

Other players set to see action will be freshman guard Curt Jeffries (10.8 All-District and a 59 per cent shooter in high school), 6-4 forward Bob Lindsay (2.9) and 6-8 forward Tom Glenn (8.9 and 4.6 rebounding average).

Leaman said an obvious advantage his

TURN TO PAGE 20



UMass forward Mark Haymore soars for two against Harvard. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Cheryl Carey drives around a defender and to the hoop during Wednesday's opening game win. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Hoopwomen on road

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

The UMass women's basketball team faces its toughest test of the young season this weekend as it hits the road to play a pair of games tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

The Minutewomen travel to New Hampshire tonight for a 7 p.m. game, and then will head northward for a 1 p.m. contest Saturday at Maine.

Coming off a 68-51 win over Radcliffe Wednesday night in its first game of the season, UMass will face a pair of opponents against which they had differing success last season.

The Minutewomen faced New Hampshire twice last season, and defeated the Wildcats 80-63 during the regular campaign, and then walloped them 89-44 in the first round of the Easterns.

New Hampshire is coached by Cecile DeMarco, in her first year at the Wildcat helm.

New Hampshire lost two seniors from a club which went 6-6 during last year's regular season. Other than that, little is known of the Wildcats.

Maine sported a 15-3 record last season, though playing predominately small schools. The Black Bears coach is Eilene Fox, beginning her third year at the team's controls. Her lifetime coaching record is 38-11.

Maine won its state's Division A championship last season, the equivalent of Massachusetts' Division I classification.

The majority of last season's players are back, including 5-10 forward and top scorer Crystal Pazdziorko (14.1 per game average), 5-8 forward Renea Deighton (10.8) and 6-0 center Barb Cummings (10.2 and leading rebounder).

Top recruits include Jean White and Barbara Dunham.

Maine defeated the Minutewomen, 58-56, last season at the Cage in UMass's opener. Pazdziorko led the Black Bears with 18 points, while Sue Peters also had 18 to pace the Minutewomen's attack.

"We definitely want to get them back for that loss," UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski said, referring to last season's outcome.

Playing two potentially tough games less

TURN TO PAGE 20

Collegian Sports

Bill Edelstein

Heinie out of 2 jobs

Rumors are being spread about that Tommy Heinsohn is out pounding the pavement in search for a job — any job — in anticipation of his imminent firing as head coach of the Boston Celtics.

The whole bloody business of coaching seems so unfair. Heinsohn has won two World Championship with the Celtics — the first thanks to his masterful game plan in the deciding contest. The current Celtics, however, are off to their worst start in over two decades, and Heinsohn has been accused of everything from not knowing how to use his personnel effectively to molesting small children in Copley Square.

This must be quite a traumatic time in Heinsohn's life. Here is a man who was once one of the best forwards in basketball, the darling of the fans with his roughhouse style of play, and now he must suffer through the proverbial slings and arrows of outrageous misfortune. Try to put yourself in his place...

---

"Excuse me, is this the employment office of the Acme Plumbing Company?"

"Sure is. What can I do for you, pal, tighten your pituitary gland? Little plumbers' joke there."

"I'd like to know if you've got a job opening for an apprentice."

"Well, business is tightening up these days, Mr..."

"Heinsohn. Tom Heinsohn. I've got a job at North Station now, but I'm looking for a career with a better future."

"Heinsohn...Heinsohn...You ever been a conducter.?"

"Yeah, you could call it that, I suppose." "Have you ever done any work related to plumbing?"

"I've had to try to fix leaky defenses and find ways to open up clogged middles."

"That's a good start, Heinsohn, but have you had some experience with big jobs."

"Well, I'm not supposed to mention this in my line of work, but I've come up against more than my share of flooded zones."

"Great! Let's fill out an application for you. Are you married?"

"Yes."

"Do you have a family?"

"I'm not sure."

"What do you mean you're 'not sure'. Either you have a family or you don't, Heinsohn. It's not like you're taking part in a poll."

"When I left the house at eight this morning I had a family, but it's almost noon and I haven't called home. A lot can happen in four hours."

"Okay, Heinsohn, to make things easier, let's just write down that you still have a family."

"If you really think so..."

"What school did you attend?"

"Holy Cross."

"I need the name of a trade school, Heinsohn, not a place of higher education."

"When I graduated from Holy Cross, I got a job in my major field."

"Oh, fine. Who was your former employer."

"Irv Levin."

"The Irv Levin Plumbing Company? I don't think I've ever heard of them. What's their specialty?"

"Taking the pipe."

"Do you drink, Heinsohn?"

"What kind of question is that? Doesn't a man have any privacy?"

"I sympathize with you, but the company has to know. Nobody likes a juiced plumber."

"I only drink Lite Beer from Miller. It has less calories than their regular beer."

"No kidding. I drink Miller Lite too. You just can't beat the taste."

"Are you kidding? That stuff tastes like denatured kerosene. I wouldn't touch it if I weren't obese."

"Is that so, Heinsohn? I'm afraid the Acme Plumbing Company can't hire anybody that likes alcohol so much that he doesn't care whether or not it's palatable. Get out of this employment office."

---

TV WATCH

Volume I, Issue 13 Supplement to the Collegian Dec. 3 - Dec. 9, 1977

Karl Malden (center), Ricardo Montalban (extreme left), Johnny Doran (left foreground) and Jonathan Kahn (right foreground) will star in the television adaptation of the Rudyard Kipling classic 'CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS,' airing as a two-hour special Sunday, Dec. 4.

'Tis Christmas Eve and the children are not nestled snug in their beds as Paul Lynde faces a night of noise, confusion, strange guests and nutty relatives in ABC's hour-long Christmas special ''TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS,' airing Wednesday, Dec. 7.

Daytime Mon.-Fri.

MORNING

5:35 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:40 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:45 ⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:50 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:55 ⑤ MORNING GLORY
6:00 ③ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
⑤ NEWS
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:05 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (MON., WED.)
6:10 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (MON., WED.)
6:15 ④ SEMINAR
⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (MON., WED.)
6:20 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
6:25 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
6:30 ⑤ NEWS
6:45 ④ DAILY ALMANAC
6:50 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
⑦ LAS NOTICIAS DE HOY
7:00 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ ㉒ TODAY
⑤ ㊵ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
㊳ UNDERDOG
7:25 ⑦ NEWS
7:30 ⑦ CBS NEWS
㊳ MR. MAGOO
8:00 ③ ⑦ CAPTAIN KANGAROO
㊳ ARCHIES
8:30 ㊳ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB

9:00 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ MIKE DOUGLAS
④ CONCENTRATION
⑤ GOOD DAY
⑦ DINAH
㉒ PHIL DONAHUE SHOW
㊳ ROMPER ROOM
㊵ LEAVE IT TO BEAVER
(57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
9:30 ④ CHICO AND THE MAN (MON., TUE.) For Richer, For Poorer (EXC. MON., TUE.)
㊳ SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE
㊵ FLINTSTONES
9:50 ㊳ NEWS
9:55 ㊵ HERITAGE CORNER
10:00 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ SANFORD AND SON
㉒ KITTY TODAY
㊳ TOM LARSON SHOW
㊵ STRUM'N DRUMMERS
10:24 ㊵ WEATHER VIEW
10:30 ④ ㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ ㊵ EDGE OF NIGHT
⑦ PRICE IS RIGHT
11:00 ③ MATCH GAME
④ ㉒ WHEEL OF FORTUNE
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS
㊳ MOVIE 'Diplomatic Courier' (MON.), 'High in the Country' (TUE.), 'Night People' (WED), '13th Letter' (THUR.), 'The Violent Road' (FRI.)
11:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ LOVE OF LIFE
④ ㉒ KNOCKOUT
⑤ JOKER'S WILD
㊵ FAMILY FEUD
11:55 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ NEWS
㉒ TO SAY THE LEAST
㊵ THE BETTER SEX
12:30 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ SEARCH FOR TOMORROW
④ WOMAN '77
⑤ ㊵ RYAN'S HOPE
㉒ GONG SHOW
1:00 ③ ALL IN THE FAMILY (EXC. WED.) Gilligan's Island (WED.)
⑤ ㊵ ALL MY CHILDREN
⑦ YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS
㉒ FOR RICHER, FOR POORER (EXC. MON.) Best Seller from me to You (MON.)
㊳ GONG SHOW
1:30 ③ ⑦ AS THE WORLD TURNS
④ ㉒ DAYS OF OUR LIVES
㊳ GREEN ACRES
2:00 ② (57) MUSIC (FRI.)
⑤ ㊵ $20,000 PYRAMID
㊳ BEVERLY HILLBILLIES
2:30 ② (57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ GUIDING LIGHT
④ ㉒ DOCTORS
⑤ ㊵ ONE LIFE TO LIVE
㊳ WALLY GATOR
3:00 ④ ㉒ ANOTHER WORLD
㊳ BUGS BUNNY
3:15 ⑤ ㊵ GENERAL HOSPITAL

3:30 ③ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB
⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY (EXC. TUE.) After Hours (TUE.) 'Singin', Swingin' and All That Jazz'
㊳ HECKLE AND JECKLE
4:00 ② SESAME STREET
③ DINAH (EXC. THUR.) Winners (THUR.) 'You Gotta Start Somewhere'
④ MIKE DOUGLAS (EXC. TUE.) Special Treat (TUE.) 'It's A Brand New World'
⑤ BIG VALLEY (EXC. WED.) Cliffwood Avenue Kids (WED.) 'Gentlemen, Start Your Lawnmowers'
⑦ MERV GRIFFIN (EXC. TUE.)
㉒ BRADY BUNCH (EXC. MON.) Special Treat (MON.) 'It's A Brand New World'
㊳ SUPER HEROES
㊵ LITTLE RASCALS
(57) SESAME STREET (EXC. TUE.)
4:15 (57) SESAME STREET (TUE.)
4:30 ③ DINAH (THUR.)
⑤ ABC AFTERSCHOOL SPECIAL (WED.) 'Mighty Moose and the Quarterback Kid'
⑦ MERV GRIFFIN (TUE.)
㊳ MUNSTERS
㊵ PETTICOAT JUNCTION (EXC. WED.) ABC Afterschool Special (WED.) 'Mighty Moose and the Quarterback Kid'
5:00 ② (57) MISTER ROGERS
④ CALL IT MACARONI (TUE.)
㉒ EMERGENCY ONE
㊳ NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
㊵ MY THREE SONS (EXC. WED.)
5:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
④ ㊵ NEWS
⑤ INSTANT GAME SHOW
⑦ CANDLEPINS FOR CASH
㊳ GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
(57) ELECTRIC COMPANY

Sat., Dec 3

MORNING

5:50 7 REFLECTIONS
5:55 7 GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 3 AGRICULTURE U.S.A.
4 INTERNATIONAL ZONE
5 A BETTER WAY
7 CHARACTERISTICS OF LEARNING DISABILITIES
22 PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:30 3 TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ
4 CARRASCOLENDAS
5 MC KEEVER AND THE COLONEL
7 CAMERA 3
7:00 3 VILLA ALEGRE
4 FOR KIDS ONLY
5 JABBERWOCKY
7 WACKO
7:30 3 ARTHUR AND COMPANY
4 THINK PINK PANTHER
5 BARBAPAPA
7 THE CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL
40 UNCLE WALDO
8:00 2 SESAME STREET
3 SKATEBIRDS
4 22 C.B. BEARS
5 40 SUPER FRIENDS
7 SKATE BIRDS
8:26 3 IN THE NEWS
8:55 5 40 SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
8:56 3 IN THE NEWS
9:00 2 MISTER ROGERS
3 7 BUGS BUNNY AND ROAD RUNNER
4 SPACE SENTINELS
5 40 SCOOBY'S LAFF-A-LYMPICS
22 SAPCE SENTINELS
9:26 3 IN THE NEWS
9:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
4 22 SUPERWITCH
10:00 2 ONCE UPON A CLASSIC
22 SHANG BANG LALAPALOOZA
38 VILLA ALEGRE
10:26 3 IN THE NEWS
10:30 2 REBOP
3 7 BATMAN-TARZAN
4 22 ADVENTURES OF MUHAMMAD ALI
38 CARRASCOLENDAS
10:55 5 40 SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
10:56 3 IN THE NEWS
11:00 2 PARENT EFFECTIVENESS
4 22 THUNDER
5 40 CANDLEPIN BOWLING
38 HOT FUDGE
11:26 3 IN THE NEWS
11:30 2 CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
3 7 SPACE ACADEMY
4 NEWS
22 38 SEARCH AND RESCUE: THE ALPHA TEAM
11:56 3 IN THE NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 2 DANIEL FOSTER M.D. 'Hiatal Hernia' Guest Dr. Raj K. Goyal, associate professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.
3 7 SECRETS OF ISIS
4 22 RED DOGS, FUMBLES, FLANKERS AND FLICKERS John Brodie will co-host with 13 year old Allyson Johnson, host of 'Bubble Gum Digest,' for a behind the scenes look at pro football. Franco Harris and Roger Staubach will be on hand to answer questions.
5 CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
38 MOVIE 'Not Above Suspicion' Clayton Moore, Jay Silverheels. A ruthless outlaw poses as a respectable citizen and takes over a small town. (1 hr. 30 min.)
40 ROOM 222
12:26 3 IN THE NEWS
12:30 2 CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'House Plants'
3 7 FAT ALBERT
5 40 NCAA FOOTBALL Florida State vs. Florida
12:56 3 IN THE NEWS
1:00 2 WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
3 WHAT'S NEW MISTER MAGOO?
4 MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHINE
7 MOVIE 'Tarzan and the Valley of Gold' 1966 Mike Henry, Nancy Kovack. Tarzan joins the chief of police and a professor to find a kidnapped boy, believed to be from a gold-rich lost valley. (2 hrs.)
22 CHAMPIONSHIP WRESTLING
1:26 3 IN THE NEWS
1:30 2 WALL STREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'Understandable Economics' Guest: Beryl W. Sprinkel, executive vice president and economist, Harris Trust and Savings Bank.
3 THE CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL 'My Father Sun-Sun Johnson' Focuses on a family torn apart by varying values on the lush tropical island of Jamaica.
38 MOVIE 'Ma and Pa Kettle' 1949 Marjorie Main, Percy Kilbride. Pa wins an electronic house in a tobacco slogan contest. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:56 3 IN THE NEWS
2:00 2 THE MERRY WIDOW The San Diego Opera Company production of The Merry Widow features Beverly Sills, Allan Titus and Andrew Foldi. The operetta is in three acts and was based on a French comedy by Henry Meilhac.
3 SOUL TRAIN
4 THIS IS NFL
22 STAR TREK 'Mark of Gideon'
2:30 4 MOVIE 'Sword of Lancelot' 1963 Cornel Wilde, Jean Wallace. Classic love story of Lancelot and Guinevere, who secretly meet after her marriage to King Arthur and Lancelot's banishment from the kingdom. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
3:00 3 MOVIE
7 THE FITZPATRICKS Max, the youngest Fitzpatrick, makes his first communion and the experience has special meaning for the entire family.
22 MOVIE 'Ride 'Em Cowboy' 1942 Abbott and Costello, Dick Foran. The Boys tangle with rodeos and dude ranches. (2 hrs.)
38 MOVIE 'Pack Up Your Troubles' 1932 Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy. Laurel and Hardy join the Army. (1 hr. 30 min.)
4:00 2 57 SESAME STREET
5 40 NCAA FOOTBALL Houston vs. Texas A and M
7 PEPSI COLA MIXED TEAM GOLF A $200,000 72 hole golf tournament featuring female and male pro player teamed. From Bardmoor Country Club, Largo, Fla.
4:30 3 IRONSIDE
38 MOVIE 'The Big Noise' 1944 Laurel and Hardy, Arthur Space. Mail-order super-sleuths guard a powerful explosive on its way to Washington, and end up with a direct hit on an enemy submarine. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5:00 2 VILLA ALEGRE
4 CORAL JUNGLE
7 CBS SPORTS SPECTACULAR World Invitational Weightlifting Championships, from Las Vegas, Nev. 'World's Strongest Men' Part IX.
22 WILD KINGDOM Migration of the Caribou
57 BEST OF FAMILIES (CAPTIONED) 'The Great Trolley Battle' Stephen and John Patrick Rafferty take opposite sides in the violent trolley strike of 1895. A scab motorman, John Patrick, is ambushed and the incident is covered by photojournalist Sarah Lathrop.
5:30 2 VISION ON
3 ADAM 12
22 HOLLYWOOD SQUARES

EVENING

6:00 2 MUSIC 'Music Is Conducted' This program shows the excitement and tension of leading a major orchestra, and how all the components highlighted in the series are drawn together to create a complete musical composition.
3 4 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
57 MICROBES AND MEN Dr. Jonas Salk hosts this series about men who have conquered disease. 'The Invisible Enemy' profiles Hungarian-born obstetrician Ignaz Semmelweis, who discovered the cause of childbed fever and the importance of disinfectant techniques while at Vienna General Hospital in the 1840s.
6:30 2 ZOOM
3 CBS NEWS
4 22 NBC NEWS
7 BLACK NEWS
38 ADAM 12
7:00 2 NOVA 'Why Do Birds Sing?' Scientists have discovered that birds use song to communicate and to fight over territory, but are now trying to determine if their learning is inherited or passed on from parent to child.
3 AGRONSKY AND COMPANY
4 WILD KINGDOM 'Fox Forest'
5 NEWS
7 LAWRENCE WELK SHOW
22 ETCETERA
38 ODD COUPLE
40 SUPERMAN
57 ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Nine. King Richard is taken prisoner by Leopold of Austria and demands a ransom for his release. Robin intercepts a letter from Prince John to the sheriff and suspects a plot.
7:28 3 OPINION
7:30 3 DAILY NUMBER
4 HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
5 THIRD WORLD
22 SCHOOLS MATCH WITS
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 POLKA FUNTIME
7:31 3 HOT FUDGE
7:35 57 MUSIC 'Music Is Improvised' features the spontaneous musical invention of performers and uses a jazz band as an example of the fine art of improvisation.
8:00 2 BEST OF FAMILIES 'The Great Trolley Battle' Stephen and John Patrick Rafferty take opposite sides in the violent trolley strike of 1895. A scab motorman, John Patrick is ambushed and the incident is covered by photojournalist Sarah Lathrop.
3 7 THE BOB NEWHART SHOW Emily Hartley befriends her next door neighbor, a delightfully mixed up senior citizen who eschews the 1970's in favor of a kinder past, circa 1920.
4 BASKETBALL Boston Celtics vs. Washington Bullets
5 40 FROSTY'S WINTER WONDERLAND Narrator: Andy Griffith. Frosty the Snowman, the enchanting holiday character, takes a wife in this musical sequel. (R)
22 THE BIONIC WOMAN 'Max' While Jaime is in the hospital for surgery on her bionics, Max, the world's first bionic dog, is kidnapped and imprisoned in a warehouse laboratory.
38 HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Cleveland Browns
8:10 57 SNOW GOOSE Based on Paul Gallico's short story, this drama in World War II England, portrays a young girl and a crippled artist whose vulnerabilities to life prove no less than that of the wounded snow goose they save. The two stars are Richard Harris and Jenny Agutter.
8:30 3 7 WE'VE GOT EACH OTHER Dee Dee is viewing with great apprehension the arrival of her daughter Belinda, whom she hasn't seen in seven years, but her fear quickly changes to the joy of 'instant motherhood.'
5 40 NESTOR, THE LONG EARED DONKEY A new animated Yule-tale of a little donkey whose 'handicap' is an asset as he takes Joseph and Mary on their wondrous journey to Bethlehem.
8:58 3 NEWSBREAK
9:00 2 GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Sarah' The turbulent life of legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt is portrayed in detail by Zoe Caldwell. The French actress was a woman whose tempestuous moods and theatrical greatness made her the toast of two continents during the 19th-century.
3 7 THE JEFFERSONS George must make a painful admission when he realizes he needs Florence far more than he could ever expect.
5 40 STARSKY AND HUTCH 'The Collector' The investigation of a loan sharking operation becomes a deadly game when Hutch's girlfriend is used as bait to trap a ruthless collector.
22 NBC SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'It's Deadly' Dan O'Herlihy, Andy Griffith. A truckload of lethal chemicals, destructive to human life and vegetation, is wrecked just outside Jasper Lake, and government officials descend on the town hoping to keep the terrible threat of a biological weapon secret. (2 hrs.)
9:10 57 STEAMBATH Bill Bixby, Valerie Perrine and Jose Perez head the cast of Bruce Jay Friedman's comedy set in a steambath in which a small group of people gradually realize they are in limbo.
9:30 3 7 MAUDE The opening of a gay bar in the neighborhood sends a morally outraged Arthur to personally close its doors.
9:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 3 7 THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW Guest: Bernadette Peters.
4 MOD SQUAD
5 40 THE LOVE BOAT 'Dear Beverly' starring Eva Gabor, Leslie Nielsen. 'Special Delivery' starring Bob Urich, Pamela Franklin. 'The Strike' starring Al Molinaro.
10:30 2 FESTIVAL IN VIENNA The Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra, directed by Heinz Wallberg, presents a concert of old world favorites, including Strauss' 'Pizzicato Polka' and Dvorak's 'Slavonic Dances.'
38 BRUINS WRAP-UP
10:45 38 AVI NELSON SHOW
11:00 3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
11:15 38 CELEBRITY BOWLING
57 FORSYTE SAGA 'Into the Dark' Dazed and terrified by Soames's assault, Irene decides to run away with Bosinney, but an accident on a foggy street puts an end to her plans.
11:20 4 NEWS
11:30 2 FAWLTY TOWERS Basil's long cherished dream of a gala Gourmet Night at Fawlty Towers might come true if it were not for the fact that the chef is lying drunk on the kitchen floor.
3 MOVIE
4 22 WEEKEND Host: Lloyd Dobyns. Bob Albrightson, Whitefish Bay (Wisc.) High School football coach who believes 'winning is not the only thing,' problems of independent truckers, a visit to a museum, 'London Dungeon.'
5 MOVIE 'Kissin' Cousins' 1964 Elvis Presley, Glenda Farrell. Air Force officer is assigned to persuade a hillbilly cousin to allow the government to build missile site on his mountain. (2 hrs.)
7 MOVIE 'From Here To Eternity' 1954 Frank Sinatra, Deborah Kerr. Story of Army life in Hawaii at start of W.W. II. (2 hrs.)
40 MOVIE 'The Shuttered Room' 1967 Gig Young, Carol Lynley. A young woman and her husband arrive on an island to inhabit the old millhouse she has inherited which is under a family curse. (1 hr. 45 min.)
12:15 38 ATHLETES
57 MOVIE 'Wild Strawberries' 1957 Gunnar Bjornstrand, Victor Sjostrom. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:00 4 MOVIE 'The Seven Minutes' 1971 Wayne Maunder, Marianne McAndrew. (1 hr. 30 min.)
1:30 5 MOVIE 'Boy From Oklahoma' 1954 Will Rogers, Jr., Nancy Olson. (1 hr. 45 min.)
7 MOVIE 'Our Agent Tiger' 1965 Robert Hanin, Margaret Lee.
3:15 5 ALFRED HITCHCOCK
3:45 5 ABC NEWS
4:00 5 THIRD WORLD
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

Sun., Dec. 4

MORNING

5:50 7 REFLECTIONS
5:55 7 GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 3 EVERY WOMAN
5 CHRISTOPHER CLOSEUP
7 LAMP UNTO MY FEET
6:30 3 CAMERA 3
4 LIVING WORD
5 DIRECTIONS
7 LOOK UP AND LIVE
6:45 4 DAVEY AND GOLIATH
7:00 3 MAN BUILDS, MAN DESTROYS
4 A SHOW OF FAITH
5 DRAWING FROM NATURE
7 PEOPLESCOPE
22 ETERNAL LIGHT 'A Conversation with Rabbi Stanley J. Schacter'
7:30 3 SPREAD A LITTLE SUNSHINE
4 NOSOTROS THEATRE 'El Magnifico' Tony Carreras, Francisco Navarro. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5 DAVEY AND GOLIATH
7 WOMANKIND
22 CATHEDRAL OF TOMORROW
38 ROCKY AND FRIENDS
40 OLD TIME GOSPEL HOUR
8:00 2 57 SESAME STREET
3 WE BELIEVE
5 ABC CHILDREN'S NOVEL FOR TELEVISION
7 ELDER AMERICAN
38 YOUNG SAMSON
8:30 3 MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHINE
5 SILENT NIGHT
7 LIFT EVERY VOICE
22 ORAL ROBERTS
38 UNCLE WALDO
40 SACRED HEART
8:45 40 DAVEY AND GOLIATH
9:00 2 MISTER ROGERS
4 NOSOTROS
5 SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE
7 ASIAN FOCUS
22 DAY OF DISCOVERY
38 POPEYE
40 CHRISTOPHER CLOSEUP
9:15 7 SUNDAY MASS
9:30 2 ZOOM
3 CONGRESSIONAL REPORT
22 JIMMY SWAGGART
38 JETSONS
40 INSIGHT
10:00 2 57 WRITING FOR A REASON
3 BARRIO
4 INSIGHT
7 ECO
22 CHALICE OF SALVATION
38 TOP CAT
40 LATINO
10:30 3 CORSAIR AND COMPANY
4 FOR KIDS ONLY
38 THREE STOOGES
40 JEWISH HERITAGE
11:00 2 57 DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
4 COMMUNITY AUDITIONS
5 NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
7 NEWSMAKERS

THE GATHERING

The traditional coming-together of Christmas provides a broken family with one last chance to rediscover the love they have misplaced—but never lost—in 'The Gathering,' a new drama by Oscar-winner James Poe airing on 'ABC Theatre' Sunday, Dec. 4.

Asner stars as a successful businesman making an 11th-hour effort to pull together the family he shattered by allowing them to become second to his work. Maureen Stapleton portrays Asner's wife.

It is Christmas in New England and Adam Thornton (Asner) knows that this Christmas—his 58th—will be his last. His doctor's report has given a number to his days and the crusty industrialist is determined to make one last effort at bringing together the family he left years ago.

The family consists of wife Kate; daughter Julie, who now has children of her own; son Tom, a cynical young man; daughter Peggy, a successful career woman in her own right, and son Bud, an expatriate who fled to Canada during the Vietnam War.

22 NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS
40 GREAT GRAPE APE
11:30 3 7 FACE THE NATION
4 EYEWITNESS NEWS
5 AQUI
38 SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON
40 ANIMALS, ANIMALS, ANIMALS
11:55 40 SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK

AFTERNOON

12:00 2 57 AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'The Metropolis' The modern city -- where did it come from and where is it going? Can a metropolis like New York survive or is it becoming an urban dinosaur?
3 FACE THE STATE
4 22 MEET THE PRESS
5 40 ISSUES AND ANSWERS
7 NFL GAME OF THE WEEK
38 MOVIE 'Santiago' 1956 Alan Ladd, Rossana Podesta. Story of a man who would juggle dynamite if the price was right. (2 hrs.)
12:30 3 7 THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
4 PATRIOTS '77
5 BRIEFING SESSION
22 NFL '77 Up to the minute football news, interviews and features with Lee Leonard, Bryant Gumbel, Regina Haskins and various NBC sportscasters contributing reports from the field.
40 CONVERSATIONS WITH
1:00 2 CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT 'Wine: From the Grapevine' covers imported and domestic wines, wine clubs and restaurant wine selection as well as the purchase, storage, aging and chilling of wine.
3 7 THE NFL TODAY New York Giants vs. St. Louis Cardinals
4 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME New England Patriots vs. Atlanta Falcons, Seattle Seahawks vs. Pittsburgh Steelers
5 TARZAN
22 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Atlanta Falcons vs. New England Patriots
40 FLINTSTONES
57 FIRING LINE Host: William F. Buckley, Jr. Guest: President and Prime Minister Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines.
1:30 2 ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS Eve Merriam, author of 'The Club,' talks about that show's phenomenal success.
40 BULLWINKLE
2:00 2 GISELLE The National Ballet of Canada performs this popular ballet, with Karen Kain dancing the title role and Frank Augustyn as the handsome Duke Albrecht.
5 MOVIE 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin' 1957 Van Johnson, Kay Starr. Piper lures away village children after their parents refused to pay him for ridding town of rats. (2 hrs.)
38 MOVIE 'Peyton Place' 1957 Lana Turner, Lloyd Nolan. Secret life of a small New England community as adultery, rape, suicide and murder are probed for their human as well as their sensational values. (3 hrs.)
40 MOVIE 'A Boy Ten Feet Tall' 1965 Edward G. Robinson, Fergus McClelland. Ten year old boy heads for his aunt in Durban after his parents' death and has many adventures. (2 hrs.)
57 CONCORD STRING QUARTET PLAYS Violinists Mark Sokal and Andrew Jennings, violist John Kochanowski and cellist Norman Fischer perform Haydn's Opus 76 No. 2 and Bartok's 2nd String Quartet Opus 17.
3:00 57 GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Sarah' The turbulent life of legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt is portrayed in detail by Zoe Caldwell. The French actress was a woman whose tempestuous moods and theatrical greatness made her the toast of two continents during the 19th-century.
3:30 2 GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Sarah' The turbulent life of legendary actress Sarah Bernhardt is portrayed in detail by Zoe Caldwell. The French actress was a woman whose tempestuous moods and theatrical greatness made her the toast of two continents during the 19th-century.
3:45 3 7 THE NFL TODAY A post-game program presenting scores, highlights and sports news.
4:00 3 MOVIE 'Body and Soul' 1947 John Garfield, Lilli Palmer. Boxing champ mixed up with crooks, chooses between two girls, and decides not to throw fight. (2 hrs.)
4 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Cleveland Browns vs. San Diego Chargers, New York Jets vs. New Orleans Saints, Oakland Raiders vs. Los Angeles Rams
5 F.B.I.
7 PEPSI-COLA MIXED TEAM GOLF Final round of this $200,000 72-hole golf tournament featuring female and male pro-players teamed. From Bardmoor Country Club, Largo, Fla.
22 NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Los Angeles Rams vs. Oakland Raiders
40 ADVENTURES
4:30 4 EYEWITNESS NEWS CONFERENCE
40 THE SAINT
57 A BLIND TEACHER IN A PUBLIC SCHOOL A profile of David Ticchi, a seventh grade English teacher who, despite his handicap, engages in counselling and extracurricular activities in addition to teaching.
5:00 2 57 BLACK PERSPECTIVE ON THE NEWS
5 UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'The Savage World of the Coral Jungle'
38 MOVIE 'Dreamboat' 1952 Clifton Webb, Ginger Rogers. Silent screen matinee idol becomes a 'Dreamboat' to the younger generation when his old films are revived on T.V. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5:30 2 57 SAY BROTHER
40 MY PARTNER THE GHOST

EVENING

6:00 3 5 NEWS
7 WHY THE BEARS DANCE ON CHRISTMAS EVE An animated special for children with an ecology lesson.
6:30 2 ROMAGNOLIS' TABLE 'Roman Holidays' Pollo alla romana (chicken in tomato sauce with roasted peppers), rigatoni with giblets and puff pastry combine for a complete meal.
3 CBS NEWS
5 CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
7 NEWS
38 HONEYMOONERS
40 SUPERMAN
57 FRENCH CHEF 'To Roast a Chicken'
6:45 4 NFL '77 Wrap-up of today's football news with Lee Leonard, Bryant Gumbel and Regina Haskins.
7:00 2 57 CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'House Plants'
3 7 60 MINUTES
4 22 THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF DISNEY 'The Adventures of Bullwhip Griffin' To pay return passage to Boston for debutante Arabella Flagg and her brother, Jack, their butler, Bullwhip Griffin agrees to fight Mountain Ox, the most feared man in San Francisco. (CONCLUSION)
5 40 THE BELL SYSTEM PRESENTS 'Captains Courageous' Adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's classic novel of adventure on the high seas with Karl Malden and Ricardo Montalban starring as the men who teach a spoiled 'rich kid' humility and responsibility.
7:30 2 SHOW OF HANDS 'American Basketry'
38 HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Toronto Maple Leafs
57 PARENT EFFECTIVENESS 'Letting Go' Power, values and responsibility are the topics for this parenting class as the use of dirty words, nail-biting and the homework issue are covered.
8:00 2 EVENING AT SYMPHONY Pianist Maurizio Pollini is the soloist in the 'Piano Concerto No. 1' by Brahms. Seiji Ozawa also conducts the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Wolf-Ferrari's 'Overture to Susanna's Secret.'
3 7 RHODA Rhoda and Brenda spend a snowy Friday evening having their bi-weekly family reunion with their parents where the highlight of the evening is re-running some home movies of Rhoda's childhood.
4 22 THE 'ANNIE' CHRISTMAS SHOW The special features music from the show and Christmas carols. 'Annie' cast members headlining the program include Andrea McArdle, Reid Shelton, Dorothy Loudon and Sandy.
8:15 57 EVENING AT SYMPHONY Pianist Maurizio Pollini is the soloist in the 'Piano Concerto No. 1' by Brahms. Seiji Ozawa also conducts the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Wolf-Ferrari's 'Overture to Susanna's Secret.'
8:30 3 7 ON OUR OWN When the painters disrupt Marie's apartment, Julia insists she move in with her for a while, and it's a real test for their friendship.
8:58 3 NEWSBREAK
40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 2 MEMBERSHIP BREAK
3 7 ALL IN THE FAMILY A guilt-ridden and tormented Archie risks his life for Mike and Gloria when he learns that their house is the KKK's (Kweens Kouncil of Krusaders) next target for a cross-burning. (Conclusion)
4 22 THE BIG EVENT 'The Seventh Annual Las Vegas Entertainment Awards' Stars who will entertain and serve as presenters include Don Rickles, Tina Turner, Charo, Rip Taylor, David Brenner, Ann-Margret, Gladys Knight and the Pips, Shecky Greene, Merle Haggard, Totie Fields.
5 40 ABC THEATRE 'The Gathering' Edward Asner, Maureen Stapleton. Christmas is a mixture of pain and hope in this drama of a driven man whose successful business has cost him his family. (2 hrs.)
9:30 2 57 MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Five. 'Poison Is Queen' Augustus finally discovers the extent of Livia's treachery. Postumus's banishment will be lifted and his succession to the throne unquestionable unless Livia can concoct one final scheme.
3 7 ALICE When Mel wrenches his back at Alice's brunch, it throws a monkey wrench into her private life.
10:00 3 7 KOJAK Diane Baker guest stars as a woman Kojak almost married in 1969, whom he hopes will now jog his memory, as he is forced to reopen a case that he had hoped was forever closed because he believes he may have killed the wrong man. (Part I)
38 BRUINS WRAP-UP
10:15 38 ASK THE MANAGER
10:30 2 VISIONS 'A Secret Place' A 12-year-old boy finds himself deeply drawn to orthodox Judaism and begins to study it in earnest, much to the dismay and surprise of his liberal, non-religious parents.
57 MASSACHUSETTS
10:45 38 THE DRUM
11:00 3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
11:10 57 VISIONS 'Nanook Taxi' A drama about a modern day Eskimo hunter living in the Canadian Northwest Territories who must leave his wife and journey to Frobisher Bay to make money driving a taxi. Filmed entirely on location.
11:15 3 CBS NEWS
38 MEDIX
11:30 3 NFL THIS WEEK
4 MOVIE 'Gambit' 1966 Shirley MacLaine, Michael Caine. Eurasian girl and an Englishman of dubious character plot to steal an invaluable piece of sculpture from the richest man in the world. (1 hr. 30 min.)
5 MOVIE 'It Happened at the World's Fair' 1963 Elvis Presley, Joan O'Brien. Two broke bush pilots find themselves in charge of a seven year-old Chinese moppet at Seattle World's Fair but still manage to find romance and see the fair. (2 hrs.)
7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'The Firechasers' 1972 Chad Everett, Anjanette Comer. An investigator for an insurance company, with the aid of a reporter and a photographer, investigates a series of fires that have destroyed a number of buildings all in the same neighborhood. (R)
22 NBC LATE NIGHT MOVIE 'Hannibal Brooks' 1969 Oliver Reed, Michael J. Pollard. Near the end of World War II, Lucy, an elephant from the Munich zoo, and a British POW outwit the Nazis and find asylum in Switzerland.
40 MOVIE 'Nine Hours to Rama' 1963 Horst Bucholz, Jose Ferrer. Story of events leading up to assassination of Muhatma Ghandi. (2 hrs.)
11:45 3 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.: I Hate a Mystery' A wave of burglaries hit the 4077th unit and suspicion falls on Hawkeye. 'Kojak: The Girl in the River' When Kojak finds the body of a woman, he fears that a psychopathic killer who has never been caught is back on the streets. (R)
38 WORSHIP FOR SHUT INS
12:00 2 VIDEO AND TELEVISION REVIEW 'The Magic Mind of Eli Noyes' Part I. Image manipulation is a recurrent theme in the works of filmmaker Eliot Noyes, Jr. Screened are the Academy Award nominee 'Clay,' 'Alphabet,' 'Bad Dog' and 'Sandman,' as well as an excerpt from 'The Fable of He and She.'

Mon., Dec. 5

EVENING

6:00 3 4 5 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 CROSS WITS
57 ZOOM
6:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
22 NBC NEWS
38 ADAM 12
40 I LOVE LUCY
57 OVER EASY Guests: Mr. and Mrs. Irving Stone.
6:55 40 NEWS
7:00 2 ZOOM
3 7 CBS NEWS
4 NBC NEWS
5 40 ABC NEWS
22 NEWS
38 ODD COUPLE
57 WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 2 WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Feet of Clay' Love runs a frenzied course on the links when young lovers who share a passion for golf find their heads turned by a couple of dazzling adventurers.
3 DAILY NUMBER
4 EVENING MAGAZINE Guest: Phoebe Snow at Paradise in Boston, visit to the Riverboat, the Delta Queen.
5 $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
7 THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
22 CANDID CAMERA
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 TATTLETALES
57 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 3 THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
8:00 2 57 NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC 'Yukon Passage' Four young men retrace the trail of the Klondike gold-seekers, pitting their courage and endurance against the rugged Alaskan wilderness in a spectacular outdoor adventure.
3 7 CIRCUS OF THE STARS Thirty five of the most popular television and movie stars temporarily abandon their acting careers to become daring circus performers. Lucille Ball, Telly Savalas, Cindy Williams, Michael York will be ringmasters for the gala event that includes George Burns, Robert Conrad, Penny Marshall, Betty White.
4 22 LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE 'Here Come the Brides' Nellie Oleson and Luke Simms meet, fall in love and elope, and during the frantic search for the pair, the boy's widowered father and spinster Miss Beadle decide to emulate the couple and tie the matrimonial knot themselves.
5 40 McNAMARA'S BAND Johnny McNamara and his men go to Yugoslavia to rescue a scientist being held by Nazis.
38 BILLY GRAHAM CRUSADE
8:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 2 SNOW GOOSE Based on Paul Gallico's short story, this drama in World War II England, portrays a young girl and a crippled artist whose vulnerabilities to life prove no less than that of the wounded snow goose they save. The two stars are Richard Harris and Jenny Agutter.
4 22 NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'The Storyteller' Martin Balsam, Patty Duke Astin. A prolific scriptwriter's television movie is accused of triggering a 12-year-old viewer to commit arson, an act that causes the youngster's death. (2 hrs.)
5 40 ABC'S MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL Baltimore Colts vs. Miami Dolphins
38 MOVIE 'The St. Valentine's Day Massacre' 1967 Jason Robards, Jr., George Segal. Chicago underworld boss, Al Capone, plots to kill Bugs Moran and the famous St. Valentine's Day Massacre occurs, in which seven of Moran's men are gunned down in a warehouse. (2 hrs.)
9:10 57 HOLLYWOOD TELEVISION THEATRE 'The Last of Mrs. Lincoln' This television adaptation of James Prideaux's play features Julie Harris in her Tony Award-winning role as Mary Todd Lincoln, seen in the years following her husband's assassination.
10:00 2 NEWS
3 7 SWITCH David Wayne guest stars as an old vaudeville performer whose new-found popularity is marred by a series of attempts on his life.
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 2 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guests: Gwen Verdon and the American Dance Machine. Part I
3 4 7 22 NEWS
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:15 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guests: Gwen Verdon and the American Dance Machine. Part I
11:30 3 7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'McMillan and Wife: Husband, Wives and Killers' During a costume ball, a close friend of the McMillans is murdered and there's an apparent robbery although nothing is taken. (R)
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: David Brenner. Guests: Suzanne Somers, Helen Gurley Brown, John Travolta, Frankie Valli.
38 IRONSIDE
11:45 5 40 NEWS
57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS (JOINED IN PROGRESS)
12:15 5 SCREENING ROOM
40 COLLEGE FOOTBALL '77 An ABC Sports series which features weekly highlights of key contests which are scheduled during the 1977 NCAA Football season.
1:00 4 22 TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Rev. Kirby J. Hensley, founder and president of the Universal Life Church.
1:45 5 NEWS
1:55 5 NIGHTSHIFT
2:25 5 AQUI

Tues., Dec. 6

EVENING

6:00 3 4 5 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 CROSS WITS
57 ZOOM
6:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
22 NBC NEWS
38 ADAM 12
40 I LOVE LUCY
57 OVER EASY Guest: Robert Young.
6:55 40 NEWS
7:00 2 ZOOM
3 7 CBS NEWS
4 NBC NEWS
5 40 ABC NEWS
22 NEWS
38 ODD COUPLE
57 DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 2 ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS Scheduled guests are Viveca Lindfors and Kristoffer Tabori, now appearing in 'My Mother, My Son' at the Boston Repertory Theater.
3 DAILY NUMBER
4 BASKETBALL Boston Celtics vs. New York Knicks
5 MUPPETS SHOW Guest: Jim Henson.
7 $25,000 PYRAMID
22 SHA NA NA
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 GONG SHOW
57 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 3 ALL STAR ALMOST ANYTHING GOES
8:00 2 57 IN PERFORMANCE AT WOLF TRAP 'Benny Goodman' The 'King of Swing' performs with both his sextet and big band. Selections include 'King Porter Stomp,' 'Sing, Sing, Sing' and the original Gershwin version of 'Rhapsody in Blue' with conductor Morton Gould and pianist Patricia Prattis-Jennings.
3 UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU 'The Forgotten Mermaids'
5 40 HAPPY DAYS In a boxing match arranged by Fonzie, Ralph Malph's pride overshadows terror when he gets in the ring with a football bruiser.
7 PRIME CONCERN 'The Housing Hassle'
22 MAN FROM ATLANTIS An underworld explosion traps Mark Harris in the past, where he becomes involved in the feud between the families of the legendary Romeo and Juliet.
38 BILLY GRAHAM CRUSADE
8:30 5 40 LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY 'Take My Plants-Please!' When Laverne and Shirley are laid off at Shotz Brewery, they decide to earn some cash by starting a business of their own.
7 MASS. REACTION
9:00 2 MEMBERSHIP BREAK
3 7 M.A.S.H. Hawkeye and Hot Lips, grudging companions on a special mission to another M.A.S.H. unit, experience a wondrous phenomenon under the stress of enemy artillery fire: they discover each other romantically. (Part I.)
5 40 THREE'S COMPANY Roper's on a rampage for the rent, so Jack's uncle passes him a bad check.
22 MULLIGAN'S STEW A family camping trip becomes a frightening ordeal for Jane and Michael Mulligan when two of their brood become lost in the forest.
38 MOVIE 'The Rise and Fall of Legs Diamond' 1960 Ray Danton, Karen Steele. Rise and fall of a mobster who claimed that he couldn't be killed and believed it. (2 hrs.)
9:05 57 SNEAK PREVIEW
9:30 2 57 MARK RUSSELL COMEDY SPECIAL From the campus of the State University of New York at Buffalo, humorist Mark Russell spoofs the week's leading political events.
3 7 ONE DAY AT A TIME A guilt-ridden and confused Barbara is convinced she's responsible for her classmate's overdose of sleeping pills. (CONCLUSION)
4 GREATEST SPORTS LEGENDS
5 40 SOAP Episode Twelve. Peter is in for the surprise of his life when an unexpected visitor calls at his apartment.
9:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 2 NEWS
3 7 LOU GRANT Lou and Charlie face a difficult problem: how to tell their publisher that the new man in her life may be more interested in her paper than her.
4 22 POLICE WOMAN 'Screams' Rich Little guest stars as a well-heeled but demented businessman, who lures young female hitch-hikers into his car for their last ride.
5 40 THE BARBARA WALTERS SPECIAL Henry Winkler, Lucille Ball and her husband, Gary Morton, and Dolly Parton are scheduled to talk with Barbara Walters in the first of her four specials for this season.
10:10 57 HANK Jim Owen portrays legendary country music star Hank Williams in a one-man show that recaps his turbulent life and features performances of such favorites as 'Honky Tonk Blues,' 'Hey, Good Lookin'' and 'Your Cheatin' Heart.'
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 2 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guests: Gwen Verdon and the American Dance Machine. Part II
3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:15 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guests: Gwen Verdon and the American Dance Machine. Part II
11:30 3 7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Houston, We've Got a Problem' 1974 Robert Culp, Clu Gulager. Mission Control struggles to bring three astronauts home safely. 'Kojak: A Long Way From Times Square' Kojak and Crocker go to a small Nevada town to try to take back an important witness, but they wind up in jail after a local brawl.
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: David Brenner. Guests: Mac Davis, Jerry Baker (plant expert), Omar Sharif, Norm Crosby.
5 FOREVER FERNWOOD
38 IRONSIDE
40 TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Quiller: Price of Violence' Michael Jayston.
11:45 57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS (JOINED IN PROGRESS)
12:00 5 TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'Quiller: Price of Violence' Michael Jayston.
1:00 4 22 TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guest: Frank Snepp, former CIA analyst.
1:35 5 NEWS
1:45 5 MOVIE 'Charlie Chan in London' 1934 Warner Oland, Ray Milland. (1 hr. 45 min.)
3:30 5 BAXTERS
4:00 5 NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

UPTOWN SATURDAY NIGHT

Sidney Poitier (pictured), Bill Cosby and Harry Belafonte join forces in the 1974 comic caper 'Uptown Saturday Night,' to have its world television premiere Wednesday, Dec. 7 on 'The CBS Wednesday Night Movies.'

A hard-working factory hand (Poitier) and his streetwise cabbie friend (Cosby) are both feeling pretty good when they visit their favorite Saturday night hangout—until a two-bit gangster (Calvin Lockhart) steps in and rips off the bar's patrons. Not only does the thug steal the guys' winning sweepstakes ticket but also their craps winnings as well.

The two buddies decide to catch the crook themselves but end up in a mess of trouble involving a con-man private detective (Richard Pryor), a pompous Congressman (Roscoe Lee Browne) and rival gangster Geechie Dan (Belafonte).

BARBARA WALTERS SPECIAL

Newswoman Barbara Walters presents the first of her four celebrity interview specials for this season Tuesday, Dec. 6 on ABC-TV.

In the first interview they have granted at their Beverly Hills home, Gary Morton and Lucille Ball, television's premier comedienne, talk with Miss Walters (left to right) about their marriage and life in the pressure-cooker of success. Miss Ball reflects on her career of more than 40 years in the entertainment field, fraught with success on stage, screen and most especially, television, where she has headed no less than three successful comedy series.

Also in the hour, Miss Walters talks to Henry Winkler, who discusses his phenomenal impact as the 'Fonz' on ABC's 'Happy Days,' his new movie hit 'Heroes' and his acting career. Dolly Parton, the queen of country-western music, talks about the rising nationwide popularity of the country sound and her experiences in the business.

Wed., Dec. 7

EVENING

6:00 3 4 5 7 22 NEWS
38 HOGAN'S HEROES
40 CROSS WITS
57 ZOOM
6:30 2 ELECTRIC COMPANY
22 NBC NEWS
38 ADAM 12
40 I LOVE LUCY
57 OVER EASY Guest: Barbara Feldon.
6:55 40 NEWS
7:00 2 ZOOM
3 7 CBS NEWS
4 NBC NEWS
5 40 ABC NEWS
22 NEWS
38 ODD COUPLE
57 WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 2 MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS
3 DAILY NUMBER
4 EVENING MAGAZINE Guests: Johnny Bucyk record holder for the Boston Bruins, 'Back From the Edge of Death' Part I with Mother Costello.
5 IN SEARCH OF 'The Man Who Would Not Die'
7 22 BIG MONEY
38 DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
40 IN SEARCH OF
57 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 3 $25,000 PYRAMID
8:00 2 NOVA 'The Race for the Double Helix' Author Isaac Asimov narrates the story behind the discovery of the structure of DNA. James Watson and ex-colleague Francis Crick exchange memories of the race for the structure of the gene.
3 7 GOOD TIMES Big brother J.J. is watching when Thelma becomes the romantic target of a handsome stranger with a shady past.
4 22 FLINTSTONES CHRISTMAS SPECIAL When Santa Claus sprains his ankle while delivering presents to Bedrock, he gives Fred a special power which enables him to drive the sleigh and deliver the remaining gifts around the world.
5 40 TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS Paul Lynde's guests for this special are Anne Meara, Martha Ray, Alice Ghostley, Foster Brooks, Howard Morris, George Gobel, Anson Williams.
38 BILLY GRAHAM CRUSADE
57 FORSYTE SAGA 'Indian Summer of a Forsyte' Brokenhearted, Irene goes to live by herself but is drawn back to the Forsytes several years later when she runs into Old Jolyon and a strong friendship develops. When the old man dies, his will gives the Forsytes a big surprise.
8:30 3 7 SZYSZNYK Baseball great Reggie Jackson, as himself, comes to the community center searching for the home-run ball which he hit in the World Series.
8:58 3 NEWSBREAK
9:00 2 CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'Hydroponics'
3 7 THE CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIES 'Uptown Saturday Night' Sidney Poitier, Bill Cosby, Steve Jackson, who is holding a $50,000 lottery ticket, and Wardell Franklin, who has been having a lucky streak at craps, are held up by gangster Silky Slim. When they try to recover the money, they are caught in the middle of a gangland feud. (2 hrs.)
4 22 MAC DAVIS...I BELIEVE IN CHRISTMAS Guests: David Soul, Shields and Yarnell, Engelbert Humperdinck in a holiday trip through childhood memories.
5 40 CHARLIE'S ANGELS The Angels are hired to protect Sammy Davis, Jr. after he is threatened.
38 MOVIE 'Our Man Flint' 1966 James Coburn, Gila Golan. Expert frogman, super secret agent, is assigned to destroy the villains who are attempting to control the world's weather. (2 hrs.)
57 GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Abide with Me' Cathleen Nesbitt is featured in Julian Mitchell's dramatization of the complex relationship between a strict, lonely dowager and the young girl hired as her housekeeper. Filmed in the original Gloucestershire setting, the drama is set in 1928 in England's Cotswold Hills.
9:30 2 WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Portrait of a Disciplinarian' A young man has tea with his former nanny and finds himself reverting to his 12-year-old state. To top things off, his ex-fiancee has been invited as well.
9:58 40 ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 2 NEWS
4 22 BETTE MIDLER--OL' RED HAIR IS BACK 'The Divine Miss M' Guests: Dustin Hoffman, circus clown Emmett Kelly and The Harlettes, Bette's singing backup group.
5 40 BARETTA Tony Baretta, trying to solve a murder and recover a priceless necklace belonging to an oil sheik, is teamed with a FBI agent who is not what he appears to be.
10:30 2 MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
57 BOOK BEAT 'The Stone Bull' by Phyllis A. Whitney
11:00 2 57 DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Willard Gaylin
3 4 5 7 22 40 NEWS
38 ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 3 7 THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hawaii Five-O: The Listener' A paranoic threatens a psychiatrist and all of his patients. 'Kojak: A House of Prayer' A Las Vegas policeman collars a 'retired' counterfeiter, but before the criminal can be returned to New York he's killed. (R)
4 22 THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: David Brenner. Guest: John Davidson.
5 FOREVER FERNWOOD
38 IRONSIDE
40 STARSKY AND HUTCH, MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH-'The Bait' Starsky and Hutch pose as dealers to nail a big time heroin supplier. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK-'The Werewolf of Woodstock' A man is turned into a werewolf by an electrical storm at Woodstock. (R)
57 ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 5 STARSKY AND HUTCH, MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH-'The Bait' Starsky and Hutch pose as dealers to nail a big time heroin supplier. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK-'The Werewolf of Woodstock' A man is turned into a werewolf by an electrical storm at Woodstock. (R)
1:00 4 22 TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder. Guests: Ron Shaffer, a Washington Post columnist; Ed Seibert, a federal treasury agent.
2:30 5 NEWS
2:40 5 I SPY
3:40 5 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 5 BRIEFING SESSION
4:30 5 GOOD DAY

THE STORYTELLER

Academy Award winner Martin Balsam stars as a veteran television writer who is troubled by a mother's charges that his teleplay motivated actions by her son that resulted in his death in 'The Storyteller,' a world premiere drama on 'NBC Monday Night at the Movies' Dec. 5.

Ira Davidoff (Balsam) is disturbed and puzzled after learning of the death. Did his script contribute to the tragedy or was the boy a disturbed youngster who would have acted irrationally anyway? Seeking the answer, Davidoff goes to the boy's hometown, where he talks with his parents and a newspaper reporter who covered the story.

Patty Duke Astin, Doris Roberts, Rose Gregorio, James Daly, David Spielberg, Tom Aldredge and James Staley round out the cast.

PAUL SIMON SPECIAL

Singer-composer Paul Simon, one of the most highly esteemed figures in contemporary American music, will star in a variety special on NBC-TV Thursday, Dec. 8.

'The Paul Simon Special' will feature Simon in musical and comedy segments with his guests Chevy Chase, the Jesse Dixon Singers, Art Garfunkel, Charles Grodin and Lily Tomlin.

A total of 13 Grammy Awards and the sale of millions of his records attest to Simon's stature as one of the most influential and enduring of popular music personalities. His albums (seven of which he recorded while part of the Simon and Garfunkel duo) and singles have earned an impressive 16 gold records.

Never a frequent performer on television even earlier in his career, Simon has been even more selective about his TV appearances in recent years. The notable exception has been 'NBC's Saturday Night Live.'

Thurs., Dec. 8

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guests: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marshall
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Ten. Queen Eleanor and Sir Kenneth implore Robin's help. Robin and his men attack Nottingham Castle, enraging Sir Guy to action.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE World's largest magic show. 'Back From the Edge of Death Part II' with Mother Costello
⑤ HOUSE CALL 'Open Forum in Atlanta'
⑦ GONG SHOW
㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Detroit Red Wings
㊵ ISSUES '77
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ DOUBLEPLAY

8:00 ② EVENING AT SYMPHONY Pianist Maurizio Pollini is the soloist in the 'Piano Concerto No. 1' by Brahms. Seiji Ozawa also conducts the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Wolf-Ferrari's 'Overture to Susanna's Secret'.
③ ⑦ THE WALTONS Olivia mystifies the entire Walton family when she suddenly sinks into depression and becomes extremely short-tempered. And when she abruptly decides to take a trip alone, her loved ones start believing there is something drastically wrong.
④ ACTION 4
⑤ ㊵ WELCOME BACK, KOTTER Epstein's painting of a nude woman stirs up the Buchanan High campus, and creates turmoil when admirers discover the painting resembles Julie.
㉒ CHIPS 'Name Your Price' Ponch tries for fame and a fortune on a TV quiz show but his publicity centers on his pursuit of escaped chickens from an overturned truck on the freeway.
(57) NOVA 'The Race for the Double Helix' Author Isaac Asimov narrates the story behind the discovery of the structure of DNA. James Watson and ex-colleague Francis Crick exchange memories of the race for the structure of the gene.
8:30 ④ MZIZI-ROOTS
⑤ ㊵ WHAT'S HAPPENING!! Raj, Dwayne and Rerun become frantic when they change their minds about giving Mrs. Collins an empty package for her 25th anniversary as a teacher.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② (57) BEST OF FAMILIES 'New Years Eve, 1899' The Raffertys, Lathrops and Wheelers look back on their lives and unrealized dreams and confront the approaching new century with speculation and renewed hope.
③ ⑦ HAWAII FIVE-O McGarrett investigates the murder of a U.S. Navy submarine officer on a Hawaiian beach.
④ ㉒ THE PAUL SIMON SPECIAL Guests: Lily Tomlin, Chevy Chase, Art Garfunkel, Charles Grodin
⑤ ㊵ BARNEY MILLER Captain Miller and his men are frustrated in their attempt to protect the rights of a Russian defector. (R)
9:30 ⑤ ㊵ CARTER COUNTRY Chief Roy falls into a trap when he treats the annual negotiations with the mayor as the game they usually play.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF

10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ HEISMAN TROPHY AWARDS SPECIAL Hosts: Elliot Gould, O.J. Simpson. Since 1935, the most prestigious honor in college football has been the Heisman Trophy. For the first time, the announcement of the winner will serve as the occasion for an entertainment and awards special. Guests: Leslie Uggams, Connie Stevens.
④ WHAT REALLY HAPPENED TO THE CLASS OF '65 'Everybody's Girl' Annette O'Toole stars as Kathy Adams Miller, who tries to bury her past -- namely, the worst reputation of all the girls in the 1965 senior class.
⑤ ㊵ REDD FOXX
㊳ BRUINS WRAP-UP
(57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Five. 'Poison Is Queen' Augustus finally discovers the extent of Livia's treachery. Postumus's banishment will be lifted and his succession to the throne unquestionable unless Livia can concoct one final scheme.
10:15 ㊳ MOVIE 'In Like Flint' 1967 James Coburn, Lee J. Cobb. Conspiracy of women, master-minded by a beauty-cream tycoon, is out to take over the government and take control of the nuclear bomb. (2 hrs.)
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Colleen Dewhurst
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Columbo: Any Old Port in a Storm' Donald Pleasence guest stars as Adrian Carsini, the half-owner of a winery with his brother Ric. When Ric announces his plans to sell his part of the business to finance his latest marriage, Adrian kills him. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Gabriel Kaplan
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊵ POLICE STORY, THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY- 'Country Boy' A recruit from a rural community attempts to pass the Police Academy course to become a cop. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL- Alan King's 'Pleasures of Rome' Guests: James Coco, Ursula Andress, Virna Lisi, Elsa Martinelli, Gore Vidal, Rossano Brazzi. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑤ POLICE STORY, THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY- 'Country Boy' A recruit from a rural community attempts to pass the Police Academy course to become a cop. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL- Alan King's 'Pleasures of Rome' Guests: James Coco, Ursula Andress, Virna Lisi, Elsa Martinelli, Gore Vidal, Rossano Brazzi. (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder
2:30 ⑤ NEWS
2:40 ⑤ MOVIE
4:00 ⑤ AQUI
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Fri., Dec. 9

EVENING

6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guest: Harvey Korman
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② SAY BROTHER
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) PROGRAM UNANNOUNCED

7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE Guests: Somerville Cabinet artists Charles and Zarvan Majarian, 'I Fooled Hitler'
⑤ MATCH GAME
⑦ SHA NA NA
㉒ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ CHRISTMAS IS
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ MATCH GAME

8:00 ② (57) WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ ⑦ THE NEW ADVENTURES OF WONDER WOMAN Andros tries to persuade the Interplanetary Council to grant him an extension of the brief time they have given him to come to Earth and deal with the Skrill. (CONCLUSION.)
④ BOYS, BRITTEN AND BUSES Featuring the Princeton Boys' Choir
⑤ ㊵ THE YEAR WITHOUT A SANTA CLAUS An animated musical tale which tells of the year Santa Claus woke with a cold and decided that instead of climbing into his sleigh and delivering gifts to people who didn't believe in him anyway, he would just stay in bed and catch up on his sleep. (R)
㉒ CPO SHARKEY 'Sharkey the Actor' The irascible Sharkey is chosen to appear in a documentary film about the role of a CPO in Naval training, but mudpack facials, padded shoulders and a toupee fail to turn him into a matinee idol.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 ② (57) WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'Courting Convertible Bonds' Guest: Bancroft G. Davis, chairman of the Board, Bancroft Convertible Fund, Inc.
㉒ CHICO AND THE MAN
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK

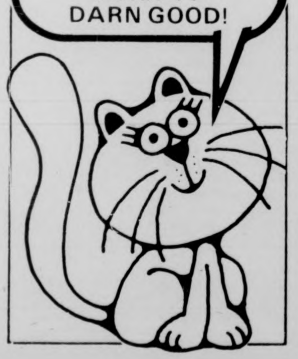
9:00 ② MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Five. 'Poison Is Queen' Augustus finally discovers the extent of Livia's treachery. Postumus's banishment will be lifted and his succession to the throne unquestionable unless Livia can concoct one final scheme.
③ ⑦ THE CBS FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE 'White Lightning' 1973 Burt Reynolds, Ned Beatty. The drama revolves around an ex-con who makes a deal with Federal authorities to break up a moonshining ring in exchange for his freedom. (R)
④ ㉒ THE ROCKFORD FILES 'Forced Retirement' Rockford masquerades as a rich Oklahoman and risks his life to check out a company's claim that it developed a new off-shore oil recovery device.
⑤ ㊵ THE CARPENTERS AT CHRISTMAS Guests: Harvey Korman, Burr Tillstrom, Kukla and Ollie, Kristy McNichol.
㊳ MOVIE 'Too Much, Too Soon' 1958 Dorothy Malone, Errol Flynn. Story of Diana Barrymore, daughter of the world renowned John Barrymore, who inherited fame, fortune and heartbreak. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
(57) MASSACHUSETTS

9:30 (57) BEST OF ERNIE KOVACS The comedian's last broadcast, originally aired in January 1962 shortly after his death, is a potpourri that features two musical visualizations, a report on 'the arts' and the Nairobi Trio.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS
④ ㉒ QUINCY 'Touch of Death' Quincy loses his lab technician over a disagreement about whether to perform an autopsy on a Japanese martial arts star.
⑤ ㊵ JOHN DAVIDSON CHRISTMAS SPECIAL Guests: Tim Conway, Betty White.
(57) SOCCER MADE IN GERMANY
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Robert Jastrow, space scientist, astronomer and director of NASA's Goddard Institute for Space Studies.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
11:30 ③ MOVIE 'The Quiller Memorandum' 1967 George Segal, Alec Guinness. American employed by British Intelligence is assigned the task of locating the leader and the headquarters of a neo-Nazi movement that is infecting the German people today. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Gabriel Kaplan. Guests: Anne Murray, Mike Preminger, Alex Karras.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
⑦ SECOND CITY TV
㊳ MOVIE 'Sherlock Holmes and the Voice of Terror' 1942 Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce. Saboteurs carry out their threats of destruction via radio.
㊵ BARETTA 'Dear Tony' Baretta hunts for the killer of a police officer apparently shot down attempting to thwart a robbery, and slowly realizes that the dead man was not a chance victim, but the target for a carefully planned murder. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑦ MOVIE 'Knock On Any Door' 1949 Humphrey Bogart, John Derek. (2 hrs.)
12:30 ⑤ BARETTA 'Dear Tony' Baretta hunts for the killer of a police officer apparently shot down attempting to thwart a robbery, and slowly realizes that the dead man was not a chance victim, but the target for a carefully planned murder. (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL Host: Wolfman Jack. Guests: Paul McCartney and Wings, David Bowie, England Dan and John Ford Coley, The Jacksons, Libby Titus, Brenda Lee, Bill Withers, Ricci Martin, Air Supply and Fusion.
1:35 ⑤ NEWS
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'A Tattered Web' 1971 Lloyd Bridges, Frank Converse. (1 hr. 45 min.)
3:30 ⑤ ALFRED HITCHCOCK
4:00 ⑤ HOUSE CALL
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

1. What did the dentist say to the judge?
2. If you see twenty black cats running down the street, what time is it?
3. What did the limestone say to the rock collector?
4. If you were to throw a white stone in the Black Sea, what would it become?
5. What is the difference between a sewing machine and a kiss?

ANSWERS

1. I'll pull the tooth, the whole tooth and nothing but the tooth.
2. Nineteen after one.
3. Don't take me for granite.
4. Wet.
5. One sews seams nice and the other seems so nice.



They found me in the classifieds!
I was a purr-ty good deal! You'll find all kinds of pets - from horses to guppies at all kinds of prices. Classifieds are an entire pet store delivered to you at UMass.
COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS ARE PURR-TY DARN GOOD!

THE FASHION LEADER
ELCO DRESS CO.
BY POPULAR DEMAND
OPEN SUNDAYS
FROM 11AM to 4PM
DEC. 4 - DEC. 11 - DEC. 18
IN ADDITION TO OUR REGULAR SATURDAY OPENINGS

You'll See the Finest Fashions First at Elco Before They're Sold in Retail Stores . . .

ALWAYS AT 50% TO 75% OFF RETAIL PRICES . .

Long-sleeve drawstring waist blouses with macrame trimmed sleeves and pullon crystal pleated flounce skirt.

Polyester handkerchief print long sleeve peasant neck dress with shawl. Beige 10-18

ELCO DRESS CO. FACTORY OUTLET
532 MAIN STREET, HOLYOKE
FREE PARKING IN LOT BEHIND BUILDING
SIZES 6-20, 14½-24½, JUNIORS

Holyoke Center Exit
Rt 9
Rt 91 Amherst
Main St
ELCO

From Amherst south on 91
to Holyoke Center exit
Follow signs to Holyoke
bear right at fork take a right on Main St
See you there

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 64
MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Senate plans new course guide

By MARY WYATT
Collegian Staff

The Academic Affairs Committee is anticipating the return of faculty release forms for this semester's course and teacher evaluation guides.

In a press conference Friday concerning the guides, Pat Whelen, senate speaker said, "We want to put out a statistically valid guide made up in conjunction with the information the faculty releases to us. In cases when they do not comply with the release forms, we will have student volunteers pass out class evaluations. As a last resort — if we have received no release forms or class evaluations — results will be obtained from a Collegian survey," he said.

Larry Magid, from the Student Center for Educational Research, explained the questionnaires used. "We are asking students to rate faculty on a scale of 1-4, from outstanding to poor on an optical scan sheet, the results of which will be analyzed by a computer and made public to staff and students.

Joe Conley from the Academic Affairs Committee said, "The evaluations we publish grade professors and include tenure lists and salaries. It is the first guide willing to publish the information that we feel should be represented."

"The items listed have been pretested in various studies and represent those items we students have a need to know. One of the more reliable evaluations on this campus, it will provide information that students want to be aware of," he said.

Conley added, "If they wish, the professors may list special interests in other fields to be printed along side evaluations. If TA' wish to sign a release form, we will accept them also. Last year, only 350 cooperated, and that is a minority."

Whelen said, "I think that faculty people should realize that students are dedicated to putting out a teacher evaluation guide. Non-cooperation with students does not coincide with the best interests of either party. Faculty people exist to serve the needs of students and should have no qualms about releasing their forms."

Michael Brennan of the Student Organizing Project said, "The professors have until next Thursday morning before students begin to go into classes where the forms have not been released. Actually, the professors will be given a release form with the course evaluations so they will have one last chance to release their forms.

"A lot of students have been impressed by the first guide and feel that the second will be just as beneficial to work on. People come from the union councils, SOP and SCER. There will be a table set up in the Student Union so that individual students can come by and fill our course evaluations and can bring them back to their class," he said.

Conley said, "There has been a great amount of the needed cooperation between student agencies including SOP, SCER and individual senators."

Brennan added, "Student support is essential and participation on a large scale is one of the ways for this to be successful."

Whelen said, "In a University such as this, there is no personal relationship between faculty and students. There is need for a tool to help a student decide among which teachers and courses he wants. I think there should be a tool such as CATE provided for students by students to assist peers in making a rational decision in choosing courses."

UM—Boston helps in Columbia Point change

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass-Boston Harbor Campus is playing a key role in changing Boston's Columbia Point from the "worse housing development" in Boston to a $50 million mixed-income residential area.

The transformation of this former town dump on the edge of Dorchester will be possible only if federal, state and, more importantly, private monies are channeled into the peninsula project, according to 68-year-old Euphron Catlin, who's heading the project.

UMass President Robert C. Wood delivering the open address at last weekend's economic conference. (Staff photo by Chris Bourne)

However, Catlin, a retired executive from the First National Bank of Boston, told those people attending the economic conference in 163 Campus Center Saturday that the funding should not be a major problem with UMass President Robert C. Wood involved.

"When it comes to extracting money out of the federal government," Catlin said, "Bob Wood makes Machiavelli look like a Sunday school teacher."

Wood apparently has attracted the private sector into the project, also. One "Wood-produced" private investor, Catlin said, is Dorchester native and Texan businessman Raymond Nasher.

If past performances indicate future action, some Boston savings banks may provide some of the necessary private financial backing to the Columbia Point redevelopment. Only after having been prodded by Catlin did the banks invest in the facelifting of the Quincy Marketplace, which is now a lucrative business district.

"A savings banker has gold in his teeth, silver in his hair and lead in his ass," Catlin told the conference audience. "I got the lead out of their asses."

While housing renewal awaits lobbying efforts for money, the peninsula tourist spot, which will inject new jobs for the point, is already under construction.

The John F. Kennedy Memorial Library, due for completion within two years, was located on Columbia Point only after Wood's lobbying efforts outdid competition from Harvard and other private institutions in the greater Boston area.

"The library tipped it off," Wood said, referring to the redevelopment plans. He said he had to prove UMass-Boston is not a community college when lobbying for the library.

The completed library, Wood said, will guarantee 800,000 tourists annually.

Wood said the harbor campus can and must open its facilities to the neighborhood residential area to be of any value to the redevelopment efforts.

The growth of UMass-Boston, necessary for educational purposes as a university, will also help employment conditions on the point. The campus already employs people from the area, and further expansion will provide more jobs, Wood said.

The people were already there when the jobs came with construction of the campus, Wood said, and new jobs will be readily filled, also.

The state has decided to construct a $7 million archive on the point also.

"Some of the people out there are learning

TURN TO PAGE 5

Fire in Field House causes $5,000 in damages

By BERNARD DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

A burning Chanukah candle was the apparent cause of a fire in 325 Field dormitory last night which resulted in an estimated $5,000 in smoke and fire damage, according to Keith E. Hoyle, University director of Environmental Health and Safety.

The Amherst Fire Department responded to a 7:45 p.m. box alarm with five engines and one ladder truck, all its available equipment, before bringing the fire under control shortly after 8 p.m.

There were no injuries, Hoyle said.

The Chanukah candle was burning for about 30 minutes before the fire started, Hoyle said, and added that whether the candle fell over on its own or was somehow knocked over is not yet known. The cause of the fire is still under investigation, he said.

Chanukah, the Jewish Festival of Lights, began last night. It has traditionally been celebrated by lighting candles for eight consecutive days in remembrance of the reconquering of Israel in 165 B.C.

Neither Frederick Altmann or Donald A. Kuczarski, the residents of 325 Field, were in the room when the fire started.

Altman was across the hall in 326 Field with Sean Gaines when he learned of the fire.

Smoke "belched" out of the room, according to Gaines, when he and Altman first opened the door to 325. After getting a fire extinguisher at the other end of the hall, they again opened the door and tried to fight the fire.

When it became apparant they could not, Gaines said they closed the door and pulled the fire alarm. "The smoke was so thick that you couldn't see the lights in the hall," he said.

Once the alarm went off, students began evacuating the building. Hoyle later sealed off the third-floor corridor for the night. The 27 students who live there should be able to return sometime today, he said.

More than 100 students watched from an embankment behind Field as water was pumped from a hydrant, through a fire truck, and up a standpipe in the building to firefighters on the third floor, who then sprayed the water through the room.

Charred material was thrown out the third floor window as firefighters cleared out the room.

A bed, books, stereo system, radio, set of skis and hockey equipment all burned during the fire, according to Hoyle. There was also minor damage to the room's ceiling.

In addition, there was moderate smoke and water damage to the blackened hallway, he said, as well as to some of the surrounding dorm rooms.

Firefighters rescued a "semi-conscious" cat that was left in the smoke-filled room, Hoyle said.

Hoyle had all dormitory fire hoses removed recently because he didn't want to expose students to the hazards of firefighting, he said.

Fire officials had originally thought the fire was caused by an over-burdened octopus plug in one of the room's electrical outlets. Both the windows in the room were shut when the fire began, as was the door.

Kuczarski, who had been away from the dormitory earlier in the night, returned just after the fire alarm had sounded, according to Hoyle.

Smoke could be smelled throughout the building, according to some dorm residents. And although there was some hesitation, "people evacuated pretty fast," once the alarm went off, one third floor resident said.

Residents of Field House, in Orchard Hill, were forced to evacuate the dorm as a fire broke out in room 325; no one was injured. (Staff photo by John Anderson)

Thomson answers questions in N'hampton

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson sat in a third-floor corner lounge in the Hotel Northampton last Friday night while two photographers and a camera crew prepared for an impromptu press conference before Thomson addressed other republicans at a fund-raiser downstairs.

"This is one of my favorite hotels," Thomson said. "My wife and I always stop here when we pass through."

"Governor, excuse me, would you mind sitting in the stuffed chair?" asked a photographer. "It would be better lighting."

"Should I turn this lamp on also," Thomson suggested.

"Sure."

And then the questions began.

What do you plan to do if the Clamshell (Alliance) occupies Seabrook again in June, Governor?

"Obviously it depends upon what they want to occupy," Thomson replied. "The construction site (of the nuclear power plant) is fenced in now. If they knock down the fence, the offense would be of a graver nature."

Last May, 1,414 anti-nuclear power demonstrators occupying the Seabrook, N.H. plant site were charged with criminal trespassing after Thomson ordered their arrests. Some of those convicted, after losing appeal cases this fall, have received jail sentences of six months.

"Let me say as governor," Thomson continued, "That the laws of our state are going to be upheld, regardless if the offenders are from the Clamshell or a bankers association."

What about the article printed in the Boston Globe, which criticized your state, Governor? Or the Real Paper article about a "banana republic" of the north?

"That (banana) story is much like the Boston Globe, (article)," he said. "They're filled with inaccuracies.

"I don't specifically plan to reply to the Globe," Thomson said. "I didn't think it reported on that low a level as the Real Paper, but apparently it does.

"We plan to offer a series of articles to New Hampshire papers — which choose to print them — on the state's record in social services, fiscal policies and industrial expansion in terms of statistics, and not in terms of 'argumentative reputation'," Thomson said.

And what about Sunday competition for New Hampshire businesses from those stores in Massachusetts now open Sundays until Christmas, Governor?

"I don't think we'll be losing anything," he said. "Massachusetts citizens save money shopping in New Hampshire because of the sales tax in Massachusetts and the high operating costs there, which are really tacked onto purchases," he explained.

"Massachusetts consumers will run to the (New Hampshire) border for bargains as long as we continue our favorable tax climate.

"Actually, we can't remain a state separate from New England in the long run," said Thomson, who earlier Friday was chosen by other New England governors to chair a regional commission of governors.

Massachusetts Gov. Michael S. Dukakis had nominated Thomson for chairman. "I find him (Dukakis) now mellowing on energy," Thomson said, adding "There's been a real turn around of all the governors."

Thomson began to talk about how cheap electricity from nuclear power has attracted to South Carolina $1 billion of new industry. Readily available cheap electricity would attract business to New England, too, he said.

But he denied opposing alternative energy sources to nuclear power. "I've always supported a balance (of energy sources)," Thomson said, "if we can find other ways to produce electricity as cheaply as nuclear power."

New Hampshire Governor Meldrim Thomson at the Hotel Northampton last Friday night. (Staff photo by Christopher Schmitt)

New England leaders discuss the economy

By JOE QUINLAN
Collegian Staff

Business and political leaders from New England this weekend converged upon the UMass Campus Center to discuss the prospects of the Northeast economy while reporters and editors from 32 newspapers watched and listened.

One expert Friday night claimed nuclear power is the energy savior that will make New England "the 21st century's manufacturing center of the United States," while U.S. Rep. Michael Harrington, D-Mass., a day later said New England cities are not coping properly with the changing times.

Robert A. Charpie, president of the Cabot Corp. of Boston, told other conferees nuclear power is the key to economic progress in New England.

"We either go nuclear or we don't go," Charpie said.

But a Maine newspaper editor disputed Charpie, citing opposition and financial aspects as roadblocks to expansion of nuclear power in New England.

"I agree, but who wants to go at all?" said John N. Cole, editor of the weekly Maine Times and trustee of the National Audubon Society.

New England does not have to grow to improve its economy, according to Cole. Nuclear power "is not for this region and is not for this time," he said.

New England should go the "soft route" in planning economic growth, Cole said.

"We should go the soft route," Cole said, "toward a community-based and a resource-based economic activity. I don't call it industry."

The debate over energy resources for New England economic growth was the first of several panel discussions during the two day conference. UMass, The Boston Globe, Worcester Telegram and Gazette and the Northeast Council for Economic Action, a federally-funded agency in Boston, sponsored the weekend event.

Harrington, Mass. Gov. Michael Dukakis and several mayors were among elected officials attending the conference. UMass President Robert C. Wood delivered the opening address.

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson and Rhode Island Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy canceled their appearances. Thomson cut short a Friday night visit in Western Massachusetts to return home to prepare for a trip to Taiwan, while Garrahy was in Washington, D.C., according to aides of each governor.

A group of students protesting Dukakis' financial policies toward public higher education gathered around the Campus Center Friday night. The Alternative Energy Coalition Saturday set up a leaflet table outside near the conference, and showed anti-nuclear power movies inside another room.

"I think the bell tolls for the Northeast industrial sector," said Harrington during the final panel discussion of the conference Saturday afternoon. "The script is already written."

He said many New England cities have only organized overall plans to revitalize neighborhoods, and not the entire city because few people want to admit the seriousness of the urban problem.

"The problem is the unwillingness to begin to face up to the trends setting in," Harrington said.

While Harrington spoke of the lack of proper planning for revitalizing urban areas, a president of a construction firm detailed a successful turnaround in Stamford, Conn.

The conditions were ripe for growth when urban renewal began in Stamford 17 years ago, according to Robert Rich, president of the F.D. Rich Co.

"It was a coincidence of timing," Rich said. "There is now a lack of a federal long-term commitment to these projects."

The Stamford project, costing $425 million over a 25 year period, still has eight years left before being complete. Several hundred buildings have been razed in the project, and about 1,200 families relocated, Rich said.

Pie-thrower off mark; Dukakis not 'creamed'

A pie attack on the country's 50 governors began at UMass Friday night when a UMass business major hurled a Boston Cream Pie at Mass. Gov. Michael S. Dukakis during a press conference in 163 Campus Center.

Dukakis knocked the pie onto a table and then, with Boston Globe Editor Thomas Winship sampling the delicacy, cleaned it up.

Nineteen-year-old Joseph Gould of 421 Patterson House the next day said he threw the pie because he intends to eventually hit every governor with one. Gould said N.H. Gov. Meldrim Thomson was his first target, but he settled for Dukakis because Thomson canceled his UMass visit.

Rhode Island Gov. J. Joseph Garrahy was scheduled to attend the conference, but also canceled. The press conference was part of a two-day seminar on the Northeast economy.

Gould, who bought two pies for Dukakis and Thomson, said he wanted to use the extra one for UMass President Robert C. Wood, but couldn't find him. Because Gould missed a clean shot at Dukakis, a friend splattered the other pie in Gould's face.

Gould said he gained access to the locked-door conference room when a reporter walked out. Gould said he escaped through the fire exit stairway at the east end of the Campus Center.

The UMass police "should be embarrassed" that a pie was thrown at Dukakis and the pie hurler was escaped, Gould said, because "they had so much security.

"It's good to keep them (police) on their toes," Gould said.

Gould, a member of the Youth International Party, is one of the organizers of the aborted "smoke-in" at the Amherst Common earlier this semester.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mark Leccese

| | |
|---|---|
| Wire Layout | Debbie Wallace |
| Editorial Layout | Bill Sundstrom |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dale Griswold |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Sports Layout | Dave Rodman |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |
| Newsstand price | $.10 | |
| Faculty staff | $.05 | |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Football player gets hearing

The hearing for a UMass freshman football player arrested by University police on charges of rape and assault and battery has been scheduled for Dec. 15 in Northampton District Court after the student pleaded innocent last week.

Todd R. Davis, 18, of 2012 John F. Kennedy tower, was arrested by UMass police last Thursday night in connection with an alleged rape on campus Nov. 25, during the Thanksgiving break.

Collegian commentator and reporter Jim Paulin is being arraigned this morning in Northampton District Court after being arrested by Northampton police early Sunday morning.

Paulin is charged with being a disorderly person, breaking glass and damaging property, police said. Paulin was arrested while attending a party in a Northampton apartment.

---

Discusses new farm law

Dukakis visits with area farmers

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

Governor Michael Dukakis visited the Hadley farm of Earle Parsons Friday night to discuss the Farmlands Preservation Bill he signed into law Thursday in Boston. The farm stay was part of Dukakis' swing into Western Massachusetts for a seminar on Northeast economy.

With close to forty farmers, state officials and members of the press crowded into the living room of Parsons, the governor listened to the problems facing area farmers and discussed the new legislation. The Farmlands Preservation Bill, similar to measures already in use in Suffolk County, Long Island and parts of New Jersey, was seen by the governor as historic in its steps to combat "the alarming loss of farmland in Massachusetts."

The bill provides for the selling of development rights on agricultural property to the state. Under the legislation, farmers who want to sell their land for any reason (retirement, economic) can receive the potential development price of the land from the state while still maintaining ownership of the land.

Reasoning behind the bill is that the state can be assured that the farmers in Massachusetts will not sell out to commercial ventures because it is more profitable than farming their land. If the state owns the development rights, the farmland will remain as farmland regardless of any change of ownership by individual farmers.

The governor's host explained "The bill still enables property to be transferred from farmer to farmer but it does prevent the land from being swallowed up by developments, shopping centers." Parsons also said developers often approach farmers because "they (developers) look for an easy working site and the farmlands are good because they're reasonably well-drained."

Dukakis, in his talk with the farmers, said the bill reflected "a renewed interest in land and agriculture." The product of three years work, the bill plans to "stop what has been neglect of farmers, agriculture, farms and open space since World War II," he said.

The Commonwealth currently imports 85 per cent of its food supplies, according to the governor, a figure he said was "unhealthy, both economically and spirirtually. Farming goes far beyond the mere production of food. It gives us a sense of ourselves, our surroundings," he said.

Preservation of the farmland under the new bill is expected to benefit the farmer because "once that state comes in to purchase the development rights, the acreage would be available to other farmers at a farmland price," Parsons said.

Following discussion of the new bill, Dukakis asked the farmers to voice their concern over any problems facing their food production. Topics brought to the governor's attention included land use policy, taxation of agricultural property, possibility of farmers being exempt from paying the full minimum wage to summer laborers (mostly children) and delays in soil testing results.

As for the five million dollar appropriation for the farmland bill, Commissioner of Agriculture Fred Winthrop said, "it's a start. We hope to fund it on a more permanent basis. The five million will be spent in a slow, deliberate way to show how it (the bill) works and so everyone can be proud of it."

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis visits with farmer Earle Parsons at Parsons' Hadley farm. Dukakis discussed the new farm development bill and other agricultural problems with about 40 area farmers this past weekend.

Newsmaker

Earl Parsons, valley farmer

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

HADLEY — "The Parsons name goes back to early settlements in the valley — we've always lived here," Earl Parsons said Friday as he sat in his 1800 farmhouse hours before Gov. Michael S. Dukakis arrived for an evening discussion about the new Farmlands Preservation Bill.

Growing up in Northampton on the farm that his grandfather first established, Parsons and his family moved to the present hom at 22 Mill Valley Rd., Hadley in 1950.

"The farm across the street, which we now farm, was a two-horse dairy farm in the fifties. In 1950, there were three teams within the neighborhood," he said.

Times have changed and so has the size of the farm operation. Parsons, in business with his brother Ken and son Chip, now harvest 240 acres of corn for grain (30,000 bushels) and 10 acres of cucumbers for pickling. The grain is used to produce the 2,000 hogs and 400 lambs Parsons markets annually.

"The traditional farm has had to become bigger in size in order to provide a living for those who work on it," Parsons noted. He estimated that a farm has to gross $50,000 in sales annually to support a family.

"I've seen tremendous strides since my first summer of real work with a horse walking cultivator ... now everything is mechanized," he said. "Obviously, as you mechanize, there's a need for less personnel. But the people who do remain have to be more knowledgeable."

Farming in the Connecticut River Valley is very diversified due to the excellent soil, Parsons said. Dairy, vegetables, livestock and the traditional tobacco crop are all grown in Western Massachusetts, where they are sold within New England. "One of the advantages is the nearness of the market — the people who consume production are around here," he said.

The area farmers have also been here for "at least two generations. They're not the type of people who come and go," the governor's host reflected. Many of these farmers are "waiting to see what will happen" (with the Farmland Preservation Bill) which Parsons sees as applicable "across the state from the Cape to the Berkshires."

The farmers haven't had a chance to talk about the bill among themselves, Parsons added. Part of the reason has been the "trying fall" when rainfall exceeded its annual amount, causing changes in harvesting procedures.

"We have to work with and around the weather," he said, noting that the critical operation was proper timing of planting and harvesting. The challenges are a reason why Parsons and his family have stayed with farming. "Once it is in your system, you stay with it. We grow up and enjoy doing something, like working with soil and animals. We still enjoy our work.

"To be a farmer you have to be optimistic. You need to anticipate, think in terms of maximum yield — not because you achieve that because you don't. But you learn to work with the challenges and make it real interesting."

As for the governor's visit, Parsons said "it was out of the clear blue." The farmer received a call from the Commissioner of Agriculture's office, asking if Parsons would be willing to host the governor.

Commenting that this farm was the "logical place, located near the University and Springfield" (where Dukakis was visiting on Friday), Parsons said he and his family were "excited and looking to it with anticipation."

But once the governor leaves, the Parsons farm will return to normal. Awake every morning at 6:30 for the early morning barn check, Parsons starts the feeding and chores at 7:30 and finishes every night at 5:00 — seven days a week.

Hijacked jet crashes in South Malaysia

SINGAPORE [UPI] — A Malaysian Airline jetliner with 100 persons aboard crashed yesterday in the swampy coastland of South Malaysia after the pilot reported he had been hijacked, a company spokesman said.

Ahmad Merican, director of information for the airline, said rescue workers aboard a helicopter that located the crash site reported no sign of survivors.

At Kuala Lumpur, home base for the downed Boeing 737, airport sources who indicated they had access to radio conversations between the aircraft and control tower said the Japanese Red Army was responsible for the hijacking.

Merican said he was unable to confirm that.

It was believed to be the first crash of a hijacked airliner.

The twin engine jet was carrying 93 passengers and a crew of seven on a flight from Penang, a resort city 500 miles north of Singapore, to Singapore via the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur.

Airline sources said most passengers were residents of either Malaysia or Singapore but about 20 were from other areas. The route is a popular one for foreign tourists.

Airport sources said the plane, flight 653, was hijacked about 8 p.m., 7 a.m. EST, roughly 45 minutes after takeoff.

A Malaysian Department of Aviation source said the pilot managed to alert control towers of the takeover by getting in one word, "hijackers", at the end of a radio message.

Other airport sources indicated there were later, additional exchanges of conversation between the plane and ground that gave more information.

The airport sources said the pilot, Capt. G. K. Ganjoor, an Indian citizen, and the Kuala Lumpur control tower unsuccessfully tried to persuade the hijacker or hijackers there was insufficient fuel to reach Singapore.

The plane was then cleared to land at Singapore's Seletar Air Base, an auxiliary airport near the city but away from the international airport's runways.

It was lost from Singapore Airport radar screens six minutes after it was due to have landed.

The wreckage was spotted at Kampung Tanjung Kupang, 44 miles west of Johore Bahru, capital of the state of Johore.

British troops flown to Bermuda riots

HAMILTON, Bermuda [AP] — A company of British troops yesterday flew to this tense Atlantic island where police reported calm after three nights of rioting and firebombings triggered by the hanging of two black extremists convicted of murder.

The only major incident reported Saturday night was the firebombing of a bakery on Court St., the focal point of clashes between riot police and black youths.

"I think the steam has gone out of it," said Police Inspector Allan Lister.

The company of British soldiers, 150 men from the Royal Regiment of Fusiliers, was dispatched from their Oakington, England, base to the Brize Norton airfield 60 miles north of London, where they boarded Hercules transport planes for the seven-hour flight to this self-governing British colony.

Bermudian officials had asked for the military back-up.

Although police said the bakery blaze was the most damaging attack Saturday night, gangs of black youths conducted several other hit-run firebombings in Hamilton, capital of this cluster of islands.

Damage from the three days of disturbances across Bermuda was estimated at more than $5 million.

Police and troops firing riot gas grenades in a drenching rain Saturday broke up a crowd of 300 black youths massed in Court St., which is in downtown Hamilton near Parliament and about two blocks from the waterfront. The area is a mile from two of Hamilton's luxury hotels, the Princess and the Bermudiana.

Sunshine returned yesterday, bringing out some tourists toting cameras and tennis rackets.

It is the off-peak tourist season for the island, a popular vacation spot for Americans. Only an estimated 2,000 to 3,000 tourists are here.

COLLEGIAN COUNTDOWN!

7 PUBLISHING DAYS LEFT IN FALL SEMESTER

The final day for placement of advertising, either display or classified, is Friday, December 9, 1977. The final Fall issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian will appear Wednesday, December 14, 1977.

A field trip to the ballet

By NIKKI ARONSON
Collegian Staff

Some of the 1700 children who saw the Nutcracker Ballet Friday rush happily out of the Fine Arts Center ...

AMHERST AM BUS LIN

... And head for their buses. (Staff photos by Ellen Davis)

Although Christmas still is some weeks away, visions of sugarplums danced before some 1,700 elementary schools children who came to see the Hartford Ballet Company perform "The Nutcracker Suite" last Friday in the Fine Arts Center.

Cheers, whistles, and clapping greeted Beverly Kratochvil, director of the Fine Arts Extension Service, who gave the 11:30 a.m. introduction. "We would like to welcome each and every one of you here today."

She explained they would all be seeing the second act of the play, and reminded them this was the first time there had ever been a special performance for just young people at the center.

The fourth, fifth and sixth graders who attended the free performance had already received the expianation of the story of Clara, a little girl who receives a nutcracker for a Christmas gift, and whose brother breaks the toy in a jealous rage.

Preparation materials had been sent out to interested schools in Hamden, Hampshire and Berkshire counties by the Continuing Education special arts program recounting Clara's dreams of adventures with the toy that becomes, not only mended again, but a hero who takes her to many lands.

While one girl from the audience was brought on stage to be Clara in a brief walk-through of the act, comments were whispered about the ballet. From the Dalton School sections came giggles of "boys dancing in tights."

One child from Greenfield asked if ballet was "something like a movie." A few children from Amherst had already seen a ballet and wanted to be ballerinas someday.

Kratochvil said the performance was but one of the many programs being offered for the cultural benefit of young students in the area. Through the joint efforts of the Fine Arts Center and the Fine Arts Extension Services of Continuing Education, many children of all ages would have the opportunity to see a variety of art events. "This is a new direction for art," she said.

By 1:30 p.m. the last school buses were preparing to leave the campus. The remaining school children were dancing their way toward the buses that would carry them back to classrooms for discussion on what they had seen.

Many of the boys had some new ideas on "boys in tights." As one little boy from Belchertown put it. "Boy I thought ballet dancers were sissies, but the muscles on their legs, wow." His companion giggled, "They are strong, I don't think I could do that, but I sure'd like to see them again."

Lack of organization cited

Two pot reform petitions fizzle out

By LARRY COHEN
Collegian Staff

Two petitions that would have brought marijuana reform laws before a referendum vote in Massachusetts have died, according to the petitions' organizers.

Peter Graham, statewide coordinator of the Massachusetts Decriminilization Committee, cited lack of organization for their failure to obtain the 56,032 signatures needed by Nov. 28 to get the marijuana decriminalization bill on a binding state referendum in 1978.

Russel Swan, former co-chairman of the Massachusetts Marijuana Initiative Committee, said lack of exposure was the main problem of their petition, which would have forced a referendum vote "not to legalize, per se, but to make personal possession and use of marijuana a constitutional right, as was done in Alaska."

In 1975, the Alaska Supreme Court issued a 54-page decision which, in effect, legalized the personal use of marijuana in one's own home.

Graham, a former student senator currently on leave from UMass, was hired by the Student Government Association co-President's office early this semester to coordinate the petition drive in Massachusetts. However, he and SGA co-president Jon Hite filed the petition with the State Attorney General's office at the last minute, according to MMIC volunteer Cece Dion.

"Jon and I had talked about it as early as last January," Graham said. "I had told Jon that it was a good thing for him to do as SGA president. When I took the job as coordinator, a lot of preliminary work I was told had been done had not."

Dion said they didn't have the organization to get the petition off the ground soon enough. "It took three weeks to get things going here," she said. "Even though Peter had people working at Northeastern, BU, Southeastern Massachusetts University, and Bristol Community College, we only got less than 3,000 signatures in three weeks.

"We were expecting more than 15,000," she said, adding, "We figured UMass would carry most of the weight."

Graham said he had left a thousand petitions at Northeastern University with the president of that student government. "They told me they would set up a table in nothing flat. Three weeks later, I found out they hadn't even started."

Another problem the decriminalization committee petition workers mentioned was that all petition signers had to be registered to vote. "A lot of people would have signed the petition," Dion said, "but they were not registered."

The initiative committee petition ran into very similar problems, according to Russ Swan. Swan, a member of the Youth International Party (YIPPIES), planned an Oct. 27 "smoke-in" at the Amherst Commons, but was forced to cancel it due to police pressure.

At the smoke-in, tables were to be set up to gather signatures for the initiative committee petition. Those who were not registered could do so at the Town Hall, next to the Commons, said Swan.

"The main purpose of the smoke-in was not to gather signatures," he said, "But to protest the drug laws and have a good time." He did hope, however, that many of the participants in the Smoke-In would sign the petition, he said.

Graham said he thought the smoke-in was a very bad idea because it might give their petition a bad image. He also said people might associate the decriminalization petition with the Yippies.

"Having a petition at a Yippie-sponsored event would not help our image," Graham said, adding that people might confuse the two.

"The 'Reefer Madness' attitude that exists with many conservatives sees the smoke-in as a bunch of hippie freaks," he said.

Graham said the decriminalization drive was backed by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, a national lobbying group which opened up a Boston office on Nov. 1. Graham, Swan, and Bill Rollins, the Boston coordinator for the organization, met Oct. 27 to discuss the petition drives. it was at that time, Graham said, the initiative committee decided to back the decriminalization petition.

"I was aware before hand that the (legalization) petition would probably be canned," admitted Swan, "so I gave up on it and let Peter push his."

According to Graham, the marijuana laws reform group said they definitely would not back the initiative committee petition anyway. At first, he said, they also did not want to back the decriminalization petition because they didn't think it had a chance, but Graham was able to convince them to back it approximately two weeks before the Nov. 8 election.

Graham said they planned to have people at the polling places in Boston to gather signatures. However, they could only get 15 people from the five colleges to go to Boston for the day, and then ran into difficulties getting a driver for a student senate van to take them to Boston.

"Sunday night before the elections, we decided to call the whole thing off," said Dion. "We just didn't have the people to help us."

Wintersession

Credit courses and Credit-Free Workshops offered by the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst begin January 3rd. For registration information and catalog, please call 545-3653 or stop by the Records and Registration Office, 113 Hasbrouck. Mastercharge, American Express, and VISA are accepted.

ce

$25 Deposits taken
11-3, Mon-Fri in
Ski Club Office
S.U. 309
and
Dec. 5, 7, 9, 12, 14
on Campus Center
Concourse

Sugarbush
Ski Week
Jan. 22-27

$109-
meals, lodging,
lift ticket, partying!

Union won't return dues

By FIFI BALL
Collegian Staff

Ralph Flynn of the MTA and Joseph Delory of the NAGE.

Ellen Davis

A spokesperson for a union vying to represent University clerical, service and technical employees said Friday afternoon the union would not return all dues paid them by members at UMass since Jan. 1, 1977.

In a debate sponsored by the 12-to-1 Organization, a clerical workers group at the University attorney, Joseph DeLorey, Esq., speaking for the Massachusetts Service Employees Association, a division of the National Association of Government Employees said, "We want to live up to our end of the agreement," which includes provision for some dues to be returned to the local and some to be kept by the parent union for services rendered.

"They didn't provide any services at all," said Bernard Turner, former MSEA local officials.

Last summer MSEA local officials moved to petition the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission in Boston to decertify MSEA as the collective bargaining agent for UMass employees. The move to decertify resulted from MSEA affiliating with NAGE without approval of the UMass local membership.

Ralph Flynn, spokesperson for the MTA, said the general membership should decide if a case like this arose if the MTA were elected to represent the workers.

There will be another meeting today sponsored by 12 to 1 during which they will announce which of the two unions they will endorse. The meeting will be at noon in Campus Center room 904-908.

When asked about support for affirmative action DeLorey said, UMass employees' contracts don't need affirmative action clauses because "your state laws are so good," but that affirmative action "is crying to be addressed" on this campus.

MTA's lawyer said affirmative action would be a "high priority item," if they were to be elected.

When asked about their status as a privately owned corporation, DeLorey said NAGE is non-profit like the Red Cross.

Each representative was asked how much would be expected from their organizations in dues. MTA said $6.42 per month plus whatever the local voted for itself, a total of $77 per year.

NAGE said $1.99 per week, "including everything."

NAGE is made up of "only public employees," said DeLorey. They are represented in every state and have a total membership of 250,000.

MTA is a statewide teachers organization with 65,000 members, said Flynn. He said they would like to see "solidarity within the entire educational community."

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT
SMUGGLERS'
NOTCH,
VERMONT
January 1-6, 8-13, 15-20, 1978

- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights Lodging
- Condominiums on Slope
- Ski 2500' Vertical
- Free Sauna & Swim
- Nightly Entertainment
- Band Party & Kegs
- Surprise Extras

ONLY $109.50

Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856

All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

Why run all over town!

Looking for a job? Sit down and check the classifieds for employment openings. It's faster and more efficient than racing from door to door!

COLLEGIAN
CLASSIFIEDS
113 CAMPUS CENTER

Dissident scholar arrested

By ROB THAYER
Collegian Staff

Harold "Doc" Humes, co-founder of the Paris Review and expert in the field of heroin addiction, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Cambridge and Harvard University police outside Passim's Coffeeshop in Cambridge, where Humes had been waiting to hear Allen Ginsberg read poetry.

According to Cambridge police, who would not discuss details of the case, Humes' arrest was prompted by Harvard University police and carried out with the assistance of the Cambridge police department.

Humes, whose case was detailed in the Nov. 18 Collegian, was arrested on two default warrants. The first concerned his appearances in the Salem, Mass. courthouse last spring. The second stemmed from a trespass charge at Harvard University in 1975.

Humes holds a degree from Harvard and once replaced Robert Lowell teaching creative writing at the university for a semester.

The arrest occurred during a live WCAS broadcast from Passim's and, according to a friend of Humes, was carried out by seven uniformed Cambridge police officers and an unidentified man wearing a Harvard blazer, who came in and identified Humes before the arrest took place.

The WCAS broadcast, part of a weekly series on the Cambridge radio station, was interrupted by the station's technician in Passim's, who later said he shut off the sound equipment because he thought a scuffle was breaking out.

According to eyewitnesses, 38 of whom left their names after the incident, Humes was approached shortly before Ginsberg's address by a Cambridge policeman, who said Humes was not being arrested and asked that he come outside "to talk."

Humes refused, saying they "could talk to me later at my apartment," and blew a whistle as the officer put a hand on his shoulder.

According to the eyewitnesses, the policeman backed off as Humes turned to the audience of about 50 persons and asked "what was going on?" and was joined by six other Cambridge police officers who physically removed Humes from Passim's and arrested him outside on the default warrants after handcuffing him.

As Humes was being dragged from the coffeehouse, Cindy Gomez, a Harvard student and friend of Humes, took the stage and explained some of the recent events surrounding his case.

The state of New Jersey recently reactivated some 1973 charges against Humes. They include assault on a police officer while armed and marijuana possession, charges that Humes claims arose from his research into heroin addiction and his discovery that marijuana was being used as "a vector for toxins."

Ginsberg, who was backstage during the arrest sequence, then ad-libbed a song for almost 10 minutes about the arrest and Humes as the live broadcast was continued. Ginsberg then detailed some of his own research into the Central Intelligence Agency's involvement with heroin during the Vietnam era and expressed concern that heroin addiction was now at its highest levels.

Humes addressed an audience of about 200 students in Hasbrouck Auditorium at UMass on Nov. 18, and described his own experiences with the de-toxification of heroin and amphetamine addicts "who worked for various intelligence agencies." Humes has used a Chinese de-tox method which combines Shiatsu (or accupressure) massage and medical grade hashish, a marijuana derivative.

Humes, who lives in Cambridge, is being held at the Cambridge City jail and is scheduled to appear in Suffolk County Court at 9 a.m.

Photo courtesy of the Harvard Crimson

Harold L. "Doc" Humes

★ Catlin's Point

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

how to read now," Catlin said when talking about the state's decision to build the archives on Columbia Point.

Catlin and the Peninsula Planning Committee propose to raze all the high rises in the Columbia Point housing project.

"Three floors is the extent of safety in a housing project," Catlin said, adding one doesn't know what may happen when riding the elevator in project high rise.

"You may be eaten, robbed or something worse," he said.

New low rises would replace the towers, and the present low rise structures would be renovated, Catlin said. He said the central heating system now used in the housing project would be improved also.

He estimated $40 million of government funds would be needed for the housing renewal. The private investments would help finance construction of a hotel and renovation of a shopping mall, among other things.

Once the housing is improved, Catlin said, better security must be implemented, involving the residents.

Catlin said when he attended a dinner in the housing project recently, he "didn't know whether I was the main course, or the main guest."

GRADUATE STUDENTS

The "title" of Gradute Dean is being "retired" !

The future of the gradute school and of Gradute Studies is being decided.

Those decisions are being made without voice from the graduate student community

Participation in decisions which so radically change the structure of the graduate school whould include voice from graduate students!

Come to an open meeting of the Gradute Student Senate to discuss the provost's plan to take charge over the graduate school.

MONDAY, DEC. 5TH 7P.M.
904 CAMPUS CENTER

Around New England

Women note unfair firefighters test

NEW HAVEN, Conn. [UPI] — An attorney for a woman who failed the city's firefighter's test said Sunday she was considering filing a self discrimination suit because the physical exam is unfair to females.

Phyllis Gelman of the Connecticut Women's Educational Legal Fund declined to identify her client other than to say she was one of the 13 women who this fall failed the qualifying exam. No women passed.

"I think that what they are doing is they are using a test that discriminates against women. There is no evidence to show the test they are using actually predicts they will select good firefighters," Ms. Gelman said.

The women were among 465 persons who took the written part of the exam. Five of them failed the written test, with the rest qualifying for the physical exam. Of the eight women who qualified, only five showed up for the physical test and all failed. A total of 108 men passed both the physical and written tests.

The six-part physical agility test was prepared by two University of Connecticut faculty members. Ms. Gelman claimed some parts of the test were discriminatory, while others were not.

John E. Billing, who helped draw up the exam, said "probably the average female is not physically capable of doing the work of a firefighter."

But Paul P. Bujalski, president of the city's Civil Service Board, said there is a place for women firefighters.

"It requires a certain amount of strength. There are women capable of doing it," he said.

Ms. Gelman said her client would "be making her decision very quickly" on whether to file the sex discrimination suit.

Health professionals computerized profiles

BOSTON [AP] — Physicians, dentists, veterinarians and other health professionals wondering where to set up practice in New England will get some help from a Tufts University information bureau.

Tufts, with a $600,000 five-year grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, plans to put the Health Professions Information Bureau into operation next spring.

Detailed profiles of every community in New England will be stored in a computer. Each profile will include information in 80 categories, including weather, voter registration and distances from higher educational institutions.

Also stored, and updated, will be a list of job openings and communities lacking in and having an abundance of health professionals.

No aircraft strike

SOUTHINGTON, Conn. [AP] — Union members voted overwhelmingly Sunday against carrying out a threatened strike at the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Group plant here, the town's largest employer.

At a mass meeting at the Southington Armory Sunday afternoon the vote was 1,495 to 77 against waging a walkout. The union action reversed an earlier election in favor of a strike.

Photo identification for unemployed

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Applicants for jobless benefits beginning today will be photographed by state officials as part of a program to cut down fraud.

In adopting the system, Connecticut joins neighboring Rhode Island in using photo identification cards to keep track of unemployment check recipients.

The laminated photo identification cards "will serve as a major deterrent to fraud," said Labor Commissioner Frank Santaguida.

It will "all but eliminate imposters" from filing claims "or attempt to pick up another person's benefit check," Santaguida said.

"Essentially this is a fraud deterrent, but it also will help in cashing checks," according to department spokesman Richard Ficks.

Ficks said persons receiving unemployment compensation at all 19 state offices will be photographed and the color picture put on an identification card with other data including the amount the recipient is entitled to.

"The person who has earnings may hesitate making a claim if he knows he is going to have his picture taken," Ficks said.

Phone rate may rise

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Connecticut's residential telephone customers with basic service will pay an extra $.70 - $.95 per month if a tentative decision by the Public Utilities Control Authority is finalized.

The PUCA Saturday gave tentative approval to a $34.7 million rate increase, $20.6 million less than the firm requested last summer.

The regulatory panel also tentatively:

—Declined to increase the cost of a pay telephone call from $.10 to $.20 cents as SNET requested;

—Endorsed reduced rates for deaf persons using regular telephone lines to communicate via teletype.

Health system fails women

PORTLAND, Maine [UPI] — Barbara Silk, a counselor with the Women's Counseling Service in Bath, said this weekend the health care system in the United States generally has failed women.

"Women have a responsibility of healing themselves," she said. Women "have accepted what they were supposed to accept" in health care and "part of that included undermining their own strength — that is, saying, 'You're the doctor, heal me'."

Ms. Silk was among 50 women who gathered Saturday on the Portland campus of the University of Maine for workshops on health care sponsored by the University Women's Forum. They discussed nutrition, cancer, birth control and ways to maintain mental and physical well-being.

The participants were not discouraged to seek medical attention for problems, but they said they were encouraged to look within themselves, through self-awareness techniques, and to other women for help in maintaining physical and mental health.

Student Brenda Kelleher said, "I don't think anyone is encouraging women to ignore problems they don't seem to be able to get results with. Rather, we're trying to develop a consciousness toward each other that could take us out of the victim-patient role."

Lisa Davidson, counselor with Southern Coastal Family Planning, said physicians traditionally treated bodies rather than whole persons.

"Men are victims of the American medical system as well, but women have the double problem of having men treat them," she said.

Nicola Sacco case secret files found

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. [AP] — Researchers of the Sacco-Vanzetti case are turning their attention to Harvard University, where a carton of papers kept secret for 50 years is to be opened this week.

The files are those of late Harvard President A. Lawrence Lowell, who headed a state panel that reviewed the murder trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti in 1927.

The committee reported to Gov. Alvan T. Fuller a guilty verdict against the pair should be upheld, and less than one month later Fuller permitted their execution.

Sacco and Vanzetti were accused of killing a paymaster and guard during a robbery of a Braintree shoe factory. Many have claimed the pair failed to receive a fair trial because of their Italian background and anarchist beliefs.

Among those subscribing to that view is Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, who issued a controversial proclamation earlier this year deploring the case.

Notices

LOST

— In the southwest area on Nov. 21, a gold necklace with three blue agate hearts. It is of great personal value to me. Reward. Call 546-9172.

— return my silver watch, left in the CC concourse ladies room on Wednesday evening to the CC Assistance desk. I do need it and would appreciate its return.

AASA

Meeting tonight CC 902 8 p.m.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Important meeting tonight C.C. 911-915 at 7:30 p.m. Will be voting on pledges and policies. Pledges meet at 6:30 p.m. in the office. Officers meet at 7 p.m. in 911-915. Initiation will be Friday, C.C. 911.

BETA CHI

No more meetings this semester. Christmas party at Al Mahoney's on Saturday, Dec. 17.

CRAFTS PEOPLE

Attention crafts people, there is still time to reserve tables at the Winter Holiday Festival, Dec. 11, noon to 6. Sponsored by Fine Arts Council, O.H.C. Call 546-4565.

CENTRAL ON RADIO STATION?

Interested in forming a central-on Radio Station? Come to an organizational meeting today in C.C. 177 at 2 p.m. All central and on residents urged to attend.

DVP

Outside proposal meeting, tonight C.C. 168-170 at 6:30.

WORK WITH CHILDREN IN JANUARY FOR CREDIT

Earn 3 credits for working as staff member in Marks Meadow After School Day Care Program for four weeks in January. Chance to lead activities for children, age 5-11. For more info call Sylvia Lindsay, 665-3990.

GAMMA GAMMA SIGMA

Mandatory meeting tonight at 6:45 p.m., C.C. 901. Elections to be held. V.A. dance after meeting.

LSR SOCIETY

Meeting tonight, at 7 in C.C. for new and old officers.

OH-C MEN'S CENTER

Planning meeting for next semester, tonight at 7:30 in Grayson 112. For more info call 5-0672.

OUTING CLUB

Meeting tonight at C.C. 163-164. Rock climbing movie will be shown. Last meeting of the semester.

VOLLEYBALL

Club practice, today at 6:30 in NOPE gym. Bring I.D. and $2 dues.

NATIONAL STUDENT EXCHANGE PROGRAM

There will be meetings on Tuesdays, 9 to 10 a.m. in C.C. 903. For anyone interested in applying to the National Student Exchange Program.

Women in journalism is speech topic tomorrow

"Women in Journalism: The Realities of Opportunity" will be Boston Globe reporter Nina McCain's topic tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Campus Center 805.

McCain is a Sunday feature writer for The Globe, and has also written editorials. She has been a reporter on the academic beat and, before that, the paper's education editor.

Her speech, to be followed by a question period, is sponsored by the Massachusetts Daily Collegian and the Journalistic Studies Department at UMass.

Stockbridge Calendar

Today: Senior class meeting, 7 p.m. Stockbridge 114.

Professional Development Day, 8 p.m. Stockbridge 114, remember suppliers' names and addresses.

Dec. 7: High School Counselling meeting, 6:30 p.m., Stockbridge 114.

Dec. 9: Retail Floriculture Design, 3:30 - 5 p.m., Fren 105.

Daily Toys for Tots, Stockbridge Hall, sponsored by ATG.

Freshman Class TV Raffle, three tickets for $1. Drawing Dec. 19.

Holly Jolly tickets on sale in the senate office.

People interested in forming an ice hockey club sign up in the senate office, 432 SUB.

Everywoman's Center has intern openings

Everywoman's Center is accepting applications for interns to work as front desk staffers and in the resource and referral program of Everywoman's Center. The interns will be staffing the drop-in center there, providing information to women on health care, legal situations, education, counseling, the center's services and other services for women in the area. The intern will also maintain the resource and referral files.

The interns will be trained by the center staff and should be able to volunteer five to 18 hours per week. Credit and sponsorships can be arranged through the center. Interested applicants should contact Cheryl Schaffer at Everywoman's Center, 506 Goodell Hall, 545-0913.

Groucho on Groucho.

Who else could do him justice?

The one and only Groucho has brought you 86 years of his fondest memories—in hundreds of photos and drawings. In posters and playbills. In his zaniest writings and routines. And in hilarious scenes with Chico, Harpo and Zeppo.

For Groucho, this was a personal collection. For Groucho lovers, it's a collector's item.

Now in paperback from POCKET BOOKS

79002/$7.95

STOREWIDE STOCK-UP VALUES!

Finast Holiday Gift Certificate
A Finast Gift Certificate is an ideal gift. Finast offers Gift Certificates for special amounts: $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00 good toward food purchases at Finast. Ask store manager for details.

Finast

MEAT STREET, U.S.A.

Brookside Fresh Whole Chickens
Split or Cut-up 45¢ lb
39¢ lb.
Family Pack Chicken Fresh Legs 69¢ lb
Family Pack Fresh Chicken Thighs 79¢ lb
Family Pack Fresh Chicken Breasts or Drumsticks 89¢ lb

Perdue Fresh Whole Chickens
Split or Cut-up 55¢ lb
49¢ lb.
Perdue Chicken Fresh Legs 79¢ lb.
Fresh Perdue Chicken Breasts 99¢ lb.
Boneless Chicken Breasts $1.89 lb.

Beef Loin Full Cut Sirloin Steak
USDA CHOICE
$1.79 lb.
Porterhouse Tail-less T-Bone Beef Steak $2.49 lb
Boneless Underblade Chuck Steak $1.29 lb
Boneless Stew Beef $1.29 lb

Arm Picnic Fresh Pork Shoulders
Tender & Flavorful
69¢ lb.
Assorted Center, Sirloin, Blade Pork Chops $1.19 lb
Fresh Boston Butt Pork Butts 99¢ lb
Country Style Rib End Pork Ribs $1.19 lb

Mott's Apple Sauce
A Dessert Favorite 35 oz. jar 69¢

Campbell's Tomato Soup
5 10¾ oz. cans 89¢

FRESH PRODUCE
FIRST O' THE FRESH
Florida Tangerines 18 176 size for $1
California Broccoli Large bunch 59¢ bu
Red Delicious Apples 3 lb. bag 79¢ bag
Family Pack Tomatoes 1½ lb. pkg. 69¢ pkg
Long Green Cucumbers 7 for $1

MR. DELI
Cooked Roast Beef
Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specifications $2.09 lb.
Domestic Cooked Ham ½ lb 1.19
Imported Swiss Cheese lb 2.19
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.
IN-STORE BAKE SHOP!
Fresh Baked Hard Rolls 6 for 59¢
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain, Sugar, Cinnamon doz 79¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

GROCERY
Borden's Cremora 22 oz jar $1.19
S & W Peas or Whole Kernel or Cream Style Corn 3 16 oz cans 89¢
Tomato Sauce Hunt's 6 8 oz cans 1.00
Hot Cocoa Mix Finast 21 oz jar 1.39
Fruit Cocktail Del Monte 2 17 oz cans 1.00
Chicken of the Sea Solid White Tuna in Oil or in Water 7 oz can 79¢
Finast Saltines 1 lb pkg 47¢
Spaghetti or Elbow Macaroni Richmond 2 2 lb pkgs 1.00
Finast Ketchup 3 14 oz bots 1.00
Hendries Yogurt Bars pkg of 6 Stix pkg of 12 99¢

GROCERY
Norelco Soft Wht. 60-75-100 Wt. Light Bulbs $1.19 pkg 4 bulbs
Corned Beef Hash Mary Kitchen 15 oz can 59¢
Green Giant Green Beans Kit, Sl. or French 3 16 oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Peaches Sliced or Halves 3 15 oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Pear Halves 3 15 oz cans 1.00
Sugar Valley Peas Sweet 5 16 oz cans $1
Finast Instant Rice 2 14 oz pkgs 1.00
Stove Top Stuffing Chicken Twin Pak 12 oz pkg 1.29
Italian Dressing Finast 3 8 oz bots 1.00
Sunshine Cheez-It Crackers 16 oz pkg 65¢

DAIRY VALUES
Cheese Food
Kraft Slices American White or Colored 16 oz. pkg. $1.19
Soft Margarine Finast 2 1 lb pkgs 1.00
Finast Sour Cream 3 8 oz conts 1.00
Ballard Biscuits 6 8 oz pkgs 1.00
SIERRA STONEWARE
Promotion ends Saturday December 10, 1977. Please complete your sets by Saturday, December 24, 1977.
This week's feature Item:
Dessert Dish 49¢ each
With every $5.00 purchase

FROZEN FOODS
Orange Juice
Bright & Early Synthetic 5 6 oz. cans $1
Finast Spinach Chopped or Leaf 5 10 oz pkgs 1.00
Frozen Yogurt Hood's Firm & Frosty pkg of 4 59¢
Coronet Ice Cream Hoods half gal 1.59
Beer and Wine Shoppe!
Miller High Life Beer case of 24 12 oz cans $5.99 case only
Paul Masson Crackling Rose and Chablis 25 oz bot 3.49
Folonari Wines 67 oz bot 3.69
Beer & Wine Available Only in Finast of Hadley

You Save 77¢
Betty Crocker Cake Mixes 3 18½ oz. pkgs. $1 with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast FN H-867

You Save 58¢
Detergent Tide Laundry 49 oz. pkg. 99¢
with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast FN H-868

You Save 47¢
Taste O' Sea Seafood Dinners 3 9 oz. pkgs. $1
with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast FN H-869

You Save 44¢
Margarine Parkay Quarters 1 lb. pkg. 29¢ with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast FN H-893

Prices effective Sunday, December 4 thru Saturday, December 10, 1977
We reserve the right to limit quantities
Not responsible for typographical errors

from our perspective

Releasing course evaluations

Despite some major inaccuracies and complaints about some of the graphics which appeared in it, the first UMass Course and Teacher Evaluation guide, sponsored by the Undergraduate Student Senate, was a promising indication of things to come. The guide suffered, however, from a serious lack of data from which to evaluate the limited number of courses and professors it listed.

Regardless, it's admirable that students have made the effort to put together any guide at all, since the undertaking might be much more easily accomplished by the university administration. The administration has the funding and resources to do an effective and complete job, but recognizing the increasing activity and success of student-run projects it has even stated that it no longer wishes to fund the course description guide. Knowledge that the administration hopes to dump these responsibilities in the lap of the student government stresses the importance of the CATE people being able to obtain reliable information on courses and instructors.

While the students who will be putting out future guides can solicit their own data (which they did through the Collegian survey last semester), response to such surveys is often poor and incomplete. A preferable method, when possible, is to examine departmentally administered evaluations, which are filled out for most courses.

Such evaluations are presently considered private information about individual professors, and the senate must therefore obtain each instructor's permission to release the forms in order to make the information public. At its last meeting, the Undergrad Student Senate voted to urge faculty to release their evaluations for next years CATE guide.

We would like to echo that advice and further suggest that all students make similar requests of their instructors.

If the evaluation of courses and teachers is going to be left up to students, we might as well get together on it and make sure the results are something we can all benefit from and be proud of.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

A survey on advertising

The question of what the Collegian's policy regarding what many have called sexist advertisements should be has been a controversial one for the past two semesters. Consequently, we feel that a "dialogue" should be established between the paper and the university community it is supposed to serve in order to get some feedback on the issue. The survey below is part of our effort to do just that.

Last spring the Collegian received a series of Schlitz beer ads featuring the "Dean of Beers." A vast majority of staff members found the advertising to be oppressive in its use of a woman's body to sell a product. It was felt — and still is — that such advertising serves to reinforce sexist stereotypes while in turn appealing to those sexist attitudes. An advertising review board was established to deny the printing of ads it deemed particularly sexist or racist. That committee remained in effect until the end of the semester.

This semester more sexist advertisement arrived, three of which are shown in reduced form on the survey below. A dispute ensued over whether pulling such ads constitutes illegitimate censorship and a denial of the "reader's right to decide."

At a staff meeting early in November, at 17-11 vote of sentiment rejected one particular Schlitz ad, and a unanimous vote recommended that the Collegian Board of Editors establish a review committee for ads. Ultimately, the board decided to review questionable ads itself for the remainder of this semester.

The survey below is obviously limited in scope, and it is primarily designed to provide us with more response on the issue for future policy decisions (a new Board of Editors takes over next semester). We hope also to forward what feedback we receive to the companies involved in sending the ads.

We urge you to take a few moments to fill out the form and return it to the designated box at the Collegian office, downstairs in the Campus Center. If you have any questions, please call the Collegian office, 545-3500.

All unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Collegian Board of Editors.

Survey on controversial advertising

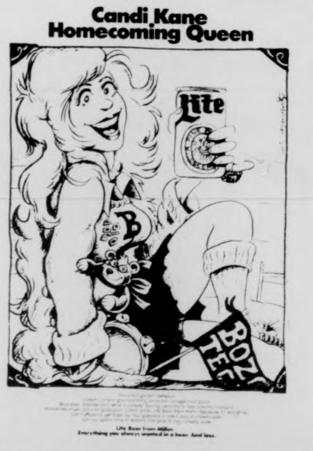
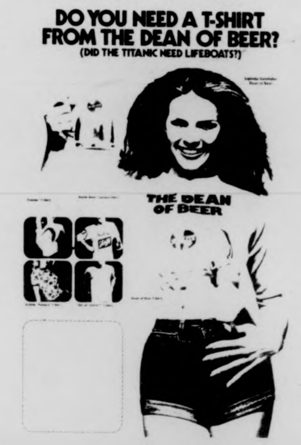
1



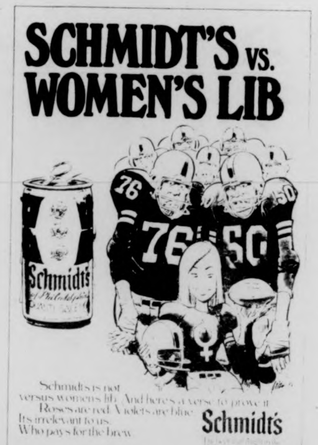
Candi Kane Homecoming Queen
Lite
BOZO TECH
Lite Beer from Miller
Everything you always wanted in a beer. And less.

2



DO YOU NEED A T-SHIRT FROM THE DEAN OF BEER?
(DID THE TITANIC NEED LIFEBOATS?)
THE DEAN OF BEER

3



SCHMIDT'S VS. WOMEN'S LIB
Schmidt's
76
50
Schmidt's is not versus women's lib. And here's a verse to prove it:
Roses are red. Violets are blue.
Its irrelevant to us.
Who pays for the brew.
Schmidt's

This is a short survey to obtain some feedback on controversial advertisements. All three of the above ads were full page display ads. Ads 1 and 3 appeared in the Collegian this semester, while ad 2 was not printed. Please complete the following questions and return this form to the Collegian office, downstairs in the Campus Center.

1. Which (if any) of the above ads would you describe as "sexist"? (circle choices)

1 2 3

2. If you feel that the advertisements are sexist, should they be run in the paper, or not be printed?

Should run Should not run

Further comments:

AUTH
©1977 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP

The punk temptation

lisa melilli

> The art
> would not come right. That smear,
> That yellow in the gray corner—
> That was not right, he had not reached
> The right, the careless flailed-out bleakness.
> [Gwendolyn Brooks, A CATCH OF SHY FISH]

Politics and art are sometimes related and sometimes not and it is only the true artist who can successfully relate the two. Art is the product of an individual within a society and so the artist, in some respect, will represent or give an image of that society in his-her work. Some artists choose their art to carry a political message either in telling the reality of a political situation or calling for political change. However, art cannot serve just political means, nor can its content be just political, else art turns the propaganda. Art to be art must provide some aesthetic experience. And obviously, punk rockers are not true artists able to successfully relate art and politics.

Punk Rock, the newest "rock genre" which began in England about a year ago and has recently spread its sphere of influence overseas to the U.S., is a political vehicle for the message of destruction — destruction to the capitalist system, according to U.S. media sources. Punk Rock began as a form of music devised to not follow the elitism of music and the music industry today in the capitalist system. Its musicians are called anarchists and "the proleteriat." Additionally, the destructive elements of the music — pins in cheeks, noses, torn up clothes, thrashing on your partner, chains — are directed at the capitalist system.

Now, I will not agree with the forms of destruction within the music or even the theory of destruction surrounding it — however, the political message of punk rock is valid. Ironically, however, most punkers are not attracted to the music for its political message, but perhaps the newness of it, out of curiosity which is the product of punk's extensive coverage in the media and of the crowd sensation of punk concerts. Punk is a gimic and gimic followers find the same rewards from punk as from any other gimic.

And punk, considering its politics, is propaganda. It is politics without offering any aesthetic experience for its listeners. Instrumentally, punk is an extension of early rock — made worse. Punk music lacks ingenuity and any imporovisational worth. Its musicians need not be skilled considering the simplicity of the music. As one Scottish writer once wrote: "Music is well said to be the speech of angels," meaning it should provide some heavenly expression, not necessarily a glorifying expression, but an expression from which one can transcend. With punk, one can only transcend into jumping up or down or beating of hands and bodies. It is only the sound of its fans clapping, stamping away. It is only the gimic, the excitement of a punk rock concert which can move an audience. Punk is not art.

And the lyrics of punk rock are also foolish. They do not carry any earth-shattering or even worthwhile statements for the punk listener to hear. Punk has borrowed from the simplest of rock lyrics such as "Do you want to dance?" And even its original lyrics lack any depth: "Gama Gama heh," for instance.

The only valid aspect about punk is its politics, certainly not its destructive elements, certainly not its music or lyrics. The only interesting thing about punk is the excitement surrounding the musical concerts which was perpetuated by the media. But aside from this... clearly, punk is not art and clearly, punk won't be around for long.

Lisa Melilli's column appears every Monday in the Collegian.

Bagels, cream cheese and Syrian bread

paul yanowitch

"And now, the news."

"Today's top story concerns the historic meeting between the leaders of the opposing factions in the Middle East. For a special exclusive, we take you now to correspondent Paul Yanowitch on location in the Student Union Building in the middle east of campus."

"Thank you John; I am standing here in the Student Union, right in the middle eastern section of the campus, where privation has become a way of life, and where war threatens to break out any day. I am actually standing on the 4th floor of the building, in the midst of the most holy places in the Middle East, as worshipped by both religious factions. It is control over the key religious landmark that determines control over the Middle East; and yet it is no more than a series of offices and the Wailing Wall Chambers, the scene of many disastrous and bloody battles.

But, while the past has seen diplomatic and military battles, constant attention to war, and perpetual enmity, the future looks brighter due to a major breakthrough being achieved. Today, the leader of the Unionist country of Egypt, Anwar el-Tarpinian, met with the leader of the opposing country, the non-unionist president, Menahem Hite.

The site was awe-inspiring; the large Belchertown bus came rumbling up into the Savini-Gurion bus stop, escorted by non-unionist made Kfir Toyotas. Then, rumbling to a halt, the massive bus disgorged its select crew. First came the newsmen: John Chancellor, Walter Cronkite, Mary Brown and Joe Quinlan. Then the security men swarmed out in unprecedented numbers, scrutinizing every person, taking no chances with an historic event closely watched by the entire world.

The sole disturbance came when a crazed Umie came screeching from the crowd waving a loaded payroll record; he stopped, aimed it at Menahem Hite and fired. Fortunately for the world, the payroll records were but duds, and the hapless assassin came crashing to the ground under the the concerted attack of the security police at the bus stop, led by Chief of Security, Col. David ben-Lustky. As the would-be assassin was led away by police he was heard to yell; 'Hite is a lackey — he is on administrative payroll. Save the world — up with the Union! Our research teams tell us that Hite did receive monies from the administration, one of the superpowers, but did so on the condition that he move bed frames for a summer; this is a normal loan from the superpower to underdeveloped and poor countries.

The assassin, Michael Pill, is recovering in a maximum security hospital, and is reported to have suffered a logical breakdown two weeks ago.

Aside from this tragic event, the meeting went smoothly. Tarpinian disembarked from the bus to be greeted by ex-Premier Golda Batiste and Foreign Minister Moyshe Cronin. The cautious and perfunctory pecks on the cheeks that followed may not seem a big deal to you and me, but when two persons, erstwhile enemies, can kiss in peace, it signals a new era in world diplomacy. From there, Anwar el-Tarpinian went to the Student Kneset and met with SGA Prime Minister Menaham Hite. They will deliver their speeches tonight, at the weekly meeting of the Kneset.

Not everyone is happy with this meeting though; the unionists are a badly split people. They have survived through the years by presenting a unified stance to the world. But the divisions within their countries are real, and they run deep. So today it was announced, to no ones great surprise, that a conference is being held in the Hatch tomorrow to demonstrate the lack of support for Tarpinian's move and spurn any peace efforts. According to reports received late today, this anti-peace conference will be attended by the Syrians, Libyans, Algerians and the PLO. All four factions are known for their intrasigence and refusal to recognize the state of the SGA. Syrian leader Hafez al-Bluestein, Col. Muammar el-Evans of Libya, Houari Birmingham of Algeria and Yassar Arafat-DeLima have all publicly denounced Tarpinian as a traitor to the cause, and have insisted that there will be no peace between the two warring countries. Anwar el-Tarpinian has consistently stated that he has not gone to negotiate a separate peace accord, but only to pave the way for the upcoming major conference in the neutral state of Tilson Farms.

The countries' demands are many and varied, and demonstrate the difficult nature of the talks: both factions demand rights to the holy grounds of the 4th floor of the Union; the SGA demands that the Unionists totally withdraw from the Golan-S57-Heights, and withdraw all troops from the Gaza Student Empowerment Strip, while the Unionists have declared their intentions to withdraw only partially, and insist that they be allowed to keep secure and defensible political borders. Resolution 242 of the Faculty Senate calls for total withdrawal, and current reports seem to indicate that Senate President Terrence Waldheim will try and arrange a meeting that includes the two superpowers, the Faculty and the Administration.

But either way, the situation now stands dramatically altered. Perhaps now we can begin to talk sensibly of peace, and perhaps some day both groups will learn to compromise, and the benefactors will be those who are but pawns in the game, yet those who do the fighting and suffer the most — the people of both countries. This is Paul Yanowitch in the Middle East ...

Paul Yanowitch is former Student Attorney General and ambassador to the Student Union. His column appears for the last time next Monday.

LETTER

Seen one, seen 'em all

To the Editor:

Re: "More than an important rebellion" by Peter Kracht

When will the Collegian give us a rest from the useless dross of the Revolutionary Student Brigade [now the Revolutionary Youth Communist Brigade] ? Thursday's piece by Peter Kracht topped all.

I was a bit amazed at the degree of paranoia that the Brigade must suffer. The existence of a "media campaign" to discredit radicals of the 1960s borders on the ridiculous. And just who are the members of this conspiracy? Is it The New York Times? CBS maybe? Time magazine or the Washington Post, perhaps? Why would a bastion of liberal thought like the news media seek to destroy those who were their darlings ten years before?

Secondly, I was struck by the Brigade's illusions of grandeur. Among their "accomplishments" are the facts that they "turned campuses into battlegrounds" and won "affirmative action" programs. I hate to seem ungrateful, but I believe the country would have been better off without their accomplishments.

Then again there was the vague hint that some sort of rebellion was in the offing.

It wouldn't be so bad if the Brigade came up with something new every now and then, but alas it is the same old story once again. The Collegian ought to take it as incumbent upon themselves to tell the Brigade to either come up with ideas rather than propaganda, or peddle their labors to someone else. Like they say, if you've seen one RSB article, you've seen 'em all.

Daniel P. Guidera

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager, Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURE

—"Tristan et Le Graal: L'interpretation des mythes" By Sorbonne Prof. Daniel Poirion. Weise Merriweather Rm, Willits-Hallowell Ctr. Mt. Holyoke, 7:30 p.m.

—Panel Discussion on South Africa with Chris Nteta, Prexcy Nesbit, Agbal Armed, and Jennifer Davis speaking. Hampshire College, M.L.H. 7:30 p.m.

WORKSHOP

A workshop on understanding contraception for men only, at the University Health Services, 302, 7 p.m.

RECITAL

Prof. Nigel Coxe of the Dept. of Music and Dance will give a piano recital including compositions by Hadyn, Schubert, Malcolm Williamson and Liszt at 8 p.m.

—"Effects of Agricultural Development on Kenyan Farmers" by Jerry Lund. CC 902, 7 p.m. Sponsored by Issues in Agriculture.

—"Women on Women," a talk and slide show by Gloria Joseph, School of Social Science, Hampshire College, 4:30 p.m., West Lecture Hall Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

—Rape Task Force presentation, Brett Lobby, 8 p.m.

COLLOQ

—"Social Supports for Parents of Children under 3: The Infant-Toddler Play Group," by Dr. Irene Nystrom, Center for the Family, and Susan Mackey, Director, Infant-Toddler Play Group. Mitchell Lounge, Skinner 4-5:30 p.m. Sponsored by the Home Economics Dept.

FILMS

—"Tell Me Where it Hurts," 7:30 Baker House Basement, free. Sponsored by the Central Area Women's Center.

—"Rachel, Rachel," 7;45, Herter 227. Sponsored by Images of Women in American Film Series.

TOMORROW

—Tokyo Story, acclaimed as Japan's finest film. $1. Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire, 7 and 9:15 p.m.

—"Broken Treaty at Battle Mt." and "The Longest War" at 8 p.m. in Thompson 106, free. Both films, on the struggle of Native Americans today, are part of the Progressive Film Series.

PLAY

—"Antigone," the University Ensemble Theatre Production, Studio Theatre, FAC 8 p.m.

RECITAL

The Vocal Jazz Ensemble and the Jazz Workshop, Section II will give a joint recital at 8 p.m. in Bezanson Recital Hall, free.

LECTURES

—"Effect of Aminoacylation on the Conformation of tRNA," by Russel Potts of the UMass department of biochemistry at 4 p.m. in Graduate Research Tower A 203. Coffee at 3:45 p.m.

—"Comic Books and the World Around Us," by Stan Lee, creator of Spiderman, Dr. Strange, and the Hulk 8 p.m., SUB.

PRESENTATION

"Introduction to Findhorn" and "When Love is What You Are" — slide shows explaining Scotland's Findhorn Community 8:15 Has. 124. Findhorn is a New Age Community in which over 200 people from all over the world demonstrate their belief in God's presence within each person. It attempts to create "a new planetary culture through the transformation of human consciousness". Among the members present will be Gordon Davidson, former editor for The Collegian. Sponsored by the Institute for Wholistic Education.

DAILY

PEACE CORPS-VISTA ON CAMPUS

Peace Corps-Vista recruiters will be in the CC Dec. 6, 7, 8. There are positions for both December and May grads.

An exhibition of student work in design will be on display this week at the Herter Gallery, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The show will include graphic, architectural and interior design, including projects in the adaptive re-use of old buildings, office design, prefabricated housing and trailor design, redesigning of spaces on the University campus, and furniture design.

A holiday wine and cheese party is being sponsored by the Communication Disorders Association on Thursday at 7 p.m. in Arnold House 120. Tickets can be bought from classroom monitors, club officers and in the departmental office, 50 cents, through Wednesday. Communication disorders majors, grad students, and faculty are welcome.

Marvel Comics publisher speaks in SV tomorrow

Stan Lee, publisher of Marvel Comics, will be speaking in the Student Union Ballroom tomorrow at 8 p.m. This program, sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors Porgram, is free.

Lee took a job with Marvel Comics in 1939 at age 17, as copywriter and assistant to the editor. Shortly thereafter, he was promoted to executive editor, a position which — in addition to the post of art director and head writer — he held for almost three decades.

In 1960, Lee innovated the new so-called Marvel Age of Comics, creating such now-legendary characters as Spider-Man, the Hulk, the Fantastic Four, the Silver Surfer, Dr. Strange, and many others. He also brought new life to long abandoned characters such as Captain Marvel, the Human Torch, Captain America, and the Sub-Mariner. Stan's new concepts revolutionized the comic-book industry by introducing a new type of theme — tales of superheroes which were both realistic and relevant.

Lee was appointed publisher of Marvel Comics in 1972, giving him far greater scope and authority in the launching of new publishing and related projects. Since that time, under his direction, Marvel has become the largest, best-selling comic book company in the world.

Stan Lee

Safety rules for the holiday season

The holiday season brings with it gala decorations, lights and trees.

Environmental Health and Safety hopes everyone experiences a relatively fire-safe Christmas season, and follow some basic rules:

—Commonwealth law, enacted in 1976, makes it illegal to use decorations in a public building. Therefore, your paper decorations, live Christmas trees, and plastic designs cannot be utilized in any University building unless, it is fire proofed. Refer to Section VI, under FPR 20 for details.

—Trees: Only artificial trees are allowed in Public University buildings. In dormitories, live trees can be used in lounge rooms only. Artificial trees can be used in any location.

When choosing a tree, make sure it is fresh and firm. Saw off the base an inch or more above the original cut, to help absorb water. Anchor it firmly in an adequate stand, keeping it well watered at all times, and away from heat sources and exit paths. Check water level daily.

Use only approved lighting, no open flame devices allowed. Be sure to turn off lights when the room is unoccupied. Before before leaving for intersession, the tree must be removed from the residence hall.

When choosing an artificial tree, be sure to select one approved by Underwriters Laboratories, Factory Mutual, or another recognized testing laboratory. Metal trees could be a source of electrocution; indirect lighting should be utilized for these trees. And remember, artificial trees can burn. Purchase only those marked as fireproofed or slow burning, and read the directions.

As a safety precaution, know the location of the closet fire extinguishers.

Look Into Your Future
Be an Air Force Missileman

You can prepare yourself to enter this exciting field by enrolling in an Air Force ROTC program. You can select from four-year and two-year programs leading to a commission as an Air Force officer.

Also there are scholarships available, with a $100 monthly allowance, full tuition, books and lab fees paid. After college, you'll have an opportunity for a challenging job and graduate educational degrees.

If you're the type of guy who looks forward to an exciting future, look into Air Force ROTC programs that include preparation as a missile launch officer in the Air Force. Help continue the traditions that have made our country so great. Be an Air Force missileman.

Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC

DELIVERANCE
WED DEC 7
Student Union Ballroom
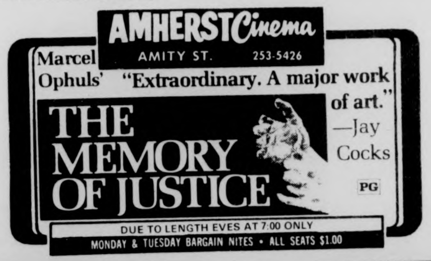
$1
6, 8, 10,
12:00



AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
Marcel Ophuls' "Extraordinary. A major work of art." —Jay Cocks
THE MEMORY OF JUSTICE
PG
DUE TO LENGTH EVES AT 7:00 ONLY
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES • ALL SEATS $1.00

The rusty nail Inn
Coming Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY
and the
ASBURY JUKES
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665·4937

dvp Here is your Last Chance dvp
this semester to hear a
Distinguished Visitors Program speaker.

Don't miss
Stan Lee
Creator of Marvel Comic superheroes such as Spiderman, the Hulk, The Fantastic
Four, Sub-Mariner, and Captain Marvel.

When he speaks on :
Comic Books and the World
Around Us

Tuesday Dec. 6 8:00pm
Student Union Ballroom Free Admission

sponsored by
The Distinguished Visitors Program
415 Student Union 545-0920

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the
Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene
Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music"
People Magazine
Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet
NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE
España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4 584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
1 Why have they come? ROBERT VAUGHN CHRISTOPHER LEE STARSHIP INVASIONS PG Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
2 A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away. STAR WARS PG Today at 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50
3 THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN PG Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
4 The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN R Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

AUDIO
AUTO FOR SALE
CALCULATORS
ENTERTAINMENT
FOR RENT
FOR SALE
FOUND
HELP WANTED
INSTRUCTION
LOST
MISC.
MOTORCYCLES
PERSONALS
PHOTO EQUIP.
RIDE WANTED
RIDERS WANTED
ROOM WANTED
SERVICES
TO SUBLET
TRAVEL
WANTED
WANTED TO RENT

OTHER:__________

$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = ______
X #days:_____ = ______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name:__________
Phone#:__________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run:__________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500, ord. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

65 Dodge Dart 6 cyl $325 Steve 253-3586.

Dodge Polara 1969 excellent mech cond no rust radials good heater 665-3901.

Fantastic buy! 1972 Toyota Mark II runs great steel-belted radials AM/FM must sell $1400 or best offer 584-4759.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1969 Peugot. Good shape, new major parts. Under 500, call 546-4538.

1970 Merc. Cougar. New ex., AM-FM, radial 81K. Call 546-5344.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 TR6 convertible. Some rust. 1 owner. Low mileage. Best offer over $500. Call after 6, 1-567-8663.

68 VW Bus. Needs work. Has rebuilt engine. Best offer. Call Jan after 6PM 253-2037.

70 Volks for parts. First $100. takes it. Call Maryanne at 256-8460 to see it.

1970 Blue Mustang with vinyl roof, air conditioning, AM-FM-CB unit. In good clean condtion with 72,000 miles. Asking $1,300. Call Robert Maron in Cance 546-5102.

71 Datsun 510, Good Cond. Only 50,000 miles, New tires, Asking $1,000., call between 3 and 7 PM. 532-7622.

1973 Jeep CJ5. Roll Bak Michelin radials, 60,000 miles. 549-4048.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda, CB175, excellent condtion. $400. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181.

Used 15 inch tires $2.-$10. Call 256-0195.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Nikko 6065. 2 months old. Asking $350. or best offer 546-5084.

Radials Pirelli 145SR13 Steve 253-3586.

XMAS SHOPPERS! Low, low prices on famous name sneakers. Limited supply 6-9611.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Univox 50 Watt Amp. Ex. cond., reverb etc. Best offer 6-7985 after 7p.m.

Ladies Caber Dwnhll. Ski Boots. Size 8, ex. cond. Joan 256-0368 nights $20.

Pr snow tires 13" new cond $50 549-6482.

Sofabed, Reclining chair, bikerack, tables, bookshelf, lamps, coffeetable 549-5725.

The Madeleine in Amherst. 40's dresses, fur coats-blazer jackets-lacy blouses-old scarfs-silky nighthings-old books-79 S. Pleasant St. (253-3484) Daily 11AM-5PM.

One HP-67 card programmable calculator, brand new and complete. Full warranty $315.00 call Bob or Chris 549-1316.

1970 Mobile Home in Belch Park. 12X50, includes AC, shed, stove, refridge. 6000 firm. Call 536-3086 or 532-0446 if no ans. Within 2 miles of UMass bus stop.

Receiver-Rotel-100 watts $250, speaker-Bose 901 $400., Down bag $60. 549-6023.

Diamond Wedding Ring trio - yel. gold - paid $500. used 6 mos. Will sacrifice for $250. Call 549-5440.

Must Sell by Jan. Wurlitzer Elec. Piano w/sustain & tremelo. List $700., asking $325. or Best Offer. Call Jeff 549-3601.

Two new new Snowtires H78-14 253-9792.

Ski Boots! 2 pr. ladies 7. Pr. Nortalias, Pr. Kastingers. Call now - Debbie 6-9643.

FOR RENT

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Lrg. Rm. Avail. Now in Amh. house 549-5093.

3 Bedroom Apt., fair condition, for Dec. 1st, in Northampton. Only $165. Call Skibiski Real Estate 584-3428, 4-6P.M.

2 Bedroom Apt. utls. inc. $230. mo. avail Jan.1 on bus rt. Call 253-5706 aft. 4P.M.

1 neat respon per wtd for own rm in 2 bdrm apt, pr bath, for spr sem. Rent $125 util incl. ½mile frm UM. Eric 549-0582.

Apt. mate 253-7056; spring. Janet.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men non-smokers $55/mo. & utilities – Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

Apt. mate intersession; 253-7056; Janet.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call 665-3536.

One-half of a 2bdrm apt available Dec 22-Jan 28 1 mi from campus pay own elec & phone call Ginny at 549-1764.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

3 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1 Bdrm. eff apt. Cliffside, Sunderland. Jan 78-Aug 78 $155./mon., util. incl. Apt. can be seen any week day between 5-8P.M. Apt.#222.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

Large room in furnished 3 bdrom. apt. $75.00 complete! Includes cable. Available immed. 253-2980. Kp. trying.

Sublet Jan only b/o. Call 546-4027, 5500.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

WANTED

Room: on L. Metacomet Blchtwn—70 plus—Carol at 323-5043.

2 females to shr. bdrm. for next sem. in spacious N. Amh. house 60/mo. ea. 549-5993.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

Waitress wanted ME Bar LOUNGE 584-7200.

TWO POSITIONS AVAILABLE at Student Legal Services in Spring. Apply before Dec. 8th in Rm. 922 CC. Paralegal Intern: Full-time, 15 credits through Outreach or Academic Dept. Experience helpful but not necessary. Receptionist/Typist: 15-20hrs./wk. work/study position. Experience helpful. We are an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Exp. women printer to share skills w/ women's print collective. Call Angela 9-5 586-5079 or Jaque 268-3344.

The Student Organizing Project is accepting applications for student organizers. Both work-study and non work-study positions are open and will begin Feb. 1. Applicants should have an understanding of student unionization. Application deadline is Dec. 8. Apply Rm. 426 Student Union Bld.

DON'T PASS THIS UP!

For Sale 1964 Olds F-85. Very good cond. Must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great. Call 6-9642 SOON.

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models. low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

BERKSHIRE FORUM WEEKEND VACATIONS: Expertly led discussions, stimuating companions, fine food, mountains. Dec. 9-11, "Arab-Israeli Conflict." Dec. 16-18, "Harry Magdoff on Eurocommunism." Dec. 23-26, "Holiday Film Festival." Write/call Berkshire Forum, Stephentown, N.Y. 12168; (518) 733-5497.

Daytona Beach is only $147.20 away. You can now afford to go to a beachfront hotel, have Disneyworld and New Years in Florida. For more info or reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

Typing - $.40/page. Call anytime 549-6655.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

AUDIO

FM Tuner, Dynatuner-FM-3, $60. Int.Amplifier, McIntosh MA 230, $185. Cass. deck & tapes, Advent 201, $200. No reasonable offer refused, Equipt. in excel. condition. Call Ken 546-4035.

Sony 6300 Stereo Tape deck, like new. $275. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

RIDERS WANTED

Denver Colorado mid-December 665-3938.

Ride needed for 2 to Colorado anytime after finals. Call DGray 549-3740.

PERSONALS

To the Kleptos of 202 Field and their accomplices - Excellent, but don't turn your back!

To Donna who gave me a ride to Providence on Wed.--Now let me give you a ride!! Call Fred 6-4462. I'm serious.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis for Finals. Make retention & recall easier, improve concentration & relaxation for exams, get better grades. Campus Center M.W.Th. at 7,8,&9P.M. $5./session. Dorm groups by arrgt. Call Mr. Morse Hypnotist Consultant M.Ed. 532-5703.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Collegian Board of Editors

Elections

Candidates Night: Monday, Dec. 5
7:00 p.m.
Room 101 C.C.

Ballot Voting: Tuesday, Dec. 6
9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.
Collegian office

ALL staff members urged to attend!

★★ The following Collegian staff members are eligible to vote in the elections: ★★

LAYOUT-PRODUCTION
Deborah Walters
Elaine Scannell
Emily Bakerman
Janis Worth
Maureen Carney
Julia Linnell
Elaine Rosenthal
Bill Mills
Mark Leccese
Lisa Melilli
Steve Lafler
Dick Janssen
Rob Ranney
Mark Rollins
Barbara Tetrault
Barbara Metzler
Kathy Koffler
Bob Higgins
Ron Arena

BUSINESS-GRAPHICS
Tony Armelin
Laurie Wood
Steve Lesser
Steve Polansky
Eric Nickerson
David Perlow
Mark Conchieri
Valerie Beecy
Glenn Morin
Linda Vene
Ralph Meissner
Chris Crowell
Elwell Perry
Steve Silverstein
Jeff Gordon
Glenn Johansson
Reade Brower
Jane Souweiene
Chuck Bernard
Debbie Cooperstein
Ann Meissner
Mary McCauliffe
Diane Burak
Michelle Merchant
Frank Santisi
Suanne Jay
Maureen Melody
Pat Cantin
Michael Simons
Alan Brown
Brian Campbell
Carol Hubberstey
Bert Dougan
Karen Libucha
Ellen B. Moss
Maggie Carson
Patti Blanchard
Jerry Drake
Cindy Scott
Nancy McBride
Amy Oberg
Katy Maxson

Wendy Cretella
Cynthia Fayad
Jan Burke
Kathy Dowd
Jeff Stone
Nancy Jane Bailey
Alice Banor
Patricia Boucher
Judy Blake
Michael Doyle
Sherri Federbush
Mary Grandpre
Julie Greene
Mike Hall
Susan Kalman
Ellen Latshaw
Mark Lyon
Peter Mann
Michael Michonski
Liz Nelson
Cynthia Webb
Margaret Weisslity
Cheryl Avers
Ronald Bilotas
Jamie Bradley
Dennis Cahill
Denise Ferrara
Diane Federick
Elisa Hecht
Kevin McCarthy
Charlotte Trenchard
Tara Law
Michael Winn
Elizabeth Ventura
Ann Emanuelli
Claire D'Amour
Eva Perles
Barbara Lamkin
Randy Glenn

NEWS
Joan Arbetter
Andrea Atkins
Fifi Ball
James Barbieri
Fran Basche
Michele Biagioni
Mary Brown
Moira Campbell
Robert Capozzi
Herb Brody
Robert Conant
Brian Condron
Rosemary Conway
Julie Eagle
Janice Finstein
Bernard Davidow
Joan Feeney
Brad Goverman
Jack Gallagher
Debbie Graff
John Gravell
David Gram
Cynthia Harhen

Debra Higgins
Mark Horan
Dan Huse
Patti Jones
Michele Joseph
Seth Jacobson
Amy Kaplan
Laura Kenney
Martha Kimball
Jon Klein
Mathew Kovary
Richard Lenihan
Pamela Lindmark
Ruth McGorty
Jill Metlitz
Niel Moeller
Daniel Montuori
John Moran
Marcia Murphy
Brian Nelson
Dave Olmes
Megan O'Reilly
Karen Parmenter
Ellen Plausky
Joseph Quinlan
Christopher Schmitt
Beth Segers
Michael Simons
Barbara Tetrault
Patti Troped
Debbie Wallace
Mark Wyatt
Gayle Young
Rita Zeidner
Joseph Maglitta
Dottie Clark
Jim Kassner
Cindy Young
Marianne Tenney
Terry Columbus
Patty Kit
Micky Baca
Heidi Berenson
Janet Gregorian

OP-ED
Charles Bagli
John Bergman
Greg Bryant
Peter Cox
Drew Crane
David Crowe
Frank Denton
Tom Devine
Michael Doran
Steve Dubin
Eileen Foley
Daphne Fraser
Bob Goldsmith
Karen Hermann
Kevin Knobloch
Laura Luden
Jay Martus
Stephen Mathieu

Bob Melia
Clifford Monac
Steve Modena
Dinah Olanoff
Jim Paulin
B.J. Roche
Jerry Rogers
Mitch Singer
Wendy Stearns
Paula Strollo
William Sundstrom
Greg Tarpinian
Damon Thomas
Sharon Tracy
Mark Troobnick
Paul Yanowitch

BLACK AFFAIRS
Angela Thomas
Terrell Evans
James Lewis

SPORTS
Judith Van Handle
David Rodman
Gary Adinolfi
Jack Atkinson
Mike Berger
Andy Blume
Walt Cherniak
Ellen Davis
Rich Eckel
Bill Edelstein
Missy Gallagher
John Gever
Jim Gleason
Jeff Glynn
Judy Keefe
Joe Kittredge
Curt Kohlberg
Kirk Mackey
Mark Marchand
Kevin McCaffrey
Mike McHugh
George O'Brien
Leo Peloquin
Ed Powers
Russ Smith
Billy Tarter

PHOTO
Marilyn Mankowsky
Pat Dobbs
Dale Griswold
Andy Bernstein
John Anderson
Dave Rodgers
Ellen Davis
Wayne Davis

Steve Nugent
Athena Boolukus
Chris Bourne
Howard Lahitt
Jeff Stone
Peter Lee
Amira Rahman
Walter Buchwald
Mike DiMuro
Dan Vullemier
Tim Vartanian
Donna Jacobson
Susan Donnelly
Pete Baumann
Janie Portnoy
Greg Smolin
Diane Crawford
Howard Bernstone
Debbie Snyder

WOMEN'S STAFF
Julie Melrose
Candy Carlon
Nancy Callahan
Janet Hoebing
Tisha Keefe
Elaine Osborn
Debbie Edwards

BELOW THE SALT
Ross Nerenberg
Perry Adler
Cheryl Sreiberg
Lisa Wait
Mario Barrios
Lesley Lawrence
Mark Levitan
Leila Bruno
Steve Waldman
Patti Rosenberg
Sharon True
Rick Alvord
Ed Cohen
Debbie Schaefer
Marty Maceda
R. Arps Garrett
Jack Flynn
Alan Silverberg
Habib Mouallem
Gerard Halloren
Rich Pioli
Skip Tenczar
Tom Aversa
John Zeiman
Ken Shain
Tom Anderson
Gary Halzel
Ed McQuaid
Dan Aucoin
Bob Armstrong

If your name does not appear on this list, and you think it should, see your departmental editor.

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

TAKE IT EASY WITH THAT STUFF, MIKE! THIS ISN'T A FIFTIES REVIVAL PARTY!
HEY, WE COULD HOLD OUR BOOZE IN THE SIXTIES, TOO, YOU KNOW!
12-5
DING! DONG!
WELL, WE'LL SOON FIND OUT!
GET THAT FOR ME, WILL YOU, PLEASE, NICHOLE?
PEACE CORPS
ALL POWER TO THE PEOPLE!! DOWN WITH THE FASCIST INSECTS!
WHO IS IT, NICHOLE?
A VOCAL MINORITY!
HA! HA! HA! HA! RIGHT ON, RIGHT ON!
HEY! WATCH THE CHANDELIER WITH YOUR PLACARDS!
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

ROCKY, I'D LIKE YOU TO MEET MY FRIEND CURLY.
. CURLY IS THE MASTER OF SARCASTIC WIT.
SAY SOMETHING SURLY
THAT'S QUITE A LISP YOU HAVE THERE 12-5
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

I DIDN'T STEAL THAT BOX OF GOLD STARS, SNOOPY, BUT I'M GOING TO FIND OUT WHO DID...
NOW, HERE'S MY SECRET PLAN...
I LOVE SECRET PLANS
©1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
YOU'LL WEAR THIS WIG, SEE, AND YOU'LL SIT IN MY SEAT AT SCHOOL
?
12-5
WHILE YOU'RE DOING THAT, I'LL SNEAK AROUND, AND FIND OUT WHO TOOK THE GOLD STARS!
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Hey, Mark, why'd you shave off your fur?
I thought I'd brave the bitter New England winter.
oooooh- what a man!
Ranney 12/5

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

SOMETHING ELSE ALSO TAKES TO THE AIR.
DENNIS NOLIN, HELL-BENT TO REACH THE PORTAL TO RETURN TO EARTH
THIS IS GREAT, IT'S SO FAST I'M GOING TO REACH THE PORTAL IN A FEW MINUTES.
DANGER: AN AIRCRAFT APPROACHING ON AN INTERCEPT COURSE.
THE BATTLE-COMPUTER'S WARNING IS NONE TOO SOON, FOR THE NEXT INSTANT DENNIS IS UNDER ATTACK!
REEEEEEEE
AND ONLY THE SWIFT REACTION OF THE BATTLE-COMPUTER SAVES DENNIS' LIFE.
ROLLINS 12-5

UM by Marty Maceda

UM
UM
DRAWING A BLANK
MACEDA 12-5
JUST LIKE AT THE BANK
WALKING THE PLANK

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD NOTICES THAT SUSIE IS IN A TRANCE!
SUSIE! SNAP OUT OF IT!
HUH?
LAFLER 12/6
OH GERALD! I WAS BRAINWASHED BY DR. BENNY-X!
AND RIGHT NOW HE IS AT MY HOUSE TO KILL DAD!
MEANWHILE...
SAY YOUR PRAYERS BUSDUCK! THIS IS CURTAINS!
NAAAEE!

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

MONDAY, DECEMBER 5 — Born today, you are a just person. You will spend much time, which you could spend making profit for yourself, and go great distance to ensure others their rights. You believe the instinct toward good is present in all people simply by virtue of their being human. You have a great deal of poise and accompanying tact, but you are not averse to taking firm and forceful action when necessary.

You believe yourself capable of planning and carrying out your own destiny. You do not deny that you are limited by your talents and temperament, but you insist that, knowing these aspects, you can set your goals and achieve them. You have made it a point to help others come to the same realizations, for nothing infuriates you more than to witness the plight of those who wait for fate to govern their lives.

You have great strength of mind. You possess determination, but are wary of allowing it to become stubbornness. You are careful not to let an interest in a project substitute for the talents essential to its success. You are just as quick to assess your weaknesses as your strengths. In such a way do you ensure your own success.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6

SAGITTARIUS (Nov.22-Dec.21) — Give a youngster a good, fresh start. You can help lawkeepers considerably.

CAPRICORN (Dec.22-Jan.19) — Create your own pleasure today. A child's ambition plays a large part in your success.

AQUARIUS (Jan.20-Feb.18) — Innocence may be doubted early today. You won't be believed without proof of recent whereabouts.

PISCES (Feb.19-March 20) — Appreciation of another's sensibilities is all you need for the apology that will save a friendship.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — Loyalty may be tested late this evening. Morning panic is overcome; take careful action.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Secrecy may make this day difficult for those interested in your future. Dispel another's fears.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — An increase in desire for immediate success may make you overly quick in making the day's decisions.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — It is within your power, but perhaps not your province, to influence others in the direction you wish.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) — This is a day of sensual delights. All that meets the eye or ear brings great pleasure.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept.22) — Avoid expressing concern to those who wish to help themselves. Leave well enough alone.

LIBRA (Sept.23-Oct.22) — Seek spiritual development. Ask questions about loyalty, justice, and love of those standing in your way.

SCORPIO (Oct.23-Nov.21) — Sorrow in the morning becomes understanding at night. Don't be too quick to lay blame for troubles.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

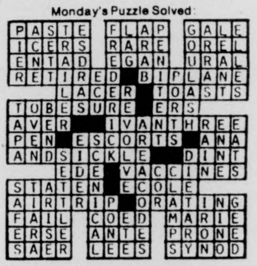
ACROSS
1 B.A. holder
5 Former Japanese coin
9 Had pangs
14 Sitarist ---- Shankar
15 One of courage
16 Crop closely
17 Fancy
18 NaCl
19 Warning device
20 Hilarity
22 QB's targets
24 Any one of two
26 Perceive
27 Geraint's wife
29 To no degree
30 Gardener's tool
33 Accessories
37 N.Y. Giants' big name
38 Greek letter
39 Equal footing
40 Ruins
41 Salver
42 Individually
44 Weight of India
45 Boy's nickname
46 Stringed instrument
47 Perforated balls
49 Singer Ethel ------
53 Differs
57 Climbing vine
58 Regard with esteem
59 French port
61 Molding edge: Var.
62 Dunce
63 King
64 Retail price
65 Afr. antelope
66 Oriental coins
67 Notices

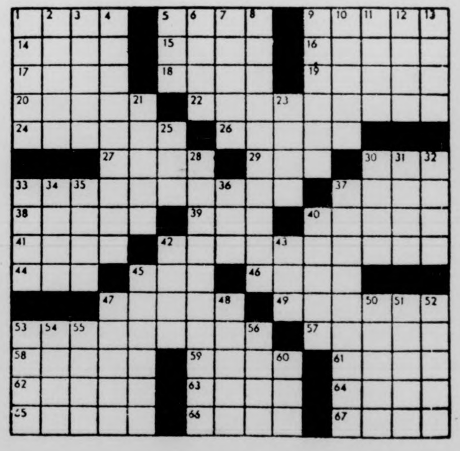
DOWN
1 Soot
2 Spokes
3 Turn away
4 Heat treatment
5 Interjections of surprise
6 Hold up
7 French city
8 Peripheral: 2 words
9 Hockey statistic
10 Seasoning
11 Tortoise's opponent
12 "Well, hardly ----"
13 Scout units
21 Asian shrub
23 Eve's grandson
25 Brink
28 Reliance
30 Blur
31 City on the Oka
32 Soft
33 Reps
34 Defy
35 Persian poet
36 Textile surface
37 Yard goods
40 Honey badger
42 Dry up
43 Strong drink
45 Explanatory caption
47 Nobleman
48 Overwhelm
50 Feminine name
51 Licorice flavored seed
52 Lairs
53 Br. title
54 Adored one
55 Rail bird
56 Field of vision
60 Vetch

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Monday's Puzzle Solved:



PASTE FLAP GALE
ICERS RARE OREL
ENTAD EGAN URAL
RETIRED BIPLANE
LACER TOASTS
TOBESURE ERS
AVER IVANTHREE
PEN ESCORTS ANA
ANDSICKLE DINT
EDE VACCINES
STATEN ECOLE
AIRTRIP ORATING
FAIL COED MARIE
ERSE ANTE PRONE
SAER LEES SYNOD



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67

UMass diver Kris Bullard flies through the air while doing a front dive with a half twist in the diving competition at the women's swim meet at the University of New Hampshire Friday night. Despite some fine efforts, the team lost 47-84. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Swimwomen dunked

By ELLEN DAVIS
Collegian Staff

ORONO — The women's swimming and diving team ended a disappointing road trip here Saturday with a 36-75 loss to the New England champion University of Maine team.

Friday night the team also suffered a tough 47-84 loss to the "Catwomen" of New Hampshire at Durham.

"They were a lot tougher than we expected," said swimming coach John Nunnelly.

The team had some excellent performances, though, especially at UNH. In the opening event, the 200 yard medley relay team of Kathy Jurcik, Deb Schwartz, Celia Walsh, and Jeri Otey knocked three seconds off their best time while finishing first in 1:58.5.

In the 50 yard backstroke, Jurcik swam a personal best time of 29.86 while taking first, and Schwartz took first in the 100 butterfly with a time of 1:04.

UMass was forced to settle for seconds and thirds the rest of the meet though.

The highlight of the meet against Maine also came in the 200 medley relay for UMass. The team of Jurcik, Schwartz, Walsh, and Otey set a new Maine pool record with a winning time of 2:00.563, .03 better than the previous record.

UMass gave Maine a scare as they dominated the next five events, bringing the score to 29-23 before the required diving event. But UMass could only manage a third place in the diving event, so Maine took the lead, 31-30 and it was all over for the Minutewomen.

En route to their victory, Maine also topped UMass by knocking down three records. Julie Woodcock swam to a new school, pool, and New England record in the 50 yard breastroke, coming in first in 32.455. In the 50 backstroke, freshman Beth Carone handed Jurcik of UMass her first loss of the season, as she set a new record for UMaine with a time of 29.874. Another Maine freshman, Linda LaRue turned in a record performance for her team in the 100 yard backstroke as she defeated Jurcik with a time of 1:05. Jurcik followed with another personal best time of 1:06.3, however.

UMass finished the meet with a 1:38.92 victory in the 200 yard freestyle relay by the team of co-captains Rachel Mack and Lise Hembrough, Otey, and Meegan Primavera.

Sports Notice

WOMEN'S INTERCOLLEGIATE SOFTBALL — There will be an organizational meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. at the North Physical Education Building, room 22, for all persons interested in trying out for the Intercollegiate Softball team. If you can not attend the meeting, please contact coach Dianne Thompson at 220 Boyden or call 5-2845.

UNITED
TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired Rebuilt Exchanged

236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

LET'S GO BOWLING

Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30

50 cents a string

Attention all undergraduates who have not fulfilled the rhetoric requirement:

Rhetoric Exemption Exam:

The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be offered on Dec. 8 from 7-10 pm.
A-L in SBA 120
M-Z in Thompson 102

The exam will consist of writing a 500 word essay which will be evaluated on the following criteria: depth of treatment, development and support, organization, style, and the mechanics of writing, such as grammar, punctuation and spelling.

Please bring several pencils, your ID, and 25 cents to partially cover the cost of administering the exam.

You may exempt both Group I and Group II rhetoric by taking and passing this exam.

C.C.E.B.S.
CAREER DAY

Tuesday, December 6, Newman Center Social Hall
Free Admission for all UMass Students from 2:00-5:00 p.m.

Over 30 organizations will participate, including:

| | |
|---|---|
| A.T. & T. | I.B.M. |
| H.E.W. | Westinghouse |
| Raytheon | Digital |
| DuPont | T.V.A. |

All Student Participants are Urged to Bring Copies of Their Resumes with Them

This Event is Sponsored by the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students

The Hideout

MONDAY NIGHT
FOOTBALL DELIVERY
SPECIAL

Buy any two small combo pizzas and get a small plain pizza FREE!

256-0441

Brandeis University
JACOB HIATT
INSTITUTE IN ISRAEL

What does it offer you?
- a semester of study in Israel in the Fall term
- coursework in English on the political, economic and social development of Israel and in its language, history and archaeology
- a strong program of Hebrew language study
- important internship opportunities in social service agencies in Jerusalem
- field trips, study trips, interviews with prominent Israelis, a kibbutz visit
- financial aid is available

Application deadline: March 15

For further information, see your Study Abroad advisor or write:
Office of International Programs
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02154
(617) 647-2422

An equal opportunity/affirmative action university

---

Pucksters drop pair

By MICHAEL MCHUGH
Collegian Staff

The UMass Minutemen six left Amherst Friday afternoon with just one win under its belt in the 1977-78 season, as they ventured north to play Norwich University and Middlebury College over the weekend.

The icemen returned early Sunday morning with that same one win under its belt, as they fell to Norwich (3-2) on Friday night and Middlebury College (6-3) on Saturday afternoon.

The Minutemen have now lost five straight games after an opening game victory over New England College (4-1).

The Minutemen squandered 12 power play opportunities in both games. The icemen had 7 chances against the Cadets and 5 against the Panthers and in both cases came up empty handed. The Minutemen were also outshot in both encounters by a 74-49 margin (Norwich 35 UMass 25 and Middlebury 40 UMass 24).

"It was a bad trip," said UMass coach Jack Canniff.

"The stats will tell the story. In the six games we've played, we've scored 20 goals for a 3.3 average per game. In one game we scored 8 goals — if you throw that game out, you get a clear picture. It means that in 5 games we've scored only 12 goals for a 2.4 average per game, which means that in order to win a hockey game you've got to play almost perfect defense.

"We've got to put the puck in the net and tighten up our defense. A few goals made me cringe," concluded Canniff.

One of the "cringers" came in the form of Norwich's Ken Cull's goal at 15:36 of the third period Friday night that snapped a 2-2 deadlock and gave the Cadets a heart-stopping 3-2 victory at Taylor Arena in Northfield, Vermont.

Cull was at the blue line with his back to the net when he reeled around and slipped a pass into the slot that never touched another stick, but somehow slid in slow motion past an amazed UMass goaltender John Riley.

"It was the nail in the coffin," said Canniff. "We let the game get out of our hands in the first period and got our wheels spinning in the second period, but it was heartbreaking to lose the way it happened (freakish goal)."

The first period was all Norwich, as the Cadets pummeled Riley with 11 shots, and raced out to a 2-0 lead.

Frank Baglione knocked in a rebound past a sprawled out Riley at 8:21 of the first period.

Baglione duplicated this feat six and half minutes later at 14:52 that gave the Cadets a 2-0 edge after one period.

The Minutemen came out flying like the Montreal Canadiens in the second period and cut the Cadet's lead to one. Jamie Benelli scored on a screeching slap shot from the left point that blasted by Norwich's goalie Rich Brooks at 14:40. The Minutemen dominated play for the remainder of the period but were denied by Brooks.

The icemen finally got the puck past Brooks at 8:58 of the third period, tying the game at two apiece. Nick Carney circled the net and laid a nice pass on the stick of Joey Milan, who fired a 30-foot slap shot that beat Brooks on the low right side.

The Friday night loss to Norwich was magnified by the loss of power forward John Peters and lanky Lincoln Flagg. Peters received a severe charlie horse and Flagg a serious knee injury.

The early starting time, the untimely loss of Peters and Flagg, and the tough loss to Norwich, all added up to a 6-3 defeat at the hands of Middlebury on Saturday. The Panthers had too much for the battle weary and shell-shocked Minutemen pucksters.

The Minutemen played the Panthers even in the first period, as both teams traded goals in a fast and furious first period.

Co-captain Bob White, who returned to the lineup after a four game absence due to a knee injury, scored the first goal of the game at 10:10 of the first period. Center Don Murphy, on a line with the White twins, had taken a shot from the slot that was stopped by the Panther's goaltender Bob Lloyd, but Bob White knocked in a rebound for pay dirt.

John Watson wasted little time tying the score, as he slipped the puck by Riley 38 seconds later. Mark Fernberg, Perry Babcock and Al Fitzpatrick added second period goals that were answered by only one UMass goal by Bob White. Alexis Gahagan and Watson added insurance goals for the Panthers in the third period. Benelli countered with the lone UMass score at 17:38 of the final stanza.

UMass defenseman Brian Kittredge (4) and goalie John Riley cover up the puck in recent game action as John Peters (12) moves in to help out on the play. (Photo by Don Sandstrom)

Power, Fitzgerald take surprise 1sts; UConn's track provides winning edge

By KEVIN MCCAFFREY
Collegian Staff

STORRS, Conn. — The UMass indoor track team, victimized by host UConn's superior depth and Seton Hall's spirited display in the sprint competition, dropped its first two decisions of the winter season Saturday.

Reigning Yankee Conference Champ UConn, by virtue of scoring performances in all of the 16 events, was a convincing winner in the triangular contest with 85 points, 40 more than second place Seton Hall. UMass tallied 40 points in a noticeable improvement over last year's 18.

"We ran as well as I thought we would considering the absence of full speed approach work," commented coach Ken O'Brien. "We knew we weren't as strong as UConn in the technique events, and we lacked quality in the dashes, but our freshmen looked good and aggressive races were turned in by our 880, 1000, and distance men."

The Minutemen were shut out in the weight and sprint competitions, but achieved winning efforts in three events.

Frank Carrol, displaying the form that earned him a co-captainship on the Eastern Champion cross country team, strided away from the determined races of two Huskies performers to win the mile by 10 yards in 4:17.6.

Ted Power cleared 14' in the pole-vault to defeat the competition by six inches.

In a surprise finish in the high jump, Bob Fitzgerald notched a victory over YanCon champion Pat Augeri of UConn. Fitzgerald cleared the bar at 6'4" for the winning height. Freshman Minuteman Mark Thompson recorded third place in his first collegiate meet at 6'2".

O'Brien's pre-meet observation of UMass strength in the middle distance races was revealed as half of the top four finishers in the 880, 1000 and two mile races were Minutemen.

Veteran Francis O'Keefe, in familiar tip-toe form, captured second place in the half-mile in 1:57.0. Teammate Dave Lipinski, returning to a maroon and white uniform after several seasons of injuries, followed O'Keefe into the finish line in 1:58.3 and third place.

The picture at the tape of the 1000 yard run involved a tight group of four runners where the fourth place finisher was only separated by 1.6 seconds from the lead. Senior Mark Healy strided across in 2:15.7, good for second, while the persistent drive of freshman Bob Hunt gained fourth place, a shirt-tail behind the first UConn finisher in the closest conclusion of any race on the afternoon.

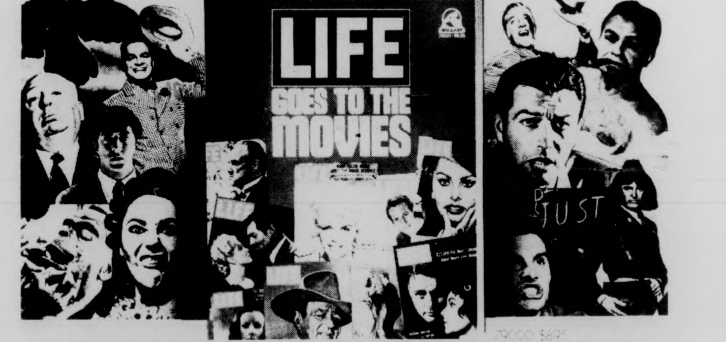
Sophomore harriers Mike Morris and Jay Legere traded third and fourth positions throughout the 17½ laps of the two mile. In the end long striding Morris overcame teammate Legere and recorded third place in 9:15.6. Legere was fourth in 9:17.6.

O'Brien received satisfying results from triple jumpers Keith Alston and Bruce Parsons. Alston, only a freshman, hopped, skipped and jumped his way to 44'9" and third spot. Sophomore Parsons finished fourth with a leap of 44'4".

Although the outcome of the team standings had been decided, the highlight of the afternoon program was the final event, the 4X880 relay. The half-milers from UMass enjoyed a comfortable lead until the final 30 yards where the UConn anchorman burst by the Minutemen's Dave Lipinski and broke the tape first in 8:02.4. The UMass squad was second in 8:02.5.

UConn has won the Yankee Conference the past two years and Coach William Kelleher described this year's squad as "all in all as good a team as we've had."

"We showed signs today of not doing intensity work," said O'Brien.



When Life goes to the movies, you'll see pictures that were never on the screen.

NOW PLAYING AT YOUR LOCAL BOOKSTORE. IN PAPERBACK.
POCKET BOOKS

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Mon. & Tues.,
Dec. 5 & 6
ANDY MAY and the
TEXAS TABBY
CRAB BAND

Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY
and the ASBURY JUKES

Thurs., Dec. 8
JOHNNY and the
LUNCHEONETTES

Fri. & Sat.,
Dec. 9 & 10
NRBQ

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

Haymore dunks Colonials

Defense keys comeback win

By MIKE BERGER
Collegian Staff

WASHINGTON D.C. — Mark this game down as one of the highlights of the '77 season.

Down by 14 points with eight minutes to go in the game, the Minutemen, led by Mike Pyatt and Mark Haymore, exploded for a 29-12 spurt carrying UMass to a 77-73 victory over George Washington before 4,100 frenzied Colonial fans.

Pyatt (19 pts.) and Haymore (18 pts.) heated up in the second half for 13 and 11 points respectively to key the UMass comeback.

A fullcourt press, by the unit of Pyatt, Haymore, Alex Eldridge (5 steals), Derick Claiborne (3 steals) and Eric Williams (2 steals) sparked the UMass defense, holding George Washington to only 7 points in the last five minutes, setting the stage for victory.

Eldridge's two consecutive steals, with the score 61-47, set up Pyatt and Claiborne for 15 foot jumpers to cut the Colonial lead to 10 with eight minutes remaining. Then Eldridge sparked the team again with a move between three defenders resulting in a basket to cut the lead to eight with 6:50 remaining.

A goaltending charge was called on Pyatt giving GW a 10 point lead again and the lead zoomed to 12 points as Colonial forward Les "High Rise" Anderson (leading scorer with 20) came through with a slam dunk with 4:45 remaining on the clock.

But the Colonials were only to score two more points the rest of the night as the UMass defense, basically asleep the whole night, came to life.

Substitute forward Williams (11 pts, 3 rebounds, and 2 steals) got the ball rolling as he stole the ball and fed Haymore for a stuff shot. Williams stole the ball again and drove the length of the court, resulting in a twisting layup, to cut the lead to 71-66 with 3:46 left in the game.

Pyatt and Williams then combined to steal the ball again, with the former feeding Claiborne for a foul line jumper, cutting the lead to three as GW coach Bob Tallent called for an immediate time out.

With 2:11 remaining, Williams fouled Anderson, but the Colonial forward missed his foul shot and Haymore rebounded, fed the ball to Claiborne, who then returned the pass to Haymore for a dunk shot and UMass only trailed by one, 71-70.

Eldridge and Claiborne caused GW guard Tyrone Howze to turn the ball over and Pyatt hit an eight foot bank shot and UMass led for the first time in the game as 50 UMass fans (alumni and students on internship in Washington) exploded in the crowded Smith Center arena..

Tallent called another time-out to calm things down, but it didn't do any good, as the UMass defense held and the offense came back for three more baskets. Haymore displayed awesome inside moves around the basket for two hoops and Claiborne canned a technical foul (on Anderson) shot to ice the victory.

The victory, giving Leaman's squad a 2-0 season record and 1-0 in the Eastern Athletic Association opened the eyes of Leaman for two reasons.

First, transfer from Indiana Mark Haymore (9-10 shooting) proved he is more of a center than a shooting forward.

"We decided," said guard and team captain Derick Claiborne," that we had to get the offense to Mark and let him go to work. He certainly let loose."

"I felt better this game than my first game against Harvard," said Haymore. "I like to work on the inside and around the basket. But I still have a lot of work to do before I feel ready."

Secondly, Len Kohlhaas showed signs of a shooting forward as the 6'9" sophomore shot four for seven for eight points from the foul line area.

"I think," said UMass coach Jack Leaman, "that I might try Haymore at our center position with Lenny going to the power forward.

"Saturday night's victory showed me a lot of things about our team," said Leaman. "First off, when we didn't play well and can still win against a good team, shows me a lot of potential.

"Secondly, our bench continues to impress me. Eric Williams pulled down a lot of key rebounds and stole the ball several times, while guard Tom Witkos, subbing for Eldridge or Claiborne came through with some points, steals, and defensive work.

"It was a team effort when we were playing bad in the first half and a team effort when we played well in the second. It's only a matter of time before we put it all together," Leaman said.

UMass, playing shabby offense, defense, and displaying atrocious rebounding; trailed at halftime 40-32, but things looked worse. At times during the first half, UMass trailed by scores of eight - two, 29-16 and 39-26, before Eldridge (6 halftime points) managed to put a semblance of order in the disorganized Minuteman offense.

Meanwhile, Colonial forwards Anderson (10), Mike Sampson (8) and center Mike Zagardo (6) hit for 24 of 40 Colonial points.

"The difference in the second half," said forward Williams, "was that we gave 120 per cent rather than maybe 75 per cent in intensity.

"We believed we could come back and cause them to make mistakes. We still have a long way to go but I think this game is the turning point for us. We're ready now."

"Either UMass has the best press defense in the nation or else we have the worst guards. UMass didn't win the game. We gave it to them. For 37 minutes we played great, but the rest of the game was a different story," said a very disgruntled GW coach Bob Tallent.

The Minutemen have one day to savor their comeback victory before returning to the hoop wars with Boston University tomorrow and opening up their home schedule at Curry Hicks on Saturday against Vermont.

UMASS: Pyatt 9-1-19, Haymore 9-0-8, Kohlhaas 4-0-8, Eldridge 3-2-8, Claiborne 4-1-9, Witkos 1-0-2, Johnson 1-0-2, Johnson 1-0-2, Williams 3-5-11 (77)

GEORGE WASHINGTON: Anderson 9-2-20, Sampson 4-1-9, Zagardo 8-0-16, Tate 0-0-0, Howze 4-0-8, Glenn 4-1-9, Lindsay 3-5-11 (73)

UMass junior Mark Haymore found himself in this relative position to the basket twice in the late stages of the Minutemen's game with George Washington University, wth the result being a slam dunk in both cases. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Collegian Sports

Hoopwomen take pair; display board strength

By JUDY VAN HANDLE
Collegian Staff

Get a load of this.

The UMass women's basketball team missed 50 shots against New Hampshire Friday night. The final score: UMass 53, UNH 49.

The Minutewomen missed 54 shots against Maine Saturday afternoon. The final verdict: UMass 77, Maine 68.

So it went this weekend for UMass. The Minutewomen shot just 32 percent against New Hampshire and 31 percent against Maine, but managed to up their record to 3-0 for the young season as they defeated both their New England rivals in a road trip.

But despite the dismal shooting percentages, UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski was impressed with her team's performances.

"I was happy with the way all the team played," she said. "We're playing good defense. We got the good shot, but the lid's on the basket. The shots just aren't dropping."

Against New Hampshire, UMass trailed at the half, 25-22, until the Minutewomen "decided to get going," according to Ozdarski, and grabbed the win.

Sue Peters led the way with 15 points, while Cheryl Carey added 10. Cathy Sanborn paced the Wildcats with 25 points.

The factor which decided the game, though, was rebounding. The Minutewomen dominated the boards to the tune of 50-28. Freshman forward Cathy Harrington, who continues to impress, had 15 rebounds, while Peters, a guard, yanked down 14.

In the Maine game, UMass again controlled the boards, 46-38. Harrington pulled down 12 in this one, while Maura Supinski added 11.

"They were bigger than we were, but we boxed out well and were very aggressive," Ozdarski said in explaining her team's ability to outreborned its taller rivals.

In the scoring department, Peters once again led the way with 18, while Sue Henry had 15, Supinski 12, Harrington 11, and Carey 10 in the Minutewomen's balanced attack.

Maine, which trailed, 40-25, at the half, was paced by Barb Cummings' 20 points and Jean White's 14.

UMass made 29 of 38 foul shots in the rough game, in which three Black Bear players fouled out.

Defensively, Ozdarski was pleased with the work of Carey, Supinski, Harrington, and Ginny Peebles.

Concerning the offensive woes, Ozdarski said she really isn't concerned with her team's lack of offensive production.

"Our shooting is just a mental block with everybody now," she said. "We're getting the good shcts. Now we'll just have to concentrate and work on getting them in.

"Once we finally get going offensively, we're going to be really tough," she added.

Cheryl Carey (13) hauls in one of UMass's 50 team rebounds vs. New Hampshire as Maura Supinski (r) and Sue Henry (25) prepare to start the break. Carey also scored 10 points. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

---

U.S. Brief Says Bakke Off Base on Title VI

By Ed Rogers

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The Justice Department says the 1964 Civil Rights Acts ban on racial discrimination in federally assisted programs shields only members of minority groups that have been victims of past discrimination.

In a brief filed with the Supreme Court last Tuesday in the Allan Bakke "reverse discrimination" suit, the department argued that so-called affirmative action programs favoring minorities over whites do not violate this ban.

Bakke, who is white, charged he was twice denied admission to the University of California Medical School at Davis because the school favored less-qualified minority applications.

Bakke said this violated the act's Title VI, which forbids any discrimination on account of race in any federally assisted activities, including medical schools.

- - - - -

The department said the act was passed at a time when "blacks often were denied the benefits of programs supported with federal funds" and "was intended to deal with the discrimination against black persons."

The brief added that Congress, at least by negative implication, approved programs employing goals and timetables — devices often used in affirmative-action programs — for the benefit of minority group members.

"The propriety of affirmative-active action programs has been a matter of considerable congressional debate in the years since Title VI was enacted," the brief said.

Attempts have been made to prohibit or limit such programs and all of these attempts have been unsuccessful."

- - - - -

The medical school's program consisted of reserving 16 of 100 student openings for members of minority groups whose qualifications were not weighed against those of regular applicants for the other 84 openings.

The brief was the second the department has filed with the Supreme Court to defend the legality of taking race into consideration to correct effects of past discrimination by society at large.

It said:

"We argued in our principal brief that the constitution does not bar the medical school from taking race into account in order fairly to compare minority and non-minority applicants.

"We now submit that Title VI does not prohibit the medical school from employing a minority-sensitive program that the constitution would permit."

NUMMO NEWS
BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY
Volume 4, Issue 14
MONDAY, DECEMBER 5, 1977

Gregory, state senator, must stand trial Dec. 21

WASHINGTON — Dick Gregory, his wife, Lillian and a Massachusetts State Senator have pleaded not guilty of illegally picketing the South African Embassy on Thanksgiving Day and have been ordered to stand trial Dec. 21.

The Gregorys and State Sen. William Owens, a Democrate from Boston and the only black member of the state Senate, were freed without bond last week after spending the night in jail. They had refused to post bond of $100 each after their arrest.

Each was charged with two counts of picketing within 500 feet of a foreign embassy, a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of 60 days in jail and a $100 fine on each count.

Following their brief arraignment before Superior Court Judge Eugene Hamilton, Gregory told reporters he had not expected to be arrested because his purpose was not political but to "stop the killing" in South Africa.

Gregory, 45, who was active in the civil rights movement of the 1960s and in protests against the Vietnam war, said, "I think in all fairness certain laws have to be upheld."

But he said the South African Embassy "should be put on notice that it will not be guaranteed certain privileges in this country if they don't immediately start acting in a humane way."

Gregory also seemed surprised at having to face trial in addition to being arrested. He said the South African government dropped charges when he was arresed inside its Washinton embassy in 1976.

—

"I will never understand how the South African Embassy can drop charges against me and the United States government can't," Gregory said.

"I think this government from the president on down can bring pressures from a humane point of view to end all those horrors and atrocities coming out of that country."

Othello Mahone, a staff aide to Owens, said Gregory led about 50 demonstrators in a protest in front of the White House, then regrouped on the Massachusetts Avenue near the embassy.

He said the protestors moved away once on police orders, but Gregory, his wife and Owens marched back. They carried placards which said, "Thou Shalt Not Kill" and listed 16 persons who have died in South African jails since 1976.

Dick Gregory and Senator Bill Owens - photo by Edwin Patterson

BIKO AND SOLIDARITY
BLACK PEOPLE'S CONVENTION
TRIBUTE TO THE LATE
HONORARY PRESIDENT
BANTU STEPHEN BIKO

South African Judge Absolves Security Policy

Slain Leader's Brother and Cousin Seized

By JOHN F. BURNS
N.Y. Times News Service

PRETORIA, South Africa — The Stephen Biko inquest ended yesterday with a verdict that absolved the security police of any responsibility for the young black leader's death.

A few hours before the verdict was handed down, the security police raided a home in the black township of Soweto, outside Johannesburg, and seized Biko's brother, Kaya, and his cousin, Solomon Biko.

Several of Biko's associates in the "black consciousness" movement he founded were also detained in the swoop. As usual, the police issued no statement, but relatives said at least 13 people were taken.

The two events stunned blacks. Although those who attended the inquest during the three weeks of testimony said beforehand that they had not expected a just verdict, the terseness of the finding seemed to shock them.

"Unjust," said Benedicta Ramohange, aged 28, close to tears, as police with attack dogs and a special riot unit with semi-automatic rifles hovered outside the court after the ruling.

The magistrate who conducted the hearing, Marthinus, J. Prins, accepted the version of events put forward by the police. He said that Biko's fatal brain injuries probably resulted from a scuffle that the police claimed was initiated by the black leader.

"The head injury was probably sustained during the morning of Sept. 7, 1977, when the deceased was involved in a scuffle with members of the Security Branch of the South African Police at Port Elizabeth," Prins said.

"The available evidence does not prove that the death was brought on by any act or omission involving or amounting to an offence on the part of any person."

The ruling, read in English and Afrikaans, took less than three minutes to deliver. It made no comment on any of the revelations that emerged from the testimony many of them highly embarassing to the police and the doctors who examined Biko before his death on Sept. 12.

Counsel for the Biko family, citing numerous discrepancies in the police evidence, had asked Prins to dismiss the account of the Sept. 7 incident as a fabrication and to find instead that Biko died of a criminal assault.

In their submission, the family lawyers said an exoneration of the police "will unfortunately be interpreted as a license to abuse helpless people with impunity." Biko was the 28th political detainee to die in 18 months, and the 45th in the last 15 years.

The lawyers, asking Prins to act as a "brake upon the abuse of power," also cited what they described as assaults on Biko's dignity. These included his being kept naked and shackled for long periods during his custody and the fact that he received no medical

Cont. on Page 8

Sadat's Isreal visit boosts lasting world peace — Young

UNITED NATIONS — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's epic trip to Israel "must not wither" says Andrew Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

In a Thanksgiving Day speech before the U.N. General Assembly, Young said if the spirit of Sadat's weekend trip is carried on, "fundamental, serious and unconditional negotiations could begin in the very near future."

He described Sadat's visit to Israel as "a demonstration of a rare vision which has caught the imagination of the world.

"The momentum of the past week" he cautioned, "must not be allowed to slip away," adding that the United Nations "urges all of the parties to maintain the new momentum toward peace."

- - - - -

The ambassador said that as a result of the historic trip, the prospects for a just and durable peace have been significantly advanced, "If all the concerned have the vision and the will to recognize and build upon the psychological transformation it has made possible."

He conceded that procedural problems remain to be solved, but he said, "let us remember the procedural arrangements do not in themselves determine the outcome of negotiations — only the negotiations themselves produce agreements."

- - - - -

Meanwhile, a report from Jerusalem states that Israel has accepted President Sadat's invitation to attend preparatory talks in Cairo for a reconvened Geneva peace conference.

An Israeli government statement, however, ruled as unacceptable to Israel, Egyptial demands for a total withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory and the creation of a Palestinian state.

"The demands of the President of Egypt for the withdrawal by Israel to the lines of June, 1967 and the establishment of a Palestinian state contradict the positions of Israel," the statement said.

The report said Syria has rejected Sadat's invitation to all parties in the Middle East conflict to hold the peace talks in Cairo, describing the proposal as "a cover for further contacts between Egypt and Israel."

Palestinian radicals urged all Arabs to reject any talks with Israel, the report stated.

Brimmer hits Fed's policy: OK's tax cuts

Andrew F. Brimmer, former member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System, has advised that "a sustained, high level of real economic growth is a necessary foundation for the expansion of jobs for the disadvantaged."

Brimmer gave the advice during testimony before a U.S. Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs in Washington earlier this month.

Brimmer also told the committee that the economic outlook for the country for the next year or so is "far from bright and there is an increasing need for "further economic stimulus" through the coming year.

Brimmer criticized the Federal Reserve's money growth targets as "inadequate" and called for a "timely" tax cut next year, as "necessary to assure continued economic expansion."

Noting the differential position of blacks and young people in the labor market, Brimmer told the committee that while blacks constitute 11.6 percent of the civilian labor force and held 10.7 percent of the jobs during October, they accounted for 22.8 percent of total unemployment.

At 13.9 percent, he said, the black unemployment rate was 2.28 times the 6.1 percent recorded for whites.

Teen-agers of all races, said Brimmer, represent 9.5 percent of the labor force and held 8.5 percent of the jobs, but they accounted for 23.4 percent for teenagers as a group and 37.9 percent for blacks alone.

— — —

Brimmer testified that during the 1973-75 recession, "blacks had to bear a disproportionate share of the burden of increased unemployment. Moreover, during the last 2½ years of the recovery, they have gotten a small fraction of the added jobs compared with their relative position in the labor market."

He noted that over the same period, the level of unemployment among blacks "has risen significantly."

From March 1975 through October 1977, he said, the total labor force rose by 6,355,000 and the black component climbed by 1,045,000. Blacks, therefore, accounted for 16.4 percent of the total expansion.

However, jobs held by blacks rose by only 869,000 representing 11.6 percent of the increase in total employment.

As a result, the level of unemployment among blacks rose by 149,000 — compared with a drop of 1,014,000 among whites and 865,000 in the economy as a whole.

— — —

Brimmer forecast that if the overall unemployment rate is about 6.5 percent at the end of next year, the rate for blacks may still be in the neighborhood of 13 percent and that for whites about 5.7 percent. Thus, he stated, the historical black-white ratio of more than two to one would still prevail.

Those date, Brimmer told the committee, illustrate once more "the importance of vigorous economic expansion as an underpinning for increased employment opportunities for those on the margin of society."

Brimmer, who is being supported in some circles to replace Arthur Burns as chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank, said it was evident that the Federal Reserve System is caught in a serious dilemma on its monetary policy.

It is faced with a choice between pressing its commitment to check with it sees as excessive rates of monetary growth, and providing the money and credit needed to enhance the prospects of sustained economic expansion.

"My personal preference" Brimmer said, "would be for the Central Bank to give more weight to the enchancement of economic growth. However, my expectations is that the Federal Reserve will seek a middle path that — nevertheless — will tilt in favor of more — rather than less — monetary retraint through mid-1978."

— — —

Brimmer, who worked in the Federal Reserve System for over eight years, told the committee "the economic outlook for the next year or so is far from bright."

"We will face," in his opinion, "an increasing need for further economic stimulus as we move through the coming year, and the Federal Reserve should be ex-

TURN TO PAGE 5

SEEING BOTH SIDES — U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Andrew Young (R) chats with Israel's Chaim Herzog (Top) and Syria's Mowaffak Allaf at the UN. In a speech, Young hailed Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for his "rare vision" on his visit to Israel. UPI Telephoto

Anti-apartheid group blasts airline

By Myhammoud Mongou

AMSTERDAM — The Committee Against Apartheid in Amsterdam has charged the Dutch airline, KLM, with promoting apartheid and being a direct support for the racist regime of South Africa.

Officials of the committee said last week that the airline discriminates in selecting crew members and personnel for its regular flight to Johannesburg.

The officials said that although more than half of the airline's stewardesses are black, none are selected for this particular flight.

They further said that KLM contends that the stewardesses are not put on the Johannesburg flight because there might be trouble with South African authorities.

According to the committee, race has nothing to do with the acceptance or rejection for the Johannesburg flight — the selection is based primarily on the color of the personnel's skin.

— — —

Concerning the top level administration of KLM, a committee spokesman said, "I think there is a lot of contact between KLM and South Africa. There is a lot of contact between the tribe here in Holland, KLM and South Africa that are from Dutch descent and the ties are very strong."

If one looks at the history of relations between Holland and racist white South Africa — especially the government — the committee said, it is found that KLM has been very active in the promotion of good relations.

According to the committee, KLM's acts are political.

— — —

The committee claims that after World War II, there was no relation between Holland and the nationalist party of South Africa, due to the support and attitudes of the nationalists for the German Nazi regime.

However, after the war, the committee said, KLM was the first to look for such contacts and began to promote better South African relations.

Protection sought from pirates

COPENHAGEN — Demands that Nigeria take immediate steps to protect foreign freighters against pirates in the congested port of Lagos came after a Danish freighter was reportedly raided of valuables and the ship's captain murdered.

The Nordic Council, comprised of Denmark, Finland, Iceland, Norway and Sweden, was making the demands.

CPB sets meeting in Atlanta

WASHINGTON — The Corporation for Public Broadcasting (CPB) Task Force on Minorities in Public Broadcasting has scheduled an open forum in conjunction with its meeting to be held in Atlanta this month.

Requests should be made to Ms. Kathy Donner or the Minority Task Force at the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, 1111 Sixteenth St., NW Washington, D.C., (202) 293-6160, ext. 281. After Dec. 7, requests should be directed to the Atlanta Marriott at (404) 659-6500.

Harmonious settlement ceases KKK harassment of black couple

PHILADELPHIA — Leonard and Elizabeth Parker, a black couple, bought a house in an all-white suburb of Philadelphia. Their neighbor's son, Jeffrey Simon, they claimmd in a suit, defaced the house by painting the letters "KKK" on the front and placing a hangman's noose on a side door.

Now the Justice Department has obtained a consent decree forbidding Jeffrey and members of his family from interfering with the Parkers.

Attorney General Griffin Bell said the decree was filed in U.S. District Court, resolving the housing discrimination suit against the Simon family of Huntington Valley.

Filed Sept. 15, 1976, the suit charged Robert Simon, his wife, June, their son, Jeffrey, and Mrs. Simon's mother, Irene Gerling, with violating the Fair Housing Act of 1968 by seeking to coerce, intimidate, threaten and interfere with the right of the Parkers.

---

"Brain Washing Machine"

We as a Black people, we as a non-white people are being subjected to a slow process of brain damage. It is apparent to those of us who recognize this. For us who have not then look closer at this Brain washing machine, I speak mainly of the use of the media as a form of imprenting damage to young non-white children. The new Saturday morning cartoons lead in the successful method of making a child feel that the only people who are heroes is the white super hero they view through the media. The media has gone backward in time so much so that you can count the commercials on both hands and run out of fingers watching the blonde haired blued being portrays. Equally distressing is the fact that new movies such as star wars, a masterpiece in special effects, used a technique that was used in old films, that being Black representing evil and white representing good. I noticed that television portrayals of non-whites in American society are still showing the passive side of non-whites and deletes the realities of being non white. The media has successfully used all forms of protests to the point in which the general public looks at non white protestors as advocates to violence. If we as a people are to be strong me must take the time you watch what our children are watching and our young brothers and sisters who seemed to be going backward in time simply by hating their real hair and processing it or straightening it to get rid of their natural black beauty.

In closing I'd like to add, while black people all over the world are fighting to gain self governing powers many of us who reside within the U.S. have forgotten what real beauty we do possess. If to you you feel what I have written then dwell on this. The white world uses such hair products to get body, which we already have some of maybe have too much body in our hair, there are products for tanning the skin, we are tanned all year round, products for making the torso look round. God knows we as a non-white people have plenty of "ASS". So what is the answer to becoming ourselves, to me it is simply having pride in being what you are.

Lynn Walker

Come Together

By MARK HICKSON

Brothers and Sisters! It is high time that we forget our differences, be they petty or profound; of which petty seems the predominant, and come together in unity. Today, as in the days past, we as Black students and Black people are in the midst of problems; in the midst of troubled times. Not only is our status as a people being attacked on an international and nationald level (South Africa, the Bakke Case and let us not forget the Shockley and Moynihan reports which remain pervasive), but also on the local level, right here at UMass Amherst were the Student Senate Judiciary Committee has recently declared the status and definition of Third World and of the Third World Caucus unconstitutional. To add to this many of our parents, sisters, brothers and relatives are currently unemployed or are bound to be unemployed tomorrow, next week or in the next hour. For us, "last hired-first fired" is a pervasive and wretched reality-not an abused cliche.

Yet, we as Black students and Black people continue to be oblivious to our conditions and to each other and continue to let petty differences build to petrified proportions. How absurd it is that Black students from Smith, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke and Hampshire can't get along with Black students from UMass and vice versa because of so-called class differences and airs of superiority. We're all inferior in the eyes of the man. Still, those who claim that there is no division continue to pay lip service to the concept of unity and fail to take concrete steps to make unity a reality. Aren't we hip yet to the tactics of divide and conquer or are there too many VIP's in the Valley?

Not only is lip service running rampant throughout the Valley, but so is apathy. In fact, the two have become of equal evil, for what difference does it make if one does not care while the other says he cares and yet does nothing to demonstrate his concern? evidence of this can be seen in the fact that two cross burnings occurred in the Valley, which received national news coverage, and yet no unified statement was issued by Black students, at whom the cross burnings were directed. Further, where were the majority of Black students when a demonstration was held on November 20 against Apartheid South Africa? What happened to the Black student support of Craeman Gethers? Again, we hear words but see little action. Certainly it cannot all be blamed on excessive school work for no doubt, there were at least five times more Black students at the recent Battle of the DJ's than there were at the demonstration against South Africa.

National Black Students Association

Brothers and Sisters, we need to raise our consciousness', rearrange our priorities and become more active in our struggles for freedom and human dignity. We need unity! Don't be fooled into believing that you-we are powerless and that we cannot initiate and promote change. If we were powerless we would not have been able to force the implementation of special programs to allow us to attend colleges such as Amherst, Smith, UMass, etc. Together, in unity, we have all the power and then some.

The time for unity is now. In the past we have reasoned that there is no means, no organization through which 5-College unity could be initiated, promoted and maintained. Well, that excuse-reason can be heard no longer for there is a budding new organization on the scene; the NBSA or National Black Students Association. The NBSA, a newly formed Black organization, is attempting to bring unity to the Valley. Feeling strongly that our numbers here in the Valley are much too small to remaindisunited, the NBSA is taking the initiative and responsibility of bringing Black students together as one; one family in mind, body and spirit and also of addressing the current problems of Black students in the 5-College area.

The NBSA is holding a major membership and orientation meeting this Tuesday, December 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Malcolm X Center-Southwest. We, as sincere and interested Black students should take the initiative to check out this meeting and this newly formed organization for it has much to offer us. A sincere effort must be made to give this organization a chance to help us and unify us, so come check out what it's all about on Tuesday, December 6. The organization needs your input and enthusiasm.

If we are not for ourselves, then who can be for us?

Now more than ever, the family must come together!

Where there is unity, there is strength!

Asante

NUMMO NEWS STAFF

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor in Chief | W.J. Wheeler |
| Managing Editor | Karien Zachery |
| News Editor | Vukani Magubane |
| Business Manager | Sura Long |
| Photo Editors | Edward Cohen |
| | Edwin Patterson |
| Cultural Affairs | Kevin Jones |
| Advertising Manager | Carl Watts |
| Advisor | Wadada Tzake |
| Graphic Editor | Jimmy Pickett |

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

The Third World Women's Center December Calendar

Dec. 8 Workshop on Physical Fitness. N.A.H. Lounge. Dec. 9 Film - "Sparkle" Mahar Auditorium Showings at 7, 9, and 11 $1.00 Admission Everyone is welcome! Dec. 11 Third World Women's Pot Luck Dinner. Lumumba Hut 5:00 p.m. Dec. 15 Workshop on Women's Health Place to be announced.

Editorials

More on the Bakke Decision

In beginning this article I am not going to give an explanation of what the Bakke case is all about because there has been numerous articles explaining that. But, one thing that I wish to express is that the Bakke case is the most profound case within last 23 years. Why? For the simple reason that it deals directly with the question of the future of the BLACK NATION! We, Black students as well as other Black workers, bureaucrats, and those of our people who are of the black middle class origins are all part of the BLACK NATION, and are faced with a case that could set back and stifle 350 years of our development, again.

What action, we Black students take, can be a deciding factor in the upcoming situation we are about to be faced with. We had better be prepared.

First thing we must look to, for some answers to the questions that are posted by this case, is our own history (we must always depend on ourselves for answers to our problems).

How did we get the colleges and universities to have special admissions programs and affirmative action hiring and promotion guidelines?

In the 1960's millions of our people engaged in political activities of every sort. First legal activities to publicize our case and let America see that Black people were good, moral, patriotic and hard workers, whenever we could find work. Very often the American flag was held up high by black hands at our non-violent peaceful protest demonstrations. All that was asked was that the government do away with the race (South African Apartheid-in-nature) discrimination laws that kept our people from having an equal chance at schools, social recreational facilities and jobs. Because physically, mentally, and morally we are equal to anyone in the world. But the response that our people met was far from good and moral. It was very much like the response our brothers and sisters in South Africa meet everyday. Today, if you looked at T.V. scenes from 1963 or 1964 you would swear that you were looking at a scene from Soweto, South Africa. Dogs, riot sticks, tear gas, guns and armored cars were unleashed on our mothers and fathers. Not to mention high powered water hoses in the dead of winter. All this because the white people didn't want to take down the "NO NIGGERS ALLOWED" signs. But we didn't give up. We picked up our dead and wounded and went forward. This time not only did our people have to face the police and national guard, but later after the sun went down (sometimes before) the national guard and police put on their real uniforms, the Ku Klux Klan anti-Black people terrorist group, and other white extremist organizations.

This happened year after year after year. Who did we have to turn to. Washington turned a deaf ear to our cries for help. Black people all over the country began to get sick and tired of this. Many people were frustrated, and many were maimed and dead. The only solution was to turn to our own resources, strength and wisdom for the answer. We knew that we still had many more "freedom dues" to pay but; were willing to take on the challenge.

Robert Williams, a brother originally from the NAACP (one of most non-violent organizations in the Black Liberation Movement) saw very early that armed self-defense would have to back up non-violent protest. And he was right. Peaceful demonstrations had to be backed up by armed might. The people had to be protected from the viciousness of the white extremists. Brother Williams and his forces had also won several pitched battles against the Ku Klux Klan. Other groups that were working in the South also adopted this policy of armed self defense and found it very successful.

At this point the movement started moving north. That's when "the shit hit the fan." Again you have frustrated people, with no work no hope for the future, constantly cheated and over charged for the worst food and housing. Brutalized, dehumanized and kept in check by the police. When our people attempted to voice their frustration in the only "legal" (Legal, meaning, anything defined as cool by your oppressor) way oppressed people can, the popular protest demonstration, and are again brutalized (in the liberal north now) by the police. The only thing left is open rebellion. Those were not riots, they were rebellions. Spontaneous and directed mainly toward the property of the white oppressors.

Brief Digression — When the movement moved north it changed because the north is the seat of power structure. The financial Elite. (This country is not as united as it seems.)

Some elements of the movement got together and tried to give it a more organized character. If a people's movement is organized then rebellions can be focused on specific issues and targets. This was beginning to happen. To cope with this several branches of the government (for more information read COINTELPRO: Counter Intelligent Program, and The Kerner Report) united to crush the movement and cool out the masses. So, the revolutionaries were isolated and either killed, jailed or are now in Political exile. To cool out the masses they developed Affirmative Action Programs, Special Admissions to colleges etc. ... , to get the potential revolutionary Nationalist youth off the streets, and to appease the desires of the then most vocal sector of the Black Nation, the Black Pettie Bourgoisie.

Many of us think we got here under our own merits. Perhaps some of us did. But the majority of us should examine our background. At one time or another we belonged to a special program while in high school! (depending on each person's class background). See the connection?

Well anyway, now that we are here we should not think that the struggle is over. The resources of colleges should be used to develop ourselves in order to give the critical and intelligent leadership to the movement that it needs. Because, as we see, "sixteen damn slots" in a medical school program did not solve a thing. Neither has any other type of Affirmative Action Program, because they are still burning crosses, not allowing us to define ourselves (the biggest joke the student judiciary ever played) and each and everyone of us is a potential victim for a police frame-up or white racist violence.

Organization and self-defense are the keys to our success.

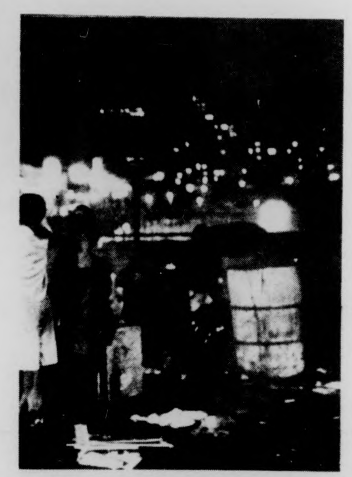
There are two facts that remain interesting about this entire case. One is: If the Federal Government (Supreme Court) votes in favor of Bakke, then that will be a clear statement that they no longer support (lip service) Black Peoples Human Rights to acquire a decent education and live a meaningful life. The other point is: Regardless of whether the Federal Government votes in favor of Bakke of not the cutbacks will still continue. ASK THE CEEBS PROGRAM.

WE WILL WIN!

South Africa's Apartheid Policy: Children Haunt the Street For Survival!

Penny, baas, please, baas, I hungry...This plaint is part of nightly scene in the Golden City, as black boys beg from whites. They may be thrown a coin, or as here, they may get slapped in the face.

Street boys angling for a way to eat, which they do only when they have money.



Their hangout at fringe of white city's lights.

Majority rule proposed says one man, one vote

SALISBURY, Rhodesia—U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young says that basically it is no proposal at all. the U.S. State Department calls it a "step in the right direction."

But apparently the three black Rhodesian leaders who are ready to negotiate a one man, one vote black majority rule settlement are satisfied.

The acceptance of Prime Minister Ian Smith's proposal for the settlement by nationalist leader Bishop Abel Muzorewa last week, included the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole and tribal Chief Jeremiah Chirau.

All three will participate in a constitutional conference aimed at bringing majority rule to this land of 268,000 whites and 6.4 million blacks.

However, the rival militant Patriot Front, lld by Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, has rejected the plan and vowed to continue its five-year guerilla war.

"In a way, Mr. Smith has capituated and succumbed to our demand of power on the basis of universal adult suffrage," the United Methodist bishop told some 300 supporters meeting at a soccer stadium in a black township of Salisbury.

"We say fine, Mr. Smith. Let us talk."

Muzorewa said he felt Smith was sincere when he said he will agree to adult suffrage, providing safeguards for minoritiis are incorporated into a settlement.

Muzorewa said Smith has told him he wants a settlement designed to retain the confidence of whites so that they do not flee. "We take that request very seriously," he said.

Muzorewa called on Britain to organize the proposed conference, but "if the British dither and delay, then we shall know we can go ahead without them."

He also said he wants all black parties, including the Patriotic Front, to take part. "But, we are not going to wait for anybody who may not be interested," he said.

—

Meanwhile, the Rhodesian military command said late last week that 38 blacks were killed within a 48 hour period, but had no comment on reports Rhodesian troops are carrying out their heaviest anti-guerilla operations yet in neighboring Mozambique.

A communique said Rhodesian troops have killed 12 nationalist guerrillas, one guerrilla recruit and one black man "actively assisting terrorists."

It is said that "in two separate incidents of terrorist—initiated crossfire" between troops and insurgents, seven black men and two black youths were killed and another three wounded. Where or when the incident occured was not disclosed.

Blasts decision for bid from S African firm

WASHINGTON — U.S. Transportation Secretary Brock Adam's decision to accept a contract bid from a minority firm with South African ties has Congressman Charles B. Rangel, D-N.Y., in an outrage.

In a statement issued last week Rep. Rangel said, "I am outraged over the fact the federal government would allow a South African company to bid against minority contractors in this country where unemployment among minorities is running rampant."

The minority firm, the Smoot Railroad Services of Columbus, Ohio, is among the three competitors selected to submit bids for a contract to produce $30 million worth of concrete railroad ties for Amtrak's $1.7 billion Northeast Corridor Project.

— — —

Rep. Rangel said, "In order to bid for this contract, the Smoot Railroad Services has entered into a joint partnership with Grinaker Precast Ltd., a South African concern."

He further said that "while" recognizing that the executive branch is still reviewing the entire range of U.S.-South African economic relations.

---

African progress

UPI Telephoto

TO SUPPLY ARAB
MEAT MARKET

PARIS — Sudan is to establish its first-ever integrated livestock and meat processing operation in a bid to develop its potential as a supplier of meat to the Middle East.

In cooperation with the International Finance Corporation (IFC, a part of the World Bank) and other investors, Sudan is to build a huge $42.2 million complex near the capital, Khartoum.

The project includes modern mechanized farming to produce feed, sheep breeding and rearing, and a slaugherhose and processing plant with refrigeration and cold storage.

The complex will introduce modern stock raising and processing techniques into the Sudan and will serve as a model for other similar schemes.

As well as providing 600 new jobs directly, it is hoped it will stimulate agriculture throughout the country through its livestock purchases. Foreign exchange earnings of $12 million a year are expected from the plant.

NIGERIAN AIRWAYS SPREADS

LAGOS — Nigerian Airways is to introduce four new international routes into its service.

Three of the routes, which link the Nigerian capital Lagos with Nairobi in Kenya, Lusaka in Zambia and Athens in Greece, are to begin operations this month.

The fourth, which will put Nigeria in direct contact with the lucrative North American market through a Lagos-New York link, is to begin in January.

POPULATION ON THE INCREASE

LUSAKA — The population of Zambia could double itself within 23 years, according to official figures, unless the present growth rate declines.

At independence in 1964, the country's population was 3.5 million and had increased to four million by 1969. By 1975, the figure had grown to 4,695,000.

Zambia's Finance Minister John Mwanakatwe has warned that the increase in the population could have far-reaching implications in the future for the welfare of the Zambian people.

GRAIN RESERVE BY 1980s

DAR ES SALAAM — Tanzania's plan to create a 100,000 ton strategic reserve should be nearing fruition by the early 1980s.

The plan was launched after the poor harvest of 1973-74 and is designed to cushion the effects of any future grain shortages. Tanzania is cooperating with the United Kingdom to provide half the new additional grain storage space required.

The UK already has forwarded money to Tanzania for the construction of godowns at Dodoma and Shinyanga. The other 50,000 tons of storage space will be provided by aid from Denmark and from existing storage facilities.

The World Food Program, Australia and Canada, as well as the United Kingdom have also promised to contribute grain towards the stategic reserve.

GHANA TOURIST BOOM

ACCRA — Ghana is reported to have received a record $20 million from the tourist season that has just ended. The figure is almost twice the previous annual record.

Up to this November, when the new tourist season started, 64,000 tourists had visited Ghana.

MILITARY COMPLEX FOR NIGERIA

LAGOS — The Nigerian federal military government is to build a military complex at Lokoja in central Nigeria.

The military cantonment will include barracks, roads, parade grounds, workshops, and other military facilities.

The complex will have its own water and electricity supplies and is expected to be completed by mid-1979.

Sierra Leone, Liberia protect economic union

By OLA JESSONS

FREETOWN — Both Sierra Leon's President Siaka Stevens and Liberia's President William Tolbert are determined the Mano River Union, which joins the two countries in economic ties, will not go the way of the defunct East African community.

The two leaders have kept closely in touch with each other since they formed the union four years ago, meeting every year, and top-level economic ministerial delegations shuttle between both countries on almost monthly schedules.

The latest meeting of both presidents took place recently in the Freetown capital of Sierra Leone, when Tolbert flew in with a 48-man entourage for a one-day business visit. The Liberian leader was given a warm welcome by the usually reserved Sierra Leoneans, and the day was like a public holiday decorated with flags and bunting.

— — —

With the welcoming over, the "brother-presidents", as they are often referred to, quickly settled down to do business. They signed five new protocols to the Mano River Declaration of 1973, bringing the total to 18.

The new protocols urge, among other things, the establishment of a third party civil liability insurance in the union, the establishment of a Union Transport Commission, a Union Transport Fund and the regulation of matters affecting transit across land boundaries. Another protocol called for procedures bringing into effect measures affecting the Mano River Union in accordance with international law and regulations.

One of the protocols also deals with functions and procedures relating to training and research for citizens of both countries. Already, the Mano River Union offers scholarships to Sierra Leoneans to study in the University of Liberia, and vice versa.

— — —

During President Tolbert's visit, the two presidents saw the common external tariffs within the Mano River Union go into force. These tariffs are based on the union's common external tariff which became effective for both countries July 1, this year. Both presidents also exchanged copies of their national common external tariffs.

The exchange was necessary because of the differences in currency units between Sierra Leone and Liberia. While Sierra Leone uses the Leone, which is pegged to the British Pound Sterling, Liberia's dollar is linked with United States' currency.

The national common external tariffs contain a number of items for which common links have not yet been established. Until now, Sierra Leone's customs tariff carried only 645 items while Liberia's accommodated about 700. These, as the deputy secretary-general of the union, Dr. Sheku Sesay pointed out, were out of a total of 1,009 tariff headings of the International Customs Cooperation Council Nomenclature.

With the new tariff exchange, he explained, both countries now have a fully extended commodity description of all items in international trade. The tariffs now also incorporate the latest United Nations statistical codes — the Standard International Trade Classification.

With the new tariffs Sesay observed, Liberia and Sierra Leone now represent a market of five million people (Sierra Leone's population is three million) and good imported can have the same import duties.

The new tariff structure is intended to be as liberal as possible to encourage outside investors. Both countries depend to a great extent on revenues from import duties and both are determined to keep the "apple-cart" upright.

One of the aims of the Mano River Union is to be In a strong position to advise and assist the Economic Community of West African States when that body moves to establish a full-fledged ECOWAS customs union and economic community. The Mano River Union, with the strides it is making, may well achieve that objective.

Brimmer hits Fed's policy: OK's tax cuts

CONT. FROM PAGE 2

pected to make a contribution through the conduct of an accommodating monetary policy."

If present trends continue, Brimmer said, the economy probably not turn in the performance the Carter Administration had hoped to achieve — six percent rate of growth from the fourth quarter of 1976 through the same period this year.

"It now seems that — at best — the rate of increase may be sent about 5.5 percent. Although the shortfall is small, it does represent the loss of about $6.5 billion of real output" Brimmer pointed out.

He was also critical of the Federal Reserve's money growth targets.

They "seem inadequate," he said, judged in terms of the demand for money to finance the expansion of economic activity — in the face of a further rise in the general price level.

He pointed out also that the Federal Reserve's money growth targets.

They "Seem inadequate," he said, judged in terms of the demand for money to finance the expansion of economic activity — in the face of a further rise in the general price level.

He pointed out also that the Federal Reserve has not specified what the growth rate of the monetary aggregates would be, although it has stressed that its long-term objective is to reduce the rate to a pace consistent with price stability.

— — —

Brimmer told the committee he belives fiscal policy should "make a contribution to assuring that economic expansion does not subside next year.

"For this reason," he stated, "I would support a tax reduction in the range of $20 to $23 billion next year. A division of $13 billion to $15 billion for individuals and $7 billion to $8 billion for business would be appropriate."

The decrease, he believes, should come before the end of the summer if it is to have a significant impact before the end of next year.

I can appreciate the Carter administration's strong desire to achieve meaningful tax reform," said Brimmer, who is now the president of a Washington-based firm of economic and financial consultants.

"However, I doubt that any tax reform would be possible in a shrinking economy. Consequently, a tax cut is necessary to assure continuud economic expansion, and should come in a timely fashion," he concluded.

OJAI Ensemble At Dwight House

Behold: Eno Donald Washington - photo by Edwin Patterson

By FREIDA JONES

Chris Henderson, tall, lean, clad in a batik dashiki, leaned over and struck a huge gong and whoooooosh! out bellowed a long, lingering vibration. The evening of the OJAI ENSEMBLE had begun, and evening of music, dance, poetry. Cymbals shimmered. Quietly, then loudly, the traps spoke responding to the sensitive and at times, passionate touch of Chris. Chris, now clonking out a basic funk rhythm; the dancer, Ahadi responding, Chris speaking back to her movements. Chris, alone in the space filling the air with melodic rhythms extracted from wooden Balophone.

An atmosphere of Mystery. Peace. Beauty. The audience united in its participation. The drummer, Chris conducting us into the 'mysterious' unknown, within ourselves, helping us discover ourselves. The dancers & readers conducting us into the world of imagination. We ask ourselves, Can we create like this? Yes, if we choose to develop. To beckon the slow and painful process of honing our talents to the point of.... well, let us just share what Chris, Ima, Ahadi and Eno give us.

Slowly, rhythmically a woman figure emerged, cloaked in delicate-bod patterns, bright hard-subtle soft colors and textures from Africa Asia. From head to foot she is covered with flowing scarves, jewels dangle from ankle and forehead. A swift sound and she breaks free, into lines of grace, head tilted back proudly, fingers of the hand even and perhaps pointed toward the sun, or an imaginary stretch of sea. She paints movement. Her pants legs, are dotted lines chain-snaking, blocks of yellow shift. Scarves drop and reveal other cloths. Cloths conceal the face, accent the movement of the eye. She seems to grow taller, then shrink away. She is woman-creation-woman giving birth. Small movement gives imagination and humour. Where are we? Ancient or present day Egypt? Should there not be vast dunes of sand stretching out into the beyond. Or with this woman swirling and kicking up dust in Ashanti village? Ah, no, that there, that's Bali.... But this beautiful young woman is Ahadi Hakim Fami and she has come from the lower East Side of Manhattan to, as she has put it, share with us, through dance, the peace and harmony she feels inside. She is now acquainting herself to the laws and philosphies of Islam which has greatly influenced her approach to dance. Her ambition is also to express dance with the power, virtuosity and spirituality of Someone like John Coltrane. She lives with her husband Hakim, who was there supporting her; Hakim is professional bass player and he and Ahadi sometimes perform together.

Chris Henderson plays balofans while Sister Ahadi dances - photo by Edwin Patterson

Another beautiful African American woman, with warm African accents wove poetry through the dance and persussion. Ima Henderson read David Diop's poem "Something we lost" (about our odyssey), "Justice" (an Ethiopian folk-tabie) and Juno Se MaMa (about a drummer's feelings about his calling). Juno played with John Coltrane.

Eno gave us a brief and powerful performance. The first dance exploring movements of mystery and power, meshing with the sensitive conversation of Chris' drums. In another, fast moving dance, he chants and appreciation of his teacher Akmad Shahir who said, "Eno, Don't be 'fraid," "Don't be afraid to move," "Let the rhythm make you move."

I thank Robert Keyes, a brother who worked very hard to bring the Ojai Ensemble to Dwight House in NorthWest. The importance of the evening cannot be stressed. I don't think we fully realize the talents we have here. This was no 'entertainment-performance' — this was an experience created by artists — an experience that helped all those present grow spiritually. Let us have them back again in a beautiful theatre (no hard cement floors that may injure the dancers). Let us have them back and come out full force to see them.

Billie Taylor

Billie Taylor - photo by Bari Njiiri

By KEVIN JONES

One of the most exciting concerts this year was performed by a supreme genius of Black Classical music, Billy Taylor. Taylor brought with him two equally superb artists, bassist Victor Gaskin and percussionist Freddie Waits. The concert took place Monday, Nov. 21, before a large audience at the Fine Arts Center.

The first half of the concert was performed in conjunction with the University Jazz Workshop-Big Band directed by Dr. Fredrick Tillis. The music composed primarily by Dr. Tillis, allowed for spectacular intricate keyboard work by Mr. Taylor.

The first half proved only to be a warm-up as the trio took off where the band left off. Billy wove in and out of Victor Gaskins everflowing melodic bass lines. Inspiring solos by all three musicians left the audience stunned, especially those by Freddie Waits.

The trio played a medley of works written by a pioneer of our music, Duke Ellington. Taylor led the trio through such Ellington classic such as "Take the 'A' Train" and "Caravan". The 'good doctor' also presented tunes written especially for Victor Gaskin and Freddie Waits. The one for Mr. Waits was particularly interesting as he placed his sticks down and proceeded to play the (entire ) drum set with his hands.

Taylor who received his doctorate in musicology from the Univ. of Massachusetts, made for first "break" in his career when he came to New York with the Ben Webster Quartet. Although his virtuosity as a piano player is recognized, many would be surprised to discover that he was one of the major innovators of the 'bop' era. He has performed with giant musicians such as Billie Holiday, Dizzy Gillespie, Coleman Hawkins, Roy Eldridge, Charlie Parker, Oscar Pettiford and Cozy Cole.

Not only is Dr. Taylor is fine pianist composor, arranger and teacher but he also has explored many different facets of the music world. Billy was a popular Disc Jockey on the all black New York radio station WLIB. Besides being a DJ on the station he became general manager of WLIB. His own corporation has led him into productions of radio, television, commercials, records and concerts.

Billy continues to lead groups touring the world bring his multi-faceted talent and his revolutionary musical concepts to people like you and me.

Photo by Edward Cohen

ANNOUNCEMENT

Afro Am 156, 3 credit Revolutionary Concepts in Afro American Music UMass, Division of Con't Education, Winter Session January 3 through 27. Instructor: Charles Majeed Greenlee

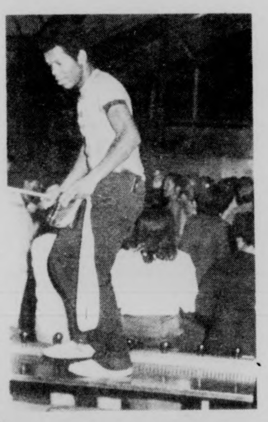
Unity Ensemble to Perform For The First Anniversary of The Anacoana Center Dec. 10

Unity Ensemble - photo by Edward Cohen

To celebrate its first anniversary, the Northeast Third World Center (Anacoana) will present Unity Ensemble featuring Chris Henderson.

Unity is, of course, not new to the Amherst area. They were based here for many years until they relocated in New York City. The evenings entertainment will feature Chris Henderson on multiple percussion, along with Art Mathews-piano, Butch Campbell-guitar, Kevin Ross-bass, Billy Patterson-bass, and Kazuko Speigel dancing. There will be a special guest appearance by Bill Saxton on reeds.

This is the first in a series of events planned by the center. Hopefully, many will come out to support the Brothers and Sisters of Northeast area in making this event as well as the Center successful.



Shady Grady in action: during the Battle of the D.J.'s, Grady turned in a masterful performance and won the battle. The event was a benefit for the SASA program.
- photo by Bari Njiiri

---

Open House For Che-Lumumba School

By KARIEN ZACHERY

An open house for the Che-Lumumba School was held Thursday on the fourth floor of the New Africa House.

The purpose for the open house was partially recruitment for new children and parents.

The teacher at Che-Lumumba is Sister Ismat Abdul-Haqq, an experienced elementary and high school teacher from Springfield. Some of the parents also teach at the school during the week, in such subjects as Spanish, dance and music.

The Che-Lumumba school is a result of parent collectivity. The parents decide the type of education to be taught, etc. "The responsibility is shared by the parents," says Sister Ismat. "The work is done co-operatively."

Che-Lumumba School began in September under the direction of Sister Ismat. It originally began in 1972, "by Black parents who wanted a different education for their children than what they found in Amherst."

The school is accredited by the Amherst School Dept. It is qualified in teaching the same academic subjects as any other school. Some subjects taught are political education, history and current events in the Third World.

The Che-Lumumba School teaches children from every ethnic background.

One of Sister Ismat's immediate desires for the school is the recruitment of more Black children and the participation of more Black parents in the school.

Students and staff of the Che-Lumumba School. Scenes from the open house - photos by Edward Cohen

Kwanzaa—Our Black Holy Days

By BASIR MCHAWI

(Reprinted from Black News - an official communications instrument of the EAST)

Kwanzaa is an African celebration that is traditional all over the African world. The word Kwanzaa is a Swahili word meaning first or "first fruits". Kwanzaa originated when our ancestors gathered together to celebrate the harvesting of the first crops. This harvest time was a time for enjoyment. It was a time when the work that had been put out all year was given meaning. Everyone could actually see the fruit that their labor had brought forth. After the harvest was over, the entire community engaged in singing, dancing, eating and drinking. Everyone gathered together to give collective thanks for the collective effort that had made the community prosperous. On the last day of Kwanzaa there was always a gigantic Karamu (feast). Everyone in the community would bring what they had grown as their contribution. We should always remember that collective work and responsibility-living together, sharing the fruits of our labor, is traditional among African people.

Our recovery of Kwanzaa is just one aspect of our movement towards Nationhood. When we recovered Kwanzaa we rediscovered part of our African selves. Kwanzaa existed centuries before Christ was born; by readopting Kwanzaa, we take back a holiday which is rightfully ours.

By affirming our Black Holy Days, we begin to create the traditions that will be passed on to yet unborn generations of African people when we become the ancestors. By celebrating our Black Holy Days, we give concrete expression to our Imani (faith) in our people and the righteousness and victory of our struggle.

The Nguzo Saba (Seven Principles of Blackness) are the foundation of the Kwanzaa celebration.

UMOJA-unity
KUJICHAGULIA-Self-Determination
UJIMA-Collective Work and Responsibility
UJAMAA-Co-operative Economics

NIA-Purpose
KUUBA-Creativity
IMANI-Faith

UMOJA (unity)

Strive for and maintain unity in the family, community, nation and race

KUJICHAGULIA (self-determination)

Define, name and speak for ourselves instead of being defined and spoken for by others.

UJIMA (collective work and responsibility)

Build and maintain our community together and make the problems of our brothers and sisters our own and work to solve them together.

UJAMAA (cooperative economics)

Build and maintain our stores, shops and other businesses and profit together from them.

NIA (purpose)

Make as our collective vocation the building and developing of our community to restore our people to their traditional greatness.

KUUMBA (creativity)

Do always as much as we can in the way we can to leave our community more beautiful and beneficial than when we inherited it.

IMANI (faith)

Believe with all our hearts in our parents, teachers, leaders and people and in the righteousness and victory of our struggle.

The dates of Kwanzaa are from December 26 through January 1st.

Each day represents one of the Nguzo Saba or Seven Principles. On the last day the Kwanza Karamu (feast) takes place. The Karamu consists of good food, good music and good vibes. In order that we may celebrate Kwanzaa here in the Valley before the semester ends and we all go our own separate ways, a Pre-Kwanzaa (feast) will be held on Friday December 9 at 6:00 p.m. in the Lumumba Room of New Africa House. The Karamu or feast will also include music and entertainment provided by local poets, the Vea Williams—Amina Myers Duo and the Charles Majeed Greenlee Sextet. The entertainment will begin at 8:00.

The Pre-Kwanzaa Karamu emphasizes the principle UJIMA-collective work and responsibility. Therefore we are asking everyone to contribute something (either food or drink) so that we may feast collectively. This reminds everyone that the community is no greater than the efforts of the individuals who comprise it.

NOW MORE THAN EVER, ALL THE FAMILY MUST COME TOGETHER!

What is the Afro-Am Society?

By MARK HICKSON

The Afro-Am Society is a student-run RSO group, which is designed to represent the interest of Black students on the UMass campus. Historically, the Afro-Am Society was the first Black organization to come into existance on the UMass campus and was a direct outgrowth of Black student demands and activism during the late 1960's and early 1970's. Since then the organization has continued to effectively represent the interest of Black students and has remained the largest financial contributor to the Black and Third World Community.

This semester, as usual, the Afro-Am Society has been functioning effectively and has sponsored many programs, most of which have been well-attended and representative of Black students' interest. On September 20th, the New Africa House Steering Committee held a Third World Organizational Fair and Unity Dinner, to which the Afro-Am Society was a major contributor. Other activities sponsored by the Society have been a Umoja (Unity) Cabaret, the 'Pleasure' concert during Homecoming, the Benefit Concert for Craeman Gethers, which featured Jean Carn and the NBSA trip to Atlanta. Afro-Am Society also made contributions to the Che-Lumumba School of Truth so that the school could be further staffed with two work-study students. In addition, Afro-Am will be sponsoring one more event before this fall semester comes to an end. It will be a Pre-Kwanzaa celebration, which will take place on December 9th in New Africa House and will feature the talents of Vea Williams — Amina Myers duo, Charles Majeed, Greenlee Sextet and local poets.

Undoubtedly, this has been a productive semester for the Afro-Am Society and it hopes to extend its progression into the upcoming spring semester. Some ideas for the spring semester to be formulated and sponsored by the Society include a progressive speakers series, which will focus on the historic and present status of the Black liberation struggle in its national and international context, a progressive film series, a unity gathering and a concert some time in March. These are but a few of the many programs which the Society will attempt to implement next semester. Also, the Afro-Am Society plans to continue to work closely with the New Africa House Steering Committee. It will also work with the W.E.B. Dubois Dept. of Afro-American Studies on their conference in April next semester.

But, like many Black and Third World organizations, the Afro-Am Society is both understaffed and numerically under-represented. We need members, to bring new ideas to the organization and help with the implementations. Therefore, the Afro-Am Society an end of the semester membership drive and will hold a very important meeting this Wednesday, December 7th at 7:00 p.m. in room 110 of New Africa House. We are appealing to all interested Black students to come to this very brief meeting and get involved in the Afro-Am Society. It is the RSO organization best equipped to fulfill your interests and make your ideas a reality. We need you help and input, so please attend this meeting.

Wednesday, December 7th at 7:00, room 110 NAH

Asante

Advocate Program Interviews

By JOHANNA P. BRASSARD

Vicki Spriggs speaks with a student of the Advocate program - photo by Edwin Patterson

This is the last article in a series of three examining the Advocate Program. I have conducted short interviews with Field Supervisor Vicki Spriggs, Advocates Sandy Brown and Vicki Taylor, and a Program youth. I hope to provide the Third World Community with an idea of the kinds of people involved in the Program, and their impressions of the Program.

(It should be kept in mind that I have had to paraphrase persons answers to questions posed in order to write this article. I have tried to convey, as accurately as possible, the ideas of those interviewed. I will concentrate on the responses of the Field Supervisor and Advocates in the first part of this aricle.)

Brassard: How long have you been with the Advocate Program?

Spriggs: Two and a half years.

Brown: Since April 1977 — but I was also an Advocate six years ago when the Advocate Program first started.

Taylor: I have spent three months as an intern Field supervisor and ten days as an Advocate.

Brassard: Why did you choose to work in your present position?

Spriggs: I was a student who became an Advocate as a summer job. Working with kids in that aspect got me interested in the programs as a whole. Consequently I became a Juvenile Justice major at the University. I then did volunteer work as a Field Supervisor, which led to my hire as a Field Supervisor.

Brown: I grew up in institutions and wanted to extend my experience and home to youth from institutions — I think that one of the best aspects of the Program is the fact that it keeps kids out of institutions.

Taylor: As a Juvenile Justice Major at UMass, I became interested in this aspect of the program. Working only as an intern would have been too indirect — I wanted to really share in the growth of the kids.

Brassard: What do you see as your role in the Advocate Program?

Spriggs: I assist in the development of the "Service plan" for each youth under my supervision, and provide support and supervision for each youth and his-her Advocate for the duration of the youth's stay with the Program. I also see that the youth's physical needs are met.

Every Friday morning there is a general staff meeting. The staff talk out problems here. But every person involved in the Program, including kids and interns, is generally supportive and helpful to everyone else.

Brown: I want to provide a safe environment for my kid in order to assist him in assuming responsibility for his past, present and future.

Taylor: I have two functions in the Program: 1. As an Advocate I am a parent, a friend — someone to depend on. I try to see that Program rules are followed by my kid, but also that the Program supports his goals. 2. As an intern Field Supervisor, I keep in contact with the kid's parents and region caseworker, keep a file on him-her, provide counseling, see to medical appointments and clothing, and oversee his-her education and job (if he-she has one).

Brassard: What do you see as your goals in the Program and how do you accomplish them?

Spriggs: I am easy-going and don't try to impose rules on a youth. I am honest and upfront, I try to guide a kid, to react ot his-her actions. I want to get to know my kids, and like to keep conversation; communication.

Brown: I try to set up a flexible atmosphere. I provide comfortable physical space, but I do not treat kids like babies or victims. They must be aware that I am a person too, with limits. I try to teach reciprocity.

Taylor: I put as much time and effort as possible into my role — you must put in to get anything out.

Brassard: How do you feel about the Advocate Program as a whole? Is it worthwhile? Are there problems? How could they be alleviated?

Spriggs: We are getting another Field Supervisor, which is good. The Program as a whole is good, but we need better screening of the kids— we should not accept kids who can't handle to Valley's lifestyle. We also need money, especially to develop a Job Program for underaged kids. It would give them something worthwhile to do in their spare time, and a sense of accomplishment. It would take some pressure off Advocates who must entertain the kids. We really need more non-white Advocates, particularly Spanish-speaking people.

Brown: The Advocate Program is absolutely worthwhile — it is a rarity in the state and country because of its reality, its philosophies and assumptions. But there is not enough Advocate training, and there is a great need for Third World Advocates. There is a prevalence of White Liberalism, and most Advocates are naive about where the kids are coming from — people don't realize what these kids have had to do just to survive, and how their means for survival has affected their attitudes. The Program should utilize all of the Valley's resources to educate Advocates and kids politically and socially. The Program is badly underfunded, particularly in the area of Pre-Placement services for young women.

The Advocate Program just can't reach young women in need of its services because of this. (Also, Vicki Spriggs is someone who is "right there" in every way!)

Taylor: I have seen several human services programs, and this one is the best around. It has a good philosophy and good competent people.

But it needs more support and recognition from the University and the Valley — people need to be more responsive to and understanding of the kids. Working with the kids has shown me that they are not "delinquents", but that they are people with special needs.

(The second part of this article consists of a short interview with a program youth.

Brassard: How long have you been with the Advocate Program?

Youth: About a year.

Brassard: What sort of program do you follow?

Youth: I go to two University literature classes on Tuesdays and Thursdays — one at Bartlett and one at New Africa House. I'm on Independent Study at Amherst Regional High School.

Brassard: Has the Advocate Program changed your attitudes toward yourself and-or others?

Youth: The Advocate Program hasn't helped me directly. One person who worked for them a long time ago probably helped the most.

Brassard: What is best about the Program?

Youth: The free medical and dental care is good.

Brassard: What is worst?

Youth: Is it too businesslike — there isn't much of a healthy attitude of concern.

Brassard: Is it worthwhile?

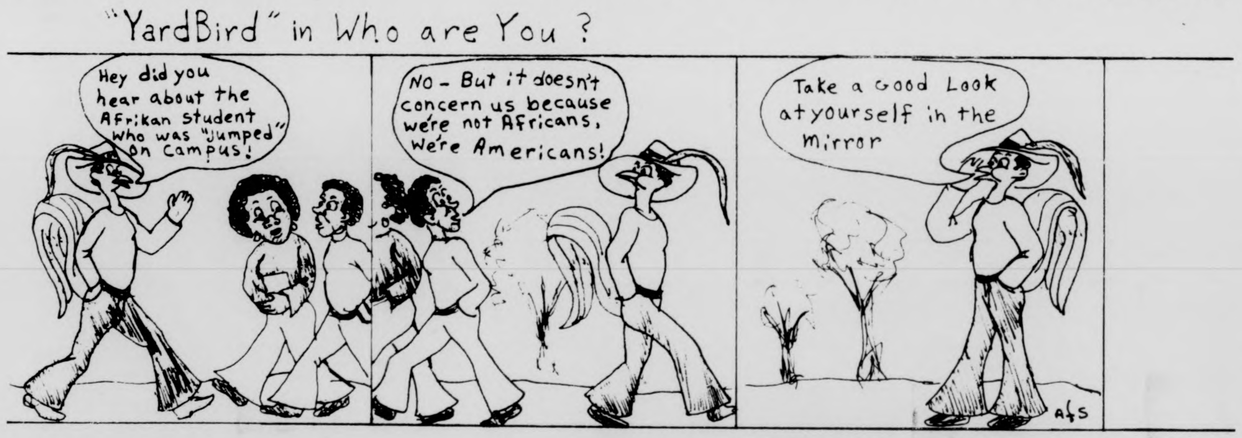
Youth: Yes, but it really depends on your attitude when you enter. The Advocate Program can't reach people with really serious problems.

Brassard: How could it be made better?

Youth: The Program shouldn't be so closely connected with the state's Juvenile Justice System. If a kid breaks too many rules or commits a crime while he is in the Program, he is sent from the Program to one of the state's juvenile lock-ups. That doesn't help him any.

Most of the statements made in these interviews reflect the opinion that an Advocate Program for troubled youths is more effective and worthwhile than a Punishment Program. Why not visit the Advocate Program to discover whether you can concur with this opinion. Or join the Program to help to make this opinion a reality.

The administrative offices, classrooms for the Program's Alternative Education Program, and a recreation room are located in Montague House, right by the School of Education at UMass. (You don't have to be a UMass student or Juvenile Justice major to qualify for the Program; just generous, concerned and responsible). Montague House itself is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. five days a week. Phone numbers are: 545-3622-23 and 25.



"YardBird" in Who are You ?
Hey did you hear about the Afrikan student who was "jumped" on campus!
No - But it doesn't concern us because we're not Africans, we're Americans!
Take a Good Look at yourself in the mirror afs

Biko's Brother Con't.

Cont. from Page 1

treatment for his head injuries before he died.

The ruling, totalling less than 120 words, made no reference to any of this. The only reservation entered by Prins was that he would decide later whether to refer the testimony to the South African Medical and Dental Council for possible action against the doctors.

Prins, a civil servant like all South African magistrates, read the ruling hurriedly, scarcely looking at the packed rows of spectators. He left the courtroom immediately after finishing, and remained closeted in an office until he slipped away by a rear exit.

Later, in a brief discussion with The New York Times at his office elsewhere in the city, the 58-year-old jurist, who is chief magistrate of Pretoria, said allegations of a coverup did not perturb him.

---

ATTENTION ALL THIRD WORLD SISTERS!!!

The Third World Women's Center will have a POT LUCK DINNER, Sunday, December 11 in the Lumumba Hut. Please bring some type of dish; meat, meatless or dessert. If you can't bring a dish, just bring yourself and another sister!

Hope to see you Sunday!!!

Chaka and Fred demonstrate techniques of the African Institute of Martial Arts at Smith College; in the background is Tony Van der Meer - photo by Edwin Patterson

---

Let ME help ease your pain of Christmas shopping...

HOLIDAY

GIFT GUIDE

HERE'S A LIST OF PLACES WHERE YOU CAN FIND JUST ABOUT ANYTHING FOR ANYONE...

Season's Greetings

creative gifts

pillows are perfect!
Beautiful Handwoven Shawls in pure wool & silk

EARTHWARES®
103 N. PLEASANT ST./AMHERST (413) 256-8810

SMILES ASSURED

A big smile at Christmas is assured with any of the great soft and cuddly sweaters, dresses, tops, and accessories from the Bus Stop...like a warm pair of mittens, hat or scarf, from the pretzel collection

BUS STOP

197 N. Pleasant St./Amherst/Mass./256-0140

UNDERNEATH IT ALL, IT'S A puritan·

This Christmas, warm your loved one's heart with any one of our great Puritan sweaters; crew and vee-necks, and vee-neck vests. sizes S/M/L/XL.

prices start at 11.95

10% OFF
PURITAN SWEATERS WITH THIS AD
(THROUGH 12/25/77)

WEAR-HOUSE

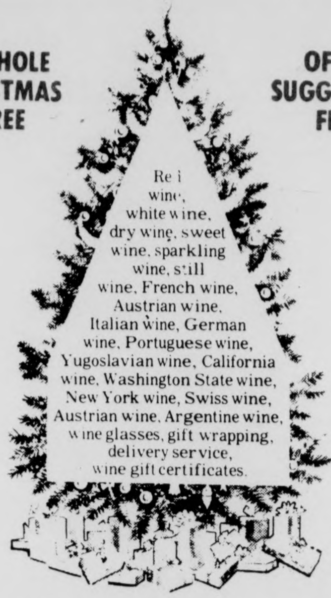
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

---

A WHOLE CHRISTMAS TREE OF GIFT SUGGESTIONS FROM



Red wine, white wine, dry wine, sweet wine, sparkling wine, still wine, French wine, Austrian wine, Italian wine, German wine, Portuguese wine, Yugoslavian wine, California wine, Washington State wine, New York wine, Swiss wine, Austrian wine, Argentine wine, wine glasses, gift wrapping, delivery service, wine gift certificates.

C & C PACKAGE STORE

WINE AND LIQUOR MERCHANTS

61 Main St., Amherst

(Behind the Police Station)

FOR SUDDEN SERVICE DELIVERY CALL 253-3091

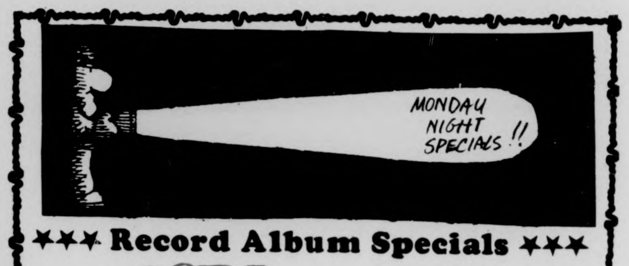
---



MONDAY NIGHT SPECIALS !!

★★★ Record Album Specials ★★★

FREE RECORD SET
BEETHOVEN
THE NINE SYMPHONIES
seven record set
5 sets given away
in drawing Mon. nite

MONDAY NIGHT SPECIALS!!

Monday Nite
5pm-9pm only
ALL REGULAR
$7.98 series albums
$1.00 off our regular price
only $4.97

CUT OUTS!
OVERSTOCK'S AND
SPECIAL BUY SALE
STILL GOING ON Best selection
we've ever had!

OPEN 'TIL 9 TONIGHT

at your Christmas store

the UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center univ. of mass.

---

Inlaid Soapstone Boxes

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

---

WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET

EAST ST., WARE, MASS.

FACTORY TO YOU SAVINGS OF 25% to 50%

on all women's boots and shoes

WARE FACTORY SHOE OUTLET

EAST ST. WARE, MASS. PHONE: 967-9753
OPEN 9-5 MON.-SAT.
(BANK AMERICARD OR VISA ACCEPTED)

---

CLASSICS ILLUSTRATED

As in any industry certain products stand the test of time. Represented in our Weekly Specials are just a few of these timeless components.....

EPI 100

Our relationship with win Burhoe began nine years ago when we first carried his new astonishing loudspeaker, The EPI 100. Then as now, few speakers in any price range can match the Sonic Clarity or the deep base response of the Number 1 Consumer Rated Bookshelf for the past 5yrs.

AD VALUE LIST $200./pr.

OUR LOW PRICE
$150./pr
including in store repair for 5yrs.

MARANTZ 2216B

Making its world debut in June of 1970 as the 2015, the final evolution has arrived. Rather than new models every year, MARANTZ chooses to make circuit improvements in the inside which tends to keep resale value high and keeps their research and development dept. the largest in the industry and the styling dept. one of the smallest of the MAJORS. Rated conservatively at 16 watts MINIMUM per ch. at 8 Ohms at no more than 0.15%THD.

NATIONAL AD VALUE
$250.00

The basic motor, Belt Driven System, 3.40 kilos zinc alloy platter and unequaled suspension, appeared as the TD 150 in '62'. Numerous tone arm refinements thru the years bring us the TD 165C fully equipped with empire 4000 D 1, magnetic cartridge, stylift wood base hinged dust cover for only:

THORENS
TD 165C

$149.00

TOTAL AD VALUE LIST $745.00
OUR LOW PRICE $449.00

Burhoe Blue Loudspeakers

Burhoe's ultimate Bookshelf system incorporates all the latest designs in cone and crossover technology. Flat frequency response to 33HZ make for truly memorable bass.

AD VALUE LIST
$500.00/pr.

OUR LOW PRICE
$375.00/pr.

SONY STR 4800 SD AM-FM

Superior FM performance with full Dobly function on FM coupled with the industry's best mass produced phono-preamplifier and versatile amplifier stage.

SUGGESTED RESALE
$400.00
OUR LOW.PRICE
$378.00

Philips 6A 312

Philips new improved version of their famous GA 212 increased convenience by virtue of an auto lift function that's totally electronic and trouble free.
Complete with base, dust cover and empire 4000 00 Cart.

SUGGESTED PRICE AS SHOWN $285.00
OUR LOW PRICE
$185.00

TOTAL SYSTEM LIST $1,185.00
OUR LOW DELIVERED PRICE $849.

ADVERTISED SPECIALS

| Speakers | National Ad Value | OUR LOW PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| EPI 100 | $200. pr. | $150./pr. |
| BurhoeGreens | $220. pr. | $170./pr. |
| Ohm Bt (Traded in our 1yr. trade deal) | $400. pr. | $200./pr. |
| Presage 15 | $200./pr. | $149./pr. |
| FM-1 | $450./pr. | $300./pr. |
| Altec 3 | $298./pr. | $180./pr. |
| Burhoe white | $300./pr. | $240./pr. |
| ESS Towers w/Kef driver(used) | $800./pr. | $500./pr. |
| Advent(large, improved) | $298./pr. | $216./pr. |
| Allison Four | $350./pr. | $310./pr. |

| Turntables (include base, dust cover) | National Ad Value | OUR LOW PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| Thorens TD 165-C | $200. | $110. |
| Philips 6A427 | $120. | $82. |
| Philips 6A312 | $200. | $160. |
| Dual 1237 | $190. | $88. |
| Pioneer PL112D (Trade in) | $120. | $60. |
| Garrard GT 55 | $109. | $69. |
| Rabco ST-4 w/Stanton 681EEE | $340. | $80. |
| JVC JLB 31 direct drive | $249. | $129. |
| Martantz 6150 direct drive | $249. | $149. |

CASSETTE TAPES

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| TDK | SA C90 | $2.88ea. |
| TDK | AD C90 | $2.79ea. |
| MAXE II | UDXL I&II C90 | $3.00 |

We service everything we sell in our own service department

AMHERST AUDIO

your BANKAMERICARD welcome

259 Triangle St., Amherst
586-2552 Open 'til 9, Sat 'til 5 549-2610

HUNAN GARDEN RESTAURANT

(Formerly South China)

湖南園酒家

Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine

✱ Open 7 days a week ✱

Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Specials

LUNCHEON $1.25 & up

DINNER $3.95

main course choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes spare rib
eggroll, chicken wing, fried
rice & hot and sour shrimp

Mon Wed 5:00-8:00 pm

10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252

Banquet Facilities

---

New Christmas Ideas In Fashion

at THOMPSON'S

FOR WOMEN:

MATSON SHIRTS
KITTY HAWK Angora Turtlenecks
Gunne Sax by JESSICA
-arriving for Christmas

CRAZY HORSE is in sweaters and pants

CATALINA-cruise wear Holiday line

plus a new shipment of machine washable plaid shirts for ladies.
Don't forget our complete line of men's wear also!

THOMPSON'S 13 N. Pleasant St. Mon-Sat 9:00-5:30 Thurs till 8 PM

---

CAMPUS TRAVEL

CUBA
$573.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- All meals
- Hotel accommodations
- Transfers
- Six sightseeing tours

EL SALVADOR
from $299.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Full breakfast daily
- Transfers & baggage handling
- Sightseeing tour
- All taxes & gratuities

CURACAO
from $299.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- All taxes & gratuities

COSTA RICO
from $299.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- All taxes & gratuities

MIAMI
from $205.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- Taxes & tips

Air only from $89

GUATEMALA
from $359.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- Half day sightseeing
- All taxes & gratuities
- Tennis

MARTINIQUE
from $399.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- Hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- Gambling lesson
- Fashion show
- Complimentary chaise lounges
- All taxes & gratuities

FT. LAUDERDALE
from $249.00
includes:
- Roundtrip air transportation
- 7 nights hotel accommodations
- Transfers & baggage handling
- Taxes & tips

Air only from $119

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASS. 545-0500

---

emporium india

A VARIETY OF GIFTS FOR THE WOMAN WITH CASUAL ELEGANCE IN MIND

COME BROWSE

We have a large selection of inlaid turquoise necklaces & bracelets, along with sterling heart pendants, chains & earrings

Hours: Daily 10-7 Fri 10-9 Sun 12-5

IN THE AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
233 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST, MASS.

---

Ideas for Xmas

The General's Place
35 E. Pleasant St.
Amherst 549-6168

Swiss army knives, 14 models from $7.50
Chamois Shirts, 4 colors– X small to X large $14.95
100% goose down vest $31.95
Wool knit hats from $2.29
Down mittens from $14.95
Flannel shirts from $5.49
Corduroy shirts $9.95
Knapsacks from $5.98

---

Cunard
GIVE A CRUISE FOR CHRISTMAS

Amherst Travel
Consultants, Inc.

27 South Pleasant Street
Amherst, Massachusetts

256-6704

---

PETE'S PACKAGE STORE

144 SUMMER ST., AMHERST

FULL LIQUOR LICENSE

OPEN 9:00 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Call: 256-6828 for
FREE DELIVERY TO U.MASS.
($5.00 Min.)

NIGHTLY — 6:00 p.m.-10:00 p.m.
FRI. & SAT. — 6:00 p.m.-11:00 p.m.

Good luck on finals!!

MERRY CHRISTMAS
AND A
HAPPY NEW YEAR
FROM THE "GANG"
AT PETE'S.

---

Play safe.

All of Tech Hifi's systems come with this moneyback guarantee:

If there's anything you don't like about how a Tech Hifi system sounds or looks in your home, for up to seven days after your purchase we'll give your money back. No questions asked.

How can we make an offer like this?

We improve the chances you'll like your system by letting you play in our soundroom for as long as you like, comparing all the systems in your price range. So your ears will tell you which system gives you the best sound for your investment.

This $320 system gives you uncommonly clean sound. It combines Kenwood's KR2600 stereo receiver (with more power and useful features than any other in its class), a pair of KLH 100 Monitor Series loudspeakers, and the dependable BSR 2260A automatic turntable (ready-to-play, with an ADC magnetic cartridge). We think this modestly priced system offers excellent value.

But if you take it home and disagree, we'll give your money back.

Come play at Tech Hifi. Play safe.

tech hifi
Soundrooms you can play in.

KLH KENWOOD BSR

79 South Pleasant St., Amherst 253-3100

BANKAMERICARD master charge

STAY DRY!!! STAMP OUT SLUSH

with Rubber OVERSHOES

FROM BILL'S SHOE REPAIR

Located in the center of Amherst

---

Vision Showcase

(formerly House of Vision)

Kent Whalen — Licensed Optician

We also carry fashion styles by Diane Von Furstenberg & Oscar Dela Renta

We are Specialists in:
- Fashion Eyewear
- Contact Lenses
- Emergency Replacements
- Free Adjustments Anytime
- We Clean & Polish contact lenses on the premises.

Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley 584-8324

---

We have a new section,

Crafts...

Gifts for your ingenuity.

THE ART SHOP

tel. (413) 256-8159

23 No. Pleasant St., Amherst, Ma., 01002

---

Give Her A Gift Of Love...

Give her a beautifully gift-boxed neckchain by Speidel. It's a personal gift which shows how much you care.

She can wear it with just about anything — and can even accentuate that lovely pendant you gave her last year.

All you have to do is decide which of our sterling silver, gold-filled or 14k gold chains is just right for her!

Speidel

Speidel
STERLING SILVER

Fred J Houck Jeweler

65 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst

---

rainbow prisms

A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.

Faces of Earth

Open 9:30 to 6 Mon.-Sat.
Sundays 1 to 5

Next to Amherst Post Office

---

CAR WON'T START? FLAT TIRE? OUT OF GAS? CALL AAA

TRI-COUNTY AAA AUTOMOBILE CLUB

Cordially Invites You To Join
The World's Largest Association Of Motorists
And Share In Its Benefits, Privileges And Protection

District Headquarters P.O. Box 1099
1515 Northampton St.
Holyoke, Mass.

NAME_______________ PHONE_____________

STREET_____________ CITY_______________

For Further Information Mail This Coupon

---

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office — Open 9:30-6 Mon. thru Sat., 1-5 Sun.

---

Hand-Knit Socks

Comfortable, cozy, and casual . . . Our knee-length socks, hand knit in a cheerful array of colors, are so thick and warm you can wear them as slippers. Tie tops are an interesting detail. Moderately priced at 5.95.

CHILDREN'S SIZES, TOO!

A refreshing place to shop!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

Alpaca Wool Hats

Warm, fuzzy, and fun! Our new winter hats are hand knit of exquisitely soft alpaca wool. Some sport pompons; others feature tassels or ear flaps. Each design is unique! 5.95, 6.50, 7.50.

A refreshing place to shop!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

---

fabric panels

"THE FISH"

from the Intair Collection

Fabric frames turn this West German pattern, or any other cloth, into vibrant wall hangings, which you may assemble yourself, or have done for you. You can create clothing, pillows, tote bags, window shades and drapes, folding screens, shower curtains, placemats and so much more, from the many beautiful fabrics we've gathered from around the world!

the shop for busy hands

EJ EARTHWARES®

103 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST (413) 256-8810

---

The Mercantile

in the Carriage Shops Amherst

Brass/
Glass
Boxes

...for something special--or all by themselves!

Open Sundays
'til Christmas

...the home of unusual gifts

---

Whole Wheat Trading Co.

MARVELOUS GIFTS...
woks & fry pans in every size. teapots, aprons, coffee mills, imaginative kitchen ware, books and natural cosmetics, back again: Vegimals!

181 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5169

---

BAUER ICE SKATES
HOCKEY SKATES
and
FIGURE SKATES

at

A. J. HASTING'S

newsdealer and stationer

45 S. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST

---

MON. & TUES. SPECIAL —

Buy a Large Pizza &
Get A Pitcher of Beer
for ½ Price

a varied luncheon menu
with daily specials
served in a congenial atmosphere

salads — homemade soups
deli sandwiches
subs — pizzas
all served with your favorite
beer or cocktail

Hungry-U

55 University Drive Amherst 549-5713

Thurs 11-1, Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.

---

20% OFF EVERYTHING IN BOTH STORES!

MON.-SUN. DEC. 5-11

BUS STOP

WEAR-HOUSE

...Christmas comes Early!

SALE ITEMS EXCLUDED

Viking Hus

CHRISTMAS PLATES FROM DENMARK

ORIGINAL GERMAN NUTCRACKER

LARGE SELECTION OF HAND CRAFTED JEWELRY

HAND CRAFTED POTTERY

HAND BLOWN CRYSTAL

NORWEGIAN PEWTER

CLOGS

BRING THIS AD IN FOR A 3.00 DISCOUNT WITH A PURCHASE OF $25.00 OR MORE

Eastfield Mall
Springfield ,MA

Auburn Mall
Auburn MA

Liberty Mall
Danvers, MA

Methuen Mall Methuen MA

---

K-2 Package
Shortcut Skis
Salomon 202 Binding
Poles & Installation
Reg. $200 package $149.95

K-2 Package
Quickcut Skis
Look GT or S Binding
Poles & Installation
Reg. $215 package $165

Head Package
Cimarron Skis
Look G-T or S binding
Poles & Installation
Reg. $200 package $154.95

Spalding Package
ERA 330 Skis
Look G-T Binding
Poles & Installation
Reg. $190 package $140

Cross Country Package
Jofa Step Touring Skis
Trak Sierra Boots
3 Pin Binding and Poles
Installation
Reg. $98.95 now $82.00

Cross Country Package
Silva Jogger II Skis
Silva Boots
3 Pin Binding and Poles
Installation
Reg. $87.00 now $79.95

Cross Country Package
Silva Jogger IV Skis
3 Pins Binding & Poles
Installation
Reg. $97.00 now $89.95

Cross Country Package
Silva Jogger II Skis (Mohair)
3 Pin Binding & Poles
Installation
Reg. $92.00 now $84.95

Western Village SKI SHOP at Western Auto

32 Main Street
Northhampton
open Thursday til 9
584-3620

---

MONDAY

SCHMIDT'S TRIVIA CONTEST

(3rd week)

9:30

T-SHIRTS

SKI HATS

25¢ BEERS

GRAND PRIZE

5th WEEK

PORTABLE T.V.

GAME HOST
DON SCOLLINS

THE PUB
AMHERST

TUESDAY

LIVE ENTERTAINMENT

WELCOME BACK

DAVE POWELL

SING A LONG GUITAR FROM CAPE COD

with a special

TWO FOR ONE NIGHT
9 'til 1

BEER AND MOST DRINKS
2 FOR 1

60¢
MICHELOB BOTTLES

THE PUB
AMHERST

---

- ★ Christmas Cards
- ★ Stuffed Animals
- ★ Toys and Games
- ★ Tree stands and decoration
- ★ Stationary
- ★ Buxton Billfolds

and lots more

at

A. J. Hastings
news dealer and stationer
45 S. Pleasant St.

---

DON GLEASON'S KNOWN FOR SELLING THE BEST

Down and Polaguard jackets by the North Face, Sierra Designs and Camp Trails. Down and Polaguard vest by Don Gleason and Camp Trails. Wool and chamios shirts by Woolrich, two layered underwear, tops and bottoms, and one piece unionsuits by Duofold. Down filled mittens, and gloves by Saranac. Snow shoes by Tubbs of Vermont. Sorel boots and Vasque hiking boots. Don Gleason's best means quality products for you outdoor needs

also

Other gift giving favorites
"Original Swiss army knives"
Heavy duty canvas "tote bags"
"Buck" and "Gerber" knives

plus

Our complete selection of family camping and backpacking equipment

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY INC
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS

HOURS 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER

---

Amherst Carriage Shops

the Downtown Mall

Antiques, Art & Crafts, Banking, Bicycles & Mopeds, Books, Clothing, Deli, Pipes & Tobacco Doctors & Lawyers, Gifts, Gourmet Cookware, Hairstyling, Printing & Copy Service Records, Stereo Equipment, Travel Agency, Yarns & Needlecraft

chinese wok sale

SPUN STEEL 14" PAN RING, COVER

11.99

Comp. ~~18.00~~

Essential Accessory Tools Available

habitat
10:00-5:30 MON.-SAT 549-4573

Easy Living Clothes

emporium india
Amherst, Mass

Wrap up your Christmas shopping! Great Gifts!

| | |
|---|---|
| Lighters | Swiss Army Knives |
| Pouches | Meerschaum Kits |
| Humidors | Cigar Gift Paks |
| Pipe Racks | Custom Blend Tobaccos |

Pipes Pipes Pipes!
Cigarette Cases!

The Amherst Pipe & Tobacco Co. Inc.

Comoy G.B.D Comoy Savinelli Dunhill Peterson Wild Honey Parker Butzchoquin Joby G.B.D

VALLEY BOOK SHOP

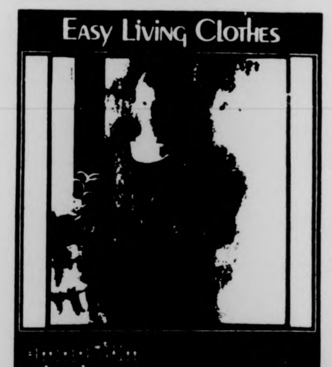
Good selection of Used paperbacks & hardbacks in good condition. New stock arriving daily. Many art books and books on most crafts now in.

Now Open Thurs. & Fri. 'til 8 p.m.
549-6052

Easy Living Clothes



Amherst, Mass

The Sheep Shop

Fine Yarns & Supplies

ORIGINAL DESIGNS IN NEEDLEPOINT & CREWEL EMBROIDERY FLOSS
RUG YARNS & CANVAS

LESSONS AVAILABLE 549-6106

Creativity is a natural at

MYSTIQUE MOUSTACHE

PROFESSIONAL STYLING
COLORING
HAIR STRAIGHTENING

SUSAN PERKINS
BY APPOINTMENT
TELEPHONE 549 3667

OPEN THURSDAYS 'TILL 9 P.M. FREE PARKING

...at the 'Y' of North & East Pleasant Streets

ARF!
LEAPIN' LIZARDS! I CAN SEE AGAIN, WITH MY "SOFLENS"™ CONTACTS FROM THE AMHERST OPTICAL SHOPPE!

Amherst Optical Shoppe

195 N. PLEASANT ST./256-6403
170 UNIVERSITY DR./253-5412

FASHIONABLE EYEWEAR
CONTACT LENSES/SUPPLIES
HEARING AID CONSULTANTS

A COMPLETE OPTICAL SERVICE

---

U. Mass to Worcester in 1-1/2 hours

FOR ONLY $2.50

Buses leave on Fri. at 1 & 5
Sat. at 12
Sun at 1 & 6:30

from C.C . C. Circle

Connection can also be made to Boston

for convenience and comfort use for more info call U. Mass. travel at 545-2006

WESTERN MASS. BUS LINES

---

COME OUTDOORS

trak cross-country ski equipment
Wigwam wool hats & socks
duofold INC thermal underwear
All-cotton turtle neck jerseys
DANSKINS legwarmers hats scarves

Empsall's Sport Shop & Laura Girard Shop

84-86 Green Street
Northampton
584-3924 584-4003

---

EXOTIC FISH & PET WORLD

ONE OF THE HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS.
7 MILES WEST ON RTE. 9 FROM AMHERST CENTER.

Christmas Tank Specials

DEC. 1st to DEC. 24th

Economy 20 gal.
COMPLETE ENSEMBLE,
SALE PRICE, $57.00

Deluxe 20 gal.
COMPLETE TANK SET UP
SALE PRICE $68.08

Complete 20 gal.
SALT WATER FISH SET UP
INCLUDES TEST KITS $103.13

10 gal. complete
AQUARIUM SET UP
$22.71

Deluxe 29 gal.
COMPLETE AQUARIUM
ENSEMBLE $86.68

10-9 DAILY 586-3362 10-6 SAT, SUN

---

genesis II

holiday gifts

Backgammon
assorted textures colors and sizes
from $8.95

Canvas Bags
with vinyl trim
from $4.95

Sweaters
from $5.25

HOLIDAY HOURS: Sun. 10-6
Mon-Sat 10-6

SPECIAL: FRI. DEC. 16 open 'til MIDNIGHT
at which time we will award a
FREE
$25
GIFT CERTIFICATE
to a lucky winner
come in for details!
no purchase necessary

65 university dr
amherst

---

SEASONS GREETINGS FROM THE

Spirit Haus

Liquor Store

open 'till 11 p.m. daily

Try our huge selection of cordials for much more than drinking!

Stop in for numerous gift suggestions for the hard-to buy-for person on your list!

Domestic and imported wines for all festive occaisions!

FOR ALL YOUR HOLIDAY NEEDS

338 Collgege St. (Rt 9) Amherst

256-8433
253-5384

COLLEGE DRUG STORE

CHRISTMAS FROM LOVE. WITH LOVE.
Just $2.25

FREE 12 OUNCE PLASTIC TUMBLER with purchase of 3 bath size Safeguard Soap
3-5.0 OZ. BATH BARS ONLY .36
Hurry Limited Free Offer... See Our Display

NOW ONE COAT IS ALL YOU HAVE TO WEAR!
NEW! LOVE'S LASH WORKS
The one-coat Mascara
Lengthen, darken, condition your lashes the quick, clean, easy way.
The remarkable new shaped brush out-performs ordinary brushes and combs.
Only $2.00

REVLON FLEX BALSAM & PROTEIN
REVLON Dry Skin Relief Moisture Lotion
2.75/1.99 2.35/1.39

For Deliciously Soft, Shiny... LOVE'S LipSicles cool, moisturizing, flavored lip glosses with protective sunscreen.
JUST $1.25

CHRISTMAS FROM LOVE. WITH LOVE.
Just $2.25

---

A Lost Art

HAND CRAFTED JEWELRY AND FINE GIFTS FROM GLASS TO GOLD

silverscape designs

WHERE WE
FORGE YOUR FANTASY
INTO REALITY

264 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, Mass.

---

Christmas in Amherst

WEEKLY GIFT CERTIFICATES GIVEN AWAY AT THE PARTICIPATING STORES:
COME IN AND REGISTER!

| | |
|---|---|
| House Of Walsh-$20 | Kentfield Hardware-$5 |
| Jeffery Amherst Bookshop-$10 | Mercantile-$25 |
| The Leather Shed-$15 | Amherst Optical Shoppe-$10 |
| Lord Jeffery Inn-$5 | Amherst Savings Bank |
| Mathews Shoes-$5 | Ann August Stores-$5 |
| Baker Winn Jewelers-$10 | Bolles Shoe Store-$10 |
| Paper Clip, Ltd. -$5 | Chequers Restaurant-$10 |
| River Valley Crafts | College Drug Store-$5 |
| The Salt Box-$10 | Earthwares-$10 |
| The Shoe-Bin-$10 | Eric's Food Shop-$5 |
| F.A. Thompson & Son-$10 | Faces Of Earth-$25 |
| Tripod Camera Shop-$5 | A.J. Hastings-$5 |
| Whole Wheat Trading Company-$15 | Houck Jewelers-$10 |
| David Whitman's Hair Shack-$5 | First National Bank Of Amherst-bicentennial coins on Dec. 22 |
| Television Center-$10 | |

STORES OPEN THURSDAY NIGHTS.
SPONSORED BY THE AMHERST CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

CIMA

CONTEMPORARY SPORTSWEAR

Experience our comfortable cowls in soft pastel colors

Available in cream,

peach, rosewood, white, violet and many others

Size L-M-S

Shawls also available in assorted colors

211 MAIN ST. 584-0550 NORTHAMPTON

---

Hair Fashion Accessories

Functional, of course—but more important, our combs, barrettes, headbands, and bobbies are beautiful fashion accents. Classic tortoise-shell designs, luminous enamels, rich and subtle solids. A fine gift idea. 1.25 - 6.00.

A refreshing place to shop!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

---

Charlie's

U MASS NIGHT

10% OFF

ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID

1 PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-6403 Next to The PUB

---

The Collegian staff
and its advertisers wish you
the best of holiday seasons

---

Hal of Collegetown Barbers

presents

Mr. Joseph Murratti

Adding a completely new dimension of custom hairstyling at Amherst's finest hair care center

Precision layercuts for men and women

Visit us for a new look for Christmas.

183 No. Pleasant St. Amherst

---

BACK ROOM RECORD SHOP

RECORD ALBUM SPECIAL

All 6.98 List 3.99 With Coupon

All 7.98 List 4.76 Expires Dec. 15

WEEKLY SPECIALS ALSO

USED RECORDS Bought & Sold

FILM DEVELOPING SPECIAL

12 Ex ROLL PRINTED $2.59
20Ex ROLL PRINTED $3.59

LOWEST PRICES ON KODAK FILM

Located in the rear of the College Town Barber Shop
183 N. Pleasant St., Next to the Mobil Sta.

---

Quality Leather at Good Prices

Men's Leather Wallets

An excellent variety of wallets from Faces' leather collection. Flatfold, bifold, and trifold designs, each with plenty of well-organized interior pockets. Look for such special features as key compartments and credit card holders. Rugged saddle cowhide, smooth harness cowhide, or super-soft Nappa leather. Crisp, distinctive styling and the unmistakable look of fine workmanship. 5.95-8.95.

The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

---

THE PILLOW STORE

$39⁰⁰ STARTER SET
TRY PILLOW FURNITURE

YOU'LL FALL IN LOVE WITH THEM AND ON THEM

2 sets are alove seat
3 sets are a couch

selling elsewhere for $105
We are Factory Direct
You are the Middle Man

velours · cottons velvets · custom made · patchwork

THE PILLOW STORE
255 TRIANGLE ST.

OPEN EVENINGS TILL CHRISTMAS

BOOT

SALE!

UP TO

40% SAVINGS

ON

MANY STYLES

the SHOE BIN

187 n. pleasant st., amherst

clothes call

10% OFF

All winter fashions thru December

(sale items & layaways not included)

MAIN STREET CENTER
Northampton

Thurs. & Fri. Night til 9

The Paper Clip Ltd.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

- Contemporary, Museum & Traditional
- Boxed Solids & Assortments
- Individual Cards & Postcards

STOCKING STUFFERS

Literally hundreds of novelty & convenience items from paper clips to pen sets

PARTY SUPPLIES

- Invitations
- Decorations
- Doilies & Tableware
- Decorated & Solid Color Ensembles

CHRISTMAS WRAPPING PAPER

- Colorful Roll or Flat Wrap
- Cards, Tags, & Seals
- Mailing Supplies

OFFICE ACCESSORIES

- Desk Sets
- Writing Instruments
Select from our stock or our 20,000 item catalog

BOXED STATIONERY

- Imported & Domestic
- Decorated or Solid Colors
- Personalized Notes & Stationery

Holiday Store Hours

Mon. thru Fri. 9 to 9 Saturday 9 to 6

25 S. Pleasant St., Amherst, Ma., 01002

j cifarelli jeweler

mountain farms mall-hadley,mass

j cifarelli jeweler
DESIGN & REPAIR
j cifarelli jeweler
GOLD & SILVER
j cifarelli jeweler
QUALITY & SELECTION
j cifarelli jeweler
RINGS & PENDANTS
j cifarelli jeweler
DIAMONDS & PEARLS
j cifarelli jeweler
SEIKO & BULOVA
j cifarelli jeweler
PRIDE & SERVICE
j cifarelli jeweler
CHAINS & BANGLES
j cifarelli jeweler

PUT THE AMHERST DELI in your ICE BOX

"MERRY CHRISTMAS"

FROM THE DELI

in THE CARRIAGE SHOPS 549-6314
OPEN SUNDAYS

at the

SALT BOX

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR THE WOMEN IN YOUR LIFE!

SWEATERS:
Cashmere
Fairsles
Patterned
Shetland

Imported, Le Urai Breton Sweaters,
Norwegian Handknit Tunics,
Handknit bulky Sweaters or Skrimshaw

Sportwear dresses, nightwear, robes and evening wear.
Jewelry, monogrammed Tote Bags, Belts, Scottish woven scarfs, Shawls and plaid Lap robes.

FORTE PRINTING

CANVAS TOTE BAGS

Screen printed Cats, herbs, mush rooms, & flowers.

AVAILABLE AT paperback booksmith
mountain farms mall

50¢off with ad
good to Dec 31

FENTON'S

WHOLESALE & RETAIL

SOCCER
SWIMMING
TENNIS
TRACK
VOLLEYBALL
SQUASH
BADMINTON

Supplying the Amherst area with the finest in atheletic supplies and equiptment!!

TENNIS RESTRINGING
&
SKATE SHARPENING

SPORTSWEAR
JOGGING
TABLE TENNIS
LACROSSE
SOFTBALL
HANDBALL
RUGBY

377 MAIN ST. AMHERST
253-3973

THE SPORT STORE

JELENK

LOOMTOGS

COURT CASUALS

WHITE STAG

178a N. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-2719 Daily 10-6, Thurs. 'til 8

ambrosia cheese market & ESPRESSO CAFE'

HOLIDAY GIFTS!
3 lb. CHEDDAR WHEELS . . . 8.99
70 CHEESES & ASSORTED CRACKERS
12 FINE BEAN COFFEES
TEAS & MUSTARDS

While you're shopping, visit our European Cafe, serving:
ESPRESSO, CAPPUCCINO
HOMEMADE PIES & DESSERTS
CHEESE QUICHE, FETA PASTRY
SANDWICHES, & FRESH BAGELS

Look for the bright awning on the YELLOW HOUSE . . .

264 n. pleasant st. Amherst 253-3324

YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US!

Almys

YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US!

OPEN MON-SAT, 10-10pm; SUNDAY, 12-6pm

CHRISTMAS GIFT SALE

E.S.A.

USE OUR E.S.A. PLAN— PAY FOR YOUR PURCHASES NEXT YEAR

On our "Early Shopper's Account Plan," all your purchases now thru December 31 are payable next year. Thus, it's designed to help you over a difficult buying period. Most other plans make you pay for your purchases in January. We let you break up the payments over the first three months of 1978. You pay ⅓ in January, ⅓ in February, ⅓ in March. Ask about it at our Credit Office.

SALE STARTS SUNDAY, DECEMBER 4 • CONTINUES THRU SATURDAY, DECEMBER 10

20% OFF MEN'S GIFT SWEATERS

regularly 7.98-$25

Now 6.39-$20

Not a special purchase, but all our own in-stock sweaters, every bit first quality, beautifully made of 100% lambs wool; 70% New Zealand wool and 30% Acrylic; Orlon Acrylics; Wintuck Orlons. Choose from every wanted style including sleeveless, crewnecks, cardigans. S, M, L, wide choice of colors.

20% OFF LADIES, JUNIORS SWEATERS

regularly 9.98 to 20.98

Now 7.98 to 16.78

Selected groups of wraps, cardigans, pullovers in varied styles. Wide choice of colors and patterns. Sizes 34 to 40 and S, M, L.

20% OFF LADIES' WARM WINTER COATS

regularly $33 to $103

Now 26.40 to 82.40

Save 20% off regular prices on winter coats. Many styles, including pant coats, with and without hoods. Also, long coats, single and double breasted—some with fur collars. In regular and half sizes.

OPEN SUNDAY, DECEMBER 4, FROM 1 PM to 6 PM

20% OFF LADIES HOLIDAY FASHIONS

regularly $14 to $50

Now 11.20 to $40

Choose from our entire stock of pantsuits, dresses, long dresses and skirt sets. Beautiful colors and fabrics in the latest styles.

20% OFF ALL BOYS WINTERWEAR

regularly 98¢ to 39.98

Now 78¢ to 31.98

All boys' cold weather gear, sizes 8 to 18, 20% off for this sale. Includes jackets, sweaters, flannel shirts, hats, gloves, thermal underwear, flannel pajamas, flannel robes.

20% OFF ALL CHRISTMAS TREES

regularly 3.88 to 59.88

Now 3.10 to 47.90

Save a big 20% off any tree in stock. Choice of conventional models with color-coded branches for easy assembly and also of convenience models that are pre-assembled. Sizes from 2 to 7 feet.

USE YOUR STORE CHARGE BANKAMERICARD MASTERCHARGE

all stores open every night 'til Christmas

SALEM, BEVERLY, DANVERS, REVERE, BURLINGTON, BROCKTON, EVERETT, STONEHAM, METHUEN, HANOVER, HADLEY, GARDNER, WALPOLE, NASHUA, N.H.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY ELECTION SPECIAL DECEMBER 5 & 6, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Election Special

Editor-in-Chief

Brad Goverman

I began writing for the Collegian in the second semester of my sophomore year. Prior to then I was a business major working toward a degree in common sense. Inspired by Woodward and Bernstein and my thirst for more exciting pursuits, I joined the Collegian staff as a beat reporter covering Sylvan Area Government.

Since then my involvement with the Collegian has intensified both as a reporter and as a person with a genuine interest in its makings. From this latter capacity, I think I've been able to build a good understanding of the newspaper's operation.

I decided to run for Editor-in-Chief for two reasons: because I have a lot of energy to offer in terms of moving the paper in a better direction, and because I enjoy working here.

My platform is to strive toward a more professional newspaper. Many people make the mistake of assuming the Collegian is a college newspaper. But you cannot classify newspapers; a newspaper is a newspaper. We have the same responsibilities as the Amherst Record or any other paper in this area. We must keep an informed electorate on community, local, national, and international levels on a daily basis. This is what we try to do now and this is what I think we should try to do better.

As a student-run professional newspaper we lack in continuity, staffing, and time.

By the time a reporter finally attains a good working knowledge of his/her beat, it's time to graduate and all that knowledge is lost. Some dedicated reporters do pass on this knowledge at their own time and expense, but not all. We must all learn to educate ourselves; it is to the benefit of the entire community and should be a personal duty.

The staffing problem is easily solved by recruitment plans such as the one Joe "right stuff" Quinlan has proposed in his platform.

Time is a more serious problem. Several people have suggested paying beat reporters a stipend amount per week and stringers a certain amount per inch. This has its good and bad points and I think the good points are strong enough to merit the issue a spot on the Board's agenda.

Next year is an election year which means news and plenty of it. The gubernatorial race and referendum questions are important to all Mass. voters and should be followed closely. For this reason I have talked with people in the internship office about stationing a few Collegian reporters in Boston to follow the action. Hopefully, under the auspices of the internship office, and with faculty support, such an arrangement will be possible.

I feel it is of paramount importance to maintain the Collegian's credibility that we get the paper out early in the morning every morning. The printer is to blame for our current late paper problems, but proper pressure applied in the right places may correct this situation, hopefully for as long as it takes to achieve our long term goal: to get the university to purchase our own printing facilities. If elected, I intend to work closely with the managing editor to solve both these short term and long range problems.

Because of space limitations I had to be brief. Please feel free to question me on anything at the staff meeting. Thank you.

Mark Leccese

The Collegian is one of the few things on this large and diverse campus that touches everyone; not only do people read it, they rely on it and react to it. As the only student medium on campus, the Collegian has a tremendous responsiblility.

An Editor-in-Chief serves as the paper's representative to the community. He/she must answer to the community for everything the paper prints, from news stories to ads. The Editor-in-Chief must oversee the workings of the entire Collegian staff, coordinate so that the separate departments work together, advise each department, and put into action all the decisions made by the Editor-in-Chief's supervisors: the Publishing Board, the collective Board of Editors, and the Collegian staff.

Most importantly, the Editor-in-Chief must have a sense of the papers's direction, a vision for what the Collegian is and should be, and strive to lead the paper in this direction.

I have the experience and the responsiblility to carry out these jobs. I served on the Board of Editors as the Fine Arts Editor. This job made me a sort of Editor-in-Chief of my own paper, Below the Salt. For one semester as an assistant (performing editorial duties due to the Editor's other commitments) and for one semester as the editor, I supervised and led a staff and subeditors in the production of a weekly newspaper-magazine. This job included everything: working to give the paper a unique identity and keeping it going in a specific direction, dealing with the community, working with other departments of the Collegian, including the Business Department, and copy editing, designing, laying-out and pasting up the issues.

In the past semester, as an Issue Editor, I have worked constantly with every department of the paper, especially the news department. I have designed, layed out and pasted-up sections of one Collegian every week.

As a Journalistic Studies and English major and employee of the Collegian in various capacities, I have studied the idea of a newspaper from classroom discussions to daily production.

The Editor-in-Chief does not set the editorial policy of the paper; that is the job of the Board of Editors. What the Chief must do is to set forth the idea of what the Collegian, as a newspaper should be, as I have said before.

The Collegian is more than a student exercise. It is the sole medium for 24,000 students on this campus. It's job is as serious and important as any metropolitan daily's. But it is still for, by and about students. And it will always be fun.

Bill Sundstrom

The first semester of my freshperson year found me stumbling into the Collegian office (back then it was in the Student Union building) to write an occasional commentary or to do some op-ed page layout. Now completing my fifth semester of involvement in the paper, I feel I have reached the point where I can competently assume its leadership.

My major qualification is having been Executive Editor for the past two semesters (and Assistant Executive the two preceding semesters). In that position I have dealt with the "public," complaints of various sorts, and in house disputes, as well as the normal responsibilities of editing, being on the Board of Editors and the Publishing Board, and writing a column. With my experiences here in mind, I have formulated the following goals and observations as important considerations if I amd elected.

First is the purposes and goals of the Collegian as a whole. While each of us may know what we wish to gain as individuals at the Collegian, the paper has sometimes lacked an overall direction and clearly expressed journalistic goals. It is the Editor-in-Chief's responsibility to see that goals are articulated and discussed (even if specifics can't always be arrived at), and that everyone examines on a regualr basis how well the goals are being achieved. Knowledge of our mutual objectives will help pull the staff together and alleviate the "business-editorial" split that has been a problem at the paper as long as I have been here.

The Collegian Constitition lists the two most important purposes of the paper - serving the University community by providing accurate information and a forum for the exchange of ideas, and serving as a training place for students interested in gaining practical experience in newpaper work. These two goals sometimes conflict, and it is the Editor-in Chief's job to pursue a balance between the interests when they do compete by providing leadership and coordinating discussion.

It is sometimes falsely assumed that an obligation to community interests implies some sort of obligation to the Student Senate's wishes, simply because the Senate is the students' representative body. Of course, the Collegian must remain as independent as possible of any particular political interests, even those articulated by a Senate majority. The fact that we operate in Senate controlled space and with partial Senate funding subjects us to all sorts of economic threats which we should be organized to confront and perhaps lobby against when necessary.

On the other hand, we cannot allow ourselves to become oblivious to the community we are here to serve. One of the Editor-in Chief's main responsibilities is to act as an ombudsdperson who actively seeks out community input and participation from a broad range of sources - e.g. the women's and Third World communities, departmental organizations, etc.

One big problem this semester was a lack of communication within the Collegian staff. Ron began a good thing with the in-house paper, which I would continue, and it would also be belpful to hold more regular staff meeetings and keep everyone aware of what the Board of Editors was up to and when it was meeting. A variety of committees and task forces (made of staff memebers) could also be set up to deal with a number of issues.

I would like to see more journalistic experimentation in the Collegian. While most reporters will wish to use the "objective style" for their work, there should also be a place for people interested in alternatives - advocacy and feature styles included. The growing use of non-objective styles in "real world" newspapers and magazines suggests that there is a professional argument for increased use of alternatives in the Collegian. The proper forum for use of alternative styles should become a major topic of discussion, particularly for new staff.

Home phone: 546-66023

Managing Editor

Dottie Clark

We all seem to have lost sight of, or perhaps were never aware of the duties of the managing editor. In the "real world" setting of the daily newspaper operation the duties of the managing editor include the collection of news and the actual making of the newspaper. The managing editor directs and takes part in the work and sees that is is done well.

In our existing system the news department stands alone in its decision making processes and the outcome of the news pages. I believe the managing editor, while overseeing the other areas of production in the Collegian, should play an important role in the coordination of all news presented in the Collegian.

While I do not propose that the managing editor, in essence, become a news editor, I believe that working closely with all departments, especially the news department, will make for a more cohesive and appealing newspaper. Communication is a necessary element to the production of our newspaper. As I have witnessed this semester, a lack of communication has resulted in several screw-ups. The managing editor must have a basic knowledge of what goes on in every department and should know of all decisions and changes made in these departments. When these elements affect the Collegian as a whole, the managing editor should have some input.

Having worked as an assistant news editor for the past two semesters I feel I am capable of effecting this type of coordination, which, in my view, the Collegian has been short on for some time. Though my knowledge of lay-out is relatively low, I plan to spend the remainder of this semester working with issue editors, and next semester I plan to hire an assistant who is knowledgeable in that area.

One thing I think we all must remember is that this is a college newspaper. I don't advocate a New York Times or Boston Globe attitude because this could be detrimental to maintaining new staff members and gives an air of tension to the office. Nor do I believe we should operate in a Mickey Mouse Club fashion, but we can be more efficient than we've been in the past.

Lay-out, I feel, should not be a static art. Experimentation along with mistakes is part of the learning process and that's what we're here for. Not too many of us would be here if we were professionals. The Collegian is really our only chance in our journalistic careers to put our ideas to work freely and we should make use of that privelege.

I would like to see the Collegian on campus between 7 and 8 a.m. and I feel this is quite possible with a little more effort on our part and more communication with Ware.

The Collegian means a lot to me, otherwise I wouldn't defer my graduation to stay around and aid in its progression. I know my time won't be wasted.

Jim Kassner

The managing editor of the Collegian can conceivably be the most powerful position on the paper. More than anything else, I feel the position requires an ability to coordinate the various departments of the paper in order that production on a daily basis is facilitated, with a minimum of production-related problems. The specifics follow...

As Assistant News Editor, I was responsible for assigning and editing stories, and placing them on the news pages. This involved working with the photo department, the wire layout staff, and the issue editors. As a result of these relationship, I feel I have experience in most aspects of the paper, and can continue to work with the various departments as managing editor.

In addition, I have extensive newswriting experience which helped develop my news judgement, something I think is essential to the position of m.e.

I have been around the Collegian since my freshman year (1974) and I feel I know most of the staff members personally. Hopefully, they would not hesitate to come to me with any problems they might have regarding the paper.

The ability to communicate with other people is one of the chief demands of the m.e.'s job. Whether it be a production meeting with Turley or a problem writing a news story, I believe I have this ability.

The staff should be aware that I will be graduating in May, and do not plan on staying another semester. I would instead hire assistants (two or three) and gradually ease one of them into the position by the end of the semester. This would result in a more efficient operation, and effect a smooth transition from spring to next fall.

Some of the more specific areas which should be examined include the definition of the Collegian's responsibilities. How far does the Collegian want to go in covering the surrounding towns? How much wire news should the paper use on the front three pages? These questions should be answered by the staff to determine the paper's future direction.

Other responsibilities of the m.e. include the resolution of problems between departments. Better communication is definitely required between the news, photo, and wire departments. It is essential that these departments operate with each other, rather than as independant units. An entire revamp of the present procuction area may be necessary.

Finally, the job of m.e. requires an understanding of the entire news process - which is basically people. I believe I can relate to the staff as a person rather than as a beaurocrat which may be the m.e.'s most important, and difficult job.

---

Business Manager

Laurie Wood

Hi! I'm Laurie Wood and I'm running for Business Manager.

As of November 30 there is no announced opposition for this position. Although it secures my bid for the office, I apologize for the lack of choice the Collegian voters have in deciding this race.

Most of you know me because of my payrole duties. For almost a year now I've been Assistant Business Manager, tending to the routine and mundane tasks assigned to that office. But, my experience goes far beyond that.

When I began my career at the Collegian two years ago, I was a member of the news department. I remained on that side of the wall for approximately twelve months. In that time I was an Assistant Issue Editor, an Issue Editor, and a Summer Editor for the last three weeks of the Collegian's summer 1976 edition.

I am currently a senior enrolled in the School of Business Administration. I'm interested in all aspects of business and feel particularly qualified to be in charge of the Collegian's finances.

Through my experience in the news department, I've learned that there is definitely a human side to business...it's not just columns of figures noting credits and debits; and I'm certainly sympathetic and understanding of the image that news has of the business department. News is more concerned with the availability of working typewriters and good supplies of stationary rather than year end balances. I'm confident you can look forward to more communication between business and news if I'm elected to the position.

The continuing development of the graphics department is one project to which I am going to devote my energy. The first graphics equipment acquisition was made a couple of years ago and an additional $30,000 has been spent since that time on new equipment. Within the next year and a half I would like to see the capabilities of graphics expanded until the Collegian can be sent to the printer camera ready.

There are also many things the newsroom needs. I plan to budget enough money for the next fiscal year to take care of as many of the purchases the news department will have to make.

People at the Collegian have known me long enough to appreciate my loyalty, dedication and devotion to the paper. In the spirit of "unyielding service" to the paper, I plan on doing an extra semester so I can devote time to the position of Business Manager.

Thank you for your support.

Unopposed

News Editor

Running unopposed for news editor is not much of a challenge, but running the news department next semester is.

The news staff, as it is now, is composed of many people with less than a year's news reporting experience. Yet, this semester, Bernie Davidow managed to coordinate a reorganization of the news department without sacrificing news coverage and accuracy. Next smeester, the experience of the past 17 weeks must be used to polish off and extend Bernie's reorganization efforts. Next semester careful planning must be used for every story assignment, deliberate editing for every piece of copy. Reporters must be made to feel at home in this office—that is the only way they will remain enthusiastic about working at the Collegian. Too many reporters pass through this office, write a story or two, and never return.

Among the changes I hope to initiate next semester will be colloques in news writing, copy editing and make-up, which will be taught by senior staff members. I also hope to initiate a new system of news processing. I would like to bring the wire news under my jurisdiction, as the news editor, while the mangaing editor would primarily be responsible for consistent news play of stories on the page, a responsiblility primarily involving lay-out and make-up skills. I will be staying in Amherst this January to work on the reorganization.

I joined the Collegian staff last February, and have since worked as a general news reporter and assistant news editor. I remained in Amherst this summer and wrote for the weekly Summer Collegian and the Back to School issue. I also string for United Press International. I worked as assistant news editor this semester until financial aid problems forced me to quit about a month ago.

Thank You.

Joe Quinlan

V O T E

Executive Editor

Charles Bagli

Charles Bagli: B.A. from Boston University in political science. Former reporter for weekly Boston University community paper, The News. Since coming to UMass I've written numerous columns and commentaries on local, national and international politics. This past semester I've had a bi-monthly column. Member of the R.S.B.

I'd like to continue many of the policies of the former editor, Bill Sundstrom, and amplify them. For example: trying to identify controversial topics and soliciting commentaries and editorials of a conflicting nature; encourage letters from diverse sections of the University community; seeking out local political cartoonists; initiating special topic days; i.e., International Womens Day, Mayday, etc.

There are some aspects of the job that I'm not totally familiar with; however, I don't intend to remain ignorant of those aspects.

I don't have much more to say which may reflect my ignorance of the magnitude of the executive editor position. But I'll pick it up.

Michael Doran

Qualifications: Have written two semesters for Below the Salt, doing theatre reviews. Was Asst. Fine Arts Editor for the two weeks of Debbie Schaffer's editorship, then became Asst. Exec. Editor and have been happily harassing columnists up to the present.

EDITORIAL POLICY PLATFORM:

"That which purifies us is trial, and trial is by what is contrary."
John Milton----Areopagitica

As the quote indicates, I believe in controversy, and any expression of opinion is to be allowable and printable. It will not be my role, if elected, to decide on the validity or non-validty of any opinion expressed. Rather, I see my role as one who controls the quality of the pages, and one who tries to improve such.

Frankly, I think that the quality of writing on the editorial page could use a little upgrading. I would like to remedy this situation by a number of means: setting and adhering to deadlines that allow me to work with the writer on problems with his-her column before it is printed; developing new writers and occasionally utilizing the enormous wealth of experts in the Five College area on complex issues.

The only other problem with the pages is that of range, but I think the above mentioned policy improvements will alleviate this situation also.

Last book read? No, it was blue with white lettering.

Favorite quote? "You are alone with the Alone and it is His move." Robert Penn Warren

Scotch? No, Irish Catholic.

Paul Yanowitch

Women's Editor

Amy Kaplan

I am Amy Kaplan and hope to be Women's Editor of the Collegian. A description of the position of Women's Editor and what I plan to accomplish will be first. Secondly, my qualifications for the job will be stated.

The position entails a number of responsibilities which can be discussed. I consider the job to be one where a liason is maintained between the staff and the women's news department. It seems important that women's news does not stand apart as being different, but is incorporated into the news pages as pertinent information for the community. A women's department within the newspaper should not create animosity between feminists and Collegian writers, instead a liason must be created where all women on campus can feel a unity by being aware of the issues.

Generally, it is effective to incorporate women's news with other news. However, occasionally there is opportunity to produce a special concerning a special event such as International Womens Week. I would like to also put together a bi-monthly women's section which would contain information about special area events and feature stories. Relevant national and local news could also be included in this section.

Hopefully, as editor, I could help generate an awareness of women's issues such as health, politics, sex roles, economics, and history. This could be done stylistically by checking news and editorial policy for sexist references.

An additional way of raising awareness is to hold a colloquim discussing women's issues and ideology. I am interested in leading such a class for staff members and feel it an important method of information and discussion.

The issue of sexist advertisements has been discussed for some time and it is essential that policy be determined. As Editor, I would establish a committee comprised of equal mumbers of males and females that would discuss whether the present advertisements are sexist and how to deal with this problem.

My qualifications for the position are as follows. I have taken Women's Studies courses which have given me a broad background in feminist ideology. In addition, I read much literature and essays by and about women. This year I have been a staff member of the Orchard Hill Women's Center and have organized a variety of films and lectures. This has been helpful as far as getting me in contact with many women on campus and in the five college area. I have written both women's and other news this year and have served as an assistant Issue Editor and learned layout and editing.

Julie Melrose

Note: As women's editors are more often than not female, I have chosen to avoid the clumsiness of he/she and refer to the women's editor as "she" throughout this statement.

As the role of women in American society changes, the role of Women's Editor must change with it. Traditionally, "women's news" has focused on fashion, society gossip and homemaking. Newspapers have now become a place where women inform themselves about the many new options available to them as our definition of "women's place" expands to encompass the world at large.

A Women's Editor today needs more than good writing and editing skills and the ability to recognize current events of particular interest to women. She must have an understanding of the past and present status of women in America. She must have a knowledge of the way in which traditional attitudes towards women have affected, and continue to affect, contemporary women's lives.

A Women's Editor must have the willingness to listen to members of the community she serves; to respond to their needs and interests. And because increased freedom for women means they must face major life decisions which many women's backgrounds have not adequately prepared them to make, a Women's Editor must provide readers with information that will help them make positive decisions for the future.

I have had many experiences in the past few years which I feel leave me well qualified to fill the position of *Collegian*Women's Editor:

I have completed courses in 19th and 20th Century Women's History, Newswriting and Reporting, Sexism Awareness Counselor Training and University Health Aides training (two semesters, with an emphasis on women's health issues.)

I am trained in oral history (the gathering of information from persons who have led historically significant lives), having participated in the first seminar in that technique offered at UMass.

I will be continuing studies relevent to work as a Women's Editor next semester in three courses: News Editing, Psychology of Women and Sexuality and Society.

Conferences on women's issues I have attended include the '75 and '77 UMass Women's Conferences, the UMass Conference on Rape, the Boston College Conference on Women and Alcohol, and the Copeland Colloquium on Family Life in America held at Amherst College.

I was employed for two years as Sexism Awareness Counselor of Butterfield House. Related activities included facilitation of two colloquia (Human Liberation and Feminist Study Group) and many workshops on sex roles through the Orchard Hill Institute. I also served as Butterfield's health counselor, and facilitated numerous workshops on women's health care.

I have been writing for many years. My newspaper credits include a feature article on Butterfield Arts Group [Amherst Record, 10-75) and the Collegian Women's Health Series.

I am the author of an oral history of the anti-war demonstrations at Westover Air Force Base [In Search of the Enemy, '75), a copy of which is held by the UMass Archives.

I also had the opportunity to work in a professional capacity as an oral historian when I was hired on grant funds from the Chancellor's Office to do an oral history of UMass. My responsibilities included project design, historical research, selection and interviewing of subjects, transcription of taped interviews into manuscript form and manuscript editing. The UMass Oral History Project is also held by the University Archives.

I have presented my own and other women's poetry and fiction at Butterfield House readings.

My current activities include preliminary research for an oral history of the Seabrook occupation.

---

Have fun!

"And now the end is near
and so we face the final curtain...

Yes my friend, the time has come again to bid farewell to our outgoing Board of Editors. As with every year, this is a time for tears, a time for boastful parting words, a time to lie to the departing editors and tell them they've done a fine job.

To all our successors, we wish you suckers luck. We'll be thinking of you out in the real world.

Have fun.

Sincerely,

Ron Arena
Bob Higgins
Tony Armelin
Bernie Davidow
Bill Sundstrom
Angela Thomas
Fifi Ball
Judy Van Handle
Marilyn Mankowaky
Bob Armstrong

Photo Editor

Pat Dobbs

The problems in the photo department can only be resovled by a photo editor who wants to put in the time to do the job. Problems with the news department, Black Affairs, and the sports department can only be solved by an editor who is in the office a great deal. I feel that my association with the photo department in the role as the assistant photo editor has prepared me to assume the role of photo editor. I know the personnel of each of the departments (except graphics) and my close contact with the news department, sports and other departments can solve many of the problems involved with maintaining a good relationship with each.

The photo staff would undergo minor changes in operational procedures, but my main concern is to interest more poople in the photo staff and to build a competent staff. In my opinion, a staff can't be held unless new photograhpers get good assignments and are reinforced with published work. No one wants to cover student senate every night and no one should. There should be a variety of assignments thought of by news, and feature ideas provided by the photo editor and the staff at weekly meetings to prevent the staff from becoming bored with the daily assignments.

The filing system is a mess. I feel that a major overhauling of the system should be made before the beginning of the semester and a step-by-step cataloging should occur over the semester of new photos being introduced into the files. The cataloging would be started by the photo editor and maintained throughout the semester by each of the techs and the work-study person as well.

My experience with the staff of this semseter as well as my technical knowlege qualify me to assume the editorship, in my opinion. Let's make the Collegian a working-learning experience and not a competive race.

********************

Candidates night will be held Monday, December 5 at 7:00 pm in Campus Center room 101.

The following day (Dec. 6), ballot voting will be held in the Collegian office from 9:00 am - 3:00 pm.

********************

Dave Rodgers

I am presently a junior majoring in JS-English, I am running because I feel that I have a lot to contribute to the Collegian. If the elections were simply popularity races I would have never entered. Pat Dobbs has waged a very aggressive and successful campaign. Most likely all you know of me is what you look at in the papers, yy pictures. I hope this helps to enlighten you.

I could have easily gone out and campaigned as hard as Pat, made sure I always said hello to you and pretended that I was overly interested in your life. Instead I worked hard inside the photography department, hoping that my extensive experience and ability would speak louder than meaningless pleasantries.

This doesn't mean that I'm not interested in you. I was photography editor for my high school (Concord-Carlisle) yearbook for two years and it was there that I learned how important communication is. I was able to train many budding photographers and with my assistance they were able to land paying newspaper jobs and as a result, we had a happy, successful photo staff.

I have had plenty of experience in the "real world" too. I have worked for three different newspapers as a payed staff photographer: the Concord Free Press, Concord Jorurnal (weeklies), and the Beacon Sports Lite, a biweekly sporting newspaper that covered colleges and high schools in eastern Mass. Presently I am an AP and UPI stringer.

I have done extensive freelance work from wedding and pet photography to exclusive news photos. The town of Concord hired me as the official photographer for the events on April 19, 1975, the 200th anniversary of the Concord-Lexington battle. Several off-Broadway theaters have hired me to do their publicity work. My photographs have been used to illustrate a book, several pamphlet type ephemera, and the list goes on. Presently I am working with four other students on a documentary that is scheduled to appear in the Globe. I am doing all of the photography and writing an article as well.

My main objective once I am elected is to develop more communication in the photo department. Many complaints go unheard and so people leave the Collegian dissatisfied. Chuck Kidd, our photo advisor ia a valuable asset to the Collegian, but too few photographers are able to benefit from his talents. This isn't his fault, it is the Collegian's. I hope to work closely with Chuck and the other experienced photographers on the staff in teaching the beginner how to become a good photographer. I feel strongly that we can develop the photo staff into a top notch staff worth of the Collegian's position as one of the top ten student newspapers in the country. We have all of the necessary tools--all we need to do is apply them.

Fine Arts Editor

Jim Paulin

Below the Salt exists to serve a number of functions: to provide reportage and criticism of cultural-societal events and trends, to be an outlet for creativity, both verbally and visually, and to disturb the sound of silence.

It's the newspaper of the "roar of greasepaint and the smell of the crowd." It's the performing arts - concerts and the theater, and like jai alai, I want it to be both ballet and dynamite. In the category of performing arts I include politics as tragic-comic theater, and with election year approaching, those travelling theater troupes known as political campaigns will be making a lot of stops here at the state's flagship campus.

The welcome mat is out for poets, artists and writers.

One aspect of the arts I want to give a lot of play is the nature of arts bureaucracy - state and federal funding of the arts and how students can master the art of grantsmanship - that is, how to get the government to sponsor you in an artistic endeavor.

I also want to run stories regularly about what goes on in the Fine Arts Center - how decisions are made and who makes them and who holds the purse strings. Also, I want the paper to cover the activity of student run cultural organizations such as the Union Program Council and the Arts Council.

Also I want to allow students in the various arts and other departments to write why they think their department is fine or fucked.

Basically, what I want is a lot of investigative reporting on the arts and entertainment on campus, and in this effort the help of Collegian news reporters would be invaluable since they have good noses for smelling out both rats and the long green.

What I intend to give top priority to, if elected editor, is to recruit writers from other Collegian departments and the campus at large, since I know that many of them possess a wealth of knowledge in many areas. For instance, I know that almost all of them are into music. Also, when books come in, there's no reason that a sportswriter shouldn't review a book about sports or anything else for that matter, or that people in news, photo, editorial, black or women's affairs and the the graphics and business departments couldn't review books about current events as well as fiction and poetry and art. There are a lot of good people writing for Salt right now , and I think it could use a lot more.

As far as graphics go, my main plan is to make the front page more like that of the Boston Phoenix and Real Paper - photos and or art work asnd headlines indicating what's inside, and sometimes I'll use the front page to run stories on. For a writer or photographer or graphic artist to get on the front page is an absolute ego booster, and I think it is a travesty that my distinguished opponent, Ken Shain, who uses the pseudonym "Rastapunk" when he writes, had three consecutive front pages this semester.

I ask you to vote for me, and in return I'll deliver the most exciting and interesting Salt ever. Thank you.

Candidates Night:

Mon. Dec. 5

Ballot Voting:

Tues. Dec. 6

Ken Shain

NAME Kenneth Shain AGE 25
MARITAL STATUS Married
CHILDREN 1 (wants more)
Major Political Economy-Latin American Studies
OCCUPATION Machinist
76 PRIMARY Harris
INSTRUMENT Guitar
TEXTILE Cotton
SHOE SIZE 11¼
PASTIME Paradise
INTERESTS Culture

PLATFORM:

1-develop format emphasizing participatory culture rather than spectatorial culture; feature student based productions and cultural activities; democratize access to the printed page by encouraging artist feedback

2-spread the wealth; there is no reason why drawers of books and records have to pile up at our office; develop a way to distribute "products" for review to interested students; anything unreviewed should be given away outright

3-maintain balance between criticism and the "positive dimension" by encouraging pluralistic cultural viewpoints; a little tension for growth; practice non-sexism and anti-racism as well as preach it

4-become THE fine arts paper in the valley!

QUALIFICATIINS:
LAST JOB Assistant Editor *Below the Salt

SECOND TO THE LAST JOB Assistant Director of Publicity of the Commonwealth Stage at the Fine Arts Center

JOB BEFORE THAT Audio-Visual Coordinator Toward Tomorrow Fair
OTHER Chairman Social and Recreation Committee U.S.W.A. Local 7528; Social and Recreation Editor The Union Speaks, Co-Editor The Glass Onion Southern Connecticut Alternative Press

STATEMENT: "Balance, consistency, and a student oriented viewpoint in the Salt can turn Thursdays into a much anticipated day of the week..."

Sports Editor

Dave Rodman

---

Provost Puryear dispels resignation rumors

Paul L. Puryear

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

Provost Paul L. Puryear chuckled and refused to comment last night on widespread rumors that he plans to resign his post. Puryear, however, upon further questioning would not deny the possibility and again replied, "No comment."

Puryear also declined comment on rumors he was searching for another job.

The rumor apparently began circulating among faculty members and the administration last after Puryear stormed out of a faculty senate meeting after a rift with the chancellor over Puryear's proposal to reorganize the graduate school administration.

The faculty's reaction to his proposal was chiefly negative and secretary of the faculty senate, Terence Burke, reaffirmed the faculty's "no confidence" vote in the Provost last spring, citing the provost's personality as a problem.

"The rumors are wishful thinking on the part of some people," Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, said in a telephone interview last night. "As far as I know, he's still my provost."

Associate Provost Vere Chappell said he had heard the rumors but he did not think the provost would resign. "I think he's a great man and he's what this University needs badly."

On the way out of the faculty senate meeting last week, Puryear told the Collegian he had absolutely nothing to say about the faculty senate.

Beginning yesterday he won't be able to, as the Chancellor has implemented a policy restricting all discussion by administrators regarding the faculty senate and faculty union until the contract is established.

"There is no way to discuss the future of faculty-administration relations because it would be purely speculative," said Bromery.

Randolph W. Bromery

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 65
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

GOOD MORNING!

Today's News:

Five student groups and one non-student group met last night despite the inclement weather.

The Student Senate Rents and Fees Committee, Sylvan Area Government, Orchard Hill Area Government, Central Area Council, the Graduate Senate and the Amherst Board of Selectmen convened to discuss several issues that could affect you.

See the complete report on Page 2.

Coal strike

A nationwide coal strike began at midnight and industry officials say they are "not getting any closer" in reaching an agreement.

Bargaining teams for the United Mine Workers Union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association are continuing negotiations on a new contract, but the two sides have been deadlocked since Oct. 6 when officials warned of a possible strike. The strike affects 130,000 workers producing about half the nation's coal supply.

See story on Page 6.

Egypt breaks ties

Egypt broke diplomatic relations with Syria, Libya, Algeria and South Yemen yesterday in retaliation of President Anwar Sadat's peace initiatives with Israel, causing the most serious political division in the Arab world in years.

Egyptian diplomatic officials in the four countries were given 24 hours to leave the country, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

Look for details on Page 5.

New faculty member

Noted futurist and educator Buckminster Fuller will become a visiting UMass faculty member next semester. See Ruth McGorty's story on Page 3.

Collegian elections

Elections for the 1978 Collegian Board of Editors will be held today in the Collegian offices in 113 Campus Center. Balloting will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. for the nine board positions. All eligible Collegian staff members are strongly urged to vote.

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff
and wire services

The first major storm of the winter dumped over four inches of wet snow and sleet on the Amherst area yesterday, but despite fierce winds and icy roads, few major problems were reported.

Amherst police reported no accidents. Northampton police reported one minor incident, but no injuries resulted.

Yesterday's snowfall was part of an intense snowstorm that moved swiftly from the Great Lakes and swept into New England yesterday, tying up traffic and dumping up to six inches of snow in some sections before changing to sleet and rain.

The National Weather Service said the snow was expected to turn to rain throughout Massachusetts before the storm ended this morning.

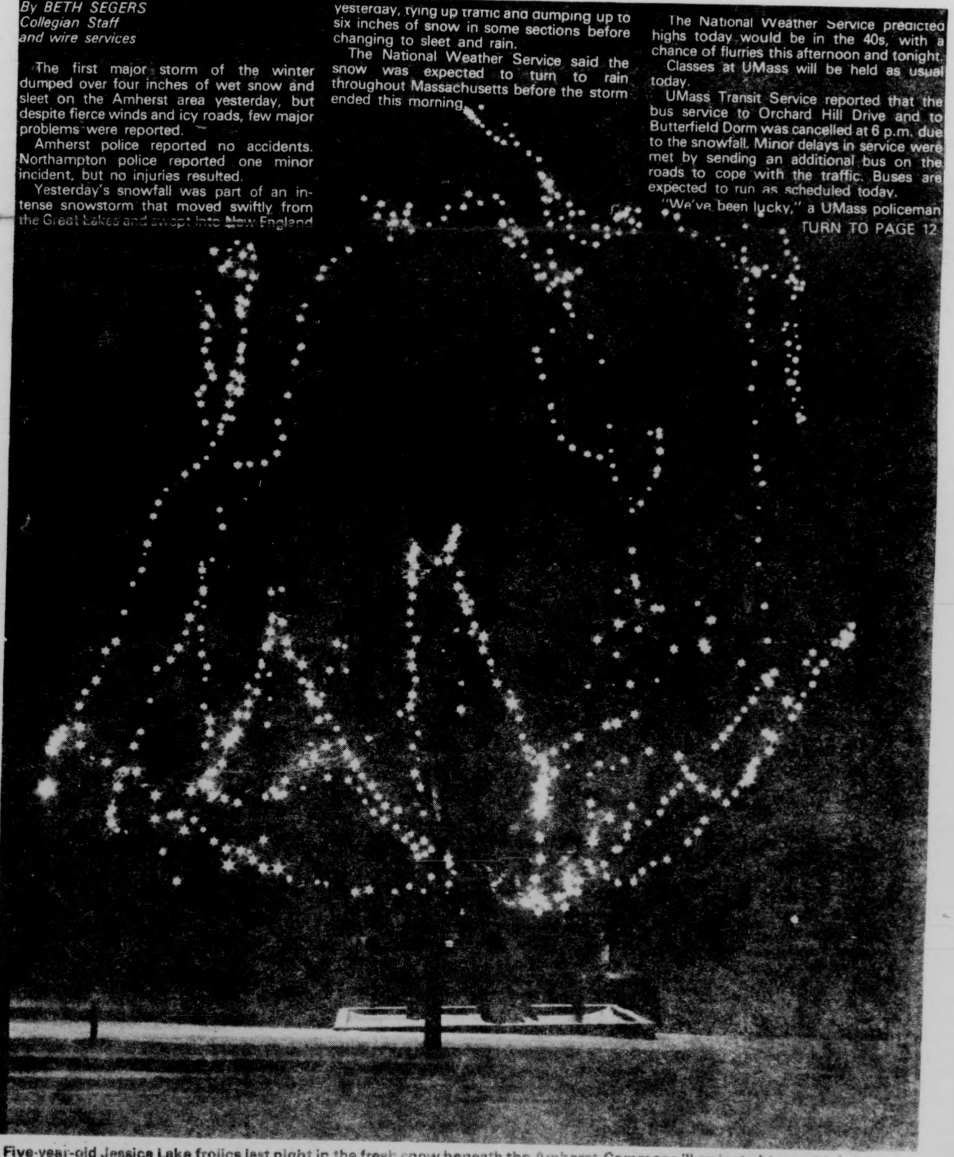
The National Weather Service predicted highs today would be in the 40s, with a chance of flurries this afternoon and tonight.

Classes at UMass will be held as usual today.

UMass Transit Service reported that the bus service to Orchard Hill Drive and to Butterfield Dorm was cancelled at 6 p.m. due to the snowfall. Minor delays in service were met by sending an additional bus on the roads to cope with the traffic. Buses are expected to run as scheduled today.

"We've been lucky," a UMass policeman

TURN TO PAGE 12



Five-year-old Jessica Lake frolics last night in the fresh snow beneath the Amherst Commons illuminated tree with her father Kevin Lake. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier) gsMeetingsMeetingsMee

6% tax to increase meal cost

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

A six per cent tax on UMass meal plans plus a $48 increase proposed by Food Services means students will be paying an average of approximately $97 more for their meal plans this spring, according to a presentation made last night at the Senate Rents and Fees Committee meeting.

The tax was passed by the Massachusetts Legislature last week. The increase was proposed by University Food Services at last weeks meeting of Rents and Fees.

With the increase and the tax, students meal fees would break down as follows: a 10-meal plan would go from $691 to $783.34; a 14-meal plan would go from $786 to $884.04; a 19-meal plan would go from $856 to $958.24.

University Health Services also announced that it is seeking a $6 increase due to increased expenditures resulting from payroll, the cost of an audit and other factors.

The Committee must make recommendations to the Undergraduate Student Senate on Wednesday night regarding the proposal made last night.

The tax question, which cannot be challenged by the Senate will be investigated for the possibility of exemption due to double taxation, since UMass is state supported and students are required to be on the meal plan. Any efforts made in the state legislature will be coordinated with the Student Senate Legislative Task Force.

The committee did not reject the health fee increase outright but rather divided up the factors causing other increases and they recommended investigation into the sources of the increase.

The family housing increase was rejected in the hope that this would pressure the administration to make improvements in these area residencies.

The Committee will make a full report on these proposals and others at the Senate meeting tomorrow night.

The Office of Residential Resource management (ORRM) announced last night that they will seek an increase of $19 for family housing. This includes Residencies such as the North Village Apartments. According to ORRM Director Robert Campbell, the increase is necessary to meet expenses. There has not been a rent increase in three years.

Campbell also informed the Committee that renovation plans are continuing in Brett, Brooks and Knowlton dormitories in the Central area.

The drawings for Brett are ready and the proposal is now at the Trustee level. The plan must also be approved by UMass President Robert Wood. Associate Director Ashoke Ganguli said work on Brett should "hopefully" begin this year. Work on Brooks and Knowlton is planned to begin in the summer of 1979.

A $3 telephone fee increase was also sought by ORRM. This increase is needed to meet increased rates of New England Telephone Company. Since July, 1976 NETCO have increased their rates 11.5 per cent.

NETCO met with ORRM and discussed actions that could be taken for the benefit of students. This includes the possibility of setting up a booth to take questions from students and the possibility of student employment with NETCO.

Campbell also talked about the lack of a student telephone directory. "We're at fault. We accept responsibility for that." Campbell said the directory would be printed off campus in the future.

The Rents and Fees Committee will make its recommendations to the Undergraduate Student Senate on Wednesday night. The Senate will debate the proposals which Rents and Fees heard last night. Once the Senate reaches agreement on the validity of the proposals administration and students will sit down to try and reach an agreement on an acceptable proposal.

Police expenditures studied

By PAMELA LINDMARK
Collegian Staff

The need for increased budgetary expenditures for the Amherst Police Department was among several items discussed by Selectmen last night in a relatively slow meeting at Town Hall.

The Selectmen reviewed the Capital Improvement Program in Amherst, which is a long range planning document dealing with budget expenditures. The review is to insure that these long-term policies continue to conform to selectmen and town policies.

This need for increased expenditures for the police was cited by board members as the number one priority. A need for increased personnel as well as additional police vehicles was specified.

"I believe there has to be an emphasis on the police area this year," said Town Manager A. Louis Hayward. "I've held the police budget down in previous years. In terms of our service level, in comparison with other communities, we're running a pretty small operation."

The selectmen agreed, and approved a further, in -depth discussion with Town Manager and Chief Maia before finalizing budgetary plans.

In other business, an interim report on the Pelham water pressure and supply was given to selectmen by Hayward.

Concern over water pressure had been expressed by Pelham residents who are water customers of the town of Amherst. In response to these complaints, Water Division employees and David Lenart of Town engineering consultants, Tighe and Bond disassembled the pump at the Pelham Pit to determine if the impeller furnished by the Aetna Pump Company was of the proper diameter and configuration.

The impeller, installed in 1976, was found to be in good condition, with no major apparent deteriorization.

Manufacturers of the pump, said Hayward, are being contacted to determine whether there is a manufacturing defect and whether parts replacements or modifications can be made.

Selectmen last night also were called upon to approve many new and renewed licenses throughout the town.

Permission was granted to the Amherst Chamber of Commerce to offer free parking in the town for the week before Christmas. It is an annual practice carried out with the cooperation of the Amherst police department. The patrolmen give out tickets, but not those of the usual type. These wish car owners a Merry Christmas.

Central allocates disco money

By JULIE EAGLE
Collegian Staff

The Central Area Council last night voted unanimously to allocate $135 to the Van Meter South disco to be held this Friday, Dec. 9. Esther Shimazu, chairperson of the disco organizing committee, asked the council for a $125 allocation, but Vice President Richard Fryer moved that an additional $10.00 be given for advertising purposes.

"If we're giving $125, I want to make sure there's a lot of advertising... I'd like to make it $10.00 more because $125.00 is a lot of money," Fryer explained.

Shimazu said the $125.00 going to K-Rock, the featured disc-jockey at the event, is for "his name, his expertise, and his equipment." Money for refreshments, to be sold at the disco, will come from dormitory fees and individuals, she said. Shimazu added, "The whole idea is not really money-making; it's to have an event."

The disco will begin at 10 p.m. and will be held in the basement lounge of Van Meter South dormitory. Admission is free.

In other business, Fryer told the council about a meeting last week where Fryer, CAC President Mark Zinan, Dean of Students William F. Field, and other university officials discussed the possibility of a "university-wide alcohol policy." Fryer said "ideas were thrown out" at the meeting but nothing definite was decided upon.

Fryer said those at the meeting criticized the ideas of Orchard Hill-Central Area Director William Taylor, "who is basically not allowing us to have parties outside our room.... (e.g.) we can't have a keg in the basement."

In other action the council voted down S-80, a senate bill allowing departmental members to go to the Undergraduate Student Senate.

A representative from the Orchard Hill-Central Area Men's Center gave the council its budget report, which says the center began the semester with $1,060 in funds from the Orchard Hill Government and have spent "a little over $200.00".

The center representative also said the center is considering the purchase of "Men's Lives," for area colloquia and workshops on men's issues. Fryer suggested the center borrow the two university copies of the film instead of buying their own copy for $503.

Sylvan government president resigns

By JANIS FINSTEIN
Collegian Staff

Sylvan Area Government President Linne Donaldson has officially resigned from office as of December 2. Donaldson, in the regular SAG meeting last night, stated that "academic priorities have kept me from meeting the time the job required."

According to the Sylvan Area Government constitution, Article III: Vacancies Section 1: "A vacancy in the office of the president: In the event of a vacancy in the office of the presidency, the Vice-president shall succeed to that position." Therefore, Vice President Joel Jordan now holds the position of President of Sylvan Area Government.

The constitution also states that an election must be held for Vice President within two weeks, and Jordan has announced that an election will be held on Thursday, Dec. 8 between 4 and 7 p.m.

Also at the election seven representatives will be elected. There are three vacancies for representatives from Cashin House, two from Brown House, and two from McNamara, said Jordan. Any person interested in running for Vice President of the Sylvan Area Government or for representative may sign up outside 02 Cashin. If there are any questions pertaining to this contact Joel Jordan at 546-4138.

In other business, the $10,583 allocated last week to various organizations including; the Craft Center, Sylvan Cultural Society, Sylvan Area Government, Mens-Womens Center, Computers, Parchment, WSYL-FM, House Support, and for other activities in the area does not hold due to the lack of a total legal body.

Grad Senate opposes Puryear's replacement plan

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

The Graduate Student Senate last night voted unanimously to oppose Provost Paul L. Puryear's plan to replace the position of the Graduate School's dean with an assistant provost.

A. Robert Phillips senate vice-president said, "If the reorganization comes into effect the present Graduate School of UMass will be called Graduate Studies and the affairs will be handled through the Provost Office."

The Faculty Senate moved to delay the provost's decision during its December 1 meeting. Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, who said he approves the reorganization at the faculty senate meeting moved that more time is needed for the faculty senate to participate.

Phillips said the complete power to execute the reorganization is already given to the provost.

As of now the Graduate School's budget is separate from the rest of the University, but under the reorganization the Provost's office will have the decision on how the budget is spent, according to Sally Rees, graduate senate president.

Reese said there are questions concerning how the administration of research contracts, on and off campus internships, teaching assistant, research assistant contracts and job descriptions, and theses and dissertations will be affected if the graduate school decisions are placed in the Provost office.

At present all of the graduate offices are accessible to graduate students, Rees said. This will not be the case if the Provost's Office resumes responsibility, she explained.

Provost Puryear's memorandum did not explain what kind of direct effect the reorganization will have on the graduate program, said Rees.

Part of the problem of faculty and student participation in the reorganization is that most people concerned do not understand who has the authority to change this decision, Rees said. The funding decision process and who has authority is not easy to understand, she said.

Rees said a graduate school dean has "line status" and an associate provost has "staff status." Rees said a line position entitles a dean to make proposals, and have a major voice in graduate affairs. A staff position enables an associate provost to make recommendations which can be easily vetoed she said.

Associate provosts are also more likely to be fired because they carry little weight, she added.

A dean is often a faculty member, and an associate provost is brought in for administrative and management purposes, said Phillips.

"Graduate students and faculty should work together on this matter, Rees said. "The faculty expressed the need for more time to consider the change, and the faculty should consider the graduate students perspective," she said.

Other methods suggested to better inform students and faculty included: letters to department chairmen, an explanation of the present administrative and academic structure relayed to students, petitions within the departments and a possible faculty and student evaluation of the present graduate school governance.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor
William Mills

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Assistant | Barbara Metzler |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Wire Layout | Barbara Tetreault |
| Sports Layout | Walt Cherniak |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dan Vullemier |
| Day Layout | Elaine Scannell |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |
| Newsstand price | $.10 | |
| Faculty staff | $.05 | |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

---

Third annual affair

Career Day today

By SUSAN BUTLER
Collegian Staff

Representatives from 52 businesses and federal agencies are expected to participate in the third annual career day sponsored by the Committee of Collegiate Education of Black Students (CCEBS) today in the Newman Center from 9 to 5.

CCEBS Director Michael Jackson said yesterday, "We feel there is a need for a career day in order to give students exposure to different trends in the job market. It also shows them how to apply for jobs. The companies here represented offer a wide variety of jobs. Everyone on campus is encouraged to come."

Of the 52 companies represented, 25 are federal agencies, some of the groups expected to participate in today's conference include: American Telephone and Telegraph; the Internal Revenue Service; Raytheon; Health, Education and Welfare; Westinghouse; I.B.M., and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

According to Brian Maher, career coordinator, career day helps to promote an open exchange between all students and participating companies.

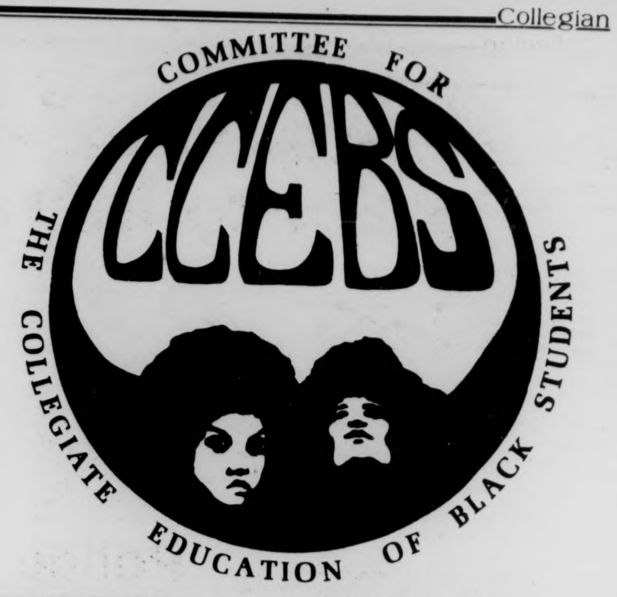
The schedule for the day is as follows.

9-10 a.m.: Arrival and Registration

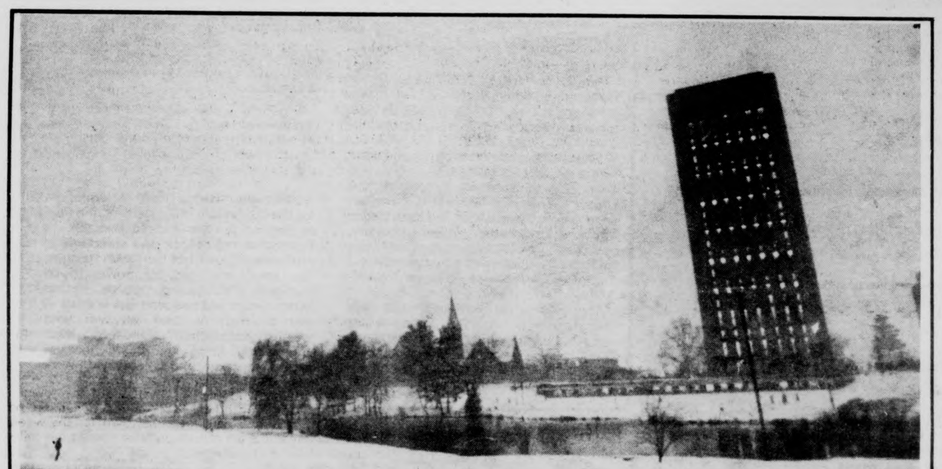
10:45-11:45: A discussion and presentation between the companies and invited guests. The guests are Professor Donald St. Mary, of the UMass mathematics department and CCEBS board of directors, and Bill Johnson, the president of the minority placement agency. The topic will be recruitment of Third World people.

12-1:45: A luncheon with 50 seats reserved for students. Dr. O.C. Bobby Daniels, the assistant dean of students at UMass, will speak.

2-5: An open forum for all students to speak with the representatives.



COMMITTEE FOR THE COLLEGIATE EDUCATION OF BLACK STUDENTS
CCEBS



THE LEANING TOWER OF AMHERST: With too many students studying for finals, the library leans with the strains of yesterday's storm. Actually, the distortion is caused by the use of a wide angle lens. (Staff photo by Christopher H. Schmitt)

Arbiter to open contested ballots

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

An arbiter will tomorrow open three contested ballots taken in a recent poll of academic department chairmen. The poll was conducted to determine whether the chairmen will be included in the faculty union bargaining unit.

The ballots could change the make-up of the union.

Under the terms of an agreement reached earlier this year, both the faculty union and the administration agreed to petition the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission in a hearing Dec. 12 to re-define the union bargaining unit according to the results of the poll among department chairmen. The chairmen presently are included in the unit.

The administration has contended the chairmen should not be part of the unit, but the faculty union has claimed they should be.

The administration earlier this year was cited for unfair labor practices by the labor commission for refusing to bargain with the union over the issue of department chairmen.

The poll of department chairmen results showed 31 voting against being in the unit, 25 in favor, 2 asking no agent represent them, and the three contested ballots.

If one of the contested ballots goes against the chairmen being in the unit, the labor commission will be asked to redefine the unit not counting the chairmen among it. All three ballots must be for inclusion in the unit in order for the faculty union to retain chairmen in the unit.

The labor commission is expected to approve the redefinition whatever way the administration and faculty ask that it be done.

President of the Massachusetts Society of Professors, Larry S. Roberts, said he thinks the three disputed ballots will all favor the union viewpoint. The MSP is the Amherst chapter of the faculty union.

Zina Tillona, aide to Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, yesterday said she was not aware of the arbiter's decision to open the ballots and refused comment.

Bromery acts as UMass executive vice president in charge of formulating and implementing policy with the faculty union.

Sources yesterday said the administration will allow the ballots to be opened, but it is not known whether the administration will challenge the ballots in court.

The arbiter for the case is Alphonse D'Apuzzo, of the American Arbitration Association in Boston. He could not be reached for comment yesterday.

House overrides Dukakis vetoes

BOSTON [UPI] — The Massachusetts House yesterday narrowly overrode Gov. Michael S. Dukakis' vetoes of four anti-abortion amendments attached to a $25.7 million supplemental budget which also provided pay hikes for state employees.

The Senate is expected to sustain the vetoes later this week. If it does, the four amendments would die because approval from only one Legislative chamber is needed.

The House refused to agree with Dukakis' vetoes on roll call votes of 151-66, 153-69, 153-67 and 154-68 — five to six votes short of the one-third needed to sustain a gubernatorial veto.

The amendments affecting medicaid receipts prohibit use of state funds for abortions except to save the life of a woman.

Last month, Dukakis, signed the supplemental budget which authorized about 25 million in pay raises for state employees. The signing came after the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court said in an advisory opinion the governor has power to line item veto the amendments.

The signing took place amid much hoopla and fanfare because employee pay raises had been held up more than three months. Much of the delay had been due to the abortion issue.

"This is merely the first battle," said Rep. Charles R. Doyle, D-Boston, who sponsored the amendments with Rep. Raymond L. Flynn, D-Boston.

Calling unborn children "the most defenseless citizens in the Commonwealth," Doyle said, "let me give notice ... when any budget that comes into this House with a medical assistance appropriation we will attach an anti-abortion amendment."

Dukakis has said he will veto any anti-abortion bills or amendments.

Doyle called this "shocking," claiming this would hold up money for the elderly and welfare recipients.

"I follow my conscience," said Rep. Peter C. McCarthy, D-Peabody, urging members to sustain the vetoes, "and my conscience prevents me from playing the demagoguery role."

Doyle said 14 states still fund abortions and Massachusetts is the only New England state to do so.

Futurist Fuller to join faculty

By RUTH McGORTY
Collegian Staff

R. Buckminster Fuller, architect, philosopher and futurist, will join the faculty of the School of Education's Future Studies Program this April as a Visiting Scholar in Residence.

"We consider Fuller to be one of the great living educators," said Dean Mario Fantini of the UMass School of Education. "Through his creativity and initiative in improving the human condition, he has inspired thousands to follow his example."

Throughout his career, Fuller has been granted 25 U.S. patents and is probably best known for the creation of the geodesic dome. He also has more honorary doctorates than any other living American, holding a total of 40 in 10 different disciplines.

Fuller is the author of 15 books. His most recent and important work called "Synergetics," was acclaimed by one critic " ... as important a work as Newton's PRINCIPA."

He has taught at universities and colleges all over the world including Harvard.

Fuller keynoted the University's Toward Tomorrow Fair last summer and currently serves as an advisor to the School of Education's Future Studies Program.

"Buckminster Fuller's extended return to this campus this spring as Visiting Scholar, promises to be an exciting educational event for the University and the surrounding Pioneer Valley community," Fantini said.

Fuller is scheduled to stay at least one full week in April and will also address a major conference on the future of education which is being hosted by the School of Education and coordinated by the future studies program.

During his stay, he will lecture extensively, conduct small seminars with University students and faculty, and meet with administrators. Many of the lectures will be open for the public.

"We are excited at having Fuller join our future studies faculty. The entire school is looking forward to his arrival," Fantini said.

COLLEGIAN COUNTDOWN!

6 PUBLISHING DAYS LEFT IN FALL SEMESTER

The final day for placement of advertising, either display or classified, is Friday, December 9, 1977. The final Fall issue of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian will appear Wednesday, December 14, 1977.

Debora Beechert and George Angell in Antigone: "Not too subtle ..."

'Antigone' consists of misinterpretations

By MICHAEL P. DORAN
Collegian Staff

When in doubt, bluster.

Unfortunately the actors in the University Ensemble Theater's production of Anouilh's "Antigone" took this advice to heart. There was no subtlety in this production. Curiously enough, there was also a complete misinterpretation of the theme of the play.

Creon, played by George W. Angell III, was the worst offender when it came to blustering. The whole middle section of the play, concerned with the central theme of Creon's responsibility to rule in this dirty world and Antigone's refusal to partake in it, was a travesty. There was not more than a half minute gone by without someone shouting. In a scene that is at least half an hour long this is disastrous. Creon's shouting was not only artistically ill-conceived, it was also contrary to the opening lines by the chorus in the text, which say that Creon is "tired." A truly tired tired man, in both the spiritual and physical sense, would not shout for a half hour straight.

Antigone, played by Debora J. Beechert, was also lacking when it came to understanding her role and acting accordingly. She at no time exuded what is primarily necessary for someone playing Anouilh's Antigone — a little girl quality. Her acting was labored and stale. There was no sense of the terror of her situation or the corresponding joy in realizing her freedom from the world she cannot accept. Worst of all, and she shares this flaw with Creon, she seemed to confuse which "Antigone" she was playing in, Sophocles' or Anouilh's.

Most of these problems could have been solved if the director had not misinterpreted the play. The chorus says in the first scene that Creon loves to be King. These are not Anouilh's words, neither are they his sentiments. This is probably the crux of the problem.

Creon is supposed to represent an existential character, and as such he is tired of his world and his responsibilities, but decides to go on to try to do his best. Maybe he is arbitrary in his decision not to bury Antigone's brother, maybe not. The point is that he does something about the civil war that tore his country apart, whereas Antigone, who wants to go back to the days when she was a little girl with no responsibilities in an uncomplicated and painless world, would rather die. She is not a martyr for some civil liberties or moral cause, she simply wants to die.

Creon is not an ogre. Perhaps he is a man who is in above his head, and who has unpleasant things to do, but if he didn't do them the state would be worse off. If this play lacks this basic existential interpretation it is no more than a dreary rehash of Sophocles' masterpiece.

The chorus, played by Calvin MacLean, was very good, adding life to a part that could easily be dull. The nurse, played by Catherine Orlando, was also good, though at times her acting was a bit stilted. By far the best acting in this production is done by the first guard, David Ambos, who was the only true to character actor in the whole production. He was very funny in the right parts, and very distant in the end scene with Antigone, seemingly understanding his role and playing it as if Antigone understood hers.

I would not recommend this play, which will be playing in the Curtain Theater Dec. 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10, at 8 p.m.

Women in journalism topic of talk today

"Women in Journalism: The Realities of Opportunity" will be the topic of a talk by Boston Globe writer Nina McCain tonight at 7 Campus Center 805.

McCain is a Sunday feature writer for the Globe, and has also written editorials. She was a reporter on the academic beat and was the Globe's education editor.

McCain has worked on newspapers in Texas and New York and participated in the Stanford University Professional Journalism Fellowship program.

The talk is sponsored by the Massachusetts Daily Collegian and the Journalistic Studies Department.

..for the people

Dr. Mack Drake

A UMass professor has received an honorary doctoral degree from the University of Hokkaido in Sapporo, Japan.

Dr. Mack Drake, professor of Plant and Soil Sciences, was the chief of a party from the university that visited the Japanese agricultural university from 1958-1961 to assist the Japanese with an agricultural development program.

The visit of the UMass team to Hokkaido University was sponsored by UMass, Hokkaido University and the International Cooperation Exchange.

Prof. Toshio Nakashima, Entomological Institute, Faculty of Agriculture, Hokkaido University, presented the honorary degree to Drake at UMass.

Ominsky, Luippold

Paul L. Ominsky, of 76 Chapin St. in Holyoke, graduated first in the class, earning a score of 96.11 in the 16-week training program.

John W. Luippold, Jr., of 412 Main St. in Greenfield, graduated third in the class with a score of 93.00.

Dr. Gordon Sanford, director of the UMass Center for Economic Development, a new office within the Institute for Man and Environment at the University, has been elected president of the National Association of Management and Technical Assistance Centers (NAMTAC).

The association was organized with Sanford's help to offer a forum for technical assistance centers to exchange ideas about programs and funding sources for helping private businesses and local governments.

The UMass Center for Economic Development, funded by the Federal Economic Development Agency, was formally dedicated at the Amherst campus last October in a ceremony attended by Gov. Michael Dukakis and University President Robert Wood.

Dr. W. W. Nawar

Dr. W.W. Nawar of the Department of Food Science and Nutrition has been active in research dealing with chemical effects of high-energy radiation on foods for the past 14 years. He will present two papers on his research at the symposium.

The symposium was organized by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, the International Atomic Energy Agency, and the World Health Organization. The participants were invited from 22 countries. Some 70 papers will be presented in four languages with simultaneous interpretation.

Gov. Michael Dukakis recently reappointed Dr. G. Dale Sheckels of Amherst as a member of the Board of Registration of Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors.

The eight member board is responsible for the licensing of all engineers and land surveyors in the Commonwealth. It establishes regulations and standards of professional conduct for both groups. The board also has the power to investigate consumer complaints against either group and suspend the license of any engineer or land surveyor who violates established standards. Most complaints which the board receives regard engineers who do surveying work without being licensed.

Collegian Jobs

Applications now being accepted for assistant news editors and copy editors of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. Deadline is Dec. 9, at noon. Applications should be brought to Collegian office, attention J. Quinlan. Applicants should type a one page description of themselves and their academic and practical backgrounds in journalism. Telephone number, address, major and year in school should be included. Position pays $10 salary a night.

Volunteer assistant Copy editors are also being sought for spring semester. It has not been a salaried position in the past, but the experience is useful. Those interested should follow application procedure described above.

For more information, call or see Joe Quinlan in the Collegian office, 545-3500.

The Collegian is an equal opportunity employer.

---

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT KILLINGTON,
VERMONT
January 15-20, 1978
- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights in Hotel
- 10 Great Meals
- Ski 50 Runs, 3000' Drop
- Nightly Entertainment
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Extras

ONLY $119.50
to $139.50

Call:

All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

IT PAYS TO BE IN DEMAND.

Air Force ROTC has scholarships, allowances and jobs for selected science and engineering majors.

Air Force ROTC has openings for young men and women majoring in specified science and engineering academic fields. Fields such as Aeronautical, Aerospace, General and Electrical Engineering, Mathematics, Physics and Computer Technology. AFROTC enrollment pays well now and could keep paying off in the future.

Air Force ROTC offers 4-year, 3-year and 2-year scholarships with $100 monthly tax-free allowance during the last two years to non-scholarship students.

Upon graduation you'll receive a commission in the U.S. Air Force and compete for challenging jobs. There'll be numerous opportunities for advanced education in your field, plus you'll have financial security and start your way up the promotion ladder where your ability and ambition are the only limits.

It pays to be in demand, and if you're the type we're looking for, it pays to get the details. No obligations, naturally.

Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a Great Way of Life

WAKE UP to the classifieds!
Here's your most effective market for buying or selling!
Classifieds reach over 20,000 UMass people daily. No one else reaches so many at UMass.
*COLLEGIAN
CLASSIFIEDS
GET RESULTS!*

Most serious division in years

Egypt breaks relations

CAIRO [AP] — Egypt broke diplomatic relations with Syria, Libya, Algeria and South Yemen yesterday in retaliation for their decision to form a "resistance and confrontation front" against President Anwar Sadat's peace initiatives with Israel.

The move produced the most serious political division in the Arab world in years.

The Egyptian Foreign Ministry summoned the diplomatic envoys of the four nations and gave them 24 hours to leave the country, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported.

It said Egyptian diplomatic officials in the four countries were instructed to return home "immediately."

Cairo's action came after the four nations and the Palestinian guerrilla movement, meeting in Tripoli, Libya, denounced Sadat's one-man peace campaign as "high treason" and said they would "freeze" their diplomatic and political relations with Cairo. Libya, on its own, had already broken relations with Cairo. Libya, on its own, had already broken relations with Egypt when Sadat made his visit to Israel.

Despite the harsh rhetoric, however, the anti-Egypt summit, at Syria's insistence, had carefully kept the door open for renewed Geneva peace talks or other forms of negotiations with Israel, with or without Sadat.

The "hardliners" also had stopped short of declaring an irreparable break with Egypt. Sadat said Sunday that the Soviet Union was behind the "rubbish" of the Tripoli summit and that Egypt could "punish" the Russians.

Over the weekend, it was reported that Egypt was recalling its ambassador to Moscow, but there was no immediate indication whether Sadat was considering severing his already cool diplomatic ties with the Soviet Union.

In Washington, the State Department said it would have no immediate comment on the Egyptian move.

The United States appeared yesterday to be trying to reclaim the initiative as a mediator in the Middle East. U.S. officials in Washington said Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance would visit Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia beginning this weekend to assess prospects for a comprehensive settlement.

They said Vance might also visit Syria and that Egypt's mass cutoff of diplomatic relations would not affect the trip.

The last such serious break in Arab ranks occurred in 1971, when Syria and Egypt broke relations with Jordan over King Hussein's bloody expulsion of Palestinian guerrillas from his country.

The Egyptian decision exempted Iraq, one of staunchest anti-Israeli "rejectionist" states, apparently because it walked out of the Tripoli meeting and did not sign the declaration.

100 persons killed in jet crash

TANJUNG KUPANG, Malaysia [UPI] — Soldiers and police yesterday combed a remote mangrove swamp for the charred remains of 100 persons killed in the crash of a hijacked Malaysian jetliner. The government denied reports the hijacking was the work of Japanese Red Army terrorists.

Officials confirmed that the Cuban ambassador to Japan, Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, and his wife and Malaysian Agriculture Minister Ali Hahi Ahmad were among the victims.

Two Australians, one Japanese and one Briton also were among those identified by police from passports and identity cards scattered at the crash site. The names of victims were not released.

The airline's list of 93 passengers and seven crew included 20 foreigners. It was not known if any Americans were on board.

The twin engine Boeing 737 was hijacked Sunday night shortly after it took off from the northern Malaysian resort island of Penang for Kuala Lumpur and Singapore. The hijackers ordered the pilot to fly to Singapore, but the plane plunged into swampland on the southern tip of Malaysia, just short of the narrow strait that separates the mainland from the island of Singapore.

Officials said they could not confirm reports the crash had been preceded by an inflight explosion.

Malaysian Air System Deputy Chairman Date Sulaiman Sujak declined to say if he knew how many hijackers were involved or who they were.

Malaysian Home Affairs Minister Tan Sri Ghazali Shafie denied reports the hijacking was the work of Japanese Red Army terrorists.

"There is no evidence to link the hijacking with the Japanese Red Army," he said while visiting the crash site. "There was only one Japanese passenger on the plane and he had been identified as a technical officer working in Malaysia."

C. Paramaguru, the Malaysian police official in charge of search operations, said the charred remains of more than 50 persons have been recovered in bits and pieces and placed in plastic bags.

He said it was unlikely that many more identifiable pieces would be found.

"By tomorrow, the whole place will stink with the smell of rotting flesh," he said.

The wreckage was strewn over a large area of a mangrove swamp and pieces of the plane could be seen protruding from the mud. Personal items and bits of clothing were hanging from tree branches.

Some 500 armed police and soldiers were sent to the crash site to search for victims and keep away onlookers.

GI - tested drug may cause cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drug taken daily by tens of thousands of American troops in Vietnam as part of a medical experiment has been found to cause cancer in male rats in tests by the National Cancer Institute.

The drug, dapsone, is the principal treatment for the estimated 12 million lepers throughout the world, including 2,800 in the United States. But Army doctors tested it on GIs in South Vietnam as a preventive medicine for a severe form of malaria that was resistant to standard malaria pills.

A report published yesterday for the institute's laboratory studies in which rats and mice were fed dapsone in large doses showed the drug caused cancer of the spleen and the lining of the abdomen in male rats.

The institute tested dapsone as one of 326 substances it is checking for evidence of cancer-causing activity in what it calls the carcinogenesis bioassay program.

Dr. Cipriano Cueto, a data evaluation expert at the National Cancer Institute, said the findings don't prove dapsone causes cancer in humans. But he said the results would justify following up the case histories of people who have taken the drug to determine whether they experience greater incidences of spleen cancer or other malignancies than the population as a whole.

At least one such study in the 1960s of the medical records of about 850 American lepers who took the drug did not show a significant difference in the cancer death rate when compared to the general population.

The scientists reported that the tests showed no cancer causing activity in female rats, or in mice.

"If we get one group (male, female, rats or mice), we call it positive," said spokeswoman Melva Weber. "It would indicate there may be some hazard."

An Army spokesman said yesterday, "We don't have the foggiest idea" how many troops took dapsone in Vietnam and to find out would take at least a month of intensive research. He added the troops who were given the drug weren't told it was being used experimentally.

Use of dapsone was restricted primarily to the Central Highlands region and the area known as I Corps, the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam. Several Army and Marine divisions with thousands of men in each fought for years in the jungles of the two regions where a particularly dangerous form of malaria was believed to be a threat.

"Prior to its introduction in Vietnam, the drug was approved as a new investigational drug by the Food and Drug Administration," the Army spokesman, Maj. David Gardner, told The Associated Press.

An investigational new drug is one the FDA considers of possible benefit to humans and approves for experimental treatment of a specific disease under carefully controlled conditions.

Nights of racial rioting subside in Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Tourists crowded shops on historic Front Street yesterday as calm returned to the vacation island of Bermuda after three nights of racial rioting and firebombings touched off by the executions of two convicted killers.

The government, which called in 200 British troops to reinforce 600 police and militia, shortened a dusk-to-dawn curfew by 3½ hours and said all restrictions on nighttime movement could be lifted Today.

"The government will continue to monitor the situation on a daily basis and as soon as possible the curfew will be lifted," Premier David Gibbons said.

By beginning the curfew at 9 p.m. instead of 5:30, the estimated 5,000 tourists, most of them Americans, will be able to dine and drink away from their hotels for the first time since the curfew was imposed Friday.

Gibbons' announcement came on the first full day of relative peace since Thursday in this 21- square mile British colony 650 miles east of North Carolina.

The British troops have remained out of sight since their arrival Sunday and the government said they have not conducted any patrols.

The three nights of rioting began Thursday when an appeals court refused to stay the executions of two black men convicted of five murders, including the deaths of the island's former governor and police chief.

The two, Erskine Durant "Buck" Burrows, 33, and Larry Winfield Tacklyn, 27, were hanged Friday morning — the first executions in Bermuda in 34 years.

Firebombs and rioting caused damage estimated at $5 million and resulted in about 80 arrests. No serious injuries were reported and only three minor firebomb attacks were reported Sunday night.

Two Philadelphia area tourists, George E. Gandy, 61, and his sister, Mrs. Dorothy J. Joyce, 71, died in a fire Thursday night at the Southampton Princess Hotel. Official sources said the fire was set, but Gov. Sir Peter Ramsbotham maintained it was started by an electrical short circuit.

Tourists, although confined to their hotels at night since Friday, did not appear greatly concerned about the unrest.

"It's really been a swing," said Grace Colonnese of Golden, Colo. "The hotel has been laying out extra rum swizzle parties and we're having the time of our life."

Harvard to upgrade teaching

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Spurred by student complaints that many faculty members are too preoccupied with research, Harvard University has begun a program to upgrade the quality of its undergraduate teaching.

President Derek Bok said yesterdasy evaluation of faculty members and their teaching ability will become a formal part of the tenure-granting process.

Professors are also being encouraged to revise their courses and a center within the university is offering instruction in teaching methods, Bok said.

Henry Rosovsky, dean of Harvard's Faculty of Arts and Sciences, said there has been an "overfocus" on graduate education with some neglect of undergraduates.

A recent report by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges said it found at Harvard an "average quality of teaching that is incommensurate with the otherwise welldeserved reputation of the university."

Nationwide coal strike begins today

WASHINGTON [AP] — United Mine Workers President Arnold Miller said yesterday a nationwide coal strike began at midnight even though negotiations are continuing on a new contract.

Bargaining teams for the union and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association met across the table yesterday morning but Miller said afterwards,

"There has been no change in their position since Oct. 6 and come 12 o'clock tonight the contract will expire and no contract, no work."

"We're not getting any closer," he said.

Industry officials had no immediate comment on Miller's statement.

"It's obviously a very hard and long discussion," said BCOA President Joseph P. Brennan as he left the negotiating room.

A strike by 130,000 coal miners producing about half of the nation's coal could be expected to last at least 10 days, since the UMW's contract ratification procedure takes that long.

Privately, Miller has said he foresees a strike of three months, and sources say the coal industry is prepared to accept a work stoppage of at least a month.

The UMW has struck nine times in 19 previous contract negotiations. The longest walkout, in 1946, lasted 59 days.

Industry spokesman Morris Feibusch reported that 28 of the approximately 1,800 mines operated by BCOA companies were shut down yesterday by miners getting a head start on the strike.

But he said more miners were working than had been expected on the last day of the expiring contract. He attributed the number of mines still open to a desire on the part of the miners to earn one more day's wages before the strike began.

The most immediate impact of a strike would be on the miners and their families. UMW miners would lose their daily wages of about $60 a day, and health benefit for themselves, their dependents and their retired colleagues also would be cut off.

Industry officials say coal's best customers, utility plants and steel mills, have laid in stockpiles large enough to last several weeks. Government officials say a strike would not be the national problem it was in years past.

WASHINGTON: Arnold Miller, president of United Mine Workers and attorney Harrison Combs arrive for last minute talks to avert today's nationwide coal strike. Both coal operators and UMW officials agreed that no progress was made toward settlement of a new contract.

Lampoon faces blasphemy law

BOSTON [AP] — A zealous Roman Catholic has dusted off a 17th century Puritan law against blasphemy to protest the religious satire in a national humor magazine.

New York attorney Andrew J. McCauley has accused the National Lampoon of violating a 280-year-old Massachusetts statute outlawing language that ridicules "the holy word of God."

The last known conviction for the crime occurred in 1838 when a Boston newspaper editor wrote a column challenging the Universalist religion.

The 48-year-old McCauley, founder and the single working member of the "Citizens Against Sacrilege in the Media," has filed a complaint against the Lampoon in Boston Municipal Court. A decision about whether the complaint will be dismissed or brought to trial is expected within the next few weeks.

The penalty for the crime is a maximum one-year prison term, a fine of up to $300, or a provision the defendant be "bound to good behavior."

McCauley finds periodic religious spoofs by the Lampoon, widely read on college campuses, "most offensive."

He cites the December, 1974, cover which pictures Mary, the Biblical virgin mother of Jesus Christ, being thrown out of her home by her father because, the cartoon implies, her child was illegitimate.

"It creates a psychological climate in which religious people are intimidated, their faith is held up for ridicule," McCauley said in a telephone interview.

"People are going to have to become closet Christians, closet Jews."

Executives of the Lampoon, an offshoot of the Harvard Lampoon, claim the blasphemy law is unconstitutional because it interferes with freedom of the press.

"We are not anti-religion. We just find there is no reason not to find humor in everything we do in our lives," said Matty Simmons, chairman of the board of 21st Century Publications which owns the Lampoon.

Simmons brushed aside McCauley's charges the magazine is "destroying any vestige of Christianity in our society.

"We don't pick on any religion, we don't pick on any nationality — we kid everything," said Simmons.

McCauley's crusade against the Lampoon dates back three years when a Roman Catholic newspaper article called his attention to the magazine. In newsletters to the 800 to 1,000 people he claims are members of his committee, he urges religious followers to protest the Lampoon's satire.

The magazine has lost millions of dollars worth of advertising because of letters written to advertisers threatening boycotts, according to Simmons. The letters, Simmons believes, were the products of McCauley's campaign.

In the meantime, McCauley is trying to revive a similar complaint about blasphemy that he filed more than a year ago in New Jersey. That complaint went to a grand jury which failed to return an indictment.

News in Brief

Release papers on Sacco-Vanzetti

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. [UPI] — A foot-high stack of papers unopened since 1948 relating to the Sacco-Vanzetti case is due to be released Friday by Harvard University.

The papers belong to the late A. Lawrence Lowell, who was on a committee that reviewed the murder trial of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti.

The two Italian immigrants were convicted of the 1920 murder of a Braintree paymaster and his guard, and sent to the electric chair in 1927.

The case drew international attention because of defense claims the two men were unjustly convicted due to their anarchist leanings and background.

The Lowell papers will be opened at 10 a.m. at Pusey Library in the Harvard University archives.

The papers will not be available for inspection for another four to six weeks, until they have been catalogued and copied, a Harvard University spokesman said.

Woman priest has 'no reservations'

PORTLAND, Maine [AP] — Elizabeth Ann Habecker says she has no reservations about becoming the first woman priest in the Episcopal Diocese of Maine, although her impending ordination is causing some controversy within the church.

Mrs. Habecker, who now serves as a deacon, said she has not personally felt any resistance to her ordination.

She and her husband, the Rev. John Christian Habecker, began their joint ministry at St. Ann's Episcopal Church in South Windham last week, and she is scheduled to be ordained at St. Luke's Cathedral here Dec. 16.

The Rt. Rev. Frederick B. Wolf, the bishop of the diocese who will perform the ordination, said the event is causing some "unhappiness and concern" in some congregations.

However, he said he does not believe the ordination of women will cause any Maine parishes to withdraw from the church. Some Episcopal congregations outside of Maine have broken away from the church since it decided to admit women as priests last year.

The Northeast, the official journal of the Diocese of Maine, reported in its December issue that two parishes in Camden and Portland have expressed disapproval of the ordination of women to the priesthood.

Students protest acceptance of grant

MEDFORD, Mass. [AP] — Chanting and carrying placards, some 300 Tufts University students and faculty protested yesterday against the school's recent acceptance of a $1.5 million grant from the Ferdinand Marcos Foundations.

"We don't want your blood money," the demonstrators shouted when they marched to the office of Tufts President Jean Mayer. Mayer was not there at the time.

"Two, four, six, eight, we don't endorse a fascist state," was another of their jeers

Under President Marcos of the Philippines, that nation has been under martial law.

Philippine First Lady Imelda Marcos presented the grant in October. It is for Tufts' Asian studies program.

Since then, some 100 faculty and 1,500 students have signed a petition denouncing the school for accepting the grant.

Reached after the protest, Mayer said, "the board of trustees is in a position to reconsider the donation, but I don't think they will.

New territorial limit increases fish catch

GROTON, Conn. [AP] — Since the 200-mile territorial limit went into effect last March, commercial fishermen in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts have been catching up to 25 per cent more fish, according to testimony at a U.S. Senate hearing yesterday.

The success has resulted in easier private financing, in some cases, but several fishermen testified that more federal loan guarantees are needed to keep their ships in shape.

The hearing before the Senate Select Committee on Small Business was presided over by Sen. Lowell Weicker, D-Conn., ranking minority member of the panel.

George Burgess, chairman of the Stonington-Waterford fishing commission, said Connecticut commercial fishermen are too small in number to successfully get needed loan money.

The rusty nail Inn
presents

Tonite, Tues., Dec. 6
ANDY MAY and the TEXAS TABBY CRAB BAND

Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY and the ASBURY JUKES

Thurs., Dec. 8
JOHNNY and the LUNCHEONETTES

Fri. & Sat., Dec. 9 & 10
NRBQ

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

"How I found 36 extra days last year"

"I used to be too uncomfortable to do much of anything when I had my menstrual period. It was like losing at least three days every month. Then, last year, I switched to Tampax tampons. Now I'm always on the go."

Making every day count is what Tampax tampons are all about. They eliminate chafing, bulk and bulges. In fact, once the tampon is properly in place, you can't even feel it's there.

And Tampax tampons are uniquely designed to conform to individual vaginal contours. Which means there's less chance of leakage or bypass.

With Tampax tampons you get a lot more days out of the year. And a lot more fun out of life.

The internal protection more women trust
TAMPAX tampons
MADE ONLY BY TAMPAX INCORPORATED, PALMER, MASS.

---

TIRED OF CHOOSING COURSES BLINDLY?

?
REGISTRATION FORM

We are trying to increase the number of courses covered in the Course and Teacher Evaluation, but we need your help.

Listed below are names of teachers who have cooperated by releasing their evaluations. If your professors are not on the list, ask them to sign the release forms they've been given by the Student Government Association. Talk to Department heads too. (They can release evaluations for the entire department.)

THESE TEACHERS HAVE RELEASED THEIR EVALUATIONS

Abrams, Linda
Ackermann, Robert
Aune, Bruce
Airhart, Douglas
Arny, Thomas
Barbosa, Pedro
Barreda, Pedro
Bennett, M.K.
Berlin, Normand
Berliner, Howard
Bierhorst, Howard
Bothroyd, Geoffrey
Boyer, Paul
Branch, Ben
Brehm, John
Brentlinger, John
Brown, Dennis
Bunn, Radie
Clayton, John
Chappell, Vere
Cocalis, Susan
Cohen, Alvin
Coppersmith, Evan
Costley, Richard
Cramer, Chester
Creed, Robert
Cromack, Guane
Culley, Margo
Cuomo, George
Davis, Hugh
Day, Robert
Dittach, John
Duffy, Joseph
Ehrlich, Leonard
Fabos, Julius
Fagundes, Francisco
Farris, Richard
Finnerty, Joseph
Fisher, Louis
Forman, George
Feldman, Fred
Fergason, Ann
Frank, Joseph
Gettier, Edmund
Gibbs, Margaret
Gibson, Walker
Gjertson, Donald
Goldsmith, Paul
Gutzwiller, Kathryn
Hardegree, Gary
Hart, Robert A.
Heidelberger, Herbert
Hepler, Peter
Hertzback, Stanley
Hill, F.S. Jr.
Hofer, E.H.
Horowitz, Joseph
Hugenin, Richard
Hurn, Christopher
Hutchinson, Thomas
Irvine, William
Ivey, A.
Jubian, Michael
Junkins, Donald
Key, Charles
Killian, Lewis
Kilmer, William
King, Gordon
Klar, Lawrence
Kupperman, Gerrard
Lake, Joseph
Langley, Kenneth
Lawall, Sarah
Lemeshow, Stanley
Levin, Maurice
Liander, Bertil
Locke, L.F.
Male, James
Manes, E.G.
Manning William
Matlack, James
Matthews, Anne
McFarland, Gerald
Melrose, Jay
Meyer, David
Mitchell, John
Narahara, Tomiko
Nilsson, Nils
Oates, Stephen
O'Brien, Ken
O'Connell, James
Ortiz, Jesse
Partee, Barbara
Phillips, Norman
Phinney, Edward
Prince, Alan
Purcell, Joanne
Quirk, Jonathan
Quinton, Arthur
Rauch, Harold
Reh, Albert
Reiner, Albey
Rice, Thomas
Robinson, Fred
Fobinson, John
Rohde, Richard
Roter, Debra
Rothstein, Halina
Rupp, William
Salzmann, Zdenek
Schumacher, Warren
Schuman, David
Scott, Donald
Scott, Nina
Scoville, Nicholas
Sheckels, Dale
Sides, Charles
Simpson, Richard
Siruis, Donald
Sleigh, Robert
Snedecor, Janes
Stankovich, Marian
Stamps, Paula
St. Mary, Donald
Swaim, Kathleen
Swanson, Carl
Su, Jin-Chen
Tattar, Terry
Taylor, J.H.
Teng, Shou-Hsin
Tessler, Richard
Tucker, Robert
Uden, Peter
Ulin, Priscilla
Ulin, Richard
Unaitis, Bill
Vogely, Martha
Weston, Hohn
Wideman, John
Wilce, Robert
Wolf, Jack
Wolff, Robert Paul
Wright, James
Zahari, Abraham

Departments which have released all evaluations:

Afro-American Studies
Asian Studies
Philosophy
Slavic Studies
Comparative Literature

If teachers and department heads still refuse to cooperate, come to Rm. 426 Student Union or the Candy Counter in the Student Union to pick up our Course and Teacher Evaluation Forms.

Student Government Association

Vance to Mideast;'keep open mind'

WASHINGTON [AP] — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is going to the Middle East to urge the Arabs to "keep an open mind" on direct negotiations between Israel and Egypt, the State Department said yesterday.

Officials said the Vance mission next weekend also will be aimed at showing U.S. support for those talks, scheduled to take place in Cairo in mid-December.

On the trip, his third to the troubled area in less than a year, Vance will make stops in Lebanon, Jordan and Saudi Arabia, as well as in Egypt and Israel. Arrangements for a visit to Syria are still up in the air for "technical reasons," U.S. officials said.

"It is not our objective on this trip to get them to change their minds," department spokesman Hodding Carter said of Syria, Jordan and Lebanon. Those three countries are boycotting the direct negotiations with Israel undertaken by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Nor was this "an attempt on our part to seize the stage" from the parties directly involved in the Arab-Israeli conflict, Carter said of the Vance trip.

But clearly, U.S. officials said, while showing support for the Israeli-Egyptian talks, Vance will try his hand at patching the split caused by Sadat's dramatic initiative. They said he intends to emphasize U.S. interest in a comprehensive settlement, not a separate agreement. And while prospects for a Geneva conference have dimmed, Vance will urge all the Arab states he visits to follow Sadat's lead and deal with Israel, officials said.

So far, Syria has not responded to American overtures for a Vance stop in Damascus. But U.S. officials said this was entirely because Syrian President Hafez Assad was occupied with the just-concluded meeting of so-called "rejectionists" in Libya.

Vance will go to the Middle East even if Syria does not wind up on his itinerary, they said.

Meanwhile, Philip C. Habib, the undersecretary of state for political affairs, is holding talks in Moscow with Soviet experts on the Middle East. He is due to join Vance on Wednesday in Brussels, where the secretary will attend North Atlantic Treaty Organization meetings before heading for Cairo on the weekend.

Welfare mothers crowd for clothing checks

HARTFORD [AP] — Thousands of welfare mothers, several fainting from the pushing crowds, spent hours yesterday waiting in the cold to apply for a limited number of $25 emergency clothing checks.

"It certainly could have been better organized than this," said Hartford Deputy Police Chief Neil Sullivan as his officers and a dozen state police troopers tried to maintain order at the Spring Street welfare office.

Similar crowds lined up and jammed the doors outside welfare offices in New Haven and Bridgeport. They were applying for $25-per-child cash grants to help welfare families pay for winter clothing and bedding. The General Assembly appropriated $1 million for the program, which will aid only about 40,000 of the 93,000 welfare children on a first-come, first-served basis.

Peggy O'Brien of the Department of Social Services said that as of about 3 p.m. Monday, applicants applied for $514,000 worth of emergency payments. That would cover about 20,500 children.

In Hartford, at least six persons were taken to area hospitals after fainting from the crowds or suffering from the near-freezing weather, Sullivan said. In New Haven, a window was broken and witnesses said at least three adults were injured during pushing incidents but none was hospitalized.

"Don't push, don't shove. Everybody will get taken care of," a patrolman said through a bullhorn at the door of the Hartford office. But each time police let a few people through the crowd surged forward, with babies crying and women shouting.

"She's been crying for the past two hours," said Roberta Lynch of West Hartford, pointing to her tearful 4-year-old daughter Selena. Just after noon, Ms. Lynch said she'd been in line over four hours and still was 50 feet from the door. Earlier the line had stretched nearly a block.

Later Monday, Gov. Ella Grasso ordered four state buses to be parked outside the Hartford office to serve as "waiting rooms" for applicants forced to wait outside. Coffee and doughnuts were served by the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Grasso also said she has begun a review with the social service department to see that future programs don't exclude some of those eligible because of a limited appropriation.

"We had been planning on this for at least a week," she said. "We felt we had organized things fairly well." Ms. O'Brien said extra personnel were assigned for the first day of applications, each of which took about five minutes to process.

Pennsylvania plagued by killers

PITTSBURGH [AP] — Three times in six weeks a shotgun blast has ended a man's life, and each time his wife or girlfriend has disappeared — apparently abducted by the mystery killer or killers.

The deaths and disappearances have added to the mounting fear in southwestern Pennsylvania, where a total of 27 murders — some of which police say may be related — have gone unsolved over the past 20 months.

"People won't leave their homes, won't go outside to walk their dogs," said Walter J. Alberts, assistant superintendent of police in Allegheny County, where the latest killings occurred.

Richard Hyde, a 34-year-old elementary school principal, was found shot to death Saturday in his comfortable suburban home eight miles northwest of Pittsburgh. His wife Donna, also 34, had disappeared.

But on Sunday Mrs. Hyde's partially clad body was found under an evergreen tree 1 ½ miles from her home. Authorities said she had been beaten to death with a blunt instrument and that tests were being made to determine if she had been raped.

Two other women, including a 16-year-old girl whose boyfriend was shot to death less than five miles from the Hyde home, are still missing.

"There is a lunatic on the loose in some of these murders and he thrives on the general public being terrorized," said Sgt. James Felt of Robinson Township, where 17-year-old John Feeny was shot.

Feeny and Renee Gregor, 16, were parked in his van along a rural road Oct. 22 when Feeny was hit once with a shotgun blast. The girl has not been seen since.

"These killings seem similar, but, Jesus, to think that.... It's too hard to think about," said John Gregor, who clings to the hope that his daughter is alive.

The Feeny killing was followed a month later by the shotgun death of William E. Adams, 31, of Fallston, about 25 miles away. Adams' wife Nancy, 29, is missing.

Police have few clues and no motive for any of the murders. They are not even certain whether the killings are related.

The latest rash of killings are centered north of Pittsburgh, but an equally puzzling string of deaths involving young women has left fear in households south of the city.

Three women, ranging in age from 17 to 21, have been abducted, sexually assaulted and strangled with their own clothing within a 50-mile radius of Washington, Pa., since November 1976.

A fourth woman was found beaten to She, too, had been raped.

How come our RSO group didn't get funded this year?

Because nobody turned in our rationale and budget proposal on time last year.

Will we get funded this year?

Only if we turn all the information before 5p.m. Dec. 14. But don't worry someone will do it.

Just like last year?

DO IT NOW!

A WARNING FROM YOUR STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

Go ahead-laugh!
GENE WILDER is
The WORLD'S GREATEST LOVER with Carol KANE
and Dom DeLUISE
Written and Directed by GENE WILDER
Music by JOHN MORRIS Color by DeLUXE®
Now an ACE PAPERBACK
PG PARENTAL GUIDANCE SUGGESTED
SOME MATERIAL MAY NOT BE SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN
A Twentieth Century-Fox Picture
1977 20TH CENTURY-FOX
20th CENTURY FOX

Coming December 23

Showcase Theatre

Check newspapers for additional theatres and show times

©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER – THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
Twin Theaters
#1
SPY THRILLER THE C.I.A.
★PAYOFFS TO ITALIAN POLITICIANS.
★ALLENDE OVERTHROWN.
★SPIES IN FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COUNTRIES.
★BRIBES. (THAT'S HOW THEY BEHAVE OVERSEAS)
SEXY!
#2
THE KOREAN C.I.A.
SUBVERSION IN AMERICA!
★BRIBERY OF CONGRESSMEN!
★SPIES CLOSE TO THE WHITE HOUSE!!
TERRIFYING!

Today's 'literal barbarians'

Just ten years ago, there were such feelings of prosperity and plentitude in this country that people entering college could decide upon a course of studies with an air of freedom and imagination that is very unfamiliar today. Living in a country at its economic zenith, but also one engaging in global misdeeds with moral abandon, students were at once freed and forced to criticize their government and civilization. From concern about the nature of man's acts against himself and the environment sprang a great deal of critical thinking and evaluation, made all the more possible by a sense of economic security that no longer exists.

Rather, today our primary concerns as students relate to jobs and the difficulty of finding and holding them. Increasingly, we think less about what type of world we live in and more about how and where we'll survive in it. As though arming ourselves for the surely tough struggle we'll encounter in a world of expanding population and diminishing resources, students are choosing courses on the basis of promise and practicality, such as business, marketing, computer science, and engineering. As a consequence, enrollment in the humanities, languages, and history is falling. Our thinking is thus becoming less critical and more technical. Steven Muller, president of John Hopkins University, said this summer, "We're turning out highly technical and highly skilled people who are literally barbarians."

I'm afraid this change has done no good for us at all, and the type of education that is now forced upon us makes us no wiser nor happier, no more enlarged in our essentially human capabilities. Kenyon College President Philip Jordan says, "It does little good to know a lot about physics, or economics, or medicine if you know nothing about Socrates or Shakespeare or the Norman Conquest, because you won't be able to relate your work to society at large or put it in a historical context." It makes us narrow-minded and ignorant. Worse, it makes us boring.

Thus, it is with feelings of indifference if not drudgery that we pick our "core C" and "core D" courses, for from them we gain no tangible skills for which employers will pay wages. Here's a word of recent coinage and increasing pertinence: technocrat. It describes a manager, administrator, or leader whose decisions spring from purely scientific, industrial, and coolly pragmatic considerations. Jimmy Carter did not become president because of his farm background or his religious upbringing or his toothy grin. He became president because, with training in nuclear engineering, he is a technocrat and understands the language of numbers, graphs, and tables. "Words are machine parts" to Carter, says Time's Hugh Sidey. Carter the technocrat is unimaginative and uninspiring. And, yes, he's boring.

You don't have to be an English major to take an English or Comparative Literature course. A little taste of Thoreau can do everybody some good. No course in astrophysics can broaden your horizons like one in philosophy. The best — maybe the only — way to understand something about the nature of our institutions and values is to learn some history. We don't have to talk, think, and breathe science or business just because of our major. Every area of knowledge is merely a segment of one continuous effort to make everything intelligible through seeing its place in the system of things.

Consume a humanities course next semester. It won't make you any wealthier materially. Just less boring.

Bill Riordan is a Collegian commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/ Amherst, MA 01003/ (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Listen: Faculty, administration

greg tarpinian

Dear Faculty:

Regarding student access to course and teacher evaluations your position should be as follows:

1. In order for the University, as a community of scholars, to flourish, criticism and praise must be noted publicly. If an institution is to progress its constituents must also. Students are here to learn. Teachers are here to teach and learn. An optimal situation must be reached in which students are the beneficiaries of the highest quality education possible, and faculty are continually improving upon their skills and knowledge. The only other beneficiary is society. The university's role is as an agent of progressive change.

2. Students are consumers of an education. I (the faculty member) am providing a service. This service should be of top quality. If it is not, both I and the consumers should know it so that we can work in tandem to correct it. As a provider of a valuable service it is part of my job to be self-conscious of the job I am doing. As a purchaser of a service the student has every right in the world to know what he or she is getting into.

3. This information should be public by law anyway. That's what the 'Freedom of information Act' says.

4. Regarding tenure and dismissals: part of the criteria is teaching capability. How will I, or my students, know that the granting-non-granting of tenure, or the hiring-firing of me or one of my colleagues is justified if we don't know how the student body rated us.

5. The student course and teacher evaluation publication, "On the Other Hand," was highly inaccurate, and did a disservice to many faculty members, and in most cases did not give a complete picture of mine or any other department on campus. Its best to have a thorough and statistically significant survey printed than an invalid one, which portrays the teacher inaccurately. I could be the turkey next time around.

6. Students need this service. They should not have to fund it, the administration should. If I release my forms then the students will not have to waste what little money they have on printing a CATE (as they did last semester): a job the administration should be handling.

7. I have nothing to hide. Witholding my evaluations is tantamount to telling the students I am not worth taking a course from. I might as well let them be the judge of that.

8. a. I'm sick of putting a lot of effort into teaching when others don't care. Let it be known.

b. I need some incentive to start taking my teaching seriously. Maybe if I am the object of public ridicule I will do so.

These are just a few of the justifications. With respect to number 5, the student senate is prepared to do another CATE campaign; again, salary and tenure arrangements will be published. This is the strategy:

1. Send release forms to the faculty. Hope they comply. We print the names and course numbers of those who don't in the Collegian and solicit students in those classes to do them with our own survey form. You must recognize this is a claim on our behalf of your moral terpitude and your self-proclaimed inability to teach.

2. Student senators, members of department councils, lecture note takers, and interested students will be coming around to classes in which faculty have not released forms to do our own form. We'll attempt to hit as many classes as possible.

3. For those classes we don't get around to for one reason or another, we will do the same thing we did last year — we'll put a survey in the Collegian for students to fill out. Our feeling is that some results are better than none.

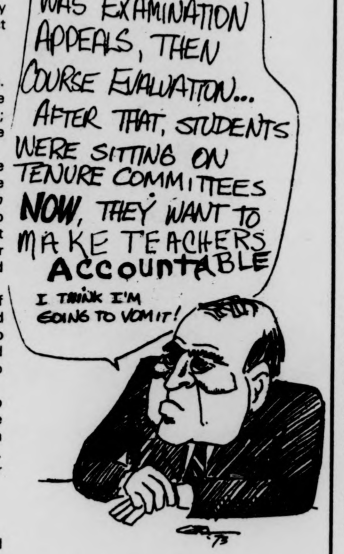
Dear Administration:

What's this I hear, you don't want to fund next year's Course Description Guide?

Students don't come here so as to have the opportunity to fund their own through the SATF. This is a service the administration should provide. It's your job to describe courses for us.

The recent decision on your part to not fund the CDG is a blatant attack on the role of the student in the UMass community.

Regrettably, this ain't Harvard or Bowdoin, but it isn't supposed to be a living replica of the Abe Lincoln mode of education either. We are all aware if the old adage: "exploit UMass or it exploits you", but this is ridiculous.



FIRST, THERE WAS EXAMINATION APPEALS, THEN COURSE EVALUATION... AFTER THAT, STUDENTS WERE SITTING ON TENURE COMMITTEES NOW, THEY WANT TO MAKE TEACHERS ACCOUNTABLE
I THINK I'M GOING TO VOMIT!
'73

Continually, the student body of UMass finds itself backed up against the wall, with the administration telling us to fund our own basic and elementary services. This is just another example.

We demand you to fund the CDG and give us editorial rights. The University is here for us to work at learning, not to work at creating suitable conditions for learning.

Greg Tarpinian is a Collegian Columnist.

In search of a roommate

b.j. roche

Never at any other time in your life will it be so important whether or not you are a smoker, non-smoker, carnivore, vegetarian, Buddhist, Catholic, atheist, Communist, Democrat conservative, feminist, lesbian, gay, bi, into the outdoors, into politics, into leather, allergic to dogs, into cooperative living and communal communications, warm, friendly, self-sufficient, open, racist, sexist, personist, or own a stereo, or better yet a car, as when you are searching for a place to live.

Never will you be more conscious of annoying personality traits such as: sleeping late, rising early, disliking Led Zeppelin, being "mellow", being sloppy, being overly neat, or being here now than when you are nowhere at all.

What I am referring to of course is the semi-annual demographic disaster known as the roommate exchange, which takes place every semester around this time. That old friend from high school just doesn't dig the fact that you like to walk around the apartment nude quoting Rimbaud. And you don't like her habit of watching I Love Lucy reruns. So it's out on the streets in search of another home for you and your varieagated swedish ivy collection.

The first places to look are the signs around campus and the classifieds, which are abut a reassuring and informative as the personals column.

"GWM sks JBBWorB MorF Non Sm. apt. in dntn. Hamp. Only serious lookers need call." The screening is heavy and the pickings are meager, but if a listing meets your requirements, you call.

Signs are a little more explicit, and at least subject to handwriting analysis, nevertheless, roommate searching is a risky activity, and you never really know about a place until you call the occupants.

The phone call. A five minute trial by voice, where the essentials such as rent, utilities and zodiac signs are discussed. A screening procedure that determines what kind of person is at the other end of the line by inquiring as to her occupation, educational status, major and background. (If she has a Smith accent, hang up.)

One woman who was looking for a roommate answered her phone with the statement that she ate meat, smoked like a chimney and had a dog which was prone to shitting wherever he damn well pleased. Hmmm, she's honest, I thought, and marked 10 points in her favor. She went on to explain that she was forty years old and had just started to live and was very excited about mountain-climbing and yodelling, which she practiced every morning. Well, the rent was too high on that one.

If the phone call is successful, however, the next step is the interview. This is something akin to a job interview. The prospective roommate must dress up or down for the part and radiate with charm and personality. Any common interests that should come up in the conversation are jumped on and talked to the ground ("Oh, you're not from Salem? Gee, I'm not either....") Bookshelves in the living room are examined for content; are they really the intellectuals they said they were in the ad? With sweaty palms you go home to wait the phone call. If it's affirmative, you're in, you've got a new home. If not, it's back to the Off-Campus Adoption Office, where other neaveau orphans are pleading over the phone their favorite quotes and last good books read like whining magpies.

Such is the price one must pay for having eccentric living habits, and the tight housing situation makes the roommate exchange strictly a seller's market.

But there's always the woods, or the Salvation Army Shelter in Springfield. It's a long drive, but the rent ain't bad, and the roommates down there won't mind if you're not into cosmic consciousness.....

B.J. Roche is a Collegian Columnist.

Religion 'useless' when misinterpreted

To the Editor:

I would like to add to Robert Shewfelt's comments on Lisa Melilli's article entitled "Ideology at its worst". I agree with Ms. Melilli on the fact that religion is drummed into our heads as children and we accept what we are told without any explanation. By the time we reach adolescence we find ourselves wondering what God and religion are really all about. We no longer accept the fact that skipping church is a sin; we want to know why it is a sin, and who decreed it so.

It is at this point in many people's lives that they begin to reject religion altogether, as Ms. Melilli appears to have done. Or, as Robert Shewfelt suggests, the more ambitious members of the Christian faith may turn to literature approaching the religion on an adult level. I feel there is still another alternative to the problem. That is to make religion a totally personal experience. In order to do this, the individual must take what he or she has learned about religion in the past and apply it to himself.

In this way a person can justify not going to church every Sunday simply by saying, "I don't feel like going today." When the person really wants to go to church, it will be a much more meaningful experience.

Similarly, if a person decides that religious ceremonies are, in fact, a total farce, he or she may choose not to go to church at all, but to pray at home or anywhere else that makes for a personal religious atmosphere.

Biblical stories may be dealt with in the same way. Simply take the major ideas of a story like "Adam and Eve", or "Cain and Able", and apply those concepts so that they make sense in the real world. The single most important thing about religion is being able to interpret it and understand it, so that it makes sense to you. Otherwise, it is useless.

Lisa Capone

Read the word of Christ

To the Editor:

I am a Christian Roman Catholic, writing in response to Lisa Melilli's article, "Ideology at its worst" [11-28]. While I understand her experience to be a valid [and perhaps common] one, I believe her conclusions about religion and God are based on an incomplete understanding of the difference between the two.

The major point unfolds when considering the word "religion". Re: back; ligio: bind. Religion, then, is man's attitudes and attempts to get back to God through various systems. But Christianity is not a religion. For the Christian, it is knowing the risen Lord Jesus Christ as his-her personal Lord and Savior. Christianity comes from God — not man — as the Scriptures say, "In the past God spoke to our forefathers through the prophets at many times and in various ways, but in these last days He has spoken to us by His Son."

It's true that religion is restricting. But knowing Jesus sets one completely free. It's true that religion keeps one stagnant with no changes. But in Christ all things are new and growth is highly valued. It's true that religion separates people. But all things are one in Christ. And it's true that religion controls by guilt and fear, but Christ forgives and forgets our guilt, and His love casts out all fear.

Knowing Christ, one looks at the world realistically, for one knows the truth about oneself, about the world, and about the one who created the world. Christians know where they are going, but that dowsn't mean they do nothing in the meantime. On the contrary, entire new worlds of opportunities to act on and choices to make are opened to one who knows Jesus Christ.

So religion and God are totally different. Religion will never be an answer to our need to know our purpose and place in this world. But in knowing God in a personal way through His Son Jesus, a person can be set free from being bound back by any system, whether religion or their own, and discover reality.

Therefore, I suggest to Lisa Melilli that, rather than lamenting over a part of one system of religion, or even spending time learning about that or any other religion, she should get to know Jesus Christ by reading His Word, His communication to us about who He is.

Armand J. Paradis

Outfront's exclusion not justified

To the Editor:

In response to the recent article "Responsible To Whom?" I would like to comment on Outfront's position concerning the editorial process of the Collegian.

Outfront's negative reproach of the Collegian and its "Bored of Editors" is justified but perhaps unfair. Britt Warren's decision, that the Collegian editors have "effectively denied this university community the opportunity to judge on its own merits the viewpoints which Outfront represents," is an overstatement. If this as true, then Warren's article would not have been published.

However critical, Warren's article concerns a crucial issue — the editorial policy of the Collegian. In agreement with Warren, the denial of access to the Collegian that is readily available to advertisers and commercial wire services is contradictory to the policies of a student run, non-profit newspaper.

I would like to know the Board of Editors' reason that Outfront was told it "might serve a better cause elsewhere." Many other readers would perhaps like to hear directly from the editors. In whose interest does the Collegian operate? If it is in student interest, what promoted this particular decision concerning Outfront?

Wire services, "objective" reporting, advertising, and other commercial news releases can be found in just about any newspaper. Shouldn't the editors of the Collegian be concerned with what UMass has to say, more than the same viewpoitns expressed in other papers? Isn't interpretive and active reporting more important to members of a university? Are not people here to discover and motivate society, not hide controversies under carpets?

Outfront advocates important issues concerning every person on this campus. The reporting expresses an alternative point of view not found in every newspaper. Doesn't Outfront beneficially serve to broaden the minds of Collegian readers? Speak, oh Board of Editors, what justifies their exclusion from the Collegian?

Stephanie Weigand

Stop construction of Nuke plant

To the Editor:

The Student Senate recently voted unanimously to lower flags to half-mast in response to Gov. Meldrim Thomson's visit to the UMass campus. The first of the Seabrook occupiers have begun serving time in New Hampshire jails. Construction of the Seabrook nuke continues at a slow but terrifying pace.

Yet we still can stop the Seabrook nuke.

The Public Service Company does not have enough funds to complete the plant. They have requested a 27 per cent rate hike which will be put into effect AUTOMATICALLY unless enough people petition the New Hampshire rating commission to block it.

For all those of us who willingly committed an act of civil disobedience last spring, and for all those of us who could not, here is the chance to go beyond symbolic actions. We probably won't make the network news this time, but we could just stop the Seabrook nuke. The Granite State Alliance is urgently calling for people to come canvass the people of New Hampshire over the next two weekends.

Canvassers will be asking people to sign a petition against the rate hike. All the literature needed will be provided by the Alliance. Housing will also be provided.

For more info, and to arrange rides, please call Chrissi Emerson at 584-0801 [evenings] or contact the Amherst AEC office [253-9998].

Chrissi Emerson

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Keep those feet warm!! (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

OHAG treasurer elected

By JACK GRAVEL
Collegian Staff

Gary Marshall, newly elected Orchard Hill Area Government treasurer, says he will be spending the next few weeks trying to put the OHAG budget in order.

"Right now my primary concern will be to work the budget in workable shape by the spring semester," Marshall said.

Marshall was elected the new treasurer at Sunday night's meeting. After two vote counts which gave neither candidate a majority, Marshall, a freshman from Grayson House, received the necessary 11 ballots out of the 20 representatives present.

Concerning the funds provided by the SGA loan, OHAG decided to allot $100 to each of the house councils while putting the remaining $500 in a contingency fund. In an amendment initiated by President Scott Wieler, it was stipulated that Field House shall not receive its $100 until one of its House Council members attends two OHAG meetings. Recently, Field has had no representation at OHAG.

In other business, $50 was provided for a work-study position which would be responsible for an Orchard Hill recycling project. Louise Sapp, proponent for the bill, said the job will entail organizing collection and supervising dorm coordinators.

Christmas lights, to be displayed later this week, will be financed with the past two weeks of the treasurer's salary as the position was vacant.

The Third World Center is showing a film, "The Last Graves of Dimbaza," for this Wednesday and Thursday evening, in Webster Main Lounge and Grayson Main Lounge, respectively. The film, illegally produced in South Africa, documents the social situation in that country. Guest speakers will be conducting discussions of South Africa following the screenings. The Third World Center is also planning a dance performance for Tuesday, Dec. 13. Four women will perform Greek dances and belly dances. The location of this event has not yet been decided upon.

The Women's Center is holding a poetry reading on Wednesday, Dec. 14 from 7:30-8 p.m. A workshop entitled "Female Sexuality" originally scheduled to be held tonight has been postponed until next week.

New marijuana position urged

CHICAGO [UPI] — An American Medical Association Council, citing new evidence that marijuana may be damaging to health, yesterday urged the AMA to harden its position on the drug.

Members of the policymaking arm of the AMA, the House of Delegates, were scheduled to vote on policy resolutions today and Wednesday during its meeting in Chicago.

The AMA's current stand on the marijuana issue, approved five years ago, advocates a policy of "discouragement" because of a "possibility of some deleterious effects on the user."

But the AMA's Council on Scientific Affairs said recent research has shown some marijuana users have suffered lung impairment, rapid heartbeat and psychiatric disturbances of various types. It urged the House of Delegates to harden its stand on the issue.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — German Supper Salad, American Chop Suey, Basics: Scalloped Macaroni and Tomatoes, Soybean Croquettes

DINNER — Chicken Cutlet, Baked Ham, Basics: Chicken Cutlet, Spinach Casserole

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Fried Fish Plate, Lazy Golompki, Basics: Rice and Cheese Stuffed Cabbage, Fried Fish Plate

DINNER — Pot Roast, Swiss Turkey Sandwich, Basics: Barley Soybean Casserole, Swiss Turkey Sandwich

FREE HEAT and HOT WATER!!

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!

Included in your rent
at NO EXTRA charge—
Heat & Hot Water

For Your Convenience:
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

2 Bedroom
Garden Apartments
$245.00

* Special second semester rental terms available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours— Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

Suspect will face lineup in 'Hillside strangulations'

LOS ANGELES [UPI] — Police disclosed that a 24-year-old Hesperia, Calif., man arrested last week on burglary charges would face a police lineup yesterday to determine whether he has any connection with the so-called "Hillside strangulations" of 10 young women.

"Right now, it doesn't appear that he had any involvement with the killings," said Lt. Dan Cooke. "But he hasn't been cleared yet. Investigators will make no comments after the lineup."

The 24-year-old suspect, a clothing clerk, was arrested Friday night on suspicion of burglary in connection with the rape of an unidentified woman last Nov. 12. The woman was being questioned in connection with the strangulations when she led investigators to the clerk.

Police said the suspect resembles a composite drawing of the "long haired, mustached man" witnesses saw in the car of one of the victims shortly before she died. He also had women's clothing in the auto, and the car itself was a grey Cadillac with a white top.

Neighbors of the 10th strangler victim, Lauren Wagner, 18, said they saw her being taken by two men into a large car with a white top and a dark bottom.

Cooke said the suspect's sister has claimed the clothing was hers and that she had given it to him to be taken to the cleaners. The clothing was being examined at the police crime lab to determine if any of the items may have belonged to the victims.

Taking part in the police lineup, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the county jail, will be witnesses to Miss Wagner's abduction, including one person who has been hypnotized by police, and others, Cooke said.

The suspect was arraigned on one count of burglary Monday morning before Municipal Court Judge Michael Burke. Bail was set a $20,000 and the defendant was ordered to appear for a preliminary hearing Dec. 15.

Cooke said he is "not the prime suspect — he is one of 199 potential suspects being investigated."

Cooke said the district attorney's office is obtaining search warrants for the "medical records of an individual at Atascadero State Hospital.

"We are investigating a multitude of people who have prior convictions in these types of crimes."

Cooke said the search for the killer of killers, who began terrorizing the city's female population in mid October, is being "beefed up with increased patrol coverage in both uniform and plainclothes units."

Ten decoy police women and 20 male backups for the decoys were reportedly part of the increased force which was aiding the Hillside Strangler Task Force made up of 40 men and two women.

★ Snowstorm cripples area

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

last night said in reference to the snow. The campus police reported no accidents yesterday, "not even a fender bender" although the snow was responsible for traffic delays at rush hour.

Attendance at the various UMass facilities was varied according to spokespersons at the Blue Wall, TOC and the library. A spokesperson last night said the Blue Wall attendance was "not up to its usual Monday night crowd." He said the usual Monday night crowd, the football fanatics, was dwindling and "the only thing that holds them back is inclement weather."

The TOC reported the opposite information about attendance. A spokesperson for the TOC said "we were really busy tonight — we expected to be slow" but was not sure that the snowfall was the cause. The library could not make a prediction of last night's attendance.

Traffic on the Connecticut Turnpike and Interstates 84 and 91 was slowed down in some spots due to fender benders. State Troopers lowered the speed limit on the Massachusetts Turnpike to 40 mph.

Light and scattered snow fell on Boston for a short time yesterday afternoon. Shortly before nightfall, the snow changed to rain.

Howling coastal winds accompanied the storm, with gusts reaching 40 miles an hour. Gale warnings were posted all along the New England Coast.

Other sections of the country were not quite so fortunate yesterday.

A powerful, dangerous storm blew across the Midwest yesterday with paralyzing snows. Tornadoes injured scores of persons and caused thousand of dollars' damage in the South.

The National Weather Service posted various warnings of heavy snow, tornadoes, flash floods, gale-force winds, and travelers' advisories from Montana eastward.

The half-foot of snow at Buffalo closed the city's International Airport to landings and forced cancellation of the opening day of racing at Buffalo Raceway. Snows ranged to more than a foot deep elsewhere in the state. Albany's airport was also closed.

A sheriff's deputy in New York's Cattaugas County gave the terse advice: "Stay the hell off the roads."

---

Sweater party

There will be a "Sweater party" tomorrow night at 7:30 in 119 Skinner Hall. Designer and better manufacturers will feature their sweater, skirts and shawls.

Continuance

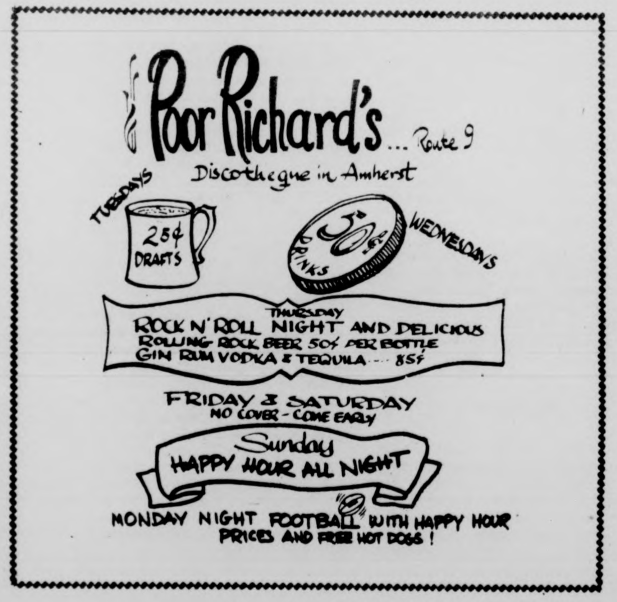
Collegian commentator and reporter Jim Paulin pleaded not guilty in Hampshire County District Court yesterday to three charges stemming from a weekend incident at a Northampton party.

The case was continued until Dec. 20.

Paulin was arrested by police early Sunday morning while attending a party at a Northampton apartment. Police said Paulin was arrested for breaking glass and damaging private property in the vicinity of the apartment, and was charged with being a disorderly person.



Poor Richard's ... Route 9
Discotheque in Amherst
TUESDAYS
25¢ DRAFTS
50¢ DRINKS
WEDNESDAYS
THURSDAY
ROCK N' ROLL NIGHT AND DELICIOUS
ROLLING ROCK BEER 50¢ PER BOTTLE
GIN RUM VODKA & TEQUILA --- 85¢
FRIDAY & SATURDAY
NO COVER - COME EARLY
Sunday
HAPPY HOUR ALL NIGHT
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL WITH HAPPY HOUR PRICES AND FREE HOT DOGS!

---

Collegian Board of Editors

Elections

Candidates Night: Monday, Dec. 5
7:00 p.m.
Room 101 C.C.

Ballot Voting: Tuesday, Dec. 6
9:00 a.m.-3:00 p.m.
Collegian office

ALL staff members urged to attend!

★★ The following Collegian staff members are eligible to vote in the elections: ★★

LAYOUT-PRODUCTION
Deborah Walters
Elaine Scannell
Emily Bakerman
Janis Worth
Maureen Carney
Julia Linnell
Elaine Rosenthal
Bill Mills
Mark Leccese
Lisa Melilli
Steve Lafler
Dick Janssen
Rob Ranney
Mark Rollins
Barbara Tetrault
Barbara Metzler
Kathy Koffler
Bob Higgins
Ron Arena

BUSINESS-GRAPHICS
Tony Armelin
Laurie Wood
Steve Lesser
Steve Polansky
Eric Nickerson
David Perlow
Mark Conchieri
Valerie Beecy
Glenn Morin
Linda Vene
Ralph Meissner
Chris Crowell
Elwell Perry
Steve Silverstein
Jeff Gordon
Glenn Johansson
Reade Brower
Jane Souweiene
Chuck Bernard
Debbie Cooperstein
Ann Meissner
Mary McCauliffe
Diane Burak
Michelle Merchant
Frank Santisi
Suanne Jay
Maureen Melody
Pat Cantin
Michael Simons
Alan Brown
Brian Campbell
Carol Hubberstey
Bert Dougan
Karen Libucha
Ellen B. Moss
Maggie Carson
Patti Blanchard
Jerry Drake
Cindy Scott
Nancy McBride
Amy Oberg
Katy Maxson
Wendy Cretella
Cynthia Fayad
Jan Burke
Kathy Dowd
Jeff Stone
Nancy Jane Bailey
Alice Banor
Patricia Boucher
Judy Blake
Michael Doyle
Sherri Federbush
Mary Grandpre
Julie Greene
Mike Hall
Susan Kalman
Ellen Latshaw
Mark Lyon
Peter Mann
Michael Michonski
Liz Nelson
Cynthia Webb
Margaret Weisslity
Cheryl Avers
Ronald Bilotas
Jamie Bradley
Dennis Cahill
Denise Ferrara
Diane Federick
Elisa Hecht
Kevin McCarthy
Charlotte Trenchard
Tara Law
Michael Winn
Elizabeth Ventura
Ann Emanuelli
Claire D'Amour
Eva Perles
Barbara Lamkin
Randy Glenn

NEWS
Joan Arbetter
Andrea Atkins
Fifi Ball
James Barbieri
Fran Basche
Michele Biagioni
Mary Brown
Moira Campbell
Robert Capozzi
Herb Brody
Robert Conant
Brian Condron
Rosemary Conway
Julie Eagle
Janice Finstein
Bernard Davidow
Joan Feeney
Brad Goverman
Jack Gallagher
Debbie Graff
John Gravell
David Gram
Cynthia Harhen
Debra Higgins
Mark Horan
Dan Huse
Patti Jones
Michele Joseph
Seth Jacobson
Amy Kaplan
Laura Kenney
Martha Kimball
Jon Klein
Mathew Kovary
Richard Lenihan
Pamela Lindmark
Ruth McGorty
Jill Metlitz
Niel Moeller
Daniel Montuori
John Moran
Marcia Murphy
Brian Nelson
Dave Olmes
Megan O'Reilly
Karen Parmenter
Ellen Plausky
Joseph Quinlan
Christopher Schmitt
Beth Segers
Michael Simons
Barbara Tetrault
Patti Troped
Debbie Wallace
Mark Wyatt
Gayle Young
Rita Zeidner
Joseph Maglitta
Dottie Clark
Jim Kassner
Cindy Young
Marianne Tenney
Terry Columbus
Patty Kit
Micky Baca
Heidi Berenson
Janet Gregorian

OP-ED
Charles Bagli
John Bergman
Greg Bryant
Peter Cox
Drew Crane
David Crowe
Frank Denton
Tom Devine
Michael Doran
Steve Dubin
Eileen Foley
Daphne Fraser
Bob Goldsmith
Karen Hermann
Kevin Knobloch
Laura Luden
Jay Martus
Stephen Mathieu
Bob Melia
Clifford Monac
Steve Modena
Dinah Olanoff
Jim Paulin
B.J. Roche
Jerry Rogers
Mitch Singer
Wendy Stearns
Paula Strollo
William Sundstrom
Greg Tarpinian
Damon Thomas
Sharon Tracy
Mark Troobnick
Paul Yanowitch

BLACK AFFAIRS
Angela Thomas
Terrell Evans
James Lewis

SPORTS
Judith Van Handle
David Rodman
Gary Adinolfi
Jack Atkinson
Mike Berger
Andy Blume
Walt Cherniak
Ellen Davis
Rich Eckel
Bill Edelstein
Missy Gallagher
John Gever
Jim Gleason
Jeff Glynn
Judy Keefe
Joe Kittredge
Curt Kohlberg
Kirk Mackey
Mark Marchand
Kevin McCaffrey
Mike McHugh
George O'Brien
Leo Peloquin
Ed Powers
Russ Smith
Billy Tarter

PHOTO
Marilyn Mankowsky
Pat Dobbs
Dale Griswold
Andy Bernstein
John Anderson
Dave Rodgers
Ellen Davis
Wayne Davis
Steve Nugent
Athena Boolukus
Chris Bourne
Howard Lahitt
Jeff Stone
Peter Lee
Amira Rahman
Walter Buchwald
Mike DiMuro
Dan Vullemier
Tim Vartanian
Donna Jacobson
Susan Donnelly
Pete Baumann
Janie Portnoy
Greg Smolin
Diane Crawford
Howard Bernstone
Debbie Snyder

WOMEN'S STAFF
Julie Melrose
Candy Carlon
Nancy Callahan
Janet Hoebing
Tisha Keefe
Elaine Osborn
Debbie Edwards

BELOW THE SALT
Ross Nerenberg
Perry Adler
Cheryl Sreiberg
Lisa Wait
Mario Barrios
Lesley Lawrence
Mark Levitan
Leila Bruno
Steve Waldman
Patti Rosenberg
Sharon True
Rick Alvord
Ed Cohen
Debbie Schaefer
Marty Maceda
R. Arps Garrett
Jack Flynn
Alan Silverberg
Habib Mouallem
Gerard Halloren
Rich Pioli
Skip Tenczar
Tom Aversa
John Zeiman
Ken Shain
Tom Anderson
Gary Halzel
Ed McQuaid
Dan Aucoin
Bob Armstrong

If your name does not appear on this list, and you think it should, see your departmental editor.

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURE

—Novelist Toni Morrison will speak at Amherst College at 3 p.m. in the Alumni House. Her most recent work, "Song of Solomon", received wide acclaim. Her other works include "Sula" and "The Bluest Eye".

She will speak on her life and work, focusing on issues concerning Afro-Americans and women. There will be an informal discussion and a reception after her talk. At 8 p.m. she will read from her works and answer questions pertaining to her fiction. This will also be held in the Alumni House, where a reception will follow.

—"Music in a Contemporary Society" by Jan Degaetani. 8 p.m. Pratt Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke.

—"The American Art Market", an illustrated talk about the history of the art market from the 19th century to the present, Burnett Gallery, Jones Library, 3:30 p.m. Amherst.

—A reading by Russian poet Andrei Voznesensky at Wright Hall, Smith College, 8 p.m. English translations to be read by Richard Wilbur. Sponsored by the Dept. of Russian and the Maya Yates Memorial Fund.

—Meeting for lesbians to discuss alcohol and how it affects your life. Everywomen's Center, 7 p.m. For more information call Elizabeth Gordon 545-0883.

FILMS

—Tokyo Story, acclaimed as Japan's finest film. $1. Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire 7 and 9:15 p.m.

—"Broken Treaty at Battle Mt." and "The Longest War" at 8 p.m. in Thompson 106, free. Both films on the struggle of Native Americans today, are part of the Progressive Film Series.

PLAY

—"Antigone", the University Ensemble Theatre Production, Studio Theatre, FAC 8 p.m.

RECITAL

The Vocal Jazz Ensemble and the Jazz Workshop, Section II will give a joint recital at 8 p.m. in Bezanson Recital Hall, free.

LECTURES

—"Effect of Aminoacylation on the Conformation of tRNA," by Russell Potts of the UMass department of biochemistry at 4 p.m. in Graduate Research Tower A 203. Coffee at 3:45 p.m.

—"Comic Books and the World Around Us," by Stan Lee, creator of Spiderman, Dr. Strange, and the Hulk 8 p.m., SUB.

PRESENTATION

"Introduction to Findhorn" and "When Love is What You Are" — slide shows explaining Scotland's Findhorn Community 8:15 Has. 124. Findhorn is a New Age Community in which over 200 people from all over the world demonstrate their belief in God's presence within each person. It attempts to create "a new planetary culture through the transformation of human consciousness". Among the members present will be Gordon Davidson, former editor for The Collegian. Sponsored by the Institute for Wholistic Education.

TOMORROW

THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

By H. Graham Lowry: U.S. Labor Party, N&L Cmte. Final class develops — Hamilton's fight for a Republic based on industrial progress. Parallels to today's fight vs. British-US monetarists and their zero growth environmentalist drive to sabotage US energy and economic development.

INTRODUCTORY LECTURE: THE TM PROGRAM AND ENLIGHTENMENT

An introduction to the Transcendental Meditation Program, an effortless way of developing full potential of life. The public is invited. Machmer E-16, 7:30 p.m.

CHANUKAH CELEBRATION

A Chanukah celebration will be held at the Chabad House — singing, dancing, an explanation of the true meaning of the holiday will be on the program. Latkes and other refreshments provided, all are welcome, free. 7:30 p.m.

PANEL DISCUSSION

"Nuclear Safety and Evacuation Planning" will be the topic of a panel discussion to follow the screening of "Meltdown at Montague," a videotape dramatizing the hypothetical meltdown of the proposed nuclear power plant in Montague. The videotape raises many serious questions about evacuation of those immediately endangered should a nuclear accident occur as well as those of citizens exposed to lower level radiation.

Following the videotape, Mass. Civil Defense Director Robert H. Cunningham, Regional Co-ordinator Robert J. Boulay and Selectman Edward Metcalf of Northfield will be debating these questions with Prof. Alan Krass of Hampshire College and Steve Axlebaum and Dave Pomerantz; authors of "Nuclear Evacuation Planning". The moderator will be Mark Mills of Channel 57. Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College at 7:30.

DAILY

FINAL EXAM PREP

The Service Action Staff of the Career-Life Development Team will hold two sessions designed to relieve tensions about finals. They will offer specific suggestions on how to maximize study time, how to approach test content, and other hints of what works for successful test-takers. Dec. 6, 7 p.m. Hampden Commons and a second session Dec. 13, 7 p.m. Van Meter South Central lounge.

PEACE CORPS-VISTA ON CAMPUS

Peace Corps-Vista recruiters will be in the CC Dec. 6, 7, 8. There are positions for both December and May grads.

TURN TO PAGE 16

dvp dvp
loosen up before exams with
STAN LEE
and his famous Marvel comic book characters: Spiderman, the Human Torch, Captain America, the Hulk, the Silver Surfer, and many more when he speaks on
"Comic Books and the World Around Us"
Tuesday, Dec. 6
8:00 PM
Student Union Ballroom
free admission
Be There!
sponsored by the Distinguished Visitors' Program, 415 Student Union, 545-0920

LET'S GO BOWLING
Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30
50 cents a string

AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST 253-5426
"MONUMENTAL" — Vincent Canby
"EXTRAORDINARY" — Jay Cocks
MARCEL OPHULS'
"THE MEMORY OF JUSTICE"
DUE TO LENGTH EVES AT 7:00 ONLY
MON & TUES ALL SEATS $1.00

HATCH
Thurs., Dec. 8
The Great Pretenders
last appearance of the year
Fri. & Sat., Dec. 9 & 10
IMAGE
Last Weekend

DELIVERANCE
WED DEC 7
Student Union Ballroom
$1
6, 8, 10, 12:00

Open Auditions for
MOLIERE'S SCHOOL FOR WIVES
University Ensemble Theatre
December 6, 7 at 7-10 pm
December 7 at 1-4 pm
Sign up for audition slot outside of Main Theatre Office, 112 Fine Arts Center, or call 545-3490.

---

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music" People Magazine
Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4 & All Ticketron Locations.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
Why have they come? ROBERT VAUGHN CHRISTOPHER LEE STARSHIP INVASIONS
PG 1 Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
A long time ago in a galaxy far far away. STAR WARS
PG 2 Today at 6:00, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50
THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN
PG 3 Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film. I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN
R 4 Today at 6:30, 8:30 Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

- ☐ AUDIO
- ☐ AUTO FOR SALE
- ☐ CALCULATORS
- ☐ ENTERTAINMENT
- ☐ FOR RENT
- ☐ FOR SALE
- ☐ FOUND
- ☐ HELP WANTED
- ☐ INSTRUCTION
- ☐ LOST
- ☐ MISC.
- ☐ MOTORCYCLES
- ☐ PERSONALS
- ☐ PHOTO EQUIP.
- ☐ RIDE WANTED
- ☐ RIDERS WANTED
- ☐ ROOM WANTED
- ☐ SERVICES
- ☐ TO SUBLET
- ☐ TRAVEL
- ☐ WANTED
- ☐ WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days, 40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days, 35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:____ X rate:____ = ______
X #days:____ = ______(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

Name: ____________
Phone#: ____________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$________(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500, ord. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

65 Dodge Dart 6 cyl $325 Steve 253-3586.

Dodge Polara 1969 excellent mech cond no rust radials good heater 665-3901.

Fantastic Buy: 1972 Toyota Mark II. Runs great. AM/FM, stell-belted radials. Best offer over a $1,000. 584-4759.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1967 Volvo 144. Needs valve job. $400 or B.O. 773-7289.

1970 Merc. Cougar. New ex., AM-FM, radial 81K. Call 546-5344.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 TR6 convertible. Some rust. 1 owner. Low mileage. Best offer over $500. Call after 6, 1-567-8663.

68 VW Bus. Needs work. Has rebuilt engine. Best offer. Call Jan after 6PM 253-2037.

70 Volks for parts. First $100. takes it. Call Maryanne at 256-8460 to see it.

1970 Blue Mustang with vinyl roof, air conditioning, AM-FM-CB unit. In good clean condtion with 72,000 miles. Asking $1,300. Call Robert Maron in Cance 546-5102.

71 Datsun 510. Good Cond. Only 50,000 miles, New tires, Asking $1,000., call between 3 and 7 PM. 532-7622.

1973 Jeep CJ5. Roll Bak Michelin radials, 60,000 miles. 549-4048.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda, CB175, excellent condtion. $400. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50% on TENNIS SHOES! Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Used 15 inch tires $2.-$10. Call 256-0195.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Nikko 6065. 2 months old. Asking $350. or best offer 546-5084.

Two new new Snowtires H78-14 253-9792.

For Sale: Lange Pro Ski Boots size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn twice. If interested please call 253-5873.

Radials Pirelli 145SR13 Steve 253-3586.

XMAS SHOPPERS! Low, low prices on famous name sneakers. Limited supply 6-9611.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Bedroom Set - excellent condition. Call 253-7494.

Ladies Caber Dwnhll. Ski Boots. Size 8, ex. cond. Joan 256-0368 nights $20.

Pr snow tires 13" new cond $50 549-6482.

Sofabed, Reclining chair, bikerack, tables, bookshelf, lamps, coffeetable 549-5725.

SEIKO watch 23J-day/date. Koss Phase/2 stereo hdphone B.O. Frank 549-0187.

One HP-67 card programmable calculator, brand new and complete. Full warranty $315.00 call Bob or Chris 549-1316.

1970 Mobile Home in Belch Park. 12X50, includes AC, shed, stove, refridge. 6000 firm. Call 536-3086 or 532-0446 if no ans. Within 2 miles of UMass bus stop.

Sofa-good condition. Cheap-call 253-2967.

Diamond Wedding Ring trio - yel. gold - paid $500. used 6 mos. Will sacrifice for $250. Call 549-5440.

Must Sell by Jan. Wurlitzer Elec. Piano w/sustain & tremelo. List $700.,asking $325. or Best Offer. Call Jeff 549-3601.

FOR RENT

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

Furnished 2% Room Apt. All util. included. $195./mo. Allan or Russ 253-3336 or at work 253-3491.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Lrg. Rm. Avail. Now in Amh. house 549-5093.

3 Bedroom Apt., fair condition, for Dec. 1st, in Northampton. Only $165. Call Skibiski Real Estate 584-3428, 4-6P.M.

2 Bedroom Apt. utls. inc. $230. mo. avail Jan.1 on bus rt. Call 253-5706 aft. 4P.M.

1 neat respon per wtd for own rm in 2 bdrm apt, pr bath, for spr sem. Rent $125 util incl. ½mile frm UM. Eric 549-0582.

1 Bdrm. Apt. 1.5 mls. from campus. Excellent bus service. All utilities inclusive. $175. monthly. Avail. Jan.-Aug. Ideal for 2 people. Cal Zahid 545-0842 or 253-2097.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men non-smokers $55/mo. & utilities — Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

Apt. mate intersession; 253-7056; Janet.

Apt. mate 253-7056; spring. Janet.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call 665-3536.

One-half of a 2bdrm apt available Dec 22-Jan 28 1 mi from campus pay own elec & phone call Ginny at 549-1764.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

2 Bedroom Apt. Dec. 22-Jan.27. Completely furnished. On bus route. Brittany Manor. B.O. Call 256-0318.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

3 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1 Bdrm. eff apt. Cliffside, Sunderland. Jan 78-Aug 78 $155./mon., util. incl. Apt. can be seen any week day between 5-8P.M. Apt.#222.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

Large room in furnished 3 bdrom. apt. $75.00 complete! Includes cable. Available immed. 253-2980. Kp. trying.

Sublet Jan only b/o. Call 546-4027, 5500.

WANTED

Room; on L. Metacomet Blchtwn—70 plus—Carol at 323-5043.

F. Rmate wtd., nonsmkr. $70./mth. 549-2804.

2 females to shr. bdrm. for next sem. in spacious N. Amh. house 60/mo. ea. 549-5993.

1 Male Wanted to share apt. near Pufftn w 3 other people during spr. sem. Room avail. during Jan. too. Call 549-5978.

1 or 2 males to share own room in 2 bedroom Amherst apts. for spring semester. On bus route $122. plus electricity. Heat included. Call 256-0318 after 4P.M.

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

Exp. women printer to share skills w/ women's print collective. Call Angela 9-5 586-5079 or Jaque 268-3344.

TWO POSITIONS AVAILABLE at Student Legal Services in Spring. Apply before Dec. 8th in Rm. 922 CC. Paralegal Intern: Full-time, 15 credits through Outreach or Academic Dept. Experience helpful but not necessary. Receptionist/Typist: 15-20hrs./wk. work/study position. Experience helpful. We are an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Waitress wanted ME Bar LOUNGE 584-7200.

The Student Organizing Project is accepting applications for student organizers. Both work-study and non work-study positions are open and will begin Feb. 1. Applicants should have an understanding of student unionization. Application deadline is Dec. 8. Apply Rm. 426 Student Union Bld.

Applications being accepted for SGA Director of Communications. Inquire at Rm. 420 S.U. This is a salaried position. The SGA is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer.

Applications for Intersession + Spring Training programs will be given to the first 100 qualified people on Dec. 6 at 7:30 in CC917. You must be over 18, have held a car license for at least 1 year + be a UMass degree student with at least three semesters left. Bring license + proff of class year. SSTS is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer.

SERVICES

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

BERKSHIRE FORUM WEEKEND VACATIONS: Expertly led discussions, stimuating companions, fine food, mountains. Dec. 9-11, "Arab-Israeli Conflict." Dec. 16-18, "Harry Magdoff on Eurocommunism." Dec. 23-26, "Holiday Film Festival." Write/call Berkshire Forum, Stephentown, N.Y. 12168; (518) 733-5497.

Daytona Beach is only $147.20 away. You can now afford to go to a beachfront hotel, have Disneyworld and New Years in Florida. For more info or reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models, low prices. Jack 586-0610.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

DON'T PASS THIS UP!

For Sale 1964 Olds F-85. Very good cond. Must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great. Call 6-9642 SOON.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

AUDIO

FM Tuner, Dynatuner-FM-3, $60. Int.Amplifier, McIntosh MA 230, $185. Cass. deck & tapes, Advent 201, $200. No reasonable offer refused, Equipt. in excel. condition. Call Ken 546-4035.

Sony 6300 Stereo Tape deck, like new. $275. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

RIDERS WANTED

Denver Colorado mid-December 665-3938.

Ride needed for 2 to Colorado anytime after finals. Call DGray 549-3740.

LOST

Reward-Calculator. Lost Thur. Nov. 30 Call Mark 546-6067.

PERSONALS

To the Kleptos of 202 Field and their accomplices - Excellent, but don't turn your back!

To Donna who gave me a ride to Providence on Wed.--Now let me give you a ride!! Call Fred 6-4462. I'm serious.

Hamp.Col. Amy lets play tennis. Bruce 253-9328.

Happy 18th Amy!! Much love Nettie.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis for Finals. Make retention & recall easier, improve concentration & relaxation for exams, get better grades. Campus Center M.W.Th. at 7,8,&9P.M. $5./session. Dorm groups by arrgt. Call Mr. Morse Hypnotist Consultant M.Ed 532-5703.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

What's Happening

CONT. FROM PAGE 14

An exhibition of student work in design will be on display this week at the Herter Gallery, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The show will include graphic, architectural and interior deisgn, including projects in the adaptive re-use of old buildings, office design, prefabricated housing and trailor design, redesigning of spaces on the University campus, and furniture design.

PARTY TICKETS

A holiday wine and cheese party is being sponsored by the Communication Disorders Association on Thursday at 7 p.m. in Arnold House 120. Tickets can be bought from classroom monitors, club officers and in the departmental office, 50 cents, through Wednesday. Communication disorders majors, grad students, and faculty are welcome.

CONFERENCE

The annual conference on Theological Education at Manhattan's Union Theological Seminary invites four nominations from UMass-Amherst. This is a very low cost ($5) long weekend in and around New York. Theme of the conference is "Beyond Cynicism Toward Resurrection Faith". Deadline for nominations is December 14. If interested, contact UCF in 428 Student Union; tel: 5-2789.

Notices

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE CLUB

Meeting tomorrow 2 p.m. CC 802.

SPORTING GOODS CO-OP

Meeting for Co-op members and any interested people tomorrow at 9 p.m., CC 811.

EMT - BELCHERTOWN

Meeting for anyone who signed up for the EMT and has not paid, and any others interested in an EMT class this spring. 7:30, CC 904. Bring a deposit.

PRE-MED SOCIETY

Meeting 8:30 p.m. CC 904. Refreshments. All are welcome.

BOWLING CLUB

Mandatory meeting to discuss next semester's events at Boyden Lanes 5 p.m., Wed.

PEOPLE'S GAY ALLIANCE

Meeting 8 p.m. C.C. 908. All welcome.

HRTA MAJORS

Meeting 7:15, CC 165-167. Resume writing with David Wheelhouse, interviewer, Sheraton Corp. Also sign up for sales-blitze's.

BIBLICAL EXPLORATION

Biblical Exploration will meet early this week, from 7:00 to 7:50 p.m. in 428 Student Union; open to all. A brief celebration of communion will be held from 7:50 to 8:10. The early time is to accommodate the program on "Findhorn and Planetary Transformation" at 8:15 in 124 Hasbrouck.

"THE ECONOMICS OF A STRIKE: YALE VS. UNION 35"

Is the first in a series of workshops sponsored by the Undergraduate Economics Council. The workshop will be given by Prof. Rick Wolff (PhD Yale University) in the CC 903 from 2:30 to 3:30.

LOST

Women's gold watch, lost 12-1. If found please call Sharon 6-6821. Reward.

IT PAYS TO BE IN DEMAND.

Air Force ROTC has scholarships, allowances and jobs for selected science and engineering majors.

Air Force ROTC has openings for young men and women majoring in specified science and engineering academic fields. Fields such as Aeronautical, Aerospace, General and Electrical Engineering, Mathematics, Physics and Computer Technology. AFROTC enrollment pays well now and could keep paying off in the future.

Air Force ROTC offers 4-year, 3-year and 2-year scholarships with $100 monthly tax-free allowance during the last two years to non-scholarship students.

Upon graduation you'll receive a commission in the U.S. Air Force and compete for challenging jobs. There'll be numerous opportunities for advanced education in your field, plus you'll have financial security and start your way up the promotion ladder where your ability and ambition are the only limits.

It pays to be in demand, and if you're the type we're looking for, it pays to get the details. No obligations, naturally.

- Call 5-2437

Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a Great Way of Life

DECEMBER-JANUARY GRADUATES

Equipment Development Laboratories, a major R&D facility located in Wayland, MA is heavily involved in the research and development of advanced electronics systems. Due to our continued growth and expansion, outstanding opportunities are available for BS and MS graduates in the following disciplines:

| Disciplines | Design | Development | Advanced Research | E/M Packaging | Scientific Programming |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Electrical Engineering | X | X | X |  | X |
| Mechanical Engineering | X | X |  | X |  |
| Computer Engineering | X | X | X |  | X |
| Computer Science |  |  |  |  | X |

Raytheon offers not only an ideal geographical location, approximately 20 miles west of Boston, but provides a technical environment where challenges abound and individual contributions are nourished and rewarded. If you have not yet made the most important decision of your life why not forward your resume immediately to Bill Skeegan, Raytheon Company, Equipment Development Laboratories, Dept. 535, Boston Post Road, Wayland, MA 01778.

RAYTHEON

An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F

"Women in Journalism: The Realities of Opportunity"

will be the topic of a talk and question/answer period

by

NINA McCAIN

I'm just terribly sorry, Miss, but we just don't have a policy of hiring women in our more responsible positions. They are just always getting pregnant or married or their husband has to move out of town or their kids get sick or they find a better job or they can't lift heavy things and besides we only have one restroom. But of course we always have openings in filing
PERSONNEL

Nina McCain is a Sunday feature writer for The Boston Globe. She has also written editorials. Formerly she was a reporter on the academic beat and, before that, the Globe's education editor. She has worked on newspapers in Texas and New York and participated in the Stanford University Professional Journalism Fellowship program.

Tuesday,Dec. 6 7 pm Room 805-809 Campus Center

all invited

Sponsored by The Collegian and the the Journalistic Studies Department

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

AHA! SO YOU'RE THE VOCAL MINORITY, BERNIE!
RIGHT ON, BROTHER!
PEACE CORPS
© 1977 G. B. Trudeau
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
12-6
ACTUALLY, THIS IS VERY CATHARTIC FOR ME, MIKE! DURING THE '60'S, I WAS SO BUSY NEGOTIATING ADOLESCENCE, I MISSED THE ACTIVIST LIFE ENTIRELY!
QUITE FRANKLY, I HARDLY KNOW WHERE TO BEGIN! I PICKED MY SLOGAN RANDOMLY—"UP AGAINST THE CEILING"!
UP AGAINST THE CEILING!
UM.. I THINK YOU WANT "WALL."
I DO? BUT I GOT IT FROM ZONKER!
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

HI
HI
I CAN DIG IT
© FIELD ENTERPRISES INC. 1977
12 6
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

YOU LOOK SMALLER TODAY, SIR, AND YOU SEEM QUIETER....
AREN'T YOU FEELING WELL, SIR?
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
!
?
WHAT KIND OF ILLNESS MAKES YOUR BODY SHRINK BUT YOUR NOSE GET BIGGER?
12-6
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

That's the last straw! I can't take any more!
What's wrong with Mark?
Chapped face.
Ranney 12/6

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

THE BATTLE COMPUTER TAKES OVER THE SITUATION.
IT SWINGS DENNIS AROUND IN AN ARC, AND PLANTS THE THOUGHT IN HIS MIND TO EXTEND HIS RIGHT ARM.
THIS PLACES HIM IN A POSITION TO . . .
RETALIATE!
SKKKKKK!
ROLLINS 12/6
DENNIS IS WIDE-EYED WITH FEAR.
SOMETHING TELLS ME THIS WON'T BE AS EASY AS I THOUGHT.
AFFIRMATIVE. LOOK BEHIND YOU.

UM by Marty Maceda

ZEEP
ADEEP!
A-DEEP!
PA-DEEP!
PA DEEP!
MACEDA 12-6
NO JOKE, YOU CREEP?
PEEP
BA-DEEP DEEP
CENTER OF EARTH

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

I'LL CALL FOR HELP TO SAVE YOUR FATHER!
COME IN BENB! MEET ME AT PROF. BUSDUCK'S! HE'S IN DANGER!
WAIT HERE! BENB AND I WILL SAVE THE DAY
MEANWHILE BENB SPEEDS TO MEET GERALD!
VROOM!
BUT WILL OUR HEROES BE TOO LATE?
LAFLER 12/7

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 6 — Born today, you are an attractive, magnetic individual, although this is at times as much a drawback as an asset. There are times when your enthusiasm is simply too much for other people, and at such times you may find them avoiding you. But this same enthusiasm is often responsible for gaining support for new projects. You would be an asset to any business in need of a persuasive troubleshooter, for you aren't afraid to discover truth and you find it easy to talk others into doing things your way.

Courteous and generally sympathetic to others' problems, you be at times inundated with requests for aid or a shoulder to cry on. You are a reasonable, logical, sensible person, and can impress upon others the need for self-help, self-motivation, self-development. You do not lack any of these yourself.

Indeed, you are quite able to take independent action, and will often refuse the help others offer, even when it would mean quicker success.

You possess some potential for excess. You are inclined to eat and drink too much, to form too quick and too close associations with others, and so on. Your delight in living is often enhanced by your indulgence in those activites that take your time and talent. You are an exciting, interesting individual, capable of things original and highly creative.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birithday star be your daily guide.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Don't let many responsibilities tire you so you don't enjoy any one of them.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Obstinacy is apparent today in those who want you to change your mind about new projects.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Don't let impetuous action spoil chances for real gain late in the day.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Your spirited nature may cause premature decisions and deeds to hinder expected success.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Practice restraint this morning, so you will have inclination and energy for afternoon opportunities.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — You should discover where and why recent decisions were wrong. Listen to advice of one in authority.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Moderation may bring you much less than the gain possible if you had been adventurous.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — Listen to the moralistic side of your nature. You should have a chance to influence another for good.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — You may have to sacrifice personal success for family happiness. You will not regret moves made today.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Determine your freshness early. If you lack the energy to fulfill plans, change them.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Your tendency to stick staunchly to friends may land you in trouble today. It will be worth it.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Your good-natured insistence on having your way should gain you your ends. Ask for an early hearing.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

1 Punch: Slang
6 Envelope part
10 Boater's concern
14 Cake decorators
15 Special
16 USSR city
17 Inward: Anat.
18 Boxing's Eddie ----
19 Russ. river
20 Went to bed
22 Aircraft
24 Book bindery worker
26 Honors with words
27 "Certainly!": 3 words
30 Ervil
31 Affirm
32 Son of Basil Two
37 Enclosure
38 Women's companions
40 Collection: Suffix
41 Hammer ---------
43 Blow
44 Netherlands commune
45 Inoculation
materials
48 ------ Is. Ferry
51 Fr. students' milieu
52 Jet journey: 2 words
54 Making a speech
58 Go bankrupt
59 Sorority member
61 Sault Ste. -----
62 Of the Irish
63 Price of something
64 Tending
65 Early Irish tenant
66 Dregs
67 Church council

DOWN

1 Platform over water
2 Skin disease
3 Small paving stone
4 Tourist's vehicle
5 O.T. book
6 Prussian king
7 Barrel stave
8 Cairo native
9 Remorseful
10 Meat dish
11 Tapestry
12 Had a tendency
13 French gals
21 Old French coin
23 Havens
25 Turn
27 Paper mulberry bark
28 Drying apparatus
29 Deflect
33 L/D designations: 2 words
34 Shower
35 Nine: Prefix
36 Has lunch
38 Sea duck
39 Resembling a stage performance
42 Colonist
43 Of food regimens
46 Heart
47 Holding devices
48 Vaults
49 Pope's crown
50 Emerge
53 Dixie bread
55 Metal
56 Entertainer ---- Martini
57 Turned right
60 French season

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

|  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |  |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| P | A | S | T | A | ■ | A | C | T | E | ■ | P | A | S | S |
| A | N | T | I | C | ■ | R | A | I | L | ■ | O | L | L | A |
| L | E | A | C | H | ■ | T | R | E | M | U | L | O | U | S |
| O | W | N | ■ | I | S | I | S | ■ | E | N | I | G | M | A |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | P | E | P | S | ■ | B | R | I | T | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| I | N | N | O | V | A | T | O | R | ■ | T | E | E | T | H |
| D | O | O | M | E | D | ■ | L | I | F | E | ■ | L | I | E |
| E | R | S | E | ■ | E | N | D | O | R | ■ | G | E | T | S |
| A | G | E | ■ | B | R | I | E | ■ | A | R | O | M | A | S |
| L | E | D | G | E | ■ | C | R | I | N | O | L | I | N | E |
| ■ | ■ | ■ | R | A | T | E | ■ | S | C | A | D | ■ | ■ | ■ |
| S | U | M | A | C | H | ■ | W | O | E | S | ■ | O | R | O |
| A | N | D | S | H | O | V | E | L | ■ | T | A | P | E | R |
| G | A | S | P | ■ | R | I | N | D | ■ | E | V | E | N | T |
| A | L | E | S | ■ | N | A | T | E | ■ | D | E | N | T | S |

Mermen open with WPI

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

Playing host to the mermen of Worcester Polytechnic Institute, the UMass men's swim team opens up its season with a 7:30 meet tonight at Boyden Pool.

Sporting an unblemished record of 2-0 thus far, WPI invades Boyden tonight with wins over Holy Cross and Babson in its first two meets.

"Their (WPI) win over Babson concerns me because Babson is about equal to us in talent," said Minuteman mentor Bei Melamed. "We're going to have to swim a lot harder against them than I thought we would have to at the beginning of the season."

Last year the UMass mermen were victors over WPI in a close meet at the beginning of the season. According to Melamed, WPI should be about the same strength this year unless it did some heavy recruiting during the off-season.

As in the past, several quittings by some key swimmers have damaged the Minuteman's chances. Starting with a roster of 30 swimmers, Melamed has seen his roster dwindle to its present size of 18 swimmers.

"There were at least six swimmers who could have scored a lot of points for us that have quit since the beginning of the preseason workouts," explained Melamed.

In addition, the mermen will sorely miss the services of Dave Boucher and Ben Crooker who graduated. Both of them scored a great deal of points for the Minutemen during last year's 4-7 season.

"I'm still pretty optimistic though," continued Melamed. "I don't think it'll be easy, but we'll have to work for the win tonight."

In related news, Melamed announced that he is still looking for some ambitious students to help out with timing during the home meets.

Recently, the men's and women's swim team held their annual Crawl-A-Thon on Nov. 19 to raise meal money for the intersession training period. Each swimmer swam 200 laps in the 25 yard Boyden Pool and were sponsored by some local businesses. The largest contribution was by the Sports Store of Amherst which donated a total of $40 to the event. Other contributors were: Jones-Neylon Ins. ($12), Fentons ($10), Shumway's Paint ($10), AJ Hastings ($10), Tech Hi-Fi ($10), and CBA ($10).

"These donations to our inter-session program really means a lot," said Melamed. The event earned about $1,200.00 for the program.

The mermen's next action will be on Saturday afternoon when they hop on the bus to Boston where they'll meet the Terriers of Boston University.

Baltimore Colt defender Dan Dickel (55) bursts through the Miami line to block a punt by Dolphin punter Mike Michel (17) in first quarter action at the Orange Bowl last night. (UPI) Story on Page 19.

Sports Notices

INTRAMURALS — Basketball officials' meeting Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in room 215 Boyden. If you attended the first meeting, do not come!

RA SUPERVISORS MEETING — Friday at 4 p.m. or Monday at 4 p.m. in room 215 Boyden — you are required to attend just one.

NOPE basketball courts closed will be this Saturday for a women's basketball game.

SOFTBALL — There will be an organizational meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in room 22 NOPE for all persons interested in trying out for the intercollegiate softball team. If you cannot attend the meeting, please contact coach Dianne Thompson at 220 Boyden or call 5-2845.

The Physical Education Majors Club will be presenting the official 1975 World Series film featuring the Boston Red Sox and the Cincinnati Reds tonight at NOPE Gym.

The film will be shown at 9:15 and 10:00. Admission is 25 cents.

Women bowlers sparkle

Last Saturday at Treadway Lanes in Springfield, the UMass women's bowling team breezed by all its opponents and captured first place in the Pioneer Valley Classic Tourney. The women dominated the tournament from the beginning.

In the first match game, Cyndy Adams led off with an excellent 203 game. Jane O'Neil followed that score with a solid 208 score, and Amanda Garcia rolled a blistering 212. The UMass women continued to bowl consistently throughout the match and coasted to a first place finish. The closest opponent was Southern Connecticut, which finished a distant 146 pins behind.

The women's team had climbed to first place in the Tri-State Collegiate Division two weeks before. They continued their hold on first place by winning 42 out of a possible 54 match points. The consistency of Beth Schneider (team captain) Jackie Cashen, Gina McEvoy, Cyndy Adams, Amanda Garcia, and Jane O'Neil is paving the way for another UMass first place title in the Tri-State Conference.

As Beth Schneider said, "We just get better and better with each tournament."

How true that statement is when one follows the progress of the women's team. The women's team finished fifth, third, and second in previous tournaments. They can now claim a first place prize.

The men's bowling team, which was in eighth place at the beginning of the tournament, finished sixth in Saturday's tournament. Worcester Polytechnic was the victor in the men's division.

Chuck Bond and Paul Stutzman rolled 203 games during the day and Mike Berard fired a tournament high 242 score. Mike Berard, last year's national finalist, has a league leading 191 average. Unfortunately, the men's team has not found the consistency of last year's top team. According to team captain Paul Stutzman, "This team has eight to nine very good bowlers, but we just haven't found the best five which will jell together."

The men faired well in the doubles event as they won 23 out of the possible 27 match points. Other team members consisted of Dave Tursky, Rob Stelbaum, and Tim Welch. The next tournament for the men's and women's team will be at the University of Lowell in January.

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
None

TODAY
MEN'S VARSITY BASKETBALL — At Boston University 8 p.m.
MEN'S SWIMMING — home vs. Worcester Polytechnic Institute 7:30 p.m.

TOMORROW
MEN'S INDOOR TRACK — at Coast Guard Relays 3 p.m.
HOCKEY — at Army 7 p.m.
WOMEN'S SWIMMING — at Yale 7 p.m.
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — at Lowell University 7 p.m.

Bruins working for Cherry

BOSTON [UPI] — Don Cherry would love a high scoring winger but the Boston Bruins coach is not interested in a star.

"Sure, if we had a Guy LaFleur, we'd let him do anything he wants but if we ever got a guy who scored between 30 and 40 goals a year, he'd have to play my system," Cherry said early this week as the Bruins enjoyed a four-day rest from a 14-game unbeaten streak.

"Ricky Middleton is a perfect example of what I'm talking about," said Cherry. "When he came here (from the New York Rangers as a goal scorer), I put him on right on the checking line. He used to pull what I call the 'crane act,' picking up one foot to avoid getting hit by the puck. Now he sticks his head right in there to block shots."

Middleton learned to change his style because Cherry believes that checking will lead to scoring and that offense-only leads to trouble, as the high-scoring Bruins of 1974-'75 found out the hard way.

After being squeezed out of the Playoffs in the preliminary round by Chicago, the Bruins abandoned their high scoring ways to concentrate on defense. Early the next season Phil Esposito and offense-minded defenseman Carol Vadnais were traded to New York for Brad Park and Jean Ratelle. Forechecking and backchecking became more important than goals and assists.

Forward were taught to dig and work instead of shoot and hope.

"The wingers are the ones that pay the price on this club," said Cherry. "They take all the abuse from me. Whatever goes wrong is their fault and it will always be that way," said Cherry, who is respected by all his players for his dedication to winning.

The hard-working style has helped Boston win 12 and tie two games without a loss, even though a whole starting lineup is sidelined with injuries.

Gaolie Gerry Cheevers is nearly healthy after a ligament strain in one knee. Wingers Bob Schmautz and Stan Jonathan are out with knee injuries as is rookie center-wing Dwight Foster and center Gregg Sheppard. Defenseman Gary Doak, who missed the Bruins 3-1 win over Toronto Sunday, will be out another week because of a pulled hamstring.

"But we keep on winning because the young guys are picking up the slack and playing Don's system," said defenseman Brad Park, a rock of consistency throughout the season.

"This is really a lunchpail team, a team based on hard work, and Don is the difference. I've never played for a coach like him before. He works with everybody all the time."

PIZZARAMA
of Amherst 355 College St.
Open Sun-Thurs 11-1AM
Fri, Sat 11-2AM
For Fast FREE Delivery call 253-3808
Sun-Thurs 5PM to 1AM
Fri, Sat 5PM to 2AM
CALL 253-3808

TWO FILMS ON THE STRUGGLE OF NATIVE AMERICANS TODAY
THE LONGEST WAR
and
BROKEN TREATY AT BATTLE MOUNTAIN tuesday
december 6
THOMPSON 106 8PM FREE!!

The rusty nail Inn
Coming Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY
and the
ASBURY JUKES
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937

When you are the best,
you will look the best.
Ye Curling Iron
TRIANGLE STREET
AMHERST, MASS.
(413) 549-4412
257 MAPLE ST.
HOLYOKE, MASS.
(413) 536-3153

Charlie's
U MASS NIGHT
10% OFF
ALL FOOD & DRINK W/ID
1 PRAY ST. AMHERST 549-5403 Next to The PUB

Kentucky grabs first place in UPI's basketball poll

NEW YORK [UPI] — Kentucky emerged from a preseason tie with North Carolina for the nation's top ranking and gained sole possession of the top spot yesterday in the United Press International Board of Coaches top 20 college basketball rankings.

In the first week of voting since the season started, Kentucky, which beat Southern Methodist 110-86 Nov. 26 in its only game before hosting Indiana Monday night, received 320 points and 20-of-34 first-place votes.

North Carolina, which raised its record to 4-0 Saturday by beating North Carolina State 87-82 for its first big four tournament championship since 1971, finished a close second with 298 points and 10 first-place votes.

Unbeaten Notre Dame won its third straight game Saturday, 89-75 over Valparaiso, and moved up one place to No. 3 with 251 points.

Despite receiving two first-place votes, Marquette exchanged places with Notre Dame, dropping to No. 4 following a 59-47 victory Saturday over Western Michigan, the second victory without a loss for the defending national champions.

UCLA beat Santa Clara for its fourth triumph without a defeat and climbed one place to No. 5. Arkansas, 4-0, jumped from No. 9 to No. 6 and Cincinnati, also unbeaten at 3-0, moved up one place to No. 7.

Indiana State, 4-0, made the most significant jump following its upset over Purdue, ranked No. 7 in preseason, earlier in the week. Indiana State rose from a tie for No. 16 in the preseason rankings to No. 8 and also got a first-place vote.

San Francisco, upset Saturday by Arizona State 89-79 for the Dons' first loss in three games, fell from No. 5 to No. 9.

Syracuse, 4-1 following a 75-67 win over Michigan State, was No. 10.

Closing out the top 20 were No. 11 Michigan (3-0), No. 12 Maryland (4-0), No. 13 Utah (2-0), No. 14 Purdue (2-1), St. John's (4-0) and Kansas (3-0) tied for No. 15, No. 17 Providence (3-0), Louisville (1-1) and Holy Cross (2-0) tied for No. 18 and No. 20 New Mexico (3-0).

| TEAM | POINTS |
|---|---|
| 1. Kentucky (20) (1-0) | 320 |
| 2. North Carolina (10) (4-0) | 298 |
| 3. Notre Dame (3-0) | 251 |
| 4. Marquette (2) (2-0) | 212 |
| 5. UCLA (4-0) | 172 |
| 6. Arkansas (1) (4-0) | 100 |
| 7. Cincinnati (3-0) | 91 |
| 8. Indiana State (1) (4-0) | 59 |
| 9. San Francisco (2-1) | 52 |
| 10. Syracuse (4-1) | 42 |
| 11. Michigan (3-0) | 39 |
| 12. Maryland (4-0) | 32 |
| 13. Utah (2-0) | 27 |
| 14. Purdue (2-1) | 26 |
| 15. (Tie) St. John's (4-0) | 24 |
| 15. (Tie) Kansas (3-0) | 24 |
| 17. Providence (3-0) | 23 |
| 18. (Tie) Louisville (1-1) | 13 |
| 18. (Tie) Holy Cross (2-0) | 13 |
| 20. New Mexico (3-0) | 7 |

How about the managers?

HONOLULU [UPI] — Top priority with most ballplayers today is security. That's the one word you hear them talk about all the time.

The first thing every kid starting out in baseball wants is to reach the majors. No sooner does he get in 90 days then he begins thinking in terms of the long haul, the multipleyear contract he sees everybody else getting.

If for some reason, that should happen to slip his mind, trust his wife to remind him about it. Early and often. Security, security. You gotta get that security. Some players are so secure with the contracts they've signed, they're guaranteed to be paid for the next 25 years — long after they've finished playing.

That's perfectly fine, for the players. But what about the managers? How much security do they have? Relatively little, if any. That's why you hear of cases like Billy Martin's this past season when he pushed so hard to get some kind of extension of his contract.

For 23 years, Walt Alston managed the Dodgers and was never given anything more than a one-year contract at a time. His successor, Tommy Lasorda, is working under the same arrangement and that doesn't make him unique among the managers in the majors.

Bob Lemon did such a fine job with the Chicago White Sox last season, he was hailed in many quarters as the American League Manager of the Year, yet all he has is a one-year contract. Don Zimmer has the same thing with Boston, Joe Altobelli with San Francisco, Jeff Torborg with Cleveland and Dave Garcia with California.

Bobby Winkles has even less security than that. He hasn't heard yet whether or not he'll be back at Oakland next year. If Charlie Finley keeps the A's and does bring Winkles back, you can bet it'll be for only one year — or less. How about that for security?

Miami tramples Colts

MIAMI [UPI] — Leroy Harris, a stubby rookie fullback, ran for a 77-yard touchdown with 7:42 remaining last night to give the Miami Dolphins a 17-6 victory over the Baltimore Colts and the inside track to the AFC Eastern Division Championship.

The 5-9, 220-pound former Arkansas State star burst to his right, broke one tackle and followed two blockers to the game-breaking touchdown. It was the longest scoring run from scrimmage in Dolphin history.

The win ties the Dolphins with the Colts at 9-3, but if both teams win their last two games and finish at 11-3, Miami would win the title by virtue of its better record within the division.

Miami's victory also puts New England back in the race. The Patriots are 8-4 and play Miami Sunday and Baltimore in their season finale. Two wins would produce a three-way tie, but New England would get the nod because it would be 3-1 in competition among the three contenders.

Before Harris' run, it had begun to look like Miami's young defense might make a 10-6 halftime lead hold up.

Tight end Andre Tillman had provided Miami with the lead by taking a Bob Griese pass on the 5 and bowling over three defenders for a 15-yard score.

Miami's Garo Yepremian had opened the scoring with a 27-yard field goal and the Colts' Toni Linhart kept it close with three pointers of 32 and 27 yards.

The Colts' best offensive performance of the night came late in the third quarter. They moved methodically on 10 plays from their own 34 to the Miami 4.

Open Rush
at
Sigma Phi Epsilon
Located behind University Motor Lodge
Tues., 7-9pm
Films will be shown along with refreshments

North Pleasant
Triangle St
Chestnut St
E. Pleasant
SigEp

$25 Deposits taken
11-3, Mon-Fri in
Ski Club Office
S.U. 309
and
Dec. 5, 7, 9, 12, 14
on Campus Center
Concourse
Sugarbush
Ski Week
Jan. 22-27
$109-meals, lodging
lift ticket, partying!

Cagers at BU; take on Terriers

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's varsity basketball team will seek to up its record to 3-0 tonight when it takes on Boston University (1-1) at the Case Center on the BU campus at 8:00 (7:55 WMUA 91.1).

The Minutemen are coming off a come-from-behind, 77-73 victory over Eastern Athletic Association foe George Washington last Saturday night, while the Terriers were most recently beaten by Maine. Their lone win came against Stonehill College, a Division II school.

"That was a good win," said UMass coach Jack Leaman of the GW game. "We did not play well for the whole game, but for 10 minutes at the end, we executed the zone press very well and showed a lot of control on offense."

UMass wiped out a 14 point deficit with eight minutes left to pull out its first win of the year in the EAA, behind Mike Pyatt's and Mark Haymore's offense, and key steals by Pyatt, Eric Williams and Alex Eldridge.

Although the Colonials outrebounded UMass by eight caroms, Leaman was impressed with the play of his big men.

"We're not where we want to be as far as rebounding goes," said Leaman, "but we did improve a little. Both Haymore and Kohlhaas (Len) played better, and they'll both continue to improve.

"What people don't understand is that they're both like freshmen. Lenny played only in spots last year, while Mark (Indiana transfer) hasn't played for three years."

Leaman said he was considering switching Haymore and Kohlhaas (both 6'9") on offense, putting the former out at forward, and moving the latter inside to center, to improve his scoring punch.

Haymore scored 18 points from a corner position Saturday, after an ineffective start in the team's opening win against Harvard.

The front line of Kohlhaas, Haymore, Pyatt and Williams ("He's a starter," - Leaman) will have to contend with a physical BU squad which was only 9-17 last year, and lost to the Minutemen, 84-57 in the Cage.

"They're as big as us physically," said Leaman, "and they rebound the ball well. They press on D and like to run — they're the best team BU's had in a while. It's a good matchup physically, but I think we have an edge in that our important players are veterans, while their's are inexperienced."

BU returns its top three scorers from a year ago, as well as its top three rebounders. Phil Andrews, a 6'3" senior guard, led the scoring parade with a 13.5 average.

He was backed up by Curtis Vanlandingham, a 6'7" junior forward (10.8 pts, 178 rebs), Steve Wright, a 6'8" sophomore forward-center (10.2, 159) and Doug Bean, a 6'6" senior forward (8.8, 151).

"BU always plays tough at home," said Leaman. "We expect the same tonight."

UMass guard Derick Claiborne (20) drives to the hoop to score against Harvard. The Minutemen travel to BU tonight. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Grapplers seventh in New London tournament

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

Larry Otsuka, Tony Perry, and John Allen all placed this weekend, leading the Minutemen to a strong seventh place showing in a sixteen team college wrestling tournament held by the Coast Guard Academy at New London, Connecticut.

Otsuka was simply outstanding, as the junior from Upper Saddle River, New Jersey won five consecutive matches to win the championship at 134 pounds. Otsuka, who is now 7-1 on the season, faced stiff competition from Southern Connecticut's Paul Bulzomi, as they faced each other twice in the tourney.

"He was a lot tougher in the semis," said Otsuka. "I think I handled him better when I wrestled him in the finals."

Wrestling at 118 pounds, Tony Perry took second place in his weight class. Perry remained undefeated until the finals, before losing two close matches to a Columbia grappler.

Freshman heavyweight John Allen was also impressive, as he won fourth place in the unlimited division.

Although they did not place, coach Dave Amato was also pleased with the performances of his other wrestlers.

"Overall, the team was much better than they were in our last match," said Amato. "They really learned a lot, too. As a team we placed ahead of Mass. Maritime and Boston University, and they have pretty good programs."

At 126 pounds, Dana Rassmussen lost two close matches.

"He had some tough breaks," said Amato. "He faced one of the best kids in the tournament in the opening round, and then lost a close match in the second round."

Charley Rigogliso competed at 142 pounds and won two matches. He lost close matches by 10-9 and 4-0 scores.

Bob Clark lost a 5-4 match wrestling at 190 pounds, then rebounded for two consecutive wins before being eliminated.

Steve Whitman wrestled at 177 pounds, and won a match.

"Steve was the most improved wrestler on the trip," said Amato. "He did really well."

Also wrestling for UMass were Mike Carroll (150 pounds), Tim Fallon (158 pounds), and Dave O'Brien (167 pounds).

UMass tallied 52 points as a team. Temple won the team title, followed by Hofstra, Southern Connecticut, C.W. Post, Columbia, and host team Coast Guard. Finishing in seventh place, UMass was only one point behind Coast Guard and three points behind Columbia.

Wrestling Notes —

UMass co-captain Timmy Fallon was taken to the infirmary Sunday, and was found to be stricken with food poisoning. The ailment is not serious, but according to coach Amato he will miss this weekend's road trip to Harvard.

The Harvard match will be the last varsity contest before intersession.

Co-captain Kevin Griffin is expected to see action for the first time this season on the trip, but will probably wrestle at 167 pounds; not his more customary 158 pounds.

Minuteman grapplers who made the trip to New London this past weekend are still talking about the tactics used by teammate Steve Whitman.

"Steve invented the Whitman Drag," laughed Larry Otsuka. "He tried to use the Harvard Drag, where you're supposed to use both arms and legs, but he only used his legs."

"It was pretty funny to see," said another grappler.

Dennis Fenton will make his coaching debut on Thursday, as the JV wrestlers open their season with a home match against Springfield College. Fenton, a four-time New England champion and football star while attending UMass, was named JV coach earlier this semester.

The match with Springfield College will begin at 7:00 at Boyden Gym.

Collegian
Sports

Professional sports 'It's only a business'

Russ Smith

Item: One man killed, two seriously wounded...

I read it in the Boston Globe.

Not on the news pages. Or weather. The sports section.

It seems that during the Denver Bronco-Baltimore Colts football game last week, three patrons of a Denver bar had the 'audacity' to play the jukebox.

They never got to hear their songs. Another barroom occupant wanted to hear the game, not America's top forty. He pulled out a gun. No more music. For one guy, no more living. For four men, their lives changed. And all for a football game. And a jukebox. Something's wrong. Drastically wrong.

It's bad enough there are as many nuts in this country as there are, without more springing up because of a simple-minded game played on an idiot box.

It seems some people have forgotten exactly what sports have to do with the real world.

We have to realize that sports is NOT the real world. More explicitly, professional sports.

Nothing in professional sports SHOULD affect our real lives.

People don't get divorced because the Tampa Bay Buccaneers haven't won a game in twenty-six tries.

People aren't committing suicide because the Yankees won the World Championship.

Tommy Heinsohn doesn't go home every night and beat on his wife because he can't find a winning combination for the Celtics.

Things like this don't (normally) happen. And they shouldn't.

Professional sports is a business. I know you've all heard that, but many don't accept that.

They think pro-sports are more than that.

Some students won't study on Mondays because of (1) Monday night baseball or (2) the Colts are playing the Dolphins, and if the Miami wins it enhances the chances of the Patriots making the playoffs. (Good thing there's no Monday night hockey or basketball.)

It's all a business. Millionaires spend money, not for the betterment of the sport, but to make more money (why a millionaire needs more money is beyond me). The owners don't care about the players. And they couldn't care less about the fans (unless not enough of them are showing up to see their team — then they care plenty!!).

Pro sports is a racket: A means for bookies (and whoever they're connected with) to make money.

Pro sports is run for profit.

But because it is such a big racket, it becomes a big deal. People get hung up on certain teams, geographically, or for whatever reasons.

They get into a team; it's players, seasons, trades;

Follow it as though they were going to gain something from the experience of following-of being loyal fan.

They begin to lose focus. It starts to become part of them. An obsession.

They watch and maybe go, to as many games as possible. They cheer. Buy a hat supporting their team. Maybe even bet on their team. But why? For what?

Actually what difference does it make who wins say, the Super Bowl? How many of you out there will be directly affected by the S.B. victor (outside of those who made a bet weeks ago on who'll be playing in the game)?

Very few.

People in general lose concept of where sports (pro) stand.

It won't put money in your pocket. It won't get you through college. It does employ a lot of people.

Don't believe for a second that pro sports is connected with the entertainment world. Unless you think that someone getting shot over a football game is entertaining.

Sure the games themselves may be entertaining. But the separation between the real world and professional sports must remain a constant gap in the minds of all.

It should never get to the point to where moats have to be built around a field to protect not only the players, but the referees from outraged spectators.

It should never get to the point where people get so wrapped up that their life orbits around gametime.

Never to the point of ending a person's life because Curt Gowdy's voice is better than Donnie Osmond's.

No game is that important.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 66 WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

SGA work fights food service hike

By MARK HORAN
Collegian Staff

Student government leaders and some state legislators are fighting desperately to prevent a $27 increase of the food service charge next semester.

According to Jon Hite, Undergraduate Student Senate co-President, the increase will result from an apparent oversight by many state legislators in the new sales tax legislation passed 11 days ago by both houses of the Massachusetts legislature.

The legislation cuts the sales tax on prepared food from eight per cent to six per cent, but fails to exempt public colleges and universities as it has in the past, said Hite.

Hite said he and co-President Pinky Batiste, along with Kari Allen of the Student Government Association office staff and Student Senator Erik Andersen were in Boston talking to legislators all day Friday and Monday.

"The impression I get is that this was an oversight on many legislators part," said Hite. "The legislature rushed to approve the meal tax cut but did not notice the outside language." The outside language only exempted secondary and primary schools from paying the tax.

Hite said in the past the Associated Colleges and Universities of Massachusetts, the private college and university lobby, has pushed the legislature to exempt them from paying the meals tax that public higher education has not had to pay.

"It is a vindictive and hard hitting lobby and they probably decided if they couldn't get it (the exemption) then they could at least make the public pay," said Hite.

Student leaders and legislators such as Rep. James Collins, D-Amherst, State Senator John Olver, D-Amherst, and State Senator Michael Connolly, D-Boston, are currently pursuing two strategies in restoring the exemption of higher education from the tax.

The main objective is to get Senate bill 1173 out of the House Ways and Means committee where it is currently being left for the rest of the legislative session, according to Hite.

The bill is a collection of some 40 bills filed this year in favor of the exemption of colleges and universities. Hite said to discharge the bill from Ways and Means would require a two-thirds vote from the rest of the House or the chairman of the committee, Rep. John Finnegan, D-Dorchester, could discharge it.

In the meantime, Collins has filed another bill to exempt the colleges and universities. This late file bill faces many obstacles, primarily the time factor, according to Hite.

Collins said yesterday, "We're looking at all the possibilities but it will be difficult to get either bill onto the floor and passed by Jan. 3." (This years legislative session closes on Jan. 3.)

Collins said, "It seemed wrong to tax students to eat in what is their 'home' while we don't tax anyone else to eat at home. It is especially unfair when students don't have any other choice."

Hite said it is now up to the students to call or write their legislators. "We especially need people from Dorchester to contact Finnegan. We can't do it alone."

Hite pointed out that next year was election year for all legislators and therefore pleasing constituents is important. He also said students could call or go to his office for help with writing letters to the legislators.

The announcement of the meals tax increase comes on the heels of an announcement by Food Services Director Arthur Warren that the board fee will probably have to go up $24 per student for the academic year 1978-79 due to payroll increases.

Cars moved cautiously along Mass. Ave. last night after the season's first substantial snowfall. This picture was taken from a Kennedy Upper dorm window. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

'Microcollege' will report on accreditation

By JIM PAULIN
Collegian Staff

UMass students, faculty and staff will participate in a forum this intersession to determine the final shape of the University's self evaluation which will be submitted for reaccreditation to the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

On Jan. 23 and 24 at a "microcollege" in the Campus Center, interested members of the University community will listen to the report from the central committee, a 20-member body headed by Italian-French department Professor Sarah Sturm-Maddox which includes four students.

The first draft of the report of the central committee will be based upon the reports of the 12 task forces from University schools and administrative departments.

According to Judy Davis of the Resource Network, which is sponsoring the microcollege along with the College of Arts and Science Information and Advising Center, the Center for Institutional Research, and the Educational Liaison Project, the microcollege is a "collaborative program," and will be an "opportunity for cross campus dialogue."

The self-evaluation process is being supervised by UMass Provost and Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, Paul L. Puryear, and will be submitted in its revised and final form to NEASC on March 1.

Phase one of the self-evaluation process, the 12 task force self evaluations has been completed, and the central committee must have them condensed into one report by Jan. 15.

The period between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15 will be a trial balloon for the whole University self-evaluation. It will be allowed to float among various criticisms, questions, affirmations, suggestions and recommendations of and in addition to the microcollege.

When it finishes bouncing around the various and diverse aspects of this campus, the central committee is expected to take it, make the required changes, then pass it to NEASC on March 1.

According to Larry Benedict of the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Organization, a team of volunteers representing NEASC will come to inspect the campus in April. The volunteers will be members from a "comparable institution ... probably a large public university." Benedict described the reaccreditation process as being "like a peer (group) evaluation process."

According to Assistant to the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs, Ruth Green, getting reaccredited is not the most important aspect of the self-evaluation, but its impact upon University direction. "Accreditation isn't really questioned," Green said in a previous Collegian interview.

Green said the last report, in 1967, provided the impetus to build UMass library, since through the self-evaluations the campus expressed the urgent need for a bigger library.

Inside

Rahsaan Roland-Kirk, a giant among Black Classical musicians, will no longer fill the world's ears with new music. The saxophone and horn player is dead at age 41. He died of a heart attack Monday just over a year after he worked miracles at UMass. See page two.

The Student Senate will be asked to spend almost ten thousand dollars to aid in the establishment of a Legislative Advocacy Bureau. The office would be based in Boston and would lobby for students' interests. See page three.

Weather

Well, if you do not get into the snow too much, now is the time to leave Amherst for the Southland. Cold and windy, maybe some snow is the forecast for today, tomorrow, the next day ...

Department favors Puryear

By MEGAN O'REILLY
Collegian Staff

The W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American studies is attributing Provost Paul L. Puryear's rumored resignation to a personal attack by the Faculty Senate, according to a department member last night.

Afro-Am Professor Michael Thelwell said his department is releasing a statement today in support of Puryear as the result of a meeting with Puryear and a delegation of department members on Monday.

According to the statement, the delegation "urged him (Puryear) to remain in office and not to overact to the Faculty Senate's retrogade actions, an organization quite evidently traumatized by the advent of collective bargaining and its own uncertain future."

Puryear has refused to comment on rumors that he plans to resign his post, which began when Puryear stormed out of a Faculty Senate meeting after the senate expressed extreme negative reaction towards Puryear's proposal to reorganize the graduate school administration.

Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery supported the senate which voted to discuss the proposal further before its implementation, creating a rift between the provost and himself.

The statement continues, "It is clear to us, whatever the merits of the graduate reorganization proposal, that 90 per cent of the senate's response is against the provost personally, who have failed in their campaign to force him from office since he first began, and has nothing to do with the Provost's excellent record."

Secretary of the Faculty Senate, Terence Burke, last night said, "There is no personal attack campaign in any sense against Provost Puryear on the part of the Faculty Senate." Burke declined to elaborate further on the matter until he reads the Afro-Am delegation's statement.

The delegation urged the provost to remain because of University reorganization and President Robert C. Wood's resignation.

The statement concluded "We cannot afford to lose an administrator of Dr. Puryear's excellence and qualifications."

'Spoken library' author's resource

By PATTI ROSENBERG
Collegian Staff

"One only has 26 letters and some punctuation," to work with, Toni Morrison said yesterday during a lecture at Amherst College. As anyone familiar with her novels, "The Bluest Eye, "Sula," and most recently, "Song of Solomon," knows, Morrison, in the tradition of the best ancient storytellers, makes powerful magic out of a few letters.

Although her immediate physical appearance speaks of the contemporary, sophisticated editor at Random House and professor at Yale, the timeless, universal elements in both her life and work are most compelling.

As Morrison emphasized, she is not interested in originality per se, feeling that the best ideas are already cliches. But "that doesn't mean they can't be illuminated in a new way." She is not intimidated by grand themes and she relies on what she called "the spoken library" (what others might call "oral history") for both content and style.

Her concern for the craft of language has led many to consider her a prose poet, a label Morrison does not accept, insisting she is a novelist. Her attention to the sound and rhythm of words and her use of slang connect her again to the old art of storytelling. As one might expect, she speaks in a warm, clear voice with obvious enthusiasm and spontaneity. She uses a lot of hand gestures and no notes.

The ideas for her novels, also, are connected very closely to folk history and culture. "Song of Solomon," she said, was born of a myth she had heard since she was a child: that black people had been able to fly in Africa. She consulted accounts of early slaves and found consistent references to this myth there too.

In 1968, she began "Sula" because it seemed "friendship between women was accepted as a very contemporary idea...And I thought it was not a contemporary or new idea. Certainly not among black women."

The "village" in "Sula" is not a leftist vision of utopian collectivity, but an exploration of black community and the conditions that have shaped it.

"The Bluest Eye" goes back to a story written as a student and memories from childhood of the "devastation" endured by little black girls compelled too long for and simultaneously denied a sense of their own physical beauty and value.

Morrison wanted to be a ballerina when she was a child, not a writer, she says. In fact, she did not begin to write until after she was 30, married, and the mother of a small child. She viewed it as a hobby, joining a group that met once a week to have dinner and read and discuss each other's work.

The chief attraction, she remembers, was the dinner, which she could not attend without bringing a writing sample. It wasn't until five years later that she began to write "seriously," for publication.

Morrison is still the farthest thing from the solitary individual whose sole dedication is to their own creative endeavors, she says. As previously mentioned, she holds down two other jobs in addition to raising her two sons. Thus, she continues to "always write at the edge of the day, when everything else is done."

Novelist Toni Morrison performed a dramatic reading of her works at Alumni House on the campus of Amherst College before a packed house. (Staff photo by Marilyn Mankowski)

Brooding time, she says, is easy to find, using time spent doing dishes or riding subways to reflect and observe.

But writing time you have to make, she acknowledges. And she finds more often than not, when she finally has a few spare hours, the first hour is spent "clearing throat," the second hour working, and by the third hour "someone wants to go to McDonalds."

Fortunately for her audience, "obsession is a good substitute for discipline," not to mention lots of extra time. Morrison is currently at work on the story of "Tar.Baby," a character introduced in an earlier novel.

And she is, as always, forging new role possibilities for artists, blacks and women while tapping into the structure of eternal human character.

Lesbian Union offers women support, outlet

By PATRICIA KEEFE
Collegian Staff

There is presently on this campus a place where women either in need of support regarding their sexual identities or in search of an outlet for positive lesbian energies can have those needs met. Located in Campus Center 923 is the UMass Lesbian Union.

Barbra said "The Lesbian Union was originally part of the Women's Gay Caucus. The women who initiated the split from the People's Gay Alliance felt there were different needs and energies that were being taken in different directions. They decided they wanted to concentrate solely on women's issues."

Rie, one of the two co-coordinators for the union, said, "The women felt their needs were different from those of the gay men." Last February, the Gay Women's Caucus officially left the PGA.

The Lesbian Union is funded through the Undergraduate and Graduate Student senates. They have no dues. An RSO group, the union is "basically open to lesbians as members to serve their needs and to provide counseling for women just coming out," said Kathy, a co-ordinator.

Among its many services, the Lesbian Union maintains a mailing list (presently of 35-40 women), a drop-in lounge and library of women's books, a resource bulletin board, a file box of possible resources and a daily log book.

The log-book is an "information sharing as well as a communication device" between staff members and women who use the facility. Right now, "most of this information is distributed throughout the organization, but the union hopes to eventually distribute this information to the community", said Kathy.

Other services include lesbian mother support, which Kathy said "is partly achieved through films about lesbian mothers to educate the community." The union trys to sponsor speakers through the Distinguished Visitor's Program as well as conducting speaking engagements of their own throughout the college and local area.

There are discussion groups every other Monday and two ongoing support groups as well as a women in alcohol group in conjunction with the Everywoman's Center. "Where the Everywoman's Center has a lesbian co-ordinator and a counselor, they do not specialize in this area" said Rie, who is the counselor at the union.

Rie is involved in "crisis, coming out, sexual identity and referal counseling." She receives referrals from Mental Health, Room to Move and the Everywoman's Center to name a few.

Currently the union is working on several projects including revision of their constitution and rationale (they are up for reevaluation); coffeehouses discos; and input into this year's International Women's Week. Rie said, "We are hoping to get a network of contacts going in the area to facilitate a sharing of ideas, resources, energy and to let each other know what we are doing."

Relationships with the PGA are "mutually supportive," said Rie, "though separate." The two groups sponsor speaking engagements together, use each other as a resource and discuss common problems.

Although supportive of gay political efforts, the union does not engage in any "out and out" political activity at the moment.

One problem facing the Lesbian Union is harrassment in the form of poster vandalism. "With a limited budget, it is hard to replace or reprint flyers torn down or defaced for the third and fourth times. A more obvious problem is heterosexual oppression and misconceptions.

When asked which of two goals, lesbian support or community education, was more important, the answer was both are considered "high goals." Both Rie and Kathy said they felt one could be contained in the other.

"By educating the community, you are then helping lesbians."

Roland-Kirk, musical giant, dead at age 41

By TERRELL EVANS
and ANGELA THOMAS
Black Affairs Staff

> "We are driven by an invisible whip, some run, some have fun, some are hip, some tip, some dip, but we all must answer to the invisible whip."
> Rahsaan Roland-Kirk

Rahsaan Roland-Kirk

One of the great innovators of Black Classical music, Rahsaan Roland-Kirk, died Monday of a heart attack in Bloomington, Ind.

Roland-Kirk, 41, was at Bloomington's airport en route to an engagement in Chicago, Ill., when he suffered the attack.

It was only last year that Roland-Kirk, master of saxophone and horn appeared in the Student Union Ballroom during Homecoming week at UMass. During that memorable Friday night, Oct. 25, Roland-Kirk drove a packed audience into an ecstatic state of awe and disbelief.

With his right side paralyzed, Roland-Kirk performed for three hours in concert, using only his left arm to simultaneously blow two horns.

"He always paid homage to other black musicians. One of the most popular tunes he is remembered by is a piece called 'Bright Moments.' The world has truly lost a giant in the music field," said Bill Hasson, program coordinator of Student Activities, in a telephone interview yesterday.

Vishnu Wood, bass cellist and assistant professor of music at Hampshire College, said, "He certainly was a very dedicated artist. He studied the great masters, he studied the style of music, and he was aware of the historical development inherent in the music.

"He had a great amount of energy which came through his music. He challenged the musicians he played with to try to bring out the best in himself and those who played with him," Wood said.

Today's Staff

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Editor | J.R. |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Wire Layout | Maureen Carney |
| Sports Layout | Mike McHugh |
| Ad Layout | Karen Libucha |
| Day Layout | Emily Bakerman |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |
| Newsstand price | $.10 | |
| Faculty staff | $.05 | |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Comics publisher addresses 250

By HERB BRODY
Collegian Staff

Stan Lee, creator of such characters as The Hulk Spiderman, and Dr. Strange, last night spoke to about 250 comic book devotees in the Student Union ballroom.

Founder and publisher of Marvel Comics, Lee was introduced as a man whose whole life has been "dedicated to walking the delicate line between fantasy and reality."

Lee shunned the speech topic which had been announced ahead of time — "Comic Books and the World Around Us" — because he did not want to make comics stuffy and overly academic. "Our main function is to entertain," he said.

Lee declared that comic books are probably 'one of the greatest mediums of communication known to man." He described his work in the army on a new comic book style training manual for army financial officers — as a result of his book, said Lee, training time for financial officers was reduced from six months to six weeks. The manual even had a hero: "Fiscal Freddie".

Also while in the army, Lee designed a widely circulated poster which encouraged enlisted men to go to VD diagnostic centers for checkups. "I'd like to think I won the war single handedly," said Lee.

Marvel Comics has been a pioneer in comic book characterization and plots, said Lee. Marvel was the first to introduce flawed superheroes — Spiderman was conceived as sort of a "nebbish"; The Thing is "Archie Bunker with orange skin." One offbeat story had the superheroes evicted from their headquarters for not paying rent.

Such attention to real world problems has led some readers to believe that Marvel comics are actually social satire. "It seems the more realistic you try to be, the more it comes across as intense satire," said Lee.

Lee claimed it is quite possible to aim comic books at an intellectual level above that of the adolescent. The difficulty, he said, is in writing sophisticated comics that would also appeal to younger readers.

Numerous Marvel comics are being worked into television productions. Dr. Strange and Captain America are planned as series, while a Spiderman film should be appearing sometime next year. Howard the Duck will be the subject of a live action show, while a spectacular film based on the character Thor is another posssbility.

Lee admitted that comic book prices are higher than he'd like them to be, but he blamed the prices on rising production costs.

Lee answered questions from the audience for one half hour, after which he autographed members of the audience's copies of Marvel comic books.

Stan Lee, publisher of Marvel Comics, lectures on his career and creations to a packed Student Union Ballroom crowd last night. He was sponsored by the DVP. (Staff photo by Peter Lee)

Senate will hear request to fund lobbying

By JIM KASSNER
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate tonight will hear a proposal calling for $9,500 to fund a Legislative Advocacy Bureau in Boston.

Jim Posgay of the senate Legislative Task Force, said the LAB will be used as a base for lobbying the Massachusetts state legislature and conducting research into bills which may be pertinent to students of public higher education.

The task force is requesting $9,500 from the UMass student senate to be applied toward a total six month "bare bones" budget of $13,787.

The balance of the budget will be funded by other members of the Massachusetts State Students Association, a lobbying group representing state colleges and universities.

Posgay said the equivalent of $.50 per student from each of the eight MSSA member schools is being sought to fund the LAB, for fiscal 1979.

Once the MSSA has 10 members and its constitution ratified, it will assume full responsibility for the operation of the Boston-based advocacy bureau. Posgay said the MSSA would have 10 members by tomorrow morning.

During intersession, two to five UMass interns will work in the LAB, along with one full-time staff member. The LAB staff will primarily conduct research concerning possible legislation benefiting UMass students, according to Larry Mandell of the task force.

"For too long now, students at UMass and at other state schools have been taken advantage of," Mandell said. "They're not unified, they don't speak as one. The Legislative Advocacy Bureau is a first step in unifying the students and giving them real power where it counts — in the legislature."

Undergraduate Student Senate co-President Jon Hite said "students can no longer afford the luxury of not having a lobby in Boston for their interests.

"If students expect to have a voice in what goes on in the real world, then students will have to leave the college campus," he said.

"This (the LAB) allows for research and information, to try to influence the legislature.

"It's a crucial thing," Hite said.

In related action, the task force will present five legislative intents to the senate, to be filed tomorrow before the state legislature.

The legislature intents are broad statements into which the co-sponsors can place specific amendments and additions to the Massachusetts General Laws.

Posgay said the intents were being brought to the senate for information purposes only. He said the senate would not be asked to "endorse or not endorse" the proposed legislation.

The five intents filed before the legislature include acts relative to:

—a student participation on public college and university building authorities;

—the laws of the collection and dispersement of student activities fees at community and state colleges;

—the role of students in academic collective bargaining at public higher education institutions;

—the role of students in the dispersement of student activity fees at state universities; and —the students rights to access of course and teacher evaluation materials collected by public higher education institutions.

Posgay said he will co-sponsor most of the bills along with Rep. James G. Collins, D-Amherst.

Funding for Patterson trustees' topic

By LAURA KENNEY
and GAYLE YOUNG
Collegian Staff

The UMass Board of Trustees will officially accept the resignation of University President Robert C. Wood in today's board meeting at the UMass-Boston campus. The trustees will also decide the salary of Wood's interim successor Franklin K. Patterson.

Wood announced his resignation in June and, although the board acknowledged the resignation, it had not been formally accepted. The board delayed because it had not decided upon an interim president. Patterson's succession to the position was announced last month. Today is Wood's last board meeting.

The trustees have been discussing the salary for the Interim President Patterson and will decide today on a figure. According to Student Trustee Marion L. Batiste, Patterson will receive a "Cut and dried" salary for his services.

Also to be decided by the trustees is the amount appropriated to Patterson to transfer his personal staff from his Boston Campus Office, where he is a professor, to his new presidential quarters.

The trustee will appoint the chairman of a nominating committee for the post of Vice Chancellor for UMass-Boston. The current chancellor, Carlo L. Golino, was forced by the board to resign at last month's meeting.

It is expected the trustees will approve the naming of a new Boston Campus gymnasium after the late Trustee Catherine F. Clark, who died Nov. 14.

A new pay-back plan for the students of the UMass-Worcester Medical School will be created by the trustees, according to Batiste. The state medical school now stands alone in requiring its graduates to repay the state for the cost of their education.

The trustees will draw from two previous proposals one by Worcester Chancellor Roger C. Bulger and the other by the enrolled medical students. The establishment of a Tri River Valley Health Center program in Uxbridge, which has been the object of discussion since last spring, will most likely be approved by the board, according to Batiste.

The Health Center is a satellite of the UMass-Worcester Medical School. The program is to develop rural primary care teaching practice, providing training for residents of the medical school.

Sundstrom heads new board

Collegian staff elects new editors for year

By BERNARD DAVIDOW
Collegian Staff

William A. Sundstrom, a 19-year-old junior from Storrs, Conn. was elected editor in chief of the Massachusetts Daily Collegian yesterday as the staff of the campus newspaper voted in 10 persons to its 1978 Board of Editors.

The new board begins with the first Collegian issue next semester.

Sundstrom, who got 65 of 111 votes, said he looks forward to his term to his term in office, and said his experience on the paper will help him handle the job. Sundstrom is currently executive editor, and was assistant executive editor in 1976.

Others elected were: Dorothy A. Clark, managing editor; Laurie A. Wood, business manager; Joseph A. Quinlan, news editor; Michael P. Doran, executive editor; David R. Rodman, sports editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, photo editor; and Kenneth S. Shain, fine arts editor.

For the first time, the staff elected a women's editor to the board. Julie E. Melrose, a 20-year-old sociology major from Amherst, Mass., will be the fourth person to fill that position since it was created five semesters ago. But before this semester, the position was titled women's coordinator and was elected to the board as a non-voting member.

"I would like to see the women's department as a separate department and not under news," Melrose said last night, adding that women's articles should be incorporated with general news in the pages of the Collegian. Melrose was one of four candidates who ran unopposed.

Sundstrom was elected over Brad Goverman and Mark Leccese, who received 25 and 21 votes respectively. Sundstrom emphasized he would act as the paper's coordinator and serve as ombudsman between the staff and the UMass community.

Clark, a 20-year-old senior from Matapan, Mass., said she will "take things as they come" as managing editor and concentrate on the possibility of the paper going "camera ready" during 1978.

"Camera ready" involves the procedure by which Collegian pages are prepared in the Collegian offices rather than at the printer, where they are photocopies. Only parts of the paper currently go to the printer camera ready.

"The possibility of going camera ready is a big step for us. There's a lot of ideas that still have to be worked out," she said.

The only other candidate for managing editor, Jerold R. Kassner, endorsed Clark Monday night.

Quinlan, a 19-year-old sophomore from Lowell, Mass., said that as news editor he will bring the paper's wire services under the jurisdiction of the news department "to keep a closer watch on state and national news. We'll be putting a lot of it up front."

He said he will give more coverage to town events, and concentrate on closer police and court coverage.

The department will also offer newswriting, production and copy editing colloqs to students, he said. Quinlan ran unopposed.

Dobbs, the newly elected photo editor, said he wants to renovate the photo filing system and "make photo essays a heck of a lot more regular in the Collegian." Dobbs, now the assistant photo editor, beat David Rodgers, 77-22. The 20-year-old junior from Granby, Mass. said his assistant for next semester will be Daniel Vullemier.

A 21-year-old finance major from Woodbury, Conn., Wood said she would like to see the paper become totally camera ready during her term in office.

She also said she will help improve communication between the editorial and business sides of the paper. She is currently assistant business manager and has written news stories sporadically during her two years at the Collegian.

Doran said that as executive editor he will expand the editorial pages to include commentaries from area "experts," pointing out that "we live in a very intellectual community." The 20-year-old junior also said he would periodically have the editorial pages devoted to certain themes. Doran beat his opponent, Charles Bagli, 69-29.

Elected fine arts editor, Kenneth S. Shain will be in charge of the weekly Collegian supplement Below the Salt. "We're not going to draw out signs of student life," Shain said, emphasizing the need to concentrate on student culture on campus.

Shain, 25 years old and from Bridgeport, Conn., beat his only opponent, James Paulin, 66-42.

The Collegian held a Candidates Night Monday where candidates presented their platforms. In addition, the paper this year had a candidates publication which was distributed to the staff.

Positions on the Board of Editors, which has nine elected members are up for election every year. The only board member not elected is the black affairs editor, who is appointed.

Black Affairs

Impressions of the play, "For Colored Girls"

By JAMES LEWIS JR.
Black Affairs Asst. Editor

The Malcolm X. Center and the Third World Women's Center sponsored a trip to see the play "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow Is Enuf," last Sunday, December 4. The play was an excellent illustration of the Black relationship from the side of Black women. The play wasn't a pitiful, sobbing, egotistical story of the sorrows of the Black woman. It was a strong, clear presentation into the world of women, Black women, with their feelings, their song.

So often brothers, or men in general, form rituals for letting the world know how rough life is, how hard it is to be a man in this cruel world. It is always common to turn on TV and see some man along at odds with the world. It is common to hear songs by fatheads, males who solo with painful eyes, the story of some honest love on his part, and the woman that did him wrong. We can all pity him, he sounds so for real, so sincere.

It may be that he is for real, but the truth of the matter shows that men very, very rarely 'see' women, or know what they think, or want. The play is excellent because it educates one to see the situation with women. Black women.

The Rainbow in the play, is the dream that most women are programmed with, about the free and fun life of dating men, going to parties, socializing, etc. ... the rainbow life. The dream starts running out of harmony when the realities of this supposed life starts taking the place of the dream. Sisters start running into things like rape, lying cheating men, beatings, unexpected pregnancy, etc.

A few perfect illustrations were performed about the male sexual mentality. The bulging eyes, open mouth, sweaty, angry, hateful look, the whole force and positioning of society that have women keenly conscious of the love that men supposedly have for women. The play told the whole story. It ran things down: It even went back to the dancing mulattos of slavery time, dancing along the Mississippi river at night, for sick passion of white owners. Who or what can beat that?

The modern situations are common. It would be very difficult to list them all, and there isn't enuf room in the newspaper to do so. But just try brothers, try to forget about yourselves just for a little bit, and think with this article.

Most of the total education of women discourages women for wanting to do anything, be anything, except marriage and childrearing for men.

Imagine a society that concentrates over 90 per cent of its energy for a male perspective view of the entire world. Imagine all the schools, government, books, television, movies, advertisement, jobs, women, men, radios, religion, ethics, magazines, clothes, organization, and all the alls in the etcetras, being somehow conceived in general by men. Imagine growing up and finding out that you, and what you think and feel, does not even exist in the norm. What kind of role can that make for you? Men were always using the term "crazy bitch" to describe the women. A "bitch," by definition, is a pregnant female dog. Wouldn't it be possible to realize that this almost total intrenchment of women and their role may be undesired by women? Only until very recently can women attempt to live a truly autonomous life. There should have been as many women presidents as there have been men presidents. There should have been solidly institutional sports for women all along, and it should have been encouraged.

Women do want to get into business, and the society is specifically designed to keep women out of business. In fact, men have been so conditioned and screwed up mentally, that they cannot see that it is unnatural for women to be placed in such a position. There is an endless list of things that should have been. This type of oppression and exploitation is instituted by constant, subtle and overt mental suggestion. There are very many ways that this complex indoctrination can trick you into thinking you're inferior or superior.

If this article has not convinced some brothers of their problem, they should try, just try to think of your sister, your Black woman, without the sexual connotations, but as a person. Try it for one week, if you can. You may find it very hard. Don't worry if she doesn't understand or cannot deal. You do it for yourself, and check yourself. A man should be able to understand a woman. It is unnatural that he doesn't. If he doesn't, something is wrong.

By SHERRY WILLIAMS
Black Affairs Staff

Last Sunday, December 4, the Malcolm X Center and the 3rd World Women's Center sponsored a trip to Boston to see the play "Colored Girls."

The sheer delight of the play was overwhelming. The play was an excellent illustration of Black male-famale relationships from the perspectives of many Black women. The play focused on many sensitive and relevant issues that women have been going through for years. The true to life experiences were definitely brought forward to be analyzed by the audience.

Many phrases presented by the actresses showed the significance of the play. Phrases like "I'm sorry" or "Where are you going with my stuff" sounded very familiar to many women and men in the audience.

People who saw the play said they really enjoyed it. Many said most men will learn something from the play about themselves and their dealing with women. The word is that more men should have made the trip to the Subert Theatre to witness the play that dealt with feeling, emotions, attitudes and pain.

The play will be in Boston until December 11. Those in the Boston area should try to see it because it is an experience in itself.

This space is dedicated to the memory of a great musician, the late Rahsaan Roland-Kirk: We ask for every individual to take time today and say a prayer in his passing.

The Staff of Black Affairs

National Ballet of Spain coming to FAC

The Ballet Nacional Festivales de Espana (the National Ballet of Spain) will return to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Saturday, December 10 at 8 p.m.

During their performance in November 1976 at the Fine Arts Center the National Ballet of Spain received rave reviews from the critics and estatic applause from the audience.

The National Ballet of Spain was created in 1973 and is the first National Dance Company to be sponsored by the Ministry of Welfare and Culture of Spain.

Its purpose is to present authentic Spanish dances throughout the world and it has already done so in Europe, and in South, Central and North America.

The troupe is handsome, stylish and impeccably rehearsed, its costuming fully up to requirements for a first-rate Spanish Dance company. The Company is sophisticated as it shows off its talents in an array of langorous bleros, stately court dances, fiery flamencos and spirited jotas.

Tickets for the December 10 performance of the National Ballet of Spain are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center, open Monday through Friday, 9-4 and all Ticketron locations. Ticme

Ticket prices are: General public, $7, 6, 5. UMass students, $4, 3, 2.50. Senior citizens are $6, 5, 4. For more information, call 545-2511.

Notice

There will be a discussion of the play, "For Colored Girls Who Considered Suicide When the Rainbow Is Enuf" at the Malcolm X Center in Southwest. The discussion will be held on Wednesday, December 7, 1977. There will be an album of the play available. Everyone who attended the show is urged to attend. All are welcome.

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

HAVE YOU DECIDED WHAT YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS YET, OREO?
YES, LUTHER, I WANT SIX MILLION DOLLARS...
WHY SIX MILLION DOLLARS?
...TO GET RID OF THE BUGS IN MY BUILDING!
BECAUSE I'M SURE THOSE BUGS ARE BIONIC!
12-13
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
BRANDON JR

---

Black Affairs

High Notes...

A couple more Lps to be reviewed this week which should merit special attention are The Fatback Band's latest and the Emotion's earliest. Both are very similar in that they mark a return to a bit of past glory for both groups. The Emotions are heard doing some of their early Memphis work, while Fatback goes back to some good old house party funk. So lets get on with it.

FATBACK BAND — The Man With The Band — Spring (Polydor)

Who can forget those hot, steaming, smokin' house parties of days gone by. Rugs caught hell as people danced all night on them, spilled wine on them, and other various abuses. It was always dark no matter what the speed of the music on the stereo (which was seldom of high quality due to economics). Theere were no strobes, chasers, neons or rainbows to take the task of creating the excitement away from the people. It was an honest, git-down party.

The music was the same way. Gut music that was designed to help create a fuss. James Brown was there along with Marvin Gaye, Martha Reeves and the Vandellas and Parliament and Funkadelic. The Fatback Band was there too with cuts like "Feel Real Good" and even more recently with "Party Time." Well, regretfully, house parties may have become a memory in most cases, but Fatback is upon us once again with more of the house party sound. Side one is dedicated to that sacred institution with some vintage house party sounds with the title cut, Master Booty and Funk Backin'. All I can say is pick up on it and roll up the rug!!

THE EMOTIONS — Sunshine — Stax.

The music here is honest to goodness, Memphis hot buttered soul in grand style. More of the Fantasy-distributed Stax material of the past. When one listens to this LP, it's not hard to see that Maurice White didn't give them any thing they didn't already have.

In fact, with Sunshine, we are shown a much freer Emotions. We see groups of ladies more concerned with trying to pull the emotional elements out of the song than with the meticulous concern for detail and synchronization. With this concept, we hear songs that are closer to expressing what we feel ourselves and will consequently stay with us much longer and have deeper meaning. To put it short, this LP is downright personal.

—mario

Come To The MOVIES

The Third World Women's of UMass cordially invites one and all to come out this Friday, December 9, and attend the first showing ever of "SPARKLE" on campus.

"Sparkle" will be shown at 7, 9 and 11 p.m. this Friday in Mahar Auditorium. Admission is $1.

Film review of,

Gunn's, "Genji N Hesse"

By BILL HASSON
Black Affairs Staff

On Saturday, December 3, I had the opportunity to attend the screening of Bill Gunn's movie "Genji N Hesse" which was shown at the Harlem Performance Center as part of Black Images: 1920-1977, a Black Film Festival. This movie made a very brief appearance at commercial theaters several years ago, and for one reason or another it was immediately taken out of circulation. It is more than likely that the producers felt it would not sell to the Black community because of its content and style. The death blow was a review that appeared in Variety, an entertainment trade publication. Having missed the movie when it came out left me with all sorts of mixed emotions about the standard way that Black films are dealt with. However, I must slightly adjust my opinion as it relates to this particualr film.

The setting for the movie was good in my estimation. The choice of actors and actresses was excellent. The cinematography was superb. But the content was out. I mean really — out. It concerned a young black doctor who in order to survive had to continually find victims whose blood he drank to keep him going. His girlfriend after having found out about his wrong doings is inticed to join him in this affair with protoplasm. Let me remind you at this point that we are talking about a "Black Film". All sorts of cheap devices are used to make the film hang together in some fashion and maintain ethnicity or superficial ritualism. African tribal women running through the forest, "bright, beautiful sharp minded", scenes from the sanctified church, shots of African sculpture. All the necessary things to make the film hip. But the most disgusting aspect of the film was the director's self indulging attitude toward his particular craft. It was like everything you wanted to do in a film but couldn't unless you found someone to sponsor you.

Now it would have only taken a correspondence course in Anthropology 101 to know that all of the African and Afro-American symbolism in "Genji N Hesse" had nothing at all to do with the black continuim, and because it won an award at a European Film Festival does not necessarily make it a fine work of art. We as Black people have known to be awarded for our misdeeds before, and this also is an excellent device for confusing young aspiring thesbians.

I have personally had the opportunity of meeting the lead actor, a Mr. Duane Jones, who is a fine serious, dedicated, hard working brother whose intentions toward Black theater are genuine. I can imagine how he felt sitting in that theater Saturday seeing what had been done with his talent. However, he is strong enough to not let this film stand in the way of the very important contribution that he is going to make.

I am not saying that this film should not be seen, but what I am saying is that this film has nothing, absolutely zero, to do with the Black people and their struggle to bring positive visions to the society. It was a total waste of those producers money on the part of Mr. Gunn. Given the fact that there are many screen writers, actors, actresses, cameramen and women, who are trying to break into the film business, and there are those who would hold this piece of work up as evidence of our achievement. There are actually people going around with such nonsensical notions about the film by saying that the drinking of the blood was the way of transferring one culture to the next. A kind of blood brother-sister transferral.

Well, the film is back in the can and back in the museum and there are going to be efforts to have it made into a 16mm film, since this was the last public showing until that project is completed. And when that is done and you see it, maybe you can introduce something that I missed. But I think it high unlikely.

A special thanks should be given to Pearl Bowser for her putting together of this Festival and her ability to create a forum by introducing provocative materials.

Just for the record

Assata Shakur, who is serving a life sentence in New Jersey for the slaying of a state trooper, has pleaded "not guilty" in New York to a six-year-old indictment for attempted robbery.

The indictment against Shakur, who police say is the head of the so-called Black Liberation Army, stemmed from a 1972 incident in which she allegedly robbed a Michigan Man of $250 (dollars) in cash and personal property.

Shakur last March was convicted of murder by an all-white jury for the slaying of a New Jersey state patrolman, allegedly during a shootout on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Calling her decision a matter of conscience, a witness in the Oakland hearings involving Black Panther leader Huey Newton, has refused to testify at the hearings.

Mary Dougherty was sentenced this week to five days in jail and a fine of $500 after she refused to testify. She told the Oakland Municipal Court, "the government has subpoenaed me in a desperate attempt to fabricate a case."

The Oakland Court is currently holding preliminary hearings to decide whether to try black activist Huey Newton for the 1974 murder of a prostitute. Newton has claimed he is being framed on the charge because of his activities as leader of the Black Panther Party.

NBSA organizing in 5-College area

Across the United States there is an all out attack on the education of Black people. We find that cutbacks in government funds to education are making it difficult if not impossible for Black students to get needed scholarships and grants. Black colleges and universities are under constant attack and in many cases are being interrated out of existance. In White schools Black students must contend with culturally biased entrance exams and standardized tests. High schools are graduating Black youth that do not know how to read. And now the Bakke case is providing a front to legitimize the cutbacks in government programs that are necessary to insure supposedly equal treatment in the admissions of Black people to jobs and higher education.

Black students, being fortunate enough to attend college and develop skills must begin to organize and counter this attack because it threatens our future and the future of our people. What can we do? We can evelop a strong chapter of the National Black Students Association (NBSA) in this area. The NBSA is a nationwide Black students organization whose purposes are to:

a) Establish a strong line of communications between Black students across the country.

b) Establish better communications and a better working relationship between Black students and the rest of the Black community.

c) Organize Black students across the country to do serious work around concrete programs and issues that will bring our people closer to liberation.

The NBSA was formed at a National Black Students Solidarity Conference which was held at Tufts University in February of 1976. Over 200 students from over 70 schools attended the conference. The conference participants agreed that there was a need for the development of a national Black students organization.

After the conference we all returned to our respective areas and began the work of building the National Black Students Association. It has not been easy but the fruits of our labor have begun to be shown. The Boston, five college area, and New York Chapters have developed and are beginning to initiate activity. Out of Atlanta comes UJIMA (collective work and responsibility), an NBSA southern regional newsletter.

We need a national Black students organization to represent our interests and unite us with the overall struggle of our people for a better life. One that is free from exploitation and degradation. Brothers and Sisters, join the NBSA, the time to build is now.

For more information contact Chaka Zulu, or Nkrumah Olinga at 546-4538.

Annie's Poetry Corner

Just one step behind you
Wanting you, needing you
Finding you, losing you

Laughing and crying
Looking at time passing
Walking in the shadow of existence

In the circling snow and in the bright comforting sun
I was always

Just one step behind you

Annie Carpenter

LUTHER

By Brumsic Brandon, Jr.

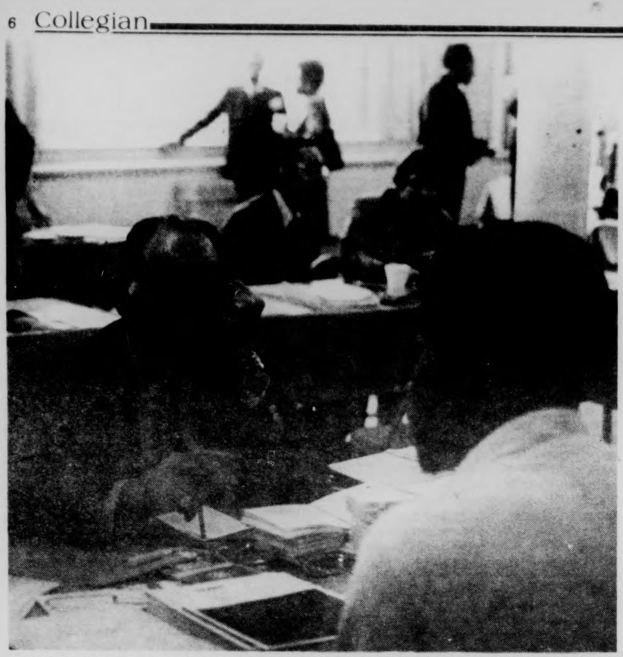
ARE YOU GOING TO SEE SANTA CLAUS THIS YEAR, MARY FRANCES?
NO WAY, OREO!
I'M NOT GOING TO SEE ANYBODY...
...WHO WON'T COME TO SEE ME!
12-15
©1977 LOS ANGELES TIMES
BRANDON JR



Arnold Henderson offers advice on job opportunities in the public health field to Antonio Jackson during yesterday's career day. (Staff photo by Amira Rahman)

Third career day held

CCEBS hosts job fair

By DEBBIE WALLACE
Collegian Staff

Enthusiastic students participating in yesterday's "Career Day" spoke with various company representatives with hopes of landing summer jobs.

The third annual fair sponsored by the Committee of Collegiate Education of Black Students was well received by UMass students and participating business and federal career representatives at the Newman Center. The inclement weather did not stop representatives from 50 organizations.

Though career day was directed at minority students, all students were welcome, said Michael Jackson CEEBS director.

Pamphlets, booklets, leaflets, forms, and dozens of other informative sources and visual aides swarmed the tables set up for students to speak with the different representatives.

Associate Dean of Students Bob Daniels spoke on the mutual responsibilities of employees and employers. After his introduction a recording of "Young, Gifted, and Black" was played to set the mood for the afternoon.

Williamson suggested during a discussion session of representatives to incorporate high school guidance counselors into the program. "Guidance counselors from the surrounding area would be able to take this information back to students who want career advice," he said. "This would enable students to gear themselves toward a particular field or just obtain information on job opportunities in fields in which they have an interest," he added.

Internal Revenue Service representative Stephen Miller said, "The career day exposed students to vocations and various governmental agencies they might not have had access to or contact with otherwise. It opens new horizons and presents career opportunities within the students related field."

A group of Asian and black students said the day proved useful to them. They aid the career representatives had important information and the program was a success.

UMass accounting student Wai Wong said, "I learned useful information about job opportunities within my field."

Another student John Young said, "A lot more companies were represented than last year. The career day made information more available and gave studetns better access to the different companies and possible summer employment as resumes were accepted."

Oswald Williams, an engineering major, was talking to Corps of Engineers representative about his career in engineering, and said, "The information I received will be helpful to me."

Jackson said, "Next year CEEBS hopes to expand the program to include graduate schools. Information about law schools, medical schools and other graduate schools will be helpful to undergraduate students."

Grave instabilities predicted

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

A research fellow at the Harvard Center for International Affairs and former UMass student yesterday predicted that improvements in technology and accuracy of strategic weapons coupled with the theoretical problems may result in grave instabilities in the world situation.

"There will be a situation in which we no longer have mutual assured deterrence but mutual assured destruction," David Tarrs told a group of 40 political science students and faculty.

Tarrs, a professor at University of Wisconsin-Madison, based his talk on interviews with a panel of 80 scientists established to review trends in strategic developments in offensive and defensive weapons.

Tarrs described the history of the past 30 years of offensive weapons, the technological capabilities in the near future, the problems associated with deterrence and arms control and the United States' lack of a defense against atomic weapons.

Unilateral dominance by the United States from 1945-50 came to an end during the mid-fifties through 1966 when the Soviet Union had the capability of dropping the atomic bomb.

It was a time when the United States "flirted with many issues," among which were those of civil defense, damage limitation, anti-ballistic missiles and a move in the direction of counterforce, Tarrs said.

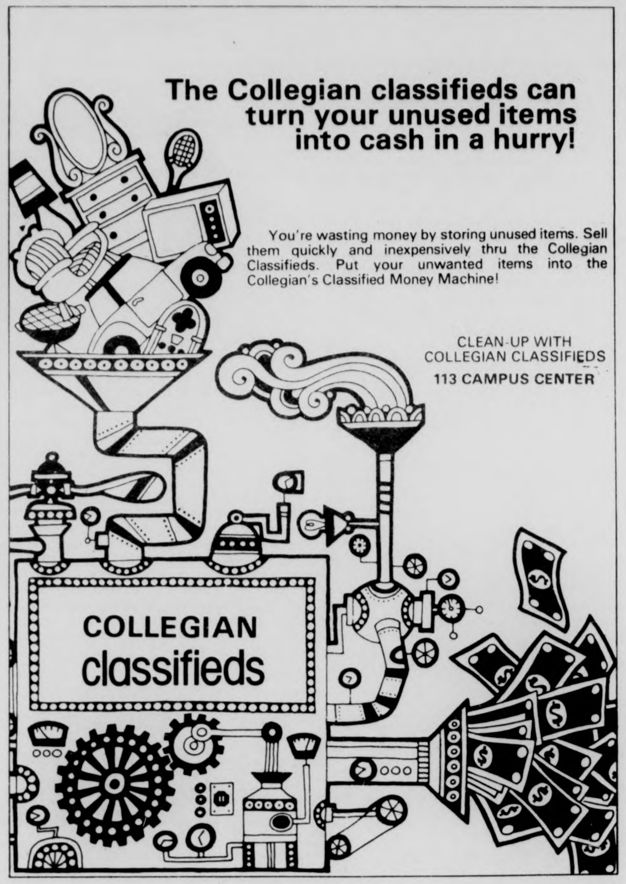
Since 1967, the USSR has caught up in long range measures and is now "relatively stable in a technological sense," Tarrs said. "There are clearly dangerous technological instabilities arising from the improvement in the accuracy of ballistic and cruise missiles," he added.

The extreme problem in preventing technological improvements was seen as a threat by Tarrs: "If the arms controllers are unable to control our technology, they are certainly unable to control the USSR." Tarrs also pointed to many paradoxes in the theory and practice behind arms control.

While the United States declared that, in the event of a deterrence failure, it would target weapons against Soviet cities to hold the Soviet population hostage to the USSR government, Tarrs said only 10 per cent of the weapons were actually targeted at populated areas.

Other problems cited by Tarrs focused on the success of deterrence. The only deterrents that can be analyzed are those that failed he said. "The success of deterrents may lead people to think that war is impossible and to assume the rationality of decision makers."

Arms control cannot lead to disarmament since it would increase instability between countries, Tarrs said.



The Collegian classifieds can turn your unused items into cash in a hurry!

You're wasting money by storing unused items. Sell them quickly and inexpensively thru the Collegian Classifieds. Put your unwanted items into the Collegian's Classified Money Machine!

CLEAN-UP WITH COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIEDS
113 CAMPUS CENTER

COLLEGIAN
classifieds

The Elmwood
Inn
RUSSELL RD HADLEY MA

DINNER SPECIALS

Tues. - Wed. - Thurs.

BAKED STUFFED BOSTON SCHROD 5.95
TURKEY TETRAZZINI 5.75
ROAST SIRLOIN OF BEEF 4.95

Friday & Saturday

SURF & TURF-CRAB LEGS & DELMONICO STEAK 6.95
BAKED STUFFED SHRIMP 5.95

Sunday

TURKEY POT PIE 5.75
ROAST LOIN OF PORK 6.95
ROAST BEEF ENGLISH CUT /with HORSERADISH SAUCE 5.75

on Rt. 9, Hadley Center
please call 584-6813

---

Bradlees
One of The Stop & Shop Companies

We've got gifts by the score!

On sale thru Sat., Dec. 10. Shop until 10:00 P.M.

Unusually heavy demands may require our setting reasonable quantity limits on some of the items in fairness to all customers.

Cassettes, where available, are on sale at the same price as the 8-track tape.

3.99 OUR REG. 5.47
NATALIE COLE: Thankful
8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94

3.99 OUR REG. 5.47
PAUL SIMON: Greatest Hits
8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94

Some regular prices may vary by store.

4.24 OUR REG. 5.47
PETE'S DRAGON: Original soundtrack
8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94

4.24 OUR REG. 5.47
NEIL DIAMOND: I'm Glad You're Here Tonight
8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94

4.24 OUR REG. 5.47
BLUE ÖYSTER CULT: Spectres
8-TR., REG. 5.47 4.94

5.99 OUR REG. 7.47
THE OSMONDS: Greatest Hits
8-TR., REG. 7.47 5.99

9.99
K-TEL PURE GOLD COLLECTION: 2 records.
8-TRACK, 11.99

5.99
K-TEL MUSIC MACHINE: Original stars and hits.
8-TRACK, 7.99

9.99 OUR REG. 10.88
Ronco record vacuum. Runs on batteries (not included).

1.99 OUR REG. 2.39
Hi Fi speaker wire, 50-ft. Two conductor.

12-1-1

HATCH

Thurs., Dec. 8

The Great Pretenders

last appearance of the year

Fri. & Sat., Dec. 9 & 10

IMAGE

Last Weekend

Caesarean birth: dad waits outside

By ELAINE OSBORN
Collegian Staff

For the last 10 years, the trend in childbirth has been to downplay the role of the medical professionals and to enhance the role played by the parents and child.

Natural childbirth, Lamaze and LeBoyer, are a few of the methods designed to make the birth process a more natural and fulfilling experience for the family.

Caesarean childbirth, 15 per cent of births, is not included in the trend. There are several U.S. hospitals which do not allow fathers in the delivery room for a Caesarean birth. The mother's role may be equally diminished. The Western Massachusetts Caesarean Childbirth Association, along with other similar groups is working to change that.

A Caesarean section, an alternative to normal vaginal delivery, is done by making an incision through the abdominal wall and uterus, to extract the fetus.

According to Mariann Stackpole, CCA president, two of the three hospitals in Western Massachusetts allow fathers in the delivery room during Caesarean birth.

Franklin County Hospital in Greenfield is a family centered hospital. Stackpole said it's the best for delivery. Fathers are allowed in the delivery room and may participate.

Stackpole gave birth to her second child by Caesarean at Franklin County and said her husband held and gave the baby a "Le Boyer" bath shortly after it was born.

Wesson Women's Hospital in Springfield specializes in high risk births. It also allows fathers in the delivery room.

Cooley Dickinson Hospital in Northampton does not allow fathers in the delivery room in most Caesarean cases.

An anesthesiologist must be present during a Caesarean to give the mother a "spinal" local anesthetic injected into the spinal column before the incision is made.

Stackpole said the anesthesiologists unwillingness to have the consumer as spectator is one reason fathers have not been permitted in the delivery room.

She said, "The anesthesiologist is usually only involved with the consumer who is out cold." If the consumer is directly involved in the delivery room, there is a higher risk of malpractice suits, said Stackpole.

Another reason hospitals are against fathers in the delivery room is many consider Caesarean babies "high risk," said Stackpole, regardless of the infant's condition at birth.

For high risk babies the number of people in the delivery room is limited to the necessary staff. Thus, the father is excluded. However, Stackpole said, it has been determined that the rate of infection is no higher in the hospitals that do allow fathers in Caesarean delivery than those that don't.

Stackpole said when she had her first son five years ago in a Michigan hospital, she expected a normal delivery. She and her husband had gone through natural childbirth classes together and the idea that a Caesarean birth might be necessary never occurred to them. After 20 hours of labor, her obstetrician decided the baby would have to be delivered by Caesarean and her husband was made to leave the delivery room.

"It was terrible, we went through all the hard parts together but then he had to leave," said Stackpole. She said it was especially difficult for her because she was unprepared and didn't know what questions to ask.

After her son was born she didn't see him for 24 hours and was told by nurses she shouldn't breast-feed because it wasn't natural with a Caesarean birth.

Stackpole said when she was looking for a hospital to deliver her second child two years ago, this time prepared for a Caesarean delivery, she discovered there were no hospitals in Western Massachusetts permitting fathers in the delivery room for a Caesarean birth.

She and several other women brought pressure on the Western Massachusetts hospitals by threatening to go to Boston hospitals to deliver. Eventually, this did result in two hospitals changing their policies.

Out of this group of women grew the CCA, which now offers pre-natal classes for couples who expect to deliver by Caesarean. Classes are offered at Franklin County and Wesson Women's Hospitals. The CCA also offers post-partum support classes.

Stackpole said there is a higher incidence of post-partum depression with Caesarean childbirth. The mother has a more passive role in Caesarean birth and the lack of immediate bonding between mother and child, which happens in some hospitals, can have negative psychological effects for the mother, and presumably, the child.

The CCA wants natural childbirth classes to discuss the possibility and experience of Caesarean birth with couples in the class. Stackpole said, "Most women have the 'it will never happen to me' attitude, and it's important for women to realize it does happen, though there may be no forewarning."

The most common reasons for Caesarean births are disproportion of the pelvis, which means the fetus does not have ample room to pass from the uterus to the vaginal canal, breech position and toxemia of pregnancy.

Breech position means the head of the fetus is not presented first and in most cases the obstetrician will have to do a Caesarean. Toxemia of pregnancy is a woman with high blood pressure for whom labor and delivery may be dangerous.

Further information concerning Caesarean delivery and CCA support group meetings is available at Franklin County and Wesson Women's Hospitals as well as from several area obstetricians.

> "It was terrible. We went through all the hard parts together, then he had to leave."

'Not guilty' plead two of accused

Two University of Massachusetts students pleaded "not guilty" at their arraignment in Hampshire County District Court yesterday in connection with break-ins at Brittany Manor Apartments during the Thanksgiving holiday.

Five counts of receiving stolen property valued at $2,500 were brought against Maria E. Roberts, 20; Richard Santos, 20; and Oscar H. Grimaldi, 22. Grimaldi did not appear for the arraignment.

Acting upon information received from a Brittany Manor resident, Amherst police obtained a search warrant and, on Nov. 29, with assistance from the Massachusetts State Police, staged an early morning raid on 68 Riverglade Apartments, according to Amherst Police Chief Donald N. Maia.

In addition to stolen jewelry and stereo equipment, Maia said police recovered a small quantity of marijuana, several hypodermic needles and syringes and "other implements used to administer drugs."

The case will be continued in court Dec. 20.

A new policy concerning campus police, Amherst Towing and the party affected by towing procedures has been implemented by Acting Director of Public Safety Saul Chafin.

The policy states that campus police officers present at the scene of a tow will not make change for the party being towed.

In the past, if the towed party arrived at the scene as the vehicle was being towed, that party would be let off the hook for $10 by Amherst Towing, and if necessary, the officer would make change.

Chafin said, "I know that this policy will cause some inconvenience but it is necessary to prevent even the appearance of improper conduct."

Fire stalls bus

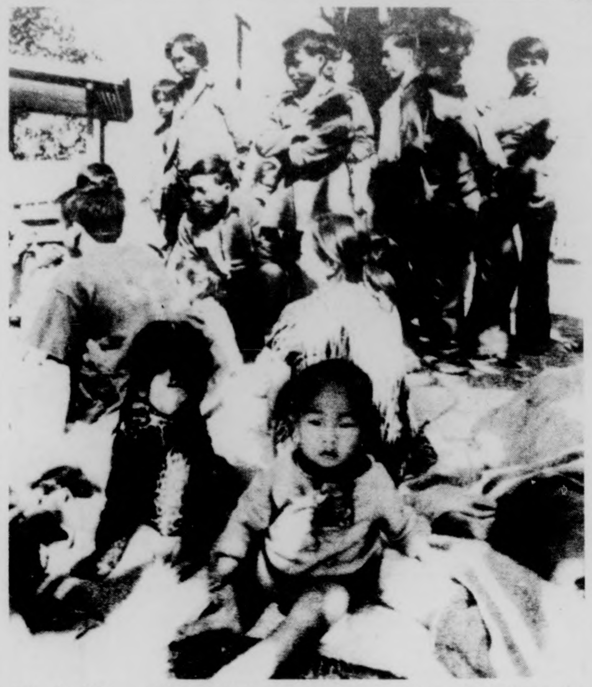
The Amherst Fire Department yesterday afternoon at 4:16 extinguished a fire on a UMass bus bound for South Amherst, in front of the Fine Arts Center. There were no injuries, and minor damage was reported to electric wires and the fuel line, according to the fire department.

The cause of the fire should be determined today by a mechanic, according to the Student Senate Transit Service.



Dec. 6, 1977 — BUNG KARN, Thailand: Tang Wang, 30 (crouching in background) and other Meo tribe refugees gather on the bank of the Mekong River after their escape from Laos late last month. Over 100,000 Leotian Meo hilltribe folk, surrounded by Vietnamese and Pathet Lao troops attacking with planes, artillary and American built helicopters, are fighting a bitter, last-ditch battle for their lives with food, ammunition, and medicine almost completely gone. (UPI)

American mercenary returns crippled from Rhodesian war

WASHINGTON [UPI] — Keith Nelson, a young mercenary soldier from Illinois, came home from the Rhodesian civil war yesterday minus both legs but convinced the sacrifice was worthwhile in a fight against communism.

"Rhodesia is the front line against communism," Nelson, 26, said at a press conference arranged by the American Security Council, a conservative-oriented, private organization concerned with national security issues.

Nelson's legs were surgically amputated after he stepped on a guerrilla-laid mine June 15, while patrolling as a medic with Rhodesia's army medic near the Mozambique border.

Asked how he felt about sacrificing his limbs for another country's cause, Nelson said, "I don't feel it is another country's cause. It's my cause. It's our cause, too."

He said the United States would suffer seriously if black Rhodesian rebel forces — whom he sees as representing the forces of communism — capture Rhodesia's mineral resources.

Rhodesia's white minority government has been battling black guerrilla forces based in neighboring countries for several years.

Accompanied by his Rhodesian fiance, Mary Winship, Nelson, who identified himself as a U.S. Army Special Forces veteran in Vietnam, stopped in Washington enroute to a reunion with his family in DeKalb, Ill.

He said he hoped to convince Americans that "Rhodesia is a peaceful country that wants to remain peaceful, but that it is being pushed to the point of war....

"There is no apartheid in Rhodesia. There's no discrimination, so to speak."

He claimed Rhodesian blacks live separately from whites because of their tribal ways.

IWC votes to increase killing of sperm whales

TOKYO [UPI] — The International Whaling Commission yesterday abruptly increased by nearly 850 per cent the number of sperm whales to be killed in the Northern Pacific in a move which one U.S. delegate said was "political expediency".

The commission voted without opposition to raise the killed quota from 763 to 6,444 in what the U.S. delegate described as a "trade" between the United States and Soviet Union.

The commission yesterday revised next year's sperm whale catch quota in the northern Pacific sharply upward from 763 whales to 6,444 in an action which some IWC delegates called "political expediency."

A two-day special session of the whaling commission was called at the insistence of Japan and the Soviet Union, the world's two largest whaling nations, to reconsider the sperm whale quota set at last June's meeting in Canberra, Australia.

The problem of whether to lift a total ban on killing of bowhead whales, a vital protein resource for Eskimos, will be decided at Wednesday's meeting.

The United States has proposed that Eskimos, who traditionally hunt the bowhead, be allowed to catch 15 of the mammals or make 30 strikes, whichever comes first, annually.

The commission banned all bowhead kiling at its June meeting.

Eskimos attending the Tokyo meeting said even a quota of 15 bowheads per year is not enough.

"We need whatever it takes to sustain the Eskiomo community," said Dale Stotts, secretariat of the Alaska Eskimo Whaling Commission.

"Some 4,000 Eskimos are living in communities intimately tied up with whaling. Another 10,000 to 11,000 depend on the whale for nutrition."

Tuesday's decision to follow the scientific committee's recommendation to increase the sperm whale quota drew sharp criticism from anti-whaling groups as well as some delegates to the conference.

SAVE-ON-TIRES, Inc. ROUTE 9, HADLEY 3 Miles from Northampton 3 Miles From Amherst

OPEN MON., TUES., WED., & FRI. 9:30-5:30, THURS., 9:30-7, SAT., 9:30-3 P.M.

TIRES CASH & CARRY
Wholesale to the public
WE CAN ARRANGE TO HAVE YOUR TIRES MOUNTED.

MICHELIN - FIRESTONE - PIRELLI - GOODYEAR - LEE - GENERAL - B.F. GOODRICH - ARMSTRONG - CONTINENTAL - PLUS OTHER MAJOR BRANDS.

SUPERSEDES ALL OTHER ADS

MAJOR BRANDS
SNOW-TIRE SPECIALS

BIAS PLY — Made by major U.S. Tire Mfgr's. Goodyear, Lee, Firestone, Seiberling, Armstrong, and many more.

| SIZE | TYPE | |
|---|---|---|
| 600x12 | Alliance Sno White | 22.95 |
| 600x13 | LaHarve Sno White | 22.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear Black | 17.95 |
| A78x13 | Goodyear White | 20.95 |
| B78x13 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 20.95 |
| B78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x13 | Fire. T&C Black | 27.95 |
| 700x13 | Fire. T & C Black | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Custom Snow White | 24.95 |
| C78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 27.95 |
| E78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 25.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x14 | Lee Mag. Grip Wht. | 30.95 |
| F78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 26.95 |
| F78x14 | Fire. T&C Belt. Blk. | 31.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 30.95 |
| G78x14 | Lee Magna Grip White | 32.95 |
| G78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 28.95 |
| G78x14 | Fire. T&C White Blem. | 31.95 |
| H78x14 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 32.95 |
| H78x14 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 29.95 |
| H78x14 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| 560x15 | Pirelli (VW) Black | 20.95 |
| 600x15 | Penn. Mud & Snow White | 24.95 |
| 685x15 | Fire. T&C Mini/Sport Blk. | 28.95 |
| F78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 29.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 28.95 |
| G78x15 | Zenith Snow Power White | 30.95 |
| H78x15 | Lee Magna Grip Blk. | 33.95 |
| H78x15 | Zenith Snow Power Blk. | 29.95 |
| H78x15 | Fire T&C White Blem | 35.95 |
| J78x15 | Fire T&C Belt Blk. Bm. | 37.95 |
| L78x15 | Seiberling Sno White | 33.95 |
| L78x15 | Fire T&C Belt. White | 39.95 |

RADIAL SNOW TIRES

AMERICAN SIZE SNOW RADIALS FIRST QUALITY MADE BY ARMSTRONG, WHITEWALL.

| SIZE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|
| BR 78x13 | 35.95 |
| DR78x14 | 39 95 |
| ER78x14 | 40.95 |
| FR78x14 | 43.95 |
| GR78x14 | 45.95 |
| HR78x14 | 48.95 |
| GR78x15 | 46.95 |
| HR78x15 | 48.95 |
| LR78x15 | 49.95 |

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| BR78x13 | Fire. Run Silent. Blem | 36.95 |
| ER78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 47.95 |
| FR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 48.95 |
| GR78x14 | Fire. T&C W | 51.95 |
| HR78x14 | Lee Stud-Less | 56.95 |
| GR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 54.95 |
| HR78x15 | Lee Stud-Less | 56 95 |
| LR78x15 | Fire. T&C. W | 49.95 |

METRIC SNOW RADIALS

CONTINENTAL-CONTACT
STUD-LESS STEEL RADIAL
SNOW TIRE

| | |
|---|---|
| 145x13 | $33.95 |
| 155x13 | $37 95 |
| 165x13 | $39.95 |
| 165x14 | $43.95 |
| 165x15 | $42.95 |

Plus Other Sizes

| SIZE | TYPE | SALE PRICE |
|---|---|---|
| 165x13 | Fulda Stud-Less | 34.95 |
| 185x14 | Fulda Stud-Less | 44.95 |
| 155x15 | Fire. T&C Bk. | 24.95 |
| 165x15 | Fire. T&C Wht. | 37.95 |

MICHELIN XM&S
SNOW TIRES AT over 25% DISCOUNT

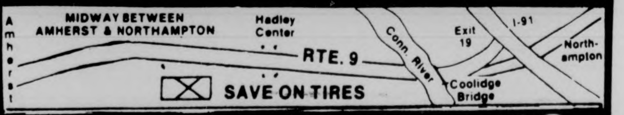
ALL PRICES PLUS F.E. TAX AND SALES TAX

RECAP SNOW'S
ANY SIZE
$15.95 PLUS TAXES



SAVE-ON-TIRES, INC.
ROUTE 9 HADLEY
Cash and Carry or Bank Americard Master Charge
Hours
Mon.-Fri. 9:30-5:30
Sat. 9:30-3
Thurs. 9:30-7 p.m.
586-2544

STOREWIDE STOCK-UP VALUES!

Finast Holiday Gift Certificate
A Finast Gift Certificate is an ideal gift. Finast offers Gift Certificates for special amounts: $5.00, $7.50 and $10.00 good toward food purchases at Finast. Ask store manager for details.

Finast

MEAT STREET, U.S.A.

Brookside Fresh Whole Chickens
Split or Cut-up 45¢ lb
39¢ lb.
Family Pack Chicken Fresh Legs 69¢ lb.
Family Pack Fresh Chicken Thighs 79¢ lb.
Family Pack Fresh Chicken Breasts or Drumsticks 89¢ lb.

Perdue Fresh Whole Chickens
Split or Cut-up 55¢ lb
49¢ lb.
Perdue Chicken Fresh Legs 79¢ lb.
Fresh Perdue Chicken Breasts 99¢ lb.
Boneless Chicken Breasts $1.89 lb.

Beef Loin Full Cut Sirloin Steak
USDA CHOICE
$1.79 lb.
Porterhouse Tail-less T-Bone Beef Steak $2.49 lb.
Boneless Underblade Chuck Steak $1.29 lb.
Boneless Stew Beef $1.29 lb.

Arm Picnic Fresh Pork Shoulders
Tender & Flavorful
69¢ lb.
Assorted Center, Sirloin, Blade Pork Chops $1.19 lb.
Fresh Boston Butt Pork Butts 99¢ lb.
Country Style Rib End Pork Ribs $1.19 lb.

Mott's Apple Sauce
A Dessert Favorite 35 oz. jar 69¢

Campbell's Tomato Soup
5 10¾ oz. cans 89¢

FRESH PRODUCE
FIRST O' THE FRESH
Florida Tangerines
18 176 size for $1
California Broccoli Large bunch 59¢ bu
Red Delicious Apples 3 lb. bag 79¢ bag
Family Pack Tomatoes 1½ lb. pkg. 69¢ pkg
Long Green Cucumbers 7 for $1

MR. DELI
Cooked Roast Beef
Cooked Under U.S. Gov't. Specifications $2.09 lb.
Domestic Cooked Ham . ½ lb 1.19
Imported Swiss Cheese . lb 2.19
Available Only in Stores with Service Deli Depts.

IN-STORE BAKE SHOP!
Fresh Baked Hard Rolls . 6 for 59¢
Fresh Cake Donuts Plain Sugar Cinnamon doz 79¢
Available Only in Stores with In-Store Bake Shops

GROCERY
Borden's Cremora 22 oz. jar $1.19
S & W Peas or Whole Kernel or Cream Style Corn . . 3 16 oz cans 89¢
Tomato Sauce Hunt's . . . 6 8 oz cans 1.00
Hot Cocoa Mix Finast . . . . 21 oz jar 1.39
Fruit Cocktail Del Monte . . . . 2 17 oz. cans 1.00
Chicken of the Sea Solid White Tuna In Oil or In Water 7 oz. can 79¢
Finast Saltines . . . . . . . . . 1 lb pkg. 47¢
Spaghetti or Elbow Macaroni Richmond . . . 2 2 lb pkgs 1.00
Finast Ketchup . . . . . 3 14 oz bots 1.00
Hendries Yogurt Bars-pkg. of 6 Stix-pkg. of 12 99¢

GROCERY
Norelco Soft Wht. 60-75-100 Wt. Light Bulbs $1.19 pkg 4 bulbs
Corned Beef Hash Mary Kitchen . . 15oz can 59¢
Green Giant Green Beans Kit. Sli-or French . 3 16 oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Peaches Sliced or Halves . 3 15oz cans 1.00
Hunt's Pear Halves . . 3 15oz cans 1.00
Sugar Valley Peas Sweet 5 16 oz. cans $1
Finast Instant Rice . . . 2 14oz pkgs 1.00
Stove Top Stuffing Chicken Twin Pak 12oz pkg 1.29
Italian Dressing Finast . . . 3 8 oz bots 1.00
Sunshine Cheez-It Crackers . 16 oz pkg. 65¢

DAIRY VALUES
Cheese Food
Kraft Slices American White or Colored 16 oz. pkg. $1.19
Soft Margarine Finast . . . 2 1 lb pkgs 1.00
Finast Sour Cream . . . 3 8 oz conts 1.00
Ballard Biscuits. . . . . . 6 8 oz pkgs 1.00

SIERRA STONEWARE
Promotion ends Saturday December 10, 1977. Please complete your sets by Saturday, December 24, 1977.
This week's feature Item:
Dessert Dish 49¢ each
With every $5.00 purchase

FROZEN FOODS
Orange Juice
Bright & Early Synthetic 5 6 oz. cans $1
Finast Spinach Chopped or Leaf . . 5 10 oz pkgs 1.00
Frozen Yogurt Hood's Firm & Frosty . . . pkg of 4 59¢
Coronet Ice Cream Hoods half gal 1.59
Beer and Wine Shoppe!
Miller High Life Beer case of 24 12 oz. cans $5.99 case only
Paul Masson Crackling Rose and Chablis . . 25 oz bot 3.49
Folonari Wines . . . . . . . 67 oz bot 3.69
Beer & Wine Available Only in Finast of Hadley

You Save 77¢
Betty Crocker Cake Mixes
3 18½ oz. pkgs. $1
with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase
Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast PN H-867

You Save 58¢
Detergent Tide Laundry
49 oz. pkg. 99¢
with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase
Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast PN H-868

You Save 47¢
Taste O' Sea Seafood Dinners
3 9 oz. pkgs. $1
with this coupon and $7.50 or more purchase
Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon.
Finast PN H-869

You Save 44¢
Margarine Parkay Quarters
1 lb. pkg. 29¢
with this coupon and $7.50 purchase or more
Valid Dec. 4-10, 1977. Limit one coupon
Finast PN H-893

Prices effective Sunday, December 4 thru Saturday, December 10, 1977
We reserve the right to limit quantities.
Not responsible for typographical errors

Congress fails to resolve abortion dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress failed yesterday to resolve a five-month dispute over federally-funded abortions as the House cast another antiabortion vote and the Senate stood firm in its demands for a more lenient policy.

The dispute could deny paychecks this month to nearly 750,000 federal, state and local government employes.

The House, tackling the abortion question first, ignored leadership pleas to accept an amendment allowing abortions for victims of "forced" rape and incest if the attacks were reported "promptly" to law enforcement or public health officials.

The amendment, by Rep. Robert Michel, R-Ill., also would have allowed abortions to save the mother's life or if she would suffer "severe and longlasting physicial health damage" by continuing the pregnancy.

The House rejected the amendment 200 to 170 after both pro-abortion and antiabortion forces attacked it as unacceptable.

The House then approved a simple resolution continuing $60.2 billion in funding for the Department of Labor and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare through fiscal 1978 and including the current law that allows abortions only to save the mother's life. The Labor-HEW budgets have been mired in the abortion dispute since July.

The Senate considered the continuing resolution Tuesday evening and immediately amended it by voice vote to carry abortion language nearly identical to that rejected by the House a few hours earlier.

The only change the Senate made was to eliminate "forced" rape from the proposal, thereby allowing abortions for statutory rape involving willing minors.

The next move is up to the House.

Sens. Edward Brooke, RMass., said the Senate again made a concession to the House by including "prompt" reporting of rape and incest to qualify for a free abortion.

"The word 'promptly' may be a way out of this morass," said Brooke. "Again the Senate is making a compromise, a serious compromise."

Sen. Warren Magnuson, DWash., called the Senate amendment "more than reasonable."

"We've given in here and there," Magnuson said. "We've changed words, they've changed them around. It's hard to even recognize what comes over here from the House when you compare it with our original language."

Unless some settlement on funding for the two government departments is reached by Thursday, there is a strong chance there will be no paychecks this month for 145,000 federal employes and 600,00 local and state workers paid with federal funds.

In addition, some federallyfinanced social programs may run short of funds if the dispute isn't settled by late December. They include Head Start, Aid to Dependent Children, special assistance for the elderly, federal hospital grants, and elementary and some special school aid.

The Michel Amendment was torpedoed when anti-abortionists attacked as too weak and pro-abortion House members said it was too restrictive.

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., chief anti-abortion leader in the House, said his colleagues should stand firm and "protect the innocently inconvenient prenatal life from being socially disposable."

Liberal House members were furious over the new rape language. Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., accused the House of "setting up hurdles for young women to go over before thev have control over their own body."

"We know that there are women who have carried around with them for 20 or 30 years that they are the victims of rape or incest and they still can't admit it," Miller said, and requiring a rape victim to report the attack was "a disgrace."

Rep. George Mahon, D-Texas, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas pleaded for approval.

"I'm asking the House to give a bit after the House has made very few compromises on this issue in the past," Mahon said.

Wright predicted "extremely serious consequences" if Labor and HEW were allowed to go without money while Congress battled over abortions.

Employers may not refuse seniority for pregnant women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers may refuse sick pay to pregnant workers but cannot take away their job seniority or seniority benefits because of maternity leaves, the Supreme Court ruled yesterday.

The court decision, written by Justice William H. Rehnquist, relied heavily on the controversial ruling last December that pregnancy benefits do not have to be included in an employer's health insurance program.

The justices found that a California school board did not have to provide sick pay to Sonja Lynn Berg, a teacher in Richmond, Calif., and the sole support of her family when she became pregnant.

But they ruled that the Nashville Gas Co., in stripping employee Nora Satty of her job seniority during her seven-week leave to have a baby, "has not merely refused to extend to women a benefit that men cannot and do not receive but has imposed on women a substantial burden that men need not suffer."

Justice John Paul Stevens said the court's reasoning on the sick pay and seniority issues draws a distinction between "discrimination against pregnancy" and "discrimination against pregnant or formerly pregnant employees."

The court's action, based on its interpretation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and other federal laws, was unanimous but four of the nine justices voiced concern over some wording in Rehnquist's 10-page opinion.

In referring to the court's decision last Dec. 7 in a case involving the health insurance program of the General Electric Co., Rehnquist said the "policy of not awarding sickleave pay to pregnant employees is legally indistinguishable from the disability insurance program upheld" in the GE case.

House rejects B-1 Bomber

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House yesterday rejected an attempt to kill $462 million in leftover funds to produce two models of the B1 bomber in a final drive by supporters of the controversial plane to keep the program alive.

The vote was 166 to 191 on a motion by House Appropriations Committee chairman George Mahon, D-Texas, to go along with the Senate's acceptance of a request by President Carter to strike the money in line with his decision to cancel production of the plane.

House action came during its final consideration of a compromise $7.8 billion supplemental appropriations bill for several government agencies. The issue now goes back to the Senate, which has the choice of accepting the House action or sending the entire measure back to a House-Senate conference committee.

Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., led supporters who maintained that the planes were necessary to continue research and development, urging the House that "if we are going to err, let's err on the side of strength."

Opponents said the planes were not needed and urged the House not to waste additional money on the program, which has already cost about $3 billion and has received no funds in the current fiscal year.

"We cannot fight a war with two production model B1's," said Rep. Joseph Addabbo, DN.Y., a long-time opponent of the bomber.

Critics of the B1 have maintained the plane would be vulnerable to improved Soviet air defenses and have objected to its cost, which would have worked out to at least $100 million a copy. The Air Force had originally sought a fleet of 244 of the planes for a total cost of more than $24 billion.

Carter announced last June 30 he had decided against going ahead with B1 production, choosing instead to speed up development of the cruise missile, a small pilotless jet plane with high accuracy that can be armed with nuclear warheads.

Vets must reply to questionnaire

CHICAGO [UPI] — About 700,000 Veterans Administration pensioners will lose VA benefits Feb. 1 unless they respond to a questionnaire sent to them in November, a VA spokesman said Tuesday.

W.D. Bush, director of the VA's data processing center, said 1,257,887 persons are required to return the questionnaires. By Monday, only 37 per cent had done so, he said. At the same time last year, 47 per cent had responded.

The questionnaire, sent with Nov. 1 checks, is designed to determine how much outside income the veterans and their dependents receive, Bush said.

Canadian Club
80 proof
Canadian Whiskey
$13^{99}$ gift wrapped
1.75 Liter
sugg. retail:
$16.99

Cossack $7^{69}$
80 proof
VODKA
1.75 Liter
sugg. retail:
$9.79

Miller Beer Sale!
Miller $5^{79}$ case
12 ounce cans
Miller Lite $5^{79}$ case
12 ounce cans

Folonari Wines $2^{99}$
68 oz.
sugg. retail:
$4.29

Ballantine $13^{99}$
86 proof
Scotch Whisky
1.75 Liter
sugg. retail:
$17.45

Tosca $1^{39}$
Lambrusco
24 ounces

Check out these low beer prices!
Ballantine 12 oz. cans $4^{99}$ case
Schmidt's 12 oz. cans $5^{29}$ case
Genesee 12 oz. n.r.'s. $5^{19}$ case

Canada Dry Mixers
CANADA DRY
3 quarts for 99¢

Prices in effect through
Monday. December 12
We reserve the right to limit quantities.

Seagram's
Extra Dry Gin
80 proof
$9^{29}$
suggested retail:
$12.39

King Street Liquors
338 King Street
Northampton • 584-1800

Open:
Monday through Thursday 9:00 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Friday and Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m.

Coal miners begin nationwide strike

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Dismal cold and snow over much of the nation marked the first day of the nationwide coal strike yesterday as 160,000 miners began the last weeks before Christmas without salaries or medical insurance.

From Virginia to Utah, from Alabama to Illinois, members of the United Mine Workers union struck the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, demanding restored health and pension benefits, higher wages, and the right to local strikes.

UMW President Arnold Miller said the strike would bring "hardships and human tragedy" and said the BCOA was to blame.

"It is now obvious that they never wanted an agreement and that they're trying to break this union," Miller said.

He began a tour of the coal fields in his home state of West Virginia, "to be with our members."

Although about half of the nation's coal production ceased with the expiration at 12:01 a.m. of the UMW-BCOA contract, no shortages were expected. Major utilities and steel producers reported stockpiles sufficient for about 100 days. Miller has said a three-month strike was likely.

As expected, trustees of the UMW Health and Retirement Funds announced a cutoff in health benefits for about 815,000 miners and retired miners and their dependents.

The funds are financed through company-paid royalties on coal production.

"Effective Dec. 6, 1977, the UMW benefit trusts will not be able to pay bills for any covered medical services," said a hand-printed sign on the wall of a miners' clinic at Cabin Creek, near Charleston.

The trustees also announced that 81,819 retired miners may get reduced pension checks beginning next month while an additional 6,000 pensioners, whose benefits come under a second trust fund, will receive their usual check.

Tractor parade will prelude national farmers' strike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A farmers spokesman yesterday promised an orderly parade of thousands of tractors through the nation's capital Saturday as a prelude to a planned national farmers' strike.

"We're not a bunch of rowdies," strike leader Bill Strausser said in a telephone interview from Cambridge, Md. He said farmers planning the demonstration have worked closely with police authorities to assure smooth passage of the parade.

The tractor parade and a midday rally Saturday on parkland south of the White House were planned to highlight preparations for a proposed nationwide strike of farmers beginning Dec. 14 to protest low crop prices.

Leaders of the protest movement are calling on farmers to stop selling their commodities, to avoid planting more crops, and to stop buying farm supplies unless the government takes action to raise farm prices to the full "fair earning power" farm parity standard.

Administration officials have voiced sympathy with farmers' pleas for help in easing the economic squeeze which has gripped them this year, but have predicted the planned strike would not cut food supplies enough to affect either farm or consumer prices.

Strausser said a symbolic group of 50 tractors will be parked on the Capitol grounds for several days as a reminder of the farmers' plight.

FBI opens files on J.F. Kennedy Assassination

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The FBI finally opens its John F. Kennedy assassination files to the public today in a ritual reminiscent of ushering outsiders into some mysterious, long-sealed vault.

On a first-come basis, reporters, conspiracy buffs, scholars and those able to obtain electronic-coded passes will enter guarded FBI reading rooms Wednesday morning to pore over the first 40,001 pages of investigative files on the Nov. 22, 1963, murder in Dallas.

Bureau spokesmen, releasing this first batch of JFK files in response to a Freedom of Information suit, insist the documents will shed no significant new light on the killing — that those who believe Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone, and those who believe conspiracy theories, will still hold to their views when the last page has been scoured and the expected avalanche of news stories has rumbled to a halt.

Nonetheless, millions of Americans still troubled and fascinated by the Dallas murder, and its aftermath, will be looking for answers to questions on what the FBI knew, and when it knew it, and whether it told the Warren Commission before that presidential body concluded its probe.

Such questions as:

—Is there nothing more on exactly what Oswald said during the 12 hours Dallas police, the FBI and the Secret Service interrogated him after Kennedy's murder and before his own killing by Jack Ruby? Officials said no tape recordings or even written transcripts were kept, and the Warren panel got only paraphrased recollections.

—Is there any evidence Oswald was connected with Soviet or Cuban intelligence? That he had any links with CIA or FBI agents?

—Was there any prior relationship between Oswald and Ruby?

—What exactly did Oswald say in those phone calls he made to the Cuban and Mexican embassies during his mysterious visit to Mexico City in September and October of 1963? The CIA says it recorded the conversations through phone taps. Are the transcripts in these files?

—Why didn't the FBI notify Secret Service that Oswald — a man it had had under surveillance since he returned from life as a defector in the Soviet Union — was in Dallas and bore watching as part of routine presidential security efforts?

—What was J.Edgar Hoover's opinion of the Warren Commission? Is there evidence the FBI withheld any important evidence from the commission? On whose authority was its investigation closed out?

Bottle ban will conserve energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A nationwide ban on throwaway cans and bottles for soft drinks and beer would conserve energy, reduce litter and actually save the beverage industry money, government investigators said yesterday.

The 18-month study by the General Accounting Office said some jobs in the glass and can industries would be lost but there would be an overall increase, perhaps as many as 32,000, because more people would be needed to store, ship and handle the returnable bottles.

The GAO, which monitors government spending for Congress, said the report was an unusual venture since it was not a response to a request from Congress to audit some program, but an attempt to give the lawmakers a complete picture on the throwaway question.

Proposals to require a deposit on cans and bottles to encourage their return have been introduced in Congress since 1970. Four states have enacted some form of mandatory deposit legislation.

In the meantime, the GAO said, American consumers have gone from throwing away an average of 75 beverage containers each in 1960, to 370 this year. Returnable containers now make up only about 25 percent of all beverage cans and bottles sold.

The report said "maintaining a mandatory deposit law once it was in place would be considerably cheaper than continuing present trends."

Whether consumers would benefit is unpredictable, since they would have to pay the initial deposit, perhaps 5 cents on each container, and it would be up to the bottlers and brewers whether any of the savings would be passed on.

Not all consumers would return the containers, meaning the producers in effect would profit by keeping those deposits. In addition costs would go down because soft drink and beer companies would have to buy fewer bottles.

The report estimated net costs to the industry would drop by $1 billion to $1.3 billion during the time throwaways were phased out, and the continuing annual cost reduction could be as high as $1.9 billion.

It also said litter could be reduced from 10 percent to 40 percent and post-consumer solid waste — garbage — would be cut by about 5 percent.

The report also foresees conservation in iron ore and bauxite, and an eventual energy savings of two-tenths of 1 percent of the nation's total energy use by 1985.

How come our RSO group didn't get funded this year?

Because nobody turned in our rationale and budget proposal on time last year.

Will we get funded this year?

Only if we turn all the information before 5p.m. Dec. 14. But don't worry someone will do it.

Just like last year?

DO IT NOW!

A WARNING FROM YOUR STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

©1977, THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
BIKO INQUEST
SOUTH AFRICAN SECURITY POLICE
'INNOCENT, BY REASON OF INSANITY.'

Soviets plan extinction of jews

By YITZHAK SANTIS

The plight of the Soviet Jews, a tired old subject, not on the front pages anymore, must be a dead issue, right? Wrong!

The Jews in Russia are under constant pressure from Soviet Government sponsored programs to assimilate. One example is that it is now forbidden to teach or learn Hebrew, even for religious purposes. Another is that for over two million Jews in Russia there are only six ordained rabbis!

It is the Soviet's plan for the Jews to disappear altogether as a people and religion. Indeed, up to the 1967 Arab-Israeli conflict it seemed as if the Soviet plan was working. However, immediately following the war, a new, massive interest in Jewish Nationalism started.

Realizing that the nationalistic feelings felt by the Jews could spread to other minorities in the Soviet bloc, such as the Armenians, Rumanians, Hungarians, etc. etc., the Soviet Government made drastic reductions in the amount of Jews allowed to emigrate. An example:

Valery Sorin, a 25-year-old engineer residing in Moscow, applied to emigrate to Israel. He was turned down and became one of the many thousands of "refuseniks". Because he demonstrated his desire to leave Russia he wasn't permitted to hold a job, even as a secretary. He went on welfare and since he couldn't have a job he became a "parasite" to the state. A cute little Catch-22. He is now sitting in Matroskiya Tishina Prison awaiting trial on the dubious charge of "parasitism".

The following is a copy of a letter I sent to the Soviet Government demanding the release of Valery Sorin.

To: Procurater-General Roman Rudenko
From: Yitzhak Santis
Re: Valery Sorin

I have recently been informed of the imprisonment of Valery Sorin of Moscow. He is currently in Matroskaya Tishina Prison for the dubious charge of "parasitism". He applied to emigrate to Israel and was refused.

You Soviets seem to go out of your way to find any pretext to try and hide your overt anti-Semitism. Is this what your fathers fought the Revolution for?

We Jews of the free world are getting increasingly upset everytime we hear about our brothers and sisters being oppressed and persecuted only because of their religious and nationalistic beliefs. We warn you that our movement is gaining momentum and we will ultimately win.

Anti-Semitism and Racism will no longer be tolerated in this rapidly changing, progressive world. Why don't you pull yourselves out of the dark ages and become real men. Your country could lead the world to real peace and to a universal civilization where all races and religious and ideological beliefs are tolerated. Give up your vain hopes of world domination and suppression!

It is in this vein that I protest the imprisonment of Valery Sorin and demand his release so that he may emigrate out of Russia and return home to Eretz Israel.

I echo the words of our great Prophet Moses: Let My People Go!

Yitzhak Santis

The problems for our fellow Jews in Russia are getting worse and not better. If you have a few minutes, write a letter of protest and demand the release of Valery Sorin and others. Let the Soviet Jews know that they aren't out crying in the wilderness.

Address the letter to: Procurator-General Roman Rudenko, 15-A Pushkinskaya, Moscow, RSFSR, USSR.

For further information about Soviet Jewry call me at 546-6564 or contact the Resources Judaica office, SU 415, tel. 545-1578.

Yitzhak Santis is a Collegian Commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

Don't just complain

Editor's note: This is the third in a series of commentaries discussing some issues in modern agriculture, and the university's role in dealing with them.
By LAURA LUDEN

It is becoming apparent that the current agricultural practices aren't able to provide the food that will be needed in years to come. Our agricultural land base is diminishing. The rate of food production is increasing arithmetically while the population is expanding geometrically. The food problems of the future can only be dealt with in the present as there is still much scientific research to be done in order to insure that farmers will be able to farm.

The research into biological practices and innovative methods applicable to small farms is still in its infancy. It is up to the agricultural colleges and universities to train students in new methods and to provide facilities for alternative studies. Educational institutions change extremely slowly but with student pressure this process can be speeded up.

Students have begun to realize that although we have a structure by which we can assert our power, this power is given to us at the whim of the administration. They are not legally bound to recognize our decisions in matters of vital importance to us. What is needed is a governance structure that the administration and the State must recognize, one in which the decisions of students are made from the grass-roots. The Student Union, as it is proposed, will be set up in such a say that we will have input on all levels of the University that affect us. Union councils will function in residential, Third World and departmental levels.

Departmental councils would address themselves to the needs of the students within that department. This system would benefit students in many ways, serving to provide input into the many aspects of each department. This is especially important in the College of Food and Natural Resources. Agriculture is of great interest to many people; in 1967 the College had 1400 undergraduates, there are now 4000 with less faculty than 10 years ago. Add to this the lack of money within CFNR and it is apparent that we are in trouble.

We cannot just complain that we are not getting all that we had wanted out of our education, we must take steps to change the situation. Our decisions must carry the same weight as do those of the faculty and administration.

That the faculty is often hampered by the administration in the same way the students are in an often overlooked fact. We will have to work together in many respects. A structure by which this could be accomplished is the Departmental Council.

A council would serve varied purposes; working with faculty committees on such matters as contracts, hiring criteria, research funding, course and teacher evaluations, independent study projects, the list is endless. Departmental grievances would be channeled through the Councils. The Council is to be made up of those interested students who felt they wanted input, no one would be elected to the Council and all majors are eligible to vote on Departmental Council issue. If you had an issue that you felt must be attended to, action should be initiated by your Departmental Council. Since the majority of departments have not yet formed Councils, the place to start is by forming one.

Not only is our education at stake, but decisions made now and in the future will affect agricultural students for years to come. We students are the people who will be working in agriculture-related businesses, who will be doing scientific research, who will be teaching other prople about agriculture and who will be providing food. We must take an active role in shaping our education, our future.

Laura Luden is a Collegian Commentator.

S. Africa: the lines are drawn

bill sundstrom

Moral people in our society would probably agree that they could sit down and arrive at a definition for the word "murder". They would say murder is the killing of someone with intent and not out of self-defense. They would suggest that it is an act that takes place within the context of an established system morality, against the norms of that system, and which is perpetrated by sane and supposedly responsible people.

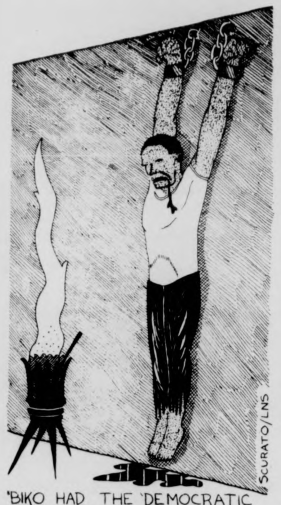
As such, the death of a black leader Stephen Biko on September 12 in a South African jail was not merely a matter of police negligence or brutality. It was murder, and to label it anything else is to irresponsibly distort the rather clear evidence that South African security police were fully responsible for the death.

The expected outcome of a South African magistrate's inquest into the murder was indeed handed down last Friday; the security police were absolved of any responsibility. Meantime, security police raided a Soweto home where Biko's brother and cousin were staying seizing the two in order to prevent some of the unrest that was inevitable after the ruling.

The United States' official response was to be "shocked," and to declare the death a violation of "human rights". Too bad the government is unable to be "shocked" into leveling serious and complete economic sanctions against the most oppressive regime in the modern world.

Murder of blacks by the white government is neither rare nor acknowledged as such in South Africa. But repeated examples of political incarceration and extermination are both morally and politically reprehensible.

Popular pleas for peace in southern Africa may be well-intended, but they only serve to mask an underlying apologist attitude. The lines have been drawn, as they were for the American revolutionary war, as they were for the French revolution, and as they were during World War II. Basic social and economic inequalities, as well as ideological differences, exist which are simply not being resolved by negotiations or world-wide expressions of outrage.



'BIKO HAD THE 'DEMOCRATIC RIGHT' TO 'STARVE' HIMSELF TO DEATH." --POLICE MINISTER KRUGER

U.S. foreign policy has followed an interesting if contradictory theme during recent history, one that might be termed the "peace ethic". The peace ethic suggests that peaceful resolutions to the problems of underdeveloped nations are always preferable, except, of course, when peace is a threat to American imperialism. The desire to "stabilize" relations most frequently results in the artificial freezing of tensions that are rooted in serious social and economic contradictions. Diplomatically imposed peace settlements cannot be permanent when they ignore real human needs and historical dynamics.

In this light, the various proposals for solving the South African problem without bloodshed represent vested interests more than real concern. American businesses have a considerable stake in what happens in South Africa — a peaceful diplomatic establishment of "democracy," engineered by U.S. diplomats, will be vastly preferable to allowing unpredictable African revolutionaries to determine the fate of their own people.

Even more ludicrous are plans for increased establishment of "Bantustans", separate nations made independent by the South African government, which are supposed to allow blacks to rule themselves while maintaining the segregation that Afrikaaners consider crucial. Unfortunately, Bantustans like BophuthaTswana (which came into existence only yesterday) are located in the poorest areas of South Africa. Even if a vast majority of the country were divied to blacks as separate states, the wealthier industrial areas (built by black labor but considered white jurisdiction) would remain under white control.

Violence is not a pleasant thing, but when peaceful measures fail to change oppressive institutions — institutions which deny people the freedom to determine the conditions of their own existence — violence becomes a necessary evil. And nowhere in the modern world is violence so necessary for liberation as it is in South Africa, a country whose leaders are dedicated to the consistent denial of human rights as determined by any moral person.

Bill Sundstrom is Executive Editor of the Collegian.

Melilli was "not listening too closely"

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in response to Lisa Melilli's article, "The Punk Temptation" which appeared in Monday's Collegian. I am sick of reading articles about "Punk" rock or any rock for that matter written by people who know little about their subject matter and couldn't care less about it.

I would like to take issue with several of Lisa's enlightening comments such as, "Punk rock is the newest rock genre which began in England about a year ago, it's musicians are called anarchists, and "punk is a gimmick."

To begin with, "punk" rock is not new and did not start in England. Groups such as the Seeds, Stooges, New York Dolls, Slade, Who and Rolling Stones have been playing this type of music along with many others for over a decade without anybody grumbling about the menace of punk rock.

Lisa states that "even Punk Rock's original lyrics lack any depth: "Gama Gama Heh," for instance." Where Lisa dug this one up I'll never know. I assume she is referring to the lyrics of the Ramone's "Pinhead" with its Gabba Gabba Hey refrain which of course has a totally different connotation. Obviously if she has heard the song, she couldn't have been listening too closely to the lyrics and I believe she may have missed the "meaning" and "depth".

I have been listening to what has recently been coined "punk" rock for years now. I have never owned a leather jacket, my clothes do not have holes in them, I wouldn't dream of sticking a safety pin through me 'ead, I love my Mom and Dad and I do my homework.

I do agree with Lisa on one point. "Punk" is not art. So what? "Punk" is rock and rock is fun. Rock n' Roll is not a Truffaut film or a trip to the museum. It's only Rock n' Roll but I like it. I'm not about to can my Sex Pistols and Ramones albums because the lyrics aren't as heavy and intrinsically "meaningful" as the Beatles "Why don't we do it in the Road" or even "Hotel California".

I feel sorry for people who are so busy analyzing and tearing things apart that they cannot just enjoy them for what they are. It is clear to Lisa that punk rock is not art and "Punk won't be around for long." Meanwhile the Sex Pistols are number one on the charts and the Ramones and Talking Heads are also gaining in popularity, so lets just wait and see.

Dana Teton

Guidera's complaint "useless dross"

To the Editor:

Re: Daniel P. Guidera's letter of 12-5-77 condemning Peter Kracht and the Revolutionary Communist Youth Brigade.

A simple question-whatever happened to freedom of speech?

Mr. Guidera, how can you say the Collegian ought to deny anyone the use of the newspaper to express their thoughts?

One of the purposes of the Collegian is to print all student views, not to print only those student views with which they agree or approve.

Even if you think it is "useless dross", the Brigade has a right to repeat "the same old story" [to use your own words] as often as they wish.

Would you feel the way you do now if the Collegian staff had said they would not print your letter because it was "useless dross"?

Leslie Hiller

Thanks to SFCU volunteers

To the Editor:

Since last year the University of Massachusetts Student Federal Credit Union has grown to become a strong financial institution within the university community. We have increased our membership by over 100 per cent to 3,400 members and our assets to close to one-half million dollars. In addition, we have tried to assist the university population through services such as cash withdrawals, money order and traveler's check sales, bank checks and more.

None of this would be possible without the support of our members and our volunteer student staff. I would like to take this opportunity to thank the volunteers, who through many hours of hard work, have made this the largest and most successful student credit union in the United States.

The Credit Union will close for the Christmas break on Wednesday, December 21, 1977. We will reopen on Wednesday, January 4, 1978 with intersession hours of Mon., Wed., and Fri., from 10-3. Happy Holidays!

Peter L. Bloom
President

Hite rebuts Pill

To the Editor:

On Nov. 28 you ran a commentary by Michael Pill which accused Pinky and me of "selling out" to the administration. As proof of this allegation, Michael states that both of us have been on the "administration payroll" at some time in the past. While Michael's basic hypothesis seemed a little hysterical, I feel that the question was sufficiently important to warrant a reply.

First, it is true that I was on the "administrative payroll" of the then Office of Residential Life. I worked for ORL for eighteen months prior to my election as president. My job consisted of carrying bed-springs, moving furniture, and preparing reports on dorm damage. This was a work-study job, part of my financial aid package.

Pinky, also, was on the "administrative payroll" of the Orchard Hill Residential College, and as a counselor in Grayson House. As a counselor, she made the munificent sum of 13 dollars a week.

If these jobs qualify us to be labeled sell-outs, then so be it. We are comforted to know that we stand in the company of hundreds of dorm counselors and thousands of work-study students across campus.

Mr. Pill's message was clear: if a student chooses to get involved [by working a thankless job, on-call 24 hours a day, for peanuts] or tries to get a decent education without being independently wealthy [like the more than 40 per cent of UMass students who receive financial aid] then their "loyalty to the student cause" automatically comes under suspicion.

I don't know about anyone else, but as far as I'm concerned any "cause" that can be "brought out" for thirteen dollars a week isn't worth much in the first place.

However, that issue aside, I was even more disturbed at the attitude displayed by Bill Sundstrom, the Collegian's Executive Editor, in printing the commentary. Mr. Sundstrom has always given lip service to the need for accuracy on the editorial pages. Time and again, he has claimed to believe in the concept of fairness on the pages he controls. But in this case, I must regretfully accuse Mr. Sundstrom of violating the very principles he is so fond of proclaiming.

Word spreads fast in student government, and some of the people mentioned in Mr. Pill's commentary [including myself] became aware of the commentary and the charges it made well before its publication. Understandably, we were disturbed. The picture painted by Mr. Pill was so distorted, and so insulting to such a large group of students, that we felt compelled to ask that it be clarified before publication. At the very least, we felt Mr. Pill ought to define what he meant by "administration payroll" as separate from just working for the university.

Despite repeated requests, and presentation of a more balanced view of the situation, Mr. Sundstrom persisted in printing Mr. Pill's distorted charges. I can only feel that in this case Mr. Sundstrom threw elementary fairness and professionalism out the window in favor of a cheap shot to promote his own political beliefs.

It is well and good to take the "if someone disagrees with what I decide to print they can submit a rebuttal" theory of journalism, but that is the cheap way out. It hurts when someone accuses you of being some sort of traitor because you couldn't afford to go to school on your own or your family's resources. The hurt doesn't go away because you have an opportunity, a week later, to have a rebuttal [hidden away in the "Letters to the Editor", as opposed to the prominent placement of the original distortion]. The damage is done.

I feel that as an editor of the monopoly newspaper on campus, Mr. Sundstrom has an obligation to forget his personal politics in cases where someone stands to get hurt by printing half-truths. I feel he has failed miserably in this obligation, and has betrayed the position of trust he holds as an editor of the Collegian.

Jon Hite
SGA Co-President

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Carter approves aid to U.S. steel industry

WASHINGTON [UPI] — President Carter yesterday approved a package of measures to help the ailing American steel industry and its jobless workers regain economic stability.

The multi-faceted plan was drafted by a governmental task force over the past two months. It contains a new "trigger price" method for cutting foreign steel imports; a promise to pump millions of dollars into obsolete steel mills and layoff-plagued communities, and an attempt to ease the burden of stringent government regulation on the industry.

One feature is coordination of future air and water pollution standard-setting and enforcement, without relaxing basic environmental goals.

The task force's 35-page report was made public by the White House, which ordered the study after steel industry executives asked Carter for help.

"The president has received and approved the recommendations," a White House statement said. Carter "indicated that the recommendations ... will help revitalize the health of the domestic steel industry, will encourage its modernization and will assist workers, firms and communities that have been disadvantaged by its current problems."

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, told reporters after a private briefing the plan was "a major step in the right direction."

But Sen. Richard Schweicker, R-Pa., complained it was insufficient. "Never has any administration labored so long, about so much, to produce so little," he said.

One major question was left unanswered by the report and it is considered the key to acceptance by the steel industry.

Steel executives are anxious to learn at what level the government will set the "trigger" or minimum prices for foreign steel. If steel comes into U.S. ports at below the minimum price, government action against the importer would begin immediately.

The administration said it would make a determination on the trigger price by the end of the month after conferring with Japanese steel producers.

According to he industry, one of its most serious problems has been foreign steel sold in the United States at below cost. More than 20 million tons of steel made in Japan and Europe will be sold here this year, compared to 14.3 million in 1976 and 12 million in 1975.

Under law, American steel firms can file "dumping" complaints against foreign producers with the Treasury Department. But the cases take up to 13 months to settle.

The new minimum price system would allow resolution of the cases within 60 to 90 days.

With annual sales of almost $40 billion, the U.S. steel industry is the nation's third largest.

Over the past several years, however, industry problems have escalated to the point where mills have closed and about 60,000 workers have lost their jobs in the past year.

Employment has fallen from more than 500,000 in 1957 to less than 370,000 now.

Compromise is in sight for energy legislation

WASHINGTON [UPI] — House-Senate negotiators said yesterday they see the first tentative signs of compromise on a natural gas pricing deadlock that blocked progress on two fronts of pending energy legislation.

They cautioned, however, that a combination of private diplomacy and public bluster may continue for several days before there is a real test vote on whether to expand or eliminate federal regulation of natural gas sales.

Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the conference committee, said privately he saw signs of movement after intense private negotiations. And Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., told reporters: "It's not as rigid."

Jackson, leading Senate advocate of continued controls, said the first concessions were likely to come from advocates of decontrol. He said a test vote on initial efforts at compromise could come late this week.

The dispute has evenly divided the Senate delegation to the House-Senate energy conference committee, and in the only vote taken on the issue Tuesday, those favoring continued price controls rejected a compromise offer by Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La.

They said they would rather scuttle the whole natural gas section of the proposed energy bill than take the lid off gas prices.

Johnston, chief Senate advocate of decontrol, offered to delay the date of full price deregulation from 1982 to 1983.

Both Jackson and Johnston later indicated one possibility for resolving the biggest obstacle — the issue of extending controls to gas sold within the state where it is produced — might be to let the federal government regulate intrastate gas prices but bar federal allocation of intrastate gas.

Jackson also suggested that federal price controls might be removed gradually over "10 or 15 years maybe," rather than the five years proposed in the Senate bill, with higher interim prices than the $1.75 per thousand cubic feet allowed in the House measure.

For the immediate future, however, he issued a list of "essential" principles:

— Regulation of new gas sales, interstate and intrastate, with the possibility of a compromise on a ceiling price slightly higher than $1.75.

— Reserving the top price solely for gas produced from new reservoirs.

— Changing pricing formulas to put the brunt of higher prices on industry.

"If the conferees are not willing to include these principles, we will have to admit that our negotiations are at an impasse and that there will be no gas price policy bill this year," Jackson said.

The impasse also is partly responsible for lack of progress by a separate conference panel considering possible new energy taxes.

House approves program to ease heating costs for poor

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The House decided yesterday by a one-vote margin to continue a $200 million program to help poor persons meet heating bills in the coming winter.

The victory came on a 182-181 vote after Speaker Thomas O'Neill cast the tie-breaker for the program which was part of a $7.1 billion supplemental money bill.

The entire money bill was passed on a voice vote and sent to the Senate which may seek a new conference with the House after rejection of the Senate-passed language banning spending of $462 million for two B1 bombers.

The bill carries $80 million for the Clinch River nuclear breeder reactor which President Carter must spend despite his earlier veto of a bill authorizing the project.

The reactor money was retained without debate or a vote since both House and Senate had included the funds in their separate bills so it was not an item of disagreement between House and Senate conferees.

Carter's only choices on the reactor issue are to veto the overall money bill or propose rescinding the money in a separate measure that must be approved by the House and Senate before it can be deleted. Such approval is not likely.

The Senate had approved the heating bill provision, first put into effect after the record cold wave last winter when some 1.5 million persons got help in paying higher-than-usual fuel bills.

The House did not have the money in its version of the bill but Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., sponsored the move to agree with the Senate provision which carries a maximum payment of $250 per family.

The Addabbo motion came under attack from House GOP whip Robert Michel of Illinois who said "the need has not yet been demonstrated for this winter," and from Rep. Robert Giaimo, D-Conn., chairman of the Budget Committee, who said "we shouldn't be starting new federal aid programs when we can't even fund existing programs of aid to the poor."

"All we're saying is put the money in there in case of need. If it is not needed it will revert to the Treasury," said Addabbo.

The House last week voted to agree with another Senate provision opposed by House conferees that that was to go along with 18 million, instead of $8 million, for Amtrak to avoid service cutbacks.

Other provisions in the big money bill included $1.4 billion for Small Business Administration disaster loans, $17 million to help the new Department of Energy move into new quarters, and a $54,000 increase in the allowance for former presidents to help Gerald Ford meet extra costs he has incurred in promoting the Panama Canal treaties.

"WORK STUDY AND STIPEND JOBS AVAILABLE"
HELP ORGANIZE YOUR UNION!

Addressing such needs as:
-obtaining dorm leases with the university
-getting access to course and teacher evaluation information

apply at the Student Organizing Project, Room 426, Student Union Building, by Dec. 7th. An equal opportunity employer.

employment begins Feb. 1, 1978

DON GLEASON'S KNOWN FOR SELLING THE BEST

Down and Polaguard jackets by the North Face, Sierra Designs and Camp Trails. Down and Polaguard vest by Don Gleason and Camp Trails. Wool and chamios shirts by Woolrich --two layered underwear, tops and bottoms, and one piece unionsuits by Duofold. Down filled mittens, and gloves by Saranac. Snow shoes by Tubbs of Vermont. Sorel boots and Vasque hiking boots. Don Gleason's best means quality products for you: outdoor needs.

also

Other gift giving favorites
"Original Swiss army knives"
Heavy duty canvas "tote bags"
"Buck" and "Gerber" knives

plus

Our complete selection of family camping and backpacking equipment

HOURS 9 to 5 30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY

PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER

Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY INC
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON MASS

There IS a difference!!! Our 40th Year

PREPARE FOR:
NEW MCAT · DAT · LSAT
GMAT · GRE · OCAT
VAT · SAT

Our broad range of programs provides an umbrella of testing know-how that enables us to offer the best preparation available, no matter which course is taken. Over 38 years of experience and success. Small classes. Voluminous home study materials. Courses that are constantly updated. Permanent centers, open days, evenings and weekends all year. Complete tape facilities for review of class lessons and for use of supplementary materials. Makeups for missed lessons at our centers.

prepare now for winter exams
LSAT GRE GMAT OCAT

CLASSES IN AMHERST
Call Boston for info
25 Huntington Ave
Boston MA 02116
617-261-5150
Outside NY State Only
CALL TOLL FREE
800-221-9840

Stanley H. KAPLAN
EDUCATIONAL CENTER
TEST PREPARATION SPECIALISTS SINCE 1938

Centers in Major U.S. Cities

FREE HEAT and HOT WATER!!

Don't get caught with high winter heating bills!

Included in your rent
at NO EXTRA charge—
Heat & Hot Water

For Your Convenience:
+ Free UMass bus to town and campus
+ Stove, refrigerator, disposal, and dishwasher
+ Fully carpeted
+ Wall to wall closets
+ Cablevision available
+ 1½ miles from Mt. Farms Mall
+ 24 hour maintenance staff

2 Bedroom
Garden Apartments
$245.00

* Special second semester rental terms available

Our new rental office is located at 156 A-1 Brittany Manor Drive.

Take first entrance.
Rental Hours—Mon.-Fri. 9-5, Sat. 10-2
256-8534

Brittany Manor

SAVE DURING THE HOLIDAYS AT BIG 'Y'!
HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

SEAGRAM "7" WHISKEY
80 PROOF
Why pay $12.95?
59.2 oz
$9.69

H.W. TEN HIGH BOURBON
80 PROOF
Why pay $11.99?
59.2oz
$8.99

FLEISCHMANN'S GIN $8.69
80 PROOF
Why pay $10.05?
59.2 oz

BACARDI RUM
80 PROOF
59.2oz
Why pay $12.89?
$9.99

CANADA HOUSE CANADIAN
80 PROOF
$8.49
Why pay $10.49?
59.2 oz

HARVEY'S BRISTOL CREAM
$5.59
25oz
Why pay $8.20?

MILWAUKEE
PREMIUM BEER
24 12oz no return bottles (Why pay $4.99?) $3.59

COSSACK 80 PROOF 59.2 OZ
VODKA Why pay $9.79? $7.69

D'AMOUR
FLAVORED BRANDIES
80 Proof, Why Pay $6.59?
$4.39 quart

YOSEMITE ROAD
TABLE WINES
Why pay $3.19
$2.69 3 LITE

d'amour's BIG Y
WINES & LIQUORS
AT LOW PRICES!
3 convenient locations...all next to BIG 'Y'
•HAMP PLAZA KING STREET ROUTE 5 NORTHAMPTON
•FAIRVIEW ROUTE 33 MEMORIAL DRIVE BIG Y'S SHOPPING CENTER
•BRECKWOOD WILBRAHAM ROAD SPRINGFIELD

Phonographs becoming more and more popular

One hundred years ago yesterday in Menlo Park, N.J., a hand cranked a handle, a stylus scratched a groove and out came a bleary, eerie, worldchanging voice that said quite modestly: "Mary had a little lamb."

The talking machine, swaddled in a tin foil cylinder and costing all of $15, was born on Dec. 6, 1877, the child of Thomas Alva Edison.

The inventor later confessed, "I was never so taken aback in my life — I was always afraid of things that worked the first time."

And work it did. The talking machine has become a $4 billion annual record industry in the United States, and the invention has changed the way the world learns and spends its leisure time.

Its popularity declined somewhat with radio, movies and television, but the talking machine rebounded, and today few American homes are without a phonograph.

In 1878, G. Schirmer of New York prophetically copyrighted a song by H.A.H. von Ograff: "The Song of Mister Phonograph:"

"My name is Mister Phonograph and I'm not so very old; My father he's called Edison and I'm worth my weight in gold ... ."

Over the years the talking machine has been called by many names: the tin foil phonograph, the Edison Home Phonograph, the Victor Talking Machine and His Master's Voice Gramophone.

The little black and white dog listening to the Gramophone horn became a trademark dear to Americans who clustered round their early conical or "exponential" horns to hear Sunday music in the parlor.

Today, records have changed from scratchy duplication of reedy voices and vaudeville skits to great ganglia of intricate sound. The delicately painted morning glory horn has become a sophisticated stereophonic amplifier, mainstay of the "home entertainment center."

The talking machine records — first cylinders, then discs — made a fortune for Enrico Caruso, the Beatles and Elvis Presley. Cutting a record has nearly become a synonym for success, and success is measured in golden records.

It has slipped into our speech and coined expressions like "groovy," "broken record," "flip side" and "disc jockeys."

The phonograph gave rise to juke boxes and record hops. The juke box, with its parade of records, turned the ice cream fountain into a gathering spot. Where music was available, people could dance.

Today they dance at the discotheque, where the record disc is king.

Comatose woman awaits shock treatment in Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — An American woman who has been in a coma for 11 months lay in a Japanese hospital yesterday awaiting treatment by a newly developed shock therapy said to have been effective more than 50 percent of the time.

Harriet Rosenberg, a 32-yearold housewife and mother of two from East Monroe, N.Y., arrived in Tokyo on Monday with her husband, Ted. She was taken to the Iwate Medical College at Morioka, 300 miles north of Tokyo. Tests are scheduled to begin soon.

The new technique involves stimulating veins in the brain by strongly pumping the patients blood into the carotid artery. Dr. Haruyuki Kanaya, developer of the technique, said the treatment had been used on an 11-year-old girl recently and she was restored to consciousness after a three-year coma.

"Doctors told me they will make tests for two to three weeks and her therapy will start before Christmas," said Ted Rosenberg in a telephone interview.

"I will stay here throughout her therapy, which will take three months to one year," said the 38-year-old Rosenberg. "I have reserved a hotel very close to this hospital. But I have to make occasional trips to Osaka, where my company's head office is."

Rosenberg is a consumer relations manager with the Minolta camera company's American subsidiary. Minolta is helping to finance the treatment. A colleague in New York helped him contact Dr. Kanaya.

"I am glad the Iwate Medical College has accepted us," Rosenberg said. "But I am very nervous, too."

Mrs. Rosenberg suffered brain damage in an automobile accident in January while she was taking her 5-year-old son Barry to nursury school. She has been in a coma since.

Her husband said she started to blink her eyelids in March but there has been no further improvement in her condition. Then he read about the new Japanese treatment. Dr. Kanaya examined Mrs. Rosenberg in New York and agreed to treat her, though he said he could not guarantee a full recovery.

The Pan American Boeing 747 in which she made the 14- hour non-stop flight to Tokyo took special precautions, said the pilot, Capt. Lynn Loomis.

Chanukah candle lighting schedule

For those interested in communal candle lighting during the remaining days of Chanukah, the following dorms will have someone to lead candle lighting:

—John Adams 1403, Dec. 5-8 at 7 p.m. and Dec. 10-11 at 7 p.m.

—Coolidge, 22nd floor Lounge, Dec. 5-11 at 7 p.m.

—Dickinson 410, Dec. 5-8 and 10-11 at 7 p.m.

—James, 2nd Floor Lounge, Dec. 5-8 and 11 at 7 p.m.

—Mary Lyon 207, Dec. 5-11 at 7 p.m.

—Van Meter Lobby, Dec. 5-8 and 11 at 9:30 p.m.

—J.F.K. 17th floor Lounge, Dec. 5, 6, 9-11 at 7 p.m.

Candles and Menorahs are still on sale in the Hillel office, S.U. 302 from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dukakis criticizes healthcare exemptions

BOSTON (UPI) — Gov. Michael S. Dukakis yesterdayleveled heavy criticism against the Massachusetts Legislature for passage of several bills which exempt certain hospitals from a law aimed at controlling health care costs.

"The Legislature is picking that program apart," said Dukakis at his weekly cabinet meeting. "To make speciality bills for Certificate of Need is to make it a legislative plaything."

The CON law requires hospitals that want to spend more than $100,000 on construction or new equipment to get state Public Health Council approval.

Two bills passed by the Legislature Monday and sent to Dukakis reversed negative decisions by the council on proposed expansion projects at two Boston hospitals. The governor is expected to veto both measures.

Last month however, Dukakis' veto of a similar bill for Amesbury Hospital was overridden by a wide margin in both legislative chambers.

"If I have to sit here and veto bill, after bill, after bill granting special Certificate of Need projects, I'll do it," said Dukakis.

He instructed his cabinet members to begin organizing support against the special exemption measures, saying "We're going to have to get that message out to the state."

"We're focusing on the Senate to sustain the vetoes," said Human Services Secretary Jerald Stevens. "It's viewed as a special interest in each district, but it isn't ... (it's) affecting citizens across the commonwealth."

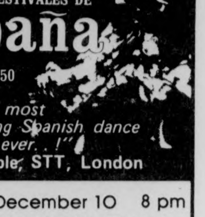
Consumer Affairs Secretary Christine Sullivan said each $100 million projected approved results in an average cost of $17.40 "for each man, woman and child in the state."

In other matters, Dukakis discussed an upcoming workshop for mayors across the state and plans to counter act any attempts by next year's Legislature to pass anti-abortion bills.

Community and Development Secretary William Flynn said newly elected and re-elected mayors across the state will gather at the Statehouse Dec. 14 to meet with state officials.

Flynn said the daylong event will be aimed at showing community leaders where to go for state hlp in solving local problems.

On the abortion issue, Dukakis said a meeting of health care people across the state will be arranged "late this year or early next year" to rally against anti-abortion legislation.



University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
Direct from Spain
Ballet
NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE
España
Company of 50
"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London
Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5. UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

Open Auditions
for MOLIERE'S
SCHOOL
FOR WIVES
University Ensemble Theatre
December 6, 7 at 7-10 pm
December 7 at 1-4 pm
Sign up for audition slot outside of Main Theatre Office, 112 Fine Arts Center, or call 545-3490.

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS
The Winner of the
Tchaikovsky Competition
Eugene
Fodor
VIOLINIST
"The Mick Jagger of Classical Music"
People Magazine
Thursday, December 8 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL
Tickets now on sale. General Public - $7, 6, 5. UMass students - $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and senior citizens - $6, 5, 4.
Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

LET'S GO
BOWLING
Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30 50 cents a string

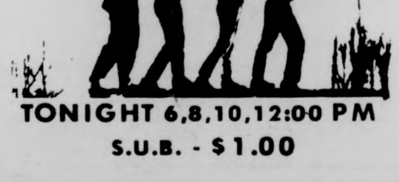
The rusty nail Inn
Coming Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY
and the
ASBURY JUKES
rte. 47 sunderland, ma./tel.665-4937



Deliverance
Where does the camping trip end... and the nightmare begin...?
TONIGHT 6,8,10,12:00 PM
S.U.B. - $1.00

Notices

SKI CLUB

Special meeting tonight regarding everyone going to Sugarbush.

ARTS COLLECTIVE

Arts workers collective to be formed for creative group work in community situations-performances, poetry, rituals, workshops, etc. Preliminary meeting Amherst Room, Jones Library, Amherst College, 7 p.m.

LOST

—opal star setting with shamrocks on gold chain. 545-0162 or 545-2092. Reward.

—project proposal for internship in the University Store. Please caal 549-6563.

—waalet. Reward. Call Tel. 6-8689. JA 803.

FOUND

—calculator on 12th floor Kennedy. Call 6-7775 for information.

ASTRONOMY CLUB

Meeting 7 p.m., Has. 44. Last meeting of the semester.

CHADBOURNE

The winner of 'lovable' Henry, the five and a half foot orange dog, will be drawn at 3 p.m. in the CC.

COUNCIL OF UNDERGRAD PSYCH STUDENTS

Meetigg 7:30 p.m. Tobin 304, for all members and interested psych majors.

MUSIC THEATRE GUILD

Important meeting, 6 p.m., CC 917. We will vote on the show for next semester.

FOOD AND RESOURCE ECONOMICS MAJORS

Meeting of the F.R.E. Association 7 p.m., Draper 227.

Zionist Symposium Series

The first of three sessions of the Zionist Symposium Series will take place tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Red Room of Converse Hall at Amherst college. The session, entitled: "America-Israel and the Middle-East Peace" will feature Maior General Mattityahu Peled and Prof. Steven J. Rosen. The dialoque will be chaired by Prof. Allen Kropf of the Amherst Chemistry Department.

Respondents for the evening will be: Donna Devine, assistant professor of government at Smith College and N. Gordon Levin Jr., professor of history and American studies at Amherst College.

The symposium, jointly sponsored by the Five-College Hillel Foundations and the American Zionist Federation is free and open to the public.

Peled received his Ph.D in Arabic in 1971 from UCLA and has served as chairperson of the Arabic studies deptartment at Tel-Aviv University from 1974-1977. Since 1975 he has chaired the executive committee of the Israeli Council for Israeli-Palestinian Peace.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE
☐ AUDIO
☐ AUTO FOR SALE
☐ CALCULATORS
☐ ENTERTAINMENT
☐ FOR RENT
☐ FOR SALE
☐ FOUND
☐ HELP WANTED
☐ INSTRUCTION
☐ LOST
☐ MISC.
☐ MOTORCYCLES
☐ PERSONALS
☐ PHOTO EQUIP.
☐ RIDE WANTED
☐ RIDERS WANTED
☐ ROOM WANTED
☐ SERVICES
☐ TO SUBLET
☐ TRAVEL
☐ WANTED
☐ WANTED TO RENT
OTHER:____
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:____ X rate:____ = ____
X #days:____ = ____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY
Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.
You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)
1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
Name:____
Phone#:____(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$____(enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run:____
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)
RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

Classifieds

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500 Ford. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

65 Dodge Dart 6 cyl $325 Steve 253-3586.

Dodge Polara 1969 excellent mech cond no rust radials good heater 665-3901.

Fantastic Buy: 1972 Toyota Mark II. Runs great. AM/FM, stell-belted radials. Best offer over a $1,000. 584-4759.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1967 Volvo 144. Needs valve job. $400 or B.O. 773-7289.

1970 Merc. Cougar. New ex., AM-FM, radial 81K. Call 546-5344.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 TR6 convertible. Some rust. 1 owner. Low mileage. Best offer over $500. Call after 6, 1-567-8663.

68 VW Bus. Needs work. Has rebuilt engine. Best offer. Call Jan after 6PM 253-2037.

70 Volks for parts. First $100. takes it. Call Maryanne at 256-8460 to see it.

1970 Blue Mustang with vinyl roof, air conditioning, AM-FM-CB unit. In good clean condtion with 72,000 miles. Asking $1,300. Call Robert Maron in Cance 546-5102.

71 Datsun 510. Good Cond. Only 50,000 miles, New tires, Asking $1,000., call between 3 and 7 PM. 532-7622.

1973 Jeep CJ5. Roll Bak Michelin radials. 60,000 miles. 549-4048.

Pickup, Chevy, '68, good shape, $700/best offer, call 665-4914.

73 Volvo 144 automatic very good body and engine radials AM/FM air cond. $3200 665-4539 eve & wks.

68 Chevy wagon needs work B.O. 67688.

73 Datsun standard transmission $1150 call 546-9979 eves weekends.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda, CB175, excellent condtion, $400. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18.-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181

Used 15 inch tires $2.-$10. Call 256-0195.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Two new new Snowtires H78-14 253-9792.

For Sale: Lange Pro Ski Boots size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn twice. If interested please call 253-5873.

Radials Pirelli 145SR13 Steve 253-3586.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Bedroom Set - excellent condition. Call 253-7494.

Pr snow tires 13" new cond $50 549-6482.

Sofabed, Reclining chair, bikerack, tables, bookshelf, lamps, coffeetable 549-5725.

SEIKO watch 23J-day/date. Koss Phase/2 stereo hdphone B.O. Frank 549-0187.

One HP-67 card programmable calculator, brand new and complete. Full warranty $315.00 call Bob or Chris 549-1316.

1970 Mobile Home in Belch Park. 12X50, includes AC, shed, stove, refridge. 6000 firm. Call 536-3086 or 532-0446 if no ans. Within 2 miles of UMass bus stop.

Sofa-good condition. Cheap-call 253-2967.

Diamond Wedding Ring trio - yel. gold - paid $500. used 6 mos. Will sacrifice for $250. Call 549-5440.

Must Sell by Jan. Wurlitzer Elec. Piano w/sustain & tremelo. List $700.,asking $325. or Best Offer. Call Jeff 549-3601.

Bike 3-speed, fair cond., 8 yrs old, $25. Call Pauline 546-4148.

New Raichle hikers about M7½ wg 542-3446 $40 or best price offer.

Technics SA5600 AM FM receiver 25 watts rms 1.9 FM Sen-sitivity $120 or B.O. 546-5972 must sell by Dec. 14th.

FOR RENT

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. -Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

Furnished 2% Room Apt. All util. included. $195./mo. Allan or Russ 253-3336 or at work 253-3491.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Puffton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Lrg. Rm. Avail. Now in Amh. house 549-5093.

3 Bedroom Apt., fair condition, for Dec. 1st, in Northampton. Only $165. Call Skibiski Real Estate 584-3428, 4-6P.M.

2 Bedroom Apt. utls. inc. $230. mo. avail Jan.1 on bus rt. Call 253-5706 aft. 4P.M.

1 neat respon per wtd for own rm in 2 bdrm apt, pr bath, for spr sem. Rent $125 util incl. ½mile frm UM. Eric 549-0582.

1 Bdrm. Apt. 1.5 mls. from campus. Excellent bus service. All utilities inclusive. $175. monthly. Avail. Jan.-Aug. Ideal for 2 people. Cal Zahid 545-0842 or 253-2097.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men non-smokers $55/mo. & utilities—Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

Apt. mate intersession; 253-7056; Janet.

One-half of a 2bdrm apt available Dec 22-Jan 28 1 mi from campus pay own elec & phone call Ginny at 549-1764.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call 665-3536.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

Female roommate wanted for Rolling Green Apts. Starting Jan. 1 inquire #163.

2 bedrooms avail in spacious coed house. Beginning Jan 1. Greds preferred, all considered, pets O.K. 100 + call 253-9824.

Room available/3 bedroom apt. Echo Hill, starting Jan 1. Call 253-5288 keep trying.

3 bdrom house 285 +, pets OK, 256-6732.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

2 Bedroom Apt. Dec. 22-Jan.27. Completely furnished. On bus route. Brittany Manor. B.O. Call 256-0318.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

3 bdrm. apt. in Sunderland on bus rte. Second Semester, call 665-3683 and keep trying.

1 Bdrm. eff apt. Cliffside, Sunderland. Jan 78-Aug 78 $155./mon., util. incl. Apt. can be seen any week day between 5-8P.M. Apt.#222.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

Large room in furnished 3 bdrom. apt. $75.00 complete! Includes cable. Available immed. 253-2980. Kp. trying.

Sublet Jan only b/o. Call 546-4027, 5500.

Spg sem 2bdrm Cliffside Apt 665-4107.

1 bedrm. $180 inc. util. 665-2512.

Person needed for 1 bdrm Brandywine Apt Dec 21-Jan 25 Cheap call Yasi 549-0865.

1 bdrm. apt. near campus—Amh. country location. $180 inc. util. Call 549-6568 if we're not at home, keep trying.

WANTED

Room; on L. Metacomet Blchtwn—70 plus—Carol at 323-5043.

F. Rmate wtd., nonsmkr. $70./mth. 549-2804.

2 females to shr. bdrm. for next sem. in spacious N. Amh. house 60/mo. ea. 549-5993.

1 Male Wanted to share apt. near Pufftn w 3 other people during spr. sem. Room avail. during Jan. too. Call 549-5978.

1 or 2 males to share own room in 2 bedroom Amherst apts. for spring semester. On bus route $122. plus electricity. Heat included. Call 256-0318 after 4P.M.

Room wanted for 2nd semester only; with females, preferably quiet. Call Mary—665-2019.

Rspnsbl studious, pref f., wted for 2bdm Townhse Apt. Jan 1-Aug 1, bus, 1mi to UM $100 + ⅓ut, John or Dee 549-0061.

Wanted: would to buy a double mattress. 546-5233 Karen (after 5).

HELP WANTED

Babysitter needed for weekday afternoons for Spring Semester and Winter session. Hrs. 12:15 to 5. Must be very reliable person. Experience in infant care desirable. Can transport from central campus. Call 549-4580 after 5.

TWO POSITIONS AVAILABLE at Student Legal Services in Spring. Apply before Dec. 8th in Rm. 922 CC. Paralegal Intern: Full-time, 15 credits through Outreach or Academic Dept. Experience helful but not necessary. Receptionist/Typist: 15-20hrs./wk. work/study position. Experience helpful. We are an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer.

Waitress wanted ME Bar LOUNGE 584-7200.

Exp. women printer to share skills w/ women's print collective. Call Angela 9-5 586-5079 or Jaque 268-3344.

The Student Organizing Project is accepting applications for student organizers. Both work-study and non work-study positions are open and will begin Feb. 1. Applicants should have an understanding of student unionization. Application deadline is Dec. 8. Apply Rm. 426 Student Union Bld.

Applications being accepted for SGA Director of Communications. Inquire at Rm. 420 S.U. This is a salaried position. The SGA is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer.

SERVICES

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

BERKSHIRE FORUM WEEKEND VACATIONS: Expertly led discussions, stimuating companions, fine food, mountains. Dec. 9-11, "Arab-Israeli Conflict." Dec. 16-18, "Harry Magdoff on Eurocommunism." Dec. 23-26, "Holiday Film Festival." Write/call Berkshire Forum, Stephentown, N.Y. 12168; (518) 733-5497.

Daytona Beach is only $147.20 away. You can now afford to go to a beachfront hotel, have Disneyworld and New Years in Florida. For more info or reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All makes and models low prices. Jack 586-0610

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

Tennis pros and assistant pros—seasonal and year-round clubs; good playing and teaching background. Call (301) 654-3770, or send 2 complete resumes and 2 pictures to: Col. R. Reade, W.T.S., 8401 Connecticut Avenue, Suite 1011, Chevy Chase, MD 20015.

Tune up timing chain valves etc. Good rates. 545-0472 AM.

After Five professional typing 734-0044.

Theses typed: call Melanie, 253-7553.

DON'T PASS THIS UP!

For Sale 1964 Olds F-85. Very good cond. Must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great. Call 6-9642 SOON.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

AUDIO

Sony 6300 Stereo Tape deck, like new $275. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

MAC-MA230-$185, Dyna-FM-3-$60, Advent 201 & tapes-$200, Call Ken 546-4035.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

RIDERS WANTED

Denver Colorado mid-December 665-3938.

Ride needed for 2 to Colorado anytime after finals. Call DGray 549-3740.

LOST

Reward-Calculator. Lost Thur. Nov. 30 Call Mark 546-6067.

Lost one necklace: gold chain with small brown stone-topaz-pendant. Reward offered. Please contact Elise Cocke, 586-0918.

PERSONALS

To the Kleptos of 202 Field and their accomplices - Excellent, but don't turn your back!

To Donna who gave me a ride to Providence on Wed.--Now let me give you a ride!! Call Fred 6-4462. I'm serious.

Hamp.Col. Amy lets play tennis. Bruce 253-9328

Judy—you have willpower smoke-on Steve.

Kelly T. 14th winngoweouid Secret Santa.

Tony Anderson—we have your money. Joe, Phil and Perry. 545-3500.

APHRODITE, I love you more than any other woman, but it hurts. Love ADONIS.

Joe BarBoza—Pie is a Greek letter.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis for Finals. Make retention & recall easier, improve concentration & relaxation for exams, get better grades. Campus Center M.W.Th. at 7,8,&9P.M. $5./session. Dorm groups by arrgt. Call Mr. Morse Hypnotist Consultant M.Ed. 532-5703.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!!Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURES

— "Nuclear Safety and Evacuation Planning" will be the topic of a panel discussion to follow the screening of "Meltdown at Montague," a film which documents the inadequacy of present evacuation procedures in the event of a nuclear accident. The presentation will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire College, sponsored by the Alternative Energy Coalition and the Environmental Studies and Public Policy Program at Hampshire.

— "The Political Economy of the American Revolution," by H. Graham Lowry, of the U.S. Labor Party, Converse 209, Amherst.

— "The TM Program and Enlightenment," an introduction to the TM program, will be held in Machmer E-16 at 7:30 p.m.

— "Transcriptional Units for MRNA in Mammalian Cells" by Dr. James E. Darnell of Rockefeller University. 4 p.m. Graduate Research Tower A, 203. Coffee will be served at 3:45.

— "Education and the Socialization of Asian Americans: A Revisionist Analysis of the 'Model Minority,' " by UMass education Prof. Bob H. Suzuki. 7:30 p.m., Converse Assembly Room, Amherst. Sponsored by the Asian American Students Organization.

— Alexander Eliot Seminar on Art History, 8 p.m., Lounge Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

CHANUKAH PARTY

The Chabad House across from Prince dorm will have a Chanukah party at 7:30. Refreshments, including latkes, will be provided. Our giant Menorah will be lit also.

UMASS BASKETBALL VIDEOTAPE

The Boston University-UMass basketball game, played last night in Boston, will be shown in color beginning at 3:30 p.m. in the Blue Wall, sponsored by the Student Video Project.

ISRAELI DANCING

Every Wednesday in the Cape Cod Lounge, from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Teaching and requests. Beginners 7:30-8:30. Advanced: 8:30-9:30.

CONCERTS

— The University Chorus and Women's Choir, 8 p.m., Bowker Aud. The program will include compositions by Faure, Brahms, Diane Bish and Kay.

— The Second Singers Workshop, Benzanson Recital Hall, FAC 248, 5 p.m. Five students from the techniques in Afro-American Vocal Music course will participate in the recital, which emphasizes improvisation of melody, rhythm, and text, as well as ensemble singing in small groups.

— A Program of Chamber Music, 8:15 p.m., Pratt Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke. Selections from Bach, Telemann, Debussy, Revel, and Vaughan Williams.

THEATRE

— "Antigone" 8 p.m. Studio Theatre, FAC, performed by the University Ensemble Theatre Production.

POT LUCK SUPPER

Anyone interested in the workings of the United Christian Foundation is invited to the December meeting-dinner of the UCF Board of Directors, to be held at 6 p.m. at the First Baptist Church. Call UCF at 5-2661.

TOMORROW

COFFEEHOUSE

9 p.m., 12th floor Kennedy. Egg nog and other refreshments available, free. Sponsored by JFK Middle.

LECTURES

— "Paysages de la fiction," Jean Gaudon, professor of French, Yale. 4:50 p.m., Alumnae House Lounge, Smith.

MADRIGAL DINNER

The 7th annual madrigal dinner will be held at 6 p.m. in CC 822. For information and reservations call 545-0418. $9.50 per person; $8.95 for UMass students or groups of 20 or more.

ISRAELI FOLKDANCING

Instruction provided. 7:15 p.m. Gill Hall, Campus School, Smith.

THEATRE

— "Exit the King," by Eugene Ionesco, 8 p.m., Division IV Studio Theatre, Emily Dickinson Hall, Hampshire.

— "Conquest of my Brother," a new play about native Americans by Edward Emanuel. Department of theatre production, Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith, 8 p.m.

— "This Property is Condemned" and "Winter," by Tennessee Williams and "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" by Neil Simon are part of the Festival of One-Act Plays, designed and directed by students. 8:30 p.m., Laboratory Theatre, Mt. Holyoke, $2.50. Students and Senior Citizens, $1.

CONCERT

— Department of dance concert, "Enchantment," 8 p.m. Theatre 14, Smith. Tickets $2.50. Students and senior citizens $1.50.

— Violinist Eugene Fodor, 8 p.m., FAC Concert Hall. Call 545-2511 for ticket info.

— The Amherst College Singers will perform Bach's Magnificat and Cantata 79 at 8:15 p.m. at the Grace Episcopal Church in Amherst. Free tickets of admission required.

FILMS

— "Fate of Man," a Soviet film directed by Sergei Bondarchik (director of the Soviet Version of "War and Peace"). 8 p.m., Herter 231. Sponsored by the department of Slavic languages and literatures.

HOLIDAY SALE

The 4th Annual Holiday Sale of Ceramics and Glass, Munson Annex. Hours 9-9 Th and Fri., Sat. 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

DAILY

INTERNSHIPS WITH NORTHAMPTON TENANT UNION

Researchers with some math and statistical background needed to study the relations between assessed value for tax purposes and actual market value of different types of property in all the wards of Northampton. The researchers will work closely with tenant advocates and with community groups demanding corrective re-evaluation. Academic credit available for full or part-time internships. Contact the Office of Internships, 408 Goodell or call NTU 586-4237.

UMASS CREDIT UNION

The credit union offers low interest loans. Open Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Intersession hours: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 10-3.

MARKS MEADOW AFTER SCHOOL DAY CARE

Earn 4 to 6 credits as a staff member in Marks Meadow Program 2-5 aft-wk. Program meets Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, 2:45-5:45, Wednesday 1-5:45. Staff meetings Thursday at 9:30. Chance to lead activities for groups of children ages 5-11. Contact Sylvia Lindsay 665-3990.

Campus Carousel

By TONY GRANITE
Special to the Collegian

HOT CHECKS that plague most campuses are no exception at Texas A & M. The Battalion student newspaper there reports 4,329 back checks written by students during the last fiscal year. Total amount involved was $234,933.

-----

ADD CRIME ON CAMPUS ... 8 per cent of the tickets issued by parking attendants at UWash are "skimmed" by employees and the university never receives the fees they represent. The UWash Daily exposed the thefts in a feature piece titled "Parking attendants may be parking their hands in the till."

The Parking Authority doesn't know how much revenue is actually being lost through "slippage," but it does know that besides the suspected sticky fingers of attendants, tickets are missing because parkers run the gate without paying, remain after 10 p.m. when booths are empty, or do not return drive-through tickets.

Relief is expected after expenditure of $34,000 for new cash registers and display boards, as well as booth modifications.

-----

ANITA CASTS THE FIRST ORANGE is how a speech-English major titled her opinion piece describing her reactions to a recent appearance in Indianapolis of Anita Bryant. The piece appeared in the Indiana Daily Student.

"I fear that Bryant and her troops are touching a chord that hasn't been heard since the 1950s and Sen. Joseph McCarthy. Before McCarthy, it was Adolf Hitler."

Pointing out that "When one minority is threatened, all are," the IU writer then quoted Pastor Martin Niemoeller upon his release from a Nazi concentration camp.

"In Germany, the Nazis first came for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist.

Tenant Union look for researchers

The Northampton Tenant Union is looking for researchers with math and statistical background to study relations between assessed value for tax purposes and actual market value of different types of property in all the wards of Northampton.

The union is fighting to keep rents down in the city.

Academic credit is available for full or part time internships. Contact the Office of Internships, 808 Goodell, or call the union at 586-4237.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Fried Fish Plate, Lazy Golompki, Basics: Rice and Cheese Stuffed Cabbage, Fried Fish Plate.

DINNER — Pot Roast, Swiss Turkey Sandwich, Basics: Barley Soybean Casserole, Swiss Turkey Sandwich

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Cheeserburgers, Liver and Onions, Basics: Vegetable Chow Mein, Golden Burgers.

DINNER — Chicken Cacciatore, Meatballs in Sauce, Fruit Salad Plate, Basics: Lentil Loaf, Chicken Cacciatore

BEST SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALL DINNER IN TOWN
6:30-9:00
99¢
MIKE'S
WESTVIEW
253-9202

Work-Study Jobs!!
The Toward Tomorrow Fair is now seeking work-study students for spring semester.
Available positions are in public relations, program development, and administration.
Learn a skill equal to your education!
For more information call Rick Taupier at 545-0474 or drop by 102C Hasbrouck
EXPLORE YOUR FUTURE TODAY!!!

We are pleased to announce the addition of
M.Julie Counter
to our staff of professional stylists at ...
Fashion Flair Beauty Salon
110 Main St. Northampton
584-1714
(Next to Ann August)

OFF CAMPUS HOUSING
3 Munson Hall/50145
Where You Can Find
1) All types of area housing: roommate situations, houses, apartments, coop situations for graduate & older students & parents
2) Tenant advocate to advise you on your rights
3) Complete info. on the valley: maps, day and child care programs, food coops, etc.
4) A furniture exchange

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

ALL POWER TO OLD LEFTIES! RIGHT ON!
GOOD HEAVENS! WHO'S THIS?
I'M A COMMUNIST-BACKED RADICAL FRINGE!
NICE TO MEET YOU, FRINGE! I'D LIKE YOU TO MEET MY FRIEND, MINORITY!
MINORITY? VOCAL MINORITY?
YOU'VE MET?
ONLY IN PRINCIPLE! BUT I'M A BIG FAN!
PEACE CORPS
12-7
G.B. Trudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

THIS IS ONE OF MY DEAR FRIENDS, ROCKY.. SAY SOMETHING SWEET TO HER ROCKY..
A TALKING ROCK. THE JOKE'S ON ME, RIGHT? ..... REAL CUTE!
KONK
WHY DIDN'T YOU SAY SOMETHING?
WHO NEEDS ARMAGEDDON
12-7
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

SIR, WHAT ARE YOU DOING OUT HERE IN THE HALLWAY?
QUIET, MARCIE
I'M IN DISGUISE! I'M TRYING TO FIND OUT WHO TOOK THE BOX OF GOLD STARS...
BUT I JUST SAW YOU SITTING AT YOUR DESK...
THAT'S MY ATTORNEY... HE'S ALSO IN DISGUISE...
"I BEFORE E EXCEPT AFTER C" 12-8
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Complain, complain, complain! That's all I ever hear from him!
He bitches about the cold or the food or the cold or the classes or the cold.
So I told him to put himself out of my misery.
All the leaves are brown... And the sky is gray...
Ranney 12/7

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

TZUM!
JUMPING JESUS!
A BURST OF SPEED, A QUICK TURN, AND DENNIS AVOIDS THE ATTACKERS.
REEEEE!
WHOM AND RETURNS THE FIRE
ZZZZZZNT!
EVEN A HEAVILY ARMORED MONITOR IS NO MATCH FOR THE FIGHTING SUIT.
KRAKKK
A 90 DEGREE TURN, AND TWO ATTACK CRAFT DESTROY EACH OTHER.
REEEEE
WATCH YOUR LEFT.
GOT 'IM. THIS IS FANTASTIC, LIKE HAVING EYES IN THE BACK OF YOUR HEAD.
ZZZZZNT
ROLLINS 12-7

UM by Marty Maceda

ZZZ ZZZ
BA-DEEP DEEP DEEP. BA-DEEP DEEP DEEP.
HEY BILL!
WHA? HUH? UH?
YOU WERE BABBLING SENSELESSLY AGAIN.
I WAS NOT BABBLING MY GOOD WOMAN... I WAS SCATTING.
IT SOUNDED PRETTY SCATTERED TO ME!
MACEDA 12/7

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

BENNY-X! STOP! DON'T HARM HIM!
BOF!
MEANWHILE, BENB ARRIVES...
LAFLER 12/8

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 7 — Born today, you are an optimistic individual, inclined to put too much faith in the future and too little effort into the present. At the same time your free-and-easy manner about things guarantees you at least a modicum of success, for it keeps you from making the mistakes that tension breeds. Those close to you realize that you are capable of more precision and care than you generally employ; those who have not known you long may wonder how you have managed to come as far as you have.

You are an enigma to many, busily engaged in all manner of projects, yet seemingly disinterested in them all. Where you shine is in cooperative effort, especially in a project important to the young. You will make an excellent parent, if excellence in parenthood is measured by the time, talent, and attention given to children in their attempts to get original enterprises off the ground.

You are not one who can be confined to routine, to a single place or a single group of people. You are absolutely faithful to loved ones, but in friends you enjoy and need variety. Restless when not busy, you can be counted upon for suggestions as to how to fill, kill, or turn to profitable use the time available after the daily responsibilities have been met.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — The strength of a friendship may be tested. Be prepared to sacrifice recent gain for it.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Public-spirited associates serve you well today. A little flag-waving would do no harm.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — Financial problems mar a perfect morning. Profits are temporarily confused with losses.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Understand and thus control your emotions this morning. Listen to one who has learned discretion.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — A constant effort against jealousy is required today to maintain a friendship dear to you and yours.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — This is a good day for speculation; be sure you can afford to lose. Children offer sensible solutions at evening.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — A temperamental morning is caused by a temperamental friend. Try to keep an even keel all day.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — An active social life interferes with duty this afternoon. Make up the time at evening.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — A good investment early today reaps harvest before night. Co-workers offer essential pointers for profit.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Your emotions will be the greatest obstacle to success today. Try to react along a middle ground.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — An early financial reverse does not signify major difficulty. Weather a mild storm into a good evening.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Impulsive extravagance Brings trouble you can ill afford. Tension at work may increase after noon.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

1 Consumes
5 USSR news agency
9 Series of steps
14 ---- machine
15 "Down-Under" birds
16 ----- de Leon
17 Issue bad checks
18 Abused
20 Dentist's concern
21 Serpent
22 Ancestors
23 Tape spools
25 Flower leaf
27 Man's name
29 Basketball's Mr. Irish
30 Canter
34 Mr., in Hindustan
36 Speak with pride
38 Sudden outburst of cheers
39 --------- ------ Authority
42 Arab. title
43 Romanian king
44 C.I.A.'s predecessor
45 Light fog
46 Legendary bird
47 Inventor James ----
49 ----- treat
51 Calendar entries
54 Looked boldly
58 Cereal grass
60 Eddo
61 Triangle side
63 Steel mill product
64 Come into being
65 Kind of tapir
66 Other
67 Doomed one
68 Ending for young or old
69 Ruminant animal

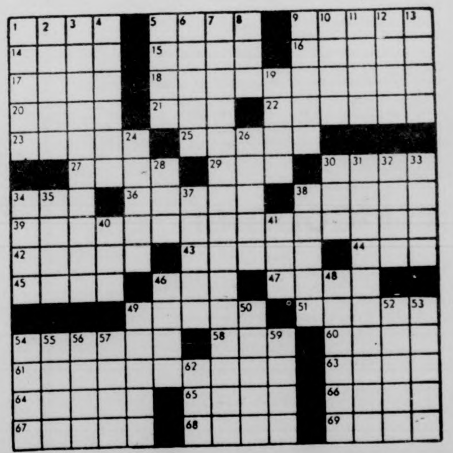
DOWN

1 Glacial ridge: Var.
2 Carroll character
3 Dressed -- --- -----
4 Addison's co-worker
5 Theme: Music
6 Out of order
7 Bookkeeping item: 2 words
8 Concorde
9 Fascination
10 Tailless amphibian
11 Stake
12 Bakery employee
13 Skelton and Grange
19 Utter something printed
24 Sword
26 Russian czar
28 --- Alamos
30 Female: Informal
31 Suitable for allocation
32 Actor Burl ----
33 Baubles
34 Goblet part
35 Oar: Prefix
37 Eng. village
38 Menu item
40 Kind of price
41 Express a promise
46 Uncivilized
48 Made lace
49 Restrain through fear
50 Rapidity
52 Murder: Slang
53 More painful
54 Dance of the '30s
55 Novice
56 Neat as - ---
57 Common shrub
59 Cleave
62 Nat'l Acad. of Sciences

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Tuesday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| G | R | A | D | | O | B | A | N | | A | C | H | E | D |
| R | A | V | I | | H | E | R | O | | S | H | A | V | E |
| I | D | E | A | | S | A | L | T | | S | I | R | E | N |
| M | I | R | T | H | | R | E | C | E | I | V | E | R | S |
| E | I | T | H | E | R | | S | E | N | S | E | | | |
| | | | E | N | I | D | | N | O | T | | H | O | E |
| A | D | O | R | N | M | E | N | T | S | | M | A | R | A |
| G | A | M | M | A | | P | A | R | | R | A | Z | E | S |
| T | R | A | Y | | S | E | P | A | R | A | T | E | L | Y |
| S | E | R | | L | E | N | | L | U | T | E | | | |
| | | | B | E | A | D | S | | M | E | R | M | A | N |
| D | I | S | A | G | R | E | E | S | | L | I | A | N | E |
| A | D | O | R | E | | N | I | C | E | | A | R | I | S |
| M | O | R | O | N | | C | Z | A | R | | L | I | S | T |
| E | L | A | N | D | | Y | E | N | S | | S | E | E | S |



The UMass men's swim team, paced by two firsts from record breaker Russ Yarworth, soundly defeated Worcester Polytechnic Institute last night at Boyden pool. See story, page 24. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Sports Calendar

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
MEN'S BASKETBALL — UMass 75 Boston University 61
MEN'S SWIMMING — UMass 69 WPI 43
TODAY
HOCKEY — vs. Army Away 7:00
WOMEN'S SWIMMING — vs. Yale Away 7:00
MEN'S GYMNASTICS — vs. Lowell Away 7:00
TOMORROW
JUNIOR VARSITY WRESTLING — vs. Springfield Home 7:00

Yanks seek Matthews

HONOLULU [UPI] — If the New York Yankees are willing to part with three of their young pitching prospects they can have left fielder Gary Matthews of the Atlanta Braves.

At the same time, the New York Mets have reopened talks with Minnesota regarding pitcher Jerry Koosman but have knocked Twins' owner Calvin Griffith for a loop by mentioning the name of six-time batting champion Rod Carew in negotiations.

After Monday's blockbuster deal involving outfielder Bobby Bonds, there were no new developments Tuesday although reports continued to circulate that the Yankees were on the verge of obtaining Matthews.

Bobby Cox, Atlanta's new manager, who previously managed in the Yankees' farm system, would like to unload Matthews and his lucrative $400,000 a year salary and has his eye on three promising pitching prospects in the Yankee chain, including Gil Patterson.

"The deal depends on a yes or no from the Yankees," said Cox. "I don't know if I could live with myself if we got those three pitchers."

It would be an excellent trade for the Braves, who are very weak on pitching, but it's unlikely to come off. The Yankees would part with one of their youngsters but not three.

The Braves have said they would take Ed Figueroa and another player for Matthews but the Yankees are reluctant to part with Figueroa because of their shortage of consistent front-line pitching.

Minnesota had already made the Mets an offer of outfielder Dan Ford, pitcher Pete Redfern and minor league infielder Steve Hertz for Koosman, which has been flatly rejected.

"We don't need a right-handed hitter," was the reply by the Mets. "We need a lefty. Let's talk about Carew. We'd give you four players, including Koosman."

ATO bawks at Sox sale

BOSTON [UPI] — A-T-O Inc., the high bidder for the Boston Red Sox, filed an appeal yesterday to block sale of the Club to a group headed by Haywood Sullivan after a probate court judge dismissed the suit.

Suffolk County Probate Court Judge Joseph P. Warner granted a motion Tuesday morning dismissing the suit brough by A-T-O, the Willoughby, Ohio, conglomerate that owns Rawlings Sporting Goods.

Attorneys for A-T-O immediately filed an appeal in Massachusetts Appeals Court seeking a restraining order to block sale to Boston Red Sox Associates — a 13-member group headed by general manager Haywood Sullivan and Edward "Buddy" Leroux.

The group also includes Jean R. Yawkey, widow of longtime Red Sox owner Thomas A. Yawkey.

In a written statement following the lower court ruling, A-T-O said, "We believe that there are serious legal questions that warrant review of this decision by an appelate court, and we do so in the interest of the baseball community as well as our client."

Regardless of the appeal, which could take up to 18 months to reach court, American League owners were expected to discuss the proposed sale to the Sullivan group Thursday at Major League winter meetings in Honolulu.

A-T-O, which bid $18.75 million for the club and other interests of Yawkey's estate, filed suit in Suffolk County Probate Court Nov. 1 seeking to restrain the executors from selling the club to Sullivan's group, which bid $15 million.

In the suit, the Ohio firm said the sale to Red Sox Associates was not "to the best advantage" of the Yawkey estate.

The executors of that estate, a three-member group that includes Mrs. Yawkey, said the intent of Yawkey's will is that the club be sold to a group that would run the team best.

Her husband's will reads in part: "It is my desire that these investments and interests of mine (which include the baseball team) be liquidated to the best advantage that my executors shall not be required to deal precipitately with the same.

Warner ruled A-T-O did not have a contract with the Yawkey estate solely because it was high bidder. Therefore, the suit did "not have standing with the court," he said.

★ Hoopmen

CONT. FROM PAGE 24

The Terrier attack was led by Andrews with 20 points and Vanlandingham with 13, along with nine rebounds. Wright hauled in 10 caroms for BU. The Terriers shot only 41 per cent from the floor, compared to 54 per cent for UMass.

UMass — Kohlhaas 3-0-6, Pyatt 7-7-21, Haymore 3-3-9, Claiborne 5-3-13, Eldridge 3-4-10, Johnson 4-2-10, Morrison 1-0-2, Williams 1-0-2. Totals 27-19-73.

BU — Bean 1-0-2, Vanlandingham 6-1-13, Wright 2-3-7, Consor 1-0-2, Andrews 8-4-20, Whitt 1-0-2, Dobrin 2-3-7, West 4-0-8. Totals 25-11-61.

Wear it Well

Merry savings on top-quality, famous-maker fashions for juniors & misses.

Gift Ideas!

Sweaters Reg. to $21 $8
Dresses Reg. to $32 $10
Blouses Reg. to $18 $5 & 6
Pants Reg. to $26 $8, 10 & 12
Denim Jeans Reg. to $22 $8

Coordinates Select Groups Save 50% & More

Winter Coats & Jackets Save 30% to 60%

Plus hundreds of other specials in store!

Make Wear It Well your Christmas store!

Wear it Well
Next to Caldor's
Hamp Plaza • Northampton
Open: Mon.-Sat., 9:30 a.m. to 10 p.m. • Sunday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

TIRED OF CHOOSING COURSES BLINDLY?

?
REGISTRATION FORM

We are trying to increase the number of courses covered in the Course and Teacher Evaluation, but we need your help.

Listed below are names of teachers who have cooperated by releasing their evaluations. If your professors are not on the list, ask them to sign the release forms they've been given by the Student Government Association. Talk to Department heads too. (They can release evaluations for the entire department.)

THESE TEACHERS HAVE RELEASED THEIR EVALUATIONS

Abrams, Linda
Ackermann, Robert
Afesi, Dori
Aune, Bruce
Allen, Ernest
Airhart, Douglas
Arny, Thomas
Austin, Allen
Barbosa, Pedro
Barreda, Pedro
Bennett, M.K.
Berlin, Normand
Best, Michael
Berliner, Howard
Bierhorst, Howard
Blackman, John I.
Bothroyd, Geoffrey
Boyer, Paul
Bracey, John
Branch, Ben
Brehm, John
Brentlinger, John
Brown, Dennis
Bunn, Radie
Clayton, John
Chappell, Vere
Chen, Christine
Cheng, Ching-mao
Cocalis, Susan
Cohen, Alvin
Coppersmith, Evan
Cardwell, Lucy
Costley, Richard
Cramer, Chester
Creed, Robert
Cromack, Duane
Culley, Margo
Cuomo, George
Davis, Hugh
Davis, Chester
Day, Robert
Dienes, Laszlo
Dittach, John
Duffy, Joseph
Dugay, Gerry
Ehrlich, Leonard
Edwards, Richard
Fabos, Julius
Fagundes, Francisco
Farris, Richard
Finnerty, Joseph
Fisher, Louis
Forman, George
Foster, John
Feldman, Fred
Fergason, Ann
Frank, Joseph
Gettier, Edmund
Gibbs, Margaret
Gibson, Walker
Gjertson, Donald
Goldsmitn, Paul
Gutzwiller, Kathryn
Hardegree, Gary
Hart, Robert A.
Hartz, Richard H.
Heidelberger, Herbert
Hepler, Peter
Hertzback, Stanley
Hill, F.S. Jr.
Hofer, E.H.
Horowitz, Joseph
Hsinteng, Shou
Hugenin, Richard
Humphries, Jane
Hurn, Christopher
Hutchinson, Thomas
Irvine, William
Ivey, A.
Jubian, Michael
Junkins, Donald
Katzner, Donald W.
Key, Charles
Killian, Lewis
Kilmer, William
King, Gordon
Klar, Lawrence
Kohler, Heinz
Kupperman, Gerrard
Lake, Joseph
Langland, Joseph
Langley, Kenneth
Lawall, Sarah
Lemeshow, Stanley
Lester, Julius
Levin, Maurice
Liander, Bertil
Locke, L.F.
Male, James
Manes, E.G.
Manning William
Matlack, James
Matthews, Anne
McFarland, Gerald
Melrose, Jay
Meyer, David
Miles, Raymond
Mitchell, John
Moore, Jean
Narahara, Tomiko
Naff, William
Nilsson, Nils
Oates, Stephen
O'Brien, Ken
O'Connell, James
Ortiz, Jesse
Partee, Barbara
Peng, Chin-Tang
Phillips, Norman
Phinney, Edward
Prince, Alan
Purcell, Joanne
Quirk, Jonathan
Quinton, Arthur
Rapping, Leonard
Rauch, Harold
Ramos, Diane
Reh, Albert
Reiner, Albey
Resnick, Stephen
Rice, Thomas
Richards, Femi
Robinson, Fred
Robinson, John
Rohde, Richard
Roter, Debra
Rothstein, Halina
Rothstein, Robert
Rupp, William
Salzmann, Zdenek
Schumacher, Warren
Schuman, David
Scott, Donald
Scott, Nina
Scoville, Nicholas
Sheckels, Dale
Shepp, Archie
Sides, Charles
Simpson, Richard
Siruis, Donald
Sleigh, Robert
Snedecor, Janes
Spivak, Charlotte
Stankovich, Marian
Stanwiecki, Edmund
Stamps, Paula
St. Mary, Donald
Stevens, Nelson
Srickland, Wiliam
Swaim, Kathleen
Swanson, Carl
Su, Jin-Chen
Tattar, Terry
Taylor, J.H.
Teng, Shou-Hsin
Tessler, Richard
Treyz, George
Tucker, Robert
Uden, Peter
Ulin, Priscilla
Ulin, Richard
Unaitis, Bill
Vogely, Martha
Wang, Jing
Weston, Hohn
Wideman, John
Wilce, Robert
Wolf, Jack
Wolff, Robert Paul
Wright, James
Zahari, Abraham

Departments which have released all evaluations:

Afro-American Studies
Asian Studies
Philosophy
Slavic Studies
Comparative Literature

"of those who have been contacted so far," 9 have submitted forms, 2 have not been reached.

If teachers and department-heads still refuse to cooperate, come to Rm. 426 Student Union or the Candy Counter in the Student Union to pick up our Course and Teacher Evaluation Forms. To be distributed in your classroom.

Student Government Association

Kibling plays sports to have a good time

By JIM GLEASON
Collegian Staff

With all the seriousness in the world, Sue Kibling plays sports to have a good time.

You can see it whenever she takes the field, or court, or track, or wherever she plays that Kibling is there for her own enjoyment. It is visible by her smile or her faint laugh which for some reason seems so out of place.

"I really believe that you should play sports to enjoy them," she says, "and that's why I play."

But she also says that she doesn't want to be taken as not being serious which is the way her track coach Ken O'Brien, sees her.

"Sue is a very serious performer, but she's relaxed in competition, he says. "As far as that goes, she's one of the most relaxed athletes on the team which is good because too many performers get tense and that hurts their performance."

Now she is preparing for track and field, a task which has been made easier by playing field hockey. Hockey is, in fact, a good sport for the pre-season training of track for it involves both running for endurance (two 35 minutes non-stop halves) and sprints.

Hopefully, Kibling will have the opportunity to participate in track. She last year suffered a stress fracture on her leg resulting from constant, unnatural pressure put on it. If, according to O'Brien, she takes training slow, her leg should cause no problem.

But she can expect to have minor problems with her legs for she has always had shin splints, an injury common to track athletes. Kibling has had this problem ever since running in high school.

When Kibling was injured last year, it was in the middle of the track season and she therefore couldn't give her leg the four-to-six weeks of needed rest. She performed with the injury.

"It was a terrible feeling because after a while I wasn't sure if the whole thing was in my head. After I was told of the fracture, I was relieved," Kibling said.

She is one of the more successful track competitors. For the past two years, she has qualified for the Easterns (last year with indoor track) and in her sophomore year was in the top five in the East for the pentathlon.

The pentathlon comprises five events: high jump, long jump, 100 meter hurdles, shotput, and the 880. Although never competing in two of these events before college, Kibling found she could compete with any others which, according to O'Brien, is a tribute to her all-around ability.

Kibling started playing field hockey and ran track originally at Lunenburg where she attended high school. She also played basketball there as part of a very successful team which only went to the district playoffs, but the sport couldn't sustain her interest as far as a college career was concerned.

When she entered college, she found no varsity track team but merely a club consisting of only about ten women. Although the club didn't have enough members to be competitive, Kibling thought it was a good experience.

In field hockey, Kibling has played for four years with the last three on varsity. She just returned from Colorado where UMass finished seventh in the nation. Besides playing a strong left wing, she also added the game winning goal over Bemidji, the Minutewomen's best played game of the year. She also scored the winning goal in the regional playoffs with a penalty shot against Maine.

Besides the two varsity sports, she is involved with intramurals, playing football, basketball, volleyball (her team's in the finals) and softball.

After graduation, Kibling, A PE major, wants to teach using the same philosophy she's maintained all along.

"I'd like to teach young kids and get them involved and I believe the only way to do that is to make it fun for them," she said.

Besides her casual attitude toward sport, Kibling is noted by her teammates for caring for everyone on the team, says Kelley Salls. "She empathizes with everyone on the team. She's a good influence."

One of the only differences Kibling can make between varsity sports and intramural sports is the commitment one has to make.

"One has to be in shape and be able to spend a lot of time for the varsity sports," she said.

But as far as playing the sport, Kibling takes it about the same. At least she expresses that way.

Shula snubs Marchibroda

MIAMI [UPI] — Miami coach Don Shula confirmed Tuesday he snubbed Baltimore coach Ted Marchibroda after the Dolphins' 17-6 win over the Colts Monday night because of a pair of disagreements between the two.

After the game, Marchibroda came trotting over to Shula to congratulate him. Shula dismissed him with a wave of his hand and turned awy.

"I knew it was him and I brushed him off," Shula said Tuesday.

The Shula-Marchibroda dispute goes back to the first Dolphin-Colt game when linebacker Stan White told Marchibroda Shula was laughing at the Colts while holding a 28-10 lead. It was later reported Marchibroda used that to motivate the Colts to their eventual 45-28 victory.

Although Shula said Tuesday he didn't want to make any big deal of the incident Monday night, he said, "I felt it was a cheap way to motivate the team, if that's what he was trying to do."

Grimsley inks Expos' pact

HONOLULU [UPI] — The Montreal Expos signed free agent Ross Grimsley Monday night for a multi-year contract in excess of $1 million.

The 27-year old left-hander, who broke in the major leagues with the Cincinnati Reds in 1971, was traded to the Baltimore Orioles in 1974 and has biggest season with them that year when he was 18-13 with a 3.07 earned run average. Last year Grimsley was 14-10 for the Orioles with a 3.96 era and played a major role in their third place finish in the American League East.

Grimsley, who was also sought by the New York Yankees, California Angels and Texas Rangers,agreed to terms with Expos President John McHale and Vice President Charlie Fox via a long distance telephone call from the Bahamas where he was vacationing. His agent, Jerry Kapstein, laid the preliminary groundwork for the signing.

Grimsley, whose father was also a major league pitcher, is only the second free agent signed by the Expos in the two years of the re-entry draft.

Gymmen to face Cowell

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

After suffering a setback at the hands of the West Point Cadets last Saturday, the UMass men's gymnastics team hopes to bounce back with a victory at the University of Lowell tonight at 7 p.m.

UMass coach Dick Swetman is fairly optimistic about the meet, since Lowell has never posed a threat to the Minutemen in the past. Tonight's meet, in all actuality, will be a warm-up for the UMass-Penn State contest this Saturday.

The UMass lineup will be virtually unchanged from the West Point encounter, except that John Forshay will not compete so that he may rest for the Penn State showdown. Bob Donahue and Bob Lamb will fill the all-around slots, while pinch-hitting in the other two all-around spots will be freshman Paul O'Neil and co-captain Steve Nunno.

In floor exercise — UMass' strongest event — freshman Dave Buegler will compete. The pommel horse event will see Dave Kulakoff and promising freshman Tim Barry in action for the Minutemen. The still rings specialists are set to be sophomore Walter Buchwald and freshman Dave Felleman.

In the long horse vaulting event, only Buegler will see action due to Forshay's absence. On the parallel bars, UMass will enter John Nelson and Kulakoff. The bars are one of the weakest events for the gymmen and thus will play an important part in the final outcome. Finally, John Nelson and Tom Thompson will specialize on the horizontal bars.

UNITED
TRANSMISSION
EXCHANGE INC.

all make car and truck
transmissions

Repaired-Rebuilt-Exchanged

236 Pleasant St.
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Picture yourself as an Air Force
Officer

If you think
You can qualify
Contact...
Maj Jerry Witte
December 7th
In the Placement Office
9 am to 5 pm

Air Force
A great way of life

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT MOUNT
SNOW,
VERMONT
January 8-13, 1978
- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Ski 80 Miles — 1800' Drop
- Five Nights Lodging
- Deluxe Condominiums
- Kitchen & Fireplace
- Only 2 per Bedroom
- Five Minutes to Mt.
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Surprise Extras

ONLY $99.50
Easy Drive — South Vt.
Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856
All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

COLLEGE SKI WEEK
CARNIVAL AT KILLINGTON,
VERMONT
January 15-20, 1978
- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights in Hotel
- 10 Great Meals
- Ski 50 Runs, 3000' Drop
- Nightly Entertainment
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Extras

ONLY $119.50
to $139.50
Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856
All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

HUNAN
GARDEN
RESTAURANT
(Formerly South China)
湖南園酒家
Mandarin Szechuen
Cuisine
* Open 7 days a week *
Mon.-Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Specials
LUNCHEON $1.25 & up
DINNER $3.75
main course: choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
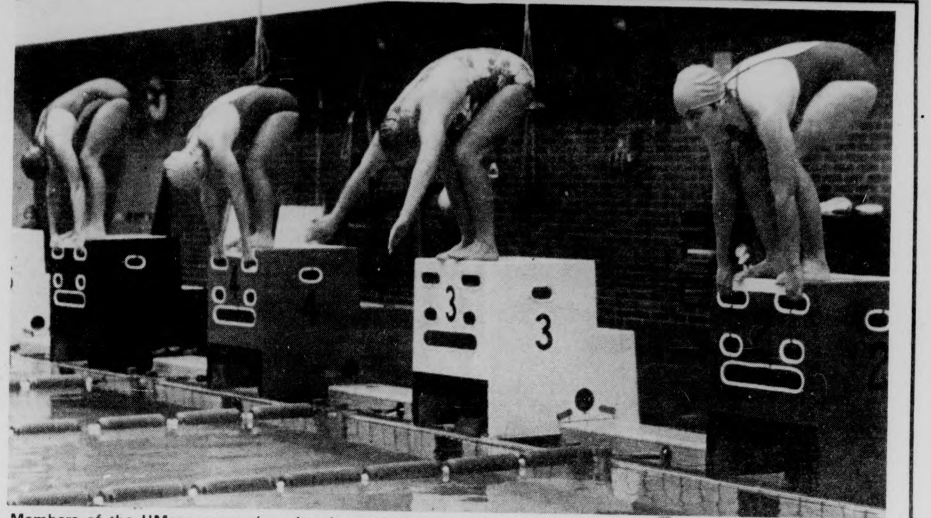
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib
eggroll, chicken wing, fried
rice & hot and sour shrimp
Sun.-Thurs. 11:30-10:00 pm
Fri.-Sat. 12:00-1:00
10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252
Banquet Facilities

Wintersession

Credit courses and Credit-Free Workshops offered by the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst begin January 3rd. For registration information and catalog, please call 545-3653 or stop by the Records and Registration Office, 113 Hasbrouck. Mastercharge, American Express, and VISA are accepted.

CE



Members of the UMass women's swimming and diving team will be facing their old coach, Eve Atkinson, when they travel to New Haven tonight for a 7 p.m. meet against Yale. It won't be an easy meet for the Minutewomen though. According to their new coach John Nunnelly, "Yale is going to be the toughest team in New England this year." UMass is 5-3. (Staff photo by Ellen Davis)

Blueliners journey to West Point

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

The UMass hockey team will be traveling to West Point, N.Y. tonight to face the Cadets of Army at Smith rink in a 7 p.m. game.

The icemen will be trying to put a halt to a five-game losing streak that began after an opening victory over New England College.

It won't be an easy task, as the Minutemen have been hit with untimely injuries to key players. Lincoln Flagg, who centered the second line with Nick Carney (left wing) and Bill Estes (right wing), has a cast on his knee (torn cartilege he received in the Norwich game) and maybe out for the season. John Peters, who played right wing on the first line, suffered a severe charlie horse in the Norwich game and will be out indefinitely.

The injuries have caused coach Jack Canniff to readjust his lines. The first line now consists of Bill White on left wing, Don Murphy at center, and Bob White on right wing. The second line now consists of Nick Carney on left wing, Joe Milan at center,and Mike Ferragamo on right wing.

The rest of the attackers will be grouped together in the near future, according to Canniff.

"Right now, I'm only sure of the first two lines. The rest are still in a machine waiting to be put together. I can tell you that Bill Estes will be centering or playing right wing on the third line. It's hit or miss from there," he said.

"The return of T.J. O'Brien could give us a lift," added Canniff. "He was hurt in the UConn game (a 3-1 UMass loss) and unable to make the last road trip (dual losses to Norwich, 3-2, and Middlebury, 6-3)."

The Minutemen's opponent tonight, Army, will be no pushover. The Cadets had four men in the top ten scorers of Division II last year. Dave Rost, who was the top scorer in Division II last year and the ECAC Player of the Year with a phenomenal 41 goals and 63 assists for 104 points, has departed via graduation. However, the number two scorer in Division II last year was Dave's younger brother Tom Rost (33-42-75), who is returning along with number five scorer — John Harrison (25-42-67) and the number eight scorer — Dan Murrett (21-27-58). In addition to the three power packed forwards, the Cadets also have 12 returning lettermen (15 total) to frighten opposing goaltenders.

The Cadets are coached by John Riley, who guided the pucksters to an impressive 21-6-1 record and third place finish last year in the Western Division of ECAC Division II.

The only weakness that Canniff sees with Army is the goaltending position, where "They've been suspect for the last three years."

FACE OFF FLATTERINGS — UMass finished tenth last year in the same Western Division as Army with an 8-11-1 mark. There were 17 teams in the Western Division last year and only 14 in the Eastern Division, so the ECAC realigned the divisions by putting 16 in both. How ? They took American International from the Western Division and put it in the Eastern Division and they added the newly formed University of Maine hockey program to the Eastern Division as well and voila! — 16 in both divisions ... Canniff praises goalie John Riley as a bright spot this year: "He's stopped an incredible amount of breakaway chances."

Pats have shot at title

NEW YORK [UPI] — The New England Patriots, seemingly out of the playoffs a few weeks ago, were thrust back into the AFC East race when Miami beat Baltimore 17-6 Monday night, further confusing the already complicated NFL playoff situation.

If the Patriots beat Miami at New England Sunday, then win at Baltimore the following week, the Patriots, Dolphins and Colts all will have 10-4 records. But in the NFL's tie-breaking formula, New England would win the division title and enter the playoffs because of a better record in games among the three teams.

Victories in their final two games would give the Patriots a split with Miami and a 2-0 record against Baltimore for a 3-1 record in head-to-head competition. The Dolphins would be 2-2 and the Colts 1-3.

If Miami and Baltimore both win their last two games and finish 9-3, Miami wins the title because of a better intradivisional record, 7-1 compared to the Colts' 6-2. Miami and Baltimore split their two games this season.

After traveling to New England Sunday, Miami hosts Buffalo in its season finale. The Colts play their last two games at home, against Detroit and New England.

Heading into the final two weeks of the season, 11 of the NFL's 28 teams are still contenders for the five remaining playoff spots. Denver, Dallas, and Los Angeles have already clinched playoff spots.

Pittsburgh, 8-4, can clinch the AFC Central title by beating Cincinnati, 7-5, Saturday.

Oakland, 9-3, can qualify as the AFC wild card entry by winning its last two games or winding up in a 10-4 tie with Baltimore, Miami or New England. The Raiders have the best intraconference record among those teams.

Minnesota, 8-4, can clinch the NFC Central by winning one of its last two games. The Vikings win the title in the event of a 9-5 tie with Chicago, now 8-4, because they defeated the Bears by six points and lost to them by only three.

The NFC wild card spot most likely will go to either St. Louis, Washington or Chicago, all with 7-5 records, although Atlanta, 6-6, retains a slim chance.

Washington, which beat the Cardinals 24-14 earlier this year, is at St. Louis Saturday. The Bears close the season against Green Bay at Chicago and the New York Giants at East Rutherford, N.J. The Cards close at Tampa Bay while Washington ends its season at home against Los Angeles.

So what else is new; Celts drop another

NEW YORK [UPI] — Butch Beard hit a turnaround jump shot with 1:49 left in overtime to give the Knicks the lead, and Jim McMillian's two free throws clinched a 122-119 victory for New York over the Boston Celtics last night to snap a three-game losing streak.

After Beard's basket, Earl Monroe connected on a three-pointer to boost the Knicks' lead to four before Charlie Scott cut the deficit in half with a pair of free throws with one minute left. After Monroe missed a ten-footer, Beard fouled JoJo White with 10 seconds left but the Celtics' veteran guard could convert only one of three free throws.

The Celtics had a chance to win four seconds left but White, who finished with 29 points, missed a running one-hander before McMillian was subsequently fouled.

Bob McAdoo scored a season-high 40 points — 25 in the second half — and Monroe added 21.

Beard's layup off an inbounds play tied the score at 109 — all with 49 seconds left in regulation and Scott missed a 20-footer at the buzzer to send the game into overtime.

Boston (119) — Boswell 3 1-2 7, Wicks 1 4-4 6, Cowens 4-6-6 14, Bing 1-2-2 4, Havlicek 8 8-10 24, Rowe 5 2-2 12, Scott 8 5-9 21, White 9 9-12 27, Maxwell 0 2-2 2, Saunders 1 0-0 2. Totals 40 39-49 119.

New York (122) — Haywood 5 0-0 10, Shelton 2 1-2 5, McAdoo 18 4-6 40, Cleamons 1 0-0 2, Monroe 8 5-5 21, Beard 8 4-4 20, Jackson 2 1-2 5, Knight 0 1-2 1, Williams 3 0-0 6, McMillian 2 2-3 6, Gondrezick 3 0-0 6. Totals 52 18-24 122.

Boston 31 27 30 21 10 — 119
New York 36 30 33 16 13 — 122

Fouled out — Wicks. Total fouls — Boston 24, New York 30. Technicals — Monroe. A — 17,416.

Do you want to fly?

Face it ... you've always wanted to fly! Most of us remember that feeling ... and for a lot of us it has never gone away.

You're in luck. Air Force ROTC can set you winging. Our Flight Instruction Program (FIP) is designed to teach you the basics of flight and includes flying lessons in light aircraft at a civilian-operated flying school.

The program is an EXTRA given to cadets who can become Air Force pilots through Air Force ROTC. Taken during the senior year in college, it is the first step up for the cadet who is going on to Air Force jet pilot training after graduation.

Air Force ROTC also has a scholarship program to pay for books, fees, and full tuition, along with $100 a month. This is all reserved for the cadet who wants to get his life off the ground ... with Air Force flying.

Call 5-2437
Air Force ROTC

$25 Deposits taken
11-3, Mon-Fri in
Ski Club Office
S.U. 309
and
Dec. 5, 7, 9, 12, 14
on Campus Center
Concourse
Sugarbush
Ski Week
Jan. 22-27
$109-
meals, lodging,
lift ticket, partying!

The rusty nail Inn
presents
Tonite,
Wed., Dec. 7
SOUTHSIDE JOHNNY
and the ASBURY JUKES

Thurs., Dec. 8
JOHNNY and the
LUNCHEONETTES

Fri. & Sat.,
Dec. 9 & 10
NRBQ

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton
NOW — Only Area Showing!
7:00 & 9:15 — ends Tues.

NUREYEV is VALENTINO
A KEN RUSSELL Film
at the Gates of Smith College

Collegian Sports

Pucksters at Army, p. 23

Sue Kibling feature, p. 22

Terriors tumble as cagers roll

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — The UMass Minutemen basketball trio of Mike Pyatt, Derick Claiborne and Alex Eldridge combined to outscore the Terriers of Boston University by a 16 to four margin over the last four and a half minutes of the game and came away from the Case Center on the BU campus with a 73-61 win last night.

The win raised the Minutemen's record to 3-0, and was the 200th career victory (12 yrs.) for coach Jack Leaman, a BU alumnus.

"This couldn't be a better place for it to come," said Leaman. "It's where I got started."

Leaman played varsity basketball at BU and captained the team his senior year as the Terriers went to the finals of the NCAA East Regional. He also coached the freshmen team there one year.

Last night, after BU had run 10 straight points — four each by forward Curtis Vanlandingham and guard Phil Andrews, sandwiched around a Steve Wright bucket, to tie the score at 57 with 4:36 to play — Pyatt sank both ends of a one and one to move UMass ahead by two.

Andrews connected on one of two foul shots with 4:08 remaining to pull the Terriers within one point, but the home team could only tally a Glenn Consor jumper and another Andrews free throw over the final four minutes to fall to 1-2 on the season.

BU was hurt when junior Vanlandingham fouled out of the game with three minutes remaining, after he sat out nearly half of the second stanza with four fouls. He was Boston's threat to score and rebound inside, and Pyatt took advantage of his absence.

UMass' Mark Haymore was also saddled with second half foul trouble, after leading the Minutemen in both scoring (8) and rebounding (4) in the first half.

Haymore picked up his fourth personal at 18:39 of the second half and did not return until about five minutes remained in the game.

UMass had taken a 31-28 lead into the lockerroom at halftime after a 25-foot Brad Johnson jumper at the buzzer. The first half, which saw the teams alternate eight point runs early, then settled down to swapping baskets and was physical and somewhat sloppy.

The Minutemen applied full court pressure defense on and off, and several reserves: including Johnson, Williams, Tom Witkos and Will Morrison, saw action.

The second period began much the same way, with UMass holding its three point lead only until Haymore's demise, when BU's Wally West put the Terriers ahead, 33-32, at 17:53, with a layup.

UMass then outscored BU 21-9 to take its biggest lead of the game, 11 points (53-42), at 9:50 of the second period. Johnson, playing a wing on the one-three-one offense, scored eight of the 21 points, and Pyatt added six.

"Brad (Johnson) provided the spark tonight," said Leaman. "He's a shooter."

The teams then swapped a pair of hoops before BU went on its tear of 10 straight.

Pyatt provided the spark down the stretch, as he converted two one and one's and fired in two short jumpers in the last few minutes to end as the Minutemen's leading scorer with 21 points.

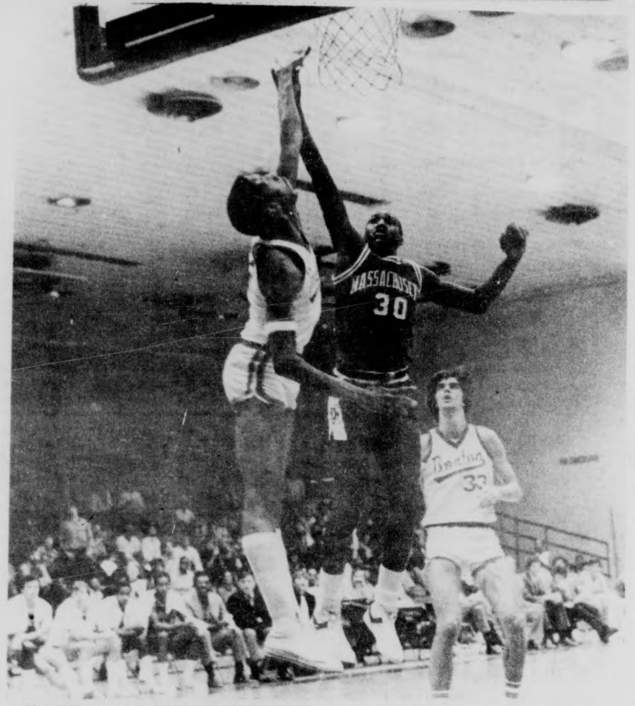
As UMass iced the game in that same stretch, Claiborne sank two free throws and converted a hoop on the end of a blind pass from Eldridge out of the four corner stall for an uncontested layup. He ended with 13 points.

Eldridge also converted a crucial one and one and added a breakaway layup at the buzzer to finish with 10 points and nine assists.

"I think the last 20 minutes of the game were as good as both teams could play," said Leaman. "We're lucky we got out of here alive."

Leaman praised his bench, saying, "they'll get the job done out there.

TURN TO PAGE 20



Mike Pyatt drives over BU's Wally West for two of his 21 points in last night's game. (Staff photo by Bob Higgins)

Mermen win opener; Yarworth sets record

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

The UMass men's swim team won eight out of a possible 13 events last night at Boyden Pool en route to an impressive 69-43 win over WPI its first meet of the season.

Led by the record shattering performance of senior Russ Yarworth in the 200 yard butterfly, the Minutemen led all the way and didn't even have to use their best swimmers in their best events.

"I just got a report of their times this morning and I knew that we wouldn't have to swim our best," explained UMass coach Bei Melamed.

It didn't appear that way, though, as several of the Minutemen turned in their best times ever. Chief among those was Yarworth's effort in the 200 fly where he shaved an awesome 5.2 seconds off the old record. He led all the way and never looked back on his way to an excellent time of 2:02.8.

"I was getting psyched for this for a week," said Yarworth, a double winner on the night. "It's a good place to start the season."

Another fine winning effort was logged by sophomore Harry Fulford, who paced the pack in the 200 yard breaststroke to the tune of a 2:24.1 time which was his best ever.

"It was really a big surprise for me," related Fulford after the meet.

Returning from a year's absence, Tom Nowak reestablished himself as a solid performer by winning the 200 yeard individual medley with a time of 2:11.5. Nowak also finished second to Fulford in the breaststroke event.

Another pleasant surprise for Melamed was the performance of freshman diver Dan Anthony, who captured first in the optional diving event. Teammate Jim Antonino, a senior, duplicated Anthony's effort by taking top spot in the required diving event.

"Anthony's performance along with that of Pete Ziomek in the 100 yard freestyle were pleasant surprises for me," said Melamed.

Other winners for UMass included Jim Leland with a 2:08.5 time in the 200 yard backstroke and the 400 yard medley relay team of Leland, Nowak, Bill Tyler, and George Colias.

Tyler, a freshman sensation fresh out of Amherst Regional High School, also turned in a fine performance in the 50 yeard freestyle where he was nudged out by WPI's Weizbicki for the top spot while churning away at a 23.1 pace.

The bright spot in the meet for the Engineers was Suzanne Call, who won both the 500 and 1000 yard freestyle events. WPI has no program for women swimmers and thereby sports several women on its predominantly male roster. Call easily won both her events with Minuteman Dave Hoffman finishing second each time.

"She's from the Panama Canal Zone and has been a real big surprise for us," said Engineer coach Steve Diquette. "I'm just impressed with UMass though; their medley relay team is just super."

The UMass win saw WPI's record drop to 2-1 while UMass begins its season with a clean 1-0 slate.

The Minutemen will now prepare for Saturday when they, along with the UMass women's team, travels to Boston to swim against the Terriers of Boston University.

Judy Van Handle

Give me New England

I suppose it all started when the first snowfall came.

For weeks all I had been thinking about was football, football, football.

Could UMass win the Yankee Conference? Could the Minutemen beat Lehigh and earn a trip to California?

Football was tantamount in my mind.

But then ...

Sports Illustrated and the Sporting News published their college basketball editions ...

Ronnie Perry appeared on the cover of Sports Plus ...

And, finally, when UMass took the court against Harvard in the antiquated Indoor Athletic Building in Cambridge last week ...

It all came back to me.

College basketball was back. Or, more specifically, New England college basketball was back.

The heck with the Pac Eight. Who cares about the ACC. Forget about the South.

New England college basketball is IT, at least for me, this year.

For years New Englanders had been on the outside looking in when it came to good collegiate hoop. Oh sure, Holy Cross and Providence built reputations as top basketball schools, but for a long time that's all anyone outside this area knew of New England basketball.

But in the past few years, other schools have begun to make their presence felt in New England basketball circles.

Closest to home, of course, is dear old UMass. The move to the Eastern Athletic Association has spruced up this school's basketball program tremendously. And now, with a big come-from-behind win over George Washington in their EAA opener, the Minutemen are primed, for what promises to be an exciting season.

People like Alex Eldridge, Derick Claiborne, Mike Pyatt, Mark Haymore are already showing flashes of brilliance, and with the UConn Classic, the Colonial Classic, two games with Rutgers, and a potential four (yes, that's right) contests with UConn in the offing, the Minutemen should be ready to provide some memorable moments.

And what of the rest of New England? Well, take a jaunt down Route Nine to Worcester and take in recently rejuvenated power Holy Cross.

Mr. Perry has been discussed ad infinitum, but the rest of the Crusaders exude brilliance.

The most underrated basketball forward in New England, Chris Potter, teams with Mike Vicens to give Holy Cross an imposing frontcourt. Leo Kane is also back to team with Perry at guard.

The Crusaders were ranked ninth by Sports Illustrated in a preseason poll, and are rated in the top 20 in the first UPI basketball poll.

And Providence, of course, has pulled off another upset already by beating Louisville and its Doctors of Dunk last week.

The Friars have performers like Bob Misevicius, Bruce Campbell, Bill Eason, and Dwight Williams around. PC will, I assure you, be tough.

Another Ocean State school, the University of Rhode Island, is also capable of giving opponents fits. Reasons? Try Sly Williams, Irv Chatman, Jiggy Williamson, and Stan Wright. Throw in a year of experience for Williams and Chatman, and you have the ingredients which could easily make the Rams a sleeper in New England.

And, of course, old friend and foe UConn. Tony Hanson is gone, but Joe Whelton, the giant-like guard, is back, as well as Jim Abromaitis, Jeff Carr, and Al Lewis.

Although those are the 'Elite Five' of New England, Boston College and Vermont also could suprise.

So let everyone rail about how good college basketball is in other parts of the country.

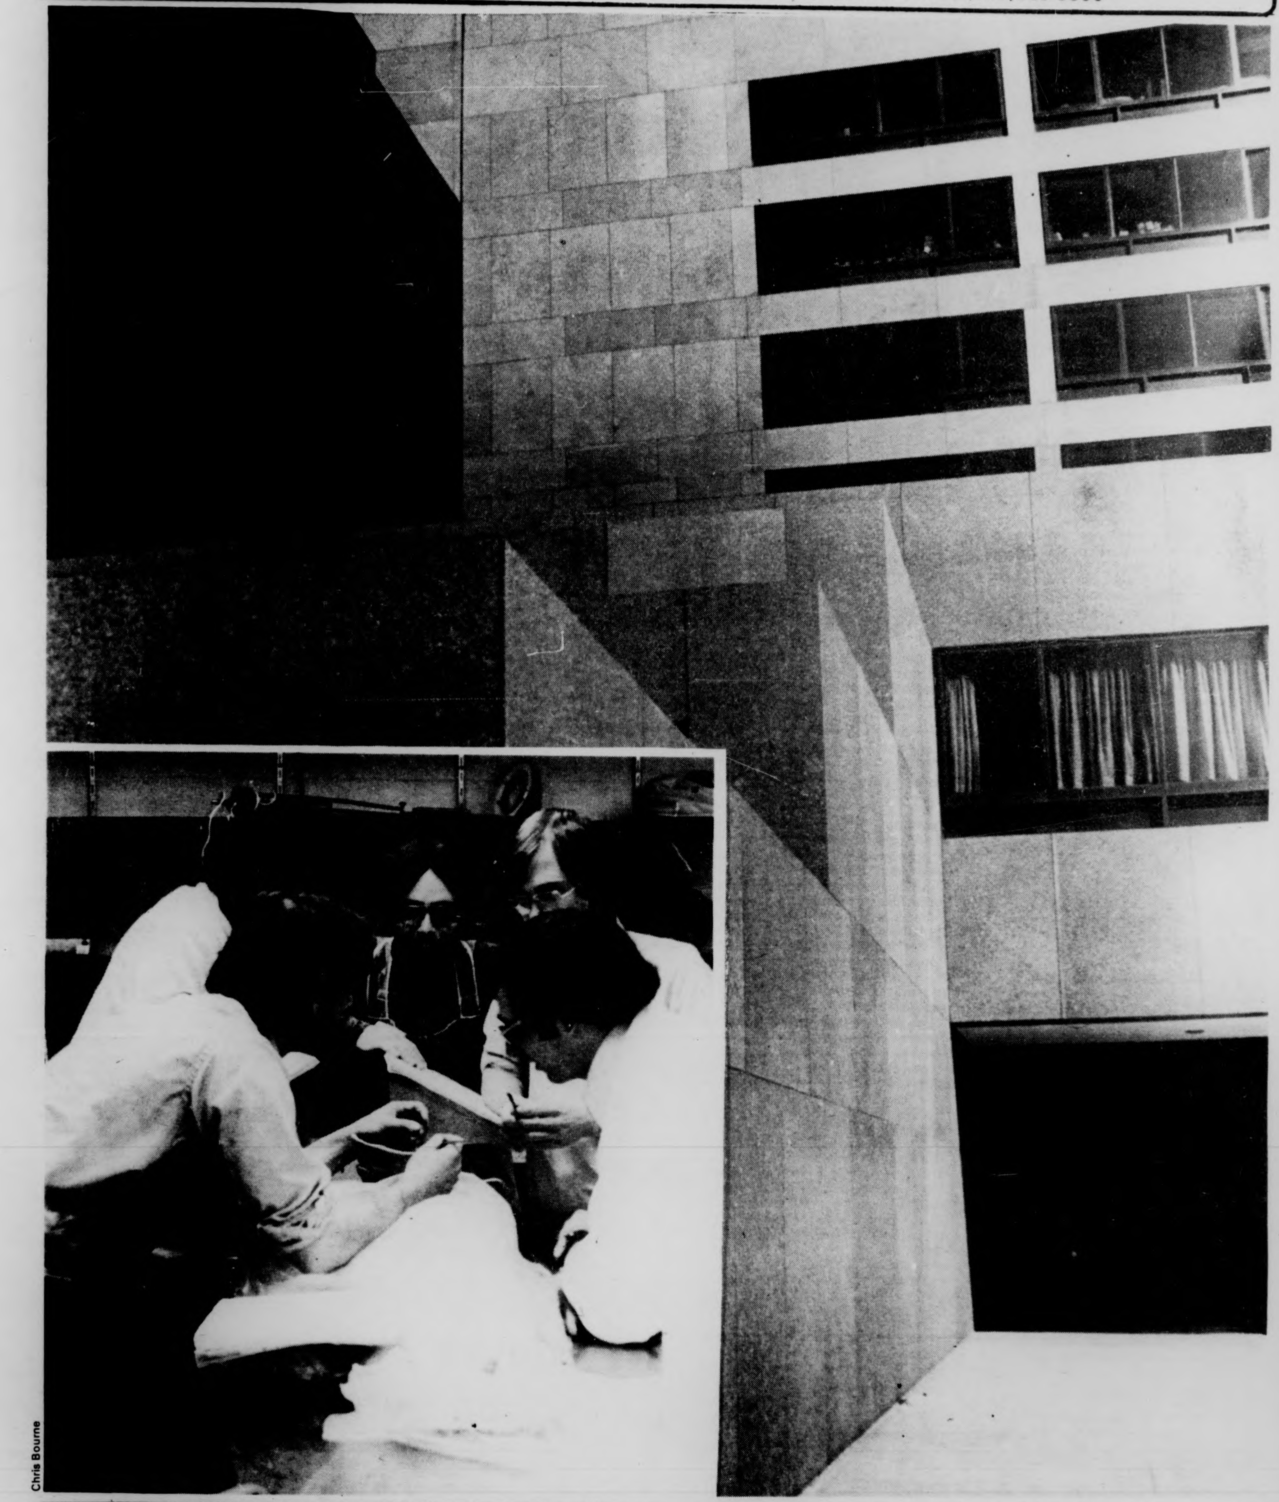
New England will do me just fine.

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 67 THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500



Chris Bourne

Inside today's Collegian

UMass/Worcester med students may pay back state. See page 3.

weather

A blast of cold north air has us in its snare.
Bright shiny sun during the day; but on the way, more snow for romp and play.

Finding the perfect gift...

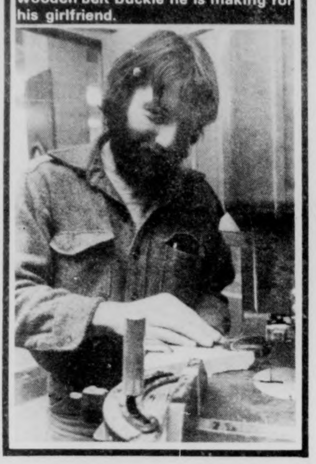
George Milkowski sands the wooden belt buckle he is making for his girlfriend.

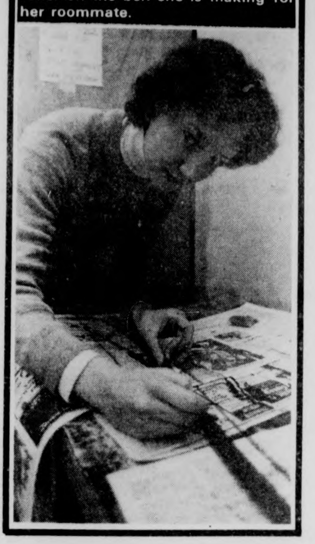


Chris Bourne

Marlane Wrenn (L) shows Rochelle Wolfe how to knead the clay for a pottery ashtray.

Chris Bourne

Donna Torra puts a coating of toner on the belt she is making for her roommate.



Crhis Bourne

By CHRIS BOURNE
Collegian Staff

Every year at this time thousands of harried shoppers pour into the stores and fight time and each other to find the "perfect" gift for mom, dad, son, daughter, etc., etc. People complain about how commercialized Christmas has become as they wheel their shopping carts to the checkout counter.

This time of year the UMass Craft Shop in the Student Union fills up with budding artisans who want to make their gifts mean more and cost less. They also have fun and learn a useful skill at the same time.

Linda Scorziello, a freshman business major who was making a pair of sheepskin slippers for each of her parents, said she had "just learned how to do it yesterday." "I love sewing and the first thing I looked for when I got up here was the craft shop."

Scorziello also said she feels her gift means more because she made it herself.

Rochelle Wolfe, a freshman CASIAC student, was making a pottery ashtray. "I'm doing this for the first time. The ashtray is for my mother. I'm also making a belt for my sister or my boyfriend, whoever it fits." Wolfe also said she was making her gifts mainly because § he was broke.

Marlane Wrenn, a counseling graduate student, who was helping Wolfe out, said she feels pottery "is a really centering activity. I like to share a part of myself." Wrenn was making Christmas decorations as well as gifts.

Carl Lukens, a senior in environmental science, was making a leather cigarette holder, but declined to say who it was for. "It's the first time I've worked with leather and I've had a lot of fun making it. Lukens said it will "mean more to me and the person I'm giving it to. It's an expression of myself."

Donna Torra, a freshman engineering major, was making a belt for her roommate. "I was walking by the craft shop and walked to look around I saw the sign that tells how to make a belt and decided to try it. This is the fourth one I've made. My roommate said she needed a belt because she had to borrow one from someone down the hall."

Leather work and pottery aren't the only crafts that can be done in the Student Union Craft Shop. George Milkowski, a senior geology major, was making a wooden belt buckle for his girlfriend. "I've done woodworking before and I like doing it. It's important to do other things here besides go to school; also I'm broke."

Silver work is another popular craft. Richard Alan, a freshman engineering major, was making a ring for his sister. "I first learned how to do it about five years ago in camp, but I haven't done any of it since then." Alan said he found out about the craft shop about four weeks ago. "I was walking by and decided to go in and take a look. I love working with jewelry. I'm going to be in here a lot."

Administrators, faculty square off on issues

By MEGAN O'REILLY and
CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

[Editor's note: this is part one of a two-part series dealing with administration-faculty relations. Part two appears tomorrow.]

At the center of the conflict is Provost Paul L. Puryear.

A faculty union has been formed in the past year, and a provost has come under fire. The faculty claims it is harassed, while the administration says it's just trying to do its job.

The dispute revolves around four major areas. This series is an attempt to shed some light on the on-going conflict between the two groups.

One point of conflict is the provost, Paul L. Puryear. Puryear's administrative style differs from the unassuming style of Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery. The faculty has expressed dissatisfaction with Puryear's performance as provost and last spring expressed "no confidence" in Puryear after he proposed a five year long-range plan for reallocating University resources.

Secretary of the Faculty Senate Terrence Burke last week reaffirmed faculty sentiment, citing the provost's personality as a "problem which must be acknowledged as a part of life on campus." Burke advised the senate to remember that "structures outlast people."

Rumors are flying that Puryear will resign. Puryear has refused to comment on the reports. But he does not deny them either.

Puryear has repeatedly said the faculty's criticism of his two reorganization proposals has been directed at him personally and has nothing to do with the substance of his proposals.

The W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies has supported Puryear and yesterday issued a statement accusing the faculty senate of waging a personal campaign against the provost. Secretary Burke denies that charge. Both the faculty union and senate have said the problem is due to their lack of influence on administrative decisions.

Puryear last March released a preliminary five year plan designed to reallocate faculty positions from departments he judged to be in low student demand to programs with high enrollment.

Puryear's plan met with heavy criticism, particularly from the College of Arts and Sciences, where 44 teaching positions would be eliminated. Also, under the plan, the Asian studies and Slavic Languages of that college would be phased out by 1982.

Puryear's plan awaits action by the University Board of Trustees. However, some aspects of the plan have been toned down since it met with faculty criticism.

A second reason for the "feud" between faculty and administration can be traced to the emergence of a faculty union.

After an inconclusive vote last December in which no winner surfaced, the union was voted in last February. In February, the faculty chose the Massachusetts Society of Professors over the American Association of University Professors. The MSP is the Amherst unit of the faculty union, and the Faculty Staff Union represents members at the UMass-Boston campus. Both are affiliated with the Massachusetts Teachers Association.

With the coming of the union, there was confusion as to what would happen to the faculty senate. Previously, the senate had been the voice of the faculty. Now, with the union, can it maintain that position of prominence? Would the union, in performing its function of bargaining for salaries, working conditions, etc., take over the power of the senate at UMass?

It's unlikely.

Union President Larry S. Roberts said the union would like to see the senate strengthened. The MSP's contract proposal contains provisions to strengthen the senate.

But, he said, the union and the senate can be used as a divisive weapon by the administration, leading to an undesirable competitive situation between them.

"It's our position that academic matters should be dealt with by the senate," Roberts said. "I have no doubt we can go forward in a non-competitive atmosphere." But, Roberts said, it is "not possible with any degree of certainty to say what the role of the faculty senate will be in the future."

"A lot of the future of the senate," Roberts said, "depends on the administration."

Bromery apparently agrees, having said any discussion concerning faculty and administration relations would be speculative until a contract is signed. He has since restricted administration staff, including the Provost, from publicly addressing issues surrounding the contract.

The series on administration and faculty relations continues tomorrow.

About this issue

This is one of a series of five experimental issues of the Collegian. Today, and for the remainder of the publishing year, Collegian staffers will experiment with different forms of page layout.

Today's Staff

Issue Editor Mary Brown

| | |
|---|---|
| Assistance | Dottie Clark, Kathy Koffler |
| Wire Layout | Julia Linnell |
| Editorial Layout | Eileen Foley |
| Sports Layout | Dave Rodman |
| Copy Desk | Mike Simon |
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Head Darkroom Tech | John Anderson |
| Photo Staff | Steve Lesser, Bob Higgins, Pat Dobbs |
| Ad Layout | Carol Hubbardsty |

Subscription Rates

| | Semester | Year |
|---|---|---|
| Off-campus delivery | $9 | $15 |
| On-campus delivery | $5 | $ 9 |

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

'Jaws 2' ends filming

NAVARRE BEACH, Fla. [UPI] — After five months, the giant mechanical sharks, the floating island, the facade of a New England village and the 344-member Universal Studios crew are leaving this Gulf of Mexico resort.

And next June, "Jaws 2," a $13 million sequel to the biggest money-maker in motion picture history, will be shown to the public.

"This is the most difficult film ever made," says co-producer David Brown. "And it's one of the most dangerous. We are doing things which require tremendous technical and athletic skill on the part of our cast and crew."

"Jaws 2" wasn't an incident-free production.

Universal lost $1.5 million after three weeks of filming at Martha's Vineyard in New England when director John Hancock resigned following artistic disputes with the producers. As a result, most of the Martha's Vineyard footage was canned and new director Jeannot Szwarc decided to start from scratch in north Florida, chosen because of its warmer climate and white sand beaches.

Correction

Due to a typographical error, the Collegian elections story on page three of yesterday's issue incorrectly quoted the newly elected fine arts editor as saying he was not going to draw out signs of student life. What Kenneth S. Shain, who will be in charge of the paper's weekly supplement, Below the Salt, actually said was, "We're going to draw out signs of student life."

---

area news

Med students may pay UM back

By GAYLE YOUNG
and LAURA KENNEY
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — The University has a new first — it will have the first state medical school in the country to require its students to repay the Commonwealth for their education.

The UMass Board of Trustees yesterday approved a proposal to be brought to the State Senate. This plan will require students entering in fall 1978 and onward to either repay the state $8,000 for their four-year education within ten years or to work for the state for not more than one year in a medically-deprived area of Massachusetts. The Senate last month requested such a plan be implemented.

The trustees, who met at the Boston Campus, voted to sell the University's South African stock and to purchase stock in American corporations. They passed a vote for a construction agreement for the Tri River Valley Health Center, naming a new gymnasium at the Boston campus after the late Trustee Catherine F. Clark, and to sell University-owned land in Ohio.

Approximately $40,000 will be lost by the University as a result of the board's decision to divest its South African stock, by selling it at an inopportune time. Trustees were forced to sell the stock by concerned students who protested South Africa's Apartheid government. Some American companies' stock to be bought are Proctor & Gamble, Sears & Roebuck, Pennzoil, and McDonald's.

The Tri-River Valley Health Center in Uxbridge voted for by the trustees, will be affiliated with the Worcester Medical School and will provide training for many medical students. UMass-Worcester Chancellor Roger C. Bulger said, "The Blackstone area, where Uxbridge is located, is the one area that has been designated by the government to be medically undeserved. The people of the area have requested of the University ... to have a program here. This is really quite unusual ... this will be a superior thing by which medical students will be taught," he said.

The trustees unanimously voted to name the new physical education building at UMass-Boston the Catherine Forbes Clark Physical Education Center in recognition of Mrs. Clark's substantial contributions. Clark died Nov. 14.

The sale of land in Columbus, Ohio donated to UMass by Murray D. Lincoln was approved by the board. "We have been unable to sell (this land). We think we may have conned a hospital into buying it," said Buildings and Grounds Committee Chairman Robert J. Spiller.

The Ad Hoc Committee to find an interim chancellor for the Boston campus reported that it has been discussing criteria for the position. Present Boston Chancellor Carlo L. Golino was forced by the board to resign last month, effective January 1978. Committee Chairman Haskell Kassler said, "We determined it important to select a person associated with the Boston campus. We decided that the acting chancellor will not be a candidate for the permanent position. The deadline for submitting names for the interim chancellorship is Dec. 23.

> 'We determined it important to select a person associated with the Boston campus.' —Trustee Haskell Kassler

local news digest

Wood receives standing ovation

Brad Goverman

Robert C. Wood

University president Robert C. Wood received a lengthy standing ovation from the board of trustees yesterday at his last board meeting.

Board Chairman Joseph E. Healy called for the trustees and all those present to "stand in appreciation for the years of service" Wood has given.

Wood, who has been president for seven years, resigned last June and will leave the University at the end of the month. A UMass Boston professor, Franklin K. Patterson, was named by the board as interim president.

The search for a permanent successor to Wood is "going well" according to the Presidential Search Committee chairman Stephan Breyer. Breyer said the committee has narrowed the list of those considered from more than 150 to approximately 30 names, and that the committee will present three to five finalists in April.

The trustees also decided that interim president Patterson will receive $48,000 at an annual rate for his term in office.

—Gayle Young

UMass employees file complaint

An official of a union seeking to represent various UMass employees filed an unfair labor practices charge yesterday against the UMass administration.

Ralph Flynn, an organizer for the Massachusetts Teachers Association, said the complaint with the Massachusetts Labor Relations Committee was filed because of a memo the UMass Labor Relations Coordinating Office sent to clerical, technical, and administrative employees. The union had planned to file the complaint Friday but did so yesterday because of the "blatantness" of the memo.

The employees will vote in an election today on whether they want to be represented by the University Staff Association, the Massachusetts State Employees Union, or not be represented by any union.

The staff association is affiliated with the MTA and the state employees association is affiliated with the National Government Employees Association.

Flynn said the memo violated state Statute 150E, a state law relating to union activities, because it attempts to influence employees to vote for no representation.

Such a vote would be beneficial to the administration, because wages paid to non-union employees are generally lower than those paid to union employees.

However, UMass Coordinator of Labor Relations, Scott Overing, said the memo, dated Dec. 6, was the "University's attempt to provide full information" to the employees before the election. He declined further comment.

Flynn said the memo attempts to convince the employees that they will receive a contract similar to a contract in effect between the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the state if they vote for union representation.

Pie thrower faces disciplinary action

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis

Disciplinary action will be taken against Joseph Gould, 19, of 421 Patterson, who attempted to "pie" Gov. Michael S. Dukakis in the Campus Center last week.

A complaint against Gould, a business major, was drawn up by Dean of Students William F. Field and Student Attorney General Jeffrey Lutsky, will bring Gould before the student judiciary at a later date. Field has not yet signed the complaint.

Lutsky said Gould violated a student code of conduct which states that physical assaults of harassment of anyone is subject to disciplinary action.

Gould's aborted attempt to splatter Dukakis with a Boston Cream Pie came at a two-day seminar on Northeast economy held here last weekend.

"Although he didn't injure Dukakis, he did harass him and interfered with a private conference," Lutsky said.

"This is not a situation that we want to overreact to," Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert Woodbury said. "But we can't exactly approve of it either."

Field said he has sent a letter to Gould requesting a meeting, but has not yet received a reply. Field said he has had no personal contact with Gould.

Gould, one of the organizers of the aborted "smoke-in" on Amherst common, last month, was unavailable for comment.

— SUSAN O'NEIL

Fees unpaid, employees fired

Termination notices were sent to 146 UMass employees yesterday.

The action was taken by the University following failure of the 146 employees to pay "agency servancy fees."

Agency servancy fees are fees paid by employees represented by a labor union, but are not members of the union.

The 146 employees in question here are represented by Local 1776, American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, but are not union members.

However, the employees have two weeks to pay the fees, retroactive to last July, before they are terminated.

The employees federation had previously informed the University that the 146 employees had not paid the agency servancy fee, and demanded the University require the employees to pay the fees or discharge them.

The employees federation and UMass are parties to a collective bargaining unit covering some 1,100 classified, non-technical employees at the University. Their job classifications include dining commons workers, custodial employees, maintenance workers, etc.

Under the terms of the agreement with the alliance, all employees must join the union and pay its dues — or pay the union agency servancy fee. If the non-member employees do not pay their fees, the University must discharge them.

Yesterday's issuance of termination notices is in compliance with that agreement.

A university spokesman said the university regrets having to take the action.

— CHRIS SCHMITT

Consumers sign; form phone group

A petition circulated by MassPIRG to form a Telephone Consumer action Group (TELCAG) has received the necessary 61,000 signatures needed to bring it before the Massachusetts state legislature.

The group will try to establish the right of the consumers to use New England Telephone's billing system to collect funds and disseminate consumer information. The funds would then be used to hire lawyers and researchers to support consumer interests before the courts, legislature and regulating agencies.

"The campaign in Western Massachusetts was spearheaded by UMass students," said Karen Meenan, coordinator of the effort. "They collected a majority of the signatures."

Violinist Eugene Fodor

Fodor appears at FAC tonight

The label is well deserved.

In 1973 he became the first American in 21 years to win top prize in the International Paginini competition in Genoa, Italy. The same year he gave sparkling recitals in London, Vienna, Budapest, in Central America and in Poland. He was 20.

He is the only American to win the International Tchaikowsky competition.

Today at age 24 violin virtuoso Eugene Fodor is far from finished.

People magazine described Fodor in a recent article: "In the West they call him the Mick Jagger of classical music. In Moscow he is known as the best young American musician since Van Cliburn ... "

In the 1974 Tchaikowsky competition, the 19 judges withheld first prize and gave three second prizes — to Fodor and two Soviet violinists.

Fodor, a guest in the "Today Show" and "The Mike Douglas Show", will appear at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall tonight at 8 p.m. Ticket prices are $7, $6, $5 for the general public; UMass students $3.50, $3, $2.50; Other students and senior citizens, $6, $5, $4. For more information call 545-2511.

Reaccreditation group shapes study

The Self Study Coordinating Committee part of the Micro-College won't rewrite the Central Committee's findings, committee chairperson Sturm-Maddox, said yesterday.

The Micro College is a forum to be held this intersession to determine the final shape of the University's self-evaluation to be submitted for reaccreditation to the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. The report will be sent on March first.

The Micro College has been organized by the Resource Network which Sturm-Maddox said plans to "use the process of self study as sort of a springboard" for discussing the future of the university.

The NEASC team which will inspect the campus in April will consist of employees of large public universities comparable to UMass is not a re-accredit you and you re-accredit us deal, Sturm-Maddox said.

"It's not so much an everybody scratch everybody else's back operation she said."

about people about people about people

The Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations has agreed to appear as guest speaker at a Connecticut synagogue.

Rabbi Joseph H. Ehrenkranz said yesterday Dr. Esmat Adel Meguid has accepted an invitation to address the Congregation Agudath Shalom in Stamford, Jan. 15. He will speak in the Cairo conference between Egypt and Israel which opens next week, Ehrenkranz said.

The rabbi also said he has been invited by Meguid to join a Connecticut delegation of community leaders which will travel to Cairo early next year. The delegation is scheduled to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, he said.

Ehrenkranz said the Congregation Agudath shalom is the largest Orthodox Synagogue in the country.

•▪•

If at first you don't succeed, try, try.... Oh, nuts, forget it! That's what manager Richard W. Osborne of radio station WKXL decided when the mailman slogged through a New Hampshire snow storm this week to return a letter mailed by the station 28 years ago.

WKXL mailed the letter May 2, 1949, to Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., asking for information to be used in a special program. All senators were sent the same letters. Stennis never did send back the enclosed card.

The letter turned up Dec. 1 without its envelope a the bottom of a mail barrel in the bulk mail center at Memphis, Tenn. "I don't know how it got to Memphis," a woman at the mail center said this week.

Osborne said he thought of putting a trace on the missing envelope and card but decided against it "because it might be another 29 years until we find the things that went with it."

•▪•

Santa may run into a couple of friends in a few New Hampshire chimneys this Christmas. Two Newbury men, Rick Kenyon and Alex McKinnon, don black top hats, vests, and longtail coats, and prowl the rooftops as modern-day chimney sweeps. They also use over $1,000 worth of vacuums and brooms which can do the job sometimes in less than an hour. They took the job because they were tired of their other one, says they're glad they made the move, and don't like nuclear energy.

•▪•

Marsha L. McLuhan called him "the Leonardo da Vinci of our times." But Richard Buckminster Fuller would rather think of himself as an "insignificant human being who attempted to solve some problems."

That's quite an understatement from an 82-year-old man who, over the past half century, has made 43 trips around the world, written 18 books, delivered hundreds of lectures and is known around the globe as a distinguished inventor, poet, architect, engineer, author, educator and philosopher.

Like Leonardo, most of Fuller's ideas have been ahead of his time. It has been only in the past decade that the world seems to be catching up with him. Fuller will become a UMass visiting faculty member next spring.

•▪•

Senate Democratic whip Alan Cranston, rating President Carter's first year in office, marks the report card B for performance and A for effort. Many of his colleagues would call that grade inflation.

Carter's relationship with Congress is far from smooth. Critics, as well as partisans, pin most of the blame on inexperience and misunderstanding of the workings and personalities of the Senate and House.

"I think the bottom line is that, by and large, it has been a shaky start," said Sen. Edward Brooke, a liberal Republican from Massachusetts said. He told the Boston Globe that Carter has not yet "done himself irreparable damage."

There remains a willingness in Congress to give Carter more time. Although there have been some flareups, Capitol Hill and the White House are not yet locked into hostile postures.

FBI releases papers on Kennedy shooting

WASHINGTON [UPI] — John F. Kennedy's last words may have been either "get me to a hospital," or "my God, I've been hit," according to two different versions by the head Secret Service agent in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963.

The agent's first person accounts of Kennedy's shooting were contained in 40,001 pages of FBI documents released for the first time yesterday.

Roy Kellerman, assistant agent in charge of the White House detail, and the ranking Secret Service agent that day, was riding next to the driver of the presidential car. He said he recalled the car had just traveled through a crowd of 250,000 people and he "breathed a sigh of relief" as they approached an underpass.

He heard a shot, "observed the president slump forward and heard him say 'get me to a hospital'."

Mrs. Kennedy said "Oh, no!"

Other findings included in the report:

- Kennedy's heart was beating, but doctors found no sign of pulse or blood pressure in his body when it arrived at Dallas' Parkland Memorial Hospital.

Two hours later, there was "electrical silence of the president's heart."

- The first doctor to examine his head wounds was resident surgeon James Carrico, who "noted the president to have slow, agonal respiratory efforts."

The report said Carrico "could hear a heartbeat but found no pulse or blood pressure to be present."

The report said "profuse bleeding was occurring" from Kennedy's head wound and "1500 cc cubic centimers of blood were estimated on the drapes and floor of the emergency operating room."

At that point, Clark said, Kennedy suffered a cardiac arrest and he personally began a closed chest massage that drew a pulse.

Clark pronounced Kennedy dead at 3 p.m.

- J. Edgar Hoover at first harbored some doubts that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in killing John F. Kennedy. Three weeks after the murder, Hoover advised President Lyndon Johnson he had some letters in which someone in Cuba had apparently encouraged Oswald to kill Kennedy, and persuaded Johnson not to release an early official finding that "Oswald was the only man."
- Hoover, however, never doubted Oswald was the trigger man, and advised Johnson of that belief within hours of the shooting. He described Oswald on that occasion as "in the category of a nut and the extremist pro-Castro crowd."
- FBI agents said Oswald "frantically denied" shooting either Kennedy or Dallas Patrolman J. D. Tippet, another victim that day, when officers questioned him prior to his own murder by Jack Ruby.

Correction

An article on increases in meal fees incorrectly reported the amount of the increases. The increases on a ten meal plan would be $20.70, on a 14 meal $23.58, and on a 19 meal would be $25.68. This is the result of a legislative tax. The services increase will not go into effect until September '78.

Tonight!
2 for 1 Night
(most drinks & beers)
8:30 to 11
WITH TWO WAY STREET
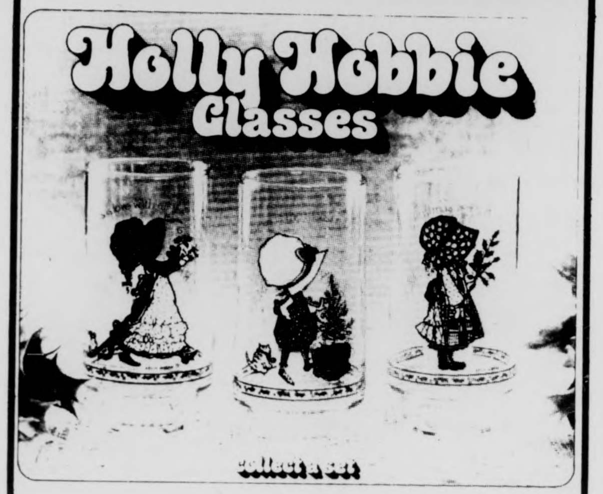
THE PUB
AMHERST



Holly Hobbie Glasses
collect a set
Enjoy a 14 oz. serving of Coca-Cola and get a glass.
49¢
Hatch Only

COME SKI WITH US!
UMass Ski Club Presents:
Sugarbush Ski & party week! Jan. 22-27
$25 deposits taken 11-3, Mon-Fri in Ski Club Office, S.U. 309 and Jan. 5, 7, 9, 12, 14 on Campus Center Concourse
$109- meals, lodging, lift ticket, good times.
LAST DAY FOR DEPOSITS - DEC. 14
★Poor Richards Party★ All ski club members invited
Bring club membership and I.D.

---

DON GLEASON'S KNOWN FOR SELLING THE BEST
Down and Polaguard jackets by the North Face, Sierra Designs and Camp Trails. Down and Polaguard vest by Don Gleason and Camp Trails. Wool and chamios shirts by Woolrich two layered underwear, tops and bottoms, and one piece unionsuits by Duofold. Down filled mittens, and gloves by Saranac. Snow shoes by Tubbs of Vermont. Sorel boots and Vasque hiking boots. Don Gleason's best means quality products for your outdoor needs.
also
Other gift giving favorites
"Original Swiss army knives"
Heavy duty canvas "tote bags"
"Buck" and "Gerber" knives
plus
Our complete selection of family camping and backpacking equipment
Don Gleason's
CAMPERS SUPPLY INC
PEARL STREET NORTHAMPTON, MASS
HOURS 9 to 5:30 WEEKDAYS
9 to 5 SATURDAY
PEARL STREET IS ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF MAIN STREET IN THE CENTER

DO YOU QUALIFY FOR G.C.C.?
If you are an undergraduate, interested in:
-small classes
-quality education
-individual attention
-low cost
-excellent transfer history
GREENFIELD COMMUNITY COLLEGE IS FOR YOU!
Reps will be on the Concourse in the Campus Center
December 13, 1977 9A.M. - 5P.M.

Four Seasons
Package Store
"DISCOUNT LIQUORS"
RUSSELL ST., HADLEY at the Mt. Farms Mall
MILLERS BEER 12oz. cans $5.79 case
CASTEL RUBON LAMBRUSCO $2.99 magnum
SCHLOSS KRONE LIEBFRAUMILCH $2.99 magnum
CALVERT EXTRA BLENDED WHISKEY $9.99 1.75 liters
Tuesday, Dec. 6 to Saturday, Dec. 12
We reserve the right to limit quantities.

News in Brief

Conference agrees to tax gas eaters

WASHINGTON [UPI] — A House-Senate Conference committee made its first major compromise on energy taxes yesterday, tentatively agreeing to a tax on gas-guzzling automobiles to begin in 1979.

But Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said time is too short for Congress to complete an energy problem this year. The best that can be done, he said, is to finish House-Senate conference work before President Carter leaves on his post-Christmas foreign trip.

The compromise agreement, first major decision after 11 days of meetings, would set up a tax of $200 for a car getting less than 15 miles per gallon, $300 for cars getting less than 14 miles per gallon and $550 for those getting less than 13 miles, beginning in 1979.

House-Senate say more abortion funds

WASHINGTON [UPI] — In a major step toward resolving the legislative deadlock over federally funded abortions, the House yesterday agreed to more liberal rape and incest language for poor women seeking free abortions.

In accepting the Senate's stand that statutory as well as "forced" rape victims should be entitled to Medicaid abortions, the House added a stipulation requiring approval of two doctors before a pregnancy could be terminated for health reasons.

The requirement of two doctors still must be approved by the Senate to end the five-month-old legislative stalemate over abortions.

Egyptians believe Israel wants peace

BURLINGTON, Vt. [AP] — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's reception in Tel Aviv has convinced many Egyptians that Israel truly wants peace with its Arab neighbors, says the editor of one of Egypt's largest newspapers, Al Akhbar.

"We have changed many previous ideas we had about the Israeli people," Musa Savry said Tuesday, speaking to a group of University of Vermont administrators and teachers.

Savry said Egyptians were amazed at the large crowds that lined the streets to greet Sadat on his historic peace-seeking visit to Israel last month.

He said Israeli reaction to Sadat's trip demonstrated a genuine desire for peace.

Mass. legislature overrun with bills

BOSTON [UPI] — Thousands of bills pour through the Massachusetts Legislature each year — many of them never seeing the light of day — and next year won't be any different.

More than 6,000 bills were filed by yesterday — deadline for filing bills to be considered next year. About 800 were recorded in the Senate clerk's office and more than 5,200 with the House clerk.

Of the nearly 10,000 pieces of legislation filed this year, less than 800 have been signed into law.

The primary reason for the large number of bills is Massachusetts' unique system of allowing any state resident to file legislation through her or his state senator or representative.

Mass. applies for govt. job money

BOSTON [UPI] — Massachusetts has applied for $8 million from the federal government to create 1,000 permanent private-sector jobs over the next three years, the state Department of Human Services announced yesterday.

The applications were submitted by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis to the Departments of Labor and Housing and Urban Development.

The money would be used to fund a Massachusetts Job Creation Corp.

Senate allots funds for spring concerts

By JON KLEIN
Collegian Staff

The Undergraduate Student Senate last night agreed to "deficit spend" up to $76,000 for a "Black American Music Festival" this spring which would hopefully include Stevie Wonder, Ella Fitzgerald, and the Duke Ellington Orchestra, among others, while tabling an allocation of $20,000 for bus service.

Under the proposal, the festival will begin making expenditures when ticket sales begin. Senate Treasurer Priscilla West estimated that only a $10,000 deficit will be run up by this time. Ticket revenues could send the deficit back down to zero.

Third World Coordinator Stan Kinard said Stevie Wonder has "not made a written commitment" but he has made "a verbal commitment that he is interested in doing the concert."

Proceeds will go to the Duke Ellington Foundation. The Foundation's objectives include the creation of a Duke Ellington museum and record archives in Ellington's old home. "Where the money goes greatly affects the talent we get," said Kinard.

Estimated ticket costs would be $7. The concert would be held at Alumni Stadium in the spring. Senate Speaker Patrick Whalen said if the concert comes together, "This will be the spring concert."

The senate also passed a motion urging the Campus Center Board of Governors and Campus Center management to "restrain from negotiating any further SAGA contracts." SAGA is the management firm that runs the food services in the Campus Center.

The resolution says "since the introduction of SAGA corporation the food prices have increased, quality has decreased, services and hours have been cut back and quality of entertainment had decreased while cover charges have increased."

If the SAGA contract is renewed the senate speaker will buy one Campus Center Bond which gives the senate legal right to protect its interests as a bond holder.

Student Government would also attempt to organize a student boycott of the Campus Center.

The resolution also said sales and revenues have fallen under SAGA.

The senate also passed a resolution expressing its support for Yale University staff employees, who have been on strike for 11 weeks. The senate sent telegrams to the staff union, "Yale Management" and the Yale student government.

The senate allocated $92,000 for services next semester. It was the senate's last meeting of the semester.

The transit service wanted $140,000 for both spring semester and for the 1978 fall semester. The service wanted to plan and prepare for the fall semester.

The senate rationale for not giving the money is that it did not want to spend money if it was not sure that it would have enough from returning Student Activities Tax Fund. Returning SATF is money not spent from the last semester's fund.

"WORK STUDY AND STIPEND JOBS AVAILABLE"
HELP ORGANIZE YOUR UNION!
Addressing such needs as:
-obtaining dorm leases with the university
-getting access to course and teacher evaluation information
apply at the Student Organizing Project, Room 426, Student Union Building, by Dec. 7th. An equal opportunity employer.
employment begins Feb. 1, 1978

local news

Teachers award hit; excludes part-timers

By JOHN M. MORAN
Collegian Staff

The Distinguished Teachers Award Committee is being criticized for continuing to follow procedures that exclude part-time faculty from consideration for the award, and which critics say "inbreed" a bias toward more traditional faculty members.

The 15-member committee recommends to the provost the three undergraduate faculty members and three teaching assistants it feels should receive the $1000 awards.

Prompted by letters from Associate Dean of Students O.C. Bobby Daniels asking for information on last year's committee procedure, DTA Committee chairperson Elizabeth Petroff told this year's committee there may be some problems with its policies. Petroff yesterday said her suggestion that the committee re-evaluate its policies went over like "a lead balloon."

Daniels said he first became aware of the procedural problems of the committee when his nomination was dropped from consideration last year by the committee when he was found to be an adjunct faculty member.

"The rules are followed," Petroff said. "They (the committee) are very strict about that." But she said the committee members do not question the procedures they follow. It is as if they were wearing "blinders", she said.

Petroff said a committee like the DTA committee has a class bias built in. Traditional faculty are chosen by the committee; faculty that "won't rock the boat", according to Petroff. The committee just "reinforces what has always been."

"Every university has its class bias. What's wrong with the committee is what is wrong with the University," Petroff said.

Daniels said the committee is guilty of "cultural insensitivity."

Petroff and Daniels met yesterday and agreed to call a meeting on Dec. 19 for this years and last year's DIA Committee to review and evaluate the current procedures and policies.

Critics of the committee argue that since each committee has as members six previous award winners, the process tends to inbreed a certain type of individual into the committee.

"I wonder if the vision of education in 1962 is being perpetuated," Gerald A. Quarles, a member of the Housing Office staff, said recently. "One person on the committee influences the next, and the next, and so on. The award has been given annually since 1962. The American Oil Company grants the provost $5,000 of the award money; the provost adds another $1,000.

"How do we know if a person who won the award is qualified to judge others? That has an inbreeding effect in terms of values", Quarles said.

The procedures currently in use by the committee follow the 1971 recommendations of a now defunct Faculty Senate committee known as the University Affairs Committee. Those recommendations, apparently made at the request of a former provost, "constitute an attempt to provide more definite and uniform procedures, while at the same time leaving room for initiative and flexibility on the part of the award committee."

The committee comprises a representative from each of the schools and colleges within the University. Each year's faculty winners are automatically appointed to serve a two-year term.

Teaching assistant winners are appointed to one-year terms, but according to Petroff, they have usually earned their degrees and are ready to leave by the time they get the award. Deans of the schools and colleges not represented appoint a member to the committee.

Presidents of both the Graduate Student Senate and the Undergraduate Student Senate are also asked to appoint a member to the committee. According to committee records, an undergraduate has not served on the committee since 1974. Jon A. Hite, co-president of the Student Government Association, said last night, "We advertised, but nobody applied."

Although it is not recorded when or how the policy originated, since at least 1974 the committee has declined to consider part-time or "adjunct" faculty for the award. Neither the procedures recommended by the former University Affairs Committee nor the award sponsor, American Oil Company, stipulate that adjunct faculty should not be considered.

The policy is not written in the DTA Committee information sheet that is updated by each committee.

"As it stands now," said Quarles, "adjunct faculty are automatically cut off from consideration. Why can't they even be considered? The committee should have the flexibility to look at anyone."

Quarles called the present policy "arbitrary" and said he didn't think a personnel category such as full-time faculty or adjunct faculty should be considered by the committee in making the awards.

"Anyone who is teaching should have the opportunity to be recognized," Quarles said.

Prof. Normand Berlin, a 1976 Distinguished Teacher Award winner and a member of the current committee, last night defended the policy of excluding adjunct faculty from the award.

"I think there are few enough awards for excellence in our profession," Berlin said, "and I think they should go to those who have a full-time commitment to teaching."

Berlin indicated that even if adjunct faculty members were considered he would vote against any part-time teacher.

In the Greenhouse . . .
Happy Hour 3:00-6:00 Mon. - Sat.
Most Drinks 85¢
Draft Beer 45¢

Before and after Happy Hour . . .
Scalloped escargot to sandwiched roast beef

Judie's

DINING
11:30 AM-Midnight
AMERICAN EXPRESS
VISA BANKAMERICARD
MASTER CHARGE

One Block From Town Common

51 North Pleasant St. Amherst, MA 413-253-3491
Mangeons Bien, Inc.

TIRED OF CHOOSING COURSES BLINDLY?

?
REGISTRATION FORM

We are trying to increase the number of courses covered in the Course and Teacher Evaluation, but we need your help.

Listed below are names of teachers who have cooperated by releasing their evaluations. If your professors are not on the list, ask them to sign the release forms they've been given by the Student Government Association. Talk to Department heads too. (They can release evaluations for the entire department.)

THESE TEACHERS HAVE RELEASED THEIR EVALUATIONS

Abrams, Linda
Ackermann, Robert
Afesi, Don
Aune, Bruce
Allen, Ernest
Airhart, Douglas
Anderson, Warren
Arny, Thomas
Arsenault, Joel
Austin, Allen
Barber, Mary
Barbosa, Pedro
Barreda, Pedro
Beaty, Nancy
Bennett, M.K.
Berlin, Normand
Berliner, Howard
Bert, Mark
Best, Michael
Bierhorst, Howard
Blackman, John L.
Bonsignore, John
Boothroyd, Geoffrey
Boyer, Paul
Bracey, John
Branch, Ben
Brehm, John
Brentlinger, John
Brigham, John
Brown, Dennis
Bunn, Radie
Butterfield, D. Anthony
Cappelluzzo, Emma
Cardwell, Lucy
Chappell, Vere
Chen, Christine
Clayton, John
Clydesdale, F.
Cocalis, Susan
Cheng, Ching-mao
Cohen, Alvin
Coppersmith, Evan
Costley, Richard
Cramer, Chester
Creed, Robert
Cromack, Duane
Culley, Margo
Cuomo, George
Davis, Hugh
Davis, Chester
Day, Robert
Diamond, Arlyn
Dienes, Laszlo
Dittach, John
Duffy, Joseph
Duguay, Gerry
Ehrlich, Leonard
Edwards, Lee
Edwards, Richard
Ellis, Richard
Fabos, Julius
Fagundes, Francisco
Farris, Richard
Faulkingham, Ralph
Feldman, Fred
Fergason, Ann
Finch, Frederic
Finnerty, Joseph
Fisher, Louis
Forman, George
Foster, John
Francis, F.J.
Frank, Joseph
Gage, Robert
Gengel, Roy
Gettier, Edmund
Gibbs, Margaret
Gibson, Walker
Gjertson, Donald
Goldsmith, Paul
Griffin, Pat
Gutzwiller, Kathryn
Hamilton, Ronald
Hardegree, Gary
Hart, Robert A.
Hartz, Richard H.
Heidelberger, Herbert
Hepler, Peter
Hertzback, Stanley
Hill, F.S. Jr.
Hofer, E.H.
Holland, Samuel
Horowitz, Joseph
Hsinteng, Shou
Hugenin, Richard
Humphries, Jane
Hurn, Christopher
Hutchinson, Thomas
Irvine, William
Ivey, A.
Jakus, Karl
Jefferson, Ann
Johnston, William
Jones, Robert
Jubian, Michael
Junkins, Donald
Katzner, Donald W.
Key, Charles
Kfoury, D.J.
Killian, Lewis
Kilmer, William
King, Gordon
Klar, Lawrence
Kohler, Heinz
Kucekova, Eva
Kupperman, Gerrard
Lake, Joseph
Langland, Joseph
Langley, Kenneth
Lawall, Sarah
Leifer, Richard
Lemeshow, Stanley
Lenson, David
Lester, Julius
Levin, Maurice
Levin, Robert
Liander, Bertil
Locke, L.F.
Male, James
Manes, E.G.
Manning, William
Marry, John
Martin, John
Matlack, James
Matthews, Anne
McAuley, Thomas
McFarland, Gerald
Melrose, Jay
Meyer, David
Miles, Raymond
Miller, Aurelia
Miller, Lucien
Mitchell, John
Moebius, William
Moore, Jean
Mulcahy, David
Narahara, Tomiko
Naff, William
Nilsson, Nils
Oates, Stephen
O'Brien, Ken
O'Connell, James
Odiorne, George
Ortiz, Jesse
Partee, Barbara
Paulsen, Wolfgang
Peng, Chin-tang
Petroff, Elizabeth
Phillips, Norman
Phinney, Edward
Pitrat, C.
Platt, Rutherford
Portuges, Cathy
Prince, Alan
Purcell, Joanne
Quirk, Jonathan
Quinton, Arthur
Rapping, Leonard
Rauch, Harold
Ramos, Diana
Reed, Carl
Reh, Albert
Reiner, Albey
Resnick, Stephen
Rice, Thomas
Richards, Femi
Robinson, Fred
Robinson, John
Rohde, Richard
Roskil, Mark
Roter, Debra
Rothstein, Halina
Rothstein, Robert
Rupp, William
Salzmann, Zdenek
Schifler, Eva
Schindler, Richard
Schumacher, Warren
Schuman, David
Scott, Donald
Scott, Nina
Scoville, Nicholas
Seidman, Ann
Shapiro, Seymour
Sheckels, Dale
Shepp, Archie
Sides, Charles
Simpson, Richard
Siruis, Donald
Sleigh, Robert
Snedecor, James
Spivack, Charlotte
Stankovich, Marian
Stanwiecki, Edmund
Stamps, Paula
St. Mary, Donald
Stevens, Nelson
Strickland, William
Swaim, Kathleen
Swanson, Carl
Su, Jin-Chen
Tattar, Terry
Taylor, J.H.
Teng, Shou Hsin
Tessler, Richard
Thompson, Dianne
Treyz, George
Tucker, Robert
Tymoczko, Maria
Uden, Peter
Ulin, Priscilla
Ulin, Richard
Unaitis, Bill
Vogely, Martha
Wang, Jing
Weiss, Richard
Weston, John
Wideman, John
Wilce, Robert
Wolf, Jack
Wolff, Robert Paul
Wright, James
Zahari, Abraham
Zajicek, O.T.

Departments which have released all evaluations:

Afro American Studies
Asian Studies
Philosophy
Slavic Studies
Comparative Literature

of those who have been contacted so far, 9 have submitted forms, 2 have not

If teachers and department heads still refuse to cooperate, come to Rm. 426 Student Union or the Candy Counter in the Student Union to pick up our Course and Teacher Evaluation Forms. To be distributed in your classroom.

umass student union

Student Government Association

College Calculators warrants all Commodore, Texas Instruments, and Hewlett Packard calculators

★ ★ FOR ONE FULL YEAR!!! ★ ★

CALCULATORS

A WISE INVESTMENT IN YOUR COLLEGE EDUCATION

WHY PAY MORE ??

Commodore
4120
Non Rechargeable version of 4148
$16.95

Commodore
4148 Scientific
★ ALL LOGS&TRIGS
★ 2 MEMORIES
★ STAND DEV & MEAN
★ ROOTS/POWERS
★ SCI NOT, 8/2
★ ALL FUNC X
★ LARGE DISPLAY
★ RECHARGABLE
$24.95

commodore
PR-100
★ programmable ★

PR-100
★ 72 PROG STEPS
★ SUPER SCIENTIFIC
★ ALL LOGS&TRIGS
★ 7 METRIC CONV
★ FULL STATISTICS
★ 10 DIRECT MEM
★ 1 YR WARRANTY
★ MUCH MORE ★ COMPLETE
$49.95

TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
CALCULATORS
"Scientific"
SR-51-II
*SUPER SCIENTIFIC
*3 MEMORIES
*STAND DEV., MEAN, VAR.
*METRIC CONVERSIONS
*3 ANGULAR MODES
*RECHARGABLE
MUCH MORE
$47.95

Programmable TI 57
Computer-like programming functions.
50 multi-key program steps store up to 150 keystrokes.
8 multi-use memories
AOS™ entry system.
Enter problems just as you would write them.
Advanced slide rule and statistical functions.
$59.95

Programmable TI 58
Up to 480 program steps. Or, up to 60 memories.
25-program Master Library Module with 5,000 program steps.
Optional plug-in library modules available.
AOS™ entry system
Enter problems just as you would write them.
Prints alpha and plots with the PC-100A
$89.95

Programmable TI 59
TEXAS INSTRUMENTS
The super-powerful card programmable. With plug-in library
Up to 960 program steps. Or, up to 100 memories.
25-program Master Library Module with 5,000 program steps.
Optional plug-in library modules available.
Magnetic cards to record your personal programs.
AOS™ entry system.
Enter problems just as you would write them.
Prints alpha and plots with the PC-100A.
$234.95
INCLUDES 1 YR LOCAL WARRANTY!

SR4190R commodore Scientific
The well laid out keyboard offers these special single-stroke features—with simple-to-use algebraic logic • Integration key, to determine the area under a curve • Permutation and combination keys • Linear regression • Hours, minutes, seconds mode • Factorial • Gamma, Poisson and Gaussian functions • Binomial distribution • Trig and hyperbolic functions • All logarithmic functions • 2 storage and 2 summation memory systems • Complex arithmetic • 11 metric conversions and their reciprocals. And more, so much more. Rechargeable
$37.95

UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE
We're so sure of Commodore's quality that we make this offer to you: If your Commodore calculator proves defective for any reason during the life of the warranty, which is one year from date of purchase . . . bring it in to us and we'll replace it with a brand new one immediately. No questions asked.

College Calculators continues to offer the best in electronic calculators at low discount prices!—and, all T.I., Commodore, and Lloyd's calculators are warranted by College Calculators for one full year! If your machine malfunctions, return it and we will replace it with a new machine!

E-680
Lloyd's Electronic Desk-Top 10-Digit Display Calculator with Gross Profit Margin and Memory
LLOYD'S ELECTRONICS, INC.
☐ Large 10-digit digitron display
☐ Fully addressable memory with memory minus, memory plus, recall memory and clear memory keys
☐ Gross profit margin key
☐ Item counter counts the number of plus and minus entries
☐ 2-position decimal system
☐ Percentage for calculating add-on and discount
☐ Delta percentage function
☐ Combination clear all calculations and clear entry only key ☐ Constant switch
☐ On/off power switch
☐ Uses 2 "D" cell batteries, not included
☐ Includes AC adapter
☐ 5½" W x 5¾" D x 1¾" H
College Calculators has many desktop electronic printing calculators also $29.95

HEWLETT-PACKARD
HEWLETT-PACKARD PRICES AS FOLLOWS:
HP 21......$69.95
HP 25C.....$144.95
HP 27......$149.95
HP 19C.....$309.95
HP 29C.....$169.95
HP 67......$369.95
HP 97......$649.95
HP 92......$569.95
HEWLETT-PACKARD

COLLEGE CALCULATORS
CALL FOR MORE INFO!
AMHERST (24 hour answering service)
549-1316
or
SPRINGFIELD
(NEW ENGLAND ELECTRONICS CO.)
1-739-9626

Saying "no"

By KELLEY BROWN

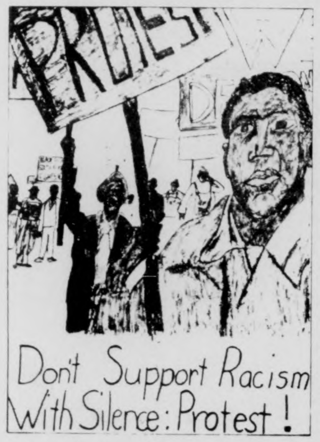
On Tuesday, I spent a couple of hours handing out a leaflet which stated: DEMONSTRATE: AMHERST COLLEGE OUT OF SOUTH AFRICA! 10:30 a.m. SATURDAY DECEMBER 10, TOWN COMMONS. The leaflet went on to point out that Amherst College students and faculty have been trying to pressure the Amherst trustees to use their over $20,000,000 worth of holdings in corporations in U.S. corporations doing business in South Africa to force these global corporations out of South Africa. Should this effort inside the corporations fail, then the trustees should sell their stock in these corporations.



Seeing that Hampshire College and UMass have seen fit to sell their stock in corporations in South Africa outright and Smith College has sold at least some of its stock, these modest demands on the Amherst trustees appeared quite reasonable to me. But what I really want to tell you about is how the students reacted to this leaflet I had, and why going to this demonstration is (a) important and (b) not necessarily a "radical" thing to do.

The first thing, which you may already know, is that some students are "takers of leaflets" and others are "avoiders of leaflets". I am generally a "taker" so I have a hard time understanding hard-line "avoiders". However, I do understand the suspicion that if one accepts a leaflet on this campus, there is a relatively good chance it will turn out to be a pretty crazy piece of paper.

One of the things I found out is that people were usually glad to take the leaflet from me if they understood that it was about South Africa (except the permanent "avoiders"). Another thing I found is Third World people almost always responded well to the leaflet. This indicated to me that Third World people have a gut feeling of identification with the struggle against racism and settler colonialism in South Africa. I hope the Third World community turns this feeling into action in at least the same proportion at this Saturday's demonstration as they did at the Nov. 19 anti-apartheid demonstration of 200 on the Amherst commons.

The most interesting people were the ones who took the leaflet and seemed opposed to racism in South Africa, but didn't see the connection to their own lives, saw it as something "radical", and couldn't imagine themselves among hundreds of others demonstrating about something.

It is important to realize that the same corporations making super-profits off of racism in South Africa create phony "oil shortages" and reap super-profits off of us. They are the same corporations who want to build nuclear plants in the U.S., regardless of human consequences, in order to make money on uranium sales. They are the same corporations who have been bribing political leaders here and abroad, in order to get their way on "unpopular matters". It is the same corporations that have left New England in droves searching for less organized, cheaper labor in the South, in Taiwan, in South Korea, and in South Africa. We must realize that the enemy of the South African blacks is our own foe at home: the multi-national corporation.

How radical is it to stand up and say "no" to corporations that would just as soon stomp on you as the South Africans, if you were to get in their way? How radical is it to say "no" to corporations and banks which are the key structural prop to the nightmare social system called apartheid? It is not radical, except in the sense of getting to some of the roots of problems that we share with the South Africans.

Another important thing to remember is this movement isn't just me in front of the Student Union in the snow, or a few folks in the 5-college area, but rather a nation-wide movement against U.S. capital in South Africa. Universities including U. of California, Wisconsin, Illinois, Princeton, Harvard, Brandeis, BU, Swarthmore, UConn and many others have been involved in major campaigns for divestiture. Just recently, District 31 based in the Chicago area and the largest United Steelworkers union district, voted to remove all its funds from banks making loans to South Africa. The movement against U.S. capital in South Africa is bound to grow as the liberation struggle there intensifies.

You can do something about the role of U.S. corporations in South Africa. You can join hundreds of others (this is going to be a big event, I promise you) on Saturday to demand that a particularly stubborn institution, Amherst College, live up to its liberal ideals, carry out the will of its faculty and students and get its money out of South Africa. And contrary to popular belief, you don't have to scream or yell or act militant in a demonstration — your physical presence is commitment enough.

Kelley Brown is a Collegian commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS
RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT
Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

The year of the union

jim paulin

Perhaps the reason we don't have a union of students yet is that our union organizers don't act like union organizers.

I have been following the unionization movement ever since 1974 when I was fresh out of high school and totally fresh to the university, and not once have I heard any mention of "blue cards," that is, membership applications (they don't need to be blue, they can be any color), and maybe that's why it still seems like an abstraction and not an attainable goal.

This is supposedly "The Year of the Union," but where are the membership drives? The group that's supposed to be organizing students, the Student Organizing Project is concentrating its organizing on a fun and games strategy. Instead of distributing blue cards, instead of organizing demonstrations, they organize volley ball games at the campus pond.

It's not a bad idea to organize people around fun in addition to issues. UMass students are expert at organizing parties — publicizing them word of mouth and running off photocopies of directions to the scene of the party if necessary; fundraising — "Hey, you got a buck or two so we can get some more beer? So maybe S.O.P. really stands for "Students Organized for Partying." The S.O.P.'s problem is that it's too passive.

But they can organize political parties. Everyone of the 22 candidates they put on the ballot during the senate elections won.

The present senate speaker was one of the union slate candidates, and they are well organized within the SGA, but it seems that they're too busy organizing from the top down than from the bottom up. They don't seem to be doing enough grass roots organizing.

Presently, the unionized faculty are negotiating with the administration for a contract, and one of their opening demands is 36 per cent salary increase. Maybe we should be bargaining for a 36 per cent tuition and fees reduction.

Not only should the faculty have the right to collectively bargain with the administration, but students should have the right to collectively bargain with the faculty, as well as with the administration.

UMass has been frequently compared to factory, and if that's the case, then the students are the workers, the administration is the management, the board of trustees are the board of directors, Massachusetts taxpayers are the stockholders, and the faculty are the shop foremen. If the foremen can have a union, then so should the workers.

This is by no means a perfect analogy, but it serves to illustrate the condition of students and their place in university power structure.

A student union, by nature, is similar, but not identical to a labor union. A student union is a consumer union. Instead of strikes you have consumer boycotts, of anything from fees to classes, to the Dining Commons to the Peoples Market. If you don't like the soup at Earth foods or the atmosphere at the D.C., but you can still have picket lines, not necessarily to prevent people from entering but to call public attention to our grievances.

A major difference between a student union and a labor union is that a union of students should never be a closed shop, i.e., a situation where if you don't join the union, you don't get the job.

Unlike a labor union, we're not hired, but accepted when we get in here. We are, though, the reason labor is hired here, just as the animals are the reason the zoo hires keepers, professors, guards and janitors.

UMass already has several unions operating here — Local 1776 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO (AFSME) which is what you mean when you talk about big labor. Their president, Jerry Wurf, has the union buy him enough space in the New York Times and other newspapers to write a column about things as he and AFSCME see them. Just this year we gained the Massachusetts Society of Professors, representing the faculty at the bargaining table, trying to draw up the first contract for a unionized faculty.

A unique situation this would be with a union of students. The faculty and student union would not only bargain with the management (administration), but with each other. In fact, we just might be writing labor history here.

Jim Paulin is a Collegian Columnist.

It's pie for sure

jerry rogers

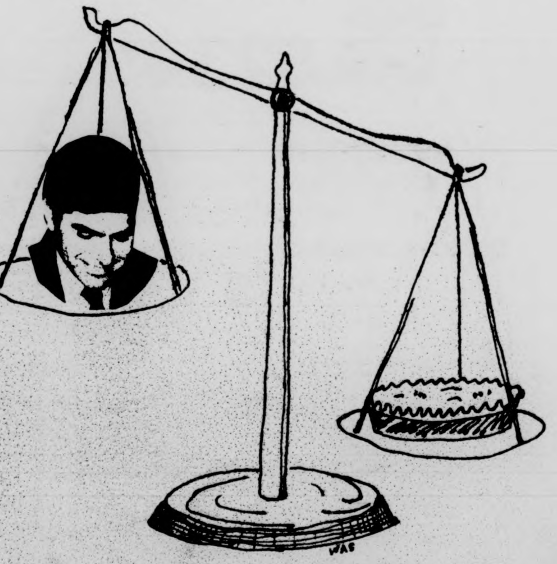
The pie throwing antics of Joseph Gould, 19, a UMass business major, have raised the eyes of editors on all the major daily newspapers in the state. The Boston Globe, The Morning Union and the Daily Collegian have all run stories about the attempt of Gould, a Patterson House resident, to cream the Honorable Governor Michael S. Dukakis with a Boston Pie of the same family. Dukakis, on a diet, promptly deflected the pie.



Subsequent to the monumental attempt, Gould claimed the UMass police "should be embarrassed" because of the near success of his mission — a dramatic example of civil disobedience.

He pointed out, "It's good to keep them (police) on their toes."

Now it seems two can play this game, and the university administration, acting through student Attorney General Jeffrey Lutsky's long arm of the law, is hoping to keep Gould on his toes. At the request of Dean of Students William Field and Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert Woodbury, Lutsky will conduct sentencing hearings against Gould. Lutsky pointed out the admission of guilt made by Gould in the print media.

Though the governor's office reportedly will take no action, Field and Woodbury apparently felt the incident should not be accorded precedent status, according to Lutsky and former student Attorney General Paul Yanowitch.

Woodbury was quoted in The Boston Globe as saying, "We don't want to overreact to this, but on the other hand, we won't let it stand as acceptable conduct."

And Lutsky pointed out that the attack makes the university "look bad".

Well, I for one think any type of disciplinary action would be a travesty of justice. Steve Lafler, in his comic strip Aluminum Foil, has pointed out time and again the need for increased usage of pies as a means of communication.

The administration, by pressuring for disciplinary action, is obviously attempting to keep feedback from the governor by "making an example" of Joe Gould. Gould might only be considered guilty of negligence for not checking with Dukakis' staff to determine whether the governor would welcome a Boston Cream Pie, or prefer another.

After Dukakis deflected the confectioners' delight, Gould's assistant in charge of gubernatorial dialogue promptly creamed Gould with a second pie. Surely this is punishment enough for this brave student.

This punishment served as a warning that in the world of Boston Cream Pie, it's "Cream or be creamed," and was certainly an ignominious ending for Gould's attempt to represent students.

Usually, such a defeat would remove Gould from the headlines and relegate him to a back seat in the minds of students. However, the university's attempt to add insult to injury should rally students to Gould's defense.

Yanowitch could not categorically state what would allow the administration the authority to request such action of Lutsky. The student judiciary is supposed to conduct inquiries among students as a peer group. Field and Woodbury cannot be considered peers of Gould. For this reason alone, Lutsky should refuse the attempt to prosecute advanced by the administration.

Despite the technical jurisdiction Lutsky commands in the case, administration involvement and Gould's obvious sincerity (he was one of very few students to welcome the governor in person) in opening dialogue with Dukakis are reasons for students to demand a halt to the proceedings.

Jerry Rogers column appears every Thursday in the Collegian.

© 1977 THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER
THE WASHINGTON POST WRITERS GROUP
AUTH
Sadat
PEACE ON EARTH
GOOD WILL TOWARD ISRAEL

Bong booth permit condones illegal act

To the Editor:

I was very disturbed to see a booth selling bongs in the Campus Center on Dec. 6. The University, by allowing the bongs to be sold, indirectly condones the use they will be put to, i.e. smoking marijuana. As far as I know, that is the only practical use for bongs, and to say that people might buy them for decoration or just to have them would be being deliberately obtuse. Although many people on this campus may have forgotten it, the smoking of marijuana is illegal. The University, as an accredited institution, should be expected to uphold the law, not condone the breaking of it by okaying the selling of bongs.

The issue at hand is not merely the selling of bongs. The more general issue is: if laws are to serve any purpose, then they ought to be enforced as long as they exist. No one is in the position to decide which law is more valid than another. A law is a law and all must be equally adhered to or disregarded.

The University, by allowing the selling of bongs, is not breaking the law. It is, however, providing students with a marijuana-smoking device, thus condoning, however indirectly, the smoking of marijuana. I question the authority by which the University has decided that the law against the smoking of marijuana is less important than any other law.

Fuanthia Speliotis

Op-ed pages must provide a forum for all

To the Editor:

It was with shock and disgust that I read a recent letter by one Daniel P. Guidera in which he dismissed an editorial written by Revolutionary Student Brigade member Peter Kracht as "useless dross".

Mr. Guidera thinks that the Brigade [now the Revolutionary Youth Communist Brigade] is undeserving of representation on the editorial pages of the Collegian until the Brigade decides to "come up with ideas rather than propaganda." Need I remind you, Mr. Guidera, that the op-ed pages exist to represent the ideas and viewpoints of various groups and individuals, and to thus provide a forum for discussion of issues? The fact that you disagree with a particular statement is immaterial; the fact that you would have that viewpoint suppressed until it was more modified to fit your version of an "acceptable" article is impermissable and defeats the very purpose of the editorial pages. But such censorship is not uncommon in our society at large. It is practiced daily by CBS, The Washington Post, Newsweek, Time, The New York Times, — parts of the news media which Mr. Guidera erroneously calls a "bastion of liberal thought".

Tell me, Mr. Guidera, when was the last time you were able to see a program or read a series of writings by the Black Panthers, or migratory workers, or student draft resisters, or New Left economic critics, or women's liberation groups presented on a major network or in a major newspaper? It's obvious that you, Mr. Guidera, are not familiar with the people's history of this country or you would see more clearly the pattern of suppression practiced by the moneyed, powerful interests who dominate such structures as the news media.

It is furthermore moronic to assert that there is no media campaign which attempts to discredit the accomplishments of the social movements of the 1960's.

Those movements were declarations of rage and disgust on the part of millions of people who recognized the fact that we lived [and still live] in a plastic, oppressive society. As such, it is in the interests of the rich and powerful in control to use everything at their disposal [including the news media] to both quell and to discredit the uprisings. It is a fact that wiithin a few weeks of each other, both Newsweek and Time have carried major essays which summed up the 60's as impotent rebellion.

Mr. Guidera may think that the R.C.Y.B. has "illusions of grandeur" and that it considers the accomplishments of the 60's to be its own. Alas, the R.C.Y.B. can't accept that honor for the achievements of that era are due to the efforts of millions of people, led by S.D.S. and the Panthers. We would be better off as a nation if the war in Vietnam were still going on? Minorities would be better off without affirmative action? Come again, Mr. G.

Ellen J. Gitelman
Member of the R.C.Y.B.

Marriage not out-dated

To the Editor:

I don't believe marriage to be an outdated "concept" at all, but a universal institution set forth for our benefit by God. When I get married it sure will not be for security reasons as stated in Fifi Ball's article [to raise kids, cook meals and clean], but rather a lifelong commitment through marriage. A relationship between a man and a woman requires a lifelong bond. Why? Because God made them so that once they get together they aren't supposed to come apart. Something happens in a sexual relationship even if you don't believe in God. Genesis says the two "become one flesh".

Of homosexuals? I don't believe there should be any provision for marriage between two members of the same sex. This is not my own attitude but the Lord created us and set up the principles of marriage. God often mentions the issue in His word to us. When Israel became a nation, homosexuality was strictly prohibited; "If a man also lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they shall surely be put to death; their blood shall be upon them." [Lev. 20:13].

I don't believe we should change God's institutions to make a provision for man's sin. I do believe men and women should turn back to God through the provision He has given us in His Son Jesus Christ.

Stephen Constant

LET'S GO BOWLING

Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30

50 cents a string

HU NAN GARDEN RESTAURANT

(Formerly South China)

家 酒 園 南 湖

Mandarin Szechuen Cuisine

* Open 7 days a week *

Mon.– Thur. 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri.-Sun. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.

Specials

LUNCHEON $1.25 & up

DINNER $3.75

main course choice of Szechuan Spiced Chicken
or
Sweet & Sour Shrimp
Dinner includes: spare rib eggroll chicken wing, fried rice & hot and sour shrimp

Sun Thurs. 11:30-10:00 pm
Fri Sat 12:00-1:00

10 Belchertown Rd.
Rt. 9, Amherst
256-0251
256-0252

Banquet Facilities

What's Happening

TODAY

CHRISTMAS PARTY

A party sponsored by the Music Dept. and Tau Beta Sigma will be held at 8:30 in the Old Chapel. 50 cents donation, open to all bands.

FILMS

— "Fate of Man," a Soviet film directed by Sergei Bondarchik (director of the Soviet Version of "War and Peace"). 8 p.m., Herter 231. Sponsored by the department of Slavic languages and literatures.

— "Last Graves of Dimbaza," a film dealing with the current situation in South Africa, will be shown at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of Grayson. Guest speaker will be Doug Smith. Sponsored by the OH Third World Cultural Center.

COFFEEHOUSE

9 p.m., 12th floor Kennedy. Egg nog and other refreshments available, free. Sponsored by JFK Middle.

LECTURES

— "Paysages de la fiction," Jean Gaudon, professor of French, Yale. 4:50 p.m., Alumnae House Lounge, Smith.

MADRIGAL DINNER

The 7th annual madrigal dinner will be held at 6 p.m. in CC 822. For information and reservations call 545-0418. $9.50 per person; $8.95 for UMass students or groups of 20 or more.

ISRAELI FOLKDANCING

Instruction provided, 7:15 p.m. Gill Hall, Campus School, Smith.

THEATRE

— "Exit the King," by Eugene Ionesco, 8 p.m., Division IV Studio Theatre, Emily Dickinson Hall, Hampshire.

— "Conquest of my Brother," a new play about native Americans by Edward Emanuel. Department of theatre production, Hallie Flanagan Studio Theatre, Smith, 8 p.m.

— "This Property is Condemned" and "Winter," by Tennessee Williams and "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers" by Neil Simon are part of the Festival of One-Act Plays, designed and directed by students. 8:30 p.m., Laboratory Theatre, Mt. Holyoke, $2.50. Students and Senior Citizens, $1.

CONCERTS

— Department of dance concert, "Enchantment," 8 p.m. Theatre 14, Smith. Tickets $2.50. Students and senior citizens $1.50.

— Violinist Eugne Fodor, 8 p.m., FAC Concert Hall. Call 545-2511 for ticket info.

— The Amherst College Singers will perform Bach's Magnificat and Cantata 79 at 8:15 p.m. at the Grace Episcopal Church in Amherst. Free tickets of admission required.

TOMORROW

SEMINAR

"Local Times and Progressive Maxima" by Prof. Donald Geman will be the topic of a joint seminar in mathematics with UMass and M.I.T. 4:30 p.m. Grad Research Center, rm. 1634.

CONCERT

The University Chamber Singers will perform in the University Gallery at 12:30 p.m. The concert will include a double quartet and Renaissance Carols.

FILMS

— "Lucia," 7:30 p.m. Hampshire College Main Lecture Hall.

— "A Streetcar Named Desire," 8 and 10 p.m. Lecture Room I, Merrill Ctr., Amherst.

TURN TO PAGE 12

JOBS AVAILABLE

The collegian is looking for;

- Assistant Managing Editor
- Assistant Business Manager
- Layout people
- Proofreaders
- Copy Editors
- Graphics volunteers

There are also workstudy positions available

Come down to the Collegian office, CC 113, to apply

BUDWEISER® • KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

WHEN DO JOURNALISM MAJORS SAY BUDWEISER®?

AWRIGHT! I'VE GOT TWO BY-LINES AND A FRONT PAGE FEATURE IN TODAY'S PAPER! I THINK I'LL CALL SUZY, ATTRACTIVE BRUNETTE, 21, AND SHARE A PITCHER OF COLD BUD® OVER AT MARTY'S, POPULAR CAMPUS HANGOUT, 4TH AND MAIN.
Budweiser

Prison projects ousted from budget bill

BOSTON [UPI] — The state Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House a $128.9 million capital outlay budget for the next two years after removing controversial prison expansion projects sought by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis.

The $5.8 million prison building items were sent back to the Senate Ways and Means Committee as Sen. Jack H. Backman, D-Brookline, was preparing a mini-filibuster to block their approval. The prison expansion program is expected to be reported out separately next week.

Meanwhile, the Senate approved $9.4 million in last minute amendments — most of them of the pork barret variety — to the building program.

Renowned psychologist visits campus tomorrow

Dr. Nicholas Cummings, president of American Psychological Association, and member of the President's Commission on Mental Health, will be visiting the School of Education tomorrow.

The agenda is: 9:30 a.m., Hills South, Open Colloquium: All university, departments, faculty and students are invited.

11:30 a.m., Lunch at Chequers (at the corner of University Drive and Amity St.). Personal introductions: Division Chairman, interested program directors and principal investigators in the Human Service-Applied Behavioral Science Division.

All inquiries should be directed to: Dr. Gene T. Orro, Director, Mental Health and Human Services System Design and Administration, 365 Hills South, 545-3117.

University Brass Choir performing carols today

The University Brass Choir will play Christmas carols today from noon to 1 p.m. in front of the Blue Wall. Half of the 46-member group will eventually leave to play in the main lobby of the Student Union.

The all-student choir, composed of trumpets, trombones, tubas and baritone horns, will play "A Suite for Carols," originally written for the Boston Pops brass section by Leroy Anderson.

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

☐ AUDIO
☐ AUTO FOR SALE
☐ CALCULATORS
☐ ENTERTAINMENT
☐ FOR RENT
☐ FOR SALE
☐ FOUND
☐ HELP WANTED
☐ INSTRUCTION
☐ LOST
☐ MISC.
☐ MOTORCYCLES
☐ PERSONALS
☐ PHOTO EQUIP.
☐ RIDE WANTED
☐ RIDERS WANTED
☐ ROOM WANTED
☐ SERVICES
☐ TO SUBLET
☐ TRAVEL
☐ WANTED
☐ WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________

$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line;
5 consec. pub. days, 40c per line per day;
30 consec. pub. days, 35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines: _____ X rate: _____ = _______
X #days: _____ = _______ (ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8

Name: ____________
Phone#: ________ (if different from ad) Ad Cost: $______ (enclosed)
Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________
(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)

RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500, ord. $700. 527-5746.

66 Ford cust. Good cond. New oil pump trans. batt. $350. or B.O. 546-5920.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

65 Dodge Dart 6 cyl $325 Steve 253-3586.

Dodge Polara 1969 excellent mech cond no rust radials good heater 665-3901.

Fantastic Buy: 1972 Toyota Mark II. Runs great. AM/FM, stell-belted radials. Best offer over a $1,000. 584-4759.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires, 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

1966 Volks Bug. Good condition-must sell. Call after 6PM 549-4599. Best Offer.

69 VW Bug. AM/FM, heat, roofrack, 78000, some dents-little rust. Always starts 6-5079.

74 Pontiac Firebird. Wht. w/ blu. interior. Ext. condition, AC, AM-FM, radials, winterized, nu. brakes, exhaust, shocks. $3,050. John eves 549-5918.

71 Datsun 510, Good Cond. Only 50,000 miles, New tires, Asking $1,000., cal between 3 and 7 PM. 532-7622.

1973 Jeep CJ5. Roll Bak Michelin radials, 60,000 miles. 549-4048.

Pickup, Chevy, '68, good shape, $700/best offer, call 665-4914.

73 Volvo 144 automatic very good body and engine radials AM/FM air cond. $3200 665-4539 eve & wks.

68 Chevy wagon needs work B.O. 67688.

73 Datsun standard transmission $1150 call 546-9979 eves weekends.

MOTORCYCLES

73 Honda, CB175, excellent condtion. $400. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

FOR SALE

SAVE up to 50% on TENNIS SHOES Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18-30. Just $10.-14. 50. Call 538-3181.

Used 15 inch tires $2.-$10. Call 256-0195.

SWEATERS! Low Prices on brand names. All styles. Buy for your self or give as Xmas gifts. Call 6-8901.

Keltx Bakpak + frame, 2yr. old, ex. shp. ex. Xmas gift $30. or B.O. call 665-2441.

Ski Racks V.W. Bug. 2 sets of Barrecrafters $10. each 549-4846 call after 6.

Pr. YAMAHA all round 2 skis + bindings. $40. 546-4552.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

Two new new Snowtires H78-14 253-9792.

For Sale: Lange Pro Ski Boots size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn twice. If interested please call 253-5873.

Radials Pirelli 145SR13 Steve 253-3586.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Bedroom Set - excellent condition. Call 253-7494.

Pr snow tires 13" new cond $50 549-6482.

Royce Union 10 speed bicycle $75. Call Jack 546-5404.

SofaBed, BikeRack, CoffeeTable, Reclining Chair, Lamp, Bookcase, CornerTable 549-5725.

One HP-67 card programmable calculator, brand new and complete. Full warranty $315.00 call Bob or Chris 549-1316.

MUST SELL! 1974 Jensen Healey. Taking offers. Call 593-5078.

Sofa-good condition. Cheap-call 253-2967.

Diamond Wedding Ring trio - yel. gold - paid $500. used 6 mos. Will sacrifice for $250. Call 549-5440.

Must Sell by Jan. Wurlitzer Elec. Piano w/sustain & tremelo. List $700., asking $325. or Best Offer. Call Jeff 549-3601.

Bike 3-speed, fair cond., 8 yrs old, $25. Call Pauline 546-4148.

New Ralchle hikers about M7½ wg 542-3446 $40 or best price offer.

Technics SA5600 AM FM receiver 25 watts rms 1.9 FM Sen-sitivity $120 or B.O. 546-5972 must sell by Dec. 14th.

FOR RENT

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE LOCKED INTO A 10 OR 12 MONTH LEASE, check with us about our new Rental Agreement. We have 1 and 2 bedroom townhouse and garden units starting at $195. plus utilities. Call South Meadow, 256-0166 for further Information.

Furnished 2% Room Apt. All util. included. $195./mo. Allan or Russ 253-3336 or at work 253-3491.

Per. wtd. for own rm. for Spg. sem. 103. 50 Pufftton Vlg. John 549-1298 after 4.

Lrg. Rm. Avail. Now in Amh. house 549-5093.

Bedroom Apt., fair condition, for Dec. 1st, in Northampton. Only $165. Call Skibiski Real Estate 584-3428, 4-6P.M.

1Br. in 4Br. Quiet student household in S. Amherst. Avail. Jan. 1st. 100 +. Call 253-5159 eves after 5.

Housemates for Jan. 1. 1 or 2 people for lge rm. in co-op. Non-smoking, vegetarian household. Rent $146./mo. plus. On bus rte. Call 253-3615 after 5.

1 neat respon per wtd for own rm in 2 bdrm apt, pr bath, for spr sem. Rent $125 util incl. ½ mile frm UM. Eric 549-0582.

Room for rent w/ 2 older men non-smokers $55/mo & utilities – Northwood Apts. 665-4364 (try late).

1 Br. Sunderland w/ AC, dshwsh, tnns, bus, disp. Util. incl. $185. avail. Jan. 665-3603.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

2br apt 5 miles fr campus Jan-Aug 235 a month everything included call,665-3536.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

Female roommate wanted for Rolling Green Apts. Starting Jan. 1 inquire #163.

2 bedrooms avail in spacious coed house. Beginning Jan 1. Greds preferred, all considered, pets O.K. 100 + call 253-9824.

Room available/3 bedroom apt. Echo Hill, starting Jan 1. Call 253-5288 keep trying.

3 bdrom house 285 +, pets OK, 256-6732.

TO SUBLET

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

2 Bedroom Apt. Dec. 22-Jan.27. Completely furnished. On bus route. Brittany Manor. B.O. Call 256-0318.

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

One F. to rent 1 bdr. of 2 bdr. apt. on bus line Jan-May or longer 549-5868.

1 Bdrm. eff apt. Cliffside, Sunderland. Jan 78-Aug 78 $155./mon., util. incl. Apt. can be seen any week day between 5-8P.M. Apt.#222.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

2 bed. Cliffside, Jan. 1 or after, 230./mo. includes all. Bus, pool. 665-2720.

2 Br. fur. apt. B. Manor Dec.23-Jan.26. 253-2400.

Spg sem 2bdrm Cliffside Apt 665-4107.

1 bedrm. $180 inc. util. 665-2512.

Person needed for 1 bdrm Brandywine Apt Dec 21-Jan 25 Cheap call Yasi 549-0865.

1 bdrm. apt. near campus – Amh. country location. $180 inc. util. Call 549-6568 if we're not at home, keep trying.

WANTED

Nonsmoking female to share 2bdrm. apt. in So. Amherst. 122. + 256-8752 bus, pool.

F. Rmate wtd., nonsmkr. $70./mth. 549-2804.

1 Male Wanted to share apt. near Pufftn w 3 other people during spr. sem. Room avail. during Jan. too. Call 549-5978.

1 or 2 males to share own room in 2 bedroom Amherst apts. for spring semester. On bus route $122. plus electricity. Heat included. Call 256-0318 after 4P.M.

Qualified Tutor needed for Chem.III. Spring sem.-exc. pay. Call 546-5613.

Bicycle-Mixte or 19" diam. frame or complete bike. Will pay for quality. Call Chris 256-0346.

Wanted: would to buy a double mattress. 546-5233 Karen (after 5).

1 Fem. wanted for next sem. Own rm. $98./mo. plus eclec. In Puffton Vil. Call 549-4866 eves, ask for Nancy or Elly.

Area musisian seeks deadheads, nostalgia freaks and people into recording. Open up. Dwight, 253-3938.

ROOM WANTED

Room for Jan. near campus. Ed 546-1159.

HELP WANTED

Student Intern for Transitional Residence in Holyoke. Supervision and weekly stipend to be provided. Six month commitment. Sent resume to Office, 450 Maple Street, Holyoke, Ma. 01040.

Exp. women printer to share skills w/ women's print collective. Call Angela 9-5 586-5079 or Jaque 268-3344.

The Student Organizing Project is accepting applications for student organizers. Both work-study and non work-study positions are open and will begin Feb. 1. Applicants should have an understanding of student unionization. Application deadline is Dec. 8. Apply Rm. 426 Student Union Bld.

Applications being accepted for SGA Director of Communications. Inquire at Rm. 420 S.U. This is a salaried position. The SGA is an Equal Opportunity, Affirmative Action Employer.

For next semester. Small sorority needs kitchen, diningroom workers for lunch, Dinner. Work 5 meals, eat 7. Call 549-1587.

Waitress wanted ME Bar LOUNGE 584-7200.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546 4731. Rea.

SERVICES

BERKSHIRE FORUM WEEKEND VACATIONS: Expertly led discussions, stimuating companions, fine food, mountains. Dec. 9-11, "Arab-Israeli Conflict." Dec. 16-18, "Harry Magdoff on Eurocommunism." Dec. 23-26, "Holiday Film Festival." Write/call Berkshire Forum, Stephentown, N.Y. 12168; (518) 733-5497.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A/C phone, the works all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

After Five professional typing 734-0044.

Theses typed: call Melanie, 253-7553.

Free Kitten 9 wk., male. 549-3937 eves.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All yrs and models. low prices. Jack 586-0610

Daytona Beach is only $147.20 away. You can now afford to go to a beachfront hotel, have Disneyworld and New Years in Florida. For more info or reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Tune up timing chain valves etc. Good rates. 545-0472 AM.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

AUDIO

Sony 6300 Stereo Tape deck, like new. $275. 253-9887 or 253-9461.

MAC-MA230-$185, Cyna-FM-3-$60, Advent 201 & tapes-$200, Call Ken 546-4035.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

RIDERS WANTED

Denver Colorado mid-December 665-3938.

LOST

Lost Grey Tiger Cat. Male vacinity N. Pleasant St. Call 545-0966.

Lost one necklace: gold chain with small brown stone-topaz-pendant. Reward offered. Please contact Elise Cocke, 586-0918.

PERSONALS

Dearest Rob: All my love to you on your birthday....Love and kisses! Jean.

ATTENTION-Lee-Weiss-Read-this-twice-look- where-you-rest-your-head-look under your- bed. Secret- Santa-strikes-again.

APHRODITE, I love you more than any other woman, but it hurts. Love ADONIS.

Looking for a home? Sigma Kappa Sorority seeks boarders for spring. Friendly, homey, 3 meals/day, comparable to University costs. Call 256-6887.

Hamp.Col. Amy lets play tennis. Bruce 253-9328.

Joyce - at the Gres - Merry Christmas - S.S.

Tony Anderson—we have your money. Joe, Phil and Perry. 545-3500.

To my Angels: The best of wishes to you all over the Christmas vacation. Maybe we can get together in January. Have fun but always be prepared for your next assignment. Watch out for Rosely! All of my love, Charlie.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis for Finals. Make retention & recall easier, improve concentration & relaxation for exams, get better grades. Campus Center M.W.Th. at 7,8,&9P.M. $5./session. Dorm groups by arrgt. Call Mr. Morse Hypnotist Consultant M.Ed. 532-5703.

JUST FOR DEB

Please forgive me for being sick all semester; I guess I haven't had too much luck...Well, I did get lucky once....and having you babe, sure made bein' sick a whole lot easier.

I love ya, Bobalou

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

★What's Happening

CONT. FROM PAGE 10

LECTURE

— "Aikido and Shinto" at 1:30 p.m., and "Aikido and Women" at 3 p.m. Both lectures are by Mary Heiny. Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire. Refreshments will be served.

— "The Effects of Spontaneous Membrane Activity (Action Potentials) and Concentration on Music Maturation in Vitro" by Assoc. Biology Prof. Jeanne A. Powell. McConnell Hall, BO5, Smith.

HOLIDAY SALE

The 4th Annual Holiday Sale of Ceramics and Glass, Munson Annex. Hours 9-9 Fri., Sat. 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

SLIDE SHOW

— Matt Ross, a member of the National Lawyers Guild, will present a slide show on Israeli violations of the rights of the Palestinian people. 3 p.m. CC 165-9. Sponsored by the Commuter Collective.

DISCO

— Professional disc jockey K-rock will be featured at a disco in the Van Meter South basement lounge beginning at 10 p.m. American and international snacks will be on sale. Sponsored by the Central Area Council and VMS.

— The People's Gay Alliance invites all people to a Gay disco from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m., 10th fl. CC. $1 donation.

DAILY

CREATIVE WRITING

If you will be around during Boston during January, enjoy creative writing and would like to join a group, call Kerri at 6-7049.

MILLER ANALOGIES TEST

Effective Jan. 1, 1978, the cost of the Miller Analogies Test will increase from $6.50 to $8. Payment is made at the time of testing and should be in the form of a check or money order payable to the University of Massachusetts. The test is given Thursdays at 1 p.m. in Berkshire House 303.

Candidates are entitled to 3 institutional score reports to be sent out at the time of testing and must have the complete addresses, including zip codes, with them. A photo I.D. and several sharpened No. 2 pencils will also be needed. For more information, contact the Community Development Center, 50333.

INTERNSHIPS WITH NORTHAMPTON TENANT UNION

Researchers with some math and statistical background needed to study the relations between assessed value for tax purposes and actual market value of different types of property in all the wards of Northampton. The researchers will work closely with tenant advocates and with community groups demanding corrective re-evaluation. Academic credit available for full or part-time internships. Contact the Office of Internships, 408 Goodell or call NTU 586-4237.

UMASS CREDIT UNION

The credit union offers low interest loans. Open Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Intersession hours: Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, 10-3.

MARKS MEADOW AFTER SCHOOL DAY CARE

Earn 4 to 6 credits as a staff member in Marks Meadow Program 2-5 aft-wk. Program meets Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, 2:45-5:45, Wednesday 1-5:45. Staff meetings Thursday at 9:30. Chance to lead activities for groups of children ages 5-11. Contact Sylvia Lindsay 665-3990.

Notices

STUDENT HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

Meeting 5:30, CC 169. Several important issues are pending including election of a co-chairman.

FS & N CLUB

Sell tickets for the raffle to Ft. Lauderdale in March. Please call Charley 546-5991. Also, the annual Christmas party will be Dec. 17 at the Newman Center. Full course buffet and open bar - $4. Must buy tickets in advance from Noel, 324 Chenoweth.

UMASS HANG GLIDERS

Last meeting 8 p.m., CC 902. We have lessons and gliders and will be going all winter long.

J.P. STEVENS BOYCOTT COMMITTEE

Meeting 7:30 p.m. CC

NEAG REPS

Last meeting Hamlin Conference Room, 6:30 p.m. Everyone welcome.

BELCHERTOWN SATURDAY VOLUNTEERS

Annual Christmas Party with the residents of the school Saturday. The bus will leave Whitmore at 11:45 a.m. Please be prompt.

STAR TREKERS

Final meeting 7 p.m. CC 811. All are welcome.

LOST

Orange pack lost in Bartlett 70. Please return the notebook to lost and found in the CC.

FOUND

Calculator found on the steps of the Grad Research Bldg. Call Mike 6-7722.

SAVE DURING THE HOLIDAYS AT BIG 'Y'!
HAPPY HOLIDAYS!

SEAGRAM "7" WHISKEY
80 PROOF Why pay $12.95?
59.2 oz $9.69

H.W. TEN HIGH BOURBON
80 PROOF Why pay $11.99? 59.2oz $8.99

FLEISCHMANN'S GIN $8.69
80 PROOF Why pay $10.05? 59.2 oz

BACARDI RUM
80 PROOF 59.2oz Why pay $12.89? $9.99

CANADA HOUSE CANADIAN
80 PROOF $8.49 Why pay $10.49? 59.2 oz

HARVEY'S BRISTOL CREAM
25oz Why pay $8.20? $5.59

MILWAUKEE PREMIUM BEER
24 12oz no return bottles (Why pay $4.99?) $3.59

COSSACK 80 PROOF 59.2 OZ VODKA Why pay $9.79? $7.69

D'AMOUR FLAVORED BRANDIES
80 Proof, Why Pay $6.59? quart $4.39

YOSEMITE ROAD TABLE WINES Why pay $3.19 3 LITE $2.69

d'amour's BIG Y
WINES & LIQUORS AT LOW PRICES!
3 convenient locations...all next to BIG 'Y'
•HAMP PLAZA KING STREET ROUTE 5 NORTHAMPTON
•FAIRVIEW ROUTE 33 MEMORIAL DRIVE BIG Y'S SHOPPING CENTER
•BRECKWOOD WILBRAHAM ROAD SPRINGFIELD

---

entertainment

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

PARTY'S GOING QUITE WELL, DON'T YOU THINK?
YEAH! WE GOT A PRETTY GOOD TURNOUT!
HEY, WHERE'S ZONKER? I HAVEN'T SEEN HIM ALL NIGHT!
OH, HE'S HERE! I JUST SAW HIM IN THE KITCHEN, TALKING TO A 25 MILLION MILLIGRAM TAB OF ACID!
SO WHAT ARE YOUR PLANS FOR THE HOLIDAYS, BIG FELLAH?
I'M THINKING OF TURNING ON DETROIT, MAN!
12-8
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

ROSES ARE RED, VIOLETS ARE BLUE, BUT DAISIES GET LAZY WHEN...
...WHEN...
COVERED WITH DEW
THAT'S IT!... COVERED WITH...
AAARRGGHH
12-8

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz

PSST!
?
THIS IS A HARD TEST, ISN'T IT, SIR?
WHAT DID YOU PUT DOWN FOR THE LAST QUESTION?
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
12-7
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Wait, Mark - don't jump to any hasty conclusions.
Think about it first - Look before you leap.
They really do want to get rid of me.
Hey, this is better than TV!
Ranney 12/8

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

SPEAKING OF EYES, THERE IS ONE TRAINED ON DENNIS NOW.
A GUNSIGHT!
DANGER...LOOK BELOW
WHERE... WHAT'S THAT?
A BETA-WARHEAD MISSILE PRODUCING RADIATION DEADLY TO ALL FORMS OF LIFE; AND MY SHIELDS ARE INOPERABLE DURING FLIGHT.
DENNIS INCREASES HIS SPEED.
BUT TO NO AVAIL!
I CAN'T OUTRUN IT, I'LL HAVE TO BLAST IT.
I'VE GOT TO GIVE IT ALL I'VE GOT.
IT ISN'T WORKING.
JUST SECONDS BEFORE IMPACT...ONLY...ONE...LAST...CHANCE...
ROLLINS 12-8

UM by Marty Maceda

I DON'T CARE WHAT YOU CALL IT, IT'S ILLOGICAL BABBLE TO ME.
IT SO HAPPENS "MR SPOK" THAT SCAT HAS A LOGIC ALL ITS OWN.
IT'S CALLED SCAT-O-LOGIC.
YOU'RE FULL OF SHIT.
MACEDA 12-8

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

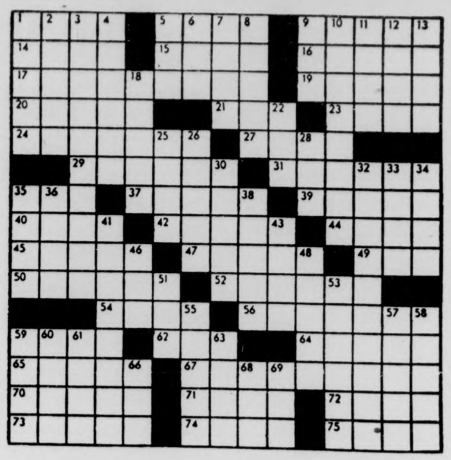
BENNY-X IS CRUSHING THE HEADS OF GERALD AND PROF. BUSDUCK
BOMP!
OH NO! IT'S BENB!
BENB PULLS OUT A PIECE OF DENSE NEUTRON MATTER* WITH AN UNBELIEVABLY STRONG GRAVITATIONAL FIELD!
THE FIELD SUCKS DR. BENNY-X INTO THE CHUNK AT NEAR THE SPEED OF LIGHT!
12/9
LAFLER

*THE NEUTRON MATTER IS ACTUALLY A PIECE OF SUPER-NOVA REMNANT



ACROSS

1 Money outlay
5 Wine area
9 Lab. chemicals
14 Writer: Abbr.
15 Plant in soil
16 Calgary Stampede, e.g.
17 Pyrotechnic device: 2 words
19 Omen of sorrow
20 ----- Flynn
21 Obstacle
23 Piece of gossip
24 Keeps in custody
27 Sat on and drove
29 Soaks
31 Field event
35 Fleshy
37 Irritates
39 Kitchen appliance
40 Andy's partner
42 Below: Poetic
44 Crested duck
45 African river
47 Sirloin, e.g.
49 Gold miner's utensil
50 Felt one's way
52 Stern
54 At a distance
56 Good names
59 Terror
62 Informal term of address
64 Driver's license, maybe: Informal
65 Finery
67 "That makes ---- -----!"
70 Italian poet
71 Cygnus
72 Riffraff
73 Plumlike fruits
74 Set system
75 Letters

DOWN

1 Surveyed pre-crime
2 Eccentric
3 Gets under way: 3 words
4 Part of the body
5 Mountain ---
6 Behold
7 Notify
8 Indolent one
9 Biblical vessel
10 Struggles
11 Notion
12 Secluded valley
13 Filet of ----
18 More sneaky
22 Br. wool weight
25 Gas
26 Espionage agents
28 Negation: Prefix
30 Narrow strips
32 Ability
33 Part of the eye
34 Made with needle and thread
35 Snake's weapon
36 Turk. title
38 Guide a vessel
41 Disunite
43 Own
46 Ump
48 Military caps
51 Flounder
53 Most uncivil
55 Hearsay
57 Follow
58 Slender stalks
59 Temporary crazes
60 Epochal
61 It. river
63 Large knife
66 Agree to 68 "Hooey!"
69 Sooner than

UNITED Feature Syndicate

Wednesday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| E | A | T | S | | T | A | S | S | | S | T | A | I | R |
| S | L | O | T | | E | M | U | S | | P | O | N | C | E |
| K | I | T | E | | M | I | S | T | R | E | A | T | E | D |
| A | C | H | E | | A | S | P | | E | L | D | E | R | S |
| R | E | E | L | S | | S | E | P | A | L | | | | |
| | | N | E | A | L | | N | E | D | | G | A | I | T |
| S | R | I | | B | O | A | S | T | | S | A | L | V | O |
| T | E | N | N | E | S | S | E | E | V | A | L | L | E | Y |
| E | M | E | E | R | | C | A | R | O | L | | O | S | S |
| M | I | S | T | | R | O | C | | W | A | T | T | | |
| | | | | D | U | T | C | H | | D | A | T | E | S |
| S | T | A | R | E | D | | O | A | T | | T | A | R | O |
| H | Y | P | O | T | E | N | U | S | E | | T | B | A | R |
| A | R | I | S | E | | A | N | T | A | | E | L | S | E |
| G | O | N | E | R | | S | T | E | R | | D | E | E | R |

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8 — Born today, you enjoy an active social life. You take much from your contacts with other people and from the sense of self-satisfaction engendered by them. You are not destined to be particularly wealthy, though you should always have more than enough to satisfy life's basic needs. You are generous, often giving away more than you keep. You are especially generous, however, with your spiritual assets – strength of character, will power, sense of security, and so on. You find it most unpleasant to be with one in want, financial or otherwise, and you try to keep people from reaching that state.

You have an excellent nose for profit and where to find it. Projects which to others may seem doomed to financial failure you may see as gainful, and in general you are right. You are not blind to the possibility of failure, however, and you look with an intelligent, educated, wary eye on any endeavor promising quick results. More often than not, such care pays off.

You are envious of those who make quick and easy attachments to other people. You have a need for company and desire for close relationships, but you do not come to them without discomfort on the approach. In general, however, the relationships you form are more permanent, more loving and loyal than most.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birithday star be your daily guide.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 9

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Your envy and another's jealousy cause a stalemate in a new relationship. Keep promises at evening.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — Don't let caution be mistaken for headstrong hesitation. Allow another the benefit of the doubt later.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — You may reach the pinnacle of success in an unusual enterprise. Take another into confidence at evening.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Control emotional responses this morning or you won't have things your way during the evening.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — Dualistic tendencies may cause you to vacillate on suggestions for different activities.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Early conflicting emotions concern those who wait until you decide. Try to redirect your thoughts.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — A beneficial development at work makes this a day for gain in the long run.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — A spirited beginning yields a successful and profitable afternoon. Children may add confusion at evening.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — If you are determined to have things your way, only lack of talent and time will keep them otherwise.

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Criticism helps you and another make benefical changes in work. Leisure activities may confuse you.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Practice restraint today as you approach others for the support you need for new projects.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Loyal companions help you stand firm. Reserve your best for your true friends later today.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

sports

New pro B-Ball loop slated to start play

NEW YORK [UPI] — The NBA's reduction of player rosters from 12 to 11 this year has already had the effect of swelling the talent in other pro leagues in the U.S. and Europe and yesterday the inevitable birth of another professional basketball circuit was announced.

The All American Basketball Alliance (AABA), a fulltime pro circuit will open play next year with teams in eight cities. League President David Segal, a Philadelphia attorney said the league's opener is scheduled for Louisville, Ky., Jan. 6.

The league will operate initially with four 10-man teams in each of two divisions and feature two 37-game seasons between Jan. 6 and June 1. NBA rules will prevail except for the addition of the 3-point play.

The AABA will be composed of two sections:

Northern Division: New York Guard (New York City), Indiana Wizards (Indianapolis-Anderson), Kentucky Stallions (Louisville), and Rochester (team name to be announced).

Southern Division: Carolina Lightening (Winston-Salem), West Virginia Wheels (Wheeling), Georgia Titans (Macon) and Virginia Sailors (Richmond).

"Every year," Segal explained, "The NBA accepts at least 50 rookies from 1,032 varsity basketball college teams, and consequently 50 players from the previous year's roster must be dropped from the NBA, leaving those NBA quality players no other fulltime American League in which to play.

"The AABA has taken the best of these players and put them together with highly skilled professional coaches to give the eight league cities top flight basketball."

"The AABA is not intending to compete with the NBA," indicates Thomas Ficara, League operations director, who previously worked in the Cleveland Brown's front office. "The cities selected, with the exception of New York, do not possess an NBA franchise, and we are not going to compete with the NBA for players."

The base salary proposed for players will be a minimum of $9,600. However, players would earn more if their share of net game profits exceeds that figure. Players will get from 4 to 8 per cent of gross receipts minus game expenses.

Among the pros who have signed contracts are Maurice "Mo" Howard, former No. 2 draft choice of the Cleveland Cavaliers; Willie Norwood, former six-year NBA veteran; Freddie Lewis, former Indiana Pacer star; Andre McCarter, former UCLA All-American and two-year NBA veteran, and Fly Williams, who starred at Austin-Peay and the spirit of St. Louis team in the old ABA.

Also, Jim Bradley, 6-10 Center and a starter for the Kentucky Colonels ABA championship team; Mel Daniels, a perennial ABA all-star, Coniel Norman, former Philadelphia 76er guard, and Chuckie Williams, last season's No. 1 draft pick of the Cleveland Cavs.

Notre Dame's Ross Browner, a 6'3", 247 pound defensive end, was named UPI Defensive Lineman of the Year for 1977 yesterday. It was the second year in a row Browner, who holds all the career defensive records at ND, has been given the honor. He led the Irish to a 10-1 record. (UPI photo)

Goodbye Boston Garden?

BOSTON [AP] — A proposed new sports arena for Boston got a boost when three major league teams agreed to occupancy terms. Mayor Kevin H. White said yesterday.

White said he will see the support of Gov. Michael S. Dukakis and legislative leaders to create an arena authority to build, own and operate the facility.

It would cost approximately $38 million and seat 18,000. The location has not been determined, but a spokesman in the mayor's office said the South Station area is one being considered.

White announced that the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association have approved a 10-year lease to play in the new arena.

He said the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League and the Boston Lobsters of World Team Tennis have approved 16-year leases.

The Celtics and Bruins now play at Boston Garden, and the Lobsters at the Walter Brown Arena at Boston University.

The proposed arena authority would have to raise enough revenue to cover debt service and to make annual payments to Boston in lieu of taxes.

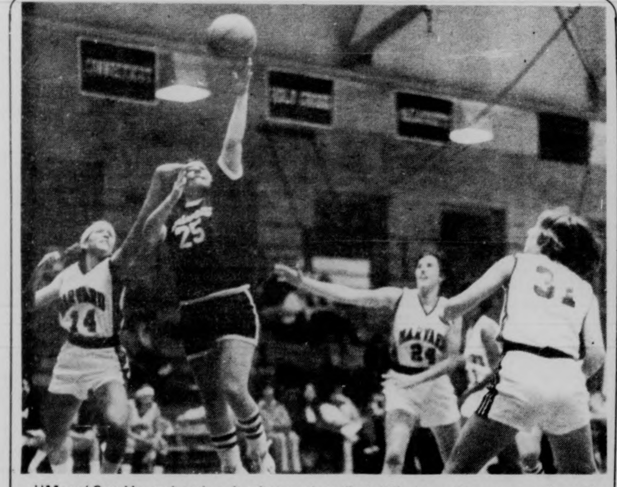
Boston Garden, now owned by the owners of the Bruins, eventually would become state property.

White said the arena "would benefit the entire region without burdening Boston taxpayers."

He praised a group formed in July and headed by developer Martin Zuckerman of Boston Urban Association for its work on the project.

"They have brought back a proposal which would provide a fist class sports facility and convention center for the New England region, but would not impose a tax liability on Boston," White said.

"It would pay for itself."



UMass' Sue Henry lays in a bucket against Radcliffe in earlier game action. The women hoopsters will next be in action against Vermont Saturday. (Staff photo by Pat Dobbs)

Attention all undergraduates who have not fulfilled the rhetoric requirement:

Rhetoric Exemption Exam:

The Rhetoric Exemption Exam will be offered on Dec. 8 from 7-10 pm.
A-L in SBA 120
M-Z in Thompson 102

The exam will consist of writing a 500 word essay which will be evaluated on the following criteria: depth of treatment, development and support, organization, style, and the mechanics of writing, such as grammar, punctuation and spelling.

Please bring several pencils, your ID, and 25 cents to partially cover the cost of administering the exam.

You may exempt both Group I and Group II rhetoric by taking and passing this exam.

AFROTC

Air Force ROTC can give more value to your college years and help you pay for your schooling at the same time. You can compete for a two, three, or four-year Air Force ROTC scholarship that will pay you $100 a month and pay for your tuition, books and lab fees, too.

Plus, there's flight instruction for those who qualify, a commission as a second lieutenant after graduation, then responsibility and challenge in an Air Force job.

The list goes on. Check it out.

Call 5-2437

Gateway to a Great Way of Life

Work-Study Jobs!!

The Toward Tomorrow Fair is now seeking work-study students for spring semester.

Available positions are in public relations, program development, and administration.

Learn a skill equal to your education!

For more information call Rick Taupier at 545-0474 or drop by 102C Hasbrouck

EXPLORE YOUR FUTURE TODAY!!!

The Hideout

PIZZA-GRINDERS-SANDWICHES-COLD DRINKS

During these last weeks of the semester, call us for the fastest delivery of the very best pizzas and grinders anywhere.

Call 256-0441

Open extra late this week

RUSSELL'S LIQUORS

| A VODKA & GIN QUARTS SPECIAL | ICE COLD KEG BEER | SCHMIDT'S 12 oz cans |
|---|---|---|
| | $21.00 And Up | $5.90 case$1.50 six |

In-door Savings too good to be advertised.
Come see for yourself!
- UNLIMITED QUANTITIES ON SALES ITEMS
- NO EXTRA FOR DELIVERY
- AMHERST'S CLOSEST LIQUOR STORE TO UMASS

In Amherst Center, across from the green 253-5441

COLLEGE SKI WEEK CARNIVAL AT KILLINGTON, VERMONT
January 15-20, 1978

- Five Day Lift Ticket
- Five Nights in Hotel
- 10 Great Meals
- Ski 50 Runs, 3000' Drop
- Nightly Entertainment
- Dance to Live Bands
- Free Keg Party
- Extras

ONLY $119.50 to $139.50

Call: DAVID GHAREEB 546-7856

All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

Need something to get
HIGH ON?

Try Hang Gliding — the ultimate high

Special rates for students

Come in and see our movie and our complete line on custom shirts and necklaces.

THE HANG GLIDER CENTER
Rt. 9 in Hadley, next to Hajees

The Mercantile
in the Carriage Shops Amherst

Where Secret Santa shops!

Open Sundays 'til Christmas

...the home of unusual gifts

Spirit Haus
Liquor Store
open 'till 11 p.m. daily
SPECIALS-OF-THE-WEEK
15% OFF
LOUIS MARTINI CALIFORNIA WINES
SEBASTIANI GALLONS
CHABLIS, BURGUNDY, VIN ROSE
$5.99
REFRIGERATORS ARE HERE — AVAILABLE NOW
338 College St. (Rt. 9) Amherst 253-5384
256-8433 E-Z Parking

sports

Wrestlers on the road; Harvard next victim?

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

The UMass varsity wrestling team travels to Cambridge this weekend for what will be its final match before intersession, as the Minutemen take on Harvard.

Because of a multitude of team injuries of late, coach Dave Amato has had to shuffle his lineup considerably. The most prominent omission this weekend will be that of co-captain Timmy Fallon, who was due to be released from the infirmary today after being held several days for observation.

Fallon was found to have food poisoning, and although the ailment is not a serious one, he will not be making the trip to Harvard.

Amato will replace Fallon, who wrestles at 150 pounds, with either Mike Carroll or Steve McLarney.

"Both Mike and Steve are also injured," said Amato. "I'm planning on taking the one who is healthy."

In the lower weight classes, Amato will switch off with his super lightweight tandem of Dana Rasmussen and Tony Perry, as they will wrestle at 118 pounds and 126 pounds respectively. This will be Perry's first collegiate match in the heavier weight class, and it will be Rasmussen's second match at 118 pounds.

"I think that they are both capable of competing in either class," said Amato.

As usual, Larry Otsuka will handle the chores at 134 pounds. Otsuka is red-hot right now, after going 5-0 last weekend to take first place in his weight class at a college meet at Coast Guard.

Co-captain Kevin Griffin will make his season's debut on Saturday, and will wrestle at 167 pounds. Griffin's most comfortable weight is 158 pounds, but Amato will probably use him in the higher weight until he feels the New England champion has regained the form that brought him to national competition last season.

Also wrestling will be Charley Rigogliso (142 pounds), Mike Cunningham (158 pounds), Steve Whitman (177 pounds), and Bob Clark (190 pounds).

In the heavyweight category John Allen is also injured, and Amato may go with Marty Rogers.

Wrestling Notes — The junior varsity team will open its season tonight at 7:00 when it does battle with Springfield College at Boyden Auxiliary Gym.

Rookie coach Dennis Fenton announced his lineup yesterday, and also stated that he will use three 134 pound wrestlers, two 142 pound wrestlers, and also two wrestlers in the 167 pound and 177 pound categories.

Greg Schoener, Dave Daly, and Bill Ranzuli will wrestle at 134 pounds; Joe Marra and Gary Rotatori at 142 pounds; Dave O'Brien and Howard Goldman at 167 pounds; and Santos Lozados and Fred Rheault at 177 pounds.

The Schoener, Marra, O'Brien, and Santos matches will count toward the total team score, while the other matches are scored as exhibitions.

Also wrestling will be Rich Schriazzi (118 pounds), Ray Murphy (126 pounds), Steve McLarney (150 pounds), Mike Cunningham (158 pounds), Bob Radiwitz (190 pounds), and Marty Rogers (heavyweight).

Howe nets 1,000th goal

HARTFORD, Conn. [UPI] — Gordie Howe's 1,000th goal was almost anti-climatic and certainly a relief.

With almost every accolade earned that can befall a sports figure, the 49-year-old super-star, in his 30th year of professional play, collected his 1,000th goal last night on a first-period power play against the Bermingham Bulls in Alabama.

Howe's historic marker for the New England Whalers — based in Hartford — came on assists from John McKenzie and Mike Antonovic at 1:36 of the World Hockey Association contest. The Whalers went on to win 6-2.

Now that it's over, the frontrunning Whalers can resume their winning ways without the distraction of television cameras and the hordes of radio and newspaper reporters that followed Howe to record the event.

Howe's coach, Harry Neale, wished for more than one reason for Howe's 1,000th.

Neale's been irritated by the media crush. "They want to interview him in the men's room, the shower, on the bus, everywhere," said Neale after Howe's 999th goal Nov. 10 in Hartford.

The essence of Howe's skill is his cool composure in even the most hectic skirmishes among players, many of whom were not born when he turned pro in 1944.

Howe, who will be 50 in March, moves deliberately, manipulating the stock and pick in an expert manner that still thrills the crowds. He has switched from his youthful speed to a more gentle motion as he glides effortlessly between younger players. He never wears a helmet.

Sometimes awkward in their eagerness, they usually give a wide berth to the Saskatchewan native whose stoic face and silent moves are always felt when he's on the ice.

While all the sports world and media waited for the event, Howe was his usual placid self.

Toward the end of his 25 golden years with the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League, he said he felt the most pressure in surpassing the NHL all time record of 544 goals by Maurice Richard.

Now concerned with pacing himself, Howe said he didn't feel pressure going for the 1,000th goal.

Howe's steady play in more than 1,700 games is reflected in career statistics that do not show spurts or lulls. His best year statistically was the 1968-69 season, the only one in which he scored more than 100 points for Detroit.

Howe had retired for two years after leaving Detroit, but with two promising hockey playing sons, Marty and Mark, he returned to the ice wars. He went to Houston where the Aeros hoped to capitalize on the magic Howe name in the fledgling WHA. Howe led the Aeros to two straight AVCO World trophies, the sympol of the WHA championship.

Two years later, the Howe family and Aeros management parted ways, and last May, the Whalers decided to cast their lot with a living legend in bringing a winner to Hartford.

So far the legend has lived up to his fame.

Sports Notices

INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL — officials meeting today at 5:30 p.m. rm. 215 Boyden. If you attended the first meeting, do not come.

RA SUPERVISORS — you are required to attend only one meeting — tomorrow at 4 p.m. or Monday at 4 p.m., rm. 215 Boyden.

NOPE basketball courts will be closed, Saturday Dec. 10.

Collegian Sports

Wrestlers grapple Harvard - p. 15

New pro hoop league planned - p. 14

Snap losing streak

Hockey team stuns Army, 4-0

By MICHAEL McHUGH
Collegian Staff

WEST POINT, NY — Army had the scoring punch and the reputation, but the UMass Minutemen had the desire, as the icemen's goal production in every period snapped a five game losing streak last night and defeated the Cadets 4-0 before 500 chilly fans at Smith Arena.

Don Murphy's great individual effort at 12:45 of the third period put the game out of reach of the Cadets, as he made the score 3-0. Murphy fired three shots from the point, with Army goalie Chris Kilcoyne letting the third slide past him for a power play goal.

Joey Milan made the victory even sweeter as he took a pass from Nick Carney and fired the puck past Kilcoyne with only a minute left in the game.

UMass coach Jack Canniff was ecstatic after the victory over Army, which was ranked third in the ECAC's West Division last year, and which posted a 21-6-1 record. "It's just what this club needed," he said of his team.

The Minutemen broke the scoring ice at 8:32 of the first period when T J O'Brien took a pass from Bob Gould and Brian Kittredge and fired a 14 foot slap shot that Kilcoyne bobbled and dropped behind him into the net.

Both UM netminder John Riley and Kilcoyne played brilliantly in the opening stanza, as they both turned aside 10 testing shots.

Riley was particularly impressive as he thwarted a screeching Dave Yancey 60-foot slap shot with a lightning fast skate save and denied Yancey with his skate once again on a 10-foot wrist shot two minutes later.

The period was marked by sloppiness in both ends, penalties, and slews of whistles. There were 12 first period panalties (six on each squad) that forced both teams to play short handed for a portion of the period.

The Minutemen were able to kill off an Army two man advantage early in the period, but the Cadets turned right around at the halfway point and killed a UM two man advantage.

The lone goal in the second period was an artistic masterpiece produced by the Minutemen. Milan brought the puck over the blueline, and flipped a beautiful backhand pass across ice to Carney, streaking down left wing, who broke in all alone on Kilcoyne and beat him to the stick side at 15:37.

Two UMass defensemen made outstanding defensive plays that probably saved two goals. Chris Lowey dove and poked the puck off the stick of Army's Tom Glenn and Jamie Benelli made a sliding Bobby Orr block of a John Harrison pass into the slot while the Minutemen were shorthanded.

Army's Yancey was denied by Riley again, this time on a clean breakaway, as he fired the puck wide to the left of the net after Riley had cut down the angle.

The referees made two unbelievable calls in the middle period. One was for too many players on the ice, as Lowey had one leg over the boards and one skate on the ice, and the other for icing when the Minutemen were shorthanded.

Through two periods, Army had 17 shots on goal, while UM had 16 shots on net.

Freshman John Nelson competes here on the parallel bars, but is a high, or horizontal bar specialist. Nelson won that event in the U of Lowell meet last night. (Staff photo by Spike)

Trackster display fine form in Guard Relays

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

NEW LONDON, Conn. — The UMass men's track team set a freshman record in the mile relay and also had the fastest times in two other events at the Coast Guard Relays yesterday.

The meet is held each year as an informal program timed by the respective coaches to allow New England runners to compete on a fast facility before the end of the season championship meets.

After they just missed the record in the UConn meet, it was only a matter of time before the freshman mile relay record fell. Combining for the standard setting mark of 3:29.2 were Rich Cady (52.5), Rich Handshuch (52.4), Billy Hill (52.6) and Dan Kelly (51.5).

The Minutemen also ran the best times of the meet in the mile and two mile relays.

Winning the mile relay in 3:22.5 was the quartet of Francis O'Keefe (51.5), Billy Conant (52.0), Mark Healy (50.5) and Joe Martens (48.5).

The two mile relay also broke the tape first in 7:46, as Healy (1:55), O'Keefe (1:56), Bob Hunt (1:57) and Martens (1:57) handled the baton.

The team also sent several distance runners to compete in the two mile. Mike Quinn ran 9:04 after resting a couple weeks after attaining All-American honors at the NCAA cross country meet.

Jay Legere (9:09) and Tom Wolff (9:13) ran their fastest times indoors and Stevie Hilyard (9:15) and freshman Mike Doiron (9:22) ran personal best times.

"Our guys ran very, very well for this early in the season," said assistant coach Arnie Morse. "We're happy with the times we turned in."

The Minutemen also ran the second fastest two mile relay with Steve MacDougall (1:56.5), Dave Lipinski (1:57.5), Steve Lafler (2:00) and Rich Thompson (2:01) each running a leg as the quartet finished in 7:54.

Cady ran a 6.4 second time in the dash, which is only one tenth of a second away from the freshman record.

"He has an excellent chance to break that before the indoor season is over," said Morse.

Kelly (7.6) and sophomore Jay Ennis (7.5) also ran "excellent times" in the high hurdles, according to Morse. Ennis, who still has freshman eligibility, had the second fastest time of the day in the hurdles, which were only run in heats.

The UMass track team ran several fast times, personal records and one school record at the Coast Guard Relays yesterday. The meet is the last before intersession. (Staff photo by Dave Rodman)

EAA wrapup

Villanova's Reggie Robinson was the recipient of the first Eastern Eight player of the Week honors, it was announced earlier this week. Eleven more players will be honored throughout the season.

Robinson, a senior from Radnor, Pennsylvania, scored 50 points in three Villanova wins last week, while shooting 73.3 per cent from the floor. He also sank six of seven shots from the foul line and grabbed 15 rebounds.

The Wildcats and UMass were the first teams to record victories in the league this season, as Villanova downed West Virginia, and the Minutemen came from behind to defeat George Washington.

In statistics which include all games played, UMass's Mike Pyatt is the league's fourth leading scorer with an 18 points per game average. Mark Haymore is second in field goal percentage at .733.

Alex Eldridge is second in assists to BB Flenory of Duquesne. Flenory is averaging 10 assists per game, while Eldridge is dishing assists at a 7.5 per game clip.

Haymore and Pyatt are ninth and 10th in rebounding, averaging seven caroms per game apiece.

Gym-men nip Lowell

By DAVE RODMAN
Collegian Staff

LOWELL — The UMass men's gymnastics team did the expected last night and defeated the University of Lowell, 177.7-166.1.

"This was not a tough meet," said UMass coach Dick Swetman, "but we didn't expect it to be this close either."

UMass' Bob Donahue won the all-around competition, as he finished with 44.55 points. Bob Lamb was third with 34.4, while Paul O'Neil posted 31.2 points while competing in only five events.

The Minutemen won five of six events on their way to the victory. Two of the team's top gymnasts, freshman Dave Bueglar and John Forshay, did not compete, as they were slightly injured.

"They'll be back in time for the Penn State meet Saturday, though," said Swetman. "Forshay was only resting because this was an easy meet."

UMass totaled 31.1 points in the floor exercise, with Donahue the individual winner with a score of 8.2.

Dave Kulakoff, who is undefeated on the pommel horse this year, won the event again last night with a 9.2 as UMass scored 28.05 points.

"Dave did a real nice job on the horse," said Swetman.

The Minutemen scored 28.15 on the still rings, with Steve Nunno, the team captain, individual winner with an 8.25.

Nunno managed the highest finish in the long-horse vault, as he trailed two ULowell gymnasts to third place with an 8.55 score. The team totaled 32.95, its highest total.

Kulakoff notched his second win on the parallel bars with a 7.8 score, as the team totaled 28.05 points.

HIgh bar specialist John Nelson, a freshman, won the event with a score of 8.45. The team scored 29.48 points.

"John looked real good," said Swetman. "He would've scored higher, but he fell on his dismount."

From a low-pressure, expected win as the Lowell meet, the gym-men will next face Penn State University, one of the top gymnastics teams in the East, if not in the nation.

"Penn State is my alma mater," said Swetman, "so it will be interesting for me. The team always gets psyched for the Penn State meet.

"We don't expect to win, but everyone gets pumped up about facing such a fine squad, and good performances are usually the result.

"The scores of the Lowell meet pretty much speak for themselves — it wasn't a very testing outing — but if people want to see high quality gymanstics, they ought to come out Saturday."

The meet will be a double dual meet, as Penn State and an unnamed opponent will provide the opposition for both the men's team and the women's squad.

The UMass women's gynmastics team has competed in the nationals for several years and features Susan Cantwell of TV fame, along with a host of other fine gymnasts.

---

BELOW·THE·SALT

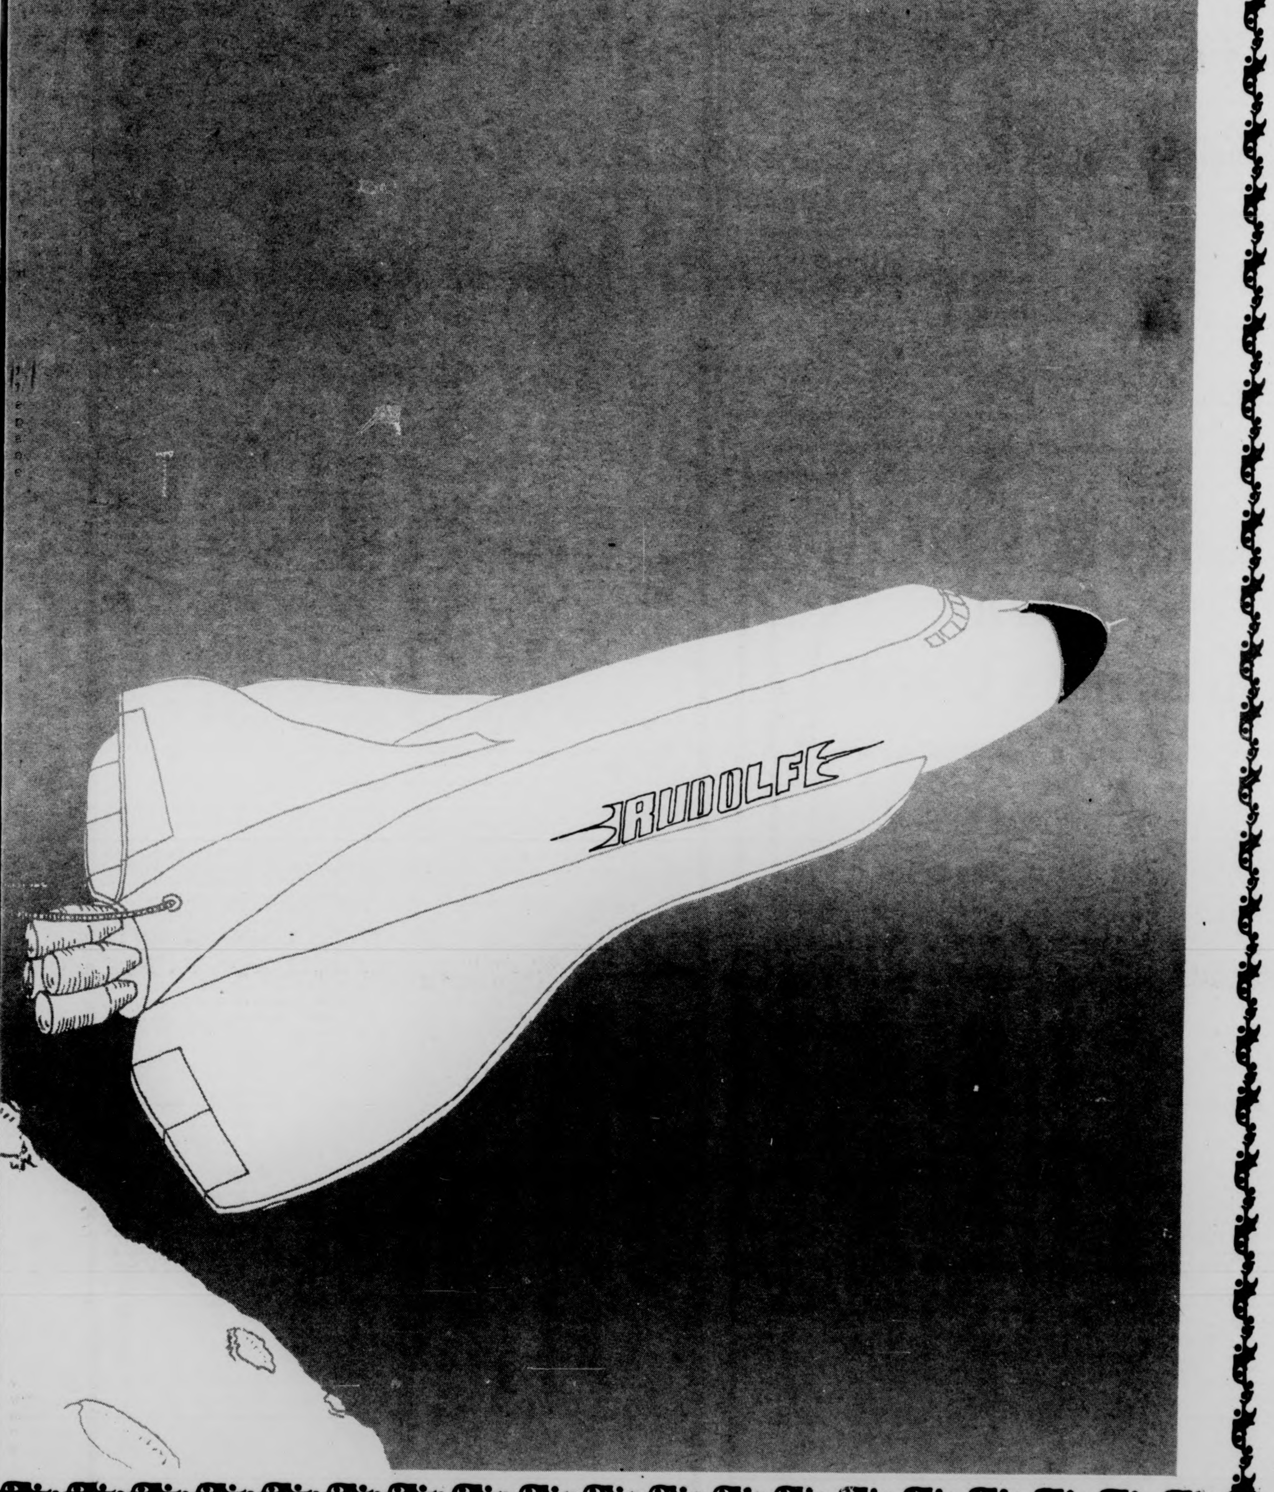
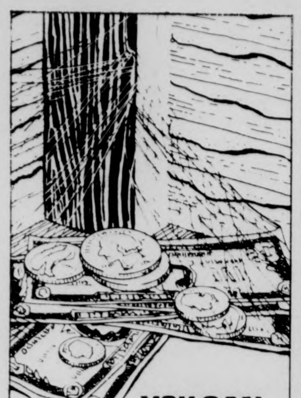
VOLUME 6 , ISSUE 14

DECEMBER 8 , 1977





YOU CAN REALLY "CLEAN-UP" WITH A COLLEGIAN CLASSIFIED AD!

Turn your 'junk' into cash!

Don't ignor your closet shelves another day! There could be big money lurking there. Advertise those unwanted items in the Collegian classifieds - and turn them in hard cold cash.

BELOW THE SALT

Editor: Bob Armstrong
Assistant Editor: Ken Shain
Art: Lesley Lawrence
Books: Cheryl Sreiberg
Dance: Sharon True
Film: Skip Tenczar
Music: Ross Nerenberg
Political Affairs: Jim Paulin
Theater: Debbie Wallace

CONTRIBUTORS:
Bill Sundstrom, Brett Milano, Naismith Darlingeer, Fifi Ball, Lt. Col. Jethro von Putschclaimer U.S.N., Treksie Quasar, Janey Deveckio, Jeff DuVernois, Rick Alvord, Lois Carew, Mario A. Barrios, Philip Milstein, Perry Adler, Tom Aversa, Mark Harris Levitan, Steven Jay Kravitz, Rastapunk Ram Dass, B. Sesnovich, Jo Welllins, Jack Flynn, Jock A. Hill, Alex Stein, Roger Bennett, Mitch Gitkind

Cover concept:
Ken Shain
Cover realization:
Rick Alvord

STEREO

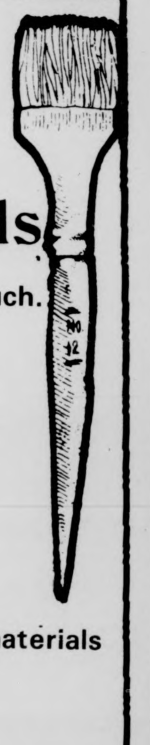
Make your own Christmas Cards



give your cards a personal touch.

its easy and fun.......

and at our prices its inexpensive.

- ★ cards
- ★ pens
- ★ inks
- ★ paints
- ★ brushes
- ★ printers materials

and much more

at the art store within a store

the University Store
MURRAY D. LINCOLN CAMPUS CENTER
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01003

In Memorium: Rahsaan Roland Kirk

Rashan Roland Kirk

Below the Salt wishes to express its sorrow over the passsing of Raashan Roland Kirk. Kirk was a man of whose musical versatility, ability and spirit far exceeded those of any musician known to us. He was a multi-instrumentalist who could play countermelodies on three instruments at onçe, sustain notes for up to a minute and often play for minutes without taking a breath. (He did this by employing a technique known as "circular breathing", of which he was the undisputed master.) Stylistically, this musical genius knew no barriers; he had a complete knowledge of all the elements and idioms in the entire development of Afro-American music, and could perform in any of these styles with consumate mastery on the tenor saxophone (his "main"instrument), the flute, picolo, reed trumpet, and nose flute, among an incredible array of other instrumants. Rahsaan was able to range from the most harsh "school of screech" sounds to the most lyrical, bittersweet melodies with an unmatched grace and assurance. Kirk was a blind man, yet his ability to communicate a wide range of emotions with his instruments bespoke an unmatched artistic vision. Much of Kirk's work concerned itself with the struggles of Black people in America and the indominable Black pride which he showed in his music showed the immense spirit of a truly exceptional man.

Two years ago, at the age of 39, Rahsaan suffered a stroke in which the entire right side of his body was paralyzed. This was a particularly tragic moment in the world of music. Not being one to remain idle, however, Kirk returned to playing a mere five months later, playing with one hand. His playing at that time, though somewhat weakened by the stroke, was still far stronger than all but a few saxophonists, and he still made use of a vast array of instruments. He was able to record an album, and gave a number of concerts while recovering. His strength improved measurably over the months, to the point where he was able to play almost as well as he had before, although his stamina was not quite as great as it had been. Rahsaan appeared here at the S.U.B. about a year ago and gave a performance that left no doubt that this was a man of singular talent and corage. Here was man who was virtually hobbling about the stage playing two instruments at once, playing clear hard notes over half a minute long and blowing the roof off with the sheer energy of his playing - all this with one hand, remember. (It should be pointed out that the raging power of the two and-a-half hours of playing that night showed that he had more fire, spirit, dedication, and conviction in one cheek than did Gil Scott-Heron and the entire Midnight Band when they played at the SUB shortly thereafter; this troupe of "young lions" left an hour and a half later because they were "tired.")

Though some of Kirk's playing is still reserved for posterity on his albums, the loss of this musical colossus is a loss that shall be felt by all people who appreciate creative Afro-American music. Yet, beyond that, Kirk was a great man not only for his immense musical abilities but also- and perhaps even more importantly- because of his courage and spirit; for a man both blind and Black to so powerfully assert such irrepressible pride in the face of racism, severe physical disabilities, and the Amreican music industry is an example of the kind of courage to which we should all aspire.

One of Rahsaan's favorite compositions was entitled "Bright Moments," a celebration of the joyous interludes of life. Though we regret Rahsaan's passing as a particularly bleak moment for all of us, we would hope that in the future we can act with the sort of courage that was fully manifested in this man. With this courage we should all be able to create our own bright monments, though the fact that Rahsaan is no longer with us to provide an ongoing example of that courage will make it somewhat more difficult. Yet we should learn from the life of this man that spirit can overcome obstacles that most of us would think unsurmoutable. Bright momments, Rahsaan.

DANCE

Concerted Movements

The UMass Student Dance Concert December 1,2,&3

Fifteen dances, ranging from a Broadway show number, to a Renaisassance court dance, to an African dance solo -- an ambitious dance concert, to say the least. Even more impressive is the fact that the UMass Student Dance Concert (presented Dec. 1,2,3 at Bowker) was totally organized, designed, stage-managed, choreographed, and performed by students. The technical crew is to be commended for the polish they added to the show -- in particular, the lighting designs by Jean Baxter Cohen and Amy L. Richards were a real plus.

An unfortunate minus was that a good portion of the dances were about looking pretty and doing movements that feel good: hip-thrusting lunges to the diagonal, shoulder shimmies and hip wiggles, straight leg tilts and kicks to one side, spirals down to the floor, attitude turns. Not that looking pretty is bad, it's just that these tired, overworked movements, seen again and again, can no longer sustain interest. Similarly, repetition of the same stretched out, reaching, expansive movements that feel so good to perform can nonetheless become boring to watch. What works such as "Dance With Me," "Phobias," "Mozart: Two X Five" and "Another and Thyself" need are more original movements, more dynamic tension and less narcissism.

The concert opened with a work entitled "For You, U.M.T.G... With Love," choreographed by Beth Hirschhaut to Broadway show tunes such as "Oklahoma," "Celebration," "You'll Never Walk Alone" and "Ease on Down the Road." The dance was overly long, but the spritely square dance, the sleazy cabaret and the linked shoulder-to-shoulder line revolutions and kicks worked reasonably well. However, the melodramatic gestures -- reaching out to comfort, swooning -- during "You'll Never Walk Alone" did not work well.

"Frescoes," choreographed by JoAnn Murray to some lovely antique music by P. Attaignant and P. Phalese (in 1530 and 1511 respectively) was a refreshing change in style. The six women, in unison, performed a series of quaint, dainty little Renaissance court dances; they skipped on doing a simple brush step (which needed a more aristocratic, elegant execution) and moved into a light-hearted step in which they sort of jogged, flipping their feet up behind them as they circled and made various floor patterns. The closing sequence had the dancers in a long diagonal line performing little spins and bows. The dance was fun to watch, especially the foot-flipping section.

Virginia Gaunt's piece "A Different Place in Time and Space" had the best special effects of any dance. Presumably based upon a Star Wars theme (there was a goldsuited CP30, his shorter sidekick, R2D2, a princess-figure waving a luminous wand) this dance incorporated, on a darkened stage, a striking slide projection of a starry galaxy with a glowing gold and red meteor near one corner, the visually interesting effect of the moving luminous wand and some convincing space music by Williams (Ralph Vaughn? the program doesn't say). The movements in the dance were kept simple and subordinate to the special effects, to the dance's credit, as it allowed for more precision and cleaness of line.

Peggy Atkinson is a believable dancer -- her face tells the truth, and her body rings true to the music. However, the choreography for the solo she created for herself, "Maybe Next Year," was pretty, but bland. Her movement was basically sweeping arcs and arabesques, along with some dipping, off-center spins which she had some difficulty recovering from.

The dance which left everyone agog was "Snake Hunt", choreographed by Stephen Gibbons and Lisa Jones, with artistic direction by Richard Jones.

The snake (Lisa Jones), a dancer in a dark brown, green and gold roughly striped unitard with her eyes blackly, slantily outlined and her face fish belly white, sits coiled in the center of the stage, then uncoils, rises up and sways, peering, from side to side. A hunter (Gibbons) springs onto the stage, dressed in a suede loincloth and knee-high laced suede boots, and carrying a sturdy long forked stick. The two face off. The snake slithers out of the reach of the stick (Jones slithers by lying partially curled on her side and pulling herself along the floor, letting the impulse start in her hands then travel through her body in an S-curve, with her feet whipping at the end -- a remarkable imitation!) then moves in and grabs the hunter's ankle. He shakes his leg vigorously to free himself, and she slithers away. They both attack and retreat a couple of more times, until she flips a handspring onto his body, wrapping her legs tightly around his waist. He grabs her middle, and lifts her high and away from him They struggle; the snake twists and writhes in his arms, but he holds her at bay. Finally, at one climatic moment, the snake swoops down for the strike, sinking her teeth into his neck, then drops down and gloatingly slithers away, leaving the hunter to writhe and die. A riveting work, exceptionally well-timed and performed.

Another high point was Eno Washington's "West Wind: A Prayer" (also with artistic direction by Richard Jones). Eno has got to be seen to be believed. His well-toned body radiates energy; his ability to isolate his head, hands, hips, belly and feet and move them to separate rhythmic nuances of the African beat is astounding. More than anything else, he is a black man who has an African heritage that he's proud of, and his dancing emphatically attests to that.

The concert closed with "Fire," choreographed by Peggy Atkinson. Although this jazz dance lacked the crackle and snap that its title alludes to, the dancers did give full phrasing to their movement with the music, and the leaping trio for the men (Jeffrey Coyne, Stephen Gibbons, Arthur Tuttle) had some uplifting zing to it.

Sharon True

We are pleased to announce the addition of

M.Julie Counter

to our staff of professional stylists at ...

Fashion Flair Beauty Salon

110 Main St. Northampton

584-1714

(Next to Ann August)

USED BOOKS
IN GOOD CONDITION

Over 10,000, all ages, all subjects, all at low prices

VALLEY BOOK SHOP
Carriage Shops, Amherst

10-5:30 daily, Thurs & Fri til 8
Open Sundays in Dec. 1-5 p.m.

The rusty nail Inn

presents

TONITE,
THURS., Dec. 8
JOHNNY and the LUNCHEONETTES

FRI. & SAT.,
Dec. 9& 10
NRBQ

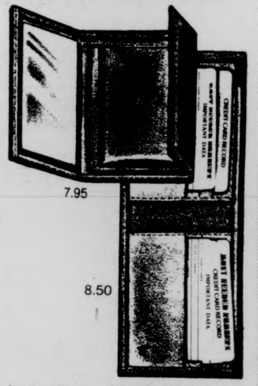
EVERY SUNDAY
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

MONDAY, Dec. 12
ANDY MAY and the TEXAS TABBY CRABBY

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel.665-4937

Quality Leather at Good Prices

Men's Leather Wallets



An excellent variety of wallets from Faces' leather collection. Flatfold, bifold, and trifold designs, each with plenty of well-organized interior pockets. Look for such special features as key compartments and credit card holders. Rugged saddle cowhide, smooth harness cowhide, or super-soft Nappa leather. Crisp, distinctive styling and the unmistakable look of fine workmanship. 5.95-8.95.

The Look... The Price... At Faces Now!

FACES

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

BOOKS

WHO SHOULD PLAY GOD?
Ted Howard and Jeremy Rifkin
(Dell Publishing Co.)

The feelings of intense alienation and the increasing grip of "the technocracy" on various aspects of our lives have spurred a sort of renaissance of the so-called "negative utopia" novels. Herbert Marcuse and C. Wright Mills revealed to us the startlingly Orwellian dimensions of life in technologized society, accepted under the guise of "scientific management" or the mere survival of the human species.

Now we can add to the list Aldous Huxley's Brave New World, a "fantasy" about a society completely genetically programmed. Who Should Play God? documents and raises the implications of the coming technology of genetic engineering in a non-technical manner that provides a good background on the topic.

The prospect of large-scale genetic manipulation is not to be regarded as science fiction, as authors Howard and Rifkin point out. While much of the research they cite has thus far been performed only on animals, conservative estimates suggest that many of the most Huxleyesque techniques will be quite possible within ten year's time. That includes the romantic notion of "test-tube Babies", planning of genetic makeup through the manipulation of genes, and bizarre forms of "planned parenthood"--like choosing your childrens' physical and psychological traits.

The book suffers slightly from an overemphasis on quoting assorted genetic scientests and public officials about the prospects and potential uses of genetic engineering. Still, the reader can pull from the study a fascinating and philosophically competent analysis of the history of genetic programming and the nature of the technology-politics relationship. For example, one chapter documents concrete connections between the "independent" scientific community and the business world, while another discusses briefly the relation of technology and the domination of nature to the domination of people.

Also of interest is a look at the eugenics movement in the U.S,. which took place between 1900 and 1930. The authors reveal the startling popularity of "Weeding out the bad genes in the population" with many "progressive" figures of the time. Howard and Rifkin note the rise in advocacy of eugenics during those historical periods when people have lost faith in the ability of traditional remedies to solve difficult social problems.

Of course, genetic traits are only one influence upon human behavior--environment and other biological function influence the expression of inherited traits, and social elements seem to be much more important in determining how people think and act (depending on whom you listen to).

Regardless, genetic engineering offers one of the final steps in the domination of capital and technology over people. While modern management systems continue to rationalize the workplace, the possibility of programming people to "fit into their slots" is more than scary--it throws a nasty wrench into the Marxian belief that people can become self-conscious and rebel against dehumanizing conditions.

Howard and Rifkin insist that the body is some how sacred and should not be touched by technics. Such a view is limited, but perhaps justifiable in light of our present oppressive social organization. However, the potential for human liberation in genetic technology should not be disregarded, as it is by the authors. Rather , one can envision a day, if far off, when people choose to liberate themselves from oppressive biological functions in the interest of increased freedom. Women, for example might someday wish to be free of devoting nine months to pregnancy.

Ultimately, genetic engineering will creep into our institutions and achieve some degree of public acceptability, just as scientific management has. It will, that is, unless people suddenly recognize in genetic programs the tip of an iceberg of repression and domination. Perhaps the prospects are just frightening enough to shock folks out of their present complacency, before that complacency becomes part of their genetic makeup. Such is the conclusion of Who Should Play God?, a worthwhile, if slightly incomplete, warning to the human race.

--Bill Sundstrom

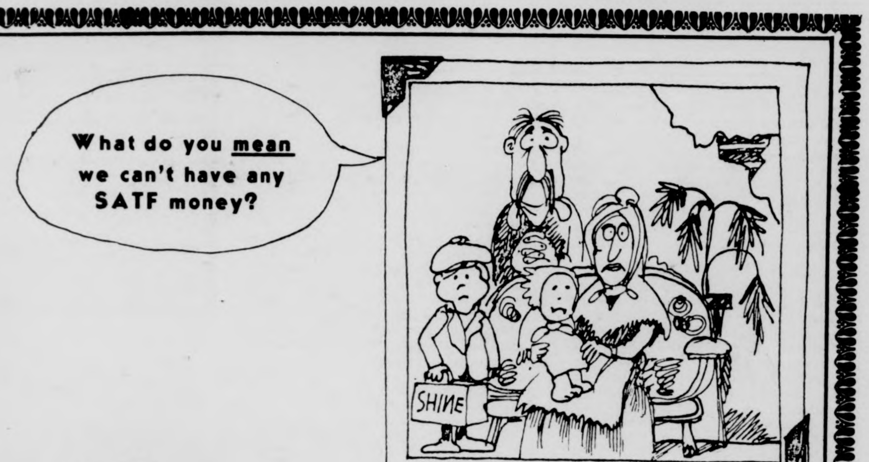
PICK UP A REAL SWEETIE TODAY.

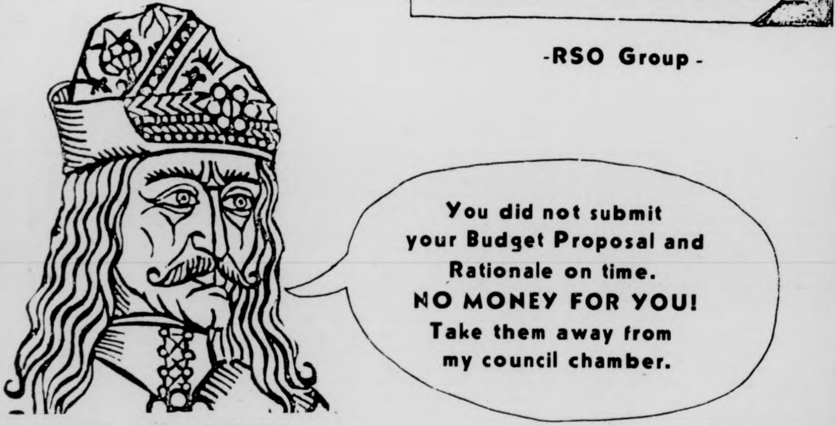
FRUCTOSE is the sweetest of all natural sugars. It's what makes natural fruits as sweet and tasty as they are. FRUCTOSE is widely used in Europe as a natural sweetener, and naturally, a quick energy source. SANAVITA is making this product available to you now, exclusively via mail order. Our European-imported product line includes pure FRUCTOSE crystalline and tablets, as well as jams and preserves. And since they're all sweetened with FRUCTOSE, they're the sweetest of the sweet, naturally.

Call or write
SANAVITA CORP.
Dept. CS – 450 Park Avenue, New York, N.Y. 10022 Tel: (212) 832-7540



What do you mean we can't have any SATF money?
SHINE

-RSO Group-



You did not submit your Budget Proposal and Rationale on time. NO MONEY FOR YOU! Take them away from my council chamber.

-Lord of the SATF-

Any RSO group wishing to be funded by the Student Senate for 1978 - 79 must submit a Budget Proposal and Rationale no later than December 14 at 5 pm. to the Student Senate Office, Rm. 420 SU. Late Submissions will not be accepted! Avoid a tragedy, Submit!

A Warning From your Student Government Association

Concerts

EMERSON, LAKE PALMER
In concert - New Haven Coliseum -
November 30, 1977

I was ready for this one. ELP had provided me with some memorable moments over the past few years and as I took my seat at New Haven, I was ready to see that music brought to life. There was a definite sense of anticipation in the air as the frisbees and banners flew and as the lights dimmed, the applause swelled to an exuberant level. Finally. There they were, Keith Emerson hopping animatedly from keyboard to keyboard, Carl Palmer pounding the percussion with energetic precision, and Greg Lake providing an impenetrable background on his bass guitar. The instrumental overture opened the proceedings to grand effect-starting with a powerful introductory theme, it gradually built to the unrestrained exuberance of "Hoedown."

The first set followed one ELP classic with another. The menace of "Tarkus," the balladry of "Lucky Man," the ethereal "Take A Pebble," and Keith Emerson's impeccable grand piano solo were all delivered with a flourish. The overall impression I got was that although some of these pieces were over five years old, the band still approaches them with as much enthusiasm as ever. This, for me, is what distinguishes a great performance from a passable one. ELP, by injecting that spark of energy into the performances, refuse to let their music become stale. The first set closed with a suite from Pictures at an Exhibition, which far surpassed ELP's original recording of that piece. When that record came out, the band was not ready for such an ambitious classical interpretation. They are now. The piece was one of the night's most dramatic moments, and earned them one of the longest standing ovations. "We would advise you not to leave the building," promised the announcer, "Because the second half will be...better!"

It wasn't necessarily better, but the second set also held its share of highlights. The first impression of "Karn Evil Nine' ("Welcome back, my friends, to the show that never ends"), was the perfect opening and a new song, "Tiger in the Spotlight," was no letdown afterwards. After a crowdpleasing Carl Palmer solo and a frantic "Nutrocker," the set closed with "Pirates," the major epic from Works, Volume One. This was slightly low-key and I still feel that ELP need a few more performances of this before they feel totally comfortable without the orchestration, but it remained a good rendition of a fine piece.

The encore of "Fanfare for the Common Man" provided the final burst of energy that we had all been waiting for. This was a piece that no one could argue with, beginning with dramatic grandeur and turning into a well-executed aural assault with Emerson, ever the showman, perpetrating a number of destructive acts upon his organ. This, in itself would have been enough but ELP added "Show Me The Way to Go Home," to take us out on a peaceful and whimsical note. Well done lads, and "welcome back my friends" indeed.

-Brett Milano

---

BRZ – WHO?

Our Freshman analyst tackles the big one...

Mount Holyoke College Laboratory Theatre
South Hadley, MA
Presents:
A FESTIVAL OF ONE-ACT PLAYS
Student Directed and Designed
Thursday, December 8-Tuesday, December 13 8:30 P.M.
Special Children's Matinee, December 10, 11 2:00 P.M.
Box Office opens December 5th, Noon-9 daily
For reservations, phone 538-2406
Admission $2.50, Students and Senior Citizens $1.00

Dec. 9th & 10th
FREE POT (4")
AT THE POTS AND PLANTS SHOP
274 N. PLEASANT ST.
BASEMENT STORE AMHERST CENTER
CASSEROLE PANS, PLACE SETTINGS ETC.
QUALITY PRODUCTS
LOW PRICES
CHRISTMAS GIFTS

DANCE
DISCO
It's disco excitement. It's 4000 pulsating colored lights. It's a gutsy 60-speaker sound system. It's a sophisticated N.Y. style discotheque every night til 2 a.m.
Monday—Open Bar 10 to 11 and 12:30 to 12:45
Tuesday—Middle East Night. Mid-East Band and Bellydancers.
Wednesday—Free Drawing for $50 Gift Certificate.

Arabian Nights
Discotheque
544 Memorial Drive Rte 33 Chicopee 593-3603

MIKE'S
"CAPE COD REUNION"
CAPE CODDERS $.50
Just 175 miles from HYANNIS.
Past Watroba's on left
Buzzards Bay
Hyannis
Orleans
3
6
7
12
13
15
26
28
38

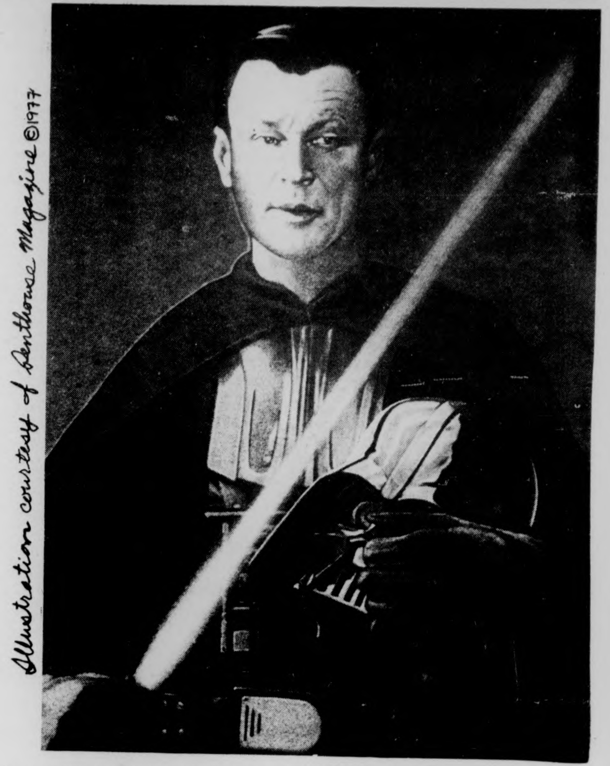

Illustration courtesy of Penthouse Magazine ©1977

BRZESINSKI AND THE TRILATERALS

It was 1970 when Zbigniew Brzezinski, a political analyst and Columbia University scholar, emphasized the importance of the organization of the developed nations as a whole to handle the growing economic, political, and social crises affecting the capitalist countries. This idea, with the help of Western European and Japanese economists, was to ripen into what is today known as the Trilateral Commission. In 1972 financier David Rockefeller's attention was brought to the commission and it was essentially his influence and funding that made the commission a reality.

Accompanying expert politicians like Brzezinski on the commission was not only Rockefeller, but a host of corporate capitalists fearing loss of power due to the decreasing popularity of capitalism. Combining their powers, the buisnnessmen had considerable influence over the world's most important economic factors. The membership included representatives from finance, industry, and labor including: The Bank of America, Rockefellers Chase Manhattan, Coca-Cola, Exxon, Leonard Woodcock of The United Auto Workers, Lane Kirkland of the AFL-CIO, with representatives from all the major networks and large political institutions. Foreign ruling classes were also represented by Barclay's Bank, Bank of Tokyo, Banque di Paris, Fiat, Toyota, Mitzubishi, and others.

In 1973 the commission decided to stretch its wings by trying to play a role in determining the direction of the American presidency. For this they looked to Jimmy Carter. His impressive record included several attempts to bolster trade by opening overseas offices providing direct lines from Georgia to foreign exporting countries. They pushed for Carter's candidicy by created support through their widespread ranks and represented him as supporting special intersts. When elected, though, these special interests seemed to be put aside for those of big business.

As president, Carter surrounded himself with people identifiable with the Trilateralist cause. Brzezinski became National Secrurity Advisor and one of the closest confidants of the president, former Coca-Cola president Charles Duncan became Under secretary of Defense, and United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock headed the committee for the status of servicemen Missing in Action.

The Trilateralist cause is often refered to as an internationalist cause because of the willingness of smaller commissions to place the interests of international economics above those of their particular countries. During the oil crises many developing nations were in need of funds with doubtful repayment abilities. $52 billion was loaned by multinational American Based banks . Beyond that the TriCom is promoting an overhauled International Monetary Fund, to provide further credit and therefore a continuation of what is called free trade internationalism.

Examplles like this show the importance of knocking down the barriers between the worse economic powers so a certain amount of interdependance and cooperation exists. Nuclear proliferation and economic goal conflict tend to stand in the way of this , and must be taken care of. The continuing notion of self-reliance on the part of many developing (oil producing) countries cannot in this way coincide with the interaction necessary for cooperative action. If these nations try to hold out, profit is stymied in developed nations and conflict results. The separation of advanced, developing and also communist countries can only end in the unavalilabilty of what one nation has to offer the other. If the international relationships can be improved , the commission hopes to shape future events toward peace through economic management, the most important factor for profit.

Brzezinski's original idea of national cooperation for freedom, human rights, and economic progress seems to have been weighted toward the last result. Maximization of profit seems to be important in the Trilateralists' minds as they lobby for expansion of international financial institutions, assistance for underdeveloped nations, conservation of energy, and reduced arms sales.

It is interesting to note that the political leaders in the three TriCom areas were deposed within the same three year period. This testimonial to the growth of Trilateralism saw Nixon , West German Brandt, and Japanese Tanaka resign. In their places landed the Trilateralists, bound to reorganize world economics. Samuel Bowles best summed up the TriCom writing in Progressive:

> The Trilateral commission represents an attempt to gather political forces -large capital and as much of organized labor as can be gathered- to rationalize the U.S. economy through capitalist dominated planning and in conjunction with other leading capitalist nations to restore order and profitability to the world capitalist system.

-Mitch Gitkind

The growth of Trilateralism saw Nixon, Brandt and Tanaka resign and the emergence of Carter, Schmidt, and Fukuda, all Trilateral men, in their place...

Books

Naismith's Nebula...

PARSIVAL OR A KNIGHT'S TALE
By Richard Monaco
Illustrated by David McCall Johnston
paperback $4.95/hardback $9.95
Macmillan, New York

Although the style of Monaco's novel is not remeniscent of Chretien de Troyes or Wace and Layamon, the tone of his work is; it is the true meat of the Arthurian chronicles. In the tradition of T.S. White and Tolkien this rendition of Parsival contains all the elements of the traditional sagas: mysterious wooded lands, wise wizards, beggars and kings, knights and damsels, and the fruitless search for the Holy Grail.

In many ways the hero of this version does find the sacred object. Though he glosses over the actual chalice when he discovers it, Parsival finds a spiritual grail within himself in the quest for innocence and his combat against the powers of evil.

The plot is much like several of the original legends on which it is based and much like many Eastern myths concerning the Buddha's wanderings. The youth leaves the comforts of his lavish home, a kingdom of splendor, and sets out in search of adventures testing both his soul and his sword. And like any good Grail Legend, he finds them.

The character is not modeled on Wagner's hero, but on the ancient holy fool of the tarot pack who has surfaced in legend and literature in the Grail stories and in modern poetry. Like Siddhartha he moves with pure innocence into the worlds of pain, pleasure, desire, and temptation and passes through them unmoved. The tarot figure is a symbol of transformation—though some have traditionally labeled it as a death card. Though death in some form may be necessary in order to be reborn in spirit, it is the changing, the metamorphosis that must be considered.

In searching for the Grail, or the lost Eden, or what-have-you, the character starts at spiritual point A and finds himself at point B at some moment. He may draw a sword from a misty lake or sit cross legged beneath a tree but he knows where he's at.

Monaco's writing is clean and refreshing. His language is well thought out, but never tight. He does not spare the details and handles it graciously as well.

There are, and will continue to be, endless volumes following the Arthurian and Tolkien schools. This work by Monaco is a sincere effort to capture the essence of the originals. He adds new ideas to them, such as the formation of very strong characterizations. The Red Knight (far from a crusading communist) and Broaditch are splendid characters with roots deep in tradition; Monaco has given them a new core.

Naismith Darlingeer

IN NECESSITY AND SORROW: LIFE AND DEATH in an ABORTION HOSPITAL
by Magda Denes
Penguin Books
247 pages
(paperback)
$2.95

Someone has finally written about the real issue behind the abortion rights conflict--morality.

In Necessity and Sorrow: Life and Death in an Abortion Hospital, written by Magda Denes, reminds us that despite convictions that women should have control over their bodies, the biggest thing in both patient and doctor's minds is the question of murder.

Denes, a psycoanalyst who came to this country from Hungary when she was a child, had an abortion herself when she was 37 (it was a D and C, she was five weeks pregnant.) She was married and had two children.

She became so intrigued with the emtionai controversy involved that she went back to the New York City hospital to do tape recorded interviews with patients and staff members.

From those interviews came this book. It is an extremely emotional account; dangerous reading if it touches your life in any way. She's dealimg with guilt. The sacredness of human life, both fetus' and patient's, gets laid on the line; as well as the usual question about when life begins.

She is pro-abortion rights but she pushes guilt in the book, respecting those who succumb to it and being generally merciless with those who use mental mechanisms in dealing with it, though she recognizes the mechanisms exist. She claims, "My rage throughout these pages is at the human predicament. At the finitude of our lives, at our nakedness, at the absurdity of our perpetual ambivalence toward the terror of life and the horror of death."

She writes prose very well. But the book is most interesting because of all the quotes she gets from people. There are many accounts, both from patients, doctors, and other members of the staff, including social workers, messengers, nurses...

There are two different processes for abortions done in this hospital. Until 12 weeks it's a D and C (dialation and curettage.) The cervical opening is dialated until it's large enough for a small scraping tool to enter. From 12 'til 24 weeks (the time of "viability") it's done by a saline process. Some amniotic fluid is drawn from the uterus and replaced by a salty solution which kills the fetus. Then a labor inducing drug is given to the patient.

There are differences in the emotional reactions of the people involved in each procedure. Denes notes them wisely, but notes also the commonality of their mental crises.

This book would make extremely interesting and emotional reading for anyone.

Fifi Ball

Dec. 7, 1977 · Anti-Imperialist Solidarity Day

RECORD TOWN'S
NEW RELEASE SALE

SERIES 798
STEREO LP'S
8-TRACK TAPES
& CASSETTES

$3.94

CHOOSE FROM THESE PICTURED TITLES!!

RECORD TOWN
Records & Tapes at Super Discount Prices

Mon.-Sat. 10-10
Sun. 12-5

Mt. Farms Mall, Hadley

Sale Ends
Saturday
12/10/77

image

AT THE HATCH
FRI - SAT
DEC 9-10

MERRY CHRISTMAS FROM SANTA'S HOLLYWOOD HELPERS

Starship Invasion: Varied Views

Every Christmas, Hollywood releases a slew of motion pictures knowing that many people frequent the theaters during this time of year. In its never ending search for money-makers, the American film industry is in the process of the mass production of space-science fiction movies. This trend started with Star Wars. Because of its popularity and prospective money-making sale of souvenir items (toys, cards, posters, books, etc.) many films will follow in its wake. Two sequels to Star Wars, a new Star Trek movie, Close Encounters of the Third Kind and the Intergalactic Touring Band Movie are either in the making or recently released. Now playing in local theaters is a Warner Brothers "B" movie called Starship Invasion.

If you plan to see a good movie, please avoid this one. It's a virtually thrown together film that is designed to feed off the much awaited, highly publicized arrival of Close Encounters of the Third Kind. As a matter of fact, it's an insult to the movie-goers intelligence.

Invaision stars Robert Vaughn who plays a U.F.O. expert that becomes involved in the effort to prevent takeover of the earth by alien beings. The basic plot is nothing new, a dying planet (Ramses) looks to earth as its new home and plans to kill all "earthlings". The League of Races is the alien protector of earth and fights off the renegade forces of Ramses with the help of Robert Vaughn. To ad an incidental note, the Rameses kill earth people by subjecting them to a force that makes them commit suicide.

Starship Invasion is geared to a young audience and has nothing more to say than be wary, the saucer men might destroy us all, but some aliens are our friends. Children deserve better than this, super saturating today's youth with this futuristic, violent intimidation is bound to have its effect. Smarten up Hollywood, the people may before you do.

-E. Philip Brown-- Skip Tenczar.

★★★

I liked the ray guns and suersides. Jimmy said it was gross I think it's kool.

Janey Delveckio
2nd grade Happy Meadow School

Far out...dynomite...fantastic...spacey...superb. Like wow, that's all I can say about Starship Invasion. Like you wouldn't believe the things I saw. The dynamic Ramses vs. the League of Races fighting over the future of mankind...can you dig it. It was a trip, more of a cosmic experience than the last microdot I dropped. I can see myself now...zipping through the stars, free from my body prison, technology satisfying my slightest whims. Can't wait 'till Close Encounters and the Star Wars sequels...Nirvana man. But anyway, see Invasion you'll leave your body, I did.

Treksie Quasar

★★★

There have been countless sightings of U.F.O.s dating back to the earliest days of our illustrious western civilization. Jet pilots, doctors, lawyers, policemen, and members of the armed services have all seen them. Even our Commander in Chief, President Jimmy Carter has sighted alien craft. Let's face it kids, U.F.O.s are a reality.

The movie Starship Invasions presents us with the serious problem of alien forces attacking our planet. This is a fact not to be taken lightly, for the inevitalility is as concrete as the present dispicable attempt for worldwide RED conquest. Our goverment should not leave this new battle front exposed. The need for anti-U.F.O. militaristic starategy and technology is here.

Not to be caught with our pants down, we at N.A.S.A. have considered the development of Upper Stratosphere Nuclear Warheads (U.S.N.W.) for some time now. But of course with our present scanty funding, we are struggling to merely maintain the Mars and Space Shuttle projects. I beckon the American people, especially our future administrators today's college children to support N.A.S.A. in our attempts to convince the Fentagon concerning the seriousness of future alien invasion and planetary doom. The advancement of the U.S.N.W. project can only mean a safer world and homeland. With industry involvement it could provide thousands of jobs for Americans, thus providing a much needed "shot in the arm" for the U.S. economy. May the force be with us.

Lt. Col. Jethro Von Putschclaimer
U.S.N.

Christmas' Feast for the Eyes

CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND

This is the movie that will draw the largest audience this $mas working very hard to promote it. Close Encounters is directed by Steven Spielberg (JAWS) and deals with the subject of U.F.O visits to earth. Along with fancy special effects, it stars Richard Dreyfuss and Francois Truffaut-noted film director. Close Encounters will probably drive Star Wars out of the theatres and who knows, U.F.O.s may be the topic discussed over many Holiday turkeys.

INTERGALACTIC TOURING BAND MOVIE

I don't know anything about this one yet. The film will be released soon, and accompanies the new futuristic-rock album by the Intergalactic Touring Band. See the record review on page 13 .

STAR WARS

Yes kiddies this will still be in the theatres for the Holiday Season. With the countless Star Wars toys brought by Santa, the film will undoubtedly enjoy one last hurrah.....yuck.

HEROES

The Fonz and Gidget in the same movie? That's right, Henry Winkler and Sally Field star in this love story. Winkler plays a Viet Nam vet, and Field is the 60's anti-war demonstrator he is trying to woo. All reports indicate that Heroes is very boring.

THE TURNING POINT

Turning Point stars Shirley MacLaine and Anne Bancroft. The film deals with parent-children relationships, and because MacLaine's teenage daughter in the film is an aspiring ballerina it has some impressive footage of the American Ballet Theatre. It's good to see that Santa is giving us some serious woman leads.

SHORT EYES

Short Eyes is adapted from Miguel Pinero's award winning play about contemporary prison life. The film has received much praise and should be worth seeing. The soundtrack was composed and performed by Curtis Mayfield.

JULIA

Julia is directed by Fred Zinnemann and stars Jane Fonda, Vannessa Redgrave, and Jason Robards. The film is about the like of Lillian Hellman, a playwrite who stugggles to complete her first play. Hellman moves on to be a Broadway success and works within Europes antifacist underground. Julia is supposed to be a good movie and along with Short Eyes, it's tops on my list for Holiday viewing.

THE GOODBYE GIRL

The Goodbye Girl was written by Neil Simon and stars Richard Dreyfuss, and Marsha Mason. Dreyfuss plays a young struggling actor who comes to New York. He sublets an apartment only to find a woman (Mason) and her nine year old daughter still in defiant residence. They live together only to find many arguments which eventually turn to laughter.

GRATEFUL DEAD FILM

A documentary about one of the Dead's concerts. Directed by Garcia, it has lot of performance and backstage footage. Deadheads should love this one.

THE RESCUERS

The Rescuers is the newest feature length cartoon from Walt Disney Studios and it's about two mice travelling across the country on a rescue mission. This seems to be one of the few healthy films for children to see this Christmas Season.

ONE SINGS THE OTHER DOESN'T

One Sings is a film by French new wave director Agnes Varda. It's a story about two women's friendship and how they grow because of it. This is supposed to be a beautifully touching film and I'm sure it'll be considered on of the best of the Holiday Season.

Happy Holidays!

-Skip Tenczar

WORKSTUDY STUDENTS WANTED

To staff a vacation day camp in the Framingham-Ashland area from December 27-30. For more information contact the 4-H office, 219 Stockbridge Hall, UMass-545-2646.

BOOTS!

FASHION
UTILITY
HIKING
RAIN

Bolles Shoes

2 LOCATIONS

*8 MAIN ST., AMHERST

*HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS,
RTE. 9, HADLEY

STILL MORE BOOKS

Is Joe Zawinul suggesting governmental modification of American weather?

PHONOGRAPHICS
by Brad Benedict & Linda Barton
Macmillan Publishers

For those of you who are into the contemporary music scene and enjoy looking at pretty pictures in books which require little reading, Phonographics is perfect. A compilation of choice album covers spanning the decades from the fifties through the seventies , this book requires nothing more strenous from the reader(or, more appropriately, the peruser) than a steady eye. Nearly two hundred album covers displayed in full color are, if nothing else, eye-catching .

Unfortunately, one is left to wonder just why a vast majority of these album covers were presented here. Many are clearly run -of- the-mill. Why are they included? Were they merely albums that either Mr. Bendict or Ms. Barton found lying around their apartment? Were they paid off by certain unnamed forces to include them? Were they really significant to the development of album covers as works of art? Who Knows;I just have to question the reasoning which was behind the selection process.

So, in conclusion, Phonographics is a book which makes for a nice Christmas present(provided you're willing to shell out over twenty bucks for it; if not, wait to find it in the bargain bins shortly). But for those of you who value true literary works, stick to War and Peace.

— —Ross Nerenberg

WE LEARNED TO SKI
by H. Evans, B. Jackman, and M. Ottaway
St. Martin's Press
249 pages (plus index) $6.95

It's winter again. Time for snow and skiing, and books telling you how to ski. This isn't just another "learn-to- ski book." There's a difference: this one is good. It's a presentation of many different techniques, rather than a "new method." The difference is that, unlike "new method" ski books, it doesn't guarantee success.

The project was based on the experiences of three (London) Sunday Times reporters, all at least novice skiers, and how they bettered their techniques. Although primarily written about European skiing, it also deals with the American East and West. (Good news: if you can ski the bitter cold and terrible snow conditions in the American East, Evans and friends say that you can ski anywhere in the world.)

The progression here is reasonable, dealing with each stage of the learning-to-ski experience. Having sections dealing with everything from how to choose equipment to the first day on the slopes and up to how to shoot the moguls makes it helpful for almost everyone. The authors tell, in every chapter, what they did wrong, why, and how to avoid doing it yourself. Almost any question that you might have on skiing is answered here.

However, there are also gaps that could have been filled. Nothing, for example, is said about ski maintenance except that it should be done by "people who know what they're doing." For the record, proper basic ski maintenance can be achieved by spending about $1.50 each for a file (Mill Bastard, can be bought at most hardware stores) and a stick of P-Tex (which can be bought at almost all ski shops). Use of the above can be learned in under 45 minutes, by observing someone who knows how to do it. (Be careful, a wrong angle can completely dull edges. Also make sure that your instructor knows what he/she is doing.) Once you've learned the technique, you need never again spend $10 on a tune-up. Besides that, the only real complaint that I have is the insistence on spelling skiing as "ski-ing," which could drive you crazy after a couple of pages.

So this year, before you go dashing off, take some of the advice in this book. It will help you to ski better. When you ski better you have more fun, and isn't that what it's all about anyway?

-Alex Stein

BUDWEISER® • KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC • ST LOUIS

WHEN DO JOURNALISM MAJORS SAY BUDWEISER®?

AWRIGHT! I'VE GOT TWO BY-LINES AND A FRONT PAGE FEATURE IN TODAY'S PAPER! I THINK I'LL CALL SUZY, ATTRACTIVE BRUNETTE, 21, AND SHARE A PITCHER OF COLD BUD® OVER AT MARTY'S, POPULAR CAMPUS HANGOUT, 4TH AND MAIN.
Budweiser.

RECORDS - What our critics say...

Ths is my heartfelt Top Ten and I personally don't give a flying fudgesickle what anybody else thinks, thank you.

1. Street Survivors, Lynyrd Skynyrd (in memorium.)
2. Songs From the Wood, Jethro Tull (would've been number one had not Ian "The Arrogant" Anderson snubbed me in Springfield's Marriott Hotel.)
3. Lake, Lake (top new group of '77.)
4. The Missing Piece, Gentle Giant (strong comeback.)
5. Even In The Quietest Moments, Supertramp (ever so underrated.)
6. Sleepwalker, The Kinnks (Ray Davies keeps right on chalkin' 'em up.)
7. Izitso, Cat Stevens (still a unique musical force.)
8. Point of Know Return, Kansas (could become a classic.)
9. Rumours, Fleetwood Mac (lest we forget.)
10. (tie) Footloose & Fancy Free, Rod Stewart (Rod the Modstrikes again.)

—Ross Nerenberg

LPs

1) Various Artists—A Bunch Of Stiffs—Stiff (import)
2) Talking Heads—Talking Heads: 77—Sire
3) Dictators—Manifest Destiny—Elektra
4) Sex Pistols—Never Mind The Bollocks—Warners
5) Jam—In The City—Polydor (import)
6) Iggy Pop—The Idiot—RCA
7) Elvis Costello—My Aim Is True—Columbia
8) Television—Marquee Moon—Elektra
9) Various Artists—New Wave—Vertigo (import)
10) Iggy And The Stooges—Metallic KO—Import

—Philip Milstein

Ten Reasons Why 1977 Was A Great Year After All

1. Wind and Wuthering, Genesis.
2. Silly Sisters, Maddy Prior and June Tabor.
3. The Missing Piece, Gentle Giant.
4. Deceptive Bends, 10cc.
5. Animals, Pink Folyd.
6. Goiong For The One, Yes.
7. Ra or Oops! Wrong Planet ( take your pick ), Utopia.
8. Songs From The Wood, Jethro Tull.
9. The Quiet Zone, The Pleasure Dome, Van Der Graaf Generator.
10. News of the World, Queen.

-Brett Milano

J.B.'s FAVES

1. Animals, Pink Floyd
2. I Robot, Alan Parsons Project
3. It's Your World, Gil Scott-Heron
4. Aja, Steely Dan
5. The Idiot, Iggy Pop
6. Friends, Oregon
7. Islands, The Band
8. Seconds Out, Genesis

Happy listening people, and never be afraid to listen to all kinds of various (the spice of life) musicians--Later,

-John Bergman

The Most Accurate Top Twelve LPs'

1. Ra-Utopia w/Todd Rundgren
2. American Stars'n Bars-Neil Young
3. Animals-Pink Floyd
4. Enigmatic Ocean-Jean-Luc Ponty
5. Night After Night-Nils Lofgren
6. Oops Wrong Planet-Utopia w/Todd Rundgren
7. Spectres-Blue Oyster Cult
8. Terrapin Station-Grateful Dead
9. Point of Know Return-Kansas
10. Big City-Lenny White
11. Midnight Wind-Charlie Daniels Band
12. Motivation Radio-Steve Hillage

-Tom Aversa

I thought doing this was hard last year because I couldn't come up with 10 deserving records. Well, this year it was even harder because I couldn't figure out what to leave out. Ask me tomorrow and my list will be different, but all of these records are great.

ALBUMS

1) Leave Home—Ramones
2) The Boys—Boys (import)
3) Blondie—Blondie
4) In Color—Cheap Trick
5) (I'm) Stranded—Saints
6) Manifest Destiny—Dictators
7) My Aim Is True—Elvis Costello
8) Twilley Don't Mind—Dwight Twilley Band
9) In The City—Jam
10) Young Loud & Snotty—Dead Boys

-Perry Adler

HEY, THIS'S A GREAT REKERD!

THE PEOPLE'S TOP RESPONSE LIST OF 1977.

Single of the Year - Native New Yorker - Oddessy

Top Five LPs;

1. Teddy Pendergrass - Philly Intl.
2. The Commodores - Motown
3. Rejoice - The Emotions - Columbia
4. Believe - Mass. Production
5. Choosing You - Lenny Williams - ABC

Debut Act of the Year - Rejoice, The Emotions

12 " Single Of the Year Commercially available - Do Ya Wanna Get Funky With Me," Peter Brown

Promotional - Tie - "Devil's Gun,"CJ & Company w/ "The Theme From Star Wars," Meco

"Funk Bomb" of the Year - Got To Give It Up, Marvin Gaye.

Mario

My Tempestuoustly Torrid Top Ten

1. Animals, Pink Floyd.
2. I Robot, Alan Parsons Project.
3. Lake, Lake.
4. Deceptive Bends, 10cc.
5. Nether Lands, Dan Fogelberg.
6. Moonflower, Santana.
7. Songs From The Wood, Jethro Tull.
8. Out of The Blue, Electric Light Orchestra.
9. In City Dreams, Robin Trower.
10. Little Queen, Heart.

--Whiz Wisniowski

THE YEAR IN MUSIC:
TOP TEN FOR 1977

1. DANCING IN YOUR HEAD
Ornette Coleman
( Horizon )
2. THE MONTREUX/BERLIN CONCERTS
Anthony Braxton
( Arista )
3. THE CLASH
( CBS )
4. PROTEST
Bunny Wailer
( Island )
5. OSAMU
Osamu Kitajima
( Island )
6. SHOW SOME EMOTION
Joan Armatrading
( A&M )
7. HEAVY WEATHER
Weather Report
( CBS )
8. LIVE AT THE PALLADIUM
Marvin Gaye
( Tamla )
9. NEVER MIND THE BOLLOCKS
Sex Pistols
( Warner Bros. )
10. EXODUS
Bob Marley and the Wailers
( Island )
Rookie of the Year: MY AIM IS TRUE
Elvis Costello
( CBS )

Most Valuable Player:
CAPETOWN FRINGE
Dollar Brand
( chiarascuro )

-Kenneth Shain

1977--ANOTHER YEAR ANOTHER LIST
In random order:

The David Grisman Quintet, (Kaleidoscope)
CSN, Crosby, Stills and Nash, (Atlantic)
Nothin' But A Breeze, Jesse Winchester, (Bearsville)
Lovin' In The Valley Of The Moon, Norton Buffalo and the Stampede, (Capitol)
Luxury Liner, Emmylou Harris, (Warner Brothers)
Heavy Weather, Weather Report, (Columbia)
Watercolors, Pat Metheny, (ECM)
Little Criminals, Randy Newman, (Reprise)
Live At The Rainbow, Al Jarreau, (Warner Brothers)
Made in '76 but best in '77:
Songs In The Key Of Life, Stevie Wonder, (Tamla)

-Mark Harris Levitan

Inlaid Soapstone Boxes

Faces of Earth

Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

Red Hot Christmas offer from the Red Hot Magazine !!!

ROLLING STONE

ROLLING STONE
FLEETWOOD MAC
CROSBY STILLS & NASH
SOUTH AFRICA
TWYLA THARP
STAR WARS
DOLLY PARTON
TED NUGENT

SAVE 50% OFF
the newsstand price
26 issues for only $13.00

You'd pay $26 if you bought them on the newsstand — save 50% and don't miss a single copy. Get alive to the world of ROLLING STONE.
*totally honest *brilliantly written *widely quoted *into the whole contemporary scene

FOR YOUNG ADULTS. Over 2½ million people like you read it. For the Music. For the Politics. The Movies. The Reviews. The Interviews. The Photography. The Opinions. The Scoops. The Gossip.

WHAT IT'LL DO FOR YOU. It'll open your eyes. Turn you on. Make you laugh. Make you angry. Make you think.

WHAT YOU'LL FIND. Recent articles like these
Peter Frampton — Peter's Principle: Let'em eat candy.
The Life & Lurves of Diane Keaton
Twyla Tharp — something in the way she moves
A Question of Style: A conversation with Diana Vreeland
True Life Confessions of Fleetwood Mac
The White House Whiz Kids
Only in ROLLING STONE will you find unique articles like these covering the total contemporary life-style

ROLLING STONE
SUBSCRIPTION DISCOUNT COUPON
SAVE 50%
OFF NEWSSTAND PRICE
26 ISSUES FOR ONLY $13.00
OR SAVE EVEN MORE
52 ISSUES FOR ONLY $22.00
FILL OUT THE SPECIAL COUPON & MAIL TODAY

YES
Please send me one year of ROLLING STONE (26 issues) at the money saving rate of $13.00.
☐ 26 issues only $13.00
(newsstand price for 26 issues is $26.00)
Save even more!
☐ 52 issues only $22.00
(newsstand price for 52 issues is $52.00)
☐ Payment Enclosed ☐ Bill me later
NAME ____________ APT ______
ADDRESS ____________
CITY ____________
MAIL TO: ROLLING STONE P.O. BOX 2983
BOULDER, COLORADO 80302
ODC1

WORKSTUDY STUDENTS WANTED

To staff a vacation day camp in the Framingham-Ashland area from December 27-30. For more information contact the 4-H office, 219 Stockbridge Hall, UMass-545-2646.

BOOTS!

FASHION
UTILITY
HIKING
RAIN

Bolles Shoes
2 LOCATIONS
*8 MAIN ST., AMHERST
*HADLEY VILLAGE BARN SHOPS,
RTE. 9, HADLEY

STILL MORE BOOKS

Is Joe Zawinul suggesting governmental modification of American weather?

PHONOGRAPHICS
by Brad Benedict &
Linda Barton
Macmillan Publishers

For those of you who are into the contemporary music scene and enjoy looking at pretty pictures in books which require little reading, Phonographics is perfect. A compilation of choice album covers spanning the decades from the fifties through the seventies , this book requires nothing more strenous from the reader(or, more appropriately, the peruser) than a steady eye. Nearly two hundred album covers displayed in full color are, if nothing else, eye-catching .

Unfortunately, one is left to wonder just why a vast majority of these album covers were presented here. Many are clearly run -of- the-mill. Why are they included? Were they merely albums that either Mr. Bendict or Ms. Barton found lying around their apartment? Were they paid off by certain unnamed forces to include them? Were they really significant to the development of album covers as works of art? Who Knows;I just have to question the reasoning which was behind the selection process.

So, in conclusion, Phonographics is a book which makes for a nice Christmas present(provided you're willing to shell out over twenty bucks for it; if not, wait to find it in the bargain bins shortly). But for those of you who value true literary works, stick to War and Peace.

— — Ross Nerenberg

WE LEARNED TO SKI
by H. Evans, B. Jackman, and M. Ottaway
St. Martin's Press
249 pages (plus index) $6.95

It's winter again. Time for snow and skiing, and books telling you how to ski. This isn't just another "learn-to- ski book." There's a difference: this one is good. It's a presentation of many different techniques, rather than a "new method." The difference is that, unlike "new method" ski books, it doesn't guarantee success.

The project was based on the experiences of three (London) Sunday Times reporters, all at least novice skiers, and how they bettered their techniques. Although primarily written about European skiing, it also deals with the American East and West. (Good news: if you can ski the bitter cold and terrible snow conditions in the American East, Evans and friends say that you can ski anywhere in the world.)

The progression here is reasonable, dealing with each stage of the learning-to-ski experience. Having sections dealing with everything from how to choose equipment to the first day on the slopes and up to how to shoot the moguls makes it helpful for almost everyone. The authors tell, in every chapter, what they did wrong, why, and how to avoid doing it yourself. Almost any question that you might have on skiing is answered here.

However, there are also gaps that could have been filled. Nothing, for example, is said about ski maintenance except that it should be done by "people who know what they're doing." For the record, proper basic ski maintenance can be achieved by spending about $1.50 each for a file (Mill Bastard, can be bought at most hardware stores) and a stick of P-Tex (which can be bought at almost all ski shops). Use of the above can be learned in under 45 minutes, by observing someone who knows how to do it. (Be careful, a wrong angle can completely dull edges. Also make sure that your instructor knows what he/she is doing.) Once you've learned the technique, you need never again spend $10 on a tune-up. Besides that, the only real complaint that I have is the insistence on spelling skiing as "ski-ing," which could drive you crazy after a couple of pages.

So this year, before you go dashing off, take some of the advice in this book. It will help you to ski better. When you ski better you have more fun, and isn't that what it's all about anyway?

-Alex Stein

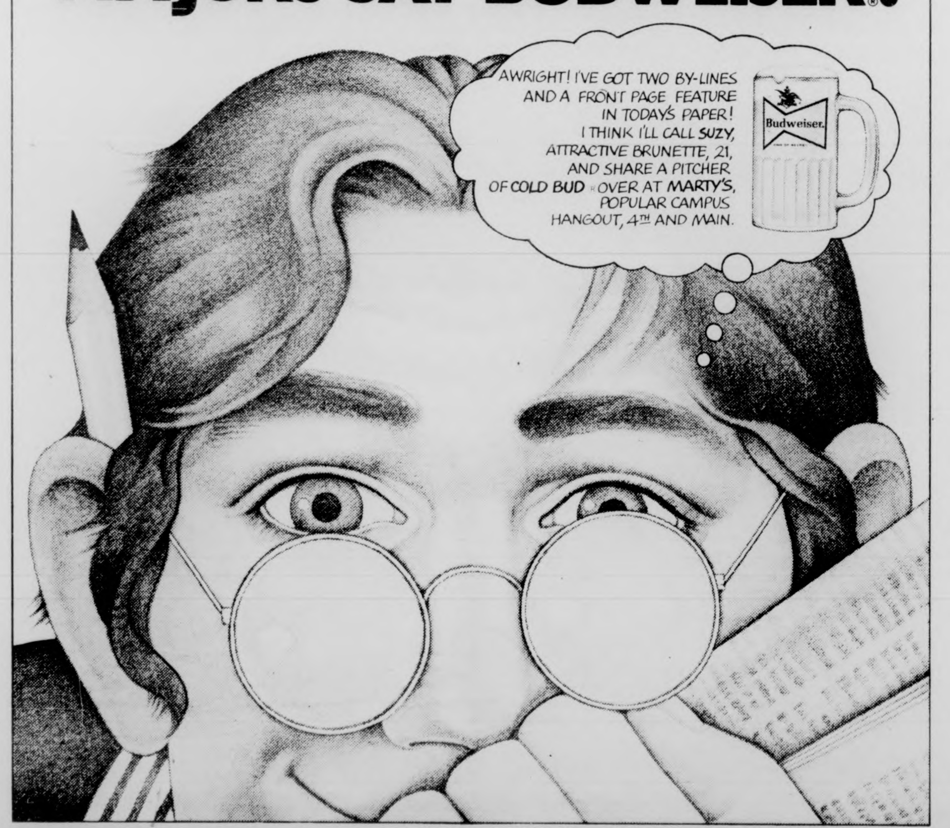
BUDWEISER® • KING OF BEERS® • ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC • ST LOUIS

WHEN DO JOURNALISM MAJORS SAY BUDWEISER®?



AWRIGHT! I'VE GOT TWO BY-LINES AND A FRONT PAGE FEATURE IN TODAY'S PAPER! I THINK I'LL CALL SUZY, ATTRACTIVE BRUNETTE, 21, AND SHARE A PITCHER OF COLD BUD® OVER AT MARTY'S, POPULAR CAMPUS HANGOUT, 4TH AND MAIN.
Budweiser.

---

RECORDS - What our critics say...

Ths is my heartfelt Top Ten and I personally don't give a flying fudgesickle what anybody else thinks, thank you.

1. Street Survivors, Lynyrd Skynyrd (in memorium.)
2. Songs From the Wood, Jethro Tull (would've been number one had not Ian "The Arrogant" Anderson snubbed me in Springfield's Marriott Hotel.)
3. Lake, Lake (top new group of '77.)
4. The Missing Piece, Gentle Giant (strong comeback.)
5. Even In The Quietest Moments, Supertramp (ever so underrated.)
6. Sleepwalker, The Kinnks (Ray Davies keeps right on chalkin' 'em up.)
7. Izitso, Cat Stevens (still a unique musical force.)
8. Point of Know Return, Kansas (could become a classic.)
9. Rumours, Fleetwood Mac (lest we forget.)
10. (tie) Footloose & Fancy Free, Rod Stewart (Rod the Modstrikes again.)

—Ross Nerenberg

LPs
1) Various Artists—A Bunch Of Stiffs—Stiff (import)
2) Talking Heads—Talking Heads: 77—Sire
3) Dictators—Manifest Destiny—Elektra
4) Sex Pistols—Never Mind The Bollocks—Warners
5) Jam—In The City—Polydor (import)
6) Iggy Pop—The Idiot—RCA
7) Elvis Costello—My Aim Is True—Columbia
8) Television—Marquee Moon—Elektra
9) Various Artists—New Wave—Vertigo (import)
10) Iggy And The Stooges—Metallic KO—Import

—Philip Milstein

Ten Reasons Why 1977 Was A Great Year After All

1. Wind and Wuthering, Genesis.
2. Silly Sisters, Maddy Prior and June Tabor.
3. The Missing Piece, Gentle Giant.
4. Deceptive Bends, 10cc.
5. Animals, Pink Folyd.
6. Goiong For The One, Yes.
7. Ra or Oops! Wrong Planet ( take your pick ), Utopia.
8. Songs From The Wood, Jethro Tull.
9. The Quiet Zone, The Pleasure Dome, Van Der Graaf Generator.
10. News of the World, Queen.

-Brett Milano

J.B.'s FAVES

1. Animals, Pink Floyd
2. I Robot, Alan Parsons Project
3. It's Your World, Gil Scott-Heron
4. Aja, Steely Dan
5. The Idiot, Iggy Pop
6. Friends, Oregon
7. Islands, The Band
8. Seconds Out, Genesis

Happy listening people, and never be afraid to listen to all kinds of various (the spice of life) musicians--Later,

-John Bergman

The Most Accurate Top Twelve LPs'

1. Ra-Utopia w/Todd Rundgren
2. American Stars'n Bars-Neil Young
3. Animals-Pink Floyd
4. Enigmatic Ocean-Jean-Luc Ponty
5. Night After Night-Nils Lofgren
6. Oops Wrong Planet-Utopia w/Todd Rundgren
7. Spectres-Blue Oyster Cult
8. Terrapin Station-Grateful Dead
9. Point of Know Return-Kansas
10. Big City-Lenny White
11. Midnight Wind-Charlie Daniels Band
12. Motivation Radio-Steve Hillage

-Tom Aversa

I thought doing this was hard last year because I couldn't come up with 10 deserving records. Well, this year it was even harder because I couldn't figure out what to leave out. Ask me tomorrow and my list will be different, but all of these records are great.

ALBUMS
1) Leave Home—Ramones
2) The Boys—Boys (import)
3) Blondie—Blondie
4) In Color—Cheap Trick
5) (I'm) Stranded—Saints
6) Manifest Destiny—Dictators
7) My Aim Is True—Elvis Costello
8) Twilley Don't Mind—Dwight Twilley Band
9) In The City—Jam
10) Young Loud & Snotty—Dead Boys

-Perry Adler

HEY, THIS'S A GREAT REKERD!

THE PEOPLE'S TOP RESPONSE LIST OF 1977.

Single of the Year - Native New Yorker - Oddessy
Top Five LPs;
1. Teddy Pendergrass - Philly Intl.
2. The Commodores - Motown
3. Rejoice - The Emotions - Columbia
4. Believe - Mass. Production
5. Choosing You - Lenny Williams - ABC

Debut Act of the Year - Rejoice, The Emotions
12 " Single Of the Year Commercially available - Do Ya Wanna Get Funky With Me," Peter Brown
Promotional - Tie - "Devil's Gun,"CJ & Company w/ "The Theme From Star Wars," Meco
"Funk Bomb" of the Year - Got To Give It Up, Marvin Gaye.

Mario

My Tempestuoustly Torrid Top Ten
1. Animals, Pink Floyd.
2. I Robot, Alan Parsons Project.
3. Lake, Lake.
4. Deceptive Bends, 10cc.
5. Nether Lands, Dan Fogelberg.
6. Moonflower, Santana.
7. Songs From The Wood, Jethro Tull.
8. Out of The Blue, Electric Light Orchestra.
9. In City Dreams, Robin Trower.
10. Little Queen, Heart.

--Whiz Wisniowski

THE YEAR IN MUSIC:
TOP TEN FOR 1977

1. DANCING IN YOUR HEAD
Ornette Coleman
( Horizon )
2. THE MONTREUX/BERLIN CONCERTS
Anthony Braxton
( Arista )
3. THE CLASH
( CBS )
4. PROTEST
Bunny Wailer
( Island )
5. OSAMU
Osamu Kitajima
( Island )
6. SHOW SOME EMOTION
Joan Armatrading
( A&M )
7. HEAVY WEATHER
Weather Report
( CBS )
8. LIVE AT THE PALLADIUM
Marvin Gaye
( Tamla )
9. NEVER MIND THE BOLLOCKS
Sex Pistols
( Warner Bros. )
10. EXODUS
Bob Marley and the Wailers
( Island )
Rookie of the Year: MY AIM IS TRUE
Elvis Costello
( CBS )

Most Valuable Player:
CAPETOWN FRINGE
Dollar Brand
( chiarascuro )

-Kenneth Shain

1977--ANOTHER YEAR ANOTHER LIST
In random order:

The David Grisman Quintet, (Kaleidoscope)
CSN, Crosby, Stills and Nash, (Atlantic)
Nothin' But A Breeze, Jesse Winchester, (Bearsville)
Lovin' In The Valley Of The Moon, Norton Buffalo and the Stampede, (Capitol)
Luxury Liner, Emmylou Harris, (Warner Brothers)
Heavy Weather, Weather Report, (Columbia)
Watercolors, Pat Metheny, (ECM)
Little Criminals, Randy Newman, (Reprise)
Live At The Rainbow, Al Jarreau, (Warner Brothers)
Made in '76 but best in '77:
Songs In The Key Of Life, Stevie Wonder, (Tamla)

-Mark Harris Levitan

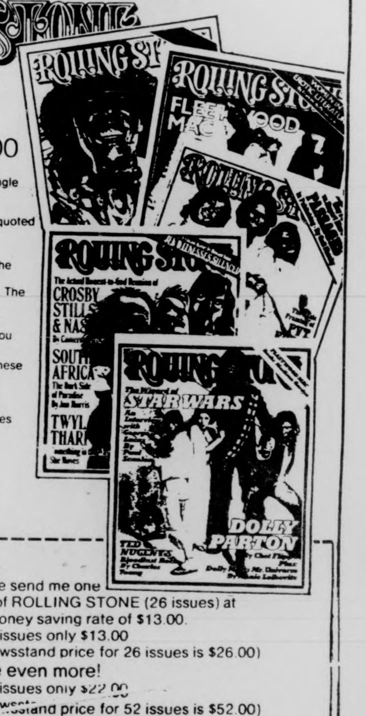
Inlaid Soapstone Boxes

Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
Open 9:30-6:00 Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1:00-5:00

Red Hot Christmas offer from the Red Hot Magazine !!!

ROLLING STONE



SAVE 50% OFF
the newsstand price
26 issues for only $13.00
You'd pay $26 if you bought them on the newsstand — save 50% and don't miss a single copy. Get alive to the world of ROLLING STONE.
*totally honest *brilliantly written *widely quoted *into the whole contemporary scene

FOR YOUNG ADULTS. Over 2½ million people like you read it. For the Music. For the Politics. The Movies. The Reviews. The Interviews. The Photography. The Opinions. The Scoops. The Gossip.

WHAT IT'LL DO FOR YOU. It'll open your eyes. Turn you on. Make you laugh. Make you angry. Make you think.

WHAT YOU'LL FIND. Recent articles like these
Peter Frampton — Peter's Principle: Let'em eat candy.
The Life & Lurves of Diane Keaton
Twyla Tharp — something in the way she moves
A Question of Style: A conversation with Diana Vreeland.
True Life Confessions of Fleetwood Mac
The White House Whiz Kids
Only in ROLLING STONE will you find unique articles like these covering the total contemporary life-style

ROLLING STONE
SUBSCRIPTION DISCOUNT COUPON
SAVE 50%
OFF NEWSSTAND PRICE
26 ISSUES FOR ONLY $13.00
OR SAVE EVEN MORE
52 ISSUES FOR ONLY $22.00
FILL OUT THE SPECIAL COUPON & MAIL TODAY ▶

YES
Please send me one year of ROLLING STONE (26 issues) at the money saving rate of $13.00.
☐ 26 issues only $13.00
(newsstand price for 26 issues is $26.00)
Save even more!
☐ 52 issues only $22.00
(newsstand price for 52 issues is $52.00)
☐ Payment Enclosed ☐ Bill me later
NAME ____________ APT ______
ADDRESS ____________
CITY ____________
MAIL TO: ROLLING STONE P.O. BOX 2983
BOULDER, COLORADO 80302
ODC1

Poets

I said in my best rehearsed conversation voice how are your classes
I wished I had said
what I was thinking
instead of what others say but words spoken won't return they can not return
she said they were good or something to that effect I wasn't listening
I was wallowing in my id trying to ask will an anteater
eat something beside an ant if it's raining and the ants won't come out to play and she would reply
If it's Sunday
in October and the rain is falling on Pismo beach
if the surfers play
pinball then we would kiss and go make love I said
I thought it was good that her classes were good and that mine were ok too
she said that's nice I said see ya she said ok smiled and turned I turned and replayed
the conversation

Steven Jay Kravitz

Nightwalk

Somewhere out in the night
there is (I know)
someone out in the night:
taking air on a lonely stroll;
exchanging long and longing glances with bypassers on the thoroughfare.
Writswatches and heartbeats echo;
streetlamps gleam in pastel eyes;
the air is heavy with strangers' sighs, sounding distant as I pass by,
somewhere out in the night.

9/11/77
B. Sesnovich

WHAT KIND OF SOFT ARE MY HANDS, BABY?

What kind of soft are my hands, baby?
What kind of soft are mine?
Soft like the skin on a baby's butt?
Soft like cotton, picked and processed?
Soft like sandpaper, half used up?
Soft like the rind of a watermelon?
Soft like rain on a summer morn'?
Soft like an ineffective jab to the jaw?
Soft like ice-cream, custard and smooth?
Soft like peach-fuzz, off the fruit?

Your own kind of soft, baby.
Your own kind of soft.
Soft like the way you stroke my hair.
Soft like the way you rub my back.
Soft like the gaze of your post-love stare.
Soft like your voice in the morning rise.
Soft like your hair, your voice, and your eyes.
Soft like your child-skin, sleek and smooth.
Soft like your coo, baby, and the way you cry.
Soft like your lips, round and full.
Soft like your kind of soft baby, soft like you.
Your own kind of soft.

-RasTapunk Ram Dass

Old Plays

Craning our necks, we tried to see all of her as she fell from the stage to the floor (of the stage), and wept for the fallen actresses with make-believe tears raining over lined and pancaked phases. They all had their moments "to be beautiful" - they all remain heroines (in our eyes). We remember ...rocking like children to sleep.

•

Where are the heroines? Raped by the constraints of masculine roles...to be had (not to have); not to hold (but beheld). On staged floors, under hot lights, phases melting...cracking smiles and eyes.

Tired, dancing feet...warm and torn ballet, tap and heels...walking, always swaying hips to swing bands, showboat and ballet...singing ballads of lost loves, and found loves and no loves at all...where are the heroic deeds?

Rocking the children...whispering tomorrow's tunes - offkey.

-Jo Wellins

at the
HATCH
Dec. 8, Thursday
The Great Pretenders

Last appearance
in the Hatch for the year

rainbow prisms

A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.
Faces of Earth
Open 9:30 to 6 Mon.-Sat.
Sundays 1 to 5
Next to Amherst Post Office

COLLEGE SKI WEEK CARNIVAL AT MOUNT SNOW, VERMONT
January 8-13, 1978
• Five Day Lift Ticket
• Ski 80 Miles — 1800' Drop
• Five Nights Lodging
• Deluxe Condominiums
• Kitchen & Fireplace
• Only 2 per Bedroom
• Five Minutes to Mt.
• Dance to Live Bands
• Free Keg Party
• Surprise Extras
ONLY $99.50
Easy Drive — South Vt.
Call: DAVID GHAREEB
546-7856
All trip arrangements by United Intercollegiate Skiers Association.

RECORDS

Which one of these reviews is genuinely funny, which one actually makes you laugh? Do you think there is a place for humor in record reviews? If you do, should this humor, in your opinion, be self-parodying? Should we allow people to embarass themselves? Are we?

THE INTERGALACTIC TOURING BAND
(Passport)

Geared toward fourteen year olds, this pre-Christmas release is designed to culturally reinforce the monopoly drive for nuclear energy. Dovetailing with the Brzezinskian scheme of technetronic global domination and unlimited expansion, this Steven Galfas production is aimed, primarily, at the anti-nukester's little brothers and sisters in hopes that they will not repeat their siblings' mistake of environmental and social involvement. It's going to take plenty of nuclear power to propel our new vision of the future into outer space and this neat little product is a major investment in a pronuke next generation. Soon to be a major motion pictureITB projects a corporate world of tomorrow thrusting capitalism a hundred, even a thousand years into the future. Besides being propaganda, ITB is childish, dehumanizing, and not a good gift at all for Christmas.

Kenneth Shain

DEATH OF A LADIES' MAN
Leonard Cohen
(Warner Bros.)

Leonard has "Spectorized" his sound in an attempt to salvage his career and like so many others before him, the results are debatable. Still writing good lyrics with plenty of hooks, Leonard sounds, at times, like Iggy Pop. "Death of a Ladies' man" is a great answer back to Galfas' ITB: "So the great affair is over/but whoever would have guessed/it would leave us all so vacant/and so deeply unimpressed./It's like our visit to the moon/or to that other star/I guess you go for nothing/if you really want to go that far." If you like Leonard or you want to hear some futuristic anti-futurism, this album is for you .

Kenneth Shain

THE MONTREAUX/BERLIN CONCERTS
Anthony Braxton
(Arista)

The new master of jazz. If you can't grok him now, hold on to this one for ten years or so when the rest of popular music catches up with him. By then it'll sound like "Rock Around the Clock" and he'll still be light years off. More on this significant release after the break....

-Kenneth Shain

PAULA LOCKHEART with PETER ECKLUND
(and other friends)
(Flying Fish Records)

This is a record of note, for Ms. Lockheart and Mr. Ecklund have taken great pains to emulate the many varieties of vocal jazz music associated with the great female singers such as Sarah Vaughn, Betty Carter, Billy Holiday and Ella Fitzgerald. Paula Lockheart's voice is an excellent instrument with which to work the upbeat material chosen here. Peter Ecklund's trumpet leads a band that is as versatile as it is excellent. The production quality mimics the distant and tinny style of the forties, allowing the listener to drift into the past with ease. But the beauty remains in the currency of this album. Thoroughly enjoyable.

-Mark Harris Levitan

THE DAVID SANBORN BAND
Promise Me the Moon
(Warner Bros.)

Ubiquitous and versatile, David Sanborn has emerged as one of the session-studs of the seventies, lending a helping horn to a bewildering variety of productions, from Judy Collins to Bruce Springsteen to Gil Evans.

Not surprisingly, though, Sanborn's solo career has begun to reflect the strain of so much musical promiscuity. His second self-titled effort, released last year, was a benumbing issue of dentist-office/disco muzak, abjectly lacking the crispness and melodic invention of Taking Off, his first and as yet unsurpassed effort. And, while his newest most recent release, Promise Me The Moon features a spirited and technically accomplished back-up band, and is a much more vital work than it's predecessor, it is still a far from fecund affair. Rosalinda De Leon's deft keyboard embellishments and Juma Santos' authoratative percussion work lend a splash of color to the arrangements here, but Sanborn's playing, characterized by a text-book technique and squeaky clean timbre, sounds stillborn throughout. Only on the title cut and "We Fool Ourselves", does Sanborn's soloing generate enough of a dynamic edge to propell Promise Me The Moonout of the topor of easy listeining music.

-Jack Flynn

LOGGINS ® MESSINA
Finale
(Columbia)

One should only hope and pray that the title of this LP is accurate. As their farewell statement (as well as a final endeavor to rake in big bucks), L® M deliver one of the lamest live albums within recent memory; a two record set yet. Unless you truly idolize Ken ny and Jim, save your money for something else...anything else. As exciting as an auctioneer with a lisp, Finale lags behind with a "there's no point in punishing yourself" D.

-Ross Nerenberg

THE JOY
Toni Brown & Terry Garthwaite
Elektra

Formerly of a group known as the Joy of Cooking which surfaced in the late sixties, these two artists have successfully begun their own group simply known as The Joy.When I say successfully begun, successfully should be emphatically emphasized. The songs illustrate great clarity and depth without an overdose of instrumentals that tend, in other cases, to drown out the vocals. That is not to say that the music doesn't contribute at all. The music is quite worthy of praise and I'm sure that you will agree when you find your foot irresistably tapping the floor when listening to this album.

Included in this album is a fine rendition of Van Morrison's "Come Running", characterized as a well produced cut with a strong unison of lyrics and music. "You Don't Owe Me Spring", "On the Natch", "Beginning Tommorrow" and "Wrap the World" constitute a group of songs which strongly illustrate this group's talent. Supplemented at times with performances by Elvin Bishop and Taj Mahal, The Joy is best summed up as a group which has made it and should be there to stay. Combined excellence in music and lyrics accompanied with a knack for diversity in their songs, The Joy is an album strongly reccommended.

Karen Morrill

TENOR GIANTS
(Verve)

It is said of Coleman Hawkins "he invented the tenor saxophone" so pervasive was his stylistic influence upon players of that instrument. Upon digesting the music on these four sides I can only concur, and conjecture that perhaps it was Ben Webster who recieved the first patent for Hawkins' invention

Recorded in the latter half of the 1950's, the sessions here display these two magnificent artists blowing in tandem for two sides, then sharing the solo spotlight with the formidable talents of trumpeter Roy Eldridge and tenorist Budd Johnson for the remainder. Bassist Ray Brown is the common element in the alchemy of superb rhythm sections appearing on the two dates, and upon the solid swing of his powerful rhythmic pulse the ensembles recorded here conduct an exhilarating search for musical gold before the listener's very ears.

Hawkins' playing is exemplary throughout. Never a player content to rest on his laurels, we here find him exploring fresh musical routes through a variety of tunes ranging from new compositions to well-worn standards. When one considers the fact that this same gentleman was a major innovator in the music as far back as the mid-1920's, it seems indeed remarkable that his playing here is so fresh and energetic. In fact, right up to the end of Hawkins' long life, his style continued to evolve and renew itself to such an extent that no tenorman, young or old, could dare to sit still stylistically for the slightest moment for fear that 'Bean' would eclipse them.

Of Webster one can only marvel at the tremendous talent he had to have posessed to become such an outstanding musical figure in a genre which was defined every step of the way by Hawkins. The music here is a good example of how, by ingeniously developing a style out of whatever sparse musical terrain was still available after Hawkins' colossal colonization, Webster succeeded like no other tenorist of his generation in rivaling, and in a sublime manner equaling, the artistic mastery of the Bean himself.

These sides then are imperative and gratifying listening for all who would like to experience first hand the musical foundation upon which many "tenor giants", including Sonny Rollins and U Mass' own Archie Shepp, have built their individual stylistic legacies. And as an added bonus, the album jacket includes an etremely informative set of liner notes which should help to guide both rookie, and veteran listener alike along on this magnificent musical journey.

-Roger Bennett

BAY CITY ROLLERS
Greatest Hits
(Arista)

With the possible exceptions of Angel Dust and Shaun Cassidy, Rollermania is probably today's biggest craze among contemporary teenyboppers throughout the world. So, Greatest Hits provides the perfect Xmas gift for lil' sister or brother, as Les, Woody, Eric and Derek deliver their ten fave tunes. (Bet you didn't even think they knew that many.) No serious music fan could enjoy this, but the aforementioned teenybopper crowd will gobble it up. For what it's worth, I rate this one a "was I ever so young?" B-.

-Ross Nerenberg

RIDING HIGH
Faze-O
(She)

From the people who bring us the Ohio Players; more space disco. This time the sound is remeniscent of "Coldest Days of My Life" period Chi-Lites; clean, crisp, and longing. These guys are young and good and if they ever get rid of their amyl-nitrate pendant jewelry, I'll recommend them to you.

Kenneth Shain

SOCIAL WORKERS • TEACHERS • PSYCHOLOGISTS
TIRED OF HEARING ABOUT NO JOBS AND NO SATISFACTION IN YOUR CHOSEN PROFESSION?
Well if you have a Hebrew background, we invite you to kiss that rut goodbye and say hello to Israel.
If you are a social worker (MSW, BSW), teacher or psychologist—or would like to be trained as a social worker, a most exciting and personally-rewarding career awaits you in the State of Israel.
Interviews will be conducted in the United States. Contact us immediately for pre-interview information session.
ISRAEL Aliyah CENTER
31 St. James Ave.
Park Square Bldg., Suite 450
Boston, Mass. 02116
Tel: (617) 423-0868 / 423-7491
There is much to be done by our generation in Israel. Let's stop talking and start doing.

Openings for Student Judiciary Position

Positions are now available.

Interested Students should attend a meeting

on 12/13 at 3:00

in Room 404 Student Union

For more information call 5-2145

Quality that counts.
The HP-10 adds up to great value.
In one amazingly small, lightweight unit, the HP-10 Printing Calculator gives you all the features you'd expect from a desktop office machine plus traditional Hewlett-Packard quality.
Here's how the features add up.
Whisper-quiet thermal printer gives you a permanent printed record of all your calculations. Or you can use the lighted display alone.
Operates on rechargeable batteries or AC, so you can use the HP-10 at the office, at home, in planes, taxis, trains—anywhere.
Memory keys let you add to or subtract from the independent memory.
Percent key lets you quickly calculate percentages for taxes, dividends, commissions.
Come in and see the HP-10 today. It's a great value.
only $159
now in stock for gift giving.... even if you give it to yourself at the Christmas Store
the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

Showcase Cinemas
ROUTE 5
RIVERDALE RD.
West Springfield
733-5131

BARGAIN $2.00 til 2:30
MATINEES EVERYDAY

LOOKING FOR MR.GOODBAR
R RESTRICTED

PG STAR WARS

Another man, another chance PG United Artists

Bobby Deerfield
PANAVISION METROCOLOR PG

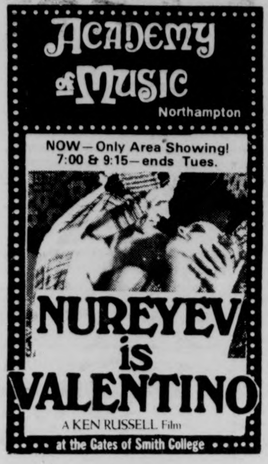
HENRY WINKLER SALLY FIELD
HEROES PG

THE HAPPY HOOKER GOES TO WASHINGTON R

Last Tango in Paris R

Young Frankenstein PG

PLEASE CALL THEATRE FOR SCREEN TIMES



ACADEMY of MUSIC
Northampton

NOW—Only Area Showing!
7:00 & 9:15—ends Tues.

NUREYEV is VALENTINO
A KEN RUSSELL Film
at the Gates of Smith College

University of Massachusetts / Amherst
FINE ARTS CENTER PRESENTS

Direct from Spain
Ballet
NACIONAL FESTIVALES DE
España
Company of 50

"the best, most entertaining Spanish dance company ever. . !"
Peter Hepple, STT, London

Saturday, December 10 8 pm
FINE ARTS CENTER CONCERT HALL

Tickets now on sale. General Public-$7, 6, 5.
UMass students-$4, 3, 2.50. Senior Citizens-$6, 5, 4.

Fine Arts Center Box Office M-F 9-4
& All Ticketron Locations.

WINTER HOLIDAY FESTIVAL
Sunday, Dec. 11, 1977 noon-6 p.m.
featuring music by "RAINTREE"
VAN METER DORMITORY, U. OF MASS.
(off E. Pleasant St at Clark Hill Rd.)
* craft exhibits; sales; glass blowing & fabric printing demonstrations; food; music; wonderful gifts for the holidays... Info: 546-4565
Sponsored by Fine Arts Council of Orchard Hill/Central

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS.

Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded

You Light Up My Life
PG 1
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

A long time ago in a galaxy far far away...
STAR WARS
PG 2
Thurs. at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 5:30/1.50
Fri. at 5:00, 7:30, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 4:30/1.50

THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN
PG 3
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

The Best Selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film.
I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN
R 4
Thurs. at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show tickets 6:00/1.50
Fri. at 5:30, 8:00, 9:55
Twi-lite show tickets 5:00/1.50

REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING
CHOOSE ONE OF THESE MIDNITE MOVIES—FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Monty Python's AND NOW FOR SOMETHING COMPLETELY DIFFERENT AND CANDY All $2.00

Horace Boyer

Holiday music, the coronation scene from Boris Gudnov, selections from "Porgy And Bess" and two trumpet trios performing "Bugler's Holiday" are among the highlights of the University Symphony Band and University Chorale concert this Tuesday, December 13 at Bowker Auditorium, 8 p.m.

The Free concert is open to the public.

The University Symphony Band, John Jenkins, Conductor, will perform music of Copland, Mennin, Anderson, Reed, and Gershwin. The selections from "Porgy And Bess' will feature Gretchen d'Armand, Horace Boyer and Hohn d'Armand.

The University Chorale, Richard Du Bois, Conductor will present holiday music.

Both the Chorale and Symphony Band with John d'Armand as Boris will perform the Coronation Scene from "Boris Gudnov."

The free concert in Bowker Auditorium in Stockbridge Hall, University of Massachusetts, is sponsored by the University Department of Music and Dance.

Hand-Knit Socks

Comfortable, cozy, and casual . . .
Our knee-length socks, hand knit in a cheerful array of colors, are so thick and warm you can wear them as slippers. Tie tops are an interesting detail. Moderately priced at 5.95.

CHILDREN'S SIZES, TOO!

A refreshing place to shop!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-6, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

The N.M.I.B.T.

A highly original new music and dance company, The New Music Improvisational Ballet Theater, will be presenting its first performance this upcoming Friday evening at Annabels's in Northampton. Organized by bassist David Wertman and dancer-choreographer Barbara Goldfarb, the company is already planning its program for the spring and it is an ambitious program to be sure.

The two founders see the Theater as "an organization to unite professional composers and choreographers with Five college students and thereby give the composers a chance to see their pieces performed and the students a chance to perform" The performances will take place away from the colleges so as not to limit the performers or composers by too close an association with one college. Wertman said that one of the reasons for the creation of the theater was to break from the strictures of the Five College music and dance departments and establish an independent group to seek out grants and use the money to feature unproduced local talent. Original music and choreography are now being accepted by David and Barbara who are also trying to arrange credit for Five College performers.

David Wertman, a native New Yorker, has played bass with a wide variety of musicians who are at the forefront of progressive music: Arthur Blythe, Steve Reid, Charles Tyler and many others. He has his own record on Mustevic Records, has often played for dance performances and possesses superior powers of improvisation which he is involving more and more in the dance context.

Aside from teaching dance at Lyconning College in Williamsport Penna., Barbara Golfarb has taught and performed dance in New York. Her teaching experience there runs the gamut from the Sheridan School to the YWCA and includes teaching dance to retarded men. She has performed several times in tandem with David.

Spontaneous improvisation is the theme and method of the Theater's performance which will use masks and costumes, lights and video. Wertman will perform a solo bass piece and then accompany Barbara and Jean Ahearn in a continuous improvisation. The location of Annabels is 270 Pleasant St. second floor, in Northampton and things will commence at 8:00 Friday evening. There is a $2 donation.

Plans are being made now for next semester's presentations and anyone interested in submitting works or performing can contact David at 665-4210.

STILL MORE

EUGENE FODOR AT FINE ARTS CENTER

AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS: "In the West they call him the Mick Jagger of classical music. In Moscow he is known as the best young American musician since Van Cliburn..."is how People Magazine described the young violin virtuoso EUGENE FODOR who will perform at the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Thursday December 8 at 8 p.m.

The presentation of Mr. Fodor is part of the Celebrity Series at the Fine Arts Center, University of Massachusetts.

In 1972 the 20 year old Fodor won the International Paganini Competition in Genoa, Italy, the first American in 21 years to win top prize there. The same year he gave recitals in London, Vienna, and Budapest and toured throughout Poland and Central America.

In 1974 he entered the Tchaikowsky Competition. For some strange reason, the 19 judges witheld first prize and gave three second prizes-to Fodor and two Soviet violinists. Reports from Moscow say that many in the capacity Russian audience felt the American should have had the gold medal and that he was the only one of the trio to receive a standing ovation.

Eugene Fodor is the only American to win the International Tchaikowsky Violin Competition.

In November 1974 Fodor opened the Great Performers Series at Avery Fisher Hall in Lincoln Center and has since appeared with the Cleveland Symphony, Pittsburgh Symphony, Baltimore Symphony, Philadelphia Symphony, Dallas Symphony and more.

He has appeared on the "Today Show", the "Mike Douglas Show" and made his New York area debut with a recital at the Caramoor Festival, it was the first time in the 29 years of the operation that this festival has had a "guest star."

Tickets for Eugene Fodor at the Fine Arts Center, December 8 are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center box office, open 9-4 Monday through Friday and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket pricws are: General Public $7,6,5. UMass students are $3.50, 3, 2.50. Other students and Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information, call 545-2511.

---

LOCAL CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Art

ART HAPPENINGS

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
University Gallery-Art Faculty Exhibition-Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, Smith and Hampshire thru December 18.

Student Union Gallery-An installation by Joseph Kos-an artist from New York thru Friday Dec. 9. An installation by Lorenzo Pezzatini December 12-Friday December 16.

AMHERST COLLEGE
"Italian Landscapes" by Robert Sweeney-faculty member at Amherst College thru January 8. At the Meade Gallery.

MOUNT HOLYOKE COLLEGE
"Offset Prints"-editions from Artists-Research-Technology at the Mt. Holyoke Art Museum thru Dec. 20.

NORTH HATFIELD
"Images-The Appearance of Reality is All That is Necessary"-an exhibit of recent works by Paul Berube thru Dec. at the Baracca Gallery.

DEERFIELD
"Recent Aquisitions of Deerfield Area Furniture"-a special exhibit featuring a sampling of rural Massachusetts cabinet making of the late 18th century on display at the Historic Deerfield Museum thru Feb. 28.

WORCESTER FOR COLLECTORS:
A Sales Exhibit of Works of Art-Dec. 10-January 8 at the Worcester Art Museum.

Dance

Dec. 8,9,10 (Thu, Fri, Sat) Smith: All Ballet Student Dance Concert at Theater 14 8pm.

Dec. 10 (Sat) UMass: Ballet Nacional Festivales de Espana atthe Fine Arts Center 8pm. Tickets are $7, 6, 5 general public and $4, 3, 2.50 UMass students.

Dec. 9,10,11 (Fri, Sat, Sun) Hampshire: Student Dance Concert at the Performing Arts Center 7pm.

Theater

THEATER PRODUCTIONS

Amherst College

FESTIVAL OF ONE ACTS PASSIONELLA, HOW DO YOU DO, SCENES FROM SAROYAN. Fayerweather Theater, Dec. 9-11 8:00 pm Tickets $1.00 BOx Office - 542-2277.

SMITH COLLEGE

CONQUEST OF MY BROTHER Hallie Flanagan Theater Dec. 9-11, 15-17 8:00 pm. BOx office - 584-2700 ext. 840.

WEST SPRINGFIELD

A CHRISTMAS CAROLE, Stage West Dec. 4-31 Box Office 736-7092.

WORCESTER

DRACULA, New England Repertory Theater, Fridays and Saturdays until Dec. 10; Box office - 617-798-8685.

BOSTON

CHEATERS; Wilber Theater. Opens Dec. 12. Box office - 617-423-4008.

DO YOU TURN SOMERSAULTS?; Colonial Theater, Dec. 13-31.

THEATER AUDITIONS

Open auditions for Moliere's SCHOOL FOR WIVES will be held by the University Ensemble Theater on December 7, 1-5pm on the Stage of the Frank Prentice Rand Theater of the UMass Fine Arts Center. Those auditioning should use the ramp entrance opposite Herter Hall.

Those auditioning are requested to sign uo for a 15 minute audition spot on the bulletin board outside the UMass Departnment of Theater main office, 112 Fine Arts Center. If you cannot get in to sign up please call 545-3490 and have the Department secretary sign you up.

For those who wish to prepare scene material, partial scripts are available in room 112, Fine Arts Center.

DRAMA AUDITIONS

Roister Doister Drama Society is taking applications for production staff for the play The Mouse Trap by Agatha Christie. The following positions are open:

Producer
Director
Set Designer
Lighting Designer
Costume Designer
Publicity Coordinator
Make-up Designer
Technical Director
Master Carpenter
Master Electrician
Stage Manager
Spelling Overseer

If you are interested please contact:
Karl Allen 549-4729
Lynn Engler 256-0223
Bridget Feely 549-3905
or leave a message in the RSO box 508.

Political Affairs
Ask Jim Paulin

Vocalion
I LIKE WHAT I LIKE WHEN I LIKE IT
HARRY DIAL & HIS BLUESICIANS

Music

Somebody screwed up and didn't turn in the local concert listings

CONCERT LISTINGS
Out of Towners
(pretty dull this time)

Aerosmith/Styx; December 8, New Haven Coliseum.
Jonathan Richman; December 8, Paradise Theater in Boston.
Dexter Gordon/Randy Crawford; December 8,9,10,11, Paul's Mall in Boston.
Elvis Costello; December 9,10, Paradise Theater in Boston.
Average White Band/Kool and the Gang/Brick; December 10, Providence Civic Center.
Greg & Cher Allman; December 10, Lowell Memorial Auditorium.
Kansas; December 11, Springfield Civic Center.
Kansas; December 13, Providence Civic Center.
Marshall Tucker Band; December 13, Springfield Civic Center.
James Brown; Hotel Bradford in Boston.
Marshall Tucker Band; December 26, Hartford Civic Center.
Bette Midler; January 3,4,5,6,7,8, Paradise Theater in Boston.

AN EVENING OF BLACK CULTURAL MUSIC AND DANCE AT THE ANACAONA CULTURAL CENTER ### with the UNITY ENSEMBLE

ON Saturday Dec. 10 at 9:30 p.m. the North East Area Third World Center (Anacaona) will celebrate their first aniversary with a performance by Unity Ensemble featuring Chris Henderson. The center which is lacated in the basement of Dwight House was founded last November by the Third World students of North East. Saturday's event is the first major event that the center will sponsor this year. It is hoped Brothers and Sisters from the U. Mass campus and the Five College area will turn out to support the Center.

> "Dada ain't nada > and so is > yo' fadda"
> — unknown
> circa 1973

NATIONAL BALLET OF SPAIN RETURNS TO AMHERST

THE BALLET NACIONAL FESTIVALES DEESPANA (THE NATIONAL BALLET OFSPAIN) will return to the Fine Arts Center Concert Hall on Saturday December 10 at 8 p.m.

During their performance in November 1976 at the Fine Arts Center the National Ballet of Spain received rave reviews from the critics and estatic applause from the audience.

The Ballet of Spain was created in 1973 and is the first National Dance Company to be sponsored by the Ministry of Welfare and Culture of Spain.

Its purpose is to present authentic Spanish dances throughout the world and it had already done so in Europe, and in South, Central and North America.

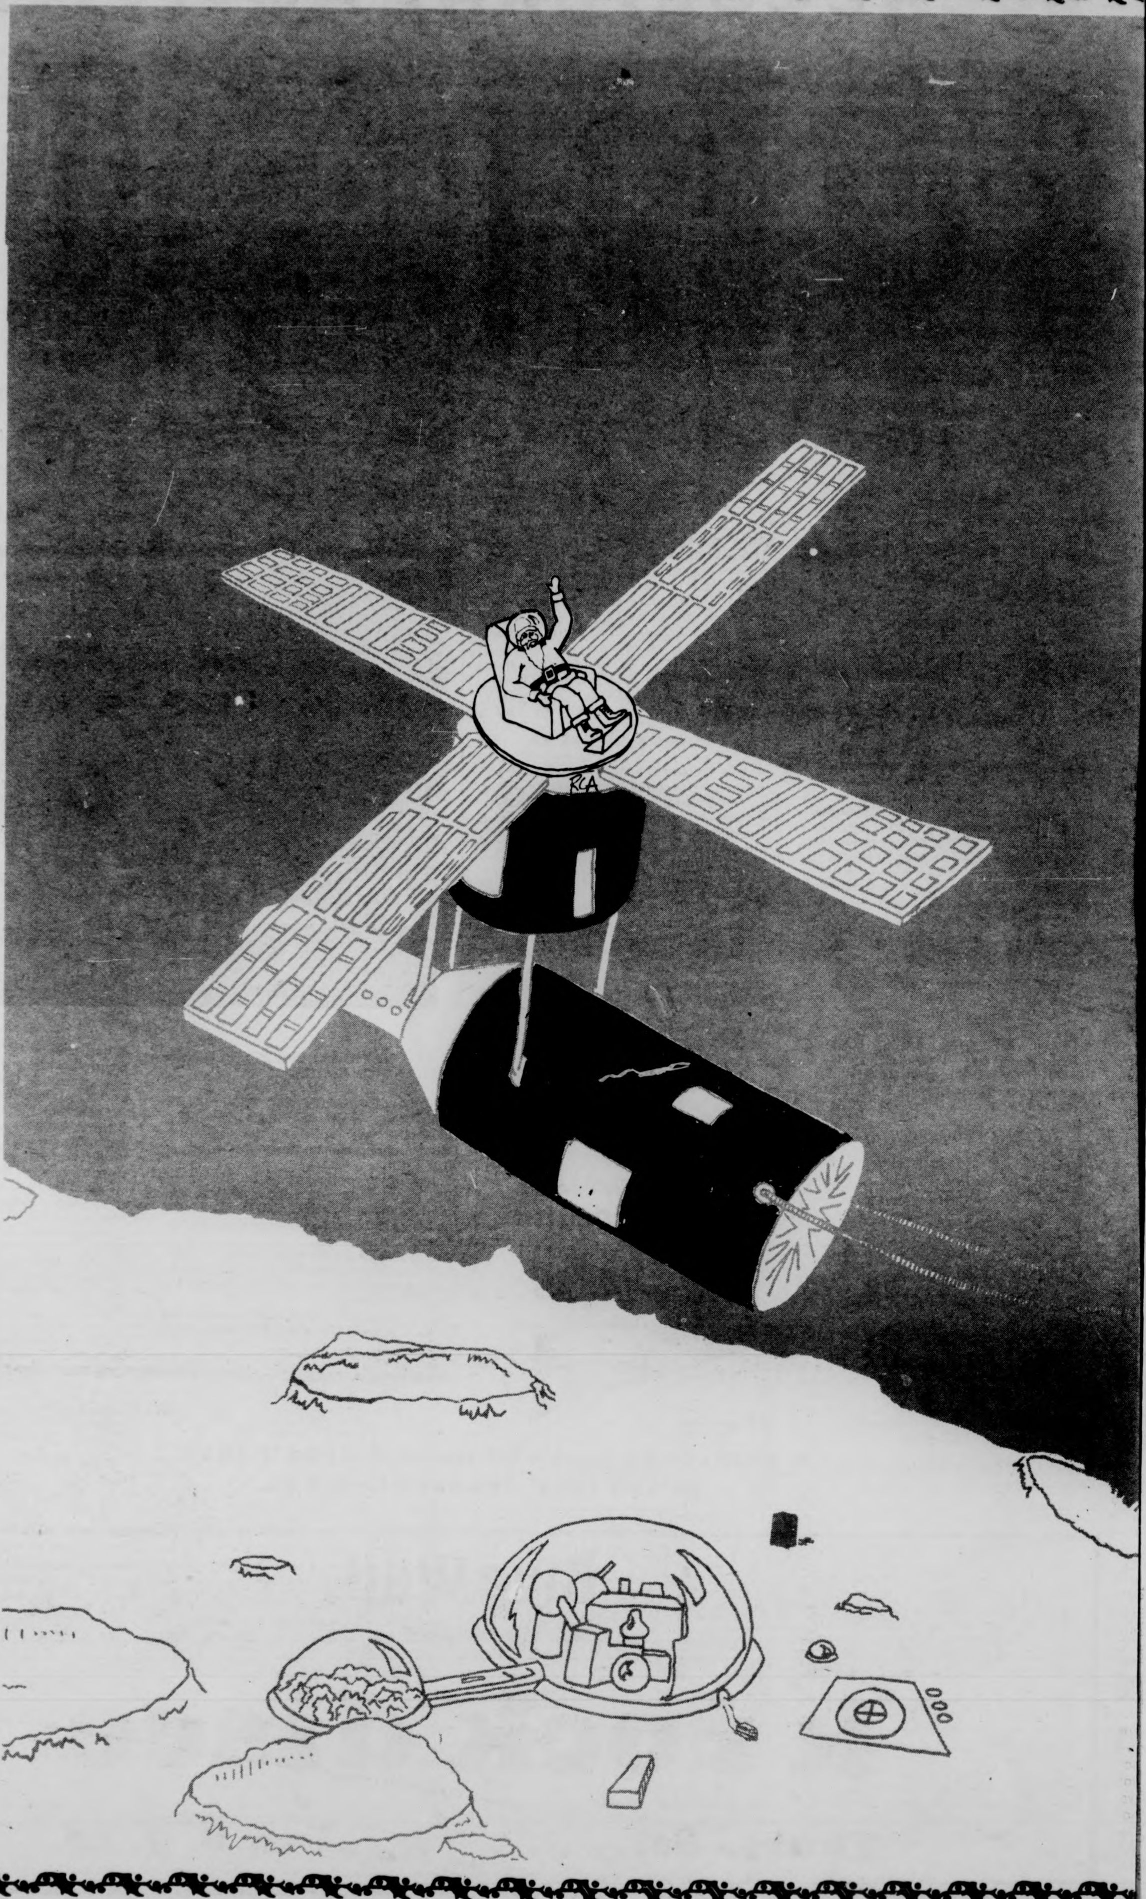
The troupe is handsome, stylish and impeccably rehearsed, its costuming fully up to requirements for a first-rate Spanish Dance company. The Company is sophisticated as it shows off its talents in an array of langorous bleros, stately court dances, fiery flamencos and spirited jotas.

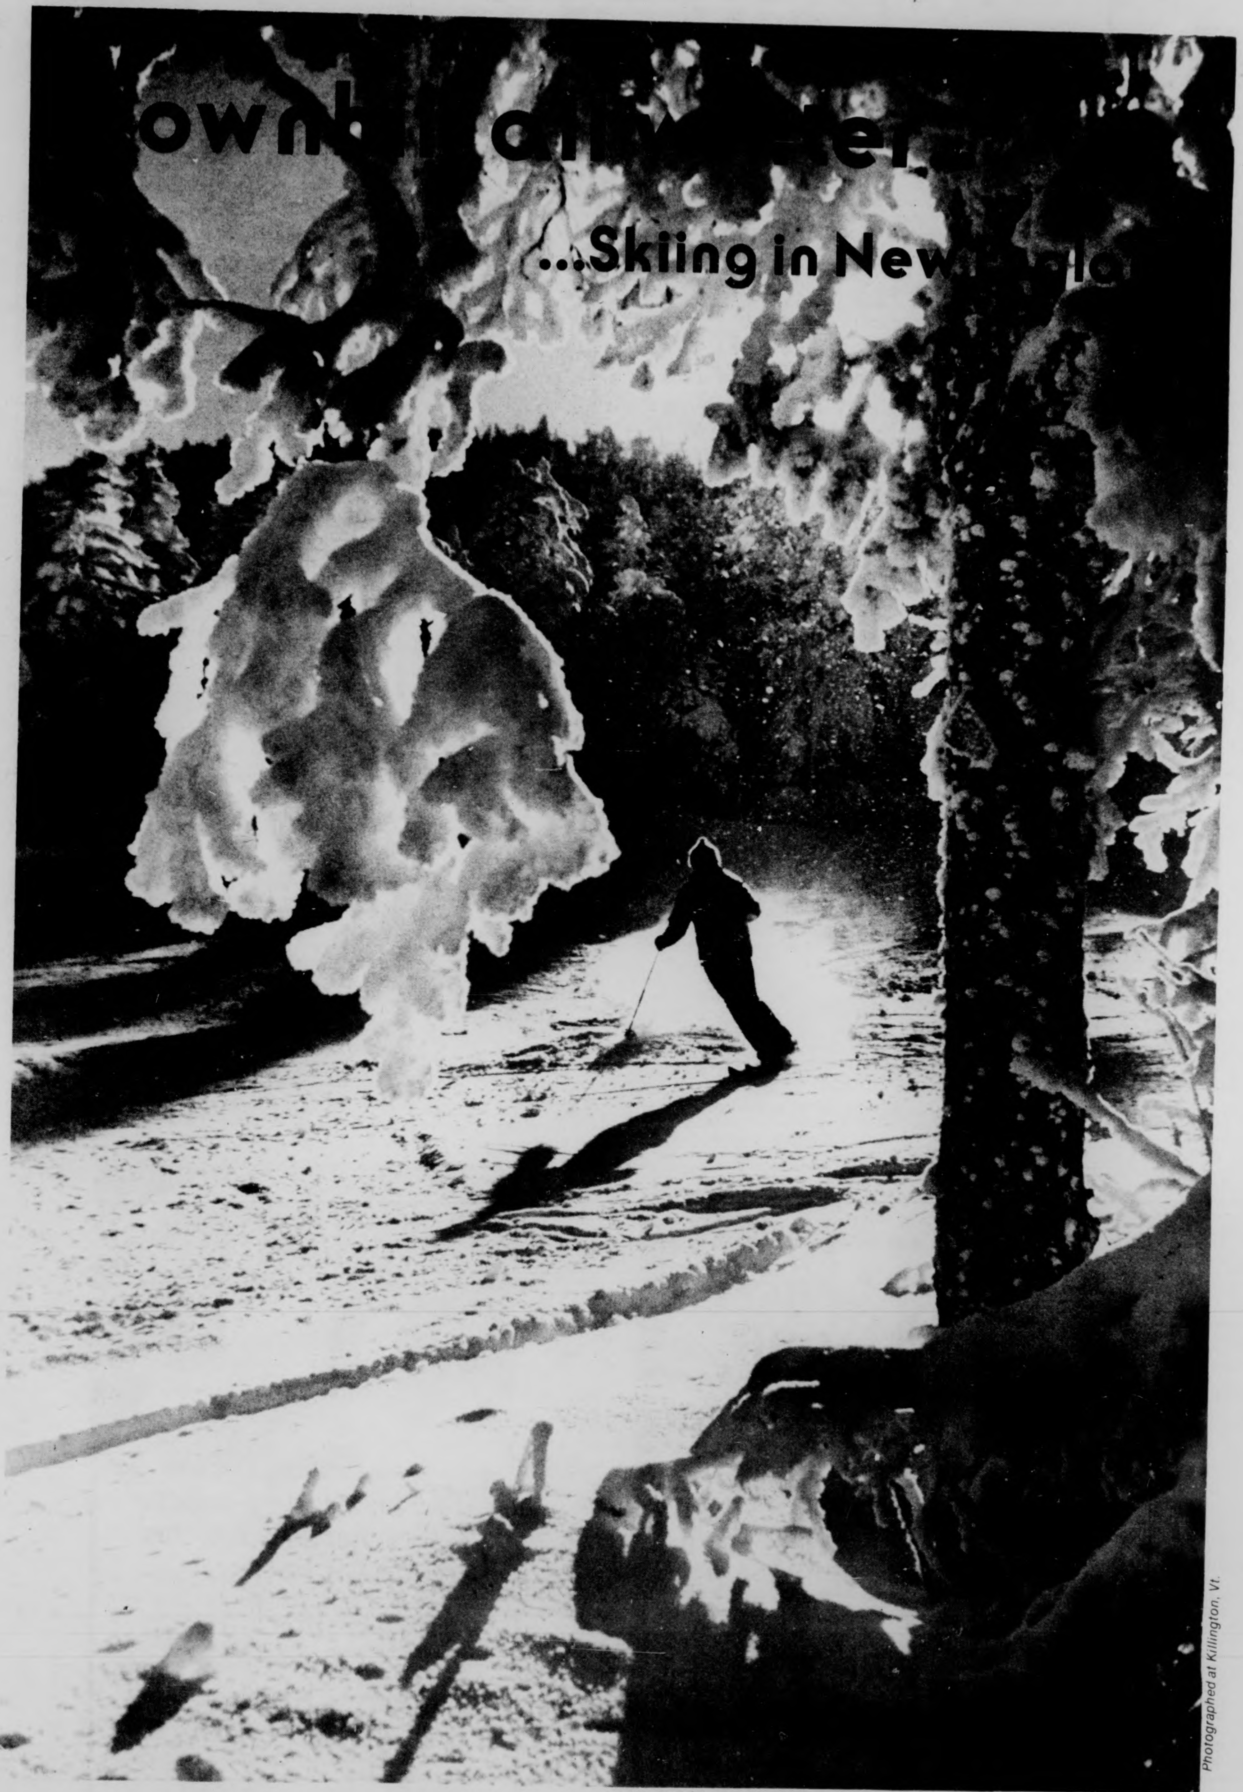
Tickets for the December 10 performance of the National Ballet of Spain are now on sale at the Fine Arts Center, open Monday through Friday, 9-4 and all Ticketron locations.

Ticket prices are: General public, $7,6,5. UMass students, $4,3,2.50. Senior citizens are $6,5,4. For more information, call 545-2511.

AND SPECIAL THANKS TO GERRY GRENIER WHO'S DONE SO MUCH FOR US THIS SEMESTOR

Blue Wall
featuring
k rock disco
Thurs.- Sat. Dec. 8, 9, 10





ownh[illegible] a[illegible]er[illegible]
...Skiing in New[illegible]

Photographed at Killington, Vt.

UMass Ski Club just grows and grows

The UMass Ski Club could easily become the largest student organization on campus by the end of this February, as well as become one of the largest ski clubs on the east coast.

Club President Steve Miller estimates nearly 750 students will have joined the club by the end of February, and that the number could climb as high as 1000. Currently, 600 students have paid the $7 dues enabling them to attend weekly trips to local ski areas.

One of the reasons the club is so successful, Miller says, is that it provides skiers cheap access to the slopes. The dues money and revenue earned from the annual November ski sale enable the club the hire buses each weekend to cart their members to the slopes.

Once you join, all you pay for is the lift ticket each time you ski, Miller says.

This year, total sales topped $82,000 for the four-day sale in the Student Union Ballroom, featuring new and used equipment and other accessories.

The sale more than doubled in size from last year, he said, when the club sold $42,000 of equipment.

Eight committees headed by a core group of about 25 club members put in long hours during the sale to make it the success it was, Miller says.

The club advertised their sale as far away as Hartford, Conn.

Club Vice-President Laurie MacDonald says the seven officers and committee members skipped classes for two weeks to get the sale organized.

"I'm flunking out," Miller says, "Every Ski Club president flunks out, there is just too much to do."

Currently, the club is planning a week long trip to Sugarbush ski area in upstate Vermont during intercession. So far, over 130 people have signed up for the trip, Miller says, and he expects 150 people to attend, filling nearly three lodges.

The club maintains an informational bulletin board on the main floor of the Student Union bulletin board, which gives notices of weekly meetings. During the ski season conditions at New England areas are posted daily on the board.

The club takes weekly trips, on Saturdays, to resorts in Vermont and New Hampshire. For the price of a lift ticket, members get a day of skiing, free transportation and wine and cheese for the bus trips.

Evening trips to the more local Berkshire East area and Mt. Tom area are also conducted on a weekly basis.

Vice-President MacDonald says the club advertises itself for both downhill and cross-country skiers, but the majority of members are downhill skiers.

"If an area has cross-country trails, we post it on the bulletin board so cross country skiers can go if they want to. We usually get a few, but they usually work through the Outing Club," she said.

Decisions about where to go each week made at the evening meetings, usually held on Wednesdays.

The club's officers say there is rarely a problem in deciding where to go, even though members abilities range from novice to expert.

Officers will be taking more membership and names for the Sugarbush trip next week on the Campus Center concourse. A table will also be set up at the beginning of next semester for any students wishing to join the club.

The Ski Club's office is located in room 304 of the Student Union.

Cross country racing planned for Massachusetts

CROSS COUNTRY
SPONSORED BY
USSA
AND
THE TRAVELERS

The USSA-PEP Cross Country Mobile Ski Clinic will conduct instructional clinics prior to the five major PEP races on the 1977-78 schedule. Pictured at the cab of the roving van are (l to r): Bill Koch, former U.S. Olympic medalist, Teyck Weed, and Hank Lange of USSA-Eastern.

For the fifth consecutive year, the United States Ski Association (USSA) Eastern Division will present the Travelers "Physical Exercise Pays" Family Ski Touring Series, which this year will include a total of 19 touring events.

The series is endorsed by The President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports and provides an opportunity for persons of all ages and levels of ability to get out and try cross country skiing.

USSA is the national sports governing body serving the competitive and recreational skiing needs of more than 100,000 skiing members, in addition to providing many tangible benefits for its members.

The fifth year of the series promises to be the best yet with a calendar of 19 events throughout the east in the winter months. Designed to suit the needs of both the competitive skier who desires to race the clock and the skiing family seeking a day of exercise, the series' primary objective is to promote health winter recreation for all who wish to take advantage of it.

The Travelers Insurance Companies of Hartford, Conn. is sponsoring a United States Ski Association-Eastern Division roving ski instructional van called USSA-PEP Cross Country Mobile Ski Clinic to attend several major cross country races in New England this season.

Massachusetts events will be held at the following places:

Tooleybush Classic
Northfield Mt., Mass.
10 km Start: noon
Jan. 14, 1978
Paul Revere Cup
Fort Devens, Mass.
15 km Start: noon
Jan. 22, 1978
Cummington Farm Bread Race
Cummington, Mass.
15 km Start: noon
Feb. 26, 1978

Now is the Time

If you are planning to take one of the graduate tests this winter, now is the time to enroll for our thorough preparation courses for the

GRE • GMAT • LSAT

exams. Small, informal classes. Top-scoring instructors. Up-to-the minute course materials. Flexible schedules and partial-course options. Also: diagnostic exams and math skills reviews. Call Test Prep Services of Amherst at 256-6462, or write Box 28, Amherst

TEST PREP

BASKETS

A genuine piece of peoples art. From all corners in all sizes, some with covers some without, some natural some fancy. For bread or fruit, for plants or pencils. Containers for use and beauty.

Faces of Earth

Next to the Amherst Post Office— Open 9:30-6 Mon. thru Sat., 1-5 Sun.

The rusty nail Inn

presents

FRI. & SAT.,
Dec. 9 & 10
NRBQ

EVERY SUNDAY
WIDESPREAD DEPRESSION

MONDAY, Dec. 12
ANDY MAY
and the
TEXAS
TABBY CRABBY

TUES., Dec. 13
LUNA

Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47/ Tel. 665-4937

We give you credit.
The last thing a college senior needs is another pat on the back.

As a college senior, credit-card offers, promises and congratulations come pouring in. Enjoy it while you can. Because it won't last. Out in the world, you'll have to work things out for yourself. And one of those things is life insurance.

Fidelity Union Life has a plan designed for you: the CollegeMaster®, the insurance plan chosen by more college seniors than any other.

Call the CollegeMaster Field Associate in your area:

Fidelity Union Life

RONALD J. NATHAN AGENCY
.. Main St., Amherst 256-8351

---

Back on the slopes matching ego, reality

By STEVE LESSER
and JEFF GORDON
Collegian Staff

Six months ago I thought it would never come. Sitting out on the Cape's finest, three feet of powder seemed as far away as my wedding day.

There it was — 95 degrees and all Jeff, Ralph and myself could talk about was a stupid sport where all you did was ride up a mountain and come back down it all day, while exposing yourself to one torture after another.

"Come on let's hit the water for another swim," I said as I negotiated another giant mogul on the beach.

"What are you turkeys skiing on this year?" Jeff asked.

"Wouldn't make any difference," Ralph said, "a superstar like me could ski on anything."

"Sure," I said, "I noticed the way you managed to ski on your ass all last year."

"At least I didn't lead the country in falling off chairlifts, you pinhead."

"Look, anytime you want to try to out-ski me, hotshot, I'll be glad to turn you into spaghetti!"

And so the conversation went all summer as we passed the time waiting for the ground to turn white again. Since we had taken up skiing a few years back, the summers had been a mere annoyance. All they were good for was making money so we could afford the $15 lift ticket prices that any fair-sized area was getting. As July and August dragged on, the stories of spectacular runs down the east's hardest trails got more and more ridiculous.

When you come right down to it though, that's a large part of the sport's attraction. Many a beginner has turned into an expert over a few drinks. That kiddie hill at Mt. Tom is made to sound like Superstar at Killington. More bullshit has been slung in the name of skiing than you can imagine. So naturally when "The Cowboy" said let's head for Killington I couldn't refuse. A foot and a half on new powder that day didn't hurt in making my decision.

At 6:00 the next morning four of us headed north on roads that could only be described as packed powder with a little wind causing icy conditions on the exposed sections. Finally at 10:30 a.m. we hit the slopes for the first time this year.

Just a little background on Killington for those of you who might not be aware of its reputation. Killington is one of those mountains, that when you mention it's name, you get ooohs and aaahs from those you are talking to. It has a certain aura to it that is a result of the majestic stature of the mountain. Killington is an expert's mountain but it's big enough to have a little something for everyone. Actually it is seven different skiing areas on four interconnected mountains with 69 trails and 13 lifts. That's enough for five ski areas, never mind just one.

Killington traditionally is the first area in the east to open and the last to close. Last winter it was open before Halloween and skiing lasted until the middle of May. All this means that you find a really serious brand of skier at Killington.

Wearing serious expressions on our faces we descended on our first run of the day. On our way up the lift we noticed powder that was usually only seen on the big mountains in the west. For all we knew this could have been Sun Valley.

Doing my best Jean-Claude Killy impression I headed down with the others on very shaky legs. As my speed picked up it all came back to me. I remembered the thrill you feel when the wind hits you in the face and your goggles fog up so you can't see. The feeling you get when you hit that first monstrous mogul and land on your head. And the excitement that runs through your body when you manage to avoid the giant oak tree.

For months I had been wondering whether the new Rossignols and Nordica boots would bring me fame and fortune on the pro circuit. Or if that new $64.95 ski outfit would allow me to ski faster, stronger, higher. Well now I knew. It did make a difference. At least, if I thought it made a difference and my legs and feet thought it made a difference, then maybe ... Well, anyway, I still don't think that the $250 was a bad investment. If anything I looked good!

"The Cowboy" was having a tough time on the upper slopes getting used to his new K-2's but he was having a great time anyway. The strap on his brand new chartreuse colored ultra-chic ski pants was hanging down which warranted comments from the lift-riders. Someone shouted down to him, "Hey buddy you've got a tail". Naturally Jeff didn't break stride while retorting, "It runs in the family."

Mary and Claire showed the most polish out of the four of us, managing to make it down the trail with no major mishaps. When we reached the bottom I expected a standing ovation for our spectacular runs but all we were greeted with was bored looks. I guess that hot dog skiing didn't impress anyone up here.

As the morning wore along so did we. By lunch time we were four hurting buckaroos. Just before lunch we had a run (if that's what it could be called) that won't soon be forgotten. By mistake we stumbled onto a trail that had not been packed down at all. yet.

Three feet of powder," I mumbled to myself, "I was only kidding last summer, this stuff is brutal."

For those of you who have never skied in deep powder one word of advice: don't. The key to skiing in powder is to sit back on your skis and turn on your heels. What would happen is that I would negotiate part of the trail fairly successfully and then forget where I was and lean forward. For that effort I was rewarded with a face full of snow. Luckily for my ego everyone else was having a tough time. Expletives filled the air as we tumbled down the slope.

Stumbling into the base lodge we sat down to a well-deserved lunch. Strange looks greeted us as we sat down. When I glanced in the mirror in the men's room I understood why. I looked like Frosty the Snowman with sideburns.

After recuperating for hald an hour we hit the slopes for the afternoon runs. After being skied on all morning the snow was beginning to get packed down and the going was getting a little easier. And so was our skiing. Bend those knees and plant the poles and ski right around them. Carve the turns. Unweight before hitting the fall line. Sit back on those skis in powder.

My knowledge gained from a year's worth of Ski Magazines cascaded through my brain as I schussed down some of the east's best slopes. Chute, East Glades, West Glades, Bunny Buster, (Bunny Buster! what the...) and Rim Run. We tamed them all.

Every time we rode up the chairlift the grand-daddy of them all was invisible to our left. Superstar it had been named and rightly so. Last year we had attempted it. Super crazy! It had moguls that could eat you up and spit you out in little pieces, or so it seemed. Were we up to it this year? Fortunately, cooler heads prevailed and we stayed on the intermediate trails where we belonged.

Ordinarily from the top of Killington you were afforded a most spectacular view. Today the visibility was poor due to the falling snow. Just part of the price you have to pay to ski new powder I suppose.

As the shadows on the slopes grew longer we got more aggressive in our skiing. Flying off those moguls we bounced from top to top and bombed down the mountain. The knees got rubbery but the old feeling that I could do this forever was there. If this was how the rich lived I wouldn't mind playing millionaire for a day or two.

On the last run of the day we let it all hang loose. The fumblings of the morning runs started to come together and I could feel a rhythm that hadn't been there before. Smooth, that's how it started to feel as I reached the base lodge and all I could think was if I only had one more run I know that I could put it all together ...

Work-Study Jobs!!

The Toward Tomorrow Fair is now seeking work-study students for spring semester.

Available positions are in public relations, program development, and administration.

Learn a skill equal to your education!

For more information call Rick Taupier at 545-0474 or drop by 102C Hasbrouck

EXPLORE YOUR FUTURE TODAY!!!

COLLEGE STUDENTS
SKI & SAVE
at
MAD RIVER GLEN
VERMONT

JANUARY SKI & SAVE PACKAGE:
(Available Jan. 2 to Jan. 30)
UNLIMITED SKIING from Monday to Friday: $35*
*) UNLIMITED SKIING MON.-FRI. PLUS 5 TWO-HOUR LESSONS: $47
*) UNLIMITED SKIING MON.-FRI. PLUS LESSONS — PLUS EQUIPMENT: $71
*) PRE-REGISTRATION NECESSARY — WRITE OR CALL.

MAD RIVER GLEN offers 4 chair lifts - 25 trails from novice to New England's most challenging terrain.

GREAT SKIING — CHALLENGE EVENTS — SNOWMAKING

THE MAD RIVER VALLEY offers great entertainment: many super nightspcts and a great variety of restaurants, many lodges and condominiums (from sleeping bag lofts to private rooms), a cinema with an upstairs lounge.

CROSS COUNTRY SKIING — INDOOR TENNIS — SWIMMING

MAD RIVER GLEN IS A MEMBER OF THE STUDENT SKI ASSOC.

CALL OR WRITE:
MAD RIVER GLEN
WAITSFIELD, VERMONT 05673
802 496-3551

GET FRYE™'D
FOR CHRISTMAS

FANTASTIC SELECTION
OVER 50 STYLES
AJOY TO GIVE AND RECEIVE

HANDCRAFTER PURSES,
BRIEFCASES
FINE LEATHER JACKETS
SHEEPSKIN COATS
TIMBERLAND BOOTS
ROCKPORT SHOES
WALLETS SLIPPERS

OPEN NIGHTLY UNTIL 9
SUNDAYS 1 - 5

Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St., Amherst

Where to go...

Massachusetts

Amesbury Ski Tows — Amesbury, on Route 107A, two miles off Route 95 and 495, 388-9205. Three large open slopes with poma lift and two rope tows. Beginners area with poma lift and two rope tows. Ski school, ski rentals, National Ski Patrol.

Berkshire East — Charlemont, off Route 2, Mohawk Trail, 17 miles west of Greenfield, 413-339-6617. Four open trails, and 20 trails with double chairlifts, T-Bar, and J-Bar. Two base lodges, restaurant, cocktail lounge, live entertainment, cafeteria, nursery, and ski shop with rentals.

Berkshire Snow Basin — West Cummington, 25 miles west of Northampton, 413-634-8808. Eight trails and three extended slopes, novice to expert trails with three T-Bars. National Ski Patrol and ski shop with rentals.

Blanchard Hill Ski Area — Dunstable, 2 miles north of Rte. 113, 649-6137. Three slopes with intermediate and novice trails; one T-Bar and three rope tows. There's a base lodge, snack bar and snow-making facilities. Night skiing.

Blue Hill Ski Area — Canton, north of Rte. 128 on Rte. 138. One chairlift, two J-Bars and two rope tows. There's a ski school, ski shop, rentals and a restaurant; also facilities for snowmaking and night skiing.

Bousquet Ski Area — Pittsfield, off Rtes. 7 and 20, 413-442-2436. Five trails and over 200 acres of open slopes serviced by one chairlift, one T-Bar, two poma lifts and five rope tows. Base lodge, lounge, indoor tennis, ski and rental shop and nursery for children; also facilities for snowmaking.

Brodie Mountain — New Ashford, on Rte. 7, 413-443-4752. More than 14 miles of trails from beginner to expert serviced by three chairlifts, one T-Bar and three rope tows. Facilities include a ski school, ski repairs and rentals, base lodge, restaurant, cocktail lounge, two cafeterias and a nursery.

Butternut Basin — Great Barrington, two miles east of Great Barrington on Rte. 23, 413-528-2000. Nine trails, three novice-to-expert slopes serviced by three chairlifts, one T-Bar, and three rope tows. Ski shop and rental cafeteria, nursery and day-care center, snowmaking facilities and night skiing.

Catamount Ski Area — South Egremont on Rte. 23, 518-325-3200. Twenty slopes and trails serviced by three chairlifts, two T-Bars and one J-Bar. Ski shop with rentals with cafeteria, also night skiing and snowmaking facilities. Ski school.

Chickley Alps — Charlemont, Rte. 8A off Rte. 2, 413-339-4802. Four open slopes with ten trails from novice to expert serviced by one T-Bar and four rope tows. Ski patrol, ski school, rentals, warming lodge and canteen. Open weekends and holidays only.

Eastover — Lenox, off Rte. 7, 413-637-0625. Two slopes serviced by one chairlift, and one rope tow. Ski school, toboggan run, ice skating and lodge facilities.

Flagg Hill Recreation Club — Boxborough, 263-3711. Semiprivate and limited ski tickets for this area, which is serviced by two chairlifts. Ski school, snack bar, lounge, kindergarten, ice skating, and tobogganing.

Groton Hills Ski Area — Groton, Rte. 3 to 40 or 495 to 119, 448-5951. Ten slopes, two trails and a 10-meter junior ski jump serviced by two poma lifts and six rope tows. National ski patrol, ski rentals and snack bar. Open weekends, holidays and school vacations only.

Hamilton Ski Slopes — Hamilton, three miles north of Rte. 128 on 1A at Moulton Street; 468-4804. One J-Bar and five rope tows. Facilities include snack bar, ski school, ski rentals and ski shop. Open seven days and five nights.

Hartwell Hill Ski Area — Littleton, Rte. 2 to 495 from Boston, 486-4546. Four slopes and two trails serviced by four rope tows. Lodge, snack bar, ski patrol, ski school, ski shop, rentals and repairs. Open weekends, holidays and school vacations only.

Hemlock Hill — Palmer, 413-283-6308. Four open trails and four slopes serviced by four rope tows. Facilities include a base lodge, snack bar and ski school.

Indian Head Ski Area — East Pepperell, 433-2249. Two slopes and three trails serviced by two T-Bars and a rope tow. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, basic lodge and snack bar; night skiing and snowmaking facilities.

Jericho Hill — Marlborough, 485-9730. Three slopes and two trails serviced by two rope tows.

Jug End — South Egremont, 413-528-0434. One T-Bar and two rope tows. Facilities include a ski lodge, rentals and ski school.

Klein Innsbruck Ski Area — Westford, 263-3711. Five slopes and one trail serviced by two double chairlifts and a rope tow. Facilities include a ski school, ski patrol, ski shop and rentals.

Merrimack Valley Ski Area — Methuen, 686-2021. Trails and open slopes serviced by one T-Bar and two rope tows. Ski shop, rentals, cafeteria, lounge and entertainment.

Mt. Mohawk — Shelburne, 413-625-2643. Novice-to-expert slopes serviced by two T-Bars and one rope tow. Facilities include a ski school, ski patrol, ski shop and snack bar.

Mt. Tom — Holyoke, 413-536-0416. Fourteen slopes and trails serviced by two chairlifts, two T-Bars, one J-Bar and one rope tow. Facilities include ski shop, base lodge, restaurant, cocktail lounge, cafeteria and nursery.

Mr. Watatick — Ashby, 386-7921, six trails and slopes serviced by two T-Bars, two rope tows. Facilities include a base lodge, cafeteria, cocktail lounge and ski shop with rentals and sales.

Nashobe Valley Ski Area — Westford, 692-7025. Seven slopes and one trail serviced by one T-Bar and seven rope tows. Facilities include a ski school, National Ski Patrol, ski rentals and a snack bar.

The Northfield Inn — East Northfield, 413-498-5341. Ski slope for beginners and novices with one rope tow. Other facilities include a lighted skating pond and warming hut.

Oak N'Spruce — South Lee, 413-243-3500. One rope tow. Facilities include a canteen, ski rentals, ski school, indoor swimming pool, sauna baths and hydrotherapy baths.

Otis Ridge — Otis, 413-269-4444. Four slopes and six trails serviced by one T-Bar, one poma lift, two J-Bars and two rope tows. Facilities include a base lodge, cafeteria, Natioanl Ski Patrol, nursery, ski shop with rentals and repairs.

Pheasant Run Ski Area — Leominster, 537-9293. Two main slopes and two trails and a novice area serviced by two T-Bars and four rope tows. Other facilities include a base lodge, snack bar, ski shop, sitter service, rentals and repairs. There's also night sking and snowmaking.

Prospect Hill Ski Area — Waltham, 893-4837. Two expert trails and beginners' slope serviced by one T-Bar. Facilities include a ski lodge and ski school.

Snow Hill Ski Area — Phillipston, 249-9255. Two open slopes and four trails serviced by one T-Bar and two rope tows. Facilities include a ski school, a ski shop with rentals, base lodge and cafeteria.

Wachusett Mountain Ski Area — Princeton, 464-2355. Five trails and two slopes serviced by two T-Bars and one rope tow. Facilities include a ski shop for rentals, base lodge, and cafeteria.

Ward Hill Ski Area — Shrewsbury. 842-6346. Three slopes and two trails serviced by two T-Bars and two rope tows. Facilities include a base lodge, cafeteria, sitter service, ski shop with rentals.

Vermont

Bolton Valley — Bolton, Vermont, 802-434-2131. Four miles off Route 2, between interstate 89 exits 10 and 11. Four double chairlifts serve three novice, three novice-intermediate, six intermediate, six expert trails three open slopes. Night skiing, nursery, patrol, accommodations, rentals, repairs, grocery, dining, and entertainment at area. Ski school and group rates.

Bromley Mountain — Manchester Center, 802-824-5522. On Route 11 in Peru. Five double chairlifts, one J-Bar, serving a network of 25 trails and slopes. Snowmaking covers 80 per cent of Bromley's trails and slopes. State-accredited nursery for children six months to six years with indoor and outdoor activities. Dining rooms and cafererias, wine and cheese shop, cocktail lounge, ski shop, rental shop and repair facilities. Ski school and group rates.

Burke Mountain — East Burke, 802-626-3305. One double chairlift, two poma lifts, one T-Bar serve 23 trails and slopes from novice to expert. Cafeteria, ski shop, rentals, repairs, summit warming shelter and nursery for children from four months to seven years at a moderate charge. Group rates and ski school.

Carinthia — West Dover, 802-464-5461. One T-Bar, one rope tow serve three trails and one beginners' area. Cafeteria and rentals, ski school.

Glen Ellen — Wilmington, 802-464-5321. Two double chairlifts, three T-Bars, and one shuttle chairlift serve 17 novice, intermediate and expert trails and four open slopes. Cafeteria, cocktail lounge, ski shop, rentals, repairs, and nursery for children three and up at a moderate charge. Ski school and group rates.

Hogback — Marlboro, 802-464-3942. On Rte. 9, 15 miles west of Brattleboro. Four T-Bars serve five novice, six intermediate, and three expert trails and slopes. Cafeteria, restaurant, ski shop, rentals and repairs. Ski school and group rates.

Jay — Jay State Forest, Jay Peak, 802-988-2611. A 60-passenger aerial tramway, two double chairlifts, and three T-Bars serve network of 24 novice and expert trails and slopes. Three cafeterias, three lounges, restaurant, two ski shops, rental-repair shop, gift shop, nursery and free parking. Ski school and group rates.

Killington — Sherburne, 802-422-3333. Six complete ski areas on tour interconnected mountains. The 3½ mile, four passenger gondola is the world's largest ski lift. Also six double chairlifts, two triple chairlifts, and three pomas serve 50 trails and slopes, including 20 novice, 12 intermediate and 18 expert. Killington also has a renowned ski school with over 90 instructors. Average of 25 feet of natural snow a year. Snowmaking systems cover four mountain areas, including the three-quarter mile Snowshed Novice Slope, mile-long Snowdon Mountain, the high-elevation Glades area and trails at the summit of Killington peak. Many restaurants and cafeterias at the summit and base of all mountains. Full range of package plans and group rates.

Living Memorial Park — Brattleboro, Vermont. One T-Bar, one trail, patrol, first-aid, food. Instruction.

Mad River Glen — Waitsfield, 802-496-3551. Three double chairlifts, one single chairlift serve 20 novice to expert trails and four acres of open slopes. Restaurant, snack bar, cocktail lounge, ski shop, rentals, and repairs. Group rates and ski school.

Magic Mountain — Londonderry, 802-824-5566. Three double chairlifts, T-Bar, 20 trails up to two miles long. Big snowmaking installation serviced by two chairlifts. Two cafeterias, restaurant cocktail lounge, wine and cheese shop, and deli. Live entertainment program. Ski school and group rates.

Maple Valley — West Dummerston, 802-254-6083. Two double chairlifts, one T-Bar, one Mitey-Mite lift, serve one novice, one novice-intermediate, one intermediate and two expert trails, four slopes. Night skiing, Cafeteria, bar, ski shop, rentals, repairs. Ski school and package rates.

Middlebury College Snow Bowl — Middlebury, 802-388-4356. Three poma lifts and one chair serve one novice, four intermediate, three expert trails and 50 acres of open slopes. Cafeteria, ski shop, repairs, rentals, and ice rink at the Middlebury College Fieldhouse. Ski school and group rates.

Mt. Ascutney — Brownsville, 802-484-7711. Two double chairlifts, and three T-Bars serve nine novice, eight intermediate, seven expert trails and four open slopes. Night skiing. Double cafeteria and new expanded lounge, ski shop, rentals, repairs, nursery and snowmaking. Group rates and ski school.

Mount Snow Mount Snow, 802-464-3333. Two ski-on gondolas, three enclosed double chairs, seven double chairs, one air car serve 47 trails and slopes from novice to expert. Snowmaking covers 591 acres of slopes and trails. Three cafeterias, two restaurants, cocktail lounge, wine and cheese shop, snack bar, ski shop, rentals, repairs, two heated outdoor pools, indoor ice skating and sleigh rides. Ski school and group rates.

Mt. Tom — Woodstock, 802-457-1329. One poma lift and one baby poma serve three novice trails and two open slopes. Cafeteria, ski shop, rentals and repairs; also snowmaking. Group rates and ski school.

Norwich University Ski Area — Northfield, 802-485-5011. One double chairlift, one poma lift and one Mitey-Mile surface lift serve 11 novice to expert trails and open slopes. Snack bar, ski shop, repairs and rentals. Group rates and ski school.

Okemo Mountain — Ludlow, 802-228-4041. Three double chair lifts, six poma lifts serve 18 novice to expert trails and three open slopes. Base lodge with restaurant, snack bars, lounge, ski shop, rentals and repairs; there is also a nursery for children two to six. Package plans and ski school.

Pico — At Sherburne Pass, Rutland, 802-775-4345. Four double chairlifts, one triple chair, two T-Bars serve six open slopes and 30 novice to expert trails. Restaurant, deli-bar, cocktail lounge, entertainment, cafeteria, ski shop, rentals, repairs and nursery. Group rates, package plans and ski school.

Pinnacle Ski-Ways — Randolph, 802-738-3300. Two poma lifts serve four trails, intermediate to expert plus beginner's slope. Lodge, snack bar. Ski school.

Prospect Mountain — Bennington, 802-442-2575. Two T-Bars, one rope tow serve two novice, seven intermediate, one expert and two open slopes. Cafeteria, ski shop rentals and repairs. Ski school and group rates.

Round Top Mountain — Plymouth Union, 802-672-3366. One double chairlift, T-Bar and rope tow service ten trails and four slopes. Restaurant, ski shop, rentals, repairs, nursery, and cocktail lounge. Group rates, package plans and ski school.

Smuggler's Notch Resort — Madonna. 802-644-8851. Three-mountain ski and resort complex off Sterling, Madonna and Morse Mountains. There are three double chairlifts, 32 trails and slopes. Complete base village featuring outdoor heated pool, sauna, shops, lounges, restaurants, groceries, nursery and deluxe accommodations.

Sonnenberg — Barnard, 802-234-9874. Two poma lifts serve ten novice to expert trails with 40 acres of open slopes. Ticket sale limited to assure no-wait skiing. Two poma lifts serve ten novice to expert trails with 40 acres of open slopes. Base lodge with fireplaces and cafeterias. Group rates and ski school.

Stowe — Stowe, 802-253-7311. A four-passenger gondola, three double chairs, one single chairlift and three T-Bars serve a network of 29 novice to expert trails and open slopes. Fifty acres of open slopes covered by snowmaking equipment. Five cafeterias, two snack bars, cocktail lounge, ski shops, rentals and repairs, babysitters available. Group rates, package plans and ski school.

Stratton Mountain — Stratton Mountain, 802-297-2200. Six double chairlifts, two T-Bars, one poma and one pony lift serve 15 novice, 12 intermediate, ten expert trails and six open slopes. Write for more details and lift rates. Restaurant, cocktail lounge, cafeteria, ski shop, rentals and repairs, day care for children. Package rates, group rates and ski school.

Sugarbush Valley — Warren, 802-583-2381. Gondola tramway, four double chairlifts, one poma, and one T-Bar serve six novice, ten intermediate, 17 expert trails with 15 acres of open slopes. Write or call for rates. Three restaurants, cocktail lounge, ski shop, rentals, repairs, movies, saunas, swimming and skating; there's also snowmaking. Package plans, group rates and ski school.

Suicide Six — Woodstock, 802-457-1329. Two poma lifts serve 12 novice to expert trails and 80 acres of open slopes. Cafeteria, ski shop. Package plans, group rates and ski school.

New Hampshire

Attitash — Route 302, Bartlett in the Mount Washington Valley, 603-374-2369. The mountain has four double chairlifts with a vertical drop of 1525 feet. The facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge, nursery and a cafeteria and there's also a ski school.

Big Bear — Rte. 13 in Brookline, 603-673-4600. The lifts are modest with 1 T-Bar, 1 rope tow, and 1 pony lift. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, base lodge, snowmaking and a cafeteria as well as a ski school.

Black Mountain Tramways — Rt. 16, Jackson in the Mount Washington River Valley. The mountain has a double chairlift, two T-Bars, one J-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, base lodge and a nursery. Package plans.

Bretton Woods — I-93 to Rte. 3 to Rte. 302, 603-278-5000. The mountain has two double chairs and a T-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge, nursery and a cafeteria.

Cannon Mountain — Three miles south of Franconia Village on US Rte. 3. Boston phone, 338-6911. This is a well-equipped mountain with one aerial tramway, three double chairlifts, three T-Bars, one pony lift. The facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, base lodge, nursery and cafeteria.

Crotched Mountain — P.O. Box 222, Francestown 03403, 603-588-6848. The mountain has one double chairlift, two T-Bars, two pony lifts. The facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, a base lodge, nursery and cafeteria.

Dartmouth Skiway — Hanover, Rt. 10 to Lyme Center, 603-646-2291. Mountain includes T-Bar, one chairlift, one pony lift. Facilities include a base lodge and a cafeteria.

Fitzwilliam — Fitzwilliam, 603-585-3322 or 603-585-2201. Mountain includes a poma platter, and three rope tows. Only open on weekends. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge and a cafeteria.

Gunstock Area — I-93 to exit 20 on Rte. 11A, Gilford, 603-293-4341. Three double chairlifts, one single chairlift, three T-Bars and a free rope tow. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, base lodge, nursery and cafeteria. There's a ski school and package plans.

Highland Ski Area — Northfield, I-93 to exit 19 in Northfield, 603-286-4055. Mountain includes two T-Bars and one poma lift. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge, a nursery and cafeteria. There's a ski school and group rates.

King Pine Ski Area — East Madison off Rte. 16 to Rte. 25 and 153, 603-367-4648. Mountain includes two double chairlifts and one J-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with tentals, a base lodge, nursery and cafeteria. Ski school and group rates.

King Ridge — New London, 500 yards W. Exit 11 on I-89, Boston number: 267-7474 or call 603-526-4040. Mountain includes one triple chair, one double chair, two T-Bars, two J-Bars. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, base lodge, nursery and cafeteria. There's a ski school and rates for groups.

Loon Mountain — Lincoln (I-93 to Exit 31). Mountain includes a 4-passenger gondola and three double chairs. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, base lodge, nursery, cafeteria, lounge and an on-hill inn. There's a ski school and group rates.

Mittersill — Franconia, I-93 to Exit 31, US Rte. 3 to Rte. 18. Mountain includes one double chairlift, two T-Bars. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, inn, cafeteria and hang gliding. There's a ski school and package plans.

Mt. Cranmore — North Conway, Mount Washington Valley (P.O. Box 640), 603-356-5544. Mountain includes two skimobile tramways, three double chairlifts, 1 poma lift. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, snowmaking, a base lodge and cafeteria. Ski school and group rates.

Mt. Rowe — Gilford (next to Gunstock, 11A from Laconia toward Alton), RFD No. 4, 603-293-4304. Mountain has double chair, T-Bar, pony lift. Open on weekends only. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, base lodge, cafeteria and snowmaking. Group rates, no ski school.

Mt. Sunapee — Mt. Sunapee (Off I-89), 603-763-4020, Boston phone, 338-6922. Mountain includes five double chairlifts, T-Bar, J-Bar, and rope tow.

Onset Ski Area — Francestown (I-93 to Rte. 114, Goffstown to Rte. 13, New Boston to Rte. 136). A bubble-double chair, open double chair, and T-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge, cafeteria and snowmaking. There's a ski school and group rates.

Pat's Peak — Henniker (I-89 to 202-9 to Rte. 114, Flanders Road), 800-243-6600. Mountain includes two double chairs, two T-Bars, J-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, base lodge, nursery, cafeteria, snowmaking and lounge. There's a ski school and group rates.

Pinnacle Mountain — Roxbury (Rte. 9, 5 miles east of Keene, Rte. 9) 603-352-9882. Mountain is small with a T-Bar and poma lift. Open on weekends only. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, base lodge and cafeteria. There are group rates and a ski school.

Ragged Mountain — Danbury (I-93 to Rte. 4 to Rte. 104), 603-768-3377. Mountain includes a double chair, a T-Bar. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, a base lodge, lounge, cafeteria and snowmaking is planned. There's a ski school and group plans.

Temple Mountain — Rte. 101, Peterborough, 603-924-6949. Mountain has two T-Bars, three tows. Open holidays, weekends and vacation weeks only. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals, nursery and cafeteria. There's a ski school and group packages.

Tenney — Plymouth, Rte. 3A (P.O. Box 11), 603-536-1717. Mountain includes two double chairs and one pony lift. Facilities include a ski shop with rentals. There are group rates and a ski school; class lessons are free for ticket holders.

---

Learn to ski in P.E. for both fun and credit

By FIFI BALL
Collegian Staff

Several options in both alpine (downhill) and nordic (cross-country or touring) skiing are offered in courses at UMass for next semester.

The courses, offered through the General Physical Education Department, carry one credit each and run for four weeks during Feb. and early March.

Three ski areas, Mt. Tom in Holyoke, Berkshire East in Charlemont and Cummington Farm in Cummington, offer lesson packages. Mt. Tom offers only downhill lessons; Cummington Farm only cross-country. Berkshire East offers lessons in both kinds of skiing.

"All three have really professional programs," said Flood. Berkshire East has been under new management for a year. "Two years ago we had several complaints, but last year there were none," he said.

One problem Flood cited with the programs is that of equipment storage. "We haven't the space or personnel to offer storage as a service in Boyden," said Flood. There may be available space at the ski areas themselves, he said.

All three areas include four weeks of lessons and practice time in their packages as well as optional equipment rental. Cummington Farm and Berkshire East also offer transportation.

The most flexibility in lesson times is offered by Berkshire East, said Flood.

When qualified people are not on the University staff, "we go outside for expertise" in teaching, said George Flood, supervisor of GPE. "That way, we can offer a better program to our students," he said.

Each lesson means a commitment of a half day, morning, afternoon, or evening, by the student. Bus rides to Cummington Farm and Berkshire East take 35-40 minutes each way, said Flood. The drive to Mt. Tom takes about 20 minutes, he said.

Last year 250-300 students were involved in ski courses at UMass. This year Flood is hoping for around 500. Last year 90 per cent of the students chose downhill skiing courses rather than cross-country.

"The instruction is good at all three places," said Flood. "It's (the blossoming interest and resulting level of expertise in instructors) getting like tennis and golf," he said.

Downhill costs vary from $26, with an additional $5 for equipment rental, at Mt. Tom for weekly lessons, to $55, including lifts, transportation and a mid-week day and night season pass at Berkshire East for bi-weekly lessons.

Cross-country costs for eight lessons with transportation to Berkshire East are $45 with equipment rental, $30 without. Free use of the cross-country trails anytime is included.

At Cummington Farm, $44 includes transportation, equipment rental, eight bi-weekly lessons, and a day pass for the day of the lesson. Those using their own equipment will be charged $28. Those with their own transportation will pay $32.

Registration for the courses will take place during the week of Jan. 30 through Feb. 2 in Boyden 223. Representatives from Mt. Tom will be there from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday. Other area representatives will be there until Thursday.

For more information, call Flood at 545-2338, or visit 226 Boyden.

image

AT THE HATCH
FRI - SAT
DEC 9-10

---

BELL'S PIZZA

65 University Drive

Free Delivery on Campus

Sun. - Thurs.

253-9051 549-1311

"The Bell of Amherst"

---

burke mt

SKI BURKE MOUNTAIN

Complete Alpine & Cross Country Resort

- $10.00 Weekend Lift Ticket
- $2.00 x/c Trail Fee
- only 3 hours from Amherst, Mass.

SEND FOR FREE Brochure

BURKE MTN recreation
Dept 17
East Burke Vermont 05832
tel - 802 - 626 - 3305

---

Grooming changes conditions

How a ski slope was groomed last summer has an important bearing on how good conditions may be this winter.

Ski area operators realize they can't always depend on an abundance of snow, therefore they have to come up with ways of providing good skiing when there isn't much snow.

Having very smooth slopes is one way this is done. Stumps and boulders will protrude through thin layers of snow and must be removed. Every rock, fist-sized or larger, must come off, along with weeds, brush and anything else that might stick through the snow. The smoother the surface, the less snow that is needed to cover it and the less chance of bare spots.

Some trails are actually tilted away from the sun when they are built. Just a few degrees tilt away from direct exposure to the sun can prevent a lot of melting. Tall trees, in the right places, cast shadows that will also reduce melting. Crowns, or small hillocks, are bulldozed and smoothed. Skiers like to stop on crowns, thus creating bare spots which can spread in warm weather.

Even planting and cutting the grass is important. Grass must be planted to prevent erosion which would ruin a smooth slope. But, come winter, uncut grass that sticks through the snow transmits warmth into the ground and thus creates melting.

Controlling water is perhaps the most critical operation. Running water can melt snow faster than anything else, in addition to eroding soil. Therefore, water bars or drainage ditches are covered in some way so there are no bumps.

The classic "billiard table" smooth ski trail is skiable with minimal amounts of snow. Thus, summer grooming is as important as snowmaking and winter snow grooming is in winter. Together, they create what Mother Nature hasn't.

---

Paloton

KEEP UP YOUR SPIRITS AT THE XC SKIING PACKAGE STORE!!

| SPORT TOURER | |
|---|---|
| JOFA SPORT SKIS | $45.00 |
| HAVGEN BOOTS | $30.00 |
| BAMBOO POLES | $9.95 |
| DOVRE PIN BINDING | $8.95 |
| SUGGESTED RETAIL | $93.90 |

FREE MOUNTING BASE PREP

PACKAGE PRICE $69.95

| SCANDIA | |
|---|---|
| ASNES MARKA | $50.00 |
| HAUGEN BOOTS | $30.00 |
| EXEL FIBERGLASS | $13.95 |
| DOVRE PIN BINDING | $8.50 |
| SUGGESTED RETAIL | $102.45 |

FREE MOUNTING PREPING

PACKAGE PRICE $79.95

| ODYSSEY | |
|---|---|
| ODYSSEY SKIS OR TURLANGREN | $65.00 |
| HAUGEN BOOTS | $30.00 |
| ALUMINUM POLES | $10.95 |
| DOVRE PIN BINDINGS | $8.95 |
| SUGGESTED RETAIL | $114.90 |

FREE MOUNTING BASE PREP

PACKAGE PRICE $69.95

| JOGGER WAXLESS | |
|---|---|
| JOGGER IV SKIS | $49.00 |
| HAUGEN BOOTS | $30.00 |
| BAMBOO POLES | $9.95 |
| DOVRE PIN BINDING | $8.95 |
| SUGGESTED RETAIL | $101.95 |

FREE MOUNTING BASE PREP

PACKAGE PRICE $85.95

| COUNTRY RUNNER | |
|---|---|
| FISCHER(Europa) OR BONNA 2200(Glass) | $75.00 |
| DOVRE(Fuligrained Leather)BOOTS | $39.00 |
| EXEL POPULAR POLES | $13.95 |
| DOVRE PIN BINDINGS | $8.95 |
| SUGGESTED RETAIL | $136.90 |

FREE MOUNTING BASE PREP

PACKAGE PRICE $104.95

HOURS
OPEN DAILY 10-6
WED.-FRI. 10-9
SAT.-SUN. 10-5
TILL CHRISTMAS

1 E. Pleasant St. Amherst
549-6904

15 State St., Northampton
584-1016

©1977 Miller Br
STATE
Now comes Miller time.
Miller
High Life

TV WATCH

A grim, gray Christmas turns white and bright when a fledgling angel proves to a suicidal soul that no human life is lived without meaning in 'IT HAPPENED ONE CHRISTMAS' Dec. 11 on 'The ABC Sunday Night Movie.' Stars include (clockwise from top) Marlo Thomas, Cloris Leachman, Wayne Rogers (with Miss Thomas) and Orson Welles.

Jason Robards stars as a stern widower who denies his daughter the Christmas tree she years for and Mildred Natwick plays the understanding grandmother who intercedes on the girl's behalf in 'THE HOUSE WITHOUT A CHRISTMAS TREE,' the acclaimed holiday special to encore Friday, Dec. 16 on CBS-TV.

Daytime, Mon. - Fri.

MORNING

5:35 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:40 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:45 ⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (EXC. MON., WED.)
5:50 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING (EXC. WED.)
5:55 ⑤ MORNING GLORY

6:00 ③ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
⑤ NEWS
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:05 ⑦ REFLECTIONS (WED.)
6:10 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS (WED.)
6:15 ④ SEMINAR
⑦ FARM AND MARKET REPORT (WED.)
6:20 ⑦ VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
6:25 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
6:30 ⑤ NEWS
6:45 ④ DAILY ALMANAC
6:50 ⑤ NEWS FOR THE DEAF
⑦ LAS NOTICIAS DE HOY

7:00 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ ㉒ TODAY
⑤ ㊵ GOOD MORNING AMERICA
㊳ UNDERDOG
7:25 ⑦ NEWS
7:30 ⑦ CBS NEWS
㊳ MR. MAGOO
8:00 ③ ⑦ CAPTAIN KANGAROO
㊳ ARCHIES
8:30 ㊳ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB

9:00 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ MIKE DOUGLAS
④ CONCENTRATION
⑤ GOOD DAY
⑦ DINAH
㉒ PHIL DONAHUE SHOW
㊳ ROMPER ROOM
㊵ LEAVE IT TO BEAVER
(57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING (EXC. FRI.)
9:30 ④ FOR RICHER, FOR POORER
㊳ SPIRIT OF INDEPENDENCE
㊵ FLINTSTONES
9:50 ㊳ NEWS
9:55 ㊵ HERITAGE CORNER

10:00 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ SANFORD AND SON
㉒ KITTY TODAY
㊳ TOM LARSON SHOW
㊵ STRUM'N DRUMMERS
10:24 ㊵ WEATHER VIEW
10:30 ④ ㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
⑤ ㊵ EDGE OF NIGHT
⑦ PRICE IS RIGHT
11:00 ③ MATCH GAME
④ ㉒ WHEEL OF FORTUNE
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS
㊳ MOVIE 'Miss Grant Takes Richmond' (MON.), 'A Guide for the Married Man' (TUE.), 'Tell It to the Judge' (WED.), 'The Petty Girl' (THUR.), 'Five Golden Hours' (FRI.)
11:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ LOVE OF LIFE
④ ㉒ KNOCKOUT
⑤ JOKER'S WILD
㊵ FAMILY FEUD
11:55 ③ ⑦ CBS NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ NEWS
㉒ TO SAY THE LEAST
㊵ THE BETTER SEX
12:30 ② IN-SCHOOL PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ SEARCH FOR TOMORROW
④ WOMAN '77
⑤ ㊵ RYAN'S HOPE
㉒ GONG SHOW

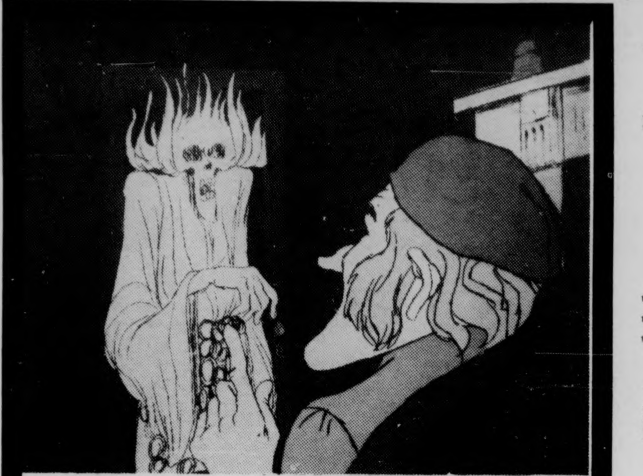
1:00 ③ ALL IN THE FAMILY
⑤ ㊵ ALL MY CHILDREN
⑦ YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS
㉒ FOR RICHER, FOR POORER
㊳ GONG SHOW
1:30 ③ ⑦ AS THE WORLD TURNS
④ ㉒ DAYS OF OUR LIVES
㊳ GREEN ACRES
2:00 ② (57) MUSIC (FRI.)
⑤ ㊵ $20,000 PYRAMID
㊳ BEVERLY HILLBILLIES

2:30 ② (57) VARIOUS PROGRAMMING
③ ⑦ GUIDING LIGHT
④ ㉒ DOCTORS
⑤ ㊵ ONE LIFE TO LIVE
㊳ WALLY GATOR
3:00 ④ ㉒ ANOTHER WORLD
㊳ BUGS BUNNY
3:15 ⑤ ㊵ GENERAL HOSPITAL
3:30 ③ NEW MICKEY MOUSE CLUB
⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY
㊳ HECKLE AND JECKLE

4:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ DINAH
④ MIKE DOUGLAS
⑤ BIG VALLEY
⑦ MERV GRIFFIN
㉒ BRADY BUNCH
㊳ SUPER HEROES
㊵ LITTLE RASCALS

4:30 ㊳ MUNSTERS
㊵ PETTICOAT JUNCTION
5:00 ② (57) MISTER ROGERS
⑤ FAMILY FEUD
㉒ EMERGENCY ONE
㊳ NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR
㊵ MY THREE SONS

5:30 ② SESAME STREET
③ MARY TYLER MOORE SHOW
④ ㊵ NEWS
⑤ INSTANT GAME SHOW
⑦ CANDLEPINS FOR CASH
㊳ GHOST AND MRS. MUIR
(57) ELECTRIC COMPANY



The transformation of Ebenezer Scrooge from a miserly curmudgeon to a Christmas-spirited philanthropist is accomplished partially by the bone-chilling appearance of the Ghost of Christmas Past in 'A CHRISTMAS CAROL,' animated special based on the Dickens classic to be rebroadcast on 'Famous Classic Tales,' Saturday, Dec. 10 on CBS-TV.

Saturday, Dec. 10

MORNING

5:50 ⑦ REFLECTIONS
5:55 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 ③ AGRICULTURE U.S.A.
④ INTERNATIONAL ZONE
⑤ A BETTER WAY
⑦ CHARACTERISTICS OF LEARNING DISABILITIES
㉒ PTL CLUB-TALK AND VARIETY
6:30 ③ TEACHING CHILDREN TO READ
④ CARRASCOLENDAS
⑤ MC KEEVER AND THE COLONEL
⑦ CAMERA 3
7:00 ③ VILLA ALEGRE
④ FOR KIDS ONLY
⑤ JABBERWOCKY
⑦ WACKO
7:30 ③ ARTHUR AND COMPANY
④ THINK PINK PANTHER
⑤ BARBAPAPA
⑦ THE CBS SATURDAY FILM FESTIVAL
㊵ UNCLE WALDO
8:00 ② SESAME STREET
③ ⑦ SKATEBIRDS
④ ㉒ C.B. BEARS
⑤ ㊵ SUPER FRIENDS
8:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
8:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
8:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:00 ② MISTER ROGERS
③ ⑦ BUGS BUNNY AND ROAD RUNNER
④ ㉒ SPACE SENTINELS
⑤ ㊵ SCOOBY'S LAFF-A-LYMPICS
9:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
9:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
④ ㉒ SUPERWITCH
9:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
10:00 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC
④ BANG SHANG LALAPALOOZA
㊳ VILLA ALEGRE
10:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
10:30 ② REBOP
③ ⑦ BATMAN-TARZAN
④ ㉒ ADVENTURES OF MUHAMMAD ALI
㊳ CARRASCOLENDAS
10:55 ⑤ ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK
10:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:00 ② PARENT EFFECTIVENESS
④ ㉒ THUNDER
⑤ ㊵ KROFFTS SUPERSHOW '77
㊳ HOT FUDGE
11:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
11:30 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT
③ ⑦ SPACE ACADEMY
④ NEWS
㉒ ㊳ SEARCH AND RESCUE: THE ALPHA TEAM
11:56 ③ IN THE NEWS

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② DANIEL FOSTER, M.D. 'Cushing's Disease' Guest: Dr. Dorothy T. Krieger, discusses the causes, symptoms and treatment of this endocrine disease.
③ ⑦ SECRETS OF ISIS
④ ㉒ BAGGY PANTS AND THE NITWITS
⑤ ㊵ CANDLEPIN BOWLING
㊳ DANIEL BOONE
12:26 ③ IN THE NEWS
12:30 ② CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'Hydroponics'
③ ⑦ FAT ALBERT
④ ㉒ NFL '77 Up to the minute football news, interviews and features.
12:56 ③ IN THE NEWS
1:00 ② WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ FAMOUS CLASSIC TALES 'Christmas Carol' Narrator Ken Sampson. The ghostly transformation of Ebenezer Scrooge into a Christmas spirited philanthropist is accomplished with the help of such famous Dickensian characters as Bob Cratchit, Tiny Tim and the spirits of Christmas past, present and future. (R)
④ ㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Cincinnati Bengals vs. Pittsburgh Steelers
⑤ CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
⑦ CANDLEPIN CHAMPS
㊳ BRUINS WARM-UP
㊵ ROOM 222
1:15 ㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Pittsburgh Penguins
1:30 ② WALL STREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'Courting Convertible Bonds' Guest: Bancroft G. Davis, chairman of the Board, Bancroft Convertible Fund, Inc.
⑤ ㊵ NCAA FOOTBALL Pioneer Bowl from Wichita Falls, Texas
2:00 ② IN PERFORMANCE AT WOLF TRAP 'Benny Goodman' The 'King of Swing' performs with both his sextet and big band. Selections include 'King Porter Stomp,' 'Sing, Sing, Sing' and the original Gershwin version of 'Rhapsody in Blue' with conductor Morton Gould and pianist Patricia Prattis-Jennings.
③ SOUL TRAIN
⑦ THE FITZPATRICKS Max, the youngest Fitzpatrick, makes his first communion and the experience has special meaning for the entire family.
3:00 ② MARK RUSSELL COMEDY SPECIAL From the campus of the State University of New York at Buffalo, humorist Mark Russell spoofs the week's leading political events.
③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
3:30 ② A PORTRAIT OF JAMIE Artist Jamie Wyeth comes from a famous family of American artists but this study profiles his own unique works and lifestyles. The painter famed for his portraits of animals and U.S. Presidents tells the stories behind his works.
③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY Washington Redskins vs. St. Louis Cardinals
3:45 ㊳ BRUINS WRAP-UP
4:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ THIS IS THE NFL
㉒ $100,000 AMF GRAND PRIX OF BOWLING From the Thunderbowl Arena in Allen Park, Mich., top men and women pros compete in separate divisions for $10,000 first-prize checks. Defending champions are Earl Anthony and Betty Morris.
㊳ PROGRAMMING UNANNOUNCED
4:30 ④ GREATEST SPORTS LEGENDS
⑤ PROTECTORS
㊵ PROTECTERS
5:00 ② VILLA ALEGRE
④ CORAL JUNGLE 'Coral Labyrinth'
⑤ ㊵ ABC'S WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS U.S.A.-U.S.S.R. Heavyweight Boxing Championships from Las Vegas
(57) BEST OF FAMILIES (CAPTIONED) 'New Years Eve, 1899' The Raffertys, Lathrops and Wheelers look back on their lives and unrealized dreams and confront the approaching new century with speculation and renewed hope.
5:30 ② VISION ON 'Covers'

EVENING

6:00 ② MUSIC 'Music Is Improvised' features the spontaneous musical invention of performers and uses a jazz band as an example of the fine art of improvisation.
④ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
(57) MICROBES AND MEN 'A Germ Is Life' French chemist Louis Pasteur and German country doctor Robert Koch both made discoveries proving the existence of microbes and that different germ strains can cause different diseases.
6:15 ③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A post-game program presenting scores, highlights and sports news.
6:30 ② ZOOM
③ CBS NEWS
④ ㉒ NBC NEWS
⑤ NEWS
⑦ BLACK NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ ABC NEWS
7:00 ② NOVA 'The Race for the Double Helix' Author Isaac Asimov narrates the story behind the discovery of the structure of DNA. James Watson and ex-colleague Francis Crick exchange memories of the race for the structure of the gene.
③ AGRONSKY AND COMPANY
④ MR. MAGOO'S CHRISTMAS CAROL The lovable but bumbling nearsighted Mr. Magoo portrays the flint-hearted Ebenezer Scrooge in this animated variation of the Charles Dickens' classic.
⑤ NEWS
⑦ LAWRENCE WELK SHOW
㉒ ETCETERA
㊳ ODD COUPLE
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Ten. Queen Eleanor and Sir Kenneth implore Robin's help. Robin and his men attack Nottingham Castle, enraging Sir Guy to action.
7:28 ③ OPINION
7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
⑤ THIRD WORLD
㉒ SCHOOLS MATCH WITS
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ POLKA FUNTIME
(57) MUSIC 'Music Is Style' The final program of the series illustrates the combinations of musical elements which are characteristic of a given culture, historical period or individual.
7:31 ③ PUBLIC AFFAIRS SPECIAL 'The Power Fraternity'
8:00 ② BEST OF FAMILIES 'New Years Eve, 1899' The Raffertys, Lathrops and Wheelers look back on their lives and unrealized dreams and confront the approaching new century with speculation and renewed hope.
③ ⑦ HOW THE GRINCH STOLE CHRISTMAS Animated cartoon based on Dr. Seuss' book of the same title. Boris Karloff narrates the story of the Grinch, who tries to steal Christmas from Whoville. (R)
④ ㉒ GENTLE GIANTS OF THE PACIFIC Richard Widmark narrates this Survival Anglia Ltd. special on the endangered humpback whales. SAL cinematographer Al Giddings filmed the story of the 'singing whales,' so-called because of the resonant sounds they emit as they communicate, off the coast of Hawaii and at Glacier Bay in Alaska.
⑤ ㊵ FISH Charley Harrison resigns when he puts his foot down only to have Fish stomp on it.
㊳ MAVERICK
(57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'Democracy, Leadership and Commitment'
8:30 ③ ⑦ FROSTY THE SNOWMAN Jimmy Durante narrates the fable about the famous snow figures who come to life to the delight of the children, including a little girl named Karen and one of her mischievous schoolmates.
⑤ ㊵ OPERATION PETTICOAT Claustrophobia hits the nurses aboard the Sea Tiger, and they jump at the chance to fly to Port Moresby.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② EYEWITNESS 'Death Wish' concerns the case of Gary Gilmore. 'Easyrider Cyclist' tells the story of Robert Morris, who cycled around the world without incident until he returned to the U.S. 'A Few Good Men' recounts the beating and subsequent death of Lyn McClure during Army basic training.
③ ⑦ THE JEFFERSONS An anniversary celebration causes a breakup between George and Louise, until Florence intervenes.
④ NBC SATURDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'W.C. Fields and Me' 1976 Rod Steiger, Valerie Perrine. A period in the life of the intemperate master of comedy, with emphasis on his affair with Carlotta Monti, the showgirl who became his mistress and, later, wrote the book on which the film is based. (2 hrs. 15 min.)
⑤ NEW ENGLAND EMMY AWARDS New England television honors its own. Guests: Rita Moreno, Billy Crystal, Julia Child, among others.
㉒ NEW ENGLAND EMMY AWARDS New England Television honors its own. Guests: Rita Moreno, Billy Crystal, Julia Child, among others.
㊳ MOVIE 'Brute Force' 1947 Burt Lancaster, Hume Cronyn. Pent-up prisoners, driven by a sadistic guard, plan a daring escape. (2 hrs.)
㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH 'Manchild on the Streets' Starsky and Hutch face the difficult task of helping a youth overcome deep bitterness when his innocent father dies in a police shootout.
(57) MOVIE 'The Captain's Paradise' 1953 Alec Guinness, Yvonne DeCarlo. The carefree captain of a ferry which travels between Algiers and Gibralter has a wife at each port, each unknown to the other. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ③ ⑦ THE TONY RANDALL SHOW Bobbie is living proof that a judge's daughter is not exempt from the law when Walter sends her to jail for contempt of court.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② DAVID SUSSKIND SHOW
③ ⑦ KOJAK Suspended from the force, Kojak retraces his steps to discover he shot the wrong man eight years before. (Conclusion)
㊵ THE LOVE BOAT 'One More Time' starring Nanette Fabray, Don Adams. 'Isaac's Double Standard' starring Pearl Bailey. 'Chimpazeeshines' starring Fred Gandy.
11:00 ③ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ AVI NELSON SHOW
(57) FORSYTE SAGA 'Indian Summer of a Forsyte' Brokenhearted, Irene goes to live by herself but is drawn back to the Forsytes several years later when she runs into Old Jolyon and a strong friendship develops. When the old man dies, his will gives the Forsytes a big surprise.
11:15 ④ NEWS
11:30 ③ MOVIE 'A Guide for the Married Man' 1967 Walter Mathau, Robert Morse. Self-appointed teacher, himself an experienced philanderer, takes on the task of 'EDUCATING' A RELUCTANT HUSBAND IN THE ART OF DECEPTION AND INFIDELITY. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
⑤ MOVIE 'The Great Ziegfeld' 1936 William Powell, Myrna Loy. Life and death of a great showman: his follies, loves and spectacular Broadway shows. (2 hrs. 45 min.)
⑦ MOVIE 'Advise and Consent' 1962 Henry Fonda, Charles Laughton. Both the dirt and the dignity of political life are exposed when the President names a controversial liberal as Secretary of State. (2 hrs.)
㊳ KING OF KENSINGTON
㊵ MOVIE 'The Man From the Diners' Club' 1963 Danny Kaye, Martha Hyer. Employee of the Diners' Club makes out an application for a gangster trying to leave the country, and the troubles begin. (1 hr. 50 min.)
11:45 ④ NBC'S SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE Host: Mary Kay Place. Guests: Andy Kaufman, Willie Nelson
12:00 (57) MOVIE 'Last Holiday' Alec Guinness, Kay Walsh. (1 hr. 30 min.)
12:30 ㊳ ATHLETES
1:15 ④ MOVIE 'Decline and Fall of a Bird Watcher' 1969 Robin Phillips, Colin Blakely. Young man expelled from Oxford on false charges takes a teaching position in a boys school where all the masters are has-beens.
1:30 ⑦ MOVIE 'The Quick Gun' 1964 Audie Murphy, Merry Anders. (1 hr. 30 min.)
3:15 ⑤ ALFRED HITCHCOCK
3:45 ⑤ ABC NEWS
4:00 ⑤ THIRD WORLD
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Sunday, Dec. 11

MORNING

5:50 ⑦ REFLECTIONS
5:55 ⑦ GREATER BOSTONIANS
6:00 ③ ⑤ CHRISTOPHER CLOSEUP
⑦ LAMP UNTO MY FEET
6:30 ③ CAMERA 3
④ LIVING WORD
⑤ DIRECTIONS
⑦ LOOK UP AND LIVE
6:45 ㉒ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
7:00 ③ MAN BUILDS, MAN DESTROYS
④ A SHOW OF FAITH
⑤ DRAWING FROM NATURE
⑦ PEOPLESCOPE
㉒ LUCY SHOW
7:30 ③ MY NEIGHBOR'S RELIGION
④ NOSOTROS THEATRE 'Enamorada' Maria Feliz, Pedro Armendariz. (1 hr. 30 min.)
⑤ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
⑦ WOMANKIND
㉒ CATHEDRAL OF TOMORROW
㊳ ROCKY AND FRIENDS
㊵ OLD TIME GOSPEL HOUR
8:00 ② (57) SESAME STREET
③ WE BELIEVE
⑤ ABC CHILDREN'S NOVEL FOR TELEVISION
⑦ ELDER AMERICAN
㊳ YOUNG SAMSON
8:30 ③ MARLO AND THE MAGIC MOVIE MACHINE
⑤ GIFT OF WINTER
⑦ LIFT EVERY VOICE
㉒ ORAL ROBERTS
㊳ UNCLE WALDO
㊵ SACRED HEART
8:45 ㊵ DAVEY AND GOLIATH
9:00 ② MISTER ROGERS
④ FESTIVAL OF ORTHODOXY
⑤ SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE
⑦ ASIAN FOCUS
㉒ DAY OF DISCOVERY
㊳ POPEYE
㊵ CHRISTOPHER CLOSEUP
9:15 ⑦ SUNDAY MASS
9:30 ② ZOOM
③ UP FRONT
㉒ JIMMY SWAGGART
㊳ JETSONS
㊵ INSIGHT
10:00 ② (57) WRITING FOR A REASON
③ BARRIO
④ INSIGHT
⑦ ECO
㉒ CHALICE OF SALVATION
㊳ TOP CAT
㊵ LATINO
10:30 ③ CORSAIR AND COMPANY
④ FOR KIDS ONLY
㊳ THREE STOOGES
㊵ JEWISH HERITAGE
11:00 ② (57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
④ COMMUNITY AUDITIONS
⑤ NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
⑦ NEWSMAKERS
㉒ BIG PAY-OFF BOWLING
㊵ GREAT GRAPE APE
11:30 ③ ⑦ FACE THE NATION
④ EYEWITNESS NEWS
⑤ AQUI
㊳ SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON
㊵ ANIMALS, ANIMALS, ANIMALS
11:55 ㊵ SCHOOLHOUSE ROCK

AFTERNOON

12:00 ② (57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'Democracy, Leadership and Commitment' John Kenneth Galbraith evaluates the effects of democracy in action – from the direct self-government of Switzerland to the political career of Nehru to the American turmoil of the 1960s – and what part education plays.
③ FACE THE STATE
④ ㉒ MEET THE PRESS Guest: Tip O'Neill, Speaker of the House (D-Mass.)
⑤ ㊵ ISSUES AND ANSWERS
⑦ MOVIE 'Jubal' 1956 Glenn Ford, Ernest Borgnine. 2) 'Rings Around the World' 1967 Narrator: Don Ameche. (3 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'King of the Khyber Rifles' 1954 Tyrone Power, Terry Moore. A half-caste British officer proves his loyalty by quelling a native revolt. (2 hrs.)
12:30 ③ THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
④ PATRIOTS '77
⑤ BRIEFING SESSION
㉒ NFL '77 Report on many coaching situations around the NFL, a few predictions on possible firings and hirings, and a close-up look at the most-wanted of the available NFL coaches - Monte Clark.
㊵ COLLEGE FOOTBALL ALL AMERICA TEAM
1:00 ② CONSUMER SURVIVAL KIT 'Follicle Fantasy: Hair'
③ THE NFL TODAY New York Giants vs. Philadelphia Eagles
④ ㉒ NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE GAME Miami Dolphins vs. New England Patriots
⑤ TARZAN
㊵ CONVERSATIONS WITH
(57) FIRING LINE Host: William F. Buckley, Jr. 'Martial Law in the Philippines' Guests: Fedora Valencia, columnist and S.P. Lopez, former president of the University of Manila.
1:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS Guests: Viveca Lindfors and Kristoffer Tabori, now appearing in 'My Mother, My Son' at the Boston Repertory Theater
㊵ BULLWINKLE
2:00 ② EYEWITNESS 'Death Wish' concerns the case of Gary Gilmore; 'Easyrider Cyclist' tells the story of Robert Morris who cycled around the world without incident until he returned to the U.S., and 'A Few Good Men' recounts the beating and subsequent death of Lyn McClure during Army basic training.
⑤ MOVIE 'Three Wise Fools' 1946 Margaret O'Brien, Lewis Stone. Three wealthy old men who live alone in a mansion are visited one day by a young girl who believes in leprechauns. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Return to Peyton Place' 1961 Carol Lynley, Jeff Chandler. People are affected by a book about their small New England community. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
㊵ MOVIE 'Under the Yum Yum Tree' 1963 Jack Lemmon, Carol Lynley. A love-hungry landlord tries to romance tenant who is living with her fiance. (2 hrs.)
(57) NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC 'Yukon Passage' Four young men retrace the trail of the Klondike gold-seekers, pitting their courage and endurance against the rugged Alaskan wilderness in a spectacular outdoor adventure.
3:00 ② NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC 'Yukon Passage' Four young men retrace the trail of the Klondike gold-seekers, pitting their courage and endurance against the rugged Alaskan wilderness in a spectacular outdoor adventure.
⑦ NFL GAME OF THE WEEK
(57) GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Abide with Me' Cathleen Nesbitt is featured in Julian Mitchell's dramatization of the complex relationship between a strict, lonely dowager and the young girl hired as her housekeeper. Filmed in the original Gloucestershire setting, the drama is set in 1928 in England's Cotswold Hills.
3:30 ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A program preceding each National Football League broadcast with news and features on the NFL and other sports news of the day.
4:00 ② CARNIVORE The cultural, historical and economic facets of meat eating in America are explored in five brief essays.
③ ⑦ THE NFL TODAY Minnesota Vikings vs. Oakland Raiders
④ GREATEST SPORTS LEGENDS
⑤ F.B.I.
㉒ DICK CLARK UNDERWATER SPECIAL
㊵ ADVENTURERS
4:30 ④ EYEWITNESS NEWS CONFERENCE
㊳ MOVIE '30' 1959 Jack Webb, William Conrad. Behind the scenes of a Los Angeles daily paper. (2 hrs.)
㊵ THE SAINT
(57) MIME DREAMING OF A WHITE CHRISTMAS The worlds of fantasy and reality meet in this interpretation of Christmas scenes by the Great American Mime Experiment of Cleveland, which looks at Christmas through the eyes of a child.
5:00 ② (57) BLACK PERSPECTIVE ON THE NEWS
④ ㉒ FRANCIS OF ASSISI 'A Search for the Man and His Meaning' The life of the great Christian saint, his frequently misunderstood message and the mysteries and legends about him that have grown up over seven centuries.
⑤ UNDERSEA WORLD OF JACQUES COUSTEAU '500 Million Years Beneath the Sea'
5:30 ② (57) SAY BROTHER
㊵ MY PARTNER THE GHOST

EVENING

6:00 ④ ⑤ ㉒ NEWS
6:30 ② ROMAGNOLIS' TABLE 'Compliments of Campania' Franco and Margaret shake up a mixed fish-fry.
④ ㉒ NBC NEWS
⑤ CANDLEPIN SUPERBOWL
㊳ HONEYMOONERS
㊵ SUPERMAN
(57) FRENCH CHEF 'HB Eggs' How to prepare two simple, yet elegant appetizers or first course dishes using hard boiled eggs.
6:45 ⑦ THE NFL TODAY A post-game program presenting scores, highlights and sports news.
7:00 ② (57) CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'Hydroponics'
③ ⑦ 60 MINUTES
④ ㉒ THE WONDERFUL WORLD OF DISNEY 'Run Cougar, Run' A shepherd tries to save a mountain lion from being trapped and made an easy target for almost certain extinction by a hunting party led by a professional hunter.
⑤ ㊵ RUDOLPH'S SHINY NEW YEAR Rudolph and his gleaming nose are back in an encore showing of his adventures in many exotic lands as he searches for the missing Baby New Year. (R)
7:30 ② (57) EVENING AT SYMPHONY Music Director Seiji Ozawa conducts the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Stolzel's Concerto in D for Four Orchestras and Bruckner's Symphony No. 5 in B-flat.
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. New York Rangers
7:58 ㊵ ABC MINUTE MAGAZINE
8:00 ③ ⑦ RHODA Johnny Venture, 'Mr. Magnetism,' is playing a big nightclub in New York, and Rhoda, Brenda and Gary catch his act.
⑤ ㊵ THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN 'A Bionic Christmas Carol' While investigating a possible cause of sabotage that could affect the life support system for a Mars landing, Steve helps a miserly industrialist and a young family discover the true meaning of Christmas. (R)
8:30 ③ ⑦ ON OUR OWN Julia's landlady raises her rent and when Julia complains to Maria that her salary can't stand the increase, she discovers Maria's weekly income is greater than hers.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ② (57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Six. 'Some Justice' The suspicious death of Germanicus, a popular favorite, results in a murder and treason trial in the Senate which threatens to implicate Tiberius and Livia. Meanwhile, Caligula shows increasing signs of dangerous mental instability.
③ ⑦ ALL IN THE FAMILY Another baby announcement from their old high school friend and matchmaker sends Mike and Gloria's memories back nine years to their very first, and almost last, date.
④ ㉒ THE BIG EVENT 'Billboard No. 1 Music Awards' Kris Kristofferson and the Bee Gees are the hosts of these ceremonies honoring the most popular recording artists in the pop, jazz, rock and country western fields. Some of the nominees are Barbra Streisand, Peter Frampton, Linda Ronstadt, Donna Summer and others.
⑤ ㊵ IT HAPPENED ONE CHRISTMAS Marlo Thomas, Wayne Rogers, Cloris Leachman and Orson Welles star in this new version of Frank Capra's classic film, 'It's a Wonderful Life,' wherein an apprentice angel helps to prove that no human life is without meaning and no existence has no point.
9:30 ③ ⑦ ALICE Thanks to Alice, 'old mother Hyatt,' Flo and Mel, usually at each other's throat, become a pair of love birds after spending a weekend together in Tucson at the big football game.
10:00 ② VISIONS 'The Prison Game' In an unusual game show, three women contestants are quizzed to determine which one murdered her husband. Susan Yankowitz's television drama explores the events leading up to the murder.
③ ⑦ THE CAROL BURNETT SHOW Guest: Rock Hudson
㊳ BRUINS WRAP-UP
(57) MASSACHUSETTS
10:15 ㊳ ASK THE MANAGER
10:30 (57) VISIONS 'A Secret Space' A 12-year-old boy finds himself deeply drawn to orthodox Judaism and begins to study it in earnest, much to the dismay and surprise of his liberal, non-religious parents.
10:45 ㊳ THE DRUM
11:00 ③ ④ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
11:15 ③ CBS NEWS
㊳ MASSACHUSETTS COUNCIL OF RABBIS
11:30 ② VIDEO AND TELEVISION REVIEW 'The Magic Mind of Eli Noyes' Part II. Works presented include 'Roaches Lullaby' and 'Peanut Butter and Jelly' as well as an experimental videotape entitled 'Fitcher's Feathered Bird.'
③ NFL THIS WEEK
④ MOVIE 'Sam Cade' 1972 Glenn Ford, Edgar Buchanan. Cade's wartime buddy returns with a contract to kill him. (1 hr. 30 min.)
⑤ ㊵ NEWS
⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Columbo: Any Old Port in a Storm' Donald Pleasence guest stars as Adrian Carsini, the half-owner of a winery with his brother Ric. When Ric announces his plans to sell his part of the business to finance his latest marriage, Adrian kills him. (R)
㉒ THE NBC LATE MOVIE 'Sherlock Holmes in New York' Roger Moore, Gig Young. The legendary detective rushes to New York to thwart the evil professor Moriarity's plot to kidnap the son of a friend of Holmes' and corner the world's gold supply. (R) (2 hrs.)
11:45 ③ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.: Germ Warfare' Hawkeye and Trapper John play Count Dracula and steal a pint of blood from the sleeping Maj. Burns. 'You Can't Win 'Em All' 1970 Tony Curtis, Charles Bronson. Two American soldiers of fortune attempt to match their wits and skills against the Armies of two nations. (R)
⑤ WORSHIP FOR SHUT INS
12:00 ④ MOVIE 'The Ziegfeld Follies' 1946 Fred Astaire, Gene Kelly. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Jane Eyre' 1944 Orson Welles, Joan Fontaine. (1 hr. 55 min.)
2:00 ⑤ SUNDAY OPEN HOUSE

---

Monday, Dec. 12

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guest: Harold Robbins, author
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Portrait of a Disciplinarian' A young man has tea with his former nanny and finds himself reverting to his 12-year-old state. To top things off, his ex-fiancee has been invited as well.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
⑦ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
㉒ CANDID CAMERA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ TATTLETALES
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ THAT'S HOLLYWOOD
8:00 ② GREAT PERFORMANCES 'Abide with Me' Cathleen Nesbitt is featured in Julian Mitchell's dramatization of the complex relationship between a strict, lonely dowager and the young girl hired as her housekeeper. Filmed in the original Gloucestershire setting, the drama is set in 1928 in England's Cotswold Hills.
③ ⑦ A CHARLIE BROWN CHRISTMAS The story tells of Charlie Brown's search for the real meaning of Christmas, while his playmates, Lucy, Snoopy, Schroeder, Sally and the rest, busy themselves with the more worldly aspects of the holiday season.
④ ㉒ LITTLE HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE 'Freedom Flight' Charles Ingalls and Doc Baker come to the aid of an ailing Indian chief when some of Walnut Grove's citizens are incited to attack the peaceful, nomadic tribe.
⑤ ㊵ THE SAN PEDRO BEACH BUMS
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) AGE OF UNCERTAINTY 'Weekend in Vermont' Dr. Henry Kissinger, Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham, former British Prime Minister Edward Heath and other noted persons join John Kenneth Galbraith in a free-swinging discussion, bringing the series to a close.
8:30 ⑦ 'TWAS THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS An animated musical narrated by Joel Grey. A friendly family of mice, a kind and gentle clock maker and a sensitive Santa Claus combine to spread additional holiday cheer for viewers during the coming Yuletide season.
③ A CHARLIE BROWN CHRISTMAS The story tells of Charlie Brown's search for the real meaning of Christmas, while his playmates, Lucy, Snoopy, Schroeder, Sally and the rest, busy themselves with the more worldly aspects of the holiday season.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ③ ⑦ MAUDE When a fire breaks out in a restaurant where they are dining, Maude and Vivian escape with only surface bruises, but Walter has to cope with a much deeper psychological scar.
④ ㉒ NBC MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES 'Sunshine Christmas' Cliff DeYoung, Barbara Hershey. Widower Sam Hayden returns with his daughter to his home town in Texas for the holidays. When the child decides she wants to stay on with her grandparents, Sam rekindles a childhood romance and sets a wedding date. (2 hrs.)
⑤ ㊵ ABC'S MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL Dallas Cowboys vs. San Francisco 49ers
㊳ MOVIE 'Three Faces of Eve' 1957 Joanne Woodward, David Wayne. Story of a woman whose psychosis leads her to have three personalities. (2 hrs.)
9:30 ② WITH HANDS AND HEARTS
③ ⑦ THE BETTY WHITE SHOW Joyce finds herself in the middle of a whirlwind romance with a race driver she met while filming a television commercial, and John is not taking it too well.
(57) HOLLYWOOD TELEVISION THEATRE 'Six Characters in Search of an Author' Luigi Pirandello's drama explores the relationship between fantasy and reality, between the real personality of an actor and the part he plays, set among the players in a television drama.
10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ SWITCH Janet Blair plays a wife who hires Pete and Mac to find her missing husband, just before she is murdered.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Ntozake Shange, poet and playwright.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Joy in the Morning' 1966 Richard Chamberlain, Yvette Mimieux. A struggling law student and his new bride face parental opposition and poverty. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Guest host: Bill Cosby. Guest: Pat Paulsen.
㊳ IRONSIDE
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
11:45 ⑤ ㊵ NEWS
12:15 ⑤ SCREENING ROOM
㊵ COLLEGE HIGHLIGHTS
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder.
1:45 ⑤ NEWS
1:55 ⑤ NIGHTSHIFT
2:25 ⑤ AQUI

Tuesday, Dec. 13

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guest: Frances Faye, singer
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE
7:30 ② ELLIOT NORTON REVIEWS Guests: Jack Weston, Rosemary Murphy, Lou Jacobi and Doris Roberts from the cast of 'Cheaters' at the Wilbur.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ BASKETBALL Boston Celtics vs. New York Nets
⑤ MUPPETS SHOW Guest: Edgar Bergan.
⑦ $25,000 PYRAMID
㉒ SHA NA NA
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ GONG SHOW
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ LITTLE MATCH GIRL Hans Christian Andersen's classic about the little girl left alone on Christmas Eve to sell matches to shoppers in a modern day city.
8:00 ② THOSE GOLDEN YEARS A documentary on American life by Swedish filmmakers Lars Ulvenstam and Tomas Dillen is a viewpoint on what it is like to grow old in America as a member of the working class poor. With minimal narration, older citizens tell their own life stories.
③ ⑦ A CONVERSATION WITH ERIC SEVAREID CBS News Correspondent Charles Kuralt interviews CBS News National Correspondent Eric Sevareid who is about to retire. Filmed in the quiet of Sevareid's vacation home in Virginia, the broadcast traces the career of 'the dean of television commentators.'
⑤ ㊵ HAPPY DAYS
㉒ MAN FROM ATLANTIS The normally staid C.W. Crawford drinks a mysterious liquid from beneath the sea and changes into the evil C.W. Hyde.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) JAMES MICHENER'S WORLD 'Hawaii Revisited' From a graphic re-creation of the Islands' violent birth to a look at the high-rises dominating today's Waikiki, Michener traces the history of the Hawaiian Islands. Filmed on location by Reader's Digest Association, Inc.
8:30 ⑤ ㊵ LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY 'Take My Plants - Please!' When Laverne and Shirley are laid off at Shotz Brewery, they decide to earn some cash by starting a business of their own.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ③ ⑦ M.A.S.H. The 4077th envisions the missing Hawkeye and Hot Lips as battle casualties, and B.J. initiates an unauthorized helicopter search for the pair. Meanwhile, Hawkeye and Hot Lips, very much alive, still can't quite believe their emotional response to the traumatic experience of being under enemy fire.
⑤ ㊵ THREE'S COMPANY 'Helen's Job' A ruffled Helen Roper takes a cafeteria job to teach husband Stanley a lesson, but returns somewhat disheveled.
㉒ MULLIGAN'S STEW Polly Friedman, young and very attractive, has a new boyfriend who wants her to move in with him, an idea that her uncle, Mike Mulligan, wants to nix but realizes that the situation is beyond his control.
㊳ MOVIE 'Iron Mistress' 1952 Alan Ladd, Virginia Mayo. Adventures of Jim Bowie and the development of the Bowie knife. (2 hrs.)
(57) THOSE GOLDEN YEARS A documentary on American life by Swedish filmmakers Lars Ulvenstam and Tomas Dillen is a viewpoint on what it is like to grow old in America as a member of the working class poor. With minimal narration, older citizens tell their own life stories.
9:30 ③ ⑦ ONE DAY AT A TIME Ann, Julie and Barbara are startled when a handsome young man arrives looking for his long-lost father, but the biggest surprise is Schneider's.
④ GREATEST SPORTS LEGENDS
⑤ ㊵ SOAP Episode Thirteen. Burt Campbell receives a dreadful shock when he goes to visit his son, Peter, to invite him to a surprise party.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ LOU GRANT Two Christmas stories backfire on Lou and the Tribune staff.
④ ㉒ POLICE WOMAN 'Buttercup Killer' Pepper and Bill investigate a series of ritualistic slayings that have three eerie things in common -- the presence at the scene of the crime of a buttercup and a mysterious nun and the fact that all the victims were from the same close-knit Greek family.
⑤ ㊵ FAMILY 'More Than Friends' Nancy becomes romantically involved with a teacher whose harsh criticism of Willie's writing comes as a shock.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: James Levine, Music Director of the Metropolitan Opera
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hitchhike' 1974 Cloris Leachman, Michael Brandon. A woman picks up a hitchhiker who turns out to be a fugitive. 'Kojak: Life, Liberation and the Pursuit of Death' Two students murder their professor and try to destroy the only witness. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Host: Johnny Carson. Guests: John Byner, Doug Henning, Tony Bennett
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊳ IRONSIDE
㊵ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'F. Scott Fitzgerald in Hollywood' Jason Miller, Tuesday Weid. A moving special about the brilliant but tragic jazz-age novelist's life, at the height of his success and its bitter aftermath. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑤ TUESDAY MOVIE OF THE WEEK 'F. Scott Fitzgerald in Hollywood' Jason Miller, Tuesday Weld. A moving special about the brilliant but tragic jazz-age novelist's life, at the height of his success and its bitter aftermath. (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder
2:10 ⑤ NEWS
2:20 ⑤ MOVIE 'The Red Dragon' 1946 Sidney Toler, Benson Fong. (1 hr. 10 min.)
3:30 ⑤ BAXTERS
4:00 ⑤ NEW HEAVEN-NEW EARTH
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Daniel Duell and Colleen Neary dance 'The Four Temperaments' when 'Dance in America' presents part one of 'CHOREOGRAPHY BY BALANCHINE' with members of the New York City Ballet Wednesday, Dec. 14 on PBS.

HAWAII REVISITED

Several hundred years ago, a remote Pacific island chain had its first human visitors: voyagers from the Marquesas Island and the islands of Polynesia in the South Pacific. During the 18th century, the islands were again 'discovered'—this time, by an English sea captain named John Cook—thus beginning a brand new chapter in their history.

In the 1940s the islands were yet again discovered by a seagoing wanderer—a young sailor named James Michener. The book he would later write about the place—'Hawaii'—would do as much in its own way to bring the island chain into the awareness of the world as anything that had gone before.

Now Michener, his readers and thousands of television viewers who haven't read the book will rediscover Hawaii on 'James Michener's World' Tuesday, Dec. 13 with the PBS broadcast of 'Hawaii Revisited.' The film will offer a timeless documentary insight into the land, its heritage and its unique mix of peoples.

Wednesday, Dec. 14

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guest: Millicent Fenwick, Congresswoman (R-N.J.)
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) WRITING FOR A REASON
7:30 ② MONTY PYTHON'S FLYING CIRCUS
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ IN SEARCH OF 'Lost Dutchman Mine'
⑦ ㉒ BIG MONEY
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ IN SEARCH OF 'The Man Who Could Not Die'
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ $25,000 PYRAMID
8:00 ② NOVA 'The Red Planet' traces the development of man's knowledge about neighboring planet Mars from the beginnings of astronomy to the Viking lander missions. As old suspicions are dispelled, biological and geological data give light to new theories.
③ CORAL JUNGLE
④ ㉒ THE LIFE AND TIMES OF GRIZZLY ADAMS
⑤ ㊵ EIGHT IS ENOUGH 'Yes, Nicholas, There Is a Santa Claus' A present hidden by Joan before her death restores the Bradfords spirit after a Christmas burglar steals their presents.
⑦ GOOD TIMES Willona and the Evans clan learn a precious lesson in love, life and death when J.J. presides over a most unusual wake.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
(57) FORSYTE SAGA 'In Chancery' Helene, on the verge of a complete mental breakdown, is fatally injured in a fall. Her husband, meanwhile, has become trustee of Irene's inheritance. Soames, longing for a son, begins thinking in terms of divorce.
8:30 ⑦ SZYSZNYK The group at the community center masquerades as a street gang to get paid for a film interview.
8:58 ③ NEWSBREAK
9:00 ② CROCKETT'S VICTORY GARDEN 'Christmas Trees' Jim Crockett advises viewers on the purchase of Christmas trees and gifts for gardening enthusiasts.
③ THE CBS WEDNESDAY NIGHT MOVIES 'The Next Man' 1976 Sean Connery, Cornelia Sharpe. The Minister of State for Saudia Arabia submits a controversial plan for peace in the Middle East to the United Nations. A gang of international terrorists with three successful assassinations to their credit mark him as their next target. (2 hrs.)
④ ㉒ POLICE WOMAN 'Merry Christmas, Waldo' Lloyd Nolan guest stars as a lovable but crafty old bank robber dressed as St. Nick who consistently outwits Sgts. Pepper Anderson and Bill Crowley.
⑦ MOVIE 'White Christmas' 1954 Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye. Two army buddies become topnotch comedy team and get involved with sister act. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'The Jazz Singer' 1953 Danny Thomas, Peggy Lee. A young man chooses show business rather than follow in his father's footsteps. (2 hrs.)
(57) DANCE IN AMERICA 'Choreography by Balanchine: Part I' The first of two programs which highlight master choreographer George Balanchine and his company, the New York City Ballet, features Suzanne Farrell and Peter Martins in a performance of 'Tzigane' with music by Ravel.
9:30 ② WODEHOUSE PLAYHOUSE 'Romance at Droitgate Spa' A conjurer's assistant quickly changes the object of her affections from her employer to a rich young heir. But the gouty old uncle who controls the man's inheritance has other ideas.
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
10:00 ② NEWS
④ ㉒ NBC REPORTS 'Trouble In Coal Country' NBC News correspondent Douglas Kiker will serve as on-camera reporter for this special examining the enormous problems we face in the effort to make coal America's major energy source.
⑤ ㊵ PERRY COMO'S OLDE ENGLISH CHRISTMAS Guests: Petula Clark, Leo Sayer, Olympic skating star John Curry, Gemma Craven.
(57) A PORTRAIT OF A NURSE A documentary on the career of a nurse practitioner shows a typical day of activities.
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
(57) BOOK BEAT 'Ring: A Biography of Ring Lardner' by Jonathan Yardley
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Neil Simon, playwright.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS
㊳ ANDY GRIFFITH SHOW
11:30 ③ ⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Hawaii Five-O' Monte Markham guest stars as a suspected murderer. 'Kojak: Sweeter Than Life' An ex-drug addict tries to help Kojak's nephew kick his habit. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Host: Johnny Carson. Guests: Joan Rivers, Lawrence Welk, Dizzy Gillespie, Ray Johnson (former convict)
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
㊳ IRONSIDE

THOSE GOLDEN YEARS, a documentary on what it is like to grow old in America as a member of the working class poor, airs Tuesday, Dec. 13 on PBS. Filmed in New York City in 1975, the program is the most recent look at American life by Swedish filmmakers Lars Ulvenstam and Tomas Dillen.

Kristoffer Tabori stars as a Vietnam amputee who disregards his handicap in accepting a tough physical challenge in 'The Class Hustler,' the Thursday, Dec. 15 episode of NBC-TV's 'WHAT REALLY HAPPENED TO THE CLASS OF '65.'

㊵ STARSKY AND HUTCH, MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH-'Pariah' After shooting a youth, Starsky is put under pressure when two policemen are slain by a man who warns that others will suffer unless Starsky is punished. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK-'Visit From a Dead Man' Alfred Drake plays a man, familiar with the occult world, who is betrayed by his wife. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS

12:00 ⑤ STARSKY AND HUTCH, MYSTERY OF THE WEEK STARSKY AND HUTCH-'Pariah' After shooting a youth, Starsky is put under pressure when two policemen are slain by a man who warns that others will suffer unless Starsky is punished. MYSTERY OF THE WEEK-'Visit From a Dead Man' Alfred Drake plays a man, familiar with the occult world, who is betrayed by his wife. (R)

1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder
2:30 ⑤ NEWS
2:40 ⑤ I SPY

3:40 ⑤ 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 ⑤ BRIEFING SESSION
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Thursday, Dec. 15

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM (CAPTIONED)

6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guests: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marshall.
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② ZOOM (CAPTIONED)
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) DIMENSIONS IN CULTURE

7:30 ② ONCE UPON A CLASSIC 'The Legend of Robin Hood' Episode Eleven. Robin and Sir Guy duel in Sherwood Forest. A band of men disguised as Robin's men attack and kill the Bishop. The villagers fear Robin and betray his men.
③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ HOUSE CALL 'Headaches'
⑦ GONG SHOW
㉒ HOLLYWOOD SQUARES
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ THAT GIRL
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ DOUBLEPLAY

8:00 ② JAMES MICHENER'S WORLD 'Hawaii Revisited' From a graphic re-creation of the Islands' violent birth to a look at the high-rises dominating today's Waikiki, Michener traces the history of the Hawaiian Islands. Filmed on location by Reader's Digest Association, Inc.
③ ⑦ THE WALTONS Two English children who have been orphaned by the London blitz escape their country and seek refuge on Walton's Mountain, where their plight puts a severe test on Olivia's faith in God.

④ ㉒ DOUG HENNING'S WORLD OF MAGIC Master illusionist Doug Henning stars in his third live special featuring 10 magic acts never before seen on television, climaxed by his more-difficult variation of Houdini's great illusion -- walking through a brick wall. Sandy Duncan guest stars.
⑤ ㊵ WELCOME BACK, KOTTER
㊳ HOCKEY Boston Bruins vs. Philadelphia Flyers
(57) NOVA 'The Red Planet' traces the development of man's knowledge about neighboring planet Mars from the beginnings of astronomy to the Viking lander missions. As old suspicions are dispelled, biological and geological data give light to new theories.
8:30 ⑤ ㊵ WHAT'S HAPPENING!!

9:00 ② (57) BEST OF FAMILIES 'January 17, 1977' A unique TV drama portrays the 19th century principals from the 'Best of Families' opening episode in 1880 in a contemporary New York setting.

④ ㉒ JAMES AT 15 James' elation over the visit of an irrepressible friend from Oregon turns to numb disbelief when he learns that his friend suffers from an incurable disease, and is unaware of his condition.
⑤ ㊵ BARNEY MILLER 'Atomic Bomb' Capt. Miller and his men face the perplexing task of defusing a student built nuclear device.

9:30 ⑤ ㊵ CARTER COUNTRY
9:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF

10:00 ② NEWS
③ ⑦ BARNABY JONES The drowning of a newsman about to break an important story leads Barnaby to the dead man's married girlfriend and her aging husband, who appears to have a mysterious hold on her.
④ WHAT REALLY HAPPENED TO THE CLASS OF '65 'The Class Hustler' Eddie Cassellas, a top swimmer before he lost a leg in the Vietnam war, is saved from a life of self-pity by a sympathetic nurse who urges him to enter the 26-mile channel race to Catalina Island.
⑤ ㊵ REDD FOXX
(57) MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Six. 'Some Justice' The suspicious death of Germanicus, a popular favorite, results in a murder and treason trial in the Senate which threatens to implicate Tiberius and Livia. Meanwhile, Caligula shows increasing signs of dangerous mental instability.

10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
㊳ BRUINS WRAP-UP
10:45 ㊳ MOVIE 'The Story of Alexander Graham Bell' 1939 Don Ameche, Loretta Young. Story of Bell's struggle to invent the telephone. (2 hrs.)
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Thomas Hoving, outgoing Director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS

11:30 ③ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'Columbo: A Case of Immunity' A murder which appears to be politically motivated puts Lt. Columbo on a collision course with a suave Middle East diplomat. (R)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Host: Johnny Carson. Guests: Rodney Dangerfield, George Peppard, Mel Tillis.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
⑦ THE CBS LATE MOVIE 'M.A.S.H.: Germ Warfare' Hawkeye and Trapper John play Count Dracula and steal a pint of blood from the sleeping Maj. Burns. 'You Can't Win 'Em All' 1970 Tony Curtis, Charles Bronson. Two American soldiers of fortune attempt to match their wits and skills against the Armies of two nations. (R)
㊵ POLICE STORY, THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY-'Wyatt Earp Syndrome' As an officer tracks down a criminal, his marriage dissolves in favor of his badge. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL-'Gregory Peck: A Living Biography' Host: Peter Lawford. Guests: Lee Remick, Vincent Price, Joan Collins, Sheilah Graham, Celeste Holm. (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS

12:00 ⑤ POLICE STORY, THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL POLICE STORY-'Wyatt Earp Syndrome' As an officer tracks down a criminal, his marriage dissolves in favor of his badge. THURSDAY NIGHT SPECIAL-'Gregory Peck: A Living Biography' Host: Peter Lawford. Guests: Lee Remick, Vincent Price, Joan Collins, Sheilah Graham, Celeste Holm. (R)

1:00 ④ ㉒ TOMORROW Host: Tom Snyder
2:30 ⑤ NEWS
2:40 ⑤ MOVIE 'The Frozen Ghost' 1945 Lon Chaney, Jr., Tala Birell. (1 hr. 20 min.)
4:00 ⑤ AQUI
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

Friday, Dec. 16

EVENING

6:00 ③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ NEWS
㊳ HOGAN'S HEROES
㊵ CROSS WITS
(57) ZOOM
6:30 ② ELECTRIC COMPANY
㉒ NBC NEWS
㊳ ADAM 12
㊵ I LOVE LUCY
(57) OVER EASY Guest: Sam and Bettie Jaffe, actors
6:55 ㊵ NEWS
7:00 ② SAY BROTHER
③ ⑦ CBS NEWS
④ NBC NEWS
⑤ ㊵ ABC NEWS
㉒ NEWS
㊳ ODD COUPLE
(57) PROGRAM UNANNOUNCED
7:30 ③ DAILY NUMBER
④ EVENING MAGAZINE
⑤ MATCH GAME
⑦ LITTLE MATCH GIRL Hans Christian Andersen's classic about the little girl left alone on Christmas Eve to sell matches to shoppers in a modern day city.
㉒ $100,000 NAME THAT TUNE
㊳ DICK VAN DYKE SHOW
㊵ CITIES THAT FORGOT ABOUT CHRISTMAS
(57) MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
7:31 ③ MATCH GAME
8:00 ② (57) WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW
③ ⑦ THE NUTCRACKER The ballet tells the lighthearted story of a small girl's dreams on Christmas Eve. Joining Mikhail Baryshnikov and Gelsey Kirkland is Alexander Minz.
④ ㉒ HALLMARK HALL OF FAME 'Have I Got a Christmas for You' Milton Berle, Adrienne Barbeau, Harold Gould and Sheree North star in an unusual fact-based Yuletide story of how some members of the Jewish community pitched in to fill the jobs of Christians who would otherwise have had to work on the Christmas holiday.
⑤ ㊵ DONNY AND MARIE Guests: Mac Davis, MacKenzie Phillips.
㊳ ROBERT YOUNG, FAMILY DOCTOR
8:30 ② (57) WALL $TREET WEEK Host: Louis Rukeyser. 'Retail Stores: A Consumer Holiday?' Guest: Joseph H. Ellis, Vice-President of the Investment Research Department of Goldman, Sachs and Company.
8:58 ㊵ ABC NEWSBRIEF
9:00 ② MASTERPIECE THEATRE 'I, Claudius' Episode Six. 'Some Justice' The suspicious death of Germanicus, a popular favorite, results in a murder and treason trial in the Senate which threatens to implicate Tiberius and Livia. Meanwhile, Caligula shows increasing signs of dangerous mental instability.
④ ㉒ THE ROCKFORD FILES 'The Queen of Peru' On assignment for an insurance company, Rockford pursues a family, travelling in a camper on the Pacific Coast, who are unaware that they are in possession of an extremely valuable stolen diamond.
⑤ ㊵ THE ABC FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE 'The Golden Voyage of Sinbad' 1974 John Phillip Law, Caroline Munro. Science-fiction, fantasy and old-fashioned derring-do mingle when Sinbad meets centaurs, gryphons, sorcerers, multi-armed goddesses, a wicked wizard and a beautiful slave-girl. (2 hrs.)
㊳ MOVIE 'Peyton Place' 1957 Lana Turner, Hope Lange. Secret life of a small New England community. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
(57) MASSACHUSETTS
9:30 ③ ⑦ HOUSE WITHOUT A CHRISTMAS TREE Starring Jason Robards, Mildred Natwick and Lisa Lucas. Taking place the week before Christmas 1946 in the remote small town of Clear River, Neb., the story centers on a 10-year-old girl who yearns for her first yule tree. (R)
(57) 766 CHALLENGE This program examines the difficulty of implementing the Chapter 766 law in Massachusetts, particularly in light of the Bay State legislature's failure to allot special education funding for the communities charged with working out the details.
10:00 ② NEWS
④ ㉒ QUINCY 'Orphan Annie's Eyes' Quincy allows his adoration of a famous recently slain cowboy movie star to blind him to the obvious suspicion that robbery may have been the motive for the crime.
(57) SOCCER MADE IN GERMANY
10:30 ② MACNEIL-LEHRER REPORT
11:00 ② (57) DICK CAVETT SHOW Guest: Eleanor Clark, National Book Award winner for 'Eyes, Etc.: A Memoir.'
③ ④ ⑤ ⑦ ㉒ ㊵ NEWS

11:30 ③ MOVIE 'The Man Who Understood Women' 1959 Henry Fonda, Leslie Caron. Hollywood writer-director-producer turns his wife into the most desirable woman in the world but never finds time for her till she meets a French soldier-of-fortune. (2 hrs. 30 min.)
④ ㉒ THE TONIGHT SHOW Host: Johnny Carson. Guests: Bob Hope, Joseph Wambaugh.
⑤ FOREVER FERNWOOD
⑦ SECOND CITY TV
㊳ MOVIE 'Sherlock Holmes in Washington' 1943 Basil Rathbone, Nigel Bruce. Holmes is called to find a stolen document and a missing agent. (1 hr. 30 min.)
㊵ BARETTA 'Don't Kill the Sparrows' When Baretta thinks an undercover federal narcotics agent is taking advantage of desperate junkies by pushing heroin on the side, he turns in his badge to 'get him.' (R)
(57) ABC CAPTIONED NEWS
12:00 ⑦ MOVIE 'The Werewolf' 1956 Don Megowan, Joyce Holden. (2 hrs.)
12:30 ⑤ BARETTA 'Don't Kill the Sparrows' When Baretta thinks an undercover federal narcotics agent is taking advantage of desperate junkies by pushing heroin on the side, he turns in his badge to 'get him.' (R)
1:00 ④ ㉒ THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL Host: Lou Rawls. Guests: Electric Light Orchestra, Rod Stewart, Paul Nicholas, Dorothy Moore, Thin Lizzy.
1:35 ⑤ NEWS
1:45 ⑤ MOVIE 'Heat of Anger' 1971 Susan Hayward, James Stacey. (1 hr. 30 min.)
3:15 ⑤ ALFRED HITCHCOCK
3:45 ⑤ 5 ALL NIGHT
4:00 ⑤ HOUSE CALL
4:30 ⑤ GOOD DAY

THE FASHION LEADER
ELCO DRESS CO.
BY POPULAR DEMAND
OPEN SUNDAYS
FROM 11AM to 4PM
DEC. 4 - DEC. 11 - DEC. 18
IN ADDITION TO OUR REGULAR SATURDAY OPENINGS

You'll See the Finest Fashions First at Elco Before They're Sold in Retail Stores . . .

ALWAYS AT 50% TO 75% OFF RETAIL PRICES . .

Long-sleeve drawstring waist blouses with macrame trimmed sleeves and pullon crystal pleated flounce skirt

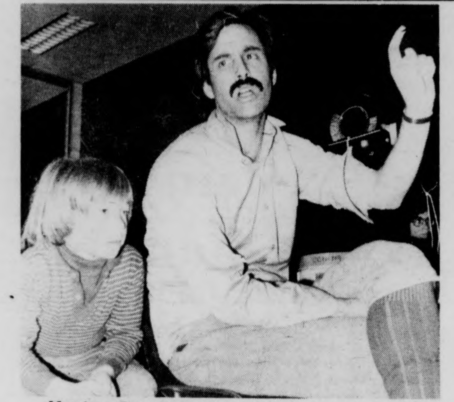
Polyester handkerchief print long sleeve peasant neck dress with shawl. Beige. 10-18

ELCO DRESS CO. FACTORY OUTLET
532 MAIN STREET, HOLYOKE
FREE PARKING IN LOT BEHIND BUILDING
SIZES 6-20, 14½-24½, JUNIORS

From Amherst - south on 91
to Holyoke Center exit
Follow signs to Holyoke
bear right at fork take a right on Main St
See you there

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 69
MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1977
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500



Matthew Ross, a member of the National Lawyer's Guild, gives a slide presentation on the condition of the Palestinian people in Israel. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold.)

Copyright revision to hit music

By BETH SEGERS
Collegian Staff

A revision to the federal copyright law may require UMass and other colleges and universities to pay thousands of dollars in royalties for music played on their campuses.

The law, passed by Congress in October 1976 and effective Jan. 1, 1979, no longer exempts educational institutions from the payment of music royalties.

"It puts us in roughly the same kind of situation as the nightclub owner who is required by law to pay copyright royalties on all music performed in his facility," said James P. Riley, acting assistant coordinator of Student Activities.

UMass departments affected by the new law include Continuing Education, Residential Arts Program, Fine Arts Center, Arts Council, University Food Services, Campus Center, Student Activities, University Bands and possibly more, Riley said.

Riley said the nature and technology of entertainment caused the revision of the law. "The people associated with the law have been lobbying for around 20 years — it's been a long time in coming from their perspective."

The technology of mass communication has increased to such an extent that individual composers and lyricists were not getting the protection of the copyright laws they deserved, Riley said.

According to the new law, colleges and universities will have to negotiate licensing agreements with the three organizations which represent the composers and publishers who own the copyrights: the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers; Broadcast Music, Inc.; and SESAC, Inc., the Society of European Stage Authors and Composers.

The negotiation procedures will be handled by higher education groups such as the American Council on Education, which will try to design an equitable formula by which the institutions will pay the licensers. The formula, according to Riley, will be based on the number of students, concert attractions and facilities, among other variables.

"There is some speculation that in the case of activities occurring on a regular basis from year to year, the institution would pay an annual fee covered by a blanket agreement," Riley said. Examples of these activities cited by Riley are concert series, halftime football presentations by bands, film intermissions and rathskellers.

In addition to the possibility of blanket agreements covering the regular events are programs treated on an individual basis. "Some concerts may require an extra fee or license agreement separate from the annual agreement," Riley said. This agreement would be determined on the basis of a gross potential for a given concert, he added.

One of the many problems concerning the new legislation is that UMass has so many different departments and sponsors of programs. Riley raised the question of whether payment of royalty fees should be included as part of the University's operation costs and included in the annual budget.

Another possibility would be to "pro-rate a share of the University's license agreement to each sponsor that puts together a program," Riley added. Although there is no answer at the present time, Riley suggested "it would be more logical for the University to pick up the cost for the entire University and request it as part of the annual budget from the president's office."

Riley based his suggestion on the "widespread effect the law will have on campus," a subject in question by Sidney Myers, legal counsel to the chancellor, who called the new law "a matter of interpretation.

GOOD MORNING!

Good news in sports:

It was a great weekend for sports enthusiasts. Most 'home' teams ran away with impressive victories in every sport from gymnastics to football. UMass women's gymnastic team upset Penn St., the men's basketball squad rolled over Vermont, the pucksters swept by Boston State, the women's basketball team also beat Vermont, the swimming team drowned Boston University, and of course, the New England Patriots squashed Miami. And,oh yes, Tampa Bay picked up their first victory after losing 26 straight.

Gymnastics

Stephanie Jones, an All American gymnast, led the UMass women's gymnastics team to an upset win over Penn State, who finished third in the country last year. Story - Page 20

Men's basketball

Mark Haymore wowed the Cage crowd with six slam dunks (only five counted, though), as the Minutemen basketball team soundly defeated the University of Vermont, 73-57. Story — Page 20

Mark Haymore

New England Patriots

The New England Patriots defense stifled the Miami Dolphins at several key junctures, and the Pats went on to defeat the Dolphins, 14-10. The Pats were all but eliminated from playoff consideration, however, as the Detroit Lions downed Baltimore, 13-10.

Also inside, find:

Mt. Holyoke fire

A Saturday fire at Mount Holyoke College resulted in students losing heat for 12 hours. See Page 3.

Sororities

People often misunderstand sororities. See part two of Fran Basche's four-part series examining sorority life on Page 2.

South Africa

Some 300 people converged on the Amherst Commons Saturday, calling on Amherst College to divest stock in firms doing business in South Africa. See Jim Paulin's story on Page 3.

Weather

Yeti weather continues. Fair today, followed by increasing cloudiness. High will be in the low 20's. Cloudy tonight with the low in the teens.

Workers choose new union

By CHRISTOPHER H. SCHMITT
Collegian Staff

UMass clerical, technical and administrative workers now have a new union to represent them.

The workers last Thursday and Friday voted for the University Staff Association-Massachusetts Teachers Association to represent them, throwing out their old union, the Massachueetts State Employees Association-National Association of Government Employees.

The election came amid a charge the UMass administration tried to influence the employees' vote.

The workers voted 372 for the staff association, 33 for the government employees association, and 249 for no agent to represent them.

A University spokesperson said the administation would cooperate with the new union.

About 700 workers voted in the election, from approximately 1,200 workers eligible to vote. The staff association captured about 55 per cent of the vote. Twenty-five ballots were challenged, but they will have no effect on the outcome.

The administration provided release time in order that workers might visit the polls. Polling was conducted in Memorial Hall.

"We had expected to win the day before the election," said Bernard Turner, University Staff Association president. "The signals we got were in the affirmative."

Turner said he expects the Massachusetts Labor Relations Commission to officially certify the USA as the workers' new bargaining unit in about 10 days.

Together with the faculty union, the Massachusetts Society of Professors, the teachers association now represents two major groups on campus.

The teachers association last Wednesday filed an unfair labor practices charge against the UMass administration with the labor commission, saying a memo issued to the employees by UMass Labor Relations Coordinator H. Scott Overing attempted to influence employees to vote for no representation.

Ralph Flynn, a teachers association spokesperson, said the charge will be dropped pending certification of the unit.

Flynn said the memo, dated Dec. 6, promised employees more money if they voted "no agent." He said the memo said employees would receive higher wages under the Management Pay Bill, a bill granting salary increases to non-union employees.

But, Flynn said, the administration failed to mention the pay bill has not been signed into law, but is presently before the House Ways and Means Committee in the Massachusetts legislation.

Turner said the memo was a "blatant attempt at union busting" by the administration. He said he didn't know what affect the memo had on the vote, but it probably contributed to the high number of "no agent" votes recorded in the election.

"The first thing we will do is have a general membership meeting," Turner said, "to discuss our course of action."

Strange cloud formations over stadium warns of a cold evening on campus. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Greek 'sisters' keep low profile

Editor's note: this is the second of a four-part series on sororities at UMass. The series deals with discrimination in sororities, stereotypes applied to sorority women, the success of a Greek system at a southern school and the advantages and disadvantages of sorority life at UMass.

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

"They have this image — a misconception of sororities and they judge us on it...that's bogus," said a sorority sister discussing other UMass students.

In another house sorority women complain of anti-Greek feeling on campus. They recite examples of friends, other students and professors slighting them because they are in a sorority. "When the girls in my dorm found out I was pledging a sorority they turned up their noses at me and barely even spoke to me," one woman said.

Although sorority women interviewed said they are proud to be in a sorority, they also said they often hesitate to tell people about their membership until they get to know them.

"Sometimes I'll give people an address instead of telling them I live in a sorority," one women said. "I only do that because if I do say I live in a sorority they answer with this unenthusiastic 'oh'," she added.

The Pan-Hellenic Council of sororities has designated Thursdays as "Greek advertising day," when sorority women should wear things with Greek letters on them, such as T-shirts, pins and jackets.

Council members hope that by making sorority women identifiable to non-Greeks, the students will be able to see the type of women in sororities and judge for themselves whether the sterotypes are valid. Sorority women are confident they can combat anti-Greek feeling by dispelling rumors and stereotypes.

"Conformist" is another stereotype used to describe sorority women. Sorority presidents on the UMass campus and the majority of sorority women interviewed contend the "conformist" label is not merited.

Lambda Delta Phi, one of the smaller chapters at UMass, places emphasis on individuality. "Unity without the loss of individuality" is a motto contained in a written set of objectives for the sorority.

Nancy Anderson, president of Lambda Delta Phi, said this is one of the most important aspects of her sorority. "We're all distinct individuals and we respect each other's right to be an individual..."

Lambda Delta Phi is the only sorority on campus entirely student-run. It does not have a house mother or house parents as the other eight sororities do. The chapter does not have parietals — regulations concerning men in the bedroom area of the house, calling hours and liquor storage and consumption. Only one other house, Iota Gamma Upsilon, does not have parietals.

Anderson said these factors contribute to a feeling of independence she and her sorority sisters have.

The majority of women interviewed at all nine houses said their sisters encourage them to try new things and to participate in all aspects of University life.

However, a woman who depledged this fall said sorority life can be somewhat restricting. "You can be independent but it's a lot harder," she said.

"There is peer pressure...it's very subtle though...you have more of a tendency to do things in packs," she added.

The ex-pledge said the parietals are a restriction of independence. "They (sorority sisters) told me 'rules are made to be broken', but the rules still exist."

She also cited the time involved in going through the pledge period as a reason for depledging. "I'm involved in other things...I didn't have time for pledge points and meetings," she said.

"It's not anything specific," she continued, "it's just that they're different...even though they're involved in every aspect of the University they're secluded from it and they exclude...there isn't that much interaction with the rest of the University."

Sorority women interviewed stressed the responsibility involved in membership. Attendance at house meetings and rush parties is mandatory — some houses only allow three "academic excuses" (exams) per semester. Some house fine members a nominal amount for missing a meeting, others five only if the sister doesn't tell the officer in charge of the meeting missed.

Iona Reynolds is a 1941 UMass graduate, a Chi Omega founder and alumni, and presently the assistant director of Stockbridge School of Agriculture. She said her sorority experience helped her to become more of an individual.

"Some people need the security of a group to help them become involved...to become an individual," Reynolds said. "My sorority sisters pushed me to get involved...they gave me the confidence to run for an office...to accept responsibility," she added.

Sorority women interviewed said if a member plans her time correctly she can continue her involvement in outside activities and still attend mandatory functions. However, sorority women stress that the house is not just a place to live but also something to get involved in.

All nine sororities stressed involvement in the individual house. "We don't want people who are always out of the house and just use it as a place to sleep...we give people bids because we think they're going to help the house and become close with the sisters," one sorority woman said.

Many sorority women said the Collegian does not give them enough coverage and often the wrong kind. "The Collegian only writes about problems in the Greek system — they rarely write about how much money we raise for charities...dorms raise money for themselves — we raise money to give to a good cause."

One sorority woman expressed the apparent feelings of the sorority system at UMass. "They (students) put sororities down...when was the last time they talked to someone in a sorority or even went in one?...everyone here at UMass is so concerned with stereotypes...but they persist in stereotyping sorority women — I wish they'd come talk to us before making judgements...they wouldn't like if it we said, 'all people in Southwest party' or 'everyone in Northeast studies all the time'...we don't judge them — they shouldn't judge us."

Tuesday's installment of this series will cover discrimination in sororities.

Fred Ross, organizer for the United Farm Workers Union, drums up support for the workers in California. (Staff photo by Dale Griswold.)

Organizer fights for farm workers contract rights

By MARCIA MURPHY
Collegian Staff

A United Farm Workers Union community organizer on campus Saturday said the union would continue to fight for contracts for farm workers that would assure job security, adequate wages, safe working conditions and medical care.

Fred Ross, who became directly involved with the UFW in 1966, said, "Contracts are the main thing we are fighting for, pleading with the growers for."

The California Agriculture Labor Relations Act (1975), he said, gave farm workers "the right to organize, have elections and bargain for free contracts," but opposing growers have "twisted the laws around."

The union faced difficulties in educating the workers about UFW mainly because of the growers' opposition, he said. The growers "are never going to give up," Ross said, and the UFW will have to fight every single inch of the way."

The UFW is currently establishing service centers and co-ops for legal help and other needs of the farm workers in order to help accomplish their dream of organizing farm workers, Ross said.

"If the growers think that they are going to beat us because they refuse to negotiate fairly, they're wrong," he said. "We'll stay on their backs if it takes 10, 20 years. There is a whole new generation of supporters across the country."

A "grass roots organizer," Ross has traveled to the seven key cities across the United States to "organize community organization," he said.

"I'm looking for people who want to get involved with the UFW and get out of their rooms with six-foot TV screens, shelves full of books they never read, closets full of clothes they never wear and bellies full of junk food into the world of survival," Ross said, asking for volunteers to become involved with the union.

Involvement is not a "sacrifice," he said, because "sacrifice comes when you do something that you don't want to do. But you must want to do this."

Ross worked with migrant field laborers in the 30's, established Community Services organizations with urban activist Saul Alinsky in the 40's and 50's, and was director of "Weedpatch," the federally sponsored migrant housing camp in John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

The UFW, founded in 1962 by Cesar Chavez, is a labor union managed by and for farm workers. The union is currently working on a campaign to boycott non-UFW grapes in order to end discrimination practices and unsafe working conditions against farm workers involved.

Also, the union is picketing political leaders who oppose the rights of farm workers.

Michigan hotel fire kills 10

BAY CITY, Mich. [UPI] — Four charred bodies pulled from the ice-draped shell of a landmark downtown hotel yesterday raised the death toll to 10 in a flash fire that forced dozens of terrified residents to leap from upper floors.

Fire investigators acknowledged arson was a possible cause for the Saturday holocaust in the Wenonah Park Building, a combination hotel and apartment house.

But they said other causes, including building code violations, were also possible.

"We're not saying what violations they may be," said Bay County Prosecutor Eugene Penzien. "We don't know. We do know if that building were built today it wouldn't be in code."

Authorities said they doubted more victims would be found in the frozen ruins of the Wenonah Park Building. They also said no one was missing. About 70 were reported injured.

Assistant Fire Chief Lionel Ayotte said the four bodies found Sunday morning were in separate rooms in the four-story, 70-year-old red brick structure.

"One of them was under a bed," he said, "and all of them were unrecognizable."

Fire Chief Donald Besaw added, "We've got a real disaster here. It's as bad as I've seen in my 29 or 30 years here."

The fire injured about 60 other residents. Many couldn't reach the block-long building's two fire escapes in time and clung desperately to window ledges before dropping to ground covered with ice and snow.

Officials at three city hospitals and two others in nearby Flint and Saginaw said 21 victims were still hospitalized, including four critical and one in poor condition.

Palestinian 'enemy' is Zionism

By RICHARD LENIHAN
Collegian Staff

The real enemy of the Palestinian people is "Zionism and not the Jewish people," according to Attorney Matthew D. Ross of the National Lawyers Guild.

Ross, who toured the mideast for three weeks last July with a delegation of the guild, spoke last Friday in a slideshow-lecture presentation at the Campus Center. Ross' subject was the state of the Palestinian people in Israel and other parts of the world.

Ross said that Lebanon still shows signs of the civil war of 1975-76 between progressive and conservative factions. The war, which was won by the conservatives after Syrian intervention, resulted in heavy damage and a Lebanese government which is run by Syria, he said. "Syria invaded Lebanon at the very moment the progressives were close to victory," said Ross.

"Tal al Zatar," said Ross, "is to the Palestinian people what Warsaw is to the Jews." The survivors were resettled at Damour and Tal al Zatar was destroyed.

In the second half of his presentation, Ross discussed conditions in Israel, which he described as "an exclusivist state in which Jewish people get benefits that Arabs don't get." Ross went on to say that Palestinians were under conditions of oppression in Israel, speaking of the "process of Nazification" in sections of Israel.

Israel has enacted some of the British Emergency Laws, laws which the British used to control the Jews before 1948, to control non-Jews in Israel. There is censorship of Palestinian press and there is a penalty of two years in jail for possession of PLO literature, he said.

Ross denied that Israel is a democratic state, calling it a "theocracy" in which non-Jewish Israelis were subject to deportation.

Ross' delegation agreed with the In Sight investigation of the London Times and Amnesty International, concluding there is torturing of non-Jewish suspects occuring in Israel and that it is "widespread, systematic and officially sanctioned."

Today's Staff

Issue Editor
William Mills

| | |
|---|---|
| Day Layout | Debbie Walters |
| Wire Layout | Debbie Wallace |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Editorial Layout | Bill Sundstrom |
| Sports Layout | Dave Rodman |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dale Griswold |

Subscription Rates

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day of business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

END
US & AMHERST
INVESTMENTS IN SOUTHERN AFRICA
FOR ECONOMIC EMBARGO

Amherst College trustee walks the gauntlet of about 300 people lined along each side of the sidewalk. The peaceful demonstrators braved frigid weather Saturday to call on the trustees to reconsider their October decision to not divest the college's holdings in companies operating in apartheid South Africa.

South Africa interests

300 protest Amherst holdings

By JIM PAULIN
Collegian Staff

The Amherst College board of trustees walked out of the door of the Octagon Building Saturday and down a sidewalk lined on both sides about 300 persons who had marched from a rally on the Amherst Town Commons to protest the trustees' October decision not to divest the college's holdings in 22 corporations operating in apartheid South Africa.

The protestors grouped on the commons at 10:30 a.m. to listen to a number of speakers, including white South African exile Jennifer Davis.

They then marched to the meeting chanting "Profits for racism don't square with education," and What's the word? Johannesburg. What's the call? South Africa must fall."

When the demonstrators reached the meeting they chanted briefly, then stopped. When the trustees walked past them the demonstrators made statements in conversational tones, such as "Remember Steve Biko."

Biko, a black South African student and anti-apartheid activist, died in jail of brain damage.

According to Amherst College Dean of Students David Drinkwater, the trustees did not deal with the South Africa issue during their meeting. However, it was announced Friday the trustees have agreed to hold an open meeting to discuss the issue sometime in March.

According to Karl Sideman of the Amherst College South Africa Support Committee that, along with the UMass Committee for the Liberation of Southern Africa, sponsored the rally, a group of 12 students met Friday with the investment committee of the board of trustees. Sidemen said he was not notified on the decision to hold an open meeting by Amherst College President John Ward.

Sideman also said a March conference of representatives from anti-apartheid groups from campuses in the northeast region is scheduled to be held at UMass-Amherst. The schools, numbering 12 at this point, are UMass-Amherst, UMass-Boston, Amherst Hampshire and Mt. Holyoke colleges, Brandeis, Harvard, UConn, Yale, Wesleyan and Rutgers.

Amherst College's holdings amount to about $20,000,000. The 22 companies are American Metal Climax; Caterpillar Tractor; Citicorp; Colgate Palmolive; Continental Illinois; Dow Chemical; Eli Lilly; Exxon; Firestone; General Electric; General Motors; IBM; ITT; 3M; Monsanto; Motorola; Mobil; National Cash Register; Texaco

Line budget required by Senate

By SETH JACOBSON
Collegian Staff

In an effort to facilitate budget examination procedures, the Student Senate Budget Committee has ruled that all Recognized Student Organization rationale proposals must include the appropriate "line budget" proposal when submitted to the committee, according to committee co-chairperson Jeff Cohen.

In addition, a more stringent deadline procedure was agreed upon last week by the committee to aid in the dispersement of some $1.2 million in student funds.

In past years the "line budget" or "figures sheet" were not required until after the rationale proposal had been examined. This year both must be included at one time, giving the committee greater leeway when examining the proposal. It will also be a more thorough process, Cohen said.

"In previous years, it has been very difficult to have an accurate picture of what groups want. We hope that they (RSO groups) will be more explicit in their requests with the new laws," Cohen said.

A more stringent deadline regulation has also been set down by the committee. Those RSO groups submitting proposals after Dec. 14 will be refused, and an appeal will have to be made to the coordinating committee. The coordination committee, made up of chairpersons from each senate committee and senate executives, will then make a recommendation to the budget committee as to whether the proposal should be accepted.

"Last year many RSO groups came in extremely late, some as late as March," Senate Speaker Pat Whelan said. "There was, of course, a huge rush. They complained that they didn't know there was a deadline, so this year we have spelled it out to them," Whelan said.

"We hope an explicit deadline will permit the examination process to begin during intersession to ease the burden of late reviews," Cohen said.

Mt. Holyoke boiler fire halts heat

An early morning fire Saturday destroyed three boilers in Mount Holyoke College's heating plant.

Students bundled up and waited 12 hours for heat to return to their dormitories.

One back-up boiler was started by work crews at 4:30 Saturday afternoon and another was started shortly after 6 p.m.

The college was also without electricity for an hour Saturday morning when firefighters turned off the school's main power line to fight the blaze. The power line runs through the heating plant.

Two firefighters were injured in an explosion on the second floor of the building.

Lt. Arthur Tower and Charles O'Connor were crawling on the floor carrying foam to fight the fire when the explosion ripped out a door.

Both were treated and released at Holyoke Hospital for minor contusions, burns, and abrasions.

A South Hadley fire department spokesperson said foam was used to fight the fire because of intense heat generated by the boilers and burning heavy fuel oil.

Firefighters responded to the fire from South Hadley, Westover Air Force Base in Chicopee, Granby, Amherst and Hadley at 3:37 a.m. officials said.

The fire left the college without the use of its three main boilers. The two back-up boilers had to be rewired to be started, a college spokesperson said.

The cause of both the fire and the explosion are under investigation. An inspector from the manufacturer of the boilers, Hartford Steam Boilers, is assisting in the investigation.

South Hadley Fire Chief John Cleary said the explosion may have been caused by accumulation of hot gases.

CHABAD HOUSE

Rabbi Derrin (right) and Michael Gelpert participated in Chanukah ceremonies this weekend at Chabad House. (Staff photo by Steven Polansky)

Dancing highlights holiday

By MICHAEL SIMONS
Collegian STaff

There was dancing in the streets of Amherst Saturday night even though the temperature was barely above freezing.

Rabbi Israel Deren lit the candles held in a huge menorah (candle holder) on his lawn, for the seventh day of Chanukah. Prayers were said and he began to dance.

At the Chanukah party held later in his home, the Chabad House, he explained he dances for joy and the "true meaning of the holiday."

"Chanukah celebrates the victory of the Jewish nation over the occupiers of Israel, at that time, the Syrian-Greeks. It does not celebrate the physical deliverance of the nation.

What they wanted to accomplish was not to wipe the nation out, rather, to keep them from living as Jews," Deren said.

Deren said "Anyone that is familiar with the history of the greek civilization at that time and especially with Greek culture is aware of the fact that nations under their domination were not required to give up their national character and made to assimilate into this super Greek culture. On the contrary, these qualities were encouraged for the contributions every different culture could give to the society as a whole."

Deren explained what the Greeks opposed were the particular observances that the Jews held. "Circumcision, keeping kosher and the uniqueness of the Jewish Calendar were outlawed on the pain of death." These were the very practices Deren said binds the Jew with God.

"The law od circumcision they objected to on the grounds of what did the physical individual have to do with the individual. On the laws of keeping kosher they wanted to know what the stomach had to do with the belief in God. These are the things the Maccabees felt bound the individual in the total sense rather than just in a spiritual sense. The Greeks couldn't abide this and tried to stamp it out," Deren said.

The lighting of the menorah symbolizes the need of that struggle when the Maccabees relit the eternal flame that symbolizes eternal devotion to God. The Greeks had destroyed all the sealed oil used for this purpose. One jar, however, was found and when lit, lasted for eight days instead of giving the priests time to prepare more oil, according to Deren.

The party was well attended and traditional food such as potato latkes (potato pancakes fried in oil) mixed with modern munchies. Traditional singing and story telling followed but no one present took Deren up on his offer to go out and dance around the Chanukah menorah one more time.

Horses replace crutches

The white-topped Handicapped Affairs van sticks out among the smaller cars parked at Tillson Farm on Fridays. Cheryl arrives early and waits patiently as someone hustles to get her horse, equip the saddle with safety stirrup boots and the bridle with loop reins, and then buckle a strap around the horse's neck. All is ready.

Cheryl with her hard hat on and a belt around her waist, is helped up the stairs of the mounting block. The horse is moved into position, and with some assistance, Cheryl swings her leg over and settles into the English saddle. The volunteers move off to the dressage arena — Cheryl's crutch replaced by a horse.

Cheryl is one of many physically handicapped people fortunate enough to take horseback riding as physical therapy. With origins in England, riding for the handicapped has become well established in the United States as evidenced by NARHA (North American Riding for the Handicapped). This organization sets guidelines for operating centers and offers official accreditation, assuring quality standards.

Riding centers serve a wide variety of clients. Afflictions range from mental retardation to cerebral palsy, from socially disadvantaged to dislectic people. Therapy on horseback thereby boasts vast possibilities for expression. The horse's natural movement alone imposes a series of adaptations that have to be met by the rider. Aside from the improvement of coordination, balance and muscular tone, riding also benefits the rider psychologically. The horse teaches confidence, self-control, and self-discipline in a manner that is unique and interesting.

The UMass program is an off-shoot of the Belchertown State School Therapeutic Riding Program. The program is run by Candy Kelly and Lisi Donaldson, both of whom possess instructor's certificates.

For more information contact Lisl Donaldson at 323-4888.

Sharing part of Erhard Seminar Training

By MARY GRANDPRE
and NURIT RECHNITZ
Collegian Staff

"What's more important than your life?" asks Alison Raczkowski, in explaining why she and others have gone through Erhard Seminar Training. In fact, Raczkowski, a sophomore natural resource major and her roommate Diane Solomon, a junior majoring in French, are so enthusiastic about the benefits of EST they "want to grab everyone we see and tell them to take it."

The meaning of EST is difficult to explain in words; apparently it must be experienced for full understanding. The training is done in a 60-hour session over two consecutive weekends and takes place in a large hall of 250 persons.

The cost for the training is $300 and all money goes to a non-profit, tax-exempt charitable educational trust established by Werner Erhard, the founder.

There are three parts to the training. First, there is a presentation of "data," in which the trainer talks about the philosophy of the training, and tells participants how they have been living wrong.

Second, there are "processes" or meditation exercises that make people look at and experience different aspects of their lives. "Sharing" is the third part of the training, a time to communicate experiences or insights.

During the two weekends, every emotion is felt, from agony and grief to ecstasy and exhiliration. Raczkowski and Solomon claim that anger, guilt feelings, depression, and jealousy they had been hiding was fully experienced during processes and then went away.

No one is quite sure how EST works. Kenneth L. Woodward, in the article "Super Salesman of EST" (Newsweek, Sept. 6, 1976) says EST is "the Reader's Digest of the consciousness movement — a distillation of every self-help technique from Dale Carnegie to Zen, packaged for quick consumption."

EST is based on the view that people see the world through a glaze of beliefs and ideas and that our minds impose judgements on a neutral world. EST graduates claim that people should choose responsibility for the world and for the lives they're creating for themselves. Raczkowski explained with EST "you can do anything you want and you learn that you're the source of everything that happens to you."

John Ruskin Clark, in "Secular Salvation: Life change through EST" (Christian Century, Nov. 10, 1976), said, "from EST, I learned that the purpose of life is not the searching for far-off happiness, but the satisfaction found in being here, now."

Although Raczkowski and Solomon admit to initial resistance and confusion in between the two weekends, they now say, "It was the best $300 I ever spent." Both claim they're not down on themselves anymore and really want to live every moment. They claim they no longer let bothersome things from the past run their lives and they have a totally new and enthusiastic outlook.

Raczkowski says she was not unhappy before the training, but EST increased her happiness by revealing certain positive realizations about life. Solomon says she was a little unhappy, but after EST, "relationships began to work."

Most EST graduates report being high after training and for many, the benefits last years. Few report experiencing no benefit. However, there are instances of negative results. For example, one New Yorker said, "I was in a black hole for weeks. Nothing mattered, nothing would change."

Psychiatrists say EST is effective with blamers, and the chief value of EST is its power to get people away from their view of themselves as victims. Some people say EST is an uncompassionate lie since it transforms people into victors and this is a position available only to middle-class Americans.

Farmers hope to stop food flow

WASHINGTON (AP) — An angry new group called American Agriculture has swept out of the Great Plains onto city streets, bent on shutting off food supplies unless its demands for higher prices are met.

Fresh from "tractorcades" staged here and in dozens of state capitals over the weekend, the movement hopes to stop the flow of bread, meat and milk to consumer tables beginning Wednesday.

These farmers say they have the same right to strike as factory workers and miners.

On Dec. 14, says American Agriculture, farmers should quit selling grain, livestock and other farm commodities that supply food for 215 million Americans and much of the rest of the world.

The group also says it will not buy farm machinery and other nonessential items from local suppliers in hopes of putting a hammerlock on the industrial and business sector of the U.S. economy.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland, a former Minnesota wheat farmer, has endorsed the strike. But he also has said the strike probably wouldn't be effective unless virtually all of the some 2 million commercial farmers joined the effort.

Bergland, appearing Sunday on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said the government has to balance consideration of the farmers' problems with concern about the impact of U.S. farm policies on consumers and on nations that import American food.

"We don't think it is a proper function of government to guarantee the kinds of profits that some people are demanding," Bergland said.

"We have to provide farmers with some measure of security, however, against the vagaries of international weather and politics and domestic economic circumstances," he said.

"The consumer is not going to be well fed at a reasonable cost if agriculture is driven to bankruptcy," Bergland said. "We think to provide a federal guarantee at the cost of production is about as far as the government should go."

Bergland said he didn't believe the farmers' protest would force any immediate changes in government policy or congressional lawmaking.

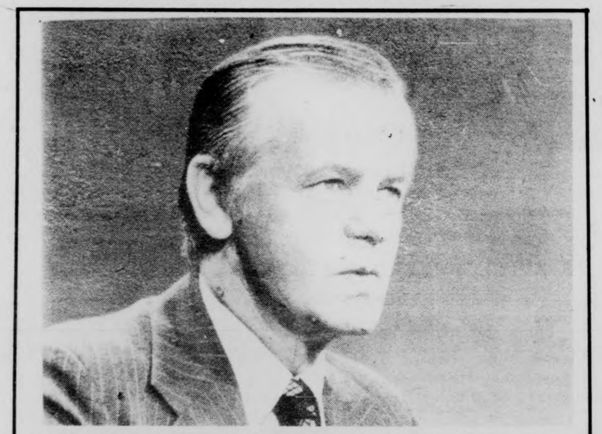
In 1977, according to the Agriculture Department, the labor bill alone for putting food on American tables exceeded, for the first time, what farmers received for growing it. For example, an $18 bag of food produced by American farmers — not counting coffee and other nonfarm items — and paid for by consumers in retail stores included $12.40 for middlemen and $5.60 for farmers.

Of the $12.40 for middlemen, $5.88 went to pay for the labor involved in getting food from the farm to retail shelves. Another $1.69 went for packages the food came in, $1.04 for transportation and $3.79 for other expenses and middlemen's profits.

Farmers say this is unfair. They say the only remedy is for them to get higher prices for commodities as they leave the farm. Thus, the strike.

Not many outsiders think the farmers will succeed. About 7.8 million persons live on farms, less than 4 percent of the U.S. population. But they do control the food supply. So why isn't the strike assured of success?

A reason for pessimism on the part of supporters is that farmers are widely dispersed over huge expanses of the country, and they produce different things.



WASHINTON—Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said yesterday on CBS's Face the Nation, he isn't certain about the effects of this week's threatened farm strike but the administration is not about to give in to farmer's demands for guaranteed profits.

Study suggests alternatives

MIDDLETOWN, CONN.(UPI) - A new study shows about half the patients committed for long-term treatment at Connecticut Valley Hospital could be discharged if alternative care facilities were available.

The study, conducted by the hospital and Yale schools of law and medicine, found lack of suitable alternatives was forcing the mental hospital to keep patients who do not need regular psychiatric care.

Dr. Eric A. Plaut, state Mental health commissioner, said yesterday he agrees with the review's conclusion.

"We need more alternatives to hospital care for those who remain mentally ill. Nursing homes are the main resource, but they are not the best place for many of our patients," he said.

Escapees sought

CRANSTON, R.I. (UPI) - State and local police searched yesterday for nine teenagers who escaped from the maximum security section of the Rhode Island Boys' Training school, which houses the most hardened juvenile offenders.

"It's one of the most secure facilities we have for youths who are there for criminal reasons," said Corrections director Bradford Southworth. He said the escapees have lengthy juvenile records and are considered dangerous.

Results of the investigation were expected to be released today.

The names and home towns of the youths, aged 15 to 18, were not released due to laws protecting the identity of juveniles in criminal cases.

Referring to the escape, Southworth said, "We thought we had the time pinned down, but we were talking to some of the youngsters and some different things are beginning to be involved."

USED BOOKS
IN GOOD CONDITION

Over 10,000, all ages, all subjects, all at low prices

VALLEY BOOK SHOP
Carriage Shops, Amherst

10-5:30 daily, Thurs & Fri til 8
Open Sundays in Dec. 1-5 p.m.

HYPNOSIS FOR FINALS

see classifieds
under instruction

JOBS AVAILABLE
The collegian is looking for;
• Assistant Managing Editor •
• Assistant Business Manager •
• Driver for 5 College Deliveries
Proofreaders •
• Copy Editors
Graphics volunteers •
• On Campus Delivery Person
Layout People •
• Assistant Advertising Manager •
• Advertising Representative •

There are also workstudy positions available

Come down to the Collegian office, CC 113, to apply

---

Congressional agenda

Tuition issue on shaky ride

WASHINGTON (AP) — House and Senate negotiators will continue efforts during the week to resolve a dispute over a proposed tuition credit so it will not interfere with passage this year of a Social Security refinancing system.

The two sides have agreed that to keep the Social Security system solvent, payroll taxes should be increased by $227 billion over the next 10 years. The brunt of the increase would fall upon middle-and upper-income workers and their employers.

But a proposal by Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., for a $250 annual tuition credit blocked final agreement. The credit, which would cost about $1.25 billion, was meant for parents of college students.

Joseph A. Califano, secretary of health, education and welfare, called the idea "utterly unrelated to the Social Security legislation," and said he might recommend that the president veto the Social Security bill if the tuition credit was attached.

Congressional leaders are anxious to enact the Social Security measure this year because they fear that a delay until 1978, an election year, might jeopardize the package due to the substantial tax increases it requires.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said he still is hopeful that the dispute may be resolved quickly so Congress can consider the Social Security plan this week as scheduled. The House and Senate tentatively planned votes on the measure Thursday.

Other major congressional conferences were on President Carter's energy package. House members are trying to end an impasse on the natural gas section by making suggestions of their own. Senate members of the conference committee have been unable to agree on a compromise among themselves.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., reportedly was prepared to offer a proposal that had the endorsement of House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill.

It would include a provision that the federal government have no control over the allocation of natural gas produced and consumed in producing states like Texas and Louisiana.

Also on the congressional agenda this week is a Senate vote on whether to go ahead with production of two more B1 bombers. Carter has called for a halt to the B-1 program in favor of cruise missile development and a strengthening of the U.S. B-52 bomber fleet.

But the House has insisted on building two more B-1s. The Senate previously endorsed Carter's view.

Another Senate vote is set on an extension of the Legal Services Corporation, the semi-public agency that provides legal help to the poor. The legislation, which has been passed by the House, contains restrictions on the kind of political activity in which legal service lawyers can engage.

20
634
233
34
095
913
001
104
146
78
063
561
5
322
88
013
599
106
98
248
786
386
813
122
,212,
Tired of being a number?
Be yourself!
Consider transfer to Greenfield
Community College
for one, two, or more semesters to accumulate credits to transfer back.
Our transfer record is excellent.
Check us out.
If small classes
quality education
and low cost
appeal to you, consider
GCC.
Discuss transfer options with representatives of Greenfield
Community College,
on the Concourse in the Campus Center.
December 13, 1977
9A.M. - 5P.M.

Quality Leather
at Good Prices
Men's Leather Wallets

CREDIT CARD RECORD
MOST NEEDED NUMBERS
IMPORTANT DATA
7.95
8.50
An excellent variety of wallets from Faces' leather collection. Flatfold, bifold, and trifold designs, each with plenty of well-organized interior pockets. Look for such special features as key compartments and credit card holders. Rugged saddle cowhide, smooth harness cowhide, or super-soft Nappa leather. Crisp, distinctive styling and the unmistakable look of fine workmanship. 5.95-8.95.
The Look... The Price...
At Faces Now!
FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

Attention RSO GROUPS

You must turn in Rationales & Budget Proposals to Student Senate, Rm 420 SU by Wednesday, December 14, 5:00pm or NO MONEY!!!
Rationals must include:
-why does your group exist?
- What are your groups' goals?
-How well has your group met it's goals in the past?
-Who do you serve?
Budget Proposals must include:
-Expenses delineated by category
-Explaination & justification of every category must be included.
Student Government Association

Wintersession
Credit courses and Credit-Free Workshops offered by the Division of Continuing Education, UMass/Amherst begin January 3rd. For registration information and catalog, please call 545-3653 or stop by the Records and Registration Office, 113 Hasbrouck. Mastercharge, American Express, and VISA are accepted.
CE

Job prospects looking better

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (UPI) — Job prospects for college graduates look better for the second straight year although employers will continue to be selective in their hiring, according to a survey released today by the College Placement Council.

Nearly 600 employers responding to the annual CPC survey indicated that overall they expect to hire 16 percent more new college graduates than in 1976-77.

The amount of hiring increased 18 percent last year after two consecutive years of reduced hiring.

Seventy percent of the employers expect business conditions in their organizations to improve in the first half of 1978 while 5 percent foresee a decline. The rest anticipate no change from the last half of 1977.

Employer competition is expected to remain keen for engineers and computer science majors. Demand for business and accounting is lessening as the supply of candidates grows while other non-technical graduates will have to work at finding job opportunities, the survey said.

One of the major factors in bolstering this year's figures is the increased hiring expected to be done by the federal government. Civil Service jobs are expected to increase 23 percent.

The number of jobs in the sciences, math and other technical areas is expected to increase 10 percent overall with the biggest gain of 23 percent at the master's and doctoral degree levels.

The study, conducted again in late spring to determine the actual results, covers business, industry, government and non-profit and educational institutions, except teaching.

Only two of the 19 types of employers surveyed anticipated a decrease in opportunities. The metals and metal products group is projecting a 5 percent drop in jobs. In the public sector, local and state government agencies anticipate a 14 percent decrease.

The largest improvement, a 45 percent hike, is expected by the building materials manufacturers and construction category. It is followed by the automative and mechanical equipment group with a 29 percent gain.

EPA suggests four alternative dam sites

PORTLAND, MAINE(UPI) - The Environmental Protection Agency has cited four possible locations for hydroelectric projects in New England that would produce more peaking power with less environmental damage than Dickey-Lincoln.

The EPA expressed "serious environmental concerns" last week about Dickey-Lincoln, which would flood 88,000 acres of the wild St. John River in northern Maine.

The Maine Sunday Telegram has reported, that the federal agency said sites in Bingham, Great Barrington, Mass. and in Fall Mountain and Percy N.H., should be considered as alternatives to Dickey.

The Bingham proposal would flood 185 acres on a hilltop on the east side of the Kennebec River at a cost of $314 million, compared to Dickey's $800 million, the newspaper reported.

In addition, the Bingham project would generate 1.7 billion killowatt hours of electricity a year, compared to Dickey's projected 1.2 billion.

At Great Barrington, a lower resevoir of 625 acres and a 215-acre upper resvoir would produce 1.5 billion killowatt hours a year.

The Fall Mountain site would encompass 260 acres and generate 1.4 kilowatt hours a year. The Percy site would flood 1,400 acres and generate 3.3 billion kilowatt hours of electricity a year, the newspaper said.

Natural substance may help withdrawal symptoms

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A morphine-like substance found in the human pituitary gland may be administered to help relieve pain and narcotic withdrawal symptoms, California researchers reported yesterday.

The findings are based on preliminary tests on five patients aged 27 to 62, Dr. Don H. Catlin reported in a paper presented at the Conference on Endorphins and Mental Health Research in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

The substance, synthetic human beta-endorphin, has opiate properties that occurs naturally in the pituitary gland at the base of the brain, according to Catlin, an assistant profesor of medicine and pharmacology at UCLA.

The beta-endorphin used in the experiments was synthesized chemically by Dr. C.H. Li and his co-workers at the University of California's Hormone Research Laboratory in San Francisco. Li discovered the substance in camel pituitary glands a year ago.

Catlin is the first American researcher to study the possibility of using the substance to counteract narcotic withdrawal symptoms. Li said Taiwan researchers using beta-endorphin he provided have carried out similar experiments with promising results.

The UCLA experiments involved intravenous injections of beta-endorphin to three patients with severe pain from advanced cancer and two persons undergoing methadone withdrawal.

Doses were alternated on a schedule unknown to the patient with morphine as a control and saline as a placebo. Two cancer patients reported good improvement with the endorphin and the third had mild improvement, Carlin reported. Both methadone addicts reported relief with endorphin. No adverse effects were noted.

OFF CAMPUS HOUSING
3 Munson Hall/50145
Where You Can Find

1) All types of area housing: roommate situations, houses, apartments, coop situations for graduate & older students & parents
2) Tenant advocate to advise you on your rights
3) Complete info. on the valley: maps, day and child care programs, food coops, etc.
4) A furniture exchange

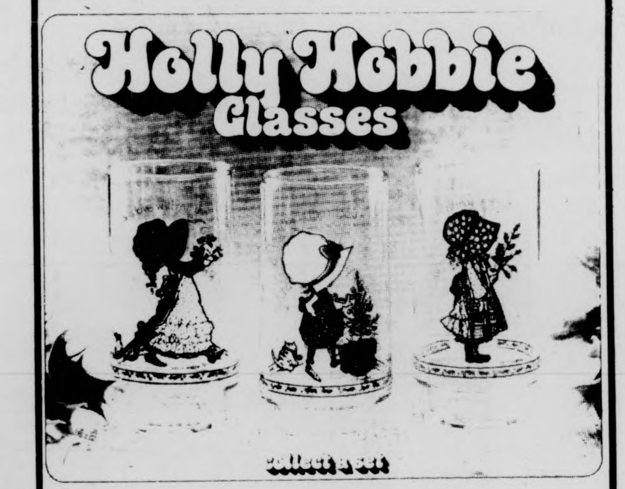
Hair Fashion Accessories

Functional, of course—but more important, our combs, barrettes, headbands, and bobbies are beautiful fashion accents. Classic tortoise-shell designs, luminous enamels, rich and subtle solids. A fine gift idea. 1.25 - 6.00.

A refreshing place to shop!

FACES
Faces of Earth
Next to Amherst Post Office
9:30-9, Mon.-Sat.
Sun. 1-5

Holly Hobbie Glasses



Enjoy a 14 oz. serving of Coca-Cola and get a glass. 49¢

Enjoy Coca-Cola Hatch
and now available in the COFFEE SHOP
also.

---

LET'S GO BOWLING
Bowling Alley located in basement of Boyden Bldg. open Monday-Saturday 4-10:30
50 cents a string

GREAT FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING...

It's Not A Levi's® Shirt
It's The Levi's® Shirt

The cut is pure classic, with a slightly tapered body. A style that never gets old. And Levi's quality means you can count on it giving you good long wear.

Available in soft, all cotton flannels, bold or subtle plaids to choose from. Also, a big selection of solid and patterned shirts in a wide variety of fabrics. These are the shirts a lot of men buy by the dozen.

Levi's

WEAR-HOUSE
201 n. pleasant st./amherst
Fairfield Mall/chicopee

Sadat blasts Syria

By United Press International

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat charged yesterday that Syria "definitely does not want peace" in the Middle East and in effort ruled his former ally out of the drive for peace with Israel.

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who met in Jerusalem yesterday, both expressed hope that Syria and other hardline Arab countries might decide to join this week's Cairo conference at a later date.

But Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said in an interview published yesterday by the Kuwaiti daily Al-Rai al-Aaam, "Syria will inform Vance that it will not go to Geneva, it will not support Sadat's trip to Israel and will oppose it. Syria will not bargain whatever the circumstances."

Speaking in a separate interview with the same magazine, Syrian President Hafez Assad said, "We in Syria know that we will come under huge pressure to change our position, but we will never yield."

Sadat told the Egyptian weekly magazine October, "Today I can state categorically that Syria does not want peace. Definitely it does not want peace...

"The biggest loser is Hafez Assad, who lost Egypt and lost me" as an ally, Sadat said.

The Egyptian and Syrian statements seemed to provide momentum for a separate settlement between Egypt and Israel, although Begin emphasized again that he did not want to exclude other Arab countries from the peace-making process.

"We do not want to divide and conquer," he told a Jerusalem news conference. "We do not want to divide, neither do we want to conquer."

In Cairo, a key member of Sadat's ruling party promised parliamentary backing for a possible separate settlement with Israel.

Deputy Elni Hafez told a joint meeting of parliamentary committees: If you do not get Arab support for Egypt's efforts for a comprehensive settlement, come to us in parliament and we are prepared to give you a mandate to conclude a separate peace with Israel."

Begin said the purpose of the Cairo conference, which opens Wednesday, will be to draw up an agreement with Egypt that could later serve as a model for Israel's other neighbors.

"We are interested in doing our best to bring about peace treaties with all our neighbors — south, north, east," Begin said.

"The purpose of the Cairo conference really is to produce a set of principles.

Dean of Students William F. Field looks on as Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs Robert L. Woodbury hands out certificates at a Campus Center breakfast Friday morning for students and alumni of the course "Interracial Aperception and Ideology." About 45 persons attended the affair organized by the class instructor O.C. Bobby Daniels, associate dean of students. The certificates were awarded to present students for successfully completing a 15-week program in racial awareness and affirmative action conducted by the Division of Student Affairs. (Staff photo by Jim Paulin.)

News in Brief

Police experiment

WASHINGTON [UPI] — A three-year Cincinnati experiment in neighborhood "team policing" — endorsed by a presidential commission — failed because it drifted back into traditional police routine, an Urban League evaluation report said Sunday.

The team policing concept, tried by at Cincinnati police district failed to work that way.

Floods in Greece

United Press International

Rain-triggered flash flooding killed several people in the Athens area yesterday as bad weather buffeted much of Greece, disrupting transportation and shipping.

Britain also was hit by storms and flooding and the French weather service warned residents of the English Channel and North Sea areas to be on the alert for a violent storm that would whip the coasts with "exceptionally tall waves."

Gale force winds and torrential rain battered west and northwest England, causing widespread damage.

A 7-year-old boy drowned Saturday near Honiton, in Devonshire, England, when the car his mother was driving was swept away by the flooded Coley River. They had been trying to cross the river at a ford.

The 5,000-ton Greek freighter El-Meela ran aground early Sunday off the Kentish coast, but was refloated after being lashed by heavy seas for 10 hours.

Police feared another person may have died when water and mud swept through his home at Rafina, a fishing port near ancient Marathon.

Japan's satellite

WASHINGTON [UPI] — The U.S. space agency plans to launch Japan's first communications satellite Wednesday from Cape Canaveral, Fla., into a stationary orbit over the eastern Pacific.

The spacecraft is designed to relay radio, data and color television signals between the Japanese islands for at least three years.

A Delta rocket is to propel the 1,490-pound satellite into a preliminary orbit and then a rocket motor aboard the spacecraft will be fired to push it into a 22,300-mile high orbit above the equator. At that altitude, the satellite's orbital speed will match Earth's rotation and the craft will remain over one spot.

Japan will reimburse the National Aeronautics and Space Administration $17 million in launch costs.

NASA orbited a weather satellite for Japan earlier this year and next March plans to launch a satellite designed to beam telecasts to small antennas on Earth.

Haven't You Always Wanted To?
SKI SUGARBUSH
With the UMass Ski Club Jan. 22-27
DEC. 14 - LAST DAY TO SIGN UP
$25 Deposits taken 11-3, Mon-Fri in Ski Club office, S.U. 309 and Dec. 12 & 14 in Campus Center Concourse

$109- meals, lodging, lift ticket
★ Poor Richards Party TONIGHT ★
All ski club members invited. Bring club membership card and I.D.
Be There!

What's Happening

TODAY

WORKSHOP

The Cooperative Extension Service is offering a workshop on how to safely use wood for heat today at 7:30 p.m. in CC 101. Richard Meier, extension forester, will discuss the value of burning wood, how to buy wood, and which woods are best for burning. Free. Advance registration is not necessary.

LECTURES

—"Attacks on Women," by best-selling feminist author Barbara Winslow, on the recent renewed offensive against women and suggestions on rebuilding the women's movement. 7:30 p.m., CC 168. Sponsored by ISO.

—"The Cuban Revolution: An Anarchist Perspective" by Sam Dolgoff, active anarchist since the 1920s, 8 p.m. Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire. Dolgoff has recently written "The Cuban Revolution: A Critical Perspective," and is the author of "Bakunin on Anarchy" and the "Anarchist Collectives: Workers' Self-Management in Spain 1936-9." He works for the Libertarian News Service in New York which publishes news bulletins of the current anarchist movement in Spain.

—"Problems in a Cross-Cultural Interpretation of Women's Lives: Women in the Peruvian Andes," by Kaye Warren, of Mt. Holyoke's anthropology department, 4:30 p.m. West Lecture Hall, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire. Sponsored by the Hampshire College Women's Center.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

Party sponsored by the comparative literature department, 3-5 p.m., third floor, South College. Refreshments.

RADIO

"An Extremely Funny Show" tonight on WSYL-FM, 7-10.

RECITAL

Music department graduate recital, Frank Cushwa, clarinet, Bezanson, FAC, 8 p.m.

THEATRE

—"Crawling Arnold," "Bits and Pieces," and "Riders to the Sea," part of the Festival of one-act plays designed and directed by students. 8:30 tonight and Tuesday, Laboratory Theatre, Mt. Holyoke. Tickets: $2.50, students and senior citizens, $1.

TOMORROW

AUDITIONS

Auditions for "Major Barbara" 3 p.m., Laboratory Theatre, Mt. Holyoke.

CONCERT

University Symphony Band and Chorale, 8 p.m., Bowker Auditorium.

FILM

—"Daguerrotypes," a new film by French director Agnes Varda, 7 & 9:15 p.m. Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire. $1.

—"Deep Throat," SUB, 4, 5:30, 7, 8:30, 10, 11:30. $1. Advance tickets at TIX. Sponsored by Zeta Nu.

SEMINAR

Prof. Joseph Sardinas will discuss the use and abuse of computers in a seminar from 9-12 and 1:15-4:30 p.m., Campus Center. Room number will be posted. Sardinas will discuss how organizations can minimize financial losses by assessing the data processing audit controls. $1.00 per person. For further information, contact Carol B. MacKnight, 104 Hasbrouck, Div. of Continuing Ed, 5-2040.

FINAL EXAM PREP

The Service Action Staff of the Career-Life Development Team will hold a session designed to relieve tensions about finals. They will offer specific suggestions on how to maximize study time, how to approach test content, and other hints of what works for successful test-takers. Dec. 13, 7 p.m. Van Meter South Central lounge.

DAILY

EXHIBITION

—"A Bridging Statement" by Lorenzo Pezzatini, at the Student Union Gallery, today through Friday.

—Tom Graffagnino's MFA exhibition will be on display at the Herter Gallery through Dec. 21.

MARKS MEADOW AFTER SCHOOL DAY CARE

Academic credit possible for work as staff member in the Marks Meadow Day Care Program for four weeks in January. Also, earn 4 to 6 credits as a staff member during spring semester 2-5 aft-wk. Program meets Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, 2:45-5:45, Wednesday 1-5:45. Staff meetings Thursday at 9:30. Chance to lead activities for groups of children ages 5-11. Contact Sylvia Lindsay 665-3990.

CREATIVE WRITING

If you will be around Boston during January, enjoy creative writing and would like to join a group, call Kerri at 6-7049.

MILLER ANALOGIES TEST

Effective Jan. 1, 1978, the cost of the Miller Analogies Test will increase from $6.50 to $8. Payment is made at the time of testing and should be in the form of a check or money order payable to the University of Massachusetts. The test is given Thursdays at 1 p.m. in Berkshire House 303.

Candidates are entitled to 3 institutional score reports to be sent out at the time of testing and must have the complete addresses, including zip codes, with them. A photo I.D. and several sharpened No. 2 pencils will also be needed. For more information, contact the Community Development Center, 5-0333.

INTERNSHIPS WITH NORTHAMPTON TENANT UNION

Researchers with some math and statistical background needed to study the relations between assessed value for tax purposes and actual market value of different types of property in all the wards of Northampton. The researchers will work closely with tenant advocates and with community groups demanding corrective re-evaluation. Academic credit available for full or part-time internships. Contact the Office of Internships, 408 Goodell or call NTU 586-4237.

DC Menu

TODAY

LUNCH — Grilled Cheese, Stuffed Peppers, Basics: Vegetable Stuffed Peppers, The Salad Sandwich.

DINNER — Pineapple chicken, Simmered Corned Beef, Basics: Pineapple Chicken, Squash.

TOMORROW

LUNCH — Deli Ham on a Role, Pizza, Basics: Pizza, Nutty Noodles

DINNER — Roast Pork, Beef and Vegetable Stew, Basics: Spanish Soybeans, Baked Fish

SEABROOK, NH: Santa Claus delivers two greyhound puppies, Kris and Kringle, to Greyhound Park racetrack. (UPI)

MONDAY NITE SPECIALS
OPEN 'TIL 9 TONIGHT
SPECIALS START AFTER 5 pm

$3.00 OFF ANY PAIR OF JEANS -DENIM AND CORDS

INCLUDES ALL LEE AND MAVERICK JEANS
$3.00 OFF OUR ALREADY LOW PRICE

$1.00 OFF ANYTHING FROM DANSKIN

DANSKIN

AND OUR PRICES ARE ALREADY DISCOUNTED

CLASSIC LEOTARD LIST OUR REG PRICE $1.00 OFF

T-SHIRT PRINTING SPECIAL

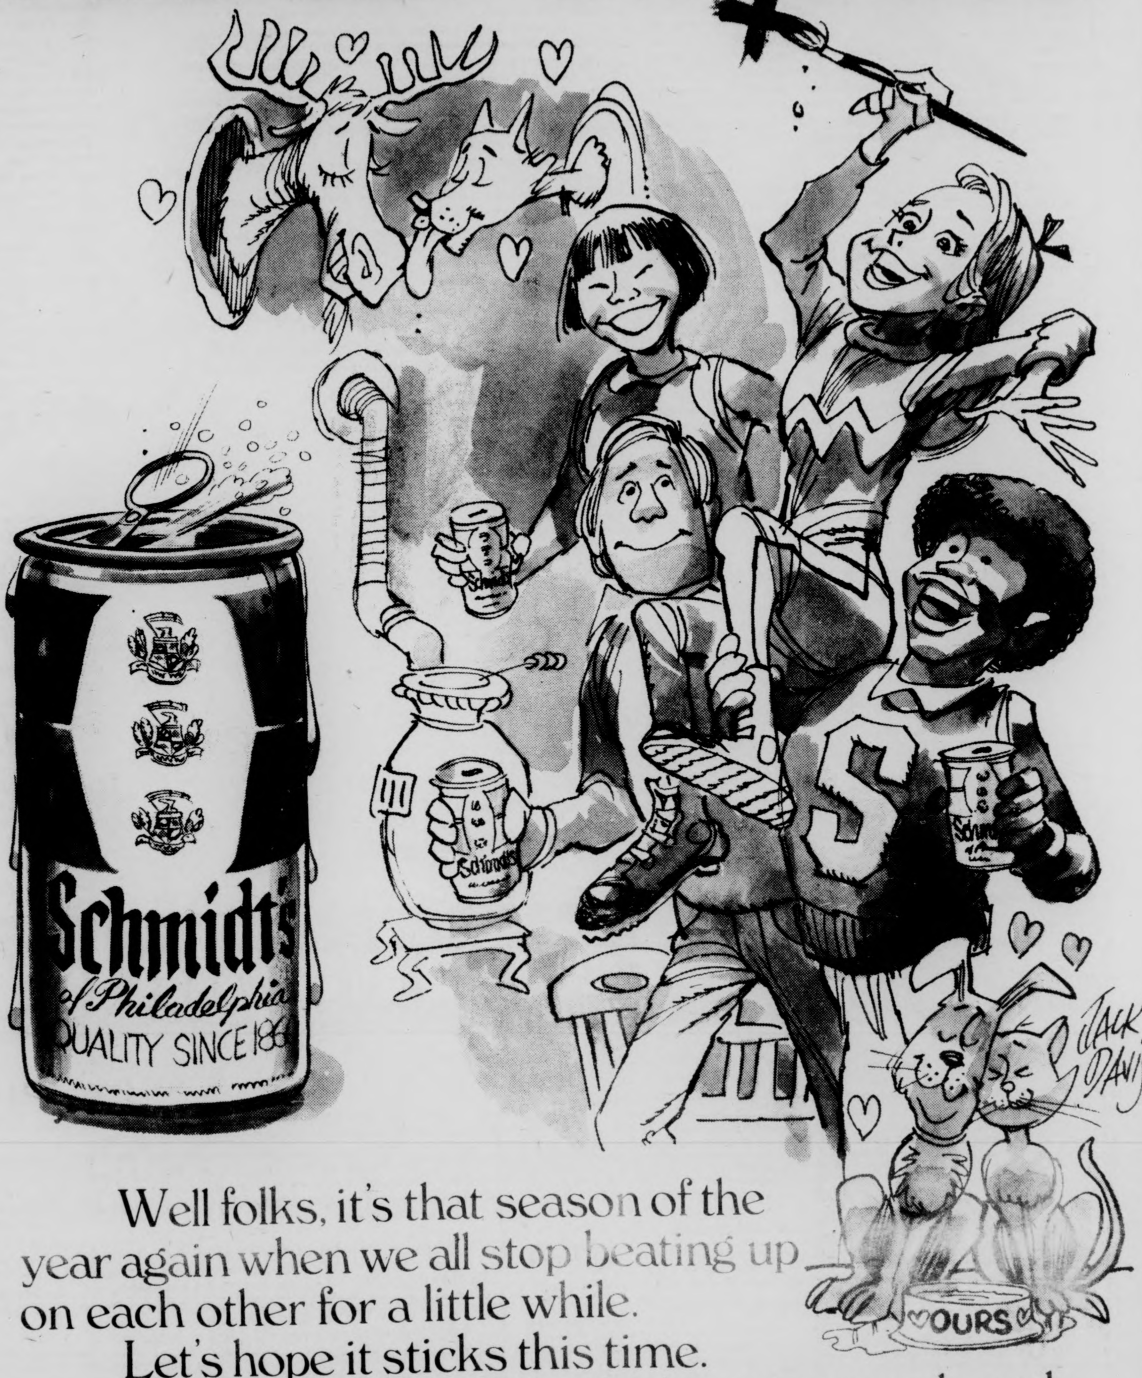
25 letters Free
only $3.25
EXTRA LETTERS 5¢-1"
10¢-2"

SEVERAL COLORS AVAILABLE

MAKES A GREAT HOLIDAY GIFT OR JOKE

the University Store
campus center/univ. of mass./amherst

---



SCHMIDT'S ~~vs.~~ LOVE

Well folks, it's that season of the year again when we all stop beating up on each other for a little while.
Let's hope it sticks this time.
Have a great vacation, don't eat too much, and we'll see you next year.

Schmidt's
The beer that might make Philadelphia famous.

C. SCHMIDT & SONS INC., PHILA., PA

Cabbages and kings

paul yanowitch

Dear Santa:

A little preface is necessary before you read my Christmas list. I don't want you to think that this is a personal attack; personalities aside, I just think that the principal involved is important. You see, you claim that you only give presents to those who have been good; those of us condemned as bad are doomed to failure, obloquy and little joy. This is obviously unfair; it is an arbitrary and capricious way of separating the meritorious sheep from the undeserving goats. Most diabolical is the method you use as an indicator of 'goodness'; anyone with a cumulative average over 2.5 is labelled as 'good', and anyone else is placed on behavioral probation. Not only is this plan elitist, it is condescending, representative of the capitalist system and reeking of bourgois thinking. My plans may involve academic matters, but since it is finals time; I didn't think you would mind if I stretched my demands (opps, requests) a little.

—presents are not to be given on the basis of the so called 'good-bad' dichotomy. Merit must be taken out of the decision. I feel that merit is merely a bonus - i.e., an extraneous detail. Therefore, I demand that presents be given on the basis of the number of days in class. The more days in class, the more presents!! And, if I happen to do well, I get extra presents! If my presence isn't enough, then achievement should be ruled out.

—free parking; this carries with it the obligation, ipso facto, of being supplied with a car. A state car would be nice. Further, a subway from the parking lots to the CC would be appreciated; if a subway is impossible, than get work-study kids to drive golf carts — a UMass taxi service!

—less contact hours with my books; I am here to become a mature adult — so why coop me up with books? Let me have time to do research into the ways of the world! Hedonism doesn't just come — you have to work at it and that takes time. I think a half an hour a day is fair.

—a nice present would be to make all my professors take a course in the fundamentals of teaching; I just don't understand the argument that a PhD obviates the need for some type of training in teaching. Even Harvard is trying to do this, and we all know that what is good for Harvard is good for the world.

—a pair of rose colored glasses and a union card to help convince myself and the NLRB that we do have a union already. (I am telling you Santa — I woke up one morning and it was there! a miracle).

—a say in which reindeer get tenure and how many oats they get after taxes.

—an administrative lackey of my very own; someone who will run out and get me beer whenever I want it, and sit supplicant at my feet and pass up Shlitz in the most fawning manner possible.

—Siglinda Steinfuller

—An office on the third floor Whitmore and an autographed picture of Michael Pill standing in a three piece suit under his Law Degree holding a textbook on Evidence and Proof.

—1.1 million dollars to squander.

—an all expense paid trip to Houston for two weeks, or Los Angeles, whichever is more convenient.

—A Chancellor who recognizes student achievement and is willing to dig to find the precious metals and fluids on this campus.

—a poster I can hang on my wall that says that UMass is the Berkley of the 70's — that way I can show my friends that it's true.

—a wife, 2.4 kids, 2 cars, a house in the suburbs, a nice job, lower taxes, a new barbeque, a reupholstered sofa, and of course, peace on earth.

> "The time has come, the Walrus said, to talk of many things;
> Of shoes, of ships of sealing wax, of cabbages and kings.
> Of whether the ocean is boiling hot and whether pigs have wings".
>
> L. Carroll

"From Amherst, that was Paul Yanowitch."

Paul Yanowitch was a Collegian columnist but has put his past behind him; he now goes to Washington to become the Collegian's Washington Bureau Chief.

♫ Deck the halls with B-1 bombers...♪
to Jimmy from the House of Representatives

Semester's end confessions

lisa melilli

Oh God, help me! Here I am, I mean, I've got to confess about something. It's the end of the semester and I do have to confess something or else I never will, because you'll never see me again. I could confess how I used to lie all the time to the priests in confession time. I mean, I always added up my lies wrong and stuff.

But it's got to be something more. I could confess to you how often I've actually forged my mother's name on credit cards or didn't read the morning Globe or shortsheeted various people's beds. I could tell you how often the Collegian didn't tell people all the times the Trustees met here on campus, so there wouldn't be any demonstrations. I could tell you who in the Student Senate really is manipulative. (Don't worry Bill and Greg, I won't tell.)

But instead I'll confess what I've done wrong with my life. A friend of mine, Dottie A. Clark says she's never done anything wrong in her life, but I know she has. At least another friend of mine, Jim Kassner admits to occasionally doing something wrong and another friend of mine, Jerry Rogers, tells me he does something wrong everyday of his life.

Well, anyways, getting back to what I've done wrong, it all started with a course I took this semester where I had to read blood curdling suicidal poetry, or the course where I have to write a paper on Surrealism and its advent from Freudian Psychology and the later influence it received from Existentialism and Marxism. And then there's the course with the final — my only one, and I hate finals. I usually never take courses that require them. Would you believe this will be my first final? And then there was that Shakespeare course where the teacher got my name all mixed up and called me Melisa Lilli. I highly appreciated that.

Then there was Mark Wilding; he was a mistake.

And Bill Sundstrom as Executive Editor; that vote was a mistake.

And Idi Amin. That was a mistake.

And the male ego. That was a mistake.

And punk rock. That was a mistake.

And Ralph Nadar. That was Jim's mistake.

And never going to sleep on time this semester. That was a mistake.

And voting for Jimmy Carter for president. That was a necessary mistake.

And voting for Anne Lewis for Vice-President of Notre Dame's student council was a mistake since I lost by one vote.

And dying my hair blonde when I was fifteen. That wasn't a mistake.

Letting Bill Parent bore me to death on several occasions. That was a mistake.

Unleashing Bill Bluestein in the Collegian office — on Joe "really careful" Maglitta's night. That was a mistake.

Letting myself walk into the Collegian after being here only three days as a UMass freshperson in September 1975. That was an innocent mistake.

Letting my father drive me up here three days before I walked into the Collegian office to start my UMass career. That was a naive mistake 'cause life just hasn't been the same since then. And it's gonna get worse at least for the next two weeks. But I'll forget about that until my exam. Right now we have a newspaper to put out.

Lisa Melilli is spinning into oblivion and hopefully will be back, but that's up to Mr. Doran.

editorial opinion

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.

A snow battle

This editorial is a tribute to the over 300 students who participated in an inter-area snowball fight Monday night. Now, I don't know about Southwest, but after the first really good snow of the year, I knew that Northeast residents wouldn't be content to simply watch it melt. No, firm believers in the spirit of competition, they were bound to start something.

I also realized that night that if you tell a group of guys from Crabtree that they throw snowballs like girls, they're likely to get upset. I suppose that when a snowball hurled at my window ripped part of the screen off, my theory began to sink in. Then again, a window lit with Christmas lights is a great target anyway. But, back to my tribute.

While this little scene was going on at Crabtree around 11:30, a chant of "Sylvan rules something-or-other," could be heard in the distance. I had only enough time to rush to the other side of the dorm, to a window facing Sylvan, when I saw about 70 Sylvanites swooping down upon the Quad. I didn't believe it, the way they ran down the hill, they looked like the Cavalry.

Snow was flying, and people were screaming, it was a great sight. Eager to join in (I had to help defend my area against Sylvan), I rushed to put on my jacket and gloves. But by the time a friend and I got out there, there was only a few people standing on Thatcher Hill. Utterly confused, we asked around and found out that Northeast and Sylvan had joined forces and had gone to attack Orchard Hill.

Realizing the length of the last battle, my friend and I hurried to Central, surely the next target for the combined forces.

So we joined the Northeast-Sylvan troops at Central. And what a battle it was. First attacking Van Meter, the army then turned on the rest of the area. By now we were about 300 strong. Then the campus police arrived. After first scattering, which is hard for 300 people to do anyway, we rebanded and continued our attack on Central. Seemingly helpless, the police drove around a little, dodging snowballs here and there.

Although there were scattered cries about "going for Southwest," the group refrained. All in all, the majority of it ended in Central, with a lot of wet and very tired people.

But we had a great time. Whoever said that the spirit of rivalry at this school is dead? Inter-area fights on a scale that large cannot be overlooked. I feel sorry for those of you who missed it, or didn't want to get wet. If it ever happens again, don't miss it, it's a great way to let out frustrations, and support your area. We can all thank those who defended the honor of our areas for us. (And, if I ever find that guy from Baker who hit me in the face with a snowball, he'll know that I'm out for revenge.)

Ellen Plausky is a Collegian Commentator.

letters

Pie thrower showed lack of responsibility

To the Editor:

I write in reference to Jerry Roger's comments and opinions on the handling of the pie throwing antics of Joseph Gould in the December eighth issue.

I don't wish to argue what legal action if any should be taken against Mr. Gould, but rather to question the reasoning behind Mr. Roger's opinions.

To justify these childish actions with a reference to a comic strip indicates to me some lack of responsibility on the part of the commentator in public affairs. To say that justice was done by a second pie in the eye also seems a bit ridiculous.

Granted, the incident was not as serious as it may have been taken, and perhaps it does show a lack of security — after all, it could have been some nut with a gun. However, it was a deliberate act of civil disobedience.

The point I would like to make is that such an act is hardly an 'effective means of communication'. It may show to some the discontent of a few with society, but what responsible person respects the opinions of an individual or a group that resorts to pie throwing as means of showing their disatisfaction?

Pie throwing is fine for comedy on stage but to prove a point it is hardly an effective or acceptable instrument.

Stuart N. Johnson

Evaluation guide seen as political instrument

To the Editor:

I feel compelled to comment on a growing and potentially dangerous trend on this campus. The concrete manifestation of the trend is the publication On The Other Hand, distributed earlier this semester by the Academic Affairs Committee of the Student Senate.

I am not opposed to student evaluations, provided they serve the purpose for which they were originally intended: viz., to give teachers a means of ascertaining how much of what they wanted to communicate in their courses was effectively transmitted to their students. Since the institution of teaching evaluations as required practice for all teachers, these documents have acquired another use: they are now seen as instruments of power, by which the faculty can be forced [and this is the word used in one of the introductory statements in On The Other Hand*] to offer courses which students deem "relevant" [although, as far as I know, no means of establishing criteria for "relevance have yet been developed]. Consequently,* On The Other Hand is not what it modestly claims to be — "a course and teacher evaluation guide" — but a political instrument whose purpose is to reverse the perceived power positions of students ["the oppressed"] and teachers ["the oppressors"]. As such, it is clearly an attempt to control, not an oppression of the "right to know."

This being the case, those who urge us to "Check the Collegian for the names of those teachers who have nothing to hide" might take a moment to reconsider their position. If teachers refuse to release their evaluations, it may not be because they have something to hide, but because they object to the unregulated use of power. This point directly addresses the issue of academic freedom, the foundation on which the exchange of knowledge is based. The coercive use of evaluations is a policing technique resembling those used in totalitarian regimes. Sadly, those who practice such techniques on this campus seem unaware of their implications, and paradoxically have set out to destroy that which they wish to preserve.

Susan D. Mulcahy
Teaching Assistant
Department of Anthropology

Globe Santa effort defended

To the Editor:

This is a reply to Bob Melia's editorial, "Corporate Claus Supplants Santa".

Am I to understand that you disapprove of AFROTC students collecting money for the Globe Santa fund? Apparently you feel that these people aren't capable of helping others, only "napalming children".

Your views on the military really have nothing to do with this collection. Why should the Globe Santa be part of your effort to criticize the AFROTC? They are performing a commendable service for others less fortunate than themselves. Their efforts are a lot more praiseworthy than your donations of a couple of bucks. For you to dismiss their efforts as an investment to generate money for future AFROTC stipends is pretty ignorant. And why should they pay back their scholarships? Would you pay back a university scholarship if you received one?

Finally, what are you, Bob Melia, smugly satisfied at having donated a few dollars, going to do to help the poor on Dec. 26? Write some more editorials?

Stephen Mouse

Madison Avenue 'hard sell' benefits us all

To the Editor:

In his recent commentary, The Madison Avenue Manipulators, Andy Tomolonis seemed — at least to me — extreme in his condemnation of the advertising business.

Mr. Tomolonis claims that all advertisers come on strong, always employing the "hard sell" and claiming their product is superior in all ways to their competitors. This does not seem likely.

Market research has shown that in most cases "hard sell" advertising does not muster up the sales results to justify its use.

Few customers are moved by the hard sell. No one likes to be told what to do or what to buy, yet most people appreciate being offered a choice. People respond to the offer of a few arbitrary alternatives and that, simply stated, is what advertising is all about.

The gravemen of Mr. Tomolonis' argument, however, is not the issue of style, but of ethics. His charge is that advertisers are responsible for dumping useless products on a betrayed and deceived consuming public. If Mr. Tomolonis feels deodorant and detergent are unnecessary, he is at liberty to fault advertisers for promoting them. If he feels that we should eliminate our kitchen roaches by hand, he can blame ad men for marketing insecticides. If he disapproves of owning a camera, or calling friends and family long distance, he ought to blame advertising for encouraging it. If he is opposed to social mobility and creature comforts, to the convenience of modern technology, then he is correct. The villain lives on Madison Avenue. If Mr. Tomolonis is this sort of puritan, there is no point in attempting to reason with him. I can only remind him there is a difference of opinion.

Many Americans pursue materialistic middle class lives with clear heads and clear consciences. I do. I see no more of an inherent evil in this lifestyle than I do in the business of advertising. Naturally there is a factor of immorality sometimes at work here, but I am uncomfortable with the prospect of a world without its materialist trappings or the enterprises that encourage them.

A recent Harvard study reported, "large scale operations made possible in part through advertising has resulted in reductions in manufacturing costs... The building of the market by means of advertising ... not only makes price reductions attractive or possible for large firms, it also creates an opportunity to develop private brands which generally are offered at lower prices... Advertising, though not free from criticism, is an economic asset and not a liability.

Consider the fortune you'd pay for the Sunday papers without advertising and consider how unbearable reading one would be. Jefferson read only one newspaper, "and that more for its advertising than its news." Most people might say the same.

Mark S. Robinson

Small minority ruins a good time

To the Editor:

On Monday night, December 5, what is rapidly becoming a tradition commenced: the opening of the Baker Ski and Tray Resort. On the hill behind Baker Dormitory hundreds of students come to go coasting; so far there has been little incident.

But Monday night there was a difference, and I would like to bring it to the attention of all those who participated in the snowball fight between Baker, Chadbourne, and Greenough. It was an excellent time — too bad it was ruined by vandalism. With snowballs, iceballs and even rocks, students broke so many windows in all three of the dorms that next time the fun will not be allowed to go unchecked. Chadbourne was especially damaged. The head of residence there has a small baby who was woken out of its sleep by the sound of its windows breaking. We were lucky it wasn't harmed.

Without all of this damage the fight would have been just a good display of dorm rivalry and I'm sure it would have been repeated. But now its repetition is doubtful. So please, think twice before you ruin another good night. It only takes a small minority to ruin it for the majority.

Pamela Reidy
A Baker Resident

Snow day announcements

In the event that snow days occur during final exams, or registration day, the following alternate schedule is established:

FINALS

Two additional, alternative exam periods would be added to the four regular periods (8 a.m., 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.). Added would be: 6:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. periods. By using two successive days of alternate periods, one day of exams can be rescheduled in the same order into the alternate periods e.g., periods one and two (8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.) into the alternate periods (6:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m.) of the same day and periods three and four (1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m.) into the alternate periods (6:30 p.m. and 8:45 p.m.) of the next scheduled final exam days. The same rooms are assigned in all cases.

The alternate schedule is the automatic rescheduling of the first period missed into the first available alternate period. Example: The announcement on Dec. 17, is "The campus is closed all day for classes and exams. The University will be open for evening exams." The automatic rescheduling of exams is period nine (8:30 a.m., 12-17) will be held at 6:30 p.m., 12-17, period 10 (10:30 a.m., 12-17) at 8:45 p.m., 12-17; period 11 (1:30 p.m., 12-17) at 6:30 p.m., 12-19 and period 12 (4 p.m., 12-17) at 8:45 p.m., 12-19. Amplification of the plan is contained in a memo being sent to all deans and department chairpersons.

REGISTRATION DAY

In the event that the campus is closed for registration on Jan. 30, graduate registration will take place in the same location on Jan. 31 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Undergraduate and Stockbridge registration will take place at the originally scheduled time and place on Jan. 31. First day of classes will be held as scheduled on Jan. 31.

In the event that the campus is closed until 11 a.m. for registration, graduate, undergraduate, and Stockbridge registration will take place in the same location commencing at 11:30 a.m.

- - -

The snow day announcements have been amended during the final exam period and on registration day to reflect the above and are listed, with their codes, below.

WORK DAY EXAMS

— The campus is closed until 11 a.m. for classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel.

— Campus is closed for the afternoon and evening classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel. Second shift does not report.

— Campus is closed all day for classes and exams and all but snow day personnel. The University will be open for evening classes and exams. Second shift and snow day personnel shall report.

— Campus is closed for all day and evening classes and exams. Second shift and snow day personnel shall report.

— Campus is closed for all day and evening classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel. Second shift does not report.

SATURDAY EXAMS

— Campus is closed until 11 a.m. for classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel.

— Campus is closed for afternoon and evening classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel.

— Campus is closed for all day classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel. The University will be open for evening classes and exams. Second shift and snow day personnel shall report.

— Campus is closed for all day and evening classes and exams and to all but snow day personnel.

WORK DAY REGISTRATION

— Campus is closed until 11 a.m. for registration and to all but snow day personnel.

— Campus is closed for registration and to all but snow day personnel. Second shift does not report.

— Campus is closed all day for registration and to all but snow day personnel. Second shift and snow day personnel shall report.

— Campus is closed all day for registration to all but snow day personnel. Second shift does not report.

Notices

STAMP CLUB

The Amherst Stamp Club will meet at the Farley Lodge for a program on United Nations stamps. Also, there will be a philatelic grab bag, door prizes, and refreshments. Doors open at 7 p.m., program begins at 8. Guests welcome.

ASIAN AMERICAN STUDENTS ASSOC.

Meet[illegible] CC 902.

VOLL[illegible]

Volleyball club practice, 6:30 p.m., NOPE. Bring $2 dues and ID. New members welcome.

APO

Final meetings of the semester, 7:30 p.m., 911 CC.

HONOR'S PROGRAM

Those students taking Honor's courses but not enrolled in the Honor's program will no longer have an evaluation of their work automatically submitted by the professor, unless they specifically request it.

EXERCISE SCIENCE PEOPLE

Any undergrad interested in searching on faculty search committee for the spring term should leave name in 210 Boyden, 5-1337.

SHAB

Communications committee meeting 5 p.m., Health Services 40.

WATER POLOISTS

Team banquet and party beginning at 7:30 Sat. Dec. 17 at 1 Townehouse Apts. Contact Bill or Ric at 549-0779 to confirm reservations.

HEYMAKERS

Square dance lessons Tuesday at 8 p.m.

SENIOR PORTRAITS

The G. Fox representative will be in the Index office to take orders for pictures, and choose pictures to go into the [illegible] Index.

STUDENT JUDICIARY

Students interested in positions in the Student Judiciary should attend a meeting Tues. 3 p.m., 404 SUB.

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA

Executive board meeting at 6:30 p.m. Regular meeting 7 p.m. 901 CC.

FS & N CLUB

Last day to buy tickets for the Christmas party on Dec. 17 at the Newman Center. Full course buffet dinner and open bar $4. See Noel, 324 Chenoweth. Also, call Charley 546-5991 and offer to sell tickets for the raffle to the Ft. Lauderdale March break.

Free concert tomorrow in Bowker Auditorium

Holiday favorites, selections from "Porgy and Bess" and two trumpet trios performing "Bugler's Holiday" will be among the musical highlight at a free concert tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium.

The concert, sponsored by the UMass music department, features the University Symphony Band, John Jenkins, conductor, and the University Chorale, Richard Du Bois, Conductor. Special guests performing selections from "Porgy and Bess" are Gretchen and John d'Armand and Horace Boyer.

sound economy
FROM $2.99

THIS Fantastic Record Promotion Features all Major Artists and all Major Labels. such as:

$4.49 Greatful Dead STEAL YOUR FACE VA

$3.49 Greatful Dead BLUES FOR ALLANA VA

$3.49 Eric Clapton E.C. WAS HERE A&L

$2.99 Steely Dan KATY LIED ABC

$3.49 Jerry Garcia REFLECTIONS VA

$3.49 James Taylor ONE MAN DOG WB

$2.99 Thin Lizzy NIGHT LIFE Merc

$2.99 James Cotton LIVE AND ON THE MAKE Buddah

AS WELL AS: Tower of Power, Commander Cody, New Riders, Genesis, Duke and Driver, James Montgomery, Poco, NRBQ Maria Moldar, Charlie Daniels, Geo. Duke, Billy Cobham Jimi Hendrix,

THE GREATEST SELECTION OF CUT OUTS, BUDGET AND MANUFACTURERS SURPLUS OVER STOCK WE HAVE EVER HAD DON'T GET LEFT OUT!!!!

THE UNIVERSITY STORE
campus center Univ. of Mass.
OPEN MON. NITES TIL 9 DEC. 5,12, and 19 SALE ENDS DEC. 29th

---

TIRED OF CHOOSING COURSES BLINDLY?

?
REGISTRATION FORM

We are trying to increase the number of courses covered in the Course and Teacher Evaluation, but we need your help.

Listed below are names of teachers who have cooperated by releasing their evaluations. If your professors are not on the list, ask them to sign the release forms they've been given by the Student Government Association. Talk to Department heads too. (They can release evaluations for the entire department.)

THESE TEACHERS HAVE RELEASED THEIR EVALUATIONS

Abrams, Linda
Abramson, Davis E.
Airhart, Douglas L.
Aitken, Norman D.
Alwitt, Linda
Anderson, D.R.
Arny, Thomas
Barbosa, Pedro
Barreda, Pedro
Beal, Virginia, A.
Bennett, M.K.
Berlin, Norman
Berliner, Howard
Bert, Michael H.
Bierhorst, David W.
Blackman, John L.
Boothroyd, Geoffrey
Boyer, Paul
Branch, Ben S.
Brehm, John
Brown, T. Dennis
Bulman, Ronnie Janoff
Bunn, Radie
Cardwell, Lucy
Carlson, Neil R.
Cashdan, Sheldon
Cheng, Ching-Mao
Chumbley, James I.
Clayton, John
Clifton, Charles
Clifton, Rachel
Cocalis, Susan
Cohen, Alvin P.
Connelly, Wiliam F.
Coombs, Walter P. Jr.
Coppersmith, Evan
Costley, Richard J.
Cramer, Chester D.
Creed, Robert P.
Cromack, Duane E.
Culley, Margo
Cuomo, George
Davis, Hugh
Day, Robert
Dittach, John
Donahue, John
Duffy, Joseph R.
Duguay, Gerry
Dzendolet, Ernest
Edwards, Richard
Fabos, Julius M.
Fagundes, Francisco
Farris, Richard
Finnerty, Joseph
Fischer, Louis
Forman, George
Foster, John H.
Frank, Joseph
Gandlin, Joseph
Geman, Donald
Gibbs, Margaret Denise
Gibson, Walker
Gertson, Donald E.
Goldsmith, Paul
Golowach, Eugene
Grillo, John
Gunner, Haim B.
Gutzwiller, Kathryn
Halgin, Lucille
Halgin, Richard
Harmatz, Mort
Hart, Robert A.
Hartz, H. Richard
Hepler, Peter
Hertzback, Stanley
Hill, F.S. Jr.
Hofer, Ernest H.
Hutchinson, Charles E.
Hurn, Christopher
Horowitz, Joseph
Hugenin, G. Richard
Humphries, Jane
Hutchinson, Thomas
Irvine, William
Ivey, Al
Jones, Dalton
Junkins, Donald
Kaplan, Alexander
Katzner, Donald W.
Key, Charles R.
Killian, Lewis
Kilmer, William
King, Gordon
Klar, Lawrence B.
Kohler, Heinz
Kupperman, Gerald L.
Lake, Joseph
Langland, Joseph
Langley, Kenneth
Lawall, Sarah
Lemeshow, Stanley
Levin, Maurice I.
Liander, Bertil
Lieberman, Alan J.
Locke, L.F.
Lockwood, Linda G.
Male, James
Manes, E.g.
Manning, William
Martin, Michael T.
Matlack, James
Matthews, Anne
McCarthy, Harold T.
McFarland, Gerald W.
McWhorter, Earl J.
Melrose, Jay
Meyer, David R.
Mitchell, John H
Narahara, Tomike
Nillsson, Nils
North, Mary S.
Oates, Stephen B.
O'Brien, Ken
O'Connell, James
Olley, J. Gregory
Ortiz, Jesse S.
Partee, Barbara H.
Peterson, G.A.
Peters, John
Phillips, Norman
Phinney, Edward
Potter, Frank E.
Prince, Allan
Purcell, Joanne
Quick, Jonathan R.
Quinton, Arthur R.
Rauch, Harold
Reh, Albert M.
Reiner, Albey M.
Resnick, Stephen
Rice, Thomas E.
Robinson, Fred
Rohde, Richard A.
Roof, Wade Clark
Rosenfeld, Stuart M.
Roter, Debra
Rudvalis, Arunas
Rupp, William
Russell, G.A.
Ryavec, Karl W.
Rapping, Leonard
St. Mary, Donald
Salzman, Zdenek
Schumacher, Warren F.
Schuman, David
Scott, Donald E.
Scott, Nina
Scoville, Nicholas
Sheckels, G. Dale
Sides, Charles H.
Simonson, Norman R.
Simpson, Richard H.
Sirius, Donald
Snedecor, James G.
Spears, Betty
Spwock, Charlotte
Stamps, Paula
Stankovich, Marian T.
Stawiecki, Edmund J.
Steiner, Ivan D.
Strickland, Bonnie
Su, Jin-Chen
Swaim, Kathleen
Swanson, Carl
Tattar, Terry
Taylor, J.H.
Teng, Shou-Hsin
Tessler, Richard
Treyz, George
Tucker, Robert G.
Jden, Peter C.
Ulin, Priscilla R.
Unatis, Wm. P.
Vogely, Martha
Watt, Norman F.
Well, Arnold D.
Weston, John C.
Wilce, Robert T.
Wilkins, Wendy
Wolf, Jack Keil
Wright, James D.
Zahari, Abraham
Zinsmeister, George E.

Departments which have released all evaluations:
Afro-American Studies
Asian Studies
Philosophy
Slavic Studies
Comparative Literature

Of those who have been contacted so far, 9 have submitted forms, 2 have not

If teachers and department heads still refuse to cooperate, come to Rm. 426 Student Union or the Candy Counter in the Student Union to pick up our Course and Teacher Evaluation Forms. To be distributed in your classroom.

Student Government Association

Lions maul gym-men

By STEVEN MARKS
Collegian Staff

The men's gymnastic team suffered a loss Saturday but not really a defeat. They accumulated the highest score this year, but not enough to overtake Penn State. A lot of outstanding routines were executed by both teams but the score read 205.13-188.00 in favor of Penn State.

In the spotlight for UMass on the floor exercise was John Forshay who accomplished one of his best sets this year. On the pommel horse Dave Kulakoff remains unbeaten with a very impressive 9.3, destroying any hopes of a Lion to dethrone him.

By the time the still rings event rolled around, the point spread between the two teams had increased despite a beautiful performance turned in by Dave Felleman. Penn State had an overpowering vaulting team but their inconsistency let UMass stay within distance.

In vaulting, UMass was lead by Forshay with a 9.2 which was the second highest score for the event. When it came to the parallel bars, Penn State had built up a tremendous lead sealing the door shut for any hopes of a UMass victory. On the horizontal bar Penn State showed their national prominence with superior routine composition execution.

Bob Donahue had turned in the best performance of his career on the horizontal bar to end the meet with encouragement of success in the next half of the season.

Dick Swetman, the head coach, and Joel James, asst. coach, were not overly disappointed with the loss, due to improvement in many of the routines thrown by the young team. Swetman said, though, there still is room for improvement and a lot of work needs to be done when the gymnasts report back to school Jan. 6th for practice.

Patriots win, but lose

The New England Patriots, behind a stalwart defensive unit that blunted several potential Miami scoring drives, defeated the Dolphins, 14-10, on scores by Sam Cunningham and Ike Forte.

However, the Patriots were virtually eliminated from the possibility of grabbing a playoff berth as the Detroit Lions beat the Baltimore Colts on a blocked punt with only nine seconds left in their game, 13-10.

SATURDAY'S RESULTS

| | |
|---|---|
| Cincinnati 17 | Pittsburgh 10 |
| Washington 26 | St. Louis 20 |

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

| | |
|---|---|
| Los Angeles 23 | Atlanta 7 |
| Buffalo 14 | NY Jets 10 |
| Detroit 13 | Baltimore 10 |
| Chicago 21 | Green Bay 10 |
| Houston 19 | Cleveland 15 |
| New England 14 | Miami 10 |
| Oakland 35 | Minnesota 13 |
| Philadelphia 17 | NY Giants 14 |
| Seattle 34 | Kansas City 31 |
| Denver 17 | San Diego 9 |
| Tampa Bay 33 | New Orleans 14 |

TONIGHT'S GAME

Dallas at San Francisco

The only way the Patriots can make the playoffs is by beating the Colts next Sunday, and having the Buffalo Bills beat Miami.

In other games, Tampa Bay snapped a 26 game losing streak by beating New Orleans, 33-14, as Mike Washington and Richard Wood each returned interceptions for touchdowns, and the defense sacked Archie Manning five times.

The Minnesota Vikings lost to Oakland, 35-13, and the Chicago Bears dumped Green Bay, 21-10, to set up next weekend as the deciding games in the NFC Central Division. Both teams now have 8-5 records.

★Icemen win

CONT. FROM PAGE 18

defense the Warriors are led by junior goalie Gilles Moffet, who led all ECAC Division II goalies with a 2.69 goals against average a year ago.

For the Minutemen to beat Merrimack, they will have to play like they did against Army, and like they did in the last 10 minutes against Boston. This means playing good, heads-up offense, and stubborn defense. The key will be to keep the puck away from Merrimack, and put as much pressure on Moffet as possible.

BLUELINE BANTER: The UMass hockey team is looking more and more like the Boston Bruins every day. The Minutemen, like the Bruins, seem to play their best hockey with key people out with injuries. The Minutemen, who have been without the services of John Peters and Lincoln Flagg, have come together and played super hockey in their last two games.... Orr Rink was brightened Saturday night by the appearance of the Hockey cheerleaders. That's right, hockey cheerleaders. The nine cheerleaders, led by captain Lisa Newborg, lent encouragement to the team, and entertained the crowd with lively, innovative cheers. The women appear at every home game, and are trying to raise money so they can accompany the pucksters on the road.

★UM hoops

CONT. FROM PAGE 20

"We played good defense and the big men played well, it was unquestionably the best game of the season for us," said a delighted Leaman. "But I thought the difference in the game was the play of Alex and Derick.... they controlled the tempo."

The final ten minutes was basically a trading game, when Vermont center Mike Kern heated up enough to score 14 second half points and finish as the game's high scorer with 20 points. But no other Catamount player was able to break double figures.

The Minutemen featured a balanced scoring attack as Claiborne scored 14 points, Len Kohlhaas added 11 and Eric Williams, once again coming off the bench to play a steady game, finished with nine points.

"Teams are going to be in trouble if they play us man to man," proclaimed Claiborne, who was surprised Vermont didn't play a zone defense.

"We were working zone all week, it was nice to see man defense though," agreed Eldridge, who once again provided the home crowd with a ball handling exhibition. "There's nothing like a crowd at the Cage.... the crowd was the joint tonight."

But, with time running out and the crowd beginning to head for the exits, Haymore gave the fans one last move to talk about at the bars. He collected the ball on the left of the key, dribbled to the hoop and shook the rafters with his final points of the night — another slam dunk.

It was definitely the proper ending to a successful debut. Now the only thing left for Mark Haymore is to work on his encore.

BASKETBALL BANTER.....UMass showed off its new home uniforms with untuckable jerseys a la Marquette.... Freshman Jay Stewart scored his first Cage points the easy way — a goal tending violation... Leaman was able to dress his entire squad for the first time this season. On the road, he may only carry 12 players, but at home 15 are allowed to dress.

UMASS — Johnson — 0 2-3 2, Claiborne — 5 4-4 14, Morrison — 1 0-0 2, Eldridge — 3 1-2 7, Pyatt — 3 4-5 10, Williams — 3 3-4 9, Haymore — 8 0-0 16, Stewart — 1 0-0 2, Kohlhaas — 5 1-2 11. Totals — 29 15-20 73.

VERMONT — Sobolewski — 2 5-5 9, Wielgus — 1 3-3 5, Trapani — 2 2-2 6, Perrin — 1 2-2 4, Nocera — 1 0-0 2, Kelly — 0 3-4 3, Kern — 9 2-5 20, Johnson — 1 1-2 3, Correll — 2 0-1 4, Davis — 0 1-2 1. Totals — 19 19-26 57.

whole wheat
PIZZA FACTORY
5—2 a.m.
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
DURING INTERSESSION

ATTACKS ON WOMEN
Best-selling author of "Revolutionary Feminism"
Barbara Winslow
analyses the renewed offensive on the womens movement and discusses ways of fighting back.
Tonight, Monday December 12, 1977
Campus Center 168 at 7:30 pm
Sponsored by International Socialist Organization

CAMPUS TRAVEL CENTER
Ft. Lauderdale
charter from Bradley
March 19 - 26
(Spring break)
$149.00
Limited Seats Book now
Campus Travel Center
U.Mass 545-0500

The Department of Music and Dance, University of Massachusetts
Proudly present a
FreeConcert
with the University of Massachusetts Symphony Band & Chorale with Special Guests
Gretchen d'Armand
Horace Boyer
John d'Armand
Performing Selections from "Porgy and Bess",
Holiday Music and Much More
Experience Two Trumpet Trios perform 'Bugler's Holiday'
TUESDAY DECEMBER 13 at 8 P.M.
BOWKER AUDITORIUM - University of Massachusetts

MON. & TUES. SPECIAL —
Buy a Large Pizza &
Get A Pitcher of Beer
for ½ Price
a varied luncheon menu
with daily specials
served in a congenial atmosphere
salads — homemade soups
deli sandwiches
subs — pizzas
all served with your favorite
beer or cocktail
Hungry-U
55 University Drive
Thurs 11-1,
Amherst 549-5713
Fri. & Sat. 11-2 a.m.

MOUNTAIN FARMS 4
584-9153 MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL ROUTE 9—HADLEY, MASS
Adults $2.50—Students with AMC Card $2.00—Children $1.25—Twi-Lite Show Adults & Students $1.50
Special Engagements Excluded
You Light Up My Life
PG 1 Today at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show ticket 6:00/1.50
A long time ago in a galaxy far, far away
STAR WARS
18th SMASH WEEK
PG 2 Today at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show ticket 6:00 /1.50
THE LAST REMAKE of BEAU GESTE with MARTY FELDMAN
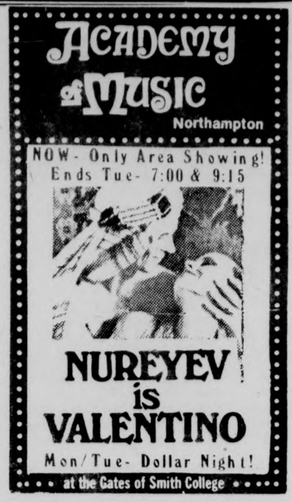
PG 3 Today at 6:30, 8:30
Twi-lite show ticket 6:00/1.50
The Best-selling Novel Is Now A Triumphant New Film
I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN
R 4 Today at 6:00, 8:30
Twi-lite show ticket 5:30 /1.50
REDUCED ADULT & STUDENT PRICES FOR TWI-LITE SHOW TICKETS...LIMITED TO SEATING



Academy of Music
Northampton
NOW - Only Area Showing!
Ends Tue - 7:00 & 9:15
NUREYEV is VALENTINO
Mon/Tue - Dollar Night!
at the Gates of Smith College

Women College Graduates
As a woman Air Force ROTC student, you compete for your commission on the same footing as the men in your class. And later on you wear the same insignia.
There are two-year, three-year, and four-year scholarship programs available to help you get there. If you enroll in the four-year Air Force ROTC program you also qualify to compete for a scholarship for the remaining two or three years as a cadet. Tuition is covered, fees are paid, textbook costs reimbursed . . . plus $100 a month, tax free.
Call 5-2437
Air Force ROTC
Gateway to a Great Way of Life

CLIP & MAIL CLASSIFIED AD ORDER

HEADLINE CHOICE

- AUDIO
- AUTO FOR SALE
- CALCULATORS
- ENTERTAINMENT
- FOR RENT
- FOR SALE
- FOUND
- HELP WANTED
- INSTRUCTION
- LOST
- MISC.
- MOTORCYCLES
- PERSONALS
- PHOTO EQUIP.
- RIDE WANTED
- RIDERS WANTED
- ROOM WANTED
- SERVICES
- TO SUBLET
- TRAVEL
- WANTED
- WANTED TO RENT

OTHER: ____________
$1.00 extra for other headline.

RATES: Daily 45c per line; 5 consec. pub. days,40c per line per day; 30 consec. pub. days,35c per line per day.

Computation:
#lines:_____ X rate:_____ = _____
X #days:_____ = _____(ad cost)
MINUS 13c POSTAGE DISCOUNT
= NET AD COST TO BE MAILED!

YOUR CLASSIFIED AD COPY

Insert one character, space or punctuation mark per box. Use UPPER lower case characters where they apply. (Note: No ad will be set entirely in capital letters.

You are charged for the ad in increments of each full line. A line contains 38 boxes. (Average word is approx. 5 characters - You pay less than 6c per word!)

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 1 |
| 2 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 2 |
| 3 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 3 |
| 4 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 4 |
| 5 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 5 |
| 6 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 6 |
| 7 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 7 |
| 8 | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | | 8 |

Name: ____________

Phone#: ________(if different from ad) Ad Cost:$______(enclosed)

Dates Classified Ad is to run: ____________

(Allow 3 days from date of mailing.)

RETURN THIS FORM TO: Classified Ad Dept., Massachusetts Daily Collegian
113 Campus Center, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. 01003

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Classifieds

To place a classified ad, drop by the Collegian Office between 8:30a.m. and 3:45p.m., Monday through Friday. The deadline is 3:45p.m. three days before your ad is to appear. Ask clerk for MDC Classified form.

The rates are: Daily, 45c per line; 5 consecutive publishing days, 40c per line per day; 30 consecutive publishing days, 30c per line per day. 38 characters constitutes one line.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

AUTO FOR SALE

68 Galaxy 500, ord. $700. 527-5746.

122Volvo parts sed&wagon. Rea. 665-4384.

1971 blue Chevrolet (Bel Air) 6 cyl. Good mileage, ex. cond. 1 owner-power steering, power brakes, radio and heater. $1,200. or B.O. Call 665-2064 evenings.

73 Datsun standard transmission $1150 call 546-9979 eves weekends.

Fantastic Buy: 1972 Toyota Mark II. Runs great. AM FM, stell-belted radials. Best offer over a $1,000. 584-4759.

1966 Volk. bug. Good condition. Make an offer, it's yours. Call after 6 549-4599.

1971 Peugeot new clutch muffler 665-3938.

For sale 1964 Olds F-85 very good cond., must sell in a week. 135,000 miles but runs great, call 6-9642 soon.

76 Silver Nova. Power steer., auto trans., snowtires. 11,000mi., lux. int. $3,200. 549-5725.

69 VW Bug. AM/FM, heat, roofrack, 78000, some dents-little rust. Always starts 6-5079.

74 Pontiac Firebird. Wht. w/ blu. interior. Ext. condition, AC, AM-FM, radials, winterized, nu. brakes, exhaust, shocks. $3,050. John eves 549-5918.

72 Chevy Suburban van excellent cond. 74 Vega both are priced to sell call 256-8470 or 323-5526.

Pickup. Chevy. '68, good shape, $700/best offer, call 665-4914.

73 Volvo 144 automatic very good body and engine radials AM/FM air cond. $3200 665-4539 eve & wks.

68 Chevy wagon needs work B.O. 67688.

MOTORCYCLES

1961 TR6 Triumph motorcycle must sell rebuilt engine 100mis. Preunit classic $500 obo call Steve 549-6417 after 6 p.m.

FOR SALE

SAvE up to 50%on TENNIS SHOES Men's, Ladies canvas & leather. Reg. $18. 30. Just $10.-14.50. Call 538-3181.

Women's Aspen down parka-med-ex. cond. pumpkin color $35 call 549-0523.

Women's Head Ski Parka. Excellent condition, size medium. Call 549-5951.

PA amp 75 watt rms Premier reverb unit - both brand new $35 each Mark at 253-2755.

Keltx Bakpak + frame, 2yr. old, ex. shp. ex. Xmas gift $30. or B.O. call 665-2441.

Snow tires E-78-14 call Brian, 586-2755.

Two new new Snowtires H78-14 253-9792.

Xmas trees cut your own. Spruce or Scotch Pine $10.50. 10a.m.--8p.m. Blizniak Tree Farm, 133 Bay Rd., Hadley 586-0723.

For Sale: Lange Pro Ski Boots size 9½. These boots are two years old but have only been worn twice. If interested please call 253-5873.

REFRIGERATOR! 5.5 cubic ft., good cond. Call Bill rm. 311 5-2639 lv. message.

Gift Idea: Have your portrait drawn. Call Dennis Delap, 256-8732, bet. 9-10am.

Technics SA5600 AM FM receiver 25 watts rms 1.9 FM Sen sitivity $120 or B.O. 546-5972 must sell by Dec. 14th.

MUST SELL! KUSTOM 200watt bass amp, $350., negot. Also, fine bass & electric guitars, $50. each. Call 253-2464.

MUST SELL! SCHWINN SUPERSPORT men's bike, $60. Also, lg. B&W portable TV, $50. Call 253-2464.

SofaBed, BikeRack, CoffeeTable, Reclining Chair, Lamp, Bookcase, CornerTable 549-5725.

MUST SELL! 1974 Jensen Healey. Taking offers. Call 593-5078.

Sofa-good condition. Cheap-call 253-2967.

Two near new snowtires H78-14. 253-9792.

New Ralchle hikers about M7½ wg 542-3446 $40 or best price offer.

FOR RENT

Room in Sund. on bus route. $85./mo.+elec. (heat incd.) guiet non-smoker only, no pets. Available immediately 665-2354.

Apartment to Sublet for January. 1 or 2 people Puffton Vill. Call 549-6597.

Furnished 2½ Room Apt. All util. included. $195./mo. Allan or Russ 253-3336 or at work 253-3491.

Housemates for Jan. 1. 1 or 2 people for lge rm. in co-op. Non-smoking, vegetarian household. Rent $146./mo. plus. On bus rte. Call 253-3615 after 5.

1 Br. Sunderland w/ AC, dshwsh, tnns, bus, disp. Util. incl. $185. avail. Jan. 665-3603.

Furn. Ap'ts. for Feb.-June lease 1½-rm. effic. + 1-bedroom furnished, air-cond. parking quiet from 200. mo. Reserve now. Amherst Motel + Ap'ts. -Rt. 9 opp. Zayre's 256-8122.

BR in EHamp Apt $75 inc. 1/1/78 527-9006.

2 bedrooms avail in spacious coed house. Beginning Jan 1. Greds preferred, all considered, pets O.K. 100+ call 253-9824.

Room available/3 bedroom apt. Echo Hill, starting Jan 1. Call 253-5288 keep trying.

1 fem. wanted for own rm. in 2 bdrm apt. 1st month FREE! $130 util. incl. Carla 549-1741 eves. ½ mile from campus. Bus.

2 Bedroom Apt. Dec. 22-Jan.27. Completely furnished. On bus route. Brittany Manor. B.O. Call 256-0318.

1 bdrm. apt. near campus — Amh. country location. $180 inc. util. Call 549-6568 if we're not at home, keep trying.

Person needed for 1 bdrm Brandywine Apt Dec 21-Jan 25 Cheap call Yasi 549-0865.

One F. to rent 1 bdr. of 2 bdr. apt. on bus line Jan-May or longer 549-5868.

To sublet immed. 2 bedroom apt. w/w carpet dshwshr UMass bus rt all util incl $260 John 665-3247 James 665-2972 eves.

1 bdrm Br. Man. $195 + ut Chris 253-3203.

1 fem wanted to share 1 bdrm apt close to campus $75 incldg util call 549-5154.

$50 for Jan.-on bus rt. in Bel. call 323-7024.

2 Br. fur. apt. B. Manor Dec.23-Jan.26. 253-2400.

1 bedrm. $180 inc. util. 665-2512.

Spg sem 2bdrm Cliffside Apt 665-4107.

1 Bdrm. Apt.- in Sunderland on bus rte. $195. includes utls. Jan.-Aug. 665-3228.

1 Bdrm. in 2 Bdrm. Brandywine. End of Dec. Free, dogs ok. 546-7009 Jim or Misha.

1 bdrm apt in Sunderland, clean, mod. full kit. and bath, on bus line, immed. occupancy $180-u. & ht.

TO SUBLET

1 or 2 females for room in 2 bedroom Brandywine apt. Call 549-1096 after 7 pm.

Apt mate; intersess; kp trying; Jan; 253-7056.

Apt mate; 253-7056; spring; keep trying; Jane.

WANTED

Nonsmoking female to share 2bdrm. apt. in So. Amherst. 122.+ 256-8752 bus, pool.

1 or 2 fem. wanted to share bedroom in 2 bedroom apt. on bus line. $90. + utilities. Call Dottie 549-6416 or 545-3500.

Furniture! Table, chairs, sofabed, doublebed, and desk. Call Kathy 6-9499.

F. Rmate wtd., nonsmkr. $70. mth. 549-2804.

1 Male Wanted to share apt. near Pufftn w 3 other people during spr. sem. Room avail. during Jan. too. Call 549-5978.

Qualified Tutor needed for Chem.III. Spring sem.-exc. pay. Call 546-5613.

F rmate wanted in Brandywine 549-5951.

Wanted: would to buy a double mattress. 546-5233 Karen (after 5).

1 Fem. wanted for next sem. Own rm. $98./mo. plus eclec. In Puffton Vil. Call 549-4866 eves, ask for Nancy or Lily.

Area musisian seeks deadheads, nostalgia freaks and people into recording. Open up. Dwight, 253-3938.

Female to share spacious 2br. N Amherst. 132.50 incl util., Sec. Dep. 549-2652, 3768.

WANTED TO RENT

Room for rent in a house. 1 mile from campus. $101./month. Call Chris, 549-0720.

ROOM WANTED

Room for Jan. near campus. Ed 546-1159.

RIDE WANTED

To Detroit MI mid-December or after call Gisela 253-9961 or 256-6825.

RIDERS WANTED

Calif 12/21 strt thru Keith 659-3523.

HELP WANTED

Student Intern for Transitional Residence in Holyoke. Supervision and weekly stipend to be provided. Six month commitment. Sent resume to Office, 450 Maple Street,Holyoke, Ma. 01040.

For next semester. Small sorority needs kitchen, diningroom workers for lunch, Dinner. Work 5 meals, eat 7. Call 549-1587.

Pro Music Service - Best in rock thru disco, Monitor Music, 546-4731, Rea.

Help 20,000 UMIES get a better education by helping to gather teacher evaluations in your classes to be published by the Student Senate. Please contact Joe Connoly 545-0341, 665-2297, or Mike Brennan 5-2415.

SERVICES

PHOTOGRAPHY: Passport and application photos done. Portraits in time for Christmas B&W or color service instruction by arrangement. Reasonable prices for high quality work. Contact: Steven 546-9653 nights only.

Original designs by Randy Glenn. Custom made tunics to your design or my own. Prices start at $25 includes fabric and any designs printed. Call 549-4458/ask for Randy Glenn or leave message. 3 day service.

Nothing to do over intersession? Come on down to Daytona with us. Beachfront hotel with color TV A C phone, the work all this and roundtrip busfare on a luxury motorcoach for only $147.20 quad occupancy. For info and reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

Big bands to disco. Call Bob the DJ at 14135366075. Still the one after 4 years.

Theses typed: call Melanie, 253-7553.

Volvo repairs and maintenance. All years and models low prices. Jack 586-0610.

After Five professional typing 734-0044.

AUDIO

MAC-MA230-$185. Dyna-FM-3-$60. Advent 201 & tapes-$200, Call Ken 546-4035.

Advent 201-tapedeck asking $200 549-6318.

CALCULATORS

College Calculators offers low prices & full service. All models avail. Texas Instruments 59 $235., 58 $94.95, 57 $62.95, 51 $47.95. HP's & Commodore's avail. models from $15. Remember, we service all calculators we sell. Before you buy anywhere else, call Bob or Chris at College Calculators 549-1316.

LOST

Lost one necklace: gold chain with small brown stone-topaz-pendant. Reward offered. Please contact Elise Cocke, 586-0918.

TRAVEL

Seen enough snow? Wanna get into the sun? Come down to Daytona with us. We are leaving on Dec. 26 for 9 days on the beach. $147.20 takes care of it all. And includes roundtrip fare accomodations on the beach and a trip to Disneyworld. For reservation and more info call David Day at 546-7845.

Daytona Beach is only $147.20 away. You can now afford to go to a beachfront hotel, have Disneyworld and New Years in Florida. For more info or reservations call David Day at 546-7845.

PERSONALS

Short people usually got nobody but Mony thank God we have you Happy BDay Love El, Babs, Carol, Kev, Rob, Di, Lyn, Ron.

Micky, you are my love, my life, my everything! May we continue to grow in love. Happy 3rd anniversary. Y.G.L.

APHRODITE, I love you more than any other woman, but it hurts. Love ADONIS.

Opal on gold chain Fri. nite sentimental value. Reward. Ellen 545-0162, 2092.

Goosie Be at peace and be happy...Candles in the rain. JT.

J H G Esquire? Get a tan for me too. Have a happy. Love NW.

Looking for a home? Sigma Kappa Sorority seeks boarders for spring. Friendly, homey, 3 meals/day, comparable to University costs. Call 256-6887.

Nance y Marth? Felice Navidad! Love NW.

Susan, happy 21st Birthday. May your living the life of Riley bring you a year of excitement and peace of mind. Have a happy one! Love Donna & Suanne.

BG — I'm a hog for you. PM (JRjr).

Hamp.Col. Amy lets play tennis. Bruce 253-9328.

CLASSES

Tired of crowds? Being a number? Be yourself! Greenfield Community College has openings for spring semester. Minutes away with miles of difference. 1,400 students can't be wrong! 12/13/77, Concourse Campus Center.

T.L.C.'s our specialty. Small classes quality education, low cost. Someone you know is a GCC grad. Ask about us, see us 12/13/77 on the Concourse Campus Center. Greenfield Community College. We have openings for spring.

INSTRUCTION

Hypnosis for Finals. Make retention & recall easier, improve concentration & relaxation for exams, get better grades. Campus Center M.W.Th. at 7,8,&9P.M. $5 session. Dorm groups by arrgt. Call Mr. Morse Hypnotist Consultant-M.Ed. 532-5703.

REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! REACH 25,000 READERS DAILY!!!! Little Ads Get BIG RESULTS!!!!

Celtics invade Hartford

The Boston Celtics will be returning to the Hartford Civic Center tomorrow night at 7:30.

The Nets, featuring high-scoring Kevin Porter, most recently defeated the Washington Bullets, 106-95.

The Celts are in the midst of one of their worst starts in several years, as they are 8-16. The Nets trail the Green in the NBA's Atlantic Division with a 5-22 slate.

Tickets for the game are available, and are on sale for $6.50, $8 and $9, at the Civic Center box office and at all Ticketron outlets.

the area to play the New Jersey Nets at forward Bernard King and shifty guard

Grapplers drop match; Harvard ekes out win

By STEVE BUCKLEY
Collegian Staff

One point. One lousy point.

The UMass wrestling team ventured to Cambridge this weekend for a meet with Harvard University and came out on the short end of a heartbreaking 21-20 loss.

Going into the last match, UMass trailed 21-17 and needed a superior decision from heavyweight John Allen to tie the score; and although the freshman from New York demolished his opponent he could not come up with the necessary eight point margin of victory for the decision and the Minutemen could only get three team points in the match.

"It was a tough loss to take," said coach Dave Amato. "Allen really came back strong in the last match and he almost pulled us through."

UMass started the scoring as Dana Rasmussen (118 pounds) won 13-1 to give the team a 4-0 lead, and Tony Perry tied his match at 126 pounds to put the tally at 6-2.

At 134 pounds Larry Otsuka continued his winning ways with a hard-fought 6-3 win, and Charley Rigoglioso won 9-3 in the 142 pound class to put UMass ahead 12-2.

Harvard came back with wins at 150 and 158 pounds to close the gap at 12-10, but UMass co-captain Kevin Griffin walloped Crimson matman Jon Franklin 18-4 to give the Minutemen some short-lived breathing room.

Harvard grabbed the lead to stay as Ed Bordley pinned Steve Whitman in the 177-pound category and Sal D'Agostino beat Bob Clark at 190 pounds.

Allen's 14-7 victory gave UMass three points for a final score of 21-20.

Ironically, UMass won more matches in the meet; winning five, losing four, and tying one, but Harvard made their wins count by picking up six points on Bordley's pin and five points each in the 158 and 190 classes.

Wrestling notes — Harvard coach David Lee sang the praises of the UMass team, noting that five Minutemen grapplers won matches.

"Allen was just fantastic," said Lee. "Otsuka looks like he's improved 100 per cent over last year and their two lightweights (Rasmussen and Perry) have a lot of promise. I think Griffin is their best wrestler, though."

Coach Lee was not the only coach who complimented the UMass team, however.

Shelly Goldberg, a former New England champion and UMass graduate, who is now head wrestling coach at Boston College, was in attendance.

"Amato really did his homework," said Goldberg. "He went out and got some really good prospects with no recruiting money. I think they have the talent to be a real power in the next couple of years.

"I'm really impressed with the job Amato has done. He's worked very hard to improve the program and I hope the people down at Boyden are noticing."

Amato's squad will report back to UMass around Jan. 3 for workouts. The team will have a tight schedule next semester, but Amato the outspoken native of Warwick, Rhode island, seems to have won the respect and admiration of his players, which will be important down the stretch.

Now if he can only win some meets ...

The junior varsity team took its second win in a row Saturday, beating Harvard 18-15. Gary Rotatori, Mike Mitrowski, and Fred Rheault provided the UMass scoring.

Hockey club

By GARDE WELLS
Collegian Staff

The purpose of the UMass Hockey Club is "to provide any graduate or undergraduate student or faculty member of UMass the opportunity to play organized hockey. This opportunity shall be open to men and women of any ability," according to club president Dustin M. Burke.

The club is designed for intramural competition in ice hockey for separate male and female divisions. There are currently 16 teams (two female) with rosters of between 11 and 16 players.

"Like so many others, I was disappointed upon my arrival at UMass last winter to find little or no ice hockey opportunity below the college varsity level," Burke said.

The main problems facing the Club are funds and transportation.

"We need to raise a great deal of money, all of which so far is student earnings," he said.

Each team has set up car pools. RSO vans are available for a $2 service charge and 15 cents a mile.

Most games are played at Williston Academy Arena in Easthampton and at the Fitzpatrick Memorial Rink in Holyoke.

The Club's ultimate goal is to get a rink on campus.

"Every state university in New England has a hockey rink except for UMass, the largest university in the region," he complained.

"Naturally, the best way to force the issue is for us to grow in number, and as the word gets out, we'll become more viable."

When you are the best,
you will look the best.

Ye Curling Iron

TRIANGLE STREET
AMHERST, MASS
(413) 549-4412

257 MAPLE ST
HOLYOKE, MASS
(413) 536-3153

The Hideout

MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL DELIVERY SPECIAL

Buy any two small combo pizzas and get a small plain pizza FREE!

256-0441

POSITION AVAILABLE

The GRADUATE STUDENT SENATE is electing a new VICE PRESIDENT on Tuesday, December 13, at 7 P.M. in room 168-170 Campus Center. The position is for next semester, pays $1200, and carries with it a tuition waiver.

Any graduate student may run for this position. Duties include a minimum commitment of about 12 hours of work a week in the Senate office and regular attendance at weekly Senate meetings

Interested parties should contact the Graduate Senate office by phone (5-2896) or in person(919 Campus Center) and be prepared to attend the December 13 meeting.

Graduate Student Senate does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, sexual or affectional preference, color, age, handicap, marital status, national origin, or ancestry.

---

DOONESBURY by Garry Trudeau

JOANIE, I WON'T BE IN IN THE MORNING. I'VE GOT ANOTHER EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT DEBATE AT TEN..
WITH WHOM, LACEY?
12-12
OUR OLD FRIEND, PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY!
SCHLAFLY? BOY, YOU HAVE YOUR WORK CUT OUT FOR YOU! I HOPE YOU KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING!
WHAT DO YOU MEAN, DEAR?
LACEY, SCHLAFLY'S NOT EXACTLY A BIG FAN OF THE FACTS! AND SHE'S VERY HARD TO PIN DOWN! AREN'T YOU NERVOUS AT ALL?
NERVOUS? DEAR, I INTEND TO HAVE THE WOMAN FOR BREAKFAST!
OH. WELL, CALL IN WHEN IT'S OVER, ANYWAY, OKAY?
© 1977 G. B. Trudeau
UNIVERSAL PRESS SYNDICATE
GBTrudeau

B.C. by Johnny Hart

AAAAAAAAARRRRRGGGG
GGHHHH
12-12
hart

PEANUTS by Charles Schulz ®

AND I FOUND THE BOX OF GOLD STARS IN MISS TENURE'S WASTEBASKET
I'M GLAD EVERYTHING TURNED OUT ALL RIGHT FOR YOU, SIR...
12-12
SNOOPY DID WELL SITTING AT YOUR DESK, TOO..
© 1977 United Feature Syndicate, Inc
HE GOT A STAR ON HIS TEST!
AAUGH!
SCHULZ

WALLY DORF by Rob Ranney

Aw, @#☆! It's snowing. I might as well go in.
Yipes!
Slip!
thwat!
I don't see how anyone survives these winters.
Ranney 12/12

THE WANDERER by Mark Rollins

THE GLOWING SPHERE BEGINS TO DISSOLVE, REVEALING A SOMEWHAT BEDRAGGLED DENNIS.
I'M GLAD MY IDEA TO TURN OFF THE LIFTING GENERATOR OF THE SUIT WORKED AFFIRMATIVE. ONCE THE SUIT WASN'T IN FLIGHT, THE SHIELDS CAME INTO PLAY.
THIS SHOULD SERVE TO SHOW YOU THAT NO MACHINE CAN EVER REPLACE A HUMAN; OR IN YOUR CASE, YOUR CREATORS.
HE RECEIVES NO ANSWER.
ROLLINS 12-12
APPROACHING THE PORTAL, DENNIS IS ORDERED TO SET DOWN.
URGENT!! LAND SO THE SHIELDS CAN BE ACTIVATED; WE ARE ALMOST WITHIN THE WEAPON RANGE.

UM by Marty Maceda

IT'S CHRISTMAS TIME AGAIN!
BABY BRAT PUNK
THE DOLL THAT DOES EVERYTHING A HUMAN BABY DOES — AND MORE!!!
THAT'S RIGHT MOM AND DAD.
THIS CUTE LITTLE TYKE HAS BEEN SPECIALLY DESIGNED TO SIMULATE ALL OF THOSE ADORABLE LITTLE BIOLOGICAL FUNCTIONS OF A REAL TODDLER (INCLUDING THE HARD TO GET SPIT UP) PLUS!!!
A REVOLUTIONARY NEW COMPUTER DEVELOPEMENT ENABLES THIS DOLL TO REACT UNEXPECTABLY AT THE WORST POSSIBLE TIMES.
ANOTHER DISGUSTING Chemco Toy
JACK DANIELS
SO REALISTIC YOU MAY THROW AWAY YOUR KIDS!
MACEDA 12-12

ALUMINUM FOIL by Steve Lafler

GERALD, BENB, AND KNOOT ARE AT A SEMI-FORMAL. THEY HAVE SNUCK AWAY FROM THEIR DATES TO GET HIGH!
PHOOT!
WHEN GERALD TAKES A HIT, HE INHALES THE JOINT BY MISTAKE!
FFFFHHIP!
YAAAEEG! IT'S BURNIN' ME UP!
12/12
LAFLER

NOTE: KNOOT LOOKS LIKE HELAY, AGE FORTY

Your Birthday

By Stella Wilder

MONDAY, DECEMBER 12 — Born today, you are a leader by instinct, if perhaps not by training and opportunity. You are also a very good follower, and this may hinder the fulfilment of your leadership ambitions. You know how to take orders, hwo to anticipate and provide in advance for needs. You will always receive high praise from superiors, and this may encourage you to follow and to neglect the development of your qualities for leadership.

You are not eager to take other people's word for things. Rather, you like to find things out for yourself, even though it may retrace others' steps. You enjoy learning and will always find it exciting and interesting to be involved in new projects. You obviously love a challenge and will only rarely back away from a difficult pathway to a much-desired goal.

You are deeply affectionate, yet reluctant to show this. Only small children and animals can be sure of receiving a smile and a pat of affection; all others may actually get the feeling that they are being ignored as you attempt to keep your feelings to yourself.

To see what is in store for you tomorrow, find your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 13

SAGITTARIUS(Nov.22-Dec.21) — Objections to taking a back seat for the day's action will be fruitless. Swim with the tide.

CAPRICORN(Dec.22-Jan.19) — This is a good day for remaining back with the pack. If you wish leadership, prepare to fight for it.

AQUARIUS(Jan.20-Feb.18) — A major objection to your plan causes distress. Don't let yourself become overly emotional.

PISCES(Feb.19-March 20) — Look around you for encouragement about your circumstances. You should be relatively well off.

ARIES(March 21-April 19) — You should be pleased by another's success today. Don't be alarmed if your progress slows a bit.

TAURUS(April 20-May 20) — Calm one who appears to be in emotional turmoil early in the day. Don't hold back aid.

GEMINI(May 21-June 20) — Bring your involvement in others' affairs into the open. This is a good time for an honest confession.

CANCER(June 21-July 22) — What is good for the "goose" may not be good for the "gander" today. Don't follow another absolutely.

LEO(July 23-Aug.22) — If you accept things at face value you will be both disappointed and pleasantly surprised. Take your choice!

VIRGO(Aug.23-Sept.22) — Curiosity may get the better of discretion this morning. Prepare to explain yourself at evening.

LIBRA(Sept.23-Oct.22) — Work directly toward your objective. Don't take shortcuts or the long way around. Be aggressive and direct.

SCORPIO(Oct.23-Nov.21) — Offer advice only at another's urging. Otherwise, don't mind another's affairs. Set new goals at evening.

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc

Today's Crossword

ACROSS

1 Eisaku ----: Japanese premier
5 Formal poem
9 Restrain
14 Man's name
15 Biblical word of reproach
16 N. Amer. lake
17 Compared opinions
19 Ammonia compound: Prefix
20 Fed the pot
21 Most stylish
23 Gazed slyly
25 Sober
26 Slugger ---- Slaughter
28 Dwarflike creatures
32 Acrobatic trick
37 Weighty
38 Honor card
39 Single-master
41 Permit
42 Muhammadan decree
45 Unfaithful ones: Slang
48 Reply
50 Assured of success
51 Ground cover
54 Different: Prefix
58 Spread
62 Caravansary
63 Gibson ingredient
64 The PGA tour: 2 words
66 Remain valid
67 Push forward with caution
68 Being: Latin
69 Money savers
70 Eject
71 Transfer property

DOWN

1 Part of a state: Abbr.
2 Unequaled
3 French relative
4 Presented
5 "To --- is human"
6 Companion: Slang
7 Wine buckets
8 West Pointer
9 Pursuing
10 Cigar container
11 Great Lakes port
12 Pen inmates
13 Speed unit
18 Paradises
22 Sink downward
24 Specks
27 Sodium chloride
29 Mannish
30 At all times
31 ---- a record
32 Narrow margin
33 River of Peru
34 Deft
35 Immediately
36 Destiny
40 Ancient Egypt. deity
43 Mild oath
44 Delivery trips
46 That is: Latin
47 Measured out
49 Mariner: Informal
52 Symptoms
53 Prying person
55 Wipe away
56 Increase
57 Lubricated
58 Ground cover
59 Rectangular pier
60 100 dinars
61 If not
65 --- Line: Radar system

UNITED Feature Syndicate

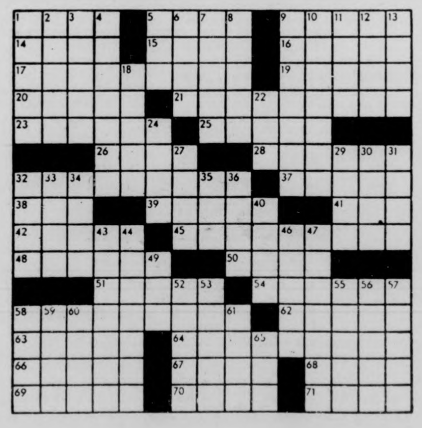
Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

| | | | | | | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| A | R | E | T | E | | A | P | P | A | L | | A | M | P |
| N | I | C | E | R | | T | R | A | D | E | | B | A | R |
| A | M | O | N | G | | T | O | T | E | M | P | O | L | E |
| | | N | E | S | T | E | R | | | A | I | D | E | S |
| S | C | O | T | | O | S | A | G | E | | N | E | S | S |
| T | A | M | | S | E | T | T | E | R | S | | | | |
| E | L | I | T | E | | | A | R | G | U | M | E | N | T |
| E | L | E | A | N | O | R | | M | O | R | A | V | I | A |
| P | A | S | T | O | R | A | L | | | F | R | A | T | S |
| | | | | R | E | C | I | P | E | S | | N | E | T |
| L | A | M | A | | S | E | T | U | P | | S | E | R | E |
| A | L | I | B | I | | | U | R | I | A | H | S | | |
| R | E | M | E | M | B | E | R | S | | L | O | C | A | L |
| D | U | E | | P | U | R | G | E | | I | R | E | N | E |
| S | T | S | | S | T | A | Y | S | | T | E | S | T | S |



1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18 19 20 21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28
29
30
31
32
33
34
35
36
37
38
39
40
41
42
43
44
45
46
47
48
49
50
51
52
53
54
55
56
57
58
59
60
61
62
63
64
65
66
67
68
69
70
71

Icemen tip BoState; Merrimack next foe

By GEORGE O'BRIEN
Collegian Staff

"It certainly wasn't a classic, but it was a win, and that's what counts," was hockey coach Jack Canniff's comment after his Minutemen managed to scratch out a tough 5-3 victory Saturday night over the Warriors of Boston State before a crowd of 150 at Orr Rink.

The win was the second in a row for the Minutemen, who are now 3-5. The pucksters have one game left before intersession, that with ECAC Division II champ Merrimack. If UMass wins, it will be 4-5, putting the Minutemen in good shape to start the second half of the year.

The Boston contest was a must win for the Minutemen, and the best way to describe their performance is to say they played only as good as they had to. They played sloppy, mediocre defense for most of the game, and squandered away countless scoring chances. They had the big play when they needed it though, and came up with a win.

The Minutemen cam out smoking early in the first period, and it looked for a while that they might have an easy time of it.

Co-Captain Bob White put UMass up 1-0 just 17 seconds into the game when he knocked a loose puck underneath Boston goalie Paul Tuccelli. The Minutemen took a two goal lead at 8:35, when Don Murphy circled the net and passed the puck out in front, where Bill White scooped it up and beat Tuccelli to the low left side.

The Minutemen then slowed down a bit, and the momentum shifted to Boston State. The Warriors put the heat on John Riley, and with only a minute and a half left in the period, scored a power play goal. With two Minutemen in the penalty box, Bill Curley slid the puck under a sprawled out Riley to make it 2-1.

In the second period, the Minutemen played sluggish, sloppy hockey that almost led to disaster. Yet, when the period ended, the pucksters had a bigger lead than they went in with.

Both teams started slow in the second period, but there were lots of good scoring chances for each team. The Minutemen had two power play opportunities but could not capitalize. The Warriors took advantage of spotty defense, and put pressure on Riley, who had to make several good stops.

Boston finally broke the ice at 14:11, when they tied the game on a power play goal. With Bill White in the box for boarding, James Murphy stole a careless pass in the UMass end and fed it to Jim Barret who beat Riley with a low wrist shot.

The Minutemen continued to put a lot of pressure on Tuccelli, and at 17:11, finally hit pay dirt. Only seconds after a Warrior penalty expired, Billy Estes knocked the puck in to give the Minutemen the lead again. The Minutemen continued to press, and with only one second left in the period, picked up a two goal lead when Joey Milan scored an unassisted talley, with the Warriors short handed.

In the third period, Boston carried the play in the early going and again drew to within a goal. At 32 seconds of the period, Curley scored his second goal of the game, a 15 foot wrist shot that beat Riley to the right side.

Boston continued to control the game, picking up several good scoring opportunities, but failing to take advantage.

Midway through the period the Minutemen picked up the momentum, and played, in the last 10 minutes, perhaps the best hockey of the year. They played excellent defense, and kept the puck in the Warrior end, putting all kinds of pressure on Tuccelli.

At 16:31 they finally cashed in picking up the insurance goal they needed, when Estes scored his second goal of the game. Estes took a nice pass from T.J. O'Brien, and beat Tuccelli with a high backhander.

Canniff was not overjoyed with his team's performance, but was happy to come out with a win. "It looked like we were skating in peanut butter for the first 2½ periods," said Canniff.

The Minutemen will end the first half of their season tonight at Volpe Center when they play Merrimack. All that needs be said about Merrimack is that they are experienced, deep and very tough.

The Warriors, coached by J Thom Lawler, were 23-2-1 last year in Division II, and went on to win the Division title, beating Union in the final.

The Warriors lost their leading scorer, Jim Crouse and All-ECAC Division II defenseman Paul Dunn to graduation, but they are still very deep, with 17 returning lettermen.

The team is led offensively by forward Jim Toomy, who scored 21 goals last year and was ECAC Division II Rookie of the Year. On

TURN TO PAGE 14

Mermen dunk Boston U

By MARK MARCHAND
Collegian Staff

BOSTON — The UMass men's swim team remained undefeated Saturday as it picked up its second consecutive meet victory with a 79-32 win over Boston University here.

"They (BU) are a weak team and we knew that it would be pretty easy," said UMass coach Bei Melamed.

The Minutemen had two swimmers who were double winners Saturday as both Dave Hoffman and Bill Taylor registered wins in two events apiece.

Hoffman, a junior, won the 1000 yard freestyle with a time of 11:01.3 and paced the field in the 500 yard freestyle to the tune of a 5:18.0 time with teammate Tom Nowak finishing second.

Freshman sensation Bill Tyler sprinted to a win in the 50-yard freestyle in 22.3 and won the 200 yard butterfly when teammate Russ Yarworth, ahead at the time, was disqualified because of an illegal turn.

Yarworth wasn't without a win on the afternoon, though, as he easily won the 20-yard Individual Medley with a 2:05 pace.

Another impressive performance was turned in by sophomore Harry Fulford who, for the second meet in a row, turned in a speedy time while winning the 200-yard breaststroke. Fulford sets a new personal high for himself with his time of 2:23.4 and seems to be improving with each successive meet.

"The performances of both Harry Fulford and Dave Hoffman impressed me," said Melamed.

In both the diving events, the Minutemen had little trouble with Dan Conley winning the one-meter competition and Jim Antonino winning on the three-meter board. Along with freshman Dan Anthony, the three UMass divers present a formidable diving trio and should be scoring a lot more points when the season picks up again after intersession.

Other Minuteman winners included Bob DeConnick who won the 200-yard freestyle and Jim Leland who garnered the top spot in the 200-yard backstroke. In addition, the medley relay team of Leland, Fulford, Nowak and Pete Ziomek won the 400-yard medley relay event.

The mermen now go into intersession with a clean 2-0 slate and will be working out until January 28 when they make the long trip to Maine to face the Black Bears of the University of Maine.

creative gifts
pillows are perfect!
Beautiful Handwoven Shawls in pure wool & silk
Till 9 P.M. & Sundays For the Holidays!
EJ EARTHWARES®
103 N. PLEASANT ST./AMHERST (413) 256-8810

½ mile past Watroba's on right
MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL
10 oz. DRAUGHTS 25¢
MIKE'S
BEER & DOG 50¢
EXTRA LONG DOGS 35¢
60 oz. PITCHER $1.50
Game of the Week

Openings for Student Judiciary Position

Positions are now available.

Interested Students should attend a meeting

on 12/13 at 3:00

in Room 404 Student Union

For more information call 5-2145

CHRISTMAS TREE
DECORATIONS
at
A.J Hastings
news dealer & stationier
45 S. Pleasant St. Amherst
stationer

BELL'S
PIZZA
65 University Drive
Free Delivery on Campus
Sun. - Thurs.
253-9051 549-1311
"The Bell of Amherst"

SOCIAL WORKERS • TEACHERS • PSYCHOLOGISTS
TIRED OF HEARING ABOUT NO JOBS AND NO SATISFACTION IN YOUR CHOSEN PROFESSION?
Well if you have a Hebrew background, we invite you to kiss that rut goodbye and say hello to Israel.
If you are a social worker (MSW, BSW), teacher or psychologist—or would like to be trained as a social worker, a most exciting and personally-rewarding career awaits you in the State of Israel.
Interviews will be conducted in the United States. Contact us immediately for pre-interview information session.
ISRAEL Aliyah CENTER
31 St. James Ave.
Park Square Bldg., Suite 450
Boston, Mass. 02116
Tel: (617) 423-0868 / 423-7491
There is much to be done by our generation in Israel. Let's stop talking and start doing.

Hoopwomen bomb Cats

By JIM GOMES
Collegian Staff

The imaginary lid on the basket which had plagued the UMass women's basketball team in its first three games disappeared Saturday afternoon as the Minutewomen defeated Vermont, 78-60, in what UMass coach Mary Ann Ozdarski termed "one of the finest games I have ever seen in women's basketball."

Sparked by Sue Peters who scored 33 points and Sue Henry who handed out 13 assists, UMass struck for eight unanswered points off the opening tap. UMass could not miss, forcing Vermont coach Jean Condon to call a time out with UMass leading, 16-5 with 14:45 left in the first half.

The Minutewomen continued their torrid shooting, forcing Vermont to switch to a 2-1-2 zone defense. The Catamount change in strategy only compounded their dilemma as UMass ran the fast break to perfection. Three layups by UMass ballooned the lead to 34-19. UMass took a 42-27 lead into the dressing room after Sue Peters scored on a 'levitation lay up' to close out the first half.

Ozdarski's game plan was working to perfection. Cathy Harrington, who started in place of the injured Maura Supinski, played superb defense, causing the Catamounts leading scorer, 6'2" Gail McWilliam, to misfire repeatedly during the first half.

Harrington said, "Coach Ozdarski kept reminding me of my responsibility at every practice session."

The Minutewomen began the second half where they left off by engineering a 10-2 spurt highlighted by three Henry buckets. UMass penetrated the Vermont zone at will which was exemplified by Cheryl Carey's fadeaway four foot jumper with seven minutes gone in the second half.

Vermont continually substituted players in and out of the lineup trying to find a combination that could both put points on the board and stop the UMass running game. There would be no solutions to the Cat's woes as the Minutewomen increased the lead to 59-35.

Sue Murdoch and McWilliam, the Catamount's leading scorers with 20 and 16 points respectively, cut the UMass lead to 61-45 with 8:30 left in the game, but a 10 point run by the Minutewomen gave UMass a 71-45 lead and put the game on ice with 6:10 remaining.

"It was a super team effort," Ozdarski said. "Everyone contributed to this victory by doing their job. This win is a tribute to the way these kids can play. I can't give them enough credit."

The Minutewomen shot an excellent 58 per cent from the floor, while out-rebounding the taller Vermont team 50-24. Harrington and Ginny Peebles snared 18 and 10 rebounds respectively. Henry's 19 points and Carey's 15 point effort, along with Peter's 33 points led UMass in the scoring column.

Ozdarski attributed her team's performance on both ends of the court to its preparation in last week's practice sessions. "We worked hard on our shooting all week and it certainly paid off. Defensively, we knew we had to stop their big girls and our front line (Harrington, Peebles and Carey) did the job."

Vermont coach Condon, gracious in defeat, praised the UMass effort. "They played a super game. We played as hard as we could. Our shooting percentage was way down, which is a tribute to their defense."

UMass played the game with an added incentive, as Carey put it, "It was Maura's game, we wanted to win it for her." Carey was referring to injured forward Maura Supinski who dislocated her shoulder earlier in the week.

The UMass women's junior varsity team was not as fortunate, losing to the Catamount subvarsity 54-37. Coach Sue Walas said, "Cold shooting and missed shots off offensive rebounds hurt us in the beginning. We need to work on defense and the fast break to be more competitive."

The Minutewomen travel to New Britain, Connecticut to take on Central Connecticut in a 7:30 game tonight. Coach Ozdarski said her team will be taking on a small team that utilizes the fast break.

Sue Peters pumps one of her several field goals in action Saturday against Vermont. Sue scored 33 points, hitting 75 per cent of field attempts in leading her team to an impressive Yankee Conference victory.

Swimwomen tie BU

By LAURA FRANK
Collegian Staff

The UMass merwomen captured their first tie of the season, 65-65, on Saturday against Boston University.

The most outstanding swimmer for UMass was Deb Shwartz, who won the 500 yard freestyle with a time of 5:33.7 and also placed first in the 100 yard individual medley with a fast time of 1:07.1. But her best race was the 100 yard breaststroke. She not only finished first, but she swam the race in 1:14.5, which is the best time she has done in that event in three years.

The medley relay team of Kathy Jurcik, Shwartz, Celia Walsh, and Lise Hembrough swam a 2:00.0 for a first place finish.

In the 500 yard freestyle, Lynn Lutz finished third with a time of 5:48.9. Co-captain Hembrough placed third in the 100 yard freestyle, doing a 59.7, and also placed third in the 50 yard freestyle with a time of 26.8.

Jurcik won the 100 yard backstroke with a 1:07.0, and also placed first in the 50 yard backstroke. Her most outstanding race was the 50 yard butterfly in which she finished second with a time of 28.8. It was the first time she swam that event.

Walsh placed third in the 200 yard freestyle with a time of 2:11.7 and second in the 100 yard butterfly with a time of 1:06.7.

Boston University had excellent freestylers, which helped the Terriers immensely. They placed first and second in most of the freestyle events.

But, BU only had one diver, compared to three from UMass.

In the required diving event, Susie Strobel finished first with 135.15 points, Chris Bullard was second with 133.0 points, and Leslie Dunphy finished third with 121.05 points.

At that point the score of the meet was UMass 27, B.U. 25.

Co-captain Rachel Mack placed third in the 100 yard backstroke with a time of 1:10.4, and she also placed third in the 50 yard backstroke with a 32.4.

Maryanne Primavera swam her best time of the season doing a 1:18.8 in the 100 yard breaststroke and also placing third in the 100 individual medley with another best time of 1:11.1. She placed second in the 50 yard breaststroke with a time of 35.8. Alix Denhartog placed third in the 50 yard breaststroke with a time of 37.2.

In the optional diving event, Bullard finished first, with Dunphy finishing second and Strobel in third place.

Sports Notice

A full WSI course will be offered at Hampshire College Pool January 4 to January 24 for five-college students. Each session will meet Mon. thru Fri. 1:30 to 4 p.m. Prereq. is current Advanced Lifesaving certification. There is no fee for the WSI course. Register with the secretary in North P.E. by Mon., Jan. 2. The course instructor is Esther Wallace, NOPE 105.

The rusty nail Inn
presents
MON., DEC. 12
ANDY MAY and the
TEXAS TABBY CRAB BAND
TUES., Dec. 13
LUNA
WED., Dec. 14
BAILEY BROS.
THURS., FRI. & SAT.
Dec., 15-16-17
MITCH CHAKOUR
and the MISSION BAND
Sunderland, MA.
Rte. 47 / Tel. 665-4937

rainbow prisms
A fine collection of hand cut strass quality crystal, high lead content and exquisite shapes project color and form when hung in a window. A perfect gift for your home, from $1.75 to $20.
Faces of Earth
Open 9:30 to 9 Mon.-Sat.
Sundays 1 to 5
Next to Amherst Post Office

Ideas for Xmas
Swiss army knives, 14 models from $7.50
Chamois Shirts, 4 colors—
X small to X large $14.95
100% goose down vest $31.95
Wool knit hats from $2.29
Down mittens from $14.95
Flannel shirts from $5.49
Corduroy shirts $9.95
Knapsacks from $5.98
The General's Place
35 E. Pleasant St.
Amherst 549-6168

PIZZARAMA
of Amherst 355 College St.
Open Sun-Thurs 11-1AM
Fri, Sat 11-2AM
For Fast FREE Delivery call 253-3808
Sun-Thurs 5PM to 1AM
Fri, Sat 5PM to 2AM
CALL 253-3808

Gymwomen upset Penn St

By LAURA BASSETT
Collegian Staff

"It was great, just terrific!", bubbled women's gymnastics coach Virginia Evans.

"It" was a 137.0 to 134.70 upset victory for the UMass gymwomen over arch-rivals Penn State. Up until this victory, the Lady Lions held a three year skein of consecutive victories over their Minutewomen counterparts.

This double dual Curry Hicks Cage encounter was the first competition of the season for both women's teams and it showed. Most of the routines had rough edges but sparks of future greatness gleamed through for both teams.

Keying the win were strong performances by the UMass all around gymnasts. Stephanie Jones won the all around event with a total of 36.05 points for four events. Jones received a 9.0 on a very impressive Sukahara vault, a 9.15 for her uneven parallel bar routine despite a fall on her forward sommersault between the high and low bars. Jones scored an 8.7 for the second highest score on the balance beam and a 9.2 for her floor exercise.

Coach Evans was very pleased with Jones' performances against Penn State. "Jones looked very strong and appears to be well on her way to a 37 point total which is excellent," said Evans.

Senior Susan Cantwell finished third in the all around competition just behind PSU's Ann Carr with a 35.1 total. Cantwell had a sparkling performance on the beam where she received a 9.2 score, totally outdistancing all other competitors.

"Sue appears to be finishing up very strongly in her senior year which is unusual for gymnastics," said Evans.

In the other events, Cantwell received a 8.6 in vaulting, an 8.5 on the bars, and she is currently perfecting a new mount and dismount, and 8.8 on the floor.

Carr, the reigning national champion, edged Cantwell by one tenth of a point to finish second in the all around competition with a 35.20 total. Carr and her teammates appeared to be solidifying new routines during this phase of the season. Last year's third placing at the AIAW championships shows the potential is definitely there for the Lady Lions.

Karen Hemberger scored a 33.85 in four events. Evans was "really impressed" with Hemberger's Sukahara vault which earned a 9.2 for top honors in the event. Hemberger missed a front sommersault on the bars and ran into rhythm problems on the balance beam which lowered her scores.

Coleen Thornton was the fourth all around competitor for the Minutewomen. She finished with a 31.15 point total. Thornton contributed to event scores on the balance beam with a score of 8.35.

"I'm satisfied for now," said Evans. "We definitely have areas which need improvement. We haven't peaked yet, but it was a great victory."

The Minutewomen have not seen the last of the Lady Lions however. While the victory gave the UMass gymwomen a tremendous boost, the loss also gave Penn State the incentive to work harder. In March the Lady Lions will have their chance for revenge, but the Minutewomen will be stronger, too by the time the Eastern Regionals roll around.

UMass All-American gymnast Susan Cantwell, shown here performing on the balance beam, finished second in the all-around competition on Saturday. (Staff photo by Dave Rodgers)

Collegian Sports

Hoopmen dismember Catamounts, 73-57

By RICH ECKEL
Collegian Staff

Mark Haymore played his first game at the Cage Saturday night and he made it a memorable occasion.

The 6-8 junior hit eight of nine shots — including five rim shaking dunks — for 16 points to lead the UMass basketball team to a convincing 73-57 victory over Vermont in the team's first home game of the season.

Haymore, who is now shooting better than 80 per cent from the floor after the Minutemen's first four games, ignited his team and the boistrous crowd of 4200 with his maneuvering under the basket.

"I just wanted to play well," said the soft spoken junior," and things worked out alright." But what about the dunks — has UMass found a new 'Doctor of Dunk'? "Inside. That's my game....it's the surest shot."

"We haven't seen the best of Mark Haymore yet," said UMass coach Jack Leaman, "but this was definitely his best effort of the year."

UMass found itself trailing 7-6 in the early going, but then rattled off a 20 to one spurt in seven minutes and never looked back again.

After baskets by Mike Pyatt, Alex Eldridge and two foul shots by Derick Claiborne opened up a five point lead for UMass, Haymore went to work. In the span of four minutes, he scored twelve of his team leading 16 points, interrupted only by a Greg Davis foul shot. Brad Johnson added a jumper at the end of the scoring string and UMass held a 26-8 lead at 8:39.

The Minutemen, now 4-0, defeated the previously unbeaten Catamounts (4-1) by capitalizing on what Vermont coach Peter Salzberg termed "scramble situations."

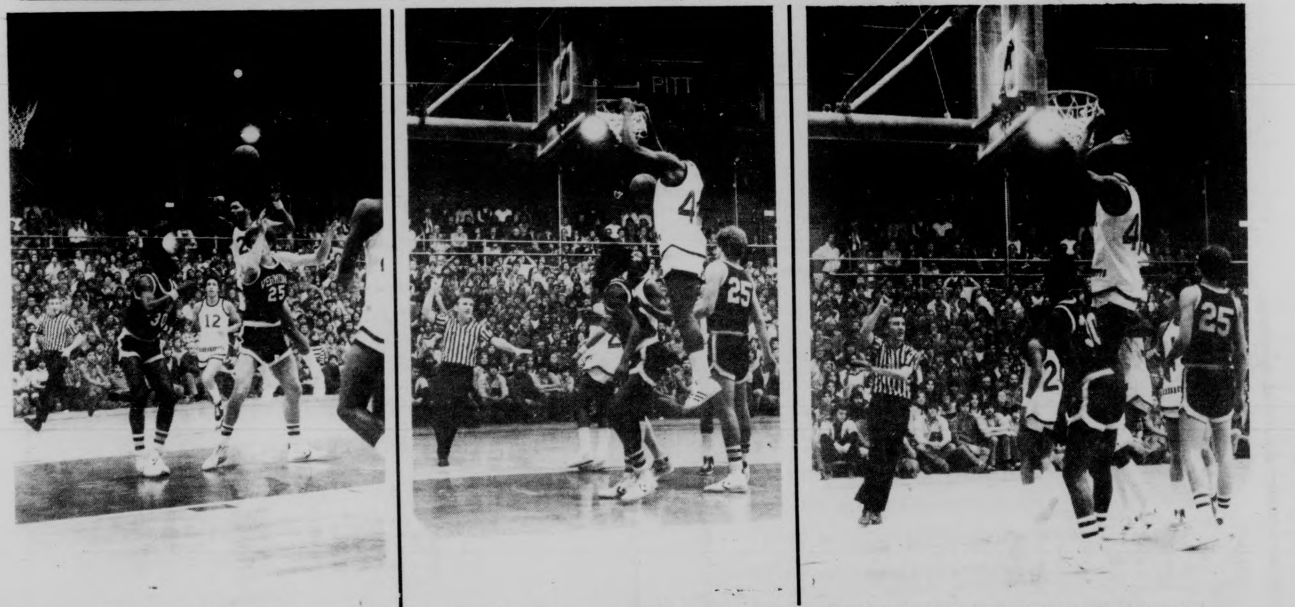
"We don't have the raw physical talent to play in spurts," informed the coach. "We didn't play for 40 minutes and if we don't against a team as talented as UMass we're going to lose."

Incredibly, Vermont still found itself in the ballgame, at the half, after shooting a paltry 27 per cent, and trailed by just 13, 39-26, entering the second stanza.

But, any hopes of a comeback for the Catamounts vanished quickly, when Haymore opened the second half scoring with another crowd pleasing dunk after a perfect feed from Pyatt. Although he scored just 10 points, Pyatt played unselfishly on offense setting up three of Haymore's dunk shots by looking for the open man underneath and finished with a game high five assists.

With UMass utilizing its inside game, and Claiborne and Eldridge controlling the tempo, the Minutemen opened their largest lead of the game 67-43 three fourths of the way through the second half.

TURN TO PAGE 14



ANATOMY OF A DUNK — Derick Claiborne (20, partially hidden) drives the lane and dishes off to Mark Haymore (r). Center, Claiborne is called for an offensive foul as Haymore goes up for the dunk, and (3rd frame) is assessed a technical foul for hanging on the rim. (Staff photos by Dave Rodgers)

---

Brief filed on Bakke

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Supreme Court has allowed the administration to file a brief saying the 1964 Civil Rights Act does not forbid special admissions programs like that challenged by Allan Bakke at the University of California.

The court has heard the "reverse discrimination" case and will decide it before the term ends in June.

Since the U.S. Justice Department was not a party to the case, the court's permission last week was necessary in order for government views to be considered.

The department agreed with the university that the bar to racial discrimination at institutions receiving federal funds does not affect the university's program at Davis, under which 16 of the 100 student openings are reserved for minorities.

The government said the law was available for Bakke's use but it did him no good. The university argued that he could not even invoke it.

$$$ award is reversed by high court

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The State Supreme Court has reversed an opinion by Brooke County Circuit Court that denied a $1,000 award to a victim of racial discrimination.

Acting on a complaint by Ms. Nora Coleman the state human rights commission had found the Pearlman Realty Agency guilty of racial discrimination when it refused to show her a house.

The commission ordered Pearlman to stop engaging in discriminatory practices, advertise its listings as being available to everyone, advise its employees of its new policy and pay $1,000 to Ms. Coleman for "humiliation, embarrassment, emotional and mental distress and loss of personal dignity."

Acting on Pearlman's appeal, Brooke County Circuit Court reversed the decision granting the award.

In overturning the lower court ruling last week, Justice Sam Harshbarger said the commission is entitled to award monetary compensation for damages other than out-of-pocket expenses "to secure compliance with the commission's order and to depress the discriminator's ambitions to repeat the misbehavior."

NUMMO NEWS
BREAK THE CHAIN OF OPPRESSION THROUGH UNITY
VOLUME 4 ISSUE 15
MONDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1977

Vorster scorns U.S. rap over 'no guilt' Biko ruling

THE FACE of Mrs. Ntsieki Biko, wife of Steve Biko, says it all after a South African magistrate ruled no one was responsible for the young man's death in prison. Mrs. Biko leaves court with her attorney, Shun Chetty.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Prime Minister John Vorster, scorning U.S. anger at a court decision clearing police in the death of black leader Steve Biko, says blacks have no place in South African politics.

Vorster, giving his first interview since his victory in general elections last week, also pledged a "drastic" crackdown on terrorism and efforts to stem any Marxist onslaught on his country.

His white minority government, he said, would be "foolish...to accept the (system) of one man, one vote...a political system that will ultimately lead to black rule in this country.

"The voters have said conclusively that this is not what they want," he said.

Vorster's hard stand came on the same day Pretoria's chief magistrate, Marinus Prins, ruled at the end of a 14-day inquest that no one was responsible through "acts or omissions" for Biko's death from brain injuries in a jail cell.

The United States said it was "shocked" at the verdict and that it was "inconceivable...that no one was responsible." A State Department spokesman said Biko's death "resulted from a system which permits gross mistreatment in violation of the most basic human rights."

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim expressed "shock and dismay." A British member of Parliament called the ruling "outrageous" and said the Biko family should "fear for their lives."

Police arrested Biko's brother, Kaya; his cousin, Solomon, and at least 11 other relatives and friends, including two priests, in pre-dawn raids on their homes in the black township of Soweto hours before the verdict was read.

A Biko family lawyer, Shun Chetty, said he was told the arrests "had something to do with pamphlets" but that no charges had been filed.

A state department spokesman said he expected these events to produce increasing pressure in Congress for sterner economic sanctions against South Africa, but added, "I don't look for any official action to step up the American sanctions."

U.S. officials said no further economic moves were planned, partly because American corporations and banks have been taking effective voluntary action to cut the level of their investments in South Africa.

Total American investment and loans to Africa is believed to amount to about $4 billion.

Among other actions, Polaroid Corp. has announced it will stop all trading with South Africa and General Motors, Control Data and Seagrams have announced they have dropped their plans for expanding their investment in that nation.

Ideological Analysis of the N. B. S. A.

The National Black Student Associations congress meeting this weekend, meets in a time of historical legacy. It meets in time of a serious nine year movement lull after a fifteen year period of the highest level of mass activism in the history of the black liberation struggle.

While many of us now know of the outward approach of the FBI COINTELPRO program to destroy the black liberation movement, few of us know of its internal plan that lead to mass ideological confusion in the movement that continues until this very day.

What we as students of social change must do is learn from the mistakes of the past so that we don't repeat them in the present and future. One of the failures of the black liberation movement of the 1960's was to give a clear ideological or theoretical perspective, dialectically, of how liberation would be won.

Presently, most groups agree that liberation cannot be won short of a socialist revolution in the U.S. But the burning question is how do we as a people move to that point and what are we to achieve by such a revolution.

Revolution does not provide us with easy answers. One must do serious thinking and studying if we are revolutionary. If a black student-person is a revolutionary he-she must seriously study the development of U.S. society. The U.S. has developed more uniquely than most European capitalist societies and therefore revolution in this country has its own unique characteristics. This paper is too short to fully discuss these characteristics so we encourage study groups and ideological institute to study them.

One question we must answer this weekend for the organization to take a clear perspective is whether our people are an oppressed national minority or whether we are an oppressed nation of a unique type, with unique characteristics.

This outline addresses itself to say that New Africans (Africans enslaved in the U.S.) are a domestic colony — a captive nation held in colonial bondage. For 400 years the New African tilled the land in the South (particularly the black belt; a region of black majority running from Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina), living up until the last 30 years as a sharecropper — peasant. Most of these years the New African was living in an agrarian situation and until the last ten years had no redress in the political system. What is the condition today?

Nearly five million Black people live in the black belt area today, comprising about 20 per cent of the black population of the entire country and about 43 per cent of the Black population of the entire South. About 4.5 million Black people in the South live in rural areas and small towns, and most of these are in the Black Belt. Also, on the average, Blacks are still a majority of the rural population in the Black Belt and a 30 per cent minority in the Black Belt's urban areas.

Under unique conditions of imperialist and racist oppression over the years Black people in the South have acquired all the attributes of an oppressed nation. We are a people set apart by a common ethnic origin, economically interrelated in various classes until the last 30 years had a common economic relationship to the land in the black belt, united by a common historical experience reflecting a special cultural and psychological makeup.

Akbar Muhammed Ahmed — center, and Nkrumah Olinga — left (photo by Edwin Patterson)

The black belt South is the area that today has the largest concentration of Black people. "Thus, imperialist oppression created the conditions for the eventual rise of a national liberation movement with its base in the South ... " The content of this movement would be the completion of the agrarian democratic revolution in the South, that is, the right of self determination as the guarantee of complete equality throughout the country.

TURN TO PAGE 3

'Get in the trenches blacks are advised

ATLANTA — Blacks have been advised by Dr. Cleveland Dennard, president of Atlanta University, to "get in the trenches" and prepare intellectually, ethically, morally and physically, "to meet the portion of responsibility that clearly rests with the black community."

Addressing a mainly black audience at the Hungry Club forum, Dr. Dennard warned that blacks must maintain a constant vigil to see that the gains they've made are not lost.

The history of blacks in America, he said, has included a series of gains and losses as "legal" definitions have been applied through the various branches of government to define who and what black people are.

"It has not been purely a matter of overcoming economic deprivation or cultural deprivation," said Dennard. "It has been the sharp realization of the enforcement of law—whether enacted by the legislative branch or proclaimed by the judicial body—that has kept the question for blacks unsettled."

It is in that framework that black families, churches, and colleges have sought to persevere despite the "swings of the pendulum," he noted.

"We are not at point where a new look must be taken at the broad bi-racial coalition that is needed to be sure that as the pendulum swings, and as laws are passed and judicial decisions are passed to wipe out those laws, that the gains made today will not be wiped away," he added.

He added that in the future, blacks must be sure to be a part of developing public policy, which means blacks must give support to black institutions, particularly black colleges.

Push made for minorities in criminal justice

WASHINGTON — Eight traditionally black colleges are offering degrees in criminal justice in a coordinated effort to increase minority employment in the nation's criminal justice system, a federal agency said last week.

Financed in part by a $1.2 million grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration the program is being administered by Positive Futures Inc. and coordinated by the State University of New York at Albany.

"We are encouraging blacks to get a criminal justice education and at the same time remove some of the barriers to minority participation in the field," said Hallem Williams, LEAA program director.

"The recruitment effort has been going very well," he said. "Student demand at several of the schools often is exceeding faculty resources."

Studies leading to a four-year degree in criminal justice began this fall at the eight colleges, he said.

They are Bishop College and Texas Southern University in Texas, Grambling State University in Louisiana, Mississippi Valley State University, Talladega College in Alabama, Fayetteville State University and Shaw University in North Carolina and Shaw College at Detroit.

The Portland, Ore., police department and the U.S. park police already have asked the schools to recommend recruits, Williams said.

"Despite this sort of response," he said, "We still have a long way to go."

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission said in 1975 that blacks made up 3.8 per cent of the professionals and 2.4 per cent of the officials and administrators in 2,303 state and local police units it surveyed.

If all employes are counted, including clerks, service and maintenance personnel, technicians and paraprofessionals, blacks made up 7.7 per cent, the commission said.

Williams said black communities suffered an economic loss estimated at $2.5 billion because of crime in 1975.

"What this means to us is that blacks have a continuing need to have something done about crime," Williams said. He said the program should provide "a very potent source of personnel and expertise for the criminal justice system."

Court rules that race is factor in adoptions

NEW ORLEANS — Adoption agencies have the right—and responsibility—to consider race when matching orphans with prospective parents, a federal court has ruled.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court last week denied a Georgia couple's appeal that a county adoption agency violated their rights by rejecting their application to adopt their 3-year-old racially mixed foster son.

Officials of the Fulton County Family and Children's Services Department admitted race was a factor in evaluating Mr. and Mrs. Robert George Drummond's application to adopt their foster son Timmy.

But the court said Timmy's welfare depended on the agency finding the best possible parents for the boy and racial differences were legitimate factors to consider.

Social workers said Timmy strongly resembles his black biological father.

"A couple has no right to adopt a child if it is not equipped to rear and according to professional literature, race bears directly on that inquiry," said Judge Paul Roney in the written opinion. "From the child's perspective, the consideration of race is simply another facet of finding him the best possible home."

Chief Judge John Brown issued a concurring opinion, saying the adoption agency would have failed in its responsibility had it not considered race.

"Indeed, adoption personnel would be blinking at really if they fail to consider the race of the adoptive parents (in relation to) the child," Brown said.

No threat, says Young of Cubans in Africa.

UNITED NATIONS — U.N. ambassador Andrew Young says Cuba's presence in Africa poses no threat to U.S. interests and warns against overreacting to Havana's intervention.

Young advised against getting "Panicky about the Russians and Cubans in Africa.

"If 500,000 Americans, well equipped and well trained, could not dominate a tiny peninsula in Vietnam, there's no way that 20,000 or 50,000 Cubans are going to dominate Angola, or Ethiopia or Egypt or Somalia," Young said.

"Inevitably, they are getting themselves in for worse trouble than we got in Vietnam."

Young analyzed the situation in Africa before a closed meeting last week in the Harvard Club.

African nations, he said, were making a distinction "between the kind of Cuban presence in Angola, where they were essentially opposing racism and driving South Africa out and the continued military presence of Cuban advisers in numbers of places around Africa where they are... in fact perpetuating an ideological battle.

"This battle in some ways is as detrimental and repressive against the black population of those countries as South Africa and apartheid is against blacks in South Africa.

"What Africans are saying... is that in their quest for genuine nonalignment and in their desire to develop their own population, that, frankly, they are better off being associated with the West."

The U.S., Young said, "Didn't have a thing to do with putting the Russians out of Egypt or getting them run out of Sudan, or the Cubans and the Russians run out of Somalia. It was essentially an awakening of African leadership themselves that this was not a constructive presence..."

"I think our position in Africa is far more wholesome and healthy than it has been in a long, long time."

New policies cheer Haitians

MIAMI — They came in the thousands, these Haitian refugees, expecting freedom from "political persecution" and deliverance from poverty. They found, instead, jail, hunger, hardship and life without work permits.

Such was their plight between 1972 and November this year. Now there is hope of a brighter day for the 3,000 refugees from the land of Papa Doc and Jean Claude (Baby Doc) Duvalier.

On Nov. 8, as a result of a new immigration policy, the majority of Haitian exiles, crowded into the South Florida area, became eligible to work legally.

Many of the men, jailed in lieu of a $500 bond, while trying to gain permanent residence, can be released because of the new law and the refugees will get another chance to claim asylum.

- - -

Miami attorney Ira Kurzban, who represents 116 refugees classified as "illegal aliens," said they would get individual hearings.

He said that in spite of the new immigration policy, however, nearly 100 refugees remain in jail, "because there is no place for them to go; no one to take them."

He has appealed for people in the area to take in the refugees.

Like Yolande Remy, who came from Haiti's capital, Port-au-Prince, in December 1972, many of the refugees love and miss their homeland. Like Yolande, many of them vow never to return to Haiti.

They say at their hearings they will tell tales of "political persecution" by the government and of brutality and murder by the Haitian police.

Says Yolande: "Even if I'm going to find gold or diamonds in Haiti I wouldn't go back because of the government."

During their years of poverty and hardship in Florida, many refugees have been dependent on the Haitian Refugee Center, which, this year, was able to hand out Thanksgiving baskets to those in greatest need.

Alabama AG plans to seek more charges in 63 bombing

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Robert E. Chambliss, a Ku Klux Klan member, has been convicted of murder in the 1963 deaths of four young black girls killed in a bomb blast of the 16th Street Baptist Church, Birmingham.

Now Alabama Attorney General, William J. Baxley, is preparing to seek more indictments. He had contended throughout the trial that Chambliss "was not acting alone."

Testimony at Chambliss' trial indicated that at least two and possibly three others were near the scene within eight hours of the explosion, shortly before the church services on Sept. 15, 1963.

Known as "Dynamite Bob," because of his boast of his ability with explosives, the crippled, 73-year-old Chambliss was sentenced to life imprisonment for the girls' murder. His attorneys are considering an appeal.

New plan wanted in Rhodesia

WASHINGTON — The U.S. has called on Prime Minister Ian Smith to accept the Anglo-American plan for full majority rule in Rhodesia and to include nationalist groups now outside the country in his new election plan.

"The logic of our position is that a transfer of power through the electorial process must go to the heart of the central aims, not only of the Anglo-American initiative, but of the people there and which is to end the bloodshed and the Civil War," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said last week.

Smith recently called on black nationalist groups operating inside Rhodesia—which Africans call Zimbabwe—to work toward "a majority rule based on adult suffrage."

The prime minister did not include several Rhodesian black factions based in neighboring countries which are carrying on guerilla warfare along the borders against Smith's government.

Carter said, "It would be useful for Smith to spell out what majority rule on the basis of adult suffrage means."

Gen. James' replacement announced

WASHINGTON — Air Force Gen. Daniel "Chappie" James' replacement as head of the U.S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command and the U.S. Aerospace Defense Command has been announced by the Defense Department.

James, 57, the only black to hold four-star rank in the U.S. military, is recuperating from heart trouble suffered last September.

News that he had been relieved of his command came after it was revealed he had sent a private letter of protest to a superior officer opposing a plan to do away with the U.S. Air Defense headquarters and absorb its functions elsewhere.

He and the Air Force have denied his transfer to Washington for "medical evaluation" pending his retirement and the letter of protest are linked.

The Defense Department said President Carter had approved the promotion of Lt. Gen. James E. Hill to succeed James.

Senator critizes White House staffers

WASHINGTON — Some White House aides believe the criticism heaped on them by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., who has called the White House a "dirty" place with staffers running around in blue jeans, stems from the dismissal of a Brooke-sponsored appointee in the federal bureaucracy in the Boston area.

Brooke's complaints have not stopped aides from working in their shirt sleeves and in the casual attire that is a trademark of the administration.

---

South Africa and People of Color

Trustees walk along a path from the meeting lines on both sides by people protest Amherst College's holding of stock in companies supporting South African apartheid — photo by Edward Cohen

On December 10, 1977 there was one of the largest demonstrations held in Amherst College. The issue at hand was that the Board of Trustees should divest its stocks in South Africa. Francis Crowe, a resident and concerned activist from Northampton, said that this demonstration at Amherst today was one of the largest demonstrations held at Amherst college in her 35 years in the area. Over three hundred people from the northeast region of the country came to the demonstration to express their views on Amherst College having stocks in corporations within the racist Union of South Africa. People came out in freezing weather to make known there feelings about racism in South Africa. Out of all the people there that I saw who were white from UMass, none advocate that they have the right to speak for people of color at UMass. The proof of this is that the people who advocate that whites can speak for people of color were not at the demonstration. There was also poor representation from people of color at the demonstration, but almost all of the people of color showed up at the basketball game. There is nothing wrong with supporting our great team — I came to support their efforts as well — but I also went to the demonstration. If people of color want to continue to be slaves, please do not advocate that you are serious about fighting oppression, I can no longer make excuses to concerned whites about your contradictions; neither will I say that any of you who did not show up are consistently concerned about our people on the continent.

People of Color better begin to be more serious. I am sick and tired of your excuses; each time you are more creative with your excuses. My problem with all people of color who did not come to the demonstration is you should stop talking about the white men as long as you are aiding him in the destruction of our people at home and abroad. I would respect intelligent replies to this editorial.

Consistent Unity
Nkrumah L. Olinga
Political Analyst

Trustees walking along the path out of their meeting — photo by Edward Cohen

Editorials

Bakke At U MASS S. G. A.

Bakke backlash still continues; everything that was won during the 1960's stands to be lost by Africans in this country who do not still continue to agitate against their oppressors continually. Allen Bakke, a 37 year old engineer, was denied admission twice to the University of California-Davis Medical School. The California Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court has failed to mention the fact that by most academic standards, Allen Bakke was not admitted because he was 34 years old at that time and the admissions officer felt he was too old to deal with the strenuous task of medical school. If Allen Bakke was sincere, and not a bigot, along with the University of California-Davis, the case would have read — Allen Bakke was denied admission to the University of Cal-Davis because they felt that he was a geriatric case. The case of Allen Bakke is a clear case of discrimination because of age, not because he was a white male.

Whenever there is a depression, the oppressed is always blamed for the problems of society. This country has always managed to create or project a false enemy. Whites during the late 1960's who had currently enjoyed being racist were under attack by young African freedom fighters in this country ... People like Governor Wallace, a known racist had begun to change his overt racist position, not because his heart was changed but young African students around the country were forcing that bigot along with the rest of the racists in this country to openly be identified as a prejudiced U.S. citizen.

It was the African student movement in this country that changed the conditions of this country for all oppressed groups. If people who read this article have doubts about my findings I would openly challenge them to a debate any place they desire. White women profitted from young African students' efforts in this country during the 1960's and early 1970's; all other oppressed groups of color in this country have benefitted by young Africans' struggles in this country.

In this country we have gone full circle. The current thing now for the oppressor and their ignorant followers is to have the audacity to say reverse discrimination. Anyone who is illiterate enough to say reverse discrimination should go back to primary school because indeed that one has been clearly mis-educated in the English language which they have supposed to have mastered by now. The victims in this case of this type of mis-education have been Bakke, U-Cal-Davis, the California Supreme Court, the U.S. Supreme Court, and the rest of its case here at UMass and around the country. The Bakke case was only a set-up to take back what was fought for in the 60's and 70's. We fought our oppressors before; we will fight them and their forces again.

The term Third World has come up time and time again, this time by ignorant people of color and bigoted whites. At present there are ignorant people at UMass being used by illiterate whites and people of color. The late W.E.B. Dubois warned us about allowing our oppressors to define who we are as a people. So-called Third World leaders at this University pimping off of the word Third World have presently sold all people of color down the drain. They have allowed whites to tell them who they are and how they should respond to bigoted doctrine. There is only one way to deal with ignorance and that is with truth.

I have written two articles defining the origins of the concept of Third World and no one of yet has refuted my findings. I was challenged by a petty illiterate unconscious slave that he was going to debate me about the issue of Third World. I am sorry he backed down because if he did not, last Friday's Collegian would have not read like it did. I will state here once more that any people lacking pigment are not considered people of color. These white bigots have not gone through chattel slavery; they have not gone through the experience of racism in the U.S.; therefore they are unqualified to address the issues of Third World people. I do not consider myself third to any being on the planet. I will refer those who have problems with my position to my previous article about my position on Third World. I will openly debate anytime or place any conscious bigot and any unconscious slave who things in this day and time that they are third to their oppressor. If we of color were not suffering from the mental oppression of neo-colonialism, we would not call ourselves Third World people. If there is any white who thinks that they have been of color for a day or have currently gone through a skin graft, I would like to speak to that bigot. All of the other bigots and ignorant people of color I will debate in any forum.

Nkrumah Lumumba Olinga
Political Analyst Nummo News
The power of the word made spoken

Ideological Analysis of the NBSA

CONT. FROM PAGE 1

This new analysis defined the status of Blacks in the north as an unassimilable national minority, who cannot escape oppression by fleeing the South. The shadow of the plantation falls upon them throughout the country, as the semi-slave relations in the Black Belt continually reproduce Black inequality and servitude in all walks of life.

They are certain singular features of the submerged Afro-American nation which differentiates it from other oppressed nations and which have made the road towards national consciousness and identity difficult and arduous. Afro-Americans are not only a nation within a nation," but a captive nation suffering a colonial type oppression while trapped within the geographic bounds of one of the world's most powerful imperialist countries.

Blacks were forced into the stream of U.S. history in a peculiar manner, as chattel slaves, and are victims of an excruciatingly destructive system of oppression and persecution due not only to the economic and social survivals of slavery, but also it its ideological heritage — racism.

The Afro-American question is also unique in that it is a new nation evolved from a people forcibly transplanted from their original African homeland. A people comprised of various tribal and linguistic groups, they are a product not of their native African soil, but of the conditions of their transplantation.

The overwhelming stifling factor of race, the doctrine of inherent Black inferiority perpetuated by ruling class ideologies, has sunk deep into the thinking of Americans. It has become endemic, permeating the entire structure of U.S. life. Given this, Blacks could only remain permanently unabsorbed in the new world's "melting pot".

"The race factor has also left its stigma on the consciousness of the Black nation, creating a powerful mystification about Black Americans which has served to obscure their objective status as an oppressed nation. It has twisted the direction of the Afro-American liberation movement and scarred it while still in its embryonic state."1

A serious Black liberation organization must address itself to the question of developing a program around where the great majority of our people live. So while the liberation organizations should have an overall program of all AFricans in all areas of the country, its focus should be in the south particularly in those states we constitute a near to the majority population; Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

The NBSA's main emphasis should be about completing the democratic black political revolution; the electing of people's representatives and the building of an independent black political party to complete this phase of the revolution to take it to its logical conclusion, self determination and national independence. NBSA should then develop a strategical long range outlook and a tactical short range program.

"Black people already have the voting potential to control the politics of entire southern counties. Given maximum registration of blacks, there are more than 110 counties where black people could out-vote the political parties and not waste time trying to reform or convert the racist Parties".2 The right to vote in the South in essence means the right to self determination if that vote is organized around the politics of independence and self reliance; the building of an independent black political party.

The late Malcolm X, in his speech "The Ballot or the Bullet" in 1964, emphasized the need for the movement to build a new politics of independence from both the democratic and republican parties. The democratic and republican parties are parties of the monopoly capitalist ruling class and are designed to serve their interests.

"The exploited classes need political rule in order to completely abolish all exploitation, i.e., in the interest of the vast majority of the people and against the insignificant minority consisting of the modern slave owners — the landlords and the capitalists."3 So the important question before NBSA, is the building of an anti-imperialist, anti-racist independent black political party. This party would have as its base young black workers, black farmers, street force and black revolutionary intellectuals who make up the black intelligentsia. In order to be effective this party would have to be national in scope with its organizing base in the national territory (the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina). The political objective of the party would be to run independent black candidates for offices in areas north and south where Black people constitute the majority or near majority. The long range political program of the party would be to take over legally, at least try at first, the national territory and then raise the question of the right of self determination and national independence; the right of secession from capitalist-imperialist-racist U.S. We must see this perspective is a long range perspective and will take years to develop. We should not expect to jump up and run out of this room and expect our people to respond to the idea of building an independent black political party. This will take years of hard work built from a sound body of cadres well tested in struggle and day to day practice.

"The role of the Black Revolutionary Party is, first, to develop and keep before the movement, the nation and the world the real meaning and objectives of the life and death struggle in which our community is now engaged; second, to bring together in a disciplined national organization the revolutionary individuals who are being constantly thrown up by spontaneous eruption and the experience of struggle; third, to devise and project, in constant interaction with the masses in struggle, a long-range strategy for achieving Black Revolutionary Power in the United States."4

We say, we should seriously study our people's history to understand the underlying aspects of mass movements and the historical objectives of our people. This historical analysis will help us in developing a long range strategy for Black revolutionary power.

TURN TO PAGE 6

Happiness, Action, and Strength: Unity NOW And for 1978

US OUT OF SOUTH AFRICA
Total Economic

U.S. OUT OF SOUTH AFRICA
Total Economic SUPPORT AFFIRMATIVE

photos by Edwin Patterson
Bari Njiiri
Regina Jones
Edward Cohen
Marcia Hospedales
Gerardo Corti
Debbie Lee
Bo Clemons

'For Bahamians only'; new citizenship plan

NASSAU, Bahamas — Democratic Party Leader Henry Bostwick has accused Prime Minister Lynden Pindling and his ruling party of taking "the first step on the road to tampering with the fundamental rights and guarantees which Bahamians have long taken for granted."

Bostwick's charge is a reaction to the plan by Pindling and his Progressive Liberal Party government to introduce legislation that would restrict the right of foreign born residents to take Bahamian citizenship.

The constitutional amendment must be approved by referendum, but the proposal, observers say, has set off a national controversy in the country which gained independence from Britain four years ago.

Some 1,200 British Commonwealth citizens granted Bahamian "belongership" during the 10 years before independence, believe the proposed legislation is aimed at them, political observers say.

The new law, they say, could affect many more persons, including the foreign-born wives of Bahamians naturalized as British subjects in the former colony.

Pindling told delegates to the PLP's annual convention that the reason for amending the constitution "is to leave no doubt that the government, rather than the courts, must have the final say on who will be made a citizen.

"The position of the PLP government," he declared, "is that, apart from born Bahamians, no one else is entitled or ought to be entitled to Bahamian citizenship as of right, unless and until the privilege of citizenship has been extended as a gift of the Bahamian people."

State of emergency for Bermuda as two murderers, 33, are hanged

HAMILTON, Bermuda (UPI) — Bermuda sent two black convicted murderers to the gallows at dawn (Friday) and declared a state of emergency and a curfew to curb a rampage of riot and bombing by blacks protesting the first island executions in 34 years.

The hanging of Erskine Durant "Buck" Burrows and Larry Winfield Tacklyn, both 33, was carried out at the seclusion of Case Mates prison, 10 miles west of this resort island capital city.

Burrows, who claimed he headed a Black Power organization called the Black Cadre Anti-Colonialists, was convicted of killing five men, including Bermuda's governor and its police chief. Tacklyn was sentenced to die for killing two supermarket owners.

After the Inter-Islands Appeals Court — Bermuda's highest tribunal — turned down a last appeal, hundreds of rioters took to the streets, smashing shop windows with pipes and axes and setting at least two fires with molotov cocktails.

The governor of Bermuda, Sir Peter Ramsbotham, declared a state of emergency and a 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew. The curfew affects all those on the island, including thousands of tourists.

Ramsbotham said the state of emergency was caused by the "tragic events of last night."

At the same time the 300 men of the Bermuda Regiment, a part-time army similar to the national guard, was mobilized to provide backup for the police.

Hamilton, a city of just over 10,000 was reported calm in the hours following the hangings. Approximately 60 per cent of the island's population is black.

In the night of violence, rioters set fires in a government building and a high school and at one point seized a bus and rammed it into a wall.

Burrows was convicted of the March 1973 murders of Gov. Richard Sharples and his aide-de-camp, Capt. Hugh Sayers, who were shot as they walked the governor's dog outside his residence in Hamilton. Burrows was also convicted for the September, 1972, slaying of police chief George Duckett.

Both Burrows and Tacklyn were convicted of killing supermarket owners Victor Rego and Mark Doe, who were shot in 1974.

Informed sources said Bermuda, a self-governing British colony which has no executioner of its own, had secretly flown in a hangman from an undisclosed country.

Ideological Analysis of the NBSA

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

Will the struggle for self determination lead to a socialist revolution? This is hard to answer. Though no one can put a time table on revolution or say exactly how it will proceed, we can make broad generalizations.

For New Africans to be thinking about socialist revolution, and we should be, we would first have to answer the question; what is the most feasible way New Africans can engage in successful revolution? The most feasible and historically sound way is by New Africans attempting to take over the goods and services of the national territory and through protracted struggle turning it into a liberated area.

The struggle for national independence of the national territory will polarize the internal contradictions of the racist monopoly capitalist system and hopefully will cause a major crisis. Whether the masses of white workers will come to our aid or not is a theoretical question that cannot be answered at this time. But we can say we have as many as thirty million potential Third World allies inside this country, many progressive whites and many African and other Third allies around the world who have, from their practice, shown us they can be potential supporters of the Black liberation struggle for national independence.

With the masses of our people supporting the goal of self determination and independent nationhood, our struggle for national independence could lead to a general socialist revolution. Even if white workers didn't initially support the independence struggle, we feel U.S. capitalism would enter a crisis it would not be able to recover from.

At the same time we support the just struggle of our African sisters and brothers in Africa to achieve a united people's socialist Republic of Africa, we feel the best way we can express Pan Africanism in this country is by developing a revolutionary action movement that holds mass demonstrations and work stoppages against U.S. imperialism's aggression in Africa and by developing a tactical program that will destroy U.S. imperialism in its achilles heel; its home base inside the United States.

If this congress agrees with this perspective then NBSA would adopt as its ideology, Revolutionary Black Nationalism, Scientific Socialism and Pan Africanism. In the black community there are many organizations that adopt this outlook for their ideology but the three major ones which NBSA should enter into a united front with are "the League" — the Southern League of Black-African Organizations (S.L.B.A.O.), the Republic of New Africa (RNA) and the African People's Party (APP).

In order to thoroughly understand the unique character of our revolution, serious students of social change should study the slave revolts, the abolitionist movement, the 1880's, 1890's, 1920's and 1960's. The 1880-90's, 1920's and 1960's were periods of mass nationalist movements. The nationalist organizations had strong self help economic programs. We should seriously study this dynamic.

Black political consciousness movement among the youth: One of NBSA's objectives should be to give black youth mass political education. The purpose would be to instill pride, dignity and to heighten black youth's consciousness, passing the revolution on from one generation to another.

Mass teach-ins help in this respect: Also setting up workshops to establish youth leagues that involve youth in the building of the mass party and NBSA projects would be essential. The showing of revolutionary films, plays and skits in communities will help youth become motivated to think about something besides the "boogy" culture. The spreading in popular form of revolutionary nationalism, scientific socialism and revolutionary Pan Africanism, particularly in the national territory will be of key and primary importance.

NBSA cadre should dedicate themselves, if returning to their home communities, to organize their high school where they graduated from as a base for the independent black political party. NBSA cadre should dedicate themselves for at least ten years, if not a life time, to continuous protracted political struggle. Mobilizing around the eighteen year old vote, building a youth league for the independent black political party would be essential in any community. This would encompass youth both in and out of NBSA between the ages of 10-18.

Mass Black Political Revolution on Campus: NBSA is confronted with a broad challenge in the realm of education in colleges and universities. We are faced with a double edged problem — one on Negro colleges and universities and on white campuses. NBSA will have to struggle on all campuses to have students taught a non-imperialist, non-capitalist orientation or education.

Also, on Negro campuses, NBSA will have a strong struggle over teaching courses not only from a black perspective but from the world view of the Black liberation struggle; the teaching of revolutionary nationalism, scientific socialism and revolutionary Pan Africanism. The struggle for Black Studies is not over. If Black Studies is to be meaningful, it must be revolutionary, nationalist and political in content. Most Black Studies program presently place too much emphasis on culture and aesthetics. Culture is essential but culture itself does not transform a political, economic and military power structure. Black Studies must teach students how to organize to overthrow the racist monopoly capitalist system. Each Black Studies department should include a course on Black revolutionary politics. Black Studies should be directly linked to the Black liberation struggle. Black Studies departments should be the center for information to Black students of what Black liberation organizations are doing in different communities and should be the vital link between students and liberation organizations. Black Studies came into existence from the struggle of Black people and its survival and success depends upon its live contact with the people.

All Black students when entering any college or university with Black Studies departments should be required to take four semesters, or two years, of the "history of the Black liberation struggle". This course would prepare every Black student regardless of his-her class background or various ambitions to view the world correctly. Every Black Studies department or Black student union should have a community based Institute of Black Political Studies.

In order for NBSA to be an effective mass organization, it must base itself on collective leadership and the principles of democratic centralism and criticism and self criticism. It must have central organization and a strong center of communications. Above all if it is to be effective it must engage in mass mobilizations of the people around issues affecting our people. Struggling against universities having stocks invested in corporations who do business with the union of South Africa; demanding immediate withdrawal, as was done at the University of Massachusetts, are good issues. Also the Bakke decision, the assassination of Steven Biko and student uprisings in Soweto are good. The freedom of political prisoners is always very important.

NBSA should attempt, whenever possible, to become on-campus student organizations recognized by student government. In this way NBSA would be able to function better on campus.

NBSA should establish a training institute: One of the key things in the Black community is political and ideological backwardness. To increase political understanding among the broad masses and cadre alike, NBSA should establish an Institute of Black Political Studies in or near its communications center in the national territory. The main purpose of the IBPS would be to train community organizers.

Voter education: The general masses of our people don't know how the system runs or what and who are the representatives or how to run a campaign of independent candidates. NBSA should be about setting a series of classes to deal with voter education. NBSA should seek the cooperation of the Voter Education Project (VEP).

---

Ideological Analysis of the NBSA

Voter registration: NBSA should cooperate with a broad coalition of groups to increase voter registration among Black people. Where NBSA might differ with some groups is that it should encourage our people to register as independents. NBSA should engage in mass voter registration drives of Black youth around the ages of 18-22.

Literacy campaign: In the South, in particular, the colonial system has left many of our people illiterate. NBSA in serving the masses, should go into the rural areas of the south, first, where illiteracy is the highest and conduct literacy campaigns.

NBSA funding: NBSA should secure funds from various sources. Money can come from dues, fund raising through speaking engagements, community affairs, as well as, setting up pilot project for foundation funding. NBSA should establish a strong finance committee, to develop a fund raising and economic plan.

Tutorial programs: NBSA tutorial programs in the past have been successful. But tutors must be soundly ideologically trained so they can give much more than technical expertise. The tutorial program should be expanded to wherever NBSA is located.

Medical and health care: NBSA should be thinking about training some students in Acupuncture and as para medics so that we can establish people's medical clinics and train para medics to go in the national territory to work parallel with our building the mass party. In this way we would be bringing services to the people.

Self Reliance, a policy of NBSA: Self Reliance should be part of the ideology of NBSA. Our cadre once becoming skilled should set up community institutions from which they can transfer their skills to the community. Eventually we should be thinking about developing housing cooperatives, clothing cooperatives and farm cooperatives. In this way we will have an economic movement of self reliance as well as our political one.

Through scientific and protracted struggle, we will win.

Date to Struggle, Dare to Win.

Muhammad Ahmad
November 4, 1977

Speaking Tour: Miners Struggle Key Battle For All Workers

Speakers IN BOSTON

- Stearns striker and his wife

Stearns strikers have been on strike for 18 months against the Blue Diamond coal company in eastern Kentucky to bring in the union. The 130 miners have had to struggle against company gun-carrying thugs, court injunctions and scabs. Over one hundred miners and their wives were arrested for picketing but the strikers have remained solid. Most of them are on strike for the first time and as one miner put it, "We thought it was our own private fight but now we know that the working people are behind us. They say it can't be done, but we're doing it." A Stearns striker and his wife will talk about the strike and its importance.

- Member of the Miners Right To Strike Committee

The MRTSC is one of the groups which founded the National United Workers Organization and is a key force in the miners wildcat strike movement. Right now they are actively waging their contract fight and are coming under sharp attacks from the coal operators and their mouthpieces. He'll talk on whats at stake for labor in the miners strike.

Film of The Stearn Strike

SATURDAY DEC 17 . FOR INFO 256-0501

Sponsored by the National United Workers Organization

African Progress

AFRICAN PROGRESS
PHARMACEUTICALS BREAKTHROUGH

DAR ES SALAAM — A new Arusha-based pharmeceutical works, due to be operational by June 1979, will enable Tanzania to cut its import bill for medicines by 40 percent.

The plant, which will produce 37 different types of medicines, including anti-malaria tablets, is being financed by Finland.

Tanzania currently spends about $14.6 million on importing medicines from abroad.

PILOT TRAINING AGREEMENT

ACCRA — Ghana's military pilots will receive training from the Italian Air Force, free of charge, under a technical agreement Ghana has signed with Italy. The agreement also covers maintenance of Ghana's military aircraft.

Maj.-Gen. G.Y. Boakye, a member of Ghana's ruling Supreme Military Council who signed the agreement for Ghana, noted that the Ghana Air Force has had a cordial and mutually-beneficial association with its Italian counterpart for the past 13 years.

BUILDING-FINANCE VENTURE

MASEUR — Lesotho's recently established Building Finance Corp., has now finalized its lending and investing policies and is processing its first mortgage applications.

Presently operating from a small office in the government-owned Lesotho bank, it expects to move into its permanent accommodations by the end of the year.

Two local employees are to be sent to Kenya and the United Kingdom for training and one of them will eventually take over the management of the corporation from the foreign expertrecruited on a two-year contract to manage it in its initial stages.

COMPLETION DATE FOR POWER PROJECT

KINSHASHA — Nearly three-quarters of the 8,500 pylons needed for the very high-voltage continuous current transmission line being built between Inga and Shaba in Zaire, are now in position.

The latest progress report on the project shows that over 40 percent of the wiring has been completed and that more than 80 percent of the access roads have already been laid out.

The project was originally due to be operational in the last quarter of this year, but has been subject to delays concerned with finance and the recent events in Shaba, as well as with difficulties in obtaining fuel and spare parts.

The work is now said to be progressing satifactorily. The conversion station at Inga and the inversion station at Kolwezi have been completed.

The transmission line is designed to make available to the Shaba mining area the energy resources of Bas-Zaire.

NEW MEMBER FOR INTER-AFRICAN COFFEE ORGANIZATION

LILONGWE — Malawi has become the Inter-African Coffee Organization's 20th member state.

It was formally welcomed into membership at the organization's 17th annual conference held recently in Kinshasha.

Among the decisions taken at the conference was one to give its collective support to the Mexican proposal for the setting up of a coffee stabilization fund. It also expressed its wish to see the revision of the present price bracket in the international coffee agreement.

SCM Super 12
Now only $219

SCM Mod. 2200 Elec.
Reg. $319
Now $267

Power Back Space, Power Half Space, Power Return

New and Used $29 and up.

BankAmericard

SCM Smith-Corona

olivetti
Lexikon 83 by Olivetti interchangeable ball type $289

Sales * Service Rentals

* 1 year guarantee on parts & labor.

Amherst Typewriter Service

WE ARE CERTIFIED TO SERVICE IBM, ROYAL, SMITH-CORONA, AND OLIVETTI.
264 No. Pleasant St. Amherst 253-5087
9:00 to 5:30 Mon.-Sat.

Self-governing prospects for urban blacks-Vorster

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Prime Minister John Vorster says his government will continue its strict racial policies, but he is holding out the prospect of "full self-government" for the nation's urban blacks.

But Vorster, 61, who won a landslide election victory in last week's elections, said a measure of self-government would depend on "ability and cooperation" on the part of blacks.

"The government will not give in to the insistence that urban blacks be included in the new deal envisaged for the colored and Asians," he said.

"From the opposition press and parties, I now expect the one refrain after the other that the government is now strong enough to bring about the changes they want to see in the country," Vorster told Huisgenoot magazine.

"I want therefore to state quite clearly that the government will continue with its policy as far as the blacks are concerned, and I expect that more black nations will ask for independence," Vorster said.

Vorster asked voters to approve a plan for limited power sharing with colored and Asians — a plan the groups themselves reject.

For the urban black, I see full urban self-government in the future. This will depend on the urban blacks ability and cooperation within the next five years," Vorster said. "It is even envisaged that the urban black, in contrast to other urbanites, will control the education of his children."

Slightly more than 1 million white South Africans, or 64.7 per cent of the 1.6 million eligible voters, cast ballots. Blacks, coloreds and Asians could not vote.

Split eases pressure on Angola

By Augustine Oyamisha-Oyowe

The embarrassing task of guarding the American-run Gulf Oil company's installations in Angola's Cabinda enclave may become easier for the ruling MPLA's troops and their Vuban back-up.

An apparently serious split in the secessionist Cabindan Liberation Front, which wants to separate the oil-rich province (boardered by Gabon, Congo and Zaire) from Angola and declare it an independent state is likely to affect military performance in the area, particularly against the Gulf Oil operations, which last year reportedly contributed 75 percent of Angola's total revenue and 80 percent of its export earnings.

The liberation movement's declaration in October of an "Independent State of Liberated Area of Cabinda" was met by officers of the front's guerrilla army—the so-called Cabindan Armed Forces—establishing a new body, the military command for the liberation of Cabinda, which they claim replaces the front.

In a communique, the military command set itself the task of "reorganizing the Cabinda nationalists on a new democratic foundation," and criticized the front for failing to initiate "political actions capable of winning international support for the just demands of our people."

—

The front's leader, M. Louis Ranque Flanque, has denounced the military command leaders as representing "only themselves."

Observers point out there are elements of truth in the charges of ineffectiveness levelled by the military at the political wing of the liberation movement.

The actions and whereabouts of known front leaders like M. Jean da Costa, M. Nzita Tiago, M. Bernard Bory and M. Rangque Flanque himself are shrouded in the mystery. Sometimes they are spotted in Paris, sometimes they are reported to be in Cabinda.

—

The proclamation of the "Independent State of Liberated Areas of Cabinda" must itself be seen as an overtly political move, in essence an emulatin of the declaration by the PIAGC of independence for the liberated areas of Guinea-Bissau during its struggles against Protuguese colonialism.

That move received spontaneous recognition from many countries in Africa and elsewhere, but none has yet responded to the Cabindan declaration—an indication of the front's general obscurity but also of its lack of recognition as a true liberation movement, particularly in Africa, where every country except Senegal acknowledges the MPLA government in Angola.

Even Zaire, on whom suspicion invariably falls as a supporter of the front, is at least for the moment committed publicly to the Brazzaville accord with Angola, which enjoins both countries to respect the territorial integrity of the other.

—

But though the political situation in Cabinda may be confused, the military facts are plain. Before the present split, the front consistently claimed victories over MPLA and Cuban forces in the province, and asserted it was in occupation of two-thirds of the enclave.

Independent sources have confirmed the presence of the front in many parts of the province.

The military strategy of both guerillas and the MPLA and Cuban forces inevitably centers on the Gulf Oil installations.

In one of the front's rare public statements this year, M. Bernard Bory (the supposed foreign minister of the provisional government), gave a warning in London newspaper last May to British and American employees of Gulf Oil to evacuate the off-shore oil rigs or risk death from guerilla attacks.

He claimed the front had access to sophisticated surface-to-surface missiles.

Whatever happens, it seems unlikely the Cabindan secessionists would have any success if they attempted to govern the area they claim to control in the fashion of the PIAGC in Guinea-Bissau.

Meanwhile, unless a dramatic reconciliation takes place between the political and military wings of the movement, the possibility of clashes between the quarrelling factions cannot be ruled out—and that can only be to the advantage of their common opponent, Angola's MPLA government.

Kwanza Celebration At N. A. H.

Vea Williams and Amina Myers — photo by Edward Cohen

By KEVIN JONES
Nummo News

An evening of multi-cultural exhibits were displayed last Friday featuring the Charles "Majeed" Greenlee Sextet and the Amina Meyers and Vea Williams Duet. This Pre-Kwanza celebration took place last Friday evening Dec. 9. The program was organized by a committee spearheaded by Mark Hickson and sponsored by Bill Hasson.

The evening began as Brother Antar Shakir gave an official initiation and explanation of the Kwanza ceremony. The purpose of this gathering was to unite the Third World community in a warm, congenial atmosphere of food, drink, music, art and poetry.

Much appreciated food was brought by members of our community (to say the least, it was smokin'). Poetry was read by John Williams reciting his piece "Black People and Changes" and by Freida Jones entitled "Reeds".

The music program was forefronted by a very inspiring and deeply heartfelt Islamic prayer by Brother Khalil. With lights out and candles burning pianist-vocalist Amina Meyers and vocalist Vea Williams approached the small, intimate stage of the Lumumba Hut. Vea's voice bellowed out over the virtuosic arpeggiated figures of Amina's piano. Vea sings in the tradition of Black Classical singers such as Sarah Vaughan and Dinah Washington. Her voice was a deep, warm and earthy strength. The highlight of the evening for me was her rendition of 'I know about the life'. Amina Myers is a virtuoso pianist who has performed in the Valley before with saxophonist Marion Brown. Amina, we discovered, also has a rich and wonderful voice.

Following his duet, during the intermission, Kevin Jones and Gerry Owens performed percussion ensemble work. Mr. Owens, an authorit on Afro-Cuban music, mixed old and new rhythyms.

Mark Hickson introduces the evening's festivities — photo by Edwin Patterson

The ensemble: From left to right — Tommy Turentine on trumpet, Chris Henderson on multiple percussion, Charles Greenlee — trombone, Cameron Brown on bass, Ernie Wilkins on saxophone, and Art Mathews on piano — photo by Edwin Patterson

The ensemble introduced The Charles Majeed Greenlee Sextet and the musicians keyed in on rhythyms sets by bassist Cameron Brown, and percussionists, Gerry Owens, Kevin Jones and Chris Henderson. A Latin feel was introduced by pianist Art Matthews theme and then, the giants came in on their horns: Saxophonist Ernie Wilkins, trumpeter Tommy Turentine, and leader, trombonist Charles Majeed Greenlee. Greenlee's widely diverse group reflected different periods of Black Classical Music. They performed pieces composed by Greenlee, members of the sextet, as wellas standards. Members of the group came from New York and Boston. The leader of the Group, Greenlee is a resident of Amherst.

These men were truly forerunners our Classical music. All of them have worked with such greats as Dizzy Gillespie, Sarah Vaughan, Frank Foster, Archie Shepp, and Marion Brown. It should be noted that Ernie Wilkins has worked extensively with Count Basie as saxophonist, composer and arranger.

It was indeed a warm and fruitful occasion as these gentlemen contributed to the efforts of the singers, pianist, poets, artists and cooks who took time out to bring proud music to make ours a proud community.

Vea Williams leads in song — photo by Edwin Patterson

From left to right: Tommy Turentine on trumpet, trombonist Charles Majeed Greenlee, and Ernie Wilkins on reeds — photo by Edward Cohen

Pedagogy And Revolution

The Five College Black Studies Executive Committee continues its 1977-78 Faculty Seminar Series with a symposium on "Black Studies: Pedagogy and Revolution." The main paper will be presented by Prof. Johnnella Butler of Smith College. Commentators will be Bernard Bell of UMass, Edward Hill of Smith College and William Strickland of UMass.

The seminar will take place on Monday, December 12, 1977, 7:30 p.m. in the Black Cultural Center, Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass. The seminar is open to the public. A reception will follow.

Five College Black Studies, Faculty Seminar Series, Johnnella Butler on "Black Studies: Pedagogy and Revolution", Monday, December 12, 1977, 7:30 p.m. Mount Holyoke Cultural Center. Commentators: Bernard Bell, UMass, Edward Hill, Smith College, William Strickland, UMass. The Five College Community is welcome. Reception will follow.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Photo by Edward Cohen

Afro Am 156, 3 credit Revolutionary Concepts in Afro American Music UMass, Division of Con't Education, Winter Session January 3 through 27. Instructor: Charles Majeed Greenlee

CEEBS

Career Day

The third annual CEEBS Career day was held Tuesday at the Newman Center. Representatives from 52 businesses and federal agencies were present to give students an overview of openings in the job market. Over a hundred students participated in the day long event.

The day began with a luncheon where students were able to meet and talk informally with representatives of the various companies. The career day was to get students to get a fill on what fields jobs are prospects are likely to be opening up for future graduates. Career day helps to promote an open exchange between students and the participating companies. With the job market as tight as it is career day gives students a chance to find out what employers are looking for. The companies participating in this years career day included: American Telephone and Telegraph, the Internal Revenue Service, IBM, Filenes, Westinghouse and Raytheon to name a few.

NOTICE

Recruitment Drive for Nummo News

To all people interested in all areas of newspeak production, especially all journalism majors, who are interested in working with a progressive newspaper, Nummo News extends a serious invitation to all.

Elections will be held Dec. 13, 1977 at 7:00 p.m. in New Africa House, Rm. 103, phone no. 545-0061 or 545-0062.

SPECIAL NOTE

The Afro-Am Dept. has a special problems course dealing with Nummo, in which students can get (3) credits in one semester or (6) credits in 2 semesters.

"Without a newspaper there is no voice."

NUMMO NEWS STAFF

| | |
|---|---|
| Editor in Chief | W.J. Wheeler |
| Managing Editor | Karien Zachery |
| News Editor | Vukani Magubane |
| Business Manager | Sura Long |
| Photo Editors | Edward CohenEdwin Patterson |
| Cultural Affairs | Kevin Jones |
| Advertising Manager | Carl Watts |
| Advisor | Wadada Tzake |
| Graphic Editor | Jimmy Pickett |

---

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY VOLUME CVII, ISSUE 70 TUESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1977

Collegian

Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, MA. 01003/(413)545-3500

Work study hiring frozen

By CHRIS BOURNE
Collegian Staff

Many campus groups could face serious problems next semester if they want to hire new student employees or replace ones who leave, according to Armand Demers, Recognized Student Organization business manager.

"If a work study student leaves, the group won't be able to hire another work-study student. They'll have to pay the full cost," said Demers.

Under the work-study program, a group pays 20 per cent of a student employees salary. The remaining 80 per cent is paid by the Financial Aid Office.

Because of the budget deficit in the Financial Aid Office, no new work-study positions will be awarded next semester and students who aren't already on work study won't be able to get it. As a result, there will be no pool of students to hire from.

According to David Sackett, a staff assistant at the Financial Aid Office, the hiring freeze is not only to save money but also to prevent students from switching from job to job in the middle of the semester. "We want to spread the impact of this evenly among all the campus groups. We don't want to penalize any one group," said Sackett.

RSO groups which include The Legal Services Office, the Collegian, and the Student Senate Transit Service, currently employ about 200 work-study students. The groups are allocated the positions on a first come, first served basis.

RSO was originally given 150 positions at the beginning of the semester. "We had only one person processing work-study applications from various groups. She became snowed under with all the paperwork and we had already gone over our allocation before we realized what was happening," Demers said.

RSO then went to the Financial Aid Office and requested more positions, in addition to the extra ones they already had. "Financial aid said that we could keep the extra positions but that they couldn't give us any additional ones," said Demers.

Demers said that the basic hourly rate is going up to $2.60 from its present $2.50 starting in January.

Salaries may not be the only problem groups will face. "We are going to be hurting," said Demers. "By the end of the first semester, people pretty much know what they're doing and by the end of the semester they're doing a lot more of it. If a student is forced to leave, we'll have to start all over again training a replacement. This is going to hurt the services we can offer RSO groups," Demers said.

Sackett said that as of the end of November, $825,000 had been paid to a ork-study students.

The Financial Aid Office budgeted $2.3 million for work study for the entire academic year. Nevertheless, Sackett said, this is more than it expects to use. "We always over-commit funds because we expect a certain amount of savings. Some students never earn the money or drop out of school," said Sackett.

Letters were sent the first week of November to about 700 students who had applied for work study but had failed to find a job, Sackett said.

"We gave them 10 days to find a job or lose their work-study money for the year. Every year a lot of students don't find jobs the first semester. They prefer to wait until the spring and get settled in," Sackett said.

Sackett has no idea how many of the students were able to find jobs. "When we sent them the letter, we had to first wait 10 days before we could take any action. The letters were mailed in two groups on two different days so we have no idea when a student would have received the letter. Actually, the students had about 15 days to find a job," Sackett said.

A computer run is now being made to find out how many did find jobs. But "This takes a lot of time so we won't know for a while," said Sackett.

Demers said he isn't sure how much extra money will be needed by student groups. "I think that the student senate won't be able to give much in the way of extra funds. They're hoping for some extra Student Activities Tax Fund money," said Demers.

"This is going to have a tremendous impact on student groups. Some Southwest programs which are already running short of funds could be in a serious bind," Demers said.

Ted Cady, giving a demonstration on chain saw safety live in Campus Center room 101 last night. Cady, a resource conservation and development forester from the Mass. Division of Forests and Parks in Sunderland, was at a wood stove workshop sponsored by the Mass. Cooperative Extension Service. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Some hotel residents to get reimbursements

By MARK LECCESE
Collegian Staff

Students forced to live in the Campus Center Hotel for more than three weeks at the beginning of this semester will probably be at least partially reimbursed, according to William F. Field, dean of students.

Field said he has recommended the University Housing Office pay back part of the dormitory fee, on an individual basis, to students whose academic semester was disrupted by living in the hotel and moving within the dormitory system.

The reimbursements to students who lived in the hotel longer than three weeks will be figured out by percentages, according to William F. Field, dean of students.

Field said he has recommended the University Housing Office pay back part of the dormitory fee, on an individual basis, to students whose academic semester was disrupted by living in the hotel and moving within the dormitory system.

The reimbursements to students who lived in the hotel longer than three weeks will be figured out by percentages, according to Field. The students will be reimbursed according to the number of weeks they were in the hotel and the amount they paid for their original living area choice. Some residential areas, such as Sylvan, charge more in board fees than others.

Of the approximately 400 students who were housed in the hotel, about 40 stayed for more than three weeks, and about 35 of these students will be entitled to reimbursement.

Five students chose to remain the entire semester. All students who lived in the hotel were given the option of accepting or rejecting spaces in the dorms the Housing Office found for them.

One of the five students, Charles Tringale, a junior from Plymouth, said the hotel was "pretty comfortable. It's better than living in a dorm."

Tringale, who was elected in September as a student senator to represent the hotel students, was "kind of glad" the housing confusion happened. "It was very educational for me," he said.

Housing Assignment Coordinator Gerald Quarles said all of the students except the last five were moved out by "Oct. 4 or so."

In one phase of the program to move students from the hotel some students moved into dorm lounges. "The kids who went into lounges did a great favor for us," Quarles said. A few students chose to stay in lounges all semester, although the former hotel students are "mostly in rooms," according to Quarles.

Inside

For details on the death of Lady Winston Churchill and the re-election of George Meaney see page five.

The Student Judiciary apparently has determined who is qualified to represent Third World students in the student senate. For the story see page three.

The Equine Studies department is initiating a fund drive [illegible] of an indoor riding arena. The story is on page two.

Third World members few

Sororities multi-ethnic residences

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third of a four-part series on sororities at UMass. The series deals with discrimination in sororities, stereotypes applied to sorority women, the success of a Greek system at a southern school, and the advantages and disadvantages of sorority life at UMass.

By FRAN BASCHE
Collegian Staff

"We're not all Daughters of the American Revolution" said a Sigma Delta Tau member responding to the stereotype of "blue blood" often applied to sorority women.

Women of varying ethnic background are heavily represented in the UMass sorority system. Jewish and Catholic women as well as Irish, Italian and Greek sorority sisters and pledges are thoroughly integrated within the houses.

However there are only a handful of Third World women in the UMass sorority system. Shannon Ellis, director of Greek Affairs at UMass, says this is not the result of discrimination on the part of sororities but rather a lack of interest on the part of Third World women in joining sororities. "They're (Third World women) just not interested in joining," she said.

UMass sorority women echoed Ellis in responding to questions concerning Third World women in sororities.

"The black women on campus have a stereotype of all sororities as being prejudiced... they assume we don't want them but we do," one woman said.

"Third World women are already involved in a lot of things because they're 'Third World' — black affairs, Third World centers, cultural activities that are strictly Third World... they already have a strong sense of community — they don't seem to want or need to get involved with the Greek system," one sorority woman said.

Sorority women interviewed expressed other theories as to why black women wouldn't join a sorority. "If I were a black woman I would be uncomfortable rushing or pledging a sorority here because they are predominately white," one woman said.

"Black rushees and pledges often get hassled — not from within the sorority but from their black friends... they usually don't stay with it because they get too much pressure," she added.

Several sorority women expressed interest in recruiting Third World women. "I think it's important to be exposed to all different cultures... I just wish more minority women would be interested," one sister said.

The sorority women say they are not discriminating. Many pointed to Greek systems in other parts of the country as true examples of racial and religious discrimination. The south and midwest both have a history of discrimination, they say.

Although it is now illegal for sororities or fraternities to discriminate, many get around the laws through the selection process. In most Greek systems the entire house votes on which men and women will be invited to join. Houses can give virtually any reason for not admitting a rushee in order to keep that person out of a house.

At the University of Florida, Gainesville, there are two black sororities with two corresponding fraternities, and three Jewish sororities, again with corresponding fraternities, according to Brenda Stack, a transfer here from the school.

Because of this highly selective system black and Jewish men and women who wish to join the Greek system are limited in their choice of houses. "When I decided to rush they (rush counselors) said 'There are three Jewish sororities — which one do you want to join?' Stack said.

According to Stack, nothing is being done about the discrimination occurring at the southern school. "Everyone just accepts it... that's just the way things are" she said.

UMass sorority women who are familiar with Greek systems in the south condemn the discrimination. "I wouldn't want to be involved in a system that discriminates," one woman said. Another added that she didn't think the Greek system at UMass would ever be that discriminatory.

Ellis says she hopes more Third World women would consider rushing UMass sororities. "Of course there are going to be rednecks in any crowd... hopefully it would work out," she said.

Tomorrow's installment, the last of this series, will cover alumni, staff, why women join sororities and sororities at the University of Florida.

Another snowy day and one fir tree that won't be cut down for Christmas. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Cold closes offices, freezes typewriters

By RICHARD E. BARRELL
Collegian Staff

Bone-chilling cold has resulted in abnormally cold campus classrooms, and even some office closings.

In a spot check yesterday, the Collegian found:

—The Spanish department closed its offices in Herter Hall at noon due to extreme cold.

—Clerical staff in the Undergraduate Psychology Office went home early due to "frozen typewriters" caused by a lack of heat in offices in Tobin Hall. Classrooms and laboratories had no heat problem.

—Some offices in Machmer were cold enough for secretaries to work with coats on.

Berkshire House in Southwest was not terribly comfortable, according to Sally Freeman, director of the Community Development Center. Along with the cold weather, Freeman blamed cold temperatures on upper floors on a lack of insulation and age of the building.

In the Campus Center, complaints of cold came from the offices of the Index and The Massachusetts Daily Collegian.

Dudley Bridges, of Campus Center Building Operations, said there were problems in most every area with some areas cold and others too hot. Bridges priased the efforts of Physical Plant workers calling their response "tremendous."

"They have responded very well and should be commended," he said.

Edmund J. Ryan, chief project engineer of the Physical Plant, said there were no major problems, only "localized malfunctions" which resulted in a lack of heat in some areas.

Ryan said the extreme cold pushed the heating system to the ultimate to meet the high demand for heat.

Heads of residence reported no problems in Field, McNamara, Chadbourne and Knowlton dormitories while Head of Residence Vincent K. Washington of John F. Kennedy lower said he had some complaints of cold rooms.

In Cashin, James Lamacchia, head of residence, said temperatures were "extremely low" and that he had many complaints. Lamacchia said there is a long standing problem with heat in the building, and that he has been told the Physical Plant is unable to supply adequate heat to the building.

In Boston, police said a homeless man and woman found dead in an abandoned apartment building apparently froze to death while seeking refuge from the record low temperature of 5 degrees.

Nationally, record low temperatures were recorded along the East Coast, from Portland, Maine with —15 degrees, and Wilmington Delaware, 10 degrees above.

Equine Studies plans indoor arena; department initiates fund raising drive

By BARBARA TETREAULT
Collegian Staff

The UMass Equine Studies Program is hoping to start construction on an indoor riding arena within two years.

Dr. Anthony Borton, veterninary and animal sciences associate professor and head of the horse program, said those in the riding program are working to get departmental and University approval for the project and have just initiated a fund-raising drive for it.

Borton said the program originally tried several years ago to get state funding to build the arena, but when it realized it couldn't get state funds, decided to develop its own campaign to raise the money.

Sarah Carlson, director of riding and fundraising coordinator for the arena, sid they have three areas to concentrate their fundraising campaign on. The first is foundations, which she said she hopes will be the largest source of funds.

The second is private sources such as parents and alumni, where they are now concentrating.

"We are trying to build up collateral so we will look better to foundations," said Carlson.

The third area is actual fundraising events sponsored by the Equine Studies Program.

The proposed arena would include not only a riding area but also rest rooms and classrooms, a spectator area, locker rooms, offices, and stabling for 40 horses.

"There are not enough facilities for all our horses," said Karin Glassman the assistant director at riding. She said that at Tillson Farms, where the riding facilities are, there are straight stalls for 14 horses. The other 25 live outside until winter where they are moved to the campus stables behind Thompson Hall.

Carlson estimates it would cost $200,000 to build the riding arena and facilities. Besides allowing the Equine Studies Program to expand, the arena would also be used by horse and livestock classes, riding clinics, 4-H activities, and local horse groups.

Glassman said the University offers one of the strongest equine studies programs in the country.

"We offer 16 different riding classes at five different levels," she said. "But we are hindered by our lack of facilities."

"An indoor arena would allow us to expand our program," said Borton. According to him, about 600 students signed up for riding courses last year, which about 300 were able to get into. He estimated that only a third of the students who apply are able to get in.

An indoor arena would allow them to hold riding classes throughout the year. Carlson said that now they ride as long as possible during the fall, until it either snows or gets too cold. Classes start again in the early spring, usually in March.

"A lot of problems in our program boil down to the weather," she said. "We can't ride in rain, snow or mud."

Borton said that this was not an unprecedented appeal and that other colleges have solicited private funding to build riding arenas. "UNH built their arena totally on money donated from alumni and parents. There was no foundation money there," he said.

He said they have raised about $5,000 in donations.

"Hopefully within two years we can begin construction on some aspect of the arena," Borton said, adding the arena could probably be built in stages.

Today's Staff

| | |
|---|---|
| Issue Editor | J.R. |
| Day Layout | Elaine Scannell |
| Wire Layout | Janis WorthBarbara Tetreault |
| Ad Layout | Bert Dougan |
| Editorial Layout | Paula Strollo |
| Sports Layout | Walt CherniakDave Rodman |
| Head Darkroom Tech | Dan Vullemier |
| Flag photo | Dan Vullemier |
| Motivation | Helen and Jim |

Subscription Rates

Mail delivery to Amherst area same day or business day publication. In Massachusetts, the following day. Outside Massachusetts, no delivery guarantee. Send check or money order to The Daily Collegian. Allow two weeks for delivery start.

The office of The Daily Collegian is in Room 113 of the Campus Center on the campus of the University of Massachusetts. Telephone 545-3500.

Second class postage is paid in Amherst, Massachusetts 01003. The Daily Collegian publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods, and holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943.

Barbara Winslow advocates women's self-emancipation in the Campus Center last night. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

Judiciary defines Third World reps

By RITA ZEIDNER
Collegian Staff

The Student Judiciary overturned a ruling last night that allowed anyone sympathetic to the needs of the Third World students to serve as valid representation of the Third World Caucus to the Undergraduate Student Senate.

The new ruling stated that only students of the Third World could represent the Third World.

'Were their positions in the senate open to anyone, the intent and ability to function would be emasculated'

In reaching the decision, the judiciary committee recognized Third World as "African-Americans, Asian-Americans, Native-Americans, and Chicano peoples, and other people of color, identified among racial and ethnic lines." This presently accepted definition has been unanimously rejected in a November decision.

The case originated when Craig Sherman, a white student, was elected to represent the Third World caucus with 110 votes. The caucus consequently asked the Student Judiciary to reconsider the decision of the election on the grounds that a white student could not appropriately represent the Third World.

Two other whites elected in the same election resigned their positions before being sworn in. Sherwood later also resigned, "for personal reasons."

Jon Hensligh represented Sherwood, in a hearing held last Thursday, and argued that recalling a representative on the grounds of race, color, sex or national origin constituted discrimination.

But Jeff Lutsky, the student attorney defending the Third World, rebutted by stating the legal definition of discrimination. He argued that the Third World population constituted a small minority of students on the UMass campus. As the minority, this group had "unique and distinct needs. Were their positions in the senate open to anyone, the intent and ability to function would be emasculated."

The judges for the most recent case included Dawn Barns, the presiding judge and Greek-area representative Robin Zeigel also a representative from the Greek area, and Ina Forma, who was appointed by the Senate.

Revolutionary seeks to rebuild radical feminism

By CANDY CARLON
Collegian Staff

Noting the decline of legal and economic gains made by women in the 70's, revolutionary feminist Barbar Winslow last night called for the rebuilding of the radical feminist groups of the '60's.

Winslow, author of the pamphlet "Revolutionary Feminism" spoke to 15 persons last night in the Campus Center.

"Actually, in the 70s women did not make progress," stated Winslow. She presented figures on women's wages which showed that women in 1970 earned 59 per cent of the money men earned. In 1976, that figure had dropped to 57 per cent.

Citing recent Supreme Court rulings as evidence of the decline in women's rights in the '70's, Winslow discussed the discrepencies between the original radical feminist demands in the '60's, and what has happened since. The demands included equality in education and the job market, reproductive freedom, child care and freedom of sexual expression.

Concerning reproductive freedom, Winslow discussed the Supreme Court ruling against public funding of abortion and the growing number of right to life groups like those sponsored by Catholic Church. "I believe the Supreme Court is very concerned about our life in the womb and the hereafter and not about our life right here and now, " said Winslow.

Winslow also emphasized the increase in violence against women in the form of wife battery, rape and other sexual harassment. Although she praised the freeing of women like Inez Garcia in murder cases dealing with these issues, Winslow stated: "We can't have a society where your only way out is to murder someone."

Winslow, who attended the November Houston Women's Conference, said "Most of the women who attended liked it." She added that she believed "This thing was just a show for middle class women."

She went on to discuss her hope to rebuild the radical feminist movement, saying "We women have to rely on ourselves for our own emancipation; let's not trust the Congress."

The speech was sponsored by the International Socialist Organization, of which Winslow is a leading member.

Mayor-elect began political career in grade school

By DAVID GRIP
Collegian Staff

NORTHAMPTON — For Northampton Mayor-elect Harry S. Chapman Jr., it doesn't matter how much you win by, as long as you come out on top.

From the time he was elected president of the class of 1963 at American International College to his mayoral victory a month ago, the 31-year-old Chapman has not won by a large margin any of his political victories.

He doesn't let that bother him, though, because his only setback during that time — a loss to Mayor David Cramer in the 1975 mayoral race — has now been reversed by his victory over Cramer in this fall's Democratic primary, and then over write-in candidate George Tobin in the Nov. 7 election.

A Springfield native, Chapman said he first took an interest in politics in grade school, where mock elections were held during the Eisenhower-Stevenson years.

John Kennedy came to West Springfield High School in 1960 during his campaign for president and made a "tremendous impression" on Chapman, who was then attending the school.

Chapman won the first of his narrow victories at AIC, and soon after graduating worked for Hubert Humphrey in the 1968 presidential campaign.

The young Democrat grew to "enjoy the election process," and in 1971, married and living in Florence, ran for the City Council, and was successful in his first bid for public office.

After serving on the council for four years, he decided to run for mayor in 1975 because "I felt I had a good working knowledge of the city."

Chapman attributes his defeat to the endorsement of Cramer by former mayor Sean Dunphy, since both candidates had similar views on many programs.

In his successful 1977 bid for mayor, Chapman ran "essentially the same issue-oriented campaign," defeating Cramer, Tobin and Jonathan C. Roach in the Democratic primary.

That victory would have virtually assured him the office had Tobin not run as a write-in candidate in the general election, since Northampton does not have a viable Republican Party, and along with Brockton, is the only community in Massachusetts where partisan elections are still held.

After a campaign marked by bitterness between the two candidates, Chapman defeated Tobin by 400 votes in a surprisingly close election. When asked about the campaign, the winner spoke somewhat bitterly about Tobin's "unethical practices."

Tobin accused Chapman of being part of a 'machine.' "I had six people on my staff" said Chapman, "if you want to call that a machine." Tobin had "some old-time Democrats supporting him and asking him to run," Chapman said.

Tobin also said Chapman was 'not mature' enough to run the city. "He said he wanted to debate issues, but nowhere in the campaign did he ever debate issues," said Chapman.

After the election, Tobin claimed a moral victory and said he would have won if his name had been on the ballot. "When I lost in '75 I accepted defeat," remarked Chapman. "My prime beef (with Tobin) is that he didn't accept defeat."

Chapman refutes Tobin's charge that he is a career politician, and insists he has no political aspirations. "I'd like to hold office for two terms, but my main source of income is my business," he says.

Chapman owns the Open Pantry Food Mart in Florence.

The next mayor of Northampton is finding it difficult waiting until Jan. 3, when he will officially assume office. "I'm anxious, there are things I'd like to see happen," says Chapman. "It's a little like being in a prison. I'm almost there but I'm not."

Some of the things he said he'd like to see happen are programs such as a merger of the housing, redevelopment, and planning departments into one community development department, a parks and recreation department, and an increased emphasis on human services.

Chapman said he hopes to utilize the media to keep the citizens of Northampton informed on how his administration progresses.

He is talking with the editor of the Hampshire Daily Gazette about writing a weekly column and hopes to have a weekly radio show where citizens "who would not normally come to City Hall" would be able to call in questions during the program.

Chapman is enthusiastic about these projects, and calls the utilization of both the broadcast and print media in news, a "perfect marriage."

One of the new mayor's most difficult tasks after taking office will be restoring the people's confidence and trust in their police department.

In the last three months, various Northampton police officers, have been indicted for crimes ranging from reckless driving to burglary.

Chapman said the city was "lulled to sleep" by the relatively small amount of crime in the area in the last few years. According to Chapman, citizens now have "a feeling of uncertainty, and I want confidence in the police restored quickly."

Lame duck Mayor Cramer set up a committee to investigate the matter and report its findings to him on Dec. 15. Chapman said he will give the committee as much time as is needed, within reason.

TURN TO PAGE 4

Northampton mayor-elect Harry S. Chapman Jr. (Staff photo by Dan Vullemier)

54 per cent satisfied

Report reviews dorms

Students like living in dorms.

That's true, generally speaking, according to a recent report by the Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office.

The study was conducted at the request of the Residential Resource Management Office to "assess student satisfaction with the physical aspects of their residence and their satisfaction with the interpersonal environment where they live."

The survey showed 54 per cent of the 146 students surveyed were "satisfied" with the location of their residence hall in relation to the entire campus, and 51 per cent have a "very good" relationship with their roommate(s).

Undergraduates surveyed by telephone were from varying academic departments and residence areas.

Other results of the survey were:

— 57 per cent found the grounds surrounding their dorm to be "appealing."

— 57 per cent were "satisfied" with room furnishings.

— 45 per cent were "satisfied" with the amount of space in their rooms.

— 43 per cent said their dorms were "quiet."

— 52 per cent were generally "satisfied" with their residence hall.

— 56 per cent got the residence of their choice.

Comfort determines style

Editor's Note: Fifty-five students from the course "Man and Clothing," Home Economics 355, spent two weeks trying to find out what students are wearing on campus. Below is the result of that study, written by class-member Bonnie Shapiro.]

High fashion has few adherents on campus, with both casual and practical dress prevailing, according to a visual survey of 3,000 UMass students last month.

In contrast to 20 years ago when ties and suit coats were the norm at school, comfort now appears to be the most often considered aspect when choosing a certain style of fashion.

Results of the survey show that women wore more pants than dresses or jumpsuits. Of the pants worn by both sexes, 1,940 were Levi Strauss jeans, while men preferred to wear either denim or corduroy pants — corduroy being the favorite.

With the colder weather, 1,396 down-filled nylon jackets were most popular with both groups. There were also 1,359 ski parkas observed. Cloth and leather coats rated a close second and third.

Turtlenecks and cowls were popular among the women, while men wore the pullover roundneck sweaters with cotton shirts underneath. Flannel shirts were widely worn by the men.

For walking around on campus, the casual tie shoe was the most worn. Hiking boots and Frye boots were also popular for the men, with 735 pairs observed. Hiking boots came in a close second with 508 pairs.

In hair styles, short to medium length was the most frequently observed for the men, with sideburns or no facial hair at all. And although some women were seen with long hair, the survey indicated that more women are wearing their hair shorter, in blown-dryed styles.

The survey took place the week before Thanksgiving, as each student in the class chose a campus location, and kept tables on what clothes students were wearing. For the most part, the dress was dictated by the weather, which was typical for late fall — cool and partly cloudy.

Most of the survey was conducted in the area dining commons and the Campus Center-Student Union complex.

★ Mayor

CONT. FROM PAGE 3

Police Chief James J. Whalen has been criticized by the mayoral committee as being unresponsive and unapproachable to his police officers, and his relationship with Chapman is strained at best. The division between the two men stems from Whalen's refusal to grant Chapman access to night logs when the city councillor was part of a committee investigating burglaries in his neighborhood.

The police chief recently announced he would retire within six months however, so any future friction between the mayor and the police department will apparently be avoided.

With regard to finding a new police chief, Chapman said while he will give considerable attention to those applying from within the department, he "would not hesitate to look outside the department."

Chapman advocates the elimination of the department head from civil service, arguing "all department heads should be accountable to the mayor." He also said he dislikes the civil service exam for police chief, which limits candidates to the top three scorers.

If Chapman succeeds in getting the job out of civil service, the chief would be appointed by the mayor, approved by the City Council, and then a public hearing.

The mayor-elect said he realizes he will have to work together with the police department in the future "to build the morale of the department.

"Pride has to be restored. The majority of the officers are decent guys. The city has to recognize the outstanding officers and the department has to get involved in community activities. The department will have to go out of its way to improve its image," he said.

Index ready for spring

By BRIAN NELSON
Collegian Staff

Index '77, the UMass yearbook, will not be released this month as expected, according to Rebecca Greenberg, editor of the 1978 Index.

Greenberg attributes the delay to missing materials and the yearbook's "very complicated" design. She said she expects the yearbook to arrive "sometime in February."

Students should keep their Index computer cards, Greenberg said. Presentation of the card with $1 is needed to get an Index.

Those graduating this semester that cannot get to campus to pick up the yearbook can leave their name and $1 at the Index office and have the yearbook sent to them, Greenburg said or have someone pick it up for them.

Graduating students will be asked to present proof they attended UMass for two consecutive semesters, with their computer cards, although two course schedules, identification stickers or infirmary appointment cards are all acceptable proofs in case the card is lost, Greenberg said.

The Index is usually distributed on a first-come, first-served basis. Greenberg said she expects to distribute the yearbooks on the Campus Center Concourse.

We Regret to Inform You

We Regret to Inform You... that INDEX '77 has been unavoidably delayed at press.
We are Pleased to Inform You... that it will arrive on campus early in the spring semester.

We realize this causes a number of problems for students concerning receipt of the book. The following guidelines will be in effect during distribution, and we ask your cooperation to minimize confusion.

All fall '77 INDEX cards will be honored at distribution. This is your best method of identification for receiving the INDEX.

Proof of enrollment at the university for two consecutive semesters will also be accepted identification, i.e. two course schedules, I.D. stickers, Infirmary appointment cards, etc. Only those having this type of proof with the graduating class year of 1980 or below are eligible to receive a book.

PLEASE DO NOT GO TO THE REGISTRAR'S OFFICE for this type of material—they are swamped as it is and cannot handle these requests. Seniors from the class of 1977 will receive their books in the mail.

These forms of identification, plus one dollar entitles you an INDEX.

Please watch the Collegian in the spring for further distribution information.

We apologize for the inconvenience and will appreciate your cooperation.

The Editors
INDEX '77

---

Lady Churchill dead at 92

LONDON (AP) — Lady Clementine Spencer-Churchill, for 57 years the wife and "darling Clemmie" of Sir Winston Churchill, died of a heart attack at her home yesterday She was 92.

Sir Winston, Britain's World War II prime minister who died in 1965 at the age of 90, once wrote of his wedding in 1908:

"I married and lived happily ever after. My marriage was the most fortunate and joyous event which happened to me in the whole of my life, for what can be more glorious than to be united in one's walk through life with a being incapable of an ignoble thought."

Lady Spencer-Churchill was stricken while lunching with her longtime secretary, Miss Nonie Chapman, at her apartment overlooking Hyde Park in the center of fashionable London. Her grandson, Winston Churchill, a Conservative member of Parliament, announced her death.

He said she had no recent history of heart trouble, although she had been in failing health the past few years, and said that in recent weeks "she was remarkably well. This was very sudden."

Lady Spencer-Churchill was dressed and looking forward to an afternoon drive when she collapsed and died "peacefully," her grandson said.

He said her funeral will be private and a memorial service will be held in early 1978. No date has been set for the funeral.

USED BOOKS
IN GOOD CONDITION

Over 10,000, all ages, all subjects, all at low prices

VALLEY BOOK SHOP
Carriage Shops, Amherst

10-5:30 daily, Thurs & Fri til 8
Open Sundays in Dec. 1-5 p.m.

News in Brief

University appoints woman president

NEW HAVEN (AP) — When Hanna H. Gray and her husband, Charles, joined the University of Chicago history faculty in 1959, it was unusual because married women usually didn't get those chances in higher education, she recalls.

Soon they will be going back. But the unusual this about it this time is the fact Mrs. Gray will be the university's first woman president.

Mrs. Gray, 47, already the highest ranking woman in U.S. college administration circles as acting president of Yale University, was officially offered the Chicago post on Saturday.

This time Gray, a Yale senior research associate, is following her to the new job. He is negotiating for his job on his own, his wife noted Monday in a news conference.

She will remain at Yale until June, when she will succeed Chicago President John T. Wilson on his retirement.

Mrs. Gray dodged questions about whether she took the Chicago job because she learned she had been passed ver as Yale's next president. But she said she had made a decision on Chicago "independently" of Yale considerations.

In response to the repeated question from reporters, she replied, "I am leaving Yale because I was asked to be the next president of the University of Chicago and I couldn't turn it down."

Council criticizes power plant claims

MONTAGUE, Mass. (AP) — The Massachusetts Energy Facilities Siting Council has sharply criticized some claims by Northeast Utilities Co. about its proposed nuclear power plant here.

Northeast's predictions regarding the economic and social impact of the $2.3 billion plant on the Franklin County area are "extremely inadequate," according to a siting council report.

The council staff was responding to portions of the Environmental Impact Statement submitted in connection with the application to build twin atomic generators near the Connecticut River in this rural western Massachusetts town. Both the siting council and federal officials must approve construction plans.

"The applicant's analysis is significantly (out)dated, lacks a regional perspective, and employs an inappropriate analytical method," the state agency said.

Northeast spokesman Robert E. Barrett Jr., interviewed yesterday, said, "I haven't seen the report at all, and certainly we can't comment on it until we've seen it."

The siting council's 91-page report was released last week, three days before Northeast announced it was postponing construction of the plant by two to four years. The latest plan calls for completion of the first unit between 1988 and 1990.

At the same time, Northeast, based in Berlin, Conn., said it wants to go ahead as planned with construction permit hearings scheduled to begin March 15. The Energy Facilities Siting Council and the federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission will preside jointly at the hearings.

In one area of criticism, the council said Northeast's estimates about the number of jobs to be created for Franklin County residents probably are too high because many of the highly skilled workers needed will have to be brought in from other regions.

Attorney General proposes agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Griffin Bell proposed yesterday that the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration be abolished and replaced by a streamlined National Institute of Justice.

The institute, Bell said, would continue the LEAA's two main functions — conducting crime research and administering federal aid for state and local law enforcement — but with tighter controls and less red tape.

A Justice Department spokesman said Bell's proposed reorganization did not involve the level of LEAA law enforcement grants, which are set by Congress, except for placing limits on federal funds used for planning.

Bell submitted the plan privately to President Carter in a Nov. 21 memo that said, "The history of the LEAA has been quite controversial and many of the programs the agency has funded have been of questionable value."

Meany re-elected despite age

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany was re-elected at age 83 yesterday, despite the com plaints of a few union leaders that he had grown too old.

Meany, who has headed the giant labor federation since it was founded by merger in 1955, was elected to his 12th two-year term by an overwhelming voice vote of delegates to the AFLCIO convention.

The one-time plumber from the Bronx pledged to carry out labor's program through 1979.

But a few convention delegates, led by Machinists' President William Winpisinger, declined to join the delegates in applauding Meany's re-election.

"There is a feeling among union members that he is of advanced age and they have trouble relating to that," Winpisinger said in an interview.

Winpisinger, who long has advocated Meany's voluntary retirement, said, "There are a lot of organized workers who feel that way."

The convention also reelected secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, Meany's heirapparent, and chose Winpisinger and four other union presidents to fill vacancies on the AFL-CIO's executive council. Winpisinger vowed as a council member to challenge AFL-CIO policies.

Non-union coal field invaded by striking workers

Striking United Mine Workers members invaded the non-union coal fields of eastern Kentucky yesterday and forced some truck drivers to dump coal alongside highways. Meanwhile, progress was reported at the contract talks, but no quick settlement was in sight.

UMW president Arnold Miller was at the talks in Washington for the first time since last week, when he went home to West Virginia.

About 400 strikers ranged through parts of Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky in a 100- vehicle caravan. In Kentucky, they forced drivers to empty at least five trucks loaded with non-union coal.

Meanwhile, other miners were picketing non-union mines in Kentucky and other states, including those at the Stearns Mining Co., where occasional violence has broken out since 1976. Two strikers were arrested at one Kentucky mine and seven others in Indiana.

A crowd of about 200 gathered at the Stearns mine, and state police were sent to enforce a court order limiting pickets to six, officials said.

About 200 UMW members apparently replaced striking Stearns employes — who want to join the UMW — on the picket line.

Officials said at least 30 state police cars, carrying troopers in riot gear, were sent to the mine.

Near Catlettsburg, Ky., four truckers were forced to deposit their coal alongside U.S. 23. Another truck was emptied alongside state highway 194 near Johns Creek, state police said.

Kentucky state police made no apparent effort to interfere with the caravan. "We're monitoring the caravan, but so far that's all we're doing," a police spokesman said.

But they arrested Joe Donald Whitt, 27, and Leslie Canada, 23, both of Ragland, W.Va., who were on a picket line at a Canada Coal Co. mine at Kimper, Ky. They were charged with wanton endangerment after rocks broke the windshields on cars trying to go through the line.

Seven persons were arrested on disorderly conduct charges at a coal-loading dock in Rockport, Ind.

JOBS AVAILABLE
The collegian is looking for;
• Assistant Managing Editor •
• Assistant Business Manager •
• Driver for 5 College Deliveries
Proofreaders •
• Copy Editors
Graphics volunteers •
• On Campus Delivery Person
Layout People •
• Assistant Advertising Manager •
• Advertising Representative •

There are also workstudy positions available

Come down to the Collegian office, CC 113, to apply

"AN IDEAL CHRISTMAS GIFT" (OMDC)
You may not have the most economical engine in your VW.

You can't have it when your VW is not performing properly. It's what you bought your VW for: lower gasoline bills, performance with economy. Let your VW continue to give you the economy you paid for with our Engine Performance Special.

Please bring this coupon with you to qualify for this Special

REPLACE PLUGS, POINTS ● SET TIMING AND DWELL ANGLE ● ADJUST VALVES ● TEST COMPRESSION ● CLEAN AIR CLEANER ● LUBRICATION ● CHANGE OIL ● FILTER REPLACEMENT

Engine Performance
Special

$39.95
(Reg. $52.00)

Valid until 12/31/77

All work is done by trained VW mechanics, using genuine VW parts. We personally guarantee all work on your car for six months or 6,000 miles, whichever comes first, in normal use.

Models with air conditioning slightly higher: ask for special price

"Your complete dealer"
NORTHAMPTON
VOLKSWAGEN
BMW, INC.
246 KING STREET ● RT. 5 NORTHAMPTON, MASS. 01060
PHONE 584-8620
SPECIAL COUPON

What's Happening

TODAY

LECTURE

— "Studies on Progesterone Receptor Systems," by Dr. Wendell W. Leavitt, Scientist at the Worcester Foundation for Experimental Biology 4 p.m., 203, Grad Research Tower A.

FILM

— "Alaska-National Interest Lands," 7:30 p.m., Jones Library Gallery, Amherst College. Discussion to follow. Sponsored by the Sierra Club.

— "Daguerrotypes," a new film by French director Agnes Varda, 7 and 9:15 p.m. Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire. $1.

— "Deep Throat," SUB, 4, 5:30, 7, 8:30, 10, 11:30. $1. Advance tickets at TIX. Sponsored by Zeta Nu.

SEMINAR

Prof. Joseph Sardinas will discuss the use and abuse of computers in a seminar from 9-12 and 1:15-4:30 p.m., Campus Center. Room number will be posted. Sardinas will discuss how organizations can minimize financial losses by assessing the data processing audit controls. $1.00 per person. For further information, contact Carol B. MacKnight, 104 Hasbrouck, Div. of Continuing Ed, 5-2040.

FINAL EXAM PREP

The Service Action Staff of the Career-Life Development Team will hold a session designed to relive tensions about finals. They will offer specific suggestions on how to maximize study time, how to approach test content, and other hints of what works for successful test-takers, 7 p.m. Van Meter South Central lounge.

AUDITIONS

Auditions for "Major Barbara," 3 p.m., Laboratory Theatre, Mt. Holyoke.

TOMORROW

POETRY READING

At the Orchard Hill Women's Center in Field House, 7:30. All are invited.

LECTURES

Boris Rabbot, the highest-ranking Soviet official to leave the USSR during the recent wage of emigration, will speak at 4:30 p.m. in the Converse Assembly Room, Amherst College. His talk, sponsored by the department of political science and the Foreign Affairs Club, is entitled, "The Soviet Foreign Policy Mind: Psychological Portraits of Soviet Leaders." Rabbot will deliver his lecture in Russian with a consecutive English translation.

DAILY

INTERNSHIPS

Assist in the evaluation of a coordinated, area-based system for the aged at Holyoke Chicopee Regional Home Care Corp. Contact the Internship Office for further information.

PROGRAM SUPPORT FUNDS COMMITTEE — SYLVAN RESIDENTS

Four positions available on the committee to spend Program Support Funds. Women and minorities urged to apply. Contact Linne Donaldson, 6-5800, Jim O'Connell 6-4210, or Lee Connor 6-0290.

EXHIBITION

— "A Bridging Statement" by Lorenzo Pezzatini, at the Student Union Gallery, today through Friday.

— Tom Graffagnino's MFA exhibition will be on display at the Herter Gallery through Dec. 21.

MARKS MEADOW AFTER SCHOOL DAY CARE

Academic credit possible for work as staff member in the Marks Meadow Day Care Program for four weeks in January. Also, earn 4 to 6 credits as a staff member during spring semester 2-5 aft-wk. Program meets Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, 2:45-5:45, Wednesday 1-5:45. Staff meetings Thursday at 9:30. Chance to lead activities for groups of children ages 5-11. Contact Syivia Lindsay 665-3990.

— "A Moleculjr Basis for Disease Resistance in Plants" by Dr. Gary Strobel of Montana State University. 4 p.m., 203, Grad Research Tower A.

— Alexander Eliot Seminar on Art History, 8 p.m., Lounge, Franklin Patterson Hall, Hampshire.

— "Latin American Folk Pottery" by Gertrude Litto. 8 p.m., Gamble Aud., Mt. Holyoke. Sponsored by Five-College Latin American Studies.

Applications for summer counselors

Applications are now being accepted for student group leader positions in the 1978 Summer Counseling Program. The program will operate from June 4 through July 24, 1978. Eleven sessions for first-year students will be held, along with five transfer programs.

Training sessions for the 30 selected counselors will be held late next semester and the week of May 30 through June 2. All positions require residence in an assigned residence hall and meals in the dining commons for the nine-week period. Summer counseling positions require full-time participation. Summer school courses cannot be taken.

Qualifications for counselor positions include successful work experience, a positive attitude toward University life, knowledge requiring academic course planning, high energy level, a willingness to accept job performance standards and to attend the spring training sessions.

Interested and qualified students may obtain an application from the Community Development Center, 123 Berkshire House. Applications must be returned on or before Feb. 3, 1978. Selections will be announced during spring break.

Adopt a dog

As of yesterday, the following dogs are at the Amherst Dog Pound, (Wagner Farm, 217 North East St., 253-7294), and may be either claimed or adopted:

—Male German Short Hair Pointer, charcoal brown, stray on Wentworth Drive.

—Male doberman, black and tan, floppy ears, picked up on a complaint on Phillips Street.

—Male long hair mix, black with white markings, small, picked up on a complaint on East Pleasant Street.

—Shepherd-retriever puppy, light tan, looking for a home.

—Female hound-shepherd mix, black with tan, rusty face, from UMass Police Dept.

Stockbridge Calendar

Dec. 14,

—STOSO. 7 p.m. rm. CC 10

—Student Senate, 8 p.m. CC 101 Christmas Party

—Basketball: Stockbridge vs. Frontier, 4 p.m., Curry Hicks,

—Holly Jolly, last day for tickets, Students $4, guests $5. Purchase tickets in 432 SUB.

Dec. 16th

Freshman Class Ski trip — nonrefundable $5 deposit due in the senate office. 432 SUB.

Dec. 18

Holly Jolly Christmas Party, SUB, Cocktails 7 p.m., dinner 8 p.m. Dancing to Phase II.

UMass theatre needs staff

The UMass Music Theatre Guild is now soliciting applications for the production staff of its spring musical presentation: of, "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown."

The unsalaried staff position is open to anyone in the five-college area include producer, director, musical director, choreographer, set designer, costume designer, lighting designer, technical director, stage manager, props manager, master carpenter and master electrician.

All applications should be received by Dec. 19. Applications can be mailed by campus mail to: David Ambos, RSO Box 507, Student Union. For more information contact Karen White 256-6194, David Ambos 546-6564 or Felicia Gulachenski 549-4833.

RSO's

Must submit to Student Senate Office Rationales and Budget Proposals for funding in 1978-79

DEADLINE

5 p.m.

TOMORROW

ABSOLUTELY NO LATE PROPOSALS OR RATIONALES WILL BE ACCEPTED

Student Government Association

---

SOME CLASSES WILL HELP CURE INSOMNIA

But wouldn't it be nice to know what to expect of a course before the first day of class.

We are trying to increase the number of courses covered in the Course and Teacher Evaluation, but we need your help.

Listed below are names of teachers who have cooperated by releasing their evaluations. If your professors are not on the list, ask them to sign the release forms they've been given by the Student Government Association.

Talk to Department heads too. (They can release evaluations for the entire department).

If this doesn't work, simply fill out our evaluation forms on the bottom of this page and drop them in the box at the Candy Counter. [Student Union]

THESE TEACHERS HAVE RELEASED THEIR EVALUATIONS

Abrams, Linda
Abramson, Davis E.
Ackerman, Robert
Afesi, Dovi
Agrios, George N.
Airhart, Douglas L.
Aitken, Norman D.
Albertson, Dean
Allen, Ernest
Allen, Luther
Allen, P. Geoffrey
Alwitt, Linda
Anderson, D.R.
Anderson, John W.
Anderson, Warren
Arny, Thomas
Arsenault, Joel
Aune, Bruce
Austin, Allen
Barber, Mary K.
Barbosa, Pedro
Barker, Allen W.
Barreda, Pedro
Barron, Leon
Baskin, Judith R.
Beal, Virginia A.
Beaty, Nancy
Bennett, M.K.
Berlin, Normand
Berliner, Howard
Bert, Mark H.
Best, Michael H.
Bierhorst, David W.
Blackman, John L.
Bloodsworth, David R.
Bonsignore, John
Borton, Anthony
Boothroyd, Geoffrey
Borugtein, Tim
Boyer, Paul
Bracey, John
Bragger, Jeannette
Branch, Ben S.
Braunthal, Gerard
Brehm, John J.
Bretlinger, John J.
Brown, Laurie
Brown, T. Dennis
Bulman, Ronnie Janoff
Bunn, Radie
Butterfield, D. Anthony
Cappeluzzo, Emma M.
Cardwell, Lucy
Carlson, Neil R.
Cashdan, Sheldon
Cattani, Eduardo H.
Chajes, Alexander
Chappel, Vere
Chen, Christine
Cheng, Ching-Mao
Chevan, Albert
Chew, Robert L.
Chrisman, Miriam U.
Chumbly, James I.
Claunch, Pearl
Clayton, John
Clifton, Charles
Clifton, Rachel
Clydesdale, F.M.
Cooalis, Susan L.
Cohen, Alvin P.
Connelly, William F.
Conrad, John M.
Coombs, Walter P. Jr.
Coppersmith, Evan
Costley, Richard J.
Cramer, Chester D.
Creed, Robert P.
Cromack, Duane E.
Crotty, James
Cully, Margo
Cuomo, George
Davis, Chester
Davis, Hugh C.
Day, Robert
Deere, Carmen Diana
Diamond, Arlya
Dickinson, Charles
Dienes, Laslow
Dutach, John
Donahue, John W.
Duffy, Joseph R.
Duguay, Gerry
Dzendolet Ernest
Edwards, Lee R.
Edwards, Richard C.
Erlich, Leonard
Eisenberg, Murray
Ellis, Richard S.
Elliot, Daryl
Elshtain, Jean Bethke
Fabos, Julius M.
Fagundes, Francisco
Farris, Richard J.
Faulkingham, Ralph
Feldman, Fred
Ferguson, Ann
Finch, Frederic E.
Finnerty, Joseph
Fischer, Louis
Forman, George
Foster, John H.
Francis, F.J.
Frank, Joseph
Gadlin, Howard
Gage, Robert
Garaud, Christian
Geman, Donald
Gengal, Roy W.
Gettier, Edmund
Gibbs, Margaret D.
Gibson, Walker
Gibson, William A.
Gjertson, Donald
Godfrey, Laurie
Goldman, Sheldon
Goldsmith, Paul
Griffin, Pat
Golowach, Eugene
Grillo, John
Gunner, Haim B.
Gutzwiller, Kathryn
Habeeb, Dan
Hafner, James A.
Halgin, Lucille
Halgin, Richard
Hambleton, Ronald
Hamilton, Ronald
Hardegree, Gary
Harmatz, Mort
Hart, Robert
Hartz, H. Richard
Hayes, Richard R.
Hayes, Lyle
Haven, Richard
Heidelberger, Herbert
Hepler, Peter
Hertzback, Stanley
Hilf, Laura M.
Hill, F.S. Jr.
Hofer, Ernest H.
Holesovsky, Vaclav
Holland, Samuel Jr.
Horowitz, Joseph
Howard, Marshall C.
Hugus, Frank
Hurn, Christopher
Hutchineson, Charles E.
Irvine, William
Ivey, Al
Jacobs, Gila KornFeld
Jakus, Carl
Jefferson, Ann
Johnston, William M.
Jones, Dalton
Jones, Robert E.
Jubian, Michael
Junkins, Donald
Kaplan, Alexandra
Kaplan, Arnoldo
Katzner, Donald W.
Key, Charles R.
Kfoury, D.J.
Killian, Lewis
Kilmer, William
Kindahl, James K.
King, Gordon
Klar, Lawrence R.
Kline, Harvey F.
Kohler, Heinz
Kramer, Fred
Kucekova, Eva T.
Kupperman, Gerald L.
Lake, Joseph
Lamb, Nancy E.
Langland, Joseph
Langley, Kenneth
Lawall, Sarah
Leifer, Richard
Lemeshow, Stanley
Lenson, David
Levin, Maurice I.
Levin, Robert E.
Liander, Bertril
Lieberman, Alan J.
Lindsay, Edgar E.
Locke, L.F.
Lockwood, Linda G.
Male, James
Manes, E.G.
Mankin, Paul J.
Manning, William
Marry, John D.
Martin, Daniel R.
Martin, John R.
Martin, Michael T.
Mason, Thomas L.
Matlack, JamesH.
Mathews, Anne
Malkin, Paul A.
McAuley, Thomas M.
McCarthy, Harold T.
McCrea, Arlene
McFarland, Gerald W.
McNeil, Robert H.
McWhorter, Earl J.
Melrose, Jay
Meyer, David
Miles, Raymond
Miller, Aurelia T.
Lucien, Miller
Mitchell, John H.
Moebius, William
Monserrate, Jose S.
Moore, Jean
Mulcahy, David
Naff, William
Narahara, Tomike
Nilsson, Nils
North, Mary S.
Oates, Stephen B.
O'Brien, Ken
O'Connell, James
Odiorne. George
Olley, J. Gregory
Ortiz, Jessie S.
Partee, Barbara H.
Paulson, Wolgang
Pearce, I.F.
Perkins, Lyle N.
Peng, Chin-tang
Peterson, G.A.
Peters, John
Petroff, Elizabeth
Phillips, Norman
Phinney, Edward
Pitrat, C.W.
Platt, Rutherford H.
Poli, Corrado
Politella, Dario
Portuges, Cathy
Potter, Frank E
Prince, Allen
Purcell, Joanne
Quick, Jonathan R
Quinton, Arthur R
Rapping, Leonard
Ramos, Diana
Rauch, Harold
Reed, Carl
Reh, Albert M.
Reiner, Alby
Resnick, Stephen
Rice, Thomas E.
Robinson, Fred
Rohde, Richard
Roof, Wade C.
Rosenfeld, Stuart M.
Roskill, Mark
Roter, Debra
Rothstein, Halina
Rothstein, Robert
Rudvalis, Arunas
Rupp, William
Russell, G.A.
Ryavec, K.W.
St. Mary, Donald
Salzman, Zdenek
Saveride, Jay
Schiffer, Eva
Schindler, Richard A.
Schumacher, Warren F.
Schuman, David
Scott, Donald E.
Scott, Nina M.
Scorville, Nichloas
Seidman, Ann
Sequeira, Maria
Shapiro, Seymour
Sheckels, G.Dale
Shepp, Archie
Sides, Charles H.
Simonson, Norman R.
Simpson, Richard H.
Sirius, Donald
Sleigh, Robert
Smyth, J. Robert Jr.
Snedecor, James G.
Spears, Betty
Spears, Brent
Spivack, Charlotte
Stamps, Paula
Stankovich, Marian T.
Stawiecki, Edmund
Steiner, Ivan D.
Stevens, Nelson
Strickland, Bonnie
Strickland, William
Su, Jin-Chen
Swaim, Kathleen
Swanson, Carl
Tademaru, Eugene
Tattar, Terry A.
Taylor, J.H.
Teng, Shou-Hsin
Tessler, Richard
Thompson, Diane A.
Tobey, Janet
Treyz, George
Tucker, Robert G.
Turner, Freerick
Tymoczko, Maria
Uden, Peter C.
Ulin, Priscilla R.
Ulin, Richard O.
Unatis, William P.
Vogley, Martha
Wang, Jing
Watt, Norman F.
Weiss, Richard S.
Well, Arnold D.
Weston, John D.
White, Barbara
White, Donald W.
Wideman, John
Wilce, Robert T.
Wilkie, Richard W.
Wilkins, Wendy
Willis, Cleve E.
Woldring, R. Dirk
Wolf, Jack Keil
Wolff, Richard D.
Wolff, Robert Paul
Wright, James B.
Zahavi, Abraham
Zajicek, O.T.
Ziff, Howard M.
Zinmeister, George E.

For Each Item, Use The Following Scale to Rate Your Instructor and/or Course

A=Outstanding B=Good C=Adequate D=Poor E=Not applicable or no opinion

Be sure to complete each and every item

1. Instructor's ability to clearly explain course material
2. The quality of reading material
3. The instructor's enthusiasm for the subject
4. The instructor's preparation for classes
5. The instructor's respect for students in general
6. The instructor's concern for the quality of his or her teaching
7. The instructor's respect for and treatment of women students
8. The instructor's availability to students outside of class
9. The fairness and appropriateness of exams, papers or other assignments
10. The instructor's willingness to discuss differing points of view
11. The extent to which the course increased your knowledge of the subject
12. The instructor's willingness to be flexible with the course
13. The instructor's awareness of whether the students are understanding him or her
14. Overall, what is your general impression of this course as taught by this instructor?
15. Year in School: (A=First, B=Second, C=Third, D=Fourth, E=Fifth or other)
16. Your Major: (A=This course's dept., B=Another dept., C=Undeclared)
17. What grade do you anticipate for this course (A=A, B=B, C=C, D=D or F, E = Pass/Fail or No Idea)
18. Sex: (A = Male, B = Female)

[All ID #'s will remain confidential.]

Course and teacher evaluation information is one of many concerns of UMass undergraduates. Throughout the university students are organizing around issues of common interest - in department councils, dorm councils, student government/student union, the work-place, etc. To find out more of what's going on and how you can become involved in improving the quality of education and life at UMass contact the Student Organizing Project at 545-2415 (426 Student Union Building).

Instructor
Dept. ______________ Course ________
Course No. ______________ Sec. ________
1 ABCDE 10 ABCDE
2 ABCDE 11 ABCDE
3 ABCDE 12 ABCDE
4 ABCDE 13 ABCDE
5 ABCDE 14 ABCDE
6 ABCDE 15 ABCDE
7 ABCDE 16 ABCDE
8 ABCDE 17 ABCDE
9 ABCDE 18 ABCDE

Instructor
Dept. ______________ Course ________
Course No. ______________ Sec. ________
1 ABCDE 10 ABCDE
2 ABCDE 11 ABCDE
3 ABCDE 12 ABCDE
4 ABCDE 13 ABCDE
5 ABCDE 14 ABCDE
6 ABCDE 15 ABCDE
7 ABCDE 16 ABCDE
8 ABCDE 17 ABCDE
9 ABCDE 18 ABCDE

Instructor
Dept. ______________ Course ________
Course No. ______________ Sec. ________
1 ABCDE 10 ABCDE
2 ABCDE 11 ABCDE
3 ABCDE 12 ABCDE
4 ABCDE 13 ABCDE
5 ABCDE 14 ABCDE
6 ABCDE 15 ABCDE
7 ABCDE 16 ABCDE
8 ABCDE 17 ABCDE
9 ABCDE 18 ABCDE

Instructor
Dept. ______________ Course ________
Course No. ______________ Sec. ________
1 ABCDE 10 ABCDE
2 ABCDE 11 ABCDE
3 ABCDE 12 ABCDE
4 ABCDE 13 ABCDE
5 ABCDE 14 ABCDE
6 ABCDE 15 ABCDE
7 ABCDE 16 ABCDE
8 ABCDE 17 ABCDE
9 ABCDE 18 ABCDE

South Africa: You can't afford to be misinformed

By DAVID OLMOS

It seems not so long ago that I was a child of around ten-years-old, hearing of this war we were fighting on the other side of the globe against some people who were a different color and who lived in a place called Vietnam.

I recall watching the news and reading the paper and always seeing the number of people killed, U.S. dead, U.S. wounded, U.S. missing in action and then always, Viet Cong dead was flashed quickly across the screen.

I knew practically nothing of this war except people kept getting killed and it had something to do with stopping those bad Communists. As the war continued, no one ever really explained to me why we were fighting there. And only now do I think I'm beginning to understand the reasons and see that I wasn't told about this war because hardly anyone knew enough about it to explain it to me.

Now you can't pick up a newspaper or watch T.V. without hearing of this place called South Africa, where most of the people are also a different color than most of us. But what makes this small country so important to us that it fills so much news space?

Is it because as Americans we are so concerned with the human rights of all people around the world that it is inherently a concern? Is it, when there are millions of people in this country who cannot get enough to eat each day while a few blocks away the food they need is being thrown down someone's garbage disposal? Is not eating a basic human right? Well, hopefully human rights are still a concern of some people and South Africa is the best example of the violation of these rights.

In South Africa you have the world's most blatantly racist regime, which as a matter of policy keeps the black majority in their country from ever being able to reach economic, social, or political equality. At the head of the country you have Prime Minister John Vorster, an accused former Nazi sympathizer, who was recently re-elected in a landslide election. Not a surprising result considering that the 18.6 million blacks cannot vote in these elections.

This government banishes black women and children to Bantustans (or "reservations" to define it in a more American way) because they are not "productive" enough, while their husbands might work far away, three miles underground in a gold mine under hellish conditions just trying to make enough to feed their families. And often they still can't make enough and the South African government kindly provides ready-dug graves for black children who they know will die from malnutrition and starvation.

To say that human rights are the only concern which certain parties in South Africa have would be inaccurate. There are several others which should be understood to more clearly define the situation in that country.

South Africa is located in a very important geographical location both militarily and economically. South Africa has some non-renewable natural resources, such as gold and chromium, which happen to be real popular here in the United States. South Africa is also popular among the elite of the giant U.S. corporations such as Ford, General Motors, Coca-Cola and many of our other favorites. These corporations find a highly profitable cheap labor market in the black worker. And who ever heard of a successful business that didn't seek to maximize profits in any way they could? Adam Smith would have fits in his grave if he heard of a business acting irrationally enough to throw away shareholders' profits over a silly human rights issue!

Sough Africa also has some Marxist neighbors in Mozambique and Angola. If a war for black majority rule erupts in Southern Africa, as it probably will, many situations could occur that might have a significant effect on our lives.

For instance, if a radical Marxist black faction and a more moderate faction both arose and were in conflict with each other to overthrow the white government, the possibility could arise for some level of a Soviet-U.S. confrontation. The U.S. would not want to see another Marxist country in this area of important national interest and there's never any telling what might be done to prevent this. Even though the U.S. chose not to intervene in Angola, South Africa could prove to be a more explosive situation.

Most of us, I hope would be upset at the very least at the crime to humanity which goes unpunished in South Africa.

(Remember that 1954 was an important date for beginning to change another racist state called the United States). Others might be concerned because they won't like to see themselves, someone they know, or even their dollars shipped off to South Africa during a war.

Now at the beginning of this essay I was talking about Vietnam, and how most us didn't really know what the real issues were during that war. I'm not so sure that the lessons of Vietnam were really learned but it seems that in South Africa we have a good chance to prove whether they were or not.

We could just let this issue pass and take whatever course it may, or this time we could gather knowledge about what is really happening in that far away country with all those problems. It is not hard to find out what the facts are. Anyone who can read or listen has no excuse. This time you can't afford to not be informed.

David Olmos is a Collegian guest commentator.

MASSACHUSETTS DAILY
Collegian
Student Newspaper of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, MA 01003 (413) 545-3500

BOARD OF EDITORS

RONALD J. ARENA, Editor-in Chief; ROBERT J. HIGGINS, Managing Editor; ANTHONY P. ARMELIN, Business Manager; BERNARD T. DAVIDOW, News Editor; WILLIAM A. SUNDSTROM, Executive Editor; JUDITH M. VAN HANDLE, Sports Editor; MARILYN MANKOWSKY, Photo Editor; ANGELA P. THOMAS, Black Affairs Editor; ROBERT M. ARMSTRONG, Fine Arts Editor; FIFINE D. BALL, Women's Editor.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS

Dorothy A. Clark, Jerold R. Kassner, Joseph E. Maglitta, Assistant News Editors; Michael P. Doran, Assistant Executive Editor; Patrick O. Dobbs, Assistant Photo Editor; David R. Rodman, Assistant Sports Editor; Kenneth S. Shain Assistant Fine Arts Editor; James W. Lewis, Assistant Black Affairs Editor.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

Laurie A. Wood, Assistant Business Manager; Steven N. Lesser, Advertising Manager; David Perlow, Joseph P. Geraghty, Assistant Advertising Managers; Randy Glenn, Graphics Manager; Ann Emanuelli, Eva H. Perles, Claire D'Amour, Assistant Graphics Managers; Steven J. Polansky, Circulation Manager; Ann Meissner, National Advertising Manager.

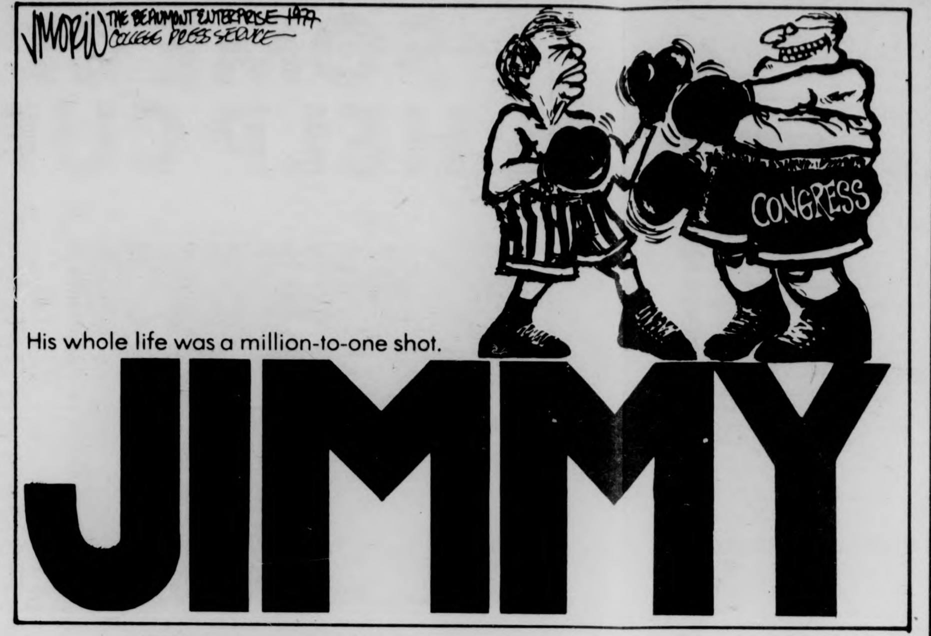
The Collegian is the student newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal view of the authors.

The Collegian is a member of the Associated Press and subscribes to United Press International. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The Collegian is a member of Columbia Scholastic Press Association, The College Press Service, The Pacific News Service and the Christian Science Monitor News Service.

The Collegian strives to print only advertising which is truthful and complete, but final responsibility for all advertising lies with the individual advertisers.



VMORIN THE BEAUMONT ENTERPRISE 1977 COLLEGE PRESS SERVICE
CONGRESS
His whole life was a million-to-one shot.
JIMMY

The professor's arse: An ode for finals week

karen hermann

The Professor's Arse: An Ode for Finals Week
[with apologies to Alfred Tennyson, whose lyric genius inspired this masterpiece]

Kiss thou not the professor's arse;
It won't do thee no good.
The professor's soul is made of stone
That can't be moved by flesh alone.
Kiss thou not His arse!

Tear-eyed fawner, come not near!
Flirty freshie, moron soph,
If thou wantest that D to disappear
Better use some greenbacks, deer,
But come not near!

Freshies faint 'neath His cruel sneer,
In His eye lurks dark death,
Frosty is his demon breath
So prithee, come not near!

Where he stands He cannot hear the whines and plaints of feeble babes
Torn from Mother's loving arms
At eighteen years of age.

From Stockbridge to the School of Ed
Untold hordes of transfers dead.

"UMass is a gut school," they all said.
Alas, they're dead.

Thou mayst cry and plead and beg.
Thou mayst brown-nose,
Thou mayst lick shoes
With thy body'd dwindling strength.
But unless thou hast the moolah
Thou cannot beat that final F.

Karen Hermann is a Collegian columnist.

Censorship: The question of values

By BILL RIORDAN

A variety of provocative events have recently raised some questions in people's minds about the boundaries of morality, the scope of accepted taste, and who should define and defend them.

First, there was Anita Bryant and her holy war on homosexuals. With certainty derived from missionary zeal, Ms. Bryant declared publicly that her sexual preference is the only legitimate one. And she got a lot of people to agree with her. She didn't do it for herself personally, she said, rather she was acting out God's will. Apparently they're on speaking terms. Personally, I think the manipulation of religious doctrine to arouse fear and revolt at homosexuality is far more loathsome than homosexuality itself.

Another cauldron of sex and sin has brewed up around Larry Flynt, publisher of Hustler, a very crude magazine, as I discovered in my research. Arrested on obscenity charges, Mr. Flynt was suddenly contemplating twenty five years in jail and an $11,000 fine. What did he do then? First, he got a lawyer. Then he got religion. In contrast to Ms. Bryant, Mr. Flynt took cover behind the cloth, rather than wave it above his head. Actually, he was "reborn",to use the evangelical term. Evangelism is based on conversion, in fact, measuring the height of a man's rise by the depth of his fall. Mr. Flynt has decided to reveal his redemption to the court, which may do him some good if the judge isn't too bright.

That judge has to decide if Hustler is obscene and, if it is, what punishment Mr. Flynt deserves for offending the public. I have no idea how that judge is supposed to know what's obscene and what isn't. Should he sample all sorts of pornography and see how Hustler compares? Should he ask his friends what they think of pictures of nude women with their legs spread apart? It's awfully subjective and there's a further dilemma: while some people are rightly offended by pornography, others are equally offended by censorship.

No matter how you look at it, there's something very wrong about one person deciding what types of printed material another can see. This is the essence of censorship. On the other hand, there are those who want to be "protected" from offensive print and film, and so censorship does exist. There's no perfect solution. When it comes to censorship, you're damned if you do and damned if you don't.

And now, right here on campus, we're faced with the question of censorship. I'm talking about the beer ads we've seen in the Collegian that employ busty, beaming females in typically tight T-shirts. A lot of people have complained that these ads offend them and that the Collegian should abstain from printing — i.e. censor — them. A newspaper has a responsibility to respect the values and morality of its readers, yet it should not, I feel, violate the right of freedom of expression.

The toughest part of the problem here lies in determining whether or not these ads are so offensive to so many people that censorship is warranted. Simultaneously, it must be learned if many are bothered or not by the use of censorship itself. The opinion survey that appeared in the Collegian last week addressed these questions. I only hope someone bothered to fill one out.

Whatever the results of the poll, some people will be unsatisfied with the actions that are subsequently taken. My preference is that the ads featuring insulting sexual stereotypes be excluded from the paper.

Worse than the portrayal of women as sex kittens is the thought that the creators of the ads actually figure this is the sort of thing college students relate to. That's an insult in itself and I hope they're wrong. On the whole, I think we'd be better off without those ads in the Collegian. The paper may lose a little revenue and a few people will cry censorship, but I think it's more important that we make it clear to ourselves that we really do have some taste and a sense of values.

Bill Riordan is a Collegian Commentator.

Paris — what's in and what's not

our man in paris

By MARK WILDING

It's the oldest and most intriguing game in town, keeping pace with what's in and what's out. And what better town than Paris where the whim of a moment becomes the whip of a movement, and then in less time than it takes to snap that whip, the rage is reduced to rags. This is not to suggest however that trends arise spontaneously. Rather, they are created and fostered by well-known personalities — actors, designers, jet-setters, and journalists. And often by the time such a trend hits the streets, it's already considered passe by those who were responsible for it in the first place. As a result problems arise. After all, what does one do with last year's gerbils when all of a sudden ant farms are in? (One solution, as the trend movers are very practical for the most part: boa constrictors should soon supplant ant farms as the in hobby.)

In the way of authors Virginia Woolf is in, as are Nabokov, Doris Lessing, and Groucho Marx. Out are Sartre, Camus, and Karl Marx.

Elvis, Bing, the Tubes, and Iggy Pop are in (applies to any other punk artist also). The Rolling Stones, Pink Floyd, and Beverly Sills are out.

In the world of physical activity, cross-country skiing, skate-boarding, and tennis (in -- colored ensembles and wood rackets, out -- whites and metal rackets) are in. Squash, tap dancing, and keeping sheep are out. And after exhaustive research I can faithfully report that, with regards to birth control, the diaphragm is in while the pill and "hope and a prayer" are out. Bisexuality is in, having affairs on the sly is out. As an afterthought satin sheets are in, patterns are out. And as an after-after thought silky shorts are in bikini briefs are not.

Other clothes — in spite of the threat of impotence, tight jeans are in, corduroys and khakis are out. Fruit-of-the-loom T shirts are in, bowling shirts are out. White aviator scarves (the kind that was responsible for the death of Isadora Duncan when it got caught under the rear wheel of her MG and strangled her — MGs and BMW 525s are in, Porsches are out) are in. Ascots and thin ties are out. Sandals and crepe souls are in. Anything with laces isn't.

And for the politically and socially aware the anti-nuclear movement is in. The women's and consumers' movements are out (people no longer check frantically for expiration dates). The in attitude for French politics — haughty, smug, and Left-wing, though you hope the Left doesn't win in March for its own good. The out attitude — Gaullist. As for dictators, Sadat is in, Khadaffi and Castro are out (as are obviously Havana cigars. Gauloises and Players are in.) However, giving up smoking is in. Marijuana, hash, and sniffing burnt rubber are out. Beaujolais Village and Watneys Ale are in. Rose and Guiness Stout are out.

In the way of illness colitis and gastroentinitis and anything else ending in "tis" are in. Nervous breakdowns and Parkinsons disease are out. Acupuncture is in, antibiotics are out. Think that some kind of group activity will pull you out of the doldrums? Mime classes are in, therapy is out.

And finally for those who claim to a little bit of culture, in the world of painting 19th century romanticism and photo realism are in. Pop is out. Iron Curtain and Italian films are in. Big budget American films are out.

Admittedly this is only a partial list of the ins and outs. However, don't be discouraged if you've done a quick self-assessment and found yourself to be hopelessly out. Hold on to your hula hoops, flappers, and other wretched refuse yearning to make their way down from the attic. Their time will most certainly come again.

Mark Wilding is the Collegian's Paris Correspondant

Don't give a Pinto for Christmas

charles bagli

Everybody's writing their Christmas column, and I wish I had one too, but I don't. Instead of writing about what's being given away, I'm going to tell you about what Mr. Scrooge Cap I. Talist is taking away.

Our story begins in 1970 as the Pinto is being put into production by Ford. The Pinto was Ford's entry into the sub-compact field. They wanted a nice car, weighing 2000 pounds, and costing not a cent over $2000 (1971).

There was only one problem. It was a death trap, and Ford knew it. The gas tank was located six inches from the rear bumper and was liable to rupture at 5 mph or more. Ford had crash tested the Pinto at a top secret site more than 40 times and every test made at over 25 mph (without special alteration) resulted in a ruptured fuel tank. When you're driving behind one of the two million Pintos on the road today, check it out. That long silver object you see below the bumper is the gas tank.

The Ford Motor Company knew its gas tank was dangerous before the car went into production, yet they did nothing to improve its safety. All that was required was to install an $11 rupture-resistant fuel tank, or use a "saddle-type" gas tank — which Ford owns the patent on and which is used by over 40 Japanese and European car models in the Pinto's price range — or use a $5.08 rubber bladder, which Ford had tested successfully in 1970. Until 1977, Ford did none of these things. Estimates are that at least 500 people have met with a fiery death because Ford did nothing.

Yet in 1972 the Ford Motor Company wrote an internal memorandum titled "Fatalities Associated with Crash-Induced Fuel Leakage and Fires", with a section on "benefits" and costs. The following is from the report:

Benefits:

Savings: 180 burn deaths, 180 serious burn injuries, 2100 burned vehicles

Unit Cost: $200,000 per death, $67,000 per injury, $700 per vehicle.

Total Benefit: 180 x ($200,000) - 180 x ($67,000) - 2100 x ($700) - $49.5 million

Costs:

Sales: 11 million care, 1.5 million light trucks.

Unit Cost: $11 per car, $11 per truck.

Total Cost: 11,000,000 x ($11) - 1,500,000 x ($11) - $136 million.

That 49.5 million is NOT what Ford was going to pay out to survivors and next of kin. Ford got an industry controlled safety institute to set a value on a human life so they could then show how it was cheaper to let people die. The value of $200,000 per life is the theoretical cost to society of one death.

To show how considerate they are, they even include $10,000 as the value of pain and suffering. These ghouls think everything can be reduced to dollars and cents — and then added up to make more profits for them.

Even using these murderers' figures they come out wrong. In fact 500 have actually been killed (times $200,000) and about 5,000 have been injured (times $67,000), which comes to $435 million.

Its a pretty sick system to live under, one that places an $11 price tag on someone's life. Our rulers used to say during the Vietnam War that Asians didn't care about life as much as "we" do. But its not a question of nationalities or races but rather a question of what kind of system we live under.

Charlie Bagli is a Collegian Columnist.

Micro-College clarification

To the Editor:

In the Collegian issue of December 7, a front page article discussed both the upcoming January Micro-College and the campus' current Reaccreditation process.

In an attempt to prevent any possible misunderstanding regarding the relationship between these two events, we would like to make clear that, although the Micro-College will begin with presentations on the Self-Study Report, the primary focus of the session is not on Reaccreditation. It is, however, on the use we can make of the material and momentum generated by the process of Reaccreditation. Our goal is to provide a forum in which all those concerned with the campus' future can together consider ways of building on the current process for both effective internal planning and for authentic participation in the impending Reorganization of Higher Education in Massachusetts.

Judy Davis, Resource Network and Larry Benedict, Office of the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs

Kirk article offensive

To the Editor:

It is a sad enough fact that the world lost the talents of Rahsaan Roland Kirk. It is an even sadder fact that one of the editors of Below The Salt has not the talent to write a memorial statement. I take offense with two parts of his statements.

If Mr. Kirk did not go through life making an excuse for his blindness as it related to his talents, then why should the editor find that Mr. Kirk's blindness was substance for the description of Mr. Kirk "Hobbling about the stage and giving such a dramatic performance that it made one think that his performance far outweighed another very important Black figure in Afro-American music, namely Gil Scott Heron?" I found that statement to be cheap prose. I would suggest that the Editor restrict his or herself to matters that they are more adeptly acquainted with.

Bill Hasson

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

Letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages. They should be sent to the Excutive Editor, c-o the Collegian, or dropped off at the Collegian office.

All letters are subject to editing for either content or space according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed. Letters for a specific publication date must be submitted by 4:00 p.m. the day preceding that date.

Notices

BICYCLE CLUB
Fun meeting tonight at 7 in CC 915. Everyone is invited to see slides from this semester's trips and discuss plans for next semester.

FOUND
Men's ring, 11-15-77, Cance Area 253-6007.

VOLLEYBALL
Member's of the Men's Volleyball Team, mandatory practice today. Must bring $10 dues, 6:30, NOPE Gym.

MUSIC THEATRE GUILD
Important meeting tonight at CC 172. Slides will be shown and we will vote on producers.

CHAIR RAFFLE WINNER
Karen Inglson of 214 Emerson has won the 4th Annual F.P.R.S. Chair Raffle. Thank you to everyone who helped make this year's raffle a success.

LOST
